Fourseason Cars

THAT a car is as good as the company that makes it, and no better, is a truth whose significance has been thoroughly impressed upon experienced motorists. The strength and permanency of the manufacturing organization enters into the most important item to be considered in the cost of owning a car—the item of depreciation. The worth of the guarantee, the ability to obtain duplicate parts promptly at a fair price, and the disposal value of the car are considerations vitally effected by the character and resources of the makers.

Fourseason Utility

Dort Fourseason Sedans are not only constructed for perfect protection against the snow and blow of winter, but are equally as proof against the fickle periods of Spring and the heat and dust of Summer—while best fitted to meet the unequalled touring opportunities of glorious Autumn.

The corner stone of the Dort structural ideal is simplicity. With simplicity primarily in mind, strength, sturdiness, reliability, accessibility and longevity are the more easily achieved.

WORD FROM NEAR VERDUN

Herbert Welch Writes Home Folks Under Date of January 26.

Judge and Mrs. A. A. Welch have received the following letter from their son, Captain Herbert Welch, Romagne-sous-Montfaucon, January 26, 1919.—Dear Folks, I hope that you think that I have been a neglected son in the way of letter writing, but for the past three weeks I have been on the jump so much that I had hardly enough time to get the necessary work done. As you can see by the letter heading we were not sent to Verdun but here about twenty miles northwest of Verdun. I will give you a short account of our trip and our present situation. It took us five days and six nights to get here. We were traveling in France in a third-class coach in the winter is not the nicest thing to do in a cold. Not to mention the mud. I have taken many trips in France, some almost as long as being as disagreeable as a railroad trip. It is really only cold as the winter. I have struck in two winters. France is a beautiful country but the climate is not exactly California. On our way we saw through St. Mihiel, Toul, Neufchateau, and Verdun. You should see Verdun. We were fortunate enough to spend all afternoon there and we look in the town. There seems to be hardly a building with a roof. The public buildings including the cathedral are in ruins. We viewed the fortifications that were erected by the same man who constructed the forts. The final and total destruction was Buzard-Meuse. It is on the Meuse only north of Verdun. It was a really interesting point for it was there that the American doughboys crossed the Meuse on pontoon boats and fired. This was the first time a high hill which is really more than an immense rock. An old church occupies the top of the hill. From this hill, for four miles, the Buhe had been shelling Verdun. The day that I awaited transportation to Romagne we had an auto ride up to Sedan, which was the point of farthest American advance before the armistice. It was also held the entire time, the entire country is covered with German signs and from the looks of things they intend to stay. Their headquarters are all over. If it had not been for the American doughboys, they would have been here now too. Romagne is or was a town of perhaps a thousand inhabitants. At present there is not a single French person in town. There are about 150 buildings. There has been found two or three rooms and the officers live in them. The men live in the ruins of German barracks. The whole town is in ruins. The American artillery surely raised Cain. You see the French objected very much to shelling their own villages but the Americans had no bones about it. They did a very good work too. Within a radius of twenty miles there are probably fifty or a hundred villages, not one of which has a rain-proof roof. The entire country is turned over to the Americans and one very seldom sees a Frenchman. I understand that the French are beginning to come back to France. You see this is a part of the Argonne. Yesterday I had conversations with these officers that a German was asked about the various allies and he said: "Well, see France fight for their country. See Angails for revenge, but see Americans, ah see Americans, see fight for see souverein." Well the army occupation of the Meuse is much in demand. They say that when a doughboy killed a Buhe he immediately stopped and cut off all the buttons and took everything else that the German possessed. On the shore of a concrete dugout I found a German bayonet and I also have a certain belt buckle on which is inscribed "Gott mit uns", several empty hand grenades and shells. A couple days ago McMurray and I picked up a couple of shells that we believed to be German messengers. We picked them about three miles only to find that they were high explosive shells and very dangerous. We carried them so we got rid of them right away. German equipment is as a whole very good.

Yesterday we also saw why the Americans lost heavily in this district. The country here is hilly and was quite wooded. Some of the valleys are quite deep with the sides very steep. These sides are covered with machine gun nests with barbed wire in front of each. I don't see how the doughboys ever went some of the places that they did. But they paid the price about here. Here and there one sees a little patch of ten or twelve crosses representing American graves and also frequently one all alone. It surely makes one think when he sees a little wooden cross way out in a snow covered hill. There is no doubt but they did magnificent fighting about here. The doctor who was stationed here did a grand deal of work just behind the lines in the St. Mihiel drive. He said he had never heard a single murmur out of a wounded American. He said that the Buhe and even the French broke down but never the Americans.

LETTER FROM A. E. HERING

President-U. S. Conn. Hering From Former Student of State Normal

The following extract is from a letter received by President U. S. Conn from A. E. Hering, former student who was in the army of occupation in Germany. I was certainly well pleased to night to get your letter of January 15th and me well and no doubt as could be expected in a strange land. I know all about the wound from which Roy Reed died. Charles had entered the hospital and was wounded by the same shell. I was not over a kilometer from the town they were in. I helped him on the way and on Charles Mecker and that was the only sight that made me feel sick. I am not permitted to tell the details, but we got back the full truth will surely be told. Heckt, Young and Bressler from Wakefield, are here in Saarburg. They were in the hospital with the company. I received a letter last night from John Hulm, he is in the fourth sector. I have written a dozen or more letters to members of the faculty and to the boys of West Hall and have received but two or three replies. I have received four copies of the Goldenrod and believe me, they were welcome. Even the advertisements looked good to me.

I will give you some of my experiences. We moved to the Toul sector at Beaumont, August 5, 1918. The T. P. S. section was between Toul and Metz. I was in charge of a T. P. S. station in Ansonville. The T. P. S. shells were biggest of the rain only the waves are transmitted through the ground. It was here we got our first introduction to gas. The planes shot down and balloons blown up. Seventeen of our company died here from mustard gas. Shells came over the hills. Fritz blew up one of our ammunition dumps and it was exploding from 3 p. m. until after midnight. We thought all of this was bad, but we learned it to be different.

On September 12, when we got tired of such hardships we went over to see Fritz. Our artillery opened fire at 1:00 a. m. on a forty-mile front. Talk about those ammunition dumps, Fritz blew up the Fourth, which we used to shoot on the hill. All we could see behind us to the right was a mountain of the Fourth, worse than a prairie fire. We went over the top at 5:00 a. m. I was with a detail to keep up telephone lines from the front lines back to headquarters. We followed the first wave within 100 yards with a telephone line. After we had advanced about three kilometers our wire was all gone and we couldn't find any Hun. We could see them however, going over the hills ahead of us like sheep. Two men and myself were sent back to roll up the wire we had unrolled. Each one of us took about a third of the line. While I was winding up my string I heard someone yelling "Kamrad" behind me. I looked around and saw a German soldier. The Germans came out of a dugout. They were white as chalk and trying to reach up to the clouds. For another American soldier I took my gun off my back and searched the Germans for weapons and found none. I sent them back with a fellow with three prisoners.

After it was all over I began to be frightened. I was so scared I didn't have the gun cover off my gun. I could not have loaded it if I wanted to, but the Germans were scared so that they didn't know the difference. Anyway no one got hurt. They became prisoners and I got my wire wound up and caught up with the rest after they had advanced five kilometers.

"During the remainder of this day and by 10 o'clock the next day we had advanced and driven the Germans back eleven kilometers. We stopped in a town by the name of Benny. Two days before we could see German women putting their hair into the snow near the town and now our boys were using it to sleep on. It was here the Germans carried their potatoes. The French tried them and an English artillery crew ate them.

"We remained in this front until October 7, then went on to the Verdun front, where there was more action. On November 1, we started a drive on this front. Here we played leap-frog until the eleventh of November. On the eleventh day we advanced fifteen kilometers. Our divisions took prisoners from 92 to 1,489 men, 120 pieces of ar-illery, 455 machine guns. That wasn't bad for a green bunch. We were second in the number of prisoners captured.

"I cannot go into detail as to what we did that much time. When we were going into a town by the name of Cesse, the German artillery was firing on us. Seventeen of their planes were flying overhead directing the firing and at the same time shooting at us with their machine guns. What I saw I am not permitted to write. We were under this fire for three hours. If there was anyone there that had never prayed before, he did it then and there. All we could do was to hug mother earth and pray that we would get out of it all right and alive. We crossed the Meuse river at Pontilly at 5 a. m. on the morning of November 11, and got over 200 Germans. What a glorious reception there was at eleven o'clock, words cannot express. We couldn't believe it ourselves until the Germans started their celebration.

A report comes from down east that a sleeping disease often follows the flu. And it often precedes the flu, and we have noticed it when there was no flu, before nor after. If the sleeping disease were more widely prevalent, we would make faster progress.

An Iowa editor said: "Isn't Wayne paved? Iowa towns half its size have been paved for years. You ought to have paved ten years ago." We know it, but we didn't do it. The only thing we can do now is to get at it and do it as soon as possible.

Wayne should get into the habit of spending more money for improvements. The most costly contribution to the structure of improvement of the community up-to-date have been made by the state. The railroad company built a new depot and Carnegie built a library building. Now let us make some important improvements unaided by the outside. There is no richer town in the state. Let it also be said that there is no more enterprising town.

In legitimizing the sale of cigars, the Nebraska legislature is conforming to custom rather than shaping custom. In view of the number of the cigars that are smoked, one would not suspect there had been any restrictions. As a matter of fact, the existing law prohibits sale to adults as well as minors. But, as users of cigars increase, law violators naturally multiply. The law was therefore ineffective and useless. In the amended form, the law will still prohibit sale of cigars to minors. But with or without restrictions, we think people, old or young will be healthier and of more service to themselves and society by eschewing the cigar entirely.

On one of our pastoral tours of the business district this week, we found one very much exercised over the fact that under government charge, he was unable without a bill of lading to get goods off at the station for a considerable time. The bill of lading was delayed somewhere and according to the government's ruling, the bill must accompany release of the goods. If a man needs what he orders which is very likely, he is put to much inconvenience and possible delay by the delay. The business man who is thus kicking, would like to see the railroads go back to the corporation under proper federal regulation, in the belief that patrons would suffer less red tape and get better service at less cost.

A man complained to us in a fit of hysteria last week that the price of onions had gone frightfully up. But an onion is too strong to be kept down by the price. Grind an onion into infinitesimal particles and plant the same in a thermometer in the recess of the stomach, under an avalanche of sturdy viands and vegetable compounds, and it will rise again and again to proclaim its presence. An onion can serve notice of its presence on more people and cause more feeling than anything we know of. People who like onions at all like them so well that the price will be no barrier. They will buy and eat them on the ground that they are healthful. People who don't like them, don't think they are conducive to health, and therefore wouldn't buy them at any price.

and welfare everything that an agent happens to offer. All kinds of insurance and all sorts of so-called money-saving propositions are presented to him and he usually acquiesces. A youth feels that his future is a source of such general anxiety that he ought to be interested in it himself, and therefore he cannot have the ingratitude to say no, when an appealing proposition is presented. He has been taught so long to be obedient and that he cannot say no until the hard knocks of experience jolt him into the habit.

VISIT TO SIOUX CITY

The Herald editor visited Sioux City Tuesday night on invitation of the Press club of that city to attend a so-called frolic in honor of the opening of the new Martin store building. The Martins gave the banquet on the fifth floor of their new building, and the Press club made the occasion a veritable grand iron performance. Editors were present from Nebraska, South Dakota and Iowa, and all related and appreciated the courtesy and hospitality of the Martins and the club. The new Martin store is a masterpiece of magnificent architecture. It is mammoth, and every detail has been worked out for convenience, facility and comfort. We envy Sioux City in the possession of such a building. As we reviewed it, we thought we would like to bring it to Wayne. Then we wondered what we would do with it. We figured out how it could be used to advantage for different purposes. It is a grand building.

Sioux City has made wonderful growth in the last ten years, and its favorable location and organized and intelligently directed energy give assurance of continued and accelerated growth.

Urges Equipment for Milk Analysis.

A letter has been sent by the Dairy Division of the United States Department of Agriculture to 1,500 health officers in cities having over 5,000 population urging the city governments to supply the health officers with proper laboratory equipment so they can guard against infection so they can adequately guard the city milk supply. A health department without a laboratory equipment is a helpless as a soldier without arms, says the letter. A city government has no right to hold its health department responsible for the health of the community unless it has provided the department with the equipment necessary to wage the fight against disease.

The work of maintaining the safety, cleanliness, and purity of its city milk supply is one of the most important duties of the modern health department. Bacteria, dirt, dried water, and preservatives in milk can not be determined without chemical and bacteriological analysis. The letter gives a list of the equipment necessary to furnish a laboratory for milk analysis.

Less Trouble With Tractors.

It takes about 2 1/2 gallons of fuel to run a tractor for plowing an acre in the Dakotas, according to reports from several leading farmers received by the United States Department of Agriculture. These reports, summarized in Farmers' Bulletin 1035, cover 2-, 3-, 4-, and 5-horse tractors of various makes.

Slight differences in fuel consumption are found between machines of different makes, and there is usually a slight lower consumption where gasoline is used. The average of 2 1/2 gallons may be taken as coming very close to the present-acre consumption for any type or size of machine.

The more recent reports received in regard indicate that farmers are having much less trouble than formerly in handling kerosene-burning tractors. Nearly two-thirds the tractors on the Dakota farms reporting burn kerosene and the results are apparently satisfactory, particularly in view of the fact that the present price of kerosene is but half that of gasoline. However, the advantage of gasoline in ease of operation, and in the additional assurance it gives that the engine will keep running steadily makes many prefer the more expensive fuel.

Less Cholera—More Hogs.

An important result of hog cholera control work begun by the United States department of agriculture in 1913 and which has resulted in a steady decline of the disease, has been the stimulus given the development of swine raising in the south. With other activities of the department in this line, the assurance given to southern farmers that hogs can be produced without fear of losses from cholera has encourage, showing not only larger more than it produced annually to make shipments to outside points but also better, but efforts for the control of hog cholera, besides supplying a large number of hogs from outside sources have gradually extended the hog-raising industry to local slaughtering establishments in the north. ### Better Trade Tone.

Sioux City Journal: As the weeks pass without any serious industrial or commercial disasters, confidence in an ultimate restoration of business to normal pre-war conditions grows. The change week by week is not pronounced, but each week shows an improvement even though slight in encouraging. There is none of the inflation which brought the country to the brink of financial disaster following the close of the civil war. The stability of the money market and the flexibility of the financial situation are large elements in restored confidence. The federal reserve banking system and the supporting power of the rural credit banks, with their joint co-operation with the national and state banks under the old plan, have been the means of holding financial conditions with a steady, rudder even though the financial demands of the nation, both in public and private enterprises, have been heavy.

The possibility that the price of wheat in an open market will go above the price guaranteed by the government has created an optimistic feeling in the wheat growing regions. Farmers see in this a possible opportunity for large prices for their crops. Business men, realizing that such prices mean liberal buying, are laying plans to meet the opportunities which will come to them. These plans on the part of both farmer and merchant are of the future, but the spirit of optimism which they produce is of the present.

The number of unemployed is being gradually absorbed into industries. Some of the New England textile mills have resumed operations and this has provided the chance for the employment of additional labor. The adjustment of some of the shipyard strikes has given more employment, while still more is being absorbed by the agricultural industry which is once again the season's rush in all the states and is under full steam ahead in the southern states.

AGRICULTURE NOTES.

Food-Saving Lesson Remains. The "gospel of the clean plate" was preached so thoroughly during the war that youngsters in the United States still have a guilty conscience if they waste food. The home demonstration agents sent out by the United States Department of Agriculture and the State colleges emphasize in their talks just now the need of conserving food. In Washington Parish, La., a little girl recently took more food on her plate than she could eat. Valuable advice for a clean plate, in accordance with the teachings of the

in Many New Creations

Spring has brought a silhouette entirely new. Particularly is this true in coats. The lines of the Spring garments reveal a vast difference. Here are pictured several exclusive models whose charm is in their touch of the Oriental. Scant skirts have been mixed with loose, full tops; this is the combination for the successfully stylish coats of 1919.

Coats must not be too long else they hide the narrowness and length of the skirt.

Priced $22 to $85

Suits Have Come Into Their Own

Never was there a spring when suits were more popular.

Dainty vests that are the design of real genius form a pleasing touch to these garments so neatly new.

The long, narrow skirts, the braid-trimmed jackets, the oddly-fashioned pockets and frontal belts, all bespeak the changes that call for discard of the old, and the acquisition of the new.

$18.50 to $75

Charming Little Frocks of Silk

Quite the rage of the season are these frocks of silk taffeta, Tricollette, and also of Jersey. The colors are bark, walnut, azure, ivory, and of course the popular navy and black.

The fabrics are deservedly popular, because they are rich in texture and hue.

They are gracefully draped in bewitching styles. Among them are featured modes for the small woman who generally finds it hard to get something suitable.

$18.50 to $75

Patent Leather Footwear

Patent Leather is conspicuous among fashionable shoe styles for women this spring.

Here's a truly wonderful little patent leather oxford with a Louis XV. heel.

A shoe that has all the smartness and trim appearance that one always associates with "Killian" footwear.

We carry this oxford in black and brown kid. Also in a fine white fabric.

$6.50, $7.00, $8.00, $9.00

Hats

from the History Pages of France

Captivating little chapeaux with ostrich tips curling over their brims, and perky little bows come straight from the chapters of the Directoire period. And right beside them may be had an irresistible Watian, tilting in a provocative manner. Modern designs are modified, to be sure, but there is a quaint beauty in many of the delightful new hats in our Millinery section.

A New Boot for Spring Wear

The vamps and tops are of a rich mahogany brown kid. Graceful, slender last—refined—plain, preceding toe—blind eyelets—flexible light welt soles.

Also in black kid.

It's Full of Surprises

Here's a house design that's different. It is far ahead of ordinary houses as this year's automobile is ahead of a 1908 model. Look at the exterior. Doesn't it leave an impression of "make-yourself-at-home"?

Better-Built Homes New home! There's often nearly a lifetime of labor, of sentiment, of hope, of romance, of ambition, expressed in those words. May our lumber experience and our plan service help you in the realization of all your fondest dreams of that new home!

Your Plan— You will need help. Few, if any, of us, unaided, can sit down and plan a home. All of us have ideas, often very definite ones, of what sort of a home we want, and how it should look when finished. Our books of "BETTER-BUILT HOMES" will help you through many of the perplexities and difficulties of building.

Our Plan— You have at your command our knowledge of proper construction, coupled with our CURTIS SERVICE and their knowledge of interior and exterior designing, and you have access to all the things we have learned in helping to create hundreds of "Better-Built" homes.

Our reputation for fair dealing and reliable goods, coupled with the De Laval record of quality and durability, has made the De Laval Cream Separator the leader in this community.

COST—That's what you put into a cream separator.

VALUE—That's what you take out of your cream separator.

Value in a cream separator depends upon the amount and the quality of service you get out of it.

Because it lasts fifteen to twenty years the De Laval is the most economical cream separator to buy. If you consider its cleaner skimming, easier running, greater capacity and less cost for repairs, the price of the "cheapest" machine on the market is exorbitant in comparison.

With present high butter-fat prices and the scarcity of labor this is true to the very letter.

We'll sell you a De Laval on such easy terms that it will pay for itself out of its own savings. We want to see you the next time you're in town.

HEADWAY IN BIGAMY CASE

Harvey Harris Indicted by Grand Jury at Council Bluffs.

It will be of interest to Wayne county people who "knew the sinner, jammer, Harvey Floyd Harris, who was conspicuous here last fall, to learn that progress is being made in his case at Council Bluffs where he is charged with bigamy. Friday's Omaha Bee contained this report:

Mrs. Clara B. Harris, Des Moines, wife No. 1 of Harvey Floyd Harris, accused at Council Bluffs of bigamy, is "through" with her husband. His "baby-blue eyes" have a more charm for her.

Chiefly upon her testimony an indictment was returned yesterday at Council Bluffs against the man and his bond was increased from $100 to $1,000, which he could not give.

The wife from Des Moines lodged complaint against Harris, following the publication of his marriage to Mrs. Isabella Young Benjamin, January 20 last. He will remain in jail here until his trial is concluded in district court.

The soulful eyes of the woman-charger lost their luster Wednesday afternoon and became fastened with tears. From his quarters in the Pottawattamie county jail, Harris could see the north entrance to the court house, and from his work in the jail kitchen, he could cast furtive glances across the yard in the doorway of the sheriff's office.

There he glimpsed a thrilling vision. His two wives, Mrs. Clara

B. Harris, the womanly matron of his cozy bungalow in Des Moines, and Mrs. "Babe" Young-Benjamin Harris, Council Bluffs bride, entered the court house together, and stood on the stone steps at the north door, chatting pleasantly just before they were to appear before the grand jury.

Harris pleaded with passionate earnestness for an opportunity to talk to his wives, but his request was denied by the officials. He was particularly anxious for another conference with the Des Moines Mrs. Harris, before she went into the grand jury room, but she did not entertain the request.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

(From Wayne Herald, March 19, 1903.)

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Wittner March 18, 1903. Mr. and Mrs. John T. Bressler visited a few days in Omaha.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Wittner March 17. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Van Bradford March 13, 1903.

Phillips and Son purchased of Simon Goegmann, a handsome grey team for $310.

Mrs. C. R. Wittner was called to Winside by the serious illness of her father, Perrin Long.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Alter enjoyed a visit from Mr. and Mrs. H. Taylor of Plainview, Neb.

Henry Eichoff is hauling lumber for his new house to be erected in Plum Creek precinct.

R. H. Gibson a well known man in Wayne county, died March 13, at his home northeast of Wayne.

Garfield-Hogewald resigned his position as rural carrier on route 6, and Fred Lovitt will fill the vacancy.

Mrs. Eliza Bell, formerly Miss Eliza Pitzer, died at the home of her mother, Mrs. M. W. Miller, March 17, 1903.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pelt returned from Hoskins, where they attended the funeral of the former's father, William Pelt.

Will Fisher and sister, Mrs. J. W. Souders, returned from Iowa, where they were called by the serious illness of their father.

Mrs. August Piepenstock and family left for California, where they will be with their mother, Mrs. Piepenstock was presented with a handsome china plate and a saucey by her lady friends.

Miss Minnie Goetsch formerly of Wayne county, was drowned while accompanying her brother Henry in an attempt to drive across a grade that was not three feet higher, three miles east of Stanton.

A. R. Davis entertained his Sunday school class in his office over Harrington's store. The evening was spent in lunch. Helen McNeal won the prize which was a handsome box of stationery. Members of the class were: Helen McNeal, Ruth Bradley, Opal Bradford, Ethel Brown, Helen Northrup, Lucy Miller, Florence Welch, and Mary Johnson.

(From Ponca Journal, March 21, 1898.)

Last week F. T. Gould, Esq. of this place, sold off his stock of goods to A. Miskell, Esq. who has also rented the store of Mr. Gould for a term of years, and will make that his place of business.

Mr. Rockwell has again seized the heavingly news and had a rare read. We trust that he will not discredit the "his thoughts to his wife's surprise" self-dramatization, and "die," but will give us something exorcisingly funny.

We see by the Jackson Herald that Mr. Doubt, who is now engaged in the practice of law at that place, and who we are glad to say, was formerly a citizen of this county, has lately delivered a lecture on "Law and Justice."

Mr. Doubt, formerly in his lectures at Ponca, advised himself to be an encyclopedia of legal and medical lore, and, no doubt, his lecture and instruction was equally as entertaining and instructive.

No railroad news yet. The decision in the Wayne county bond case will not be rendered until the fourth of April. Let the decision be what it may, there is good reason to believe that the road will be finished as far as at least as St. James this season. On a certain occasion a learned justice of the New York supreme court made the remark that God could correct, fore, but not correct except at the end of a pett jury. Had that judge resided in Nebraska, he would also have expressed the future plans of the C. C. & B. H. R. R. company.

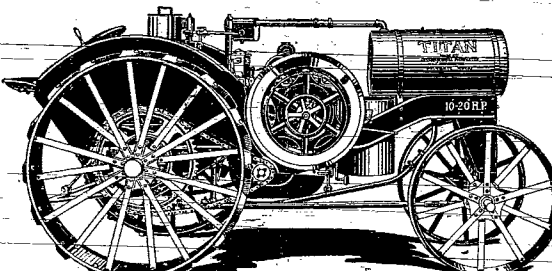

Charles Meeker at Laurel. Laurel Advocate: Sergeant C. E. Meeker and mother arrived last evening from Imperial—Charles will go to Chicago Saturday and return from there to Indiana to visit an uncle. Mrs. Meeker will remain some time, visiting her daughters and children at Westfield.

Sergeant Meeker is looking exceedingly well, considering what passed through. A big bear on his neck shove where the high explosive struck him; it passed out through his shoulder, and he continued his fight, lucky to be alive and as well as he is. Several muscles are missing from his neck, he says, and that causes it to tire easily. It will take at least a year for complete recovery, if ever he thinks. He was discharged at Camp Dodge, March 3, with 35 per cent disability rating.

Seventeen men were struck by the same shell. Charley retained consciousness and was able to get out of the trench, first of whom died, only himself and his lieutenant surviving.

Sergeant Meeker entered the service September 18, 1917, and was located at Camp Funston until May 1918, when he was sent overseas.

A 10-20 Titan Tractor Has Sensible Construction No Freak Designing

STANDS ON FOUR WHEELS

You wouldn't want a wagon with only three wheels, and you wouldn't expect a horse with only three legs to do good work. Why, then, should a three-wheel tractor be expected to do any better? The Titan 10-20 stands squarely on four wheels and the builders believe it will work better on the hills, will be less likely to tip over, and will steer more easily. It is the serviceable way to build a tractor, and the fact that there are more four-wheel tractors in use than any other style proves that the majority of farmers have received the best service from them.

BRIDGE MATERIAL IN FRAME

There is no piece of mechanism that stands up year after year under strain and severe weather conditions as a bridge does. A tractor frame, then, that if built of structural steel, like a bridge, ought to be a good one. The frame of the Titan 10-20 is made of U-shaped beams heated and bent to the proper form. They are riveted together with hot rivets so that as the rivets cool they draw down tight and make the frame as substantial as a solid piece.

The Titan 10-20 Is a Sensible Tractor, Farmers. Come in and See.

RED PEP'S PHILOSOPHY

"It's awful the way some of us chase temptation: it hasn't a chance to escape."

You'll find a terrible temptation to buy at our store; you can't escape it.

It is a great discomfort and burden to you to work in the warm kitchen and bend over a hot stove making bread.

Why not let us do it?

We can furnish you bread just as rich and sweet, and baked just as well, as that taken out of the home oven (and better than that taken out of most home ovens) and you have the perfectly satisfactory bread at no more cost, and have avoided the labor and discomfort of making it.

EDWARD SAMUELSON Home of Red Pep Wayne, Neb.

He was across ten months, during five of which he saw active service. The Argonne-Meuse drive, the hardest battle ever fought on French soil when many of our noble American boys lost their lives. He landed in this country February 11, and was at Camp Mezier, N. J., until one week previous to his discharge, which he spent at Camp Dodge. He says that after he was wounded he never saw a soul that he knew. He knows nothing about the other Laurel boys in France. He declared himself very lucky and feels that it was "just a miracle" that his life was saved.

Knowing that he would not be physically able to do manual labor of any kind for at least a year, the government authorities were loath to discharge him; but in the meantime the folks at home were doing a little quiet work on his behalf and succeeded in landing for him the job of state fire inspector. When Governor McKeever wired him of his appointment the government released him—and here he is. His brother Dave, who is in the real estate business at Imperial, has been performing the duties of the office for him for six weeks and Charley will take up the work April first. There are two inspectors for the state and Sergeant Meeker has been assigned the territory south of the Platte for the first six months, when they will exchange. His headquarters will be at Lincoln.

Sergeant Meeker informs The Advocate that he expects to hold this position for a year or so and then return to Laurel to make his home. He says he has seen many soldiers but none so up-to-date and progressive as Laurel; that he expects to see many more as he travels the territory south of the Platte for the first six months, when they will exchange. His headquarters will be at Lincoln.

Shortage of Husbands

New York World: The surplus of marriageable women in Europe due to the war is exciting a lively concern, particularly in Great Britain, where it is estimated there are more than 1,500,000 women who never have a chance to marry. One remedy proposed for the situation is a tax on bachelors. But why it is assumed that they are in need of sympathy? Marriage is no longer the sole condition of womanhood, and at no previous time in history has the objection now imposed on women by the war been so endurable. No doubt the lack of husbands after the Napoleonic wars was a serious matter. But women have since had the benefit of a century of progressive social reform now open to them, and all that is likely to happen is that their unholy disposition to be independent and self-supporting will be intensified by circumstances. No doubt they will submit to obligatory spinsterhood more cheerfully than masculine opinion gives them credit for. But in the case as bad, assuming that they will want to marry, as it appears on the surface, in one way or another, the soldiers in the Northern armies alone were killed in battle or died of wounds and disease. This meant a serious theoretical dearth of prospective husbands. Yet it is not recalled that there was any "problem," and women then did not enjoy the present resources of the sex in the way of gainful occupations or of every conceivable kind.

A Hopeless Situation.

Springfield, Mass., Republican: Illinois Senator Sherman, of Illinois, hit bustered the railroad appropriation to death, as he now explains, partly to teach the United States senate a better way to do business, the situation is still more dismal. The senate knows a better way to do business, but it won't do it that way.

The Senate's Offense.

B. L. T. in the Chicago Tribune: The atrocious crime of the United States senate may be that it is giving more consideration to the future of the United States than to Mr. Wilson's niche in history.

Abundant Proof.

Kansas City Star: Pretty nearly all the travelers from Russia agree the country is a vast manna, and some of them seem to be proofs of the fact.

The American Theory.

Chicago Daily News: It is the American theory that a well fed enemy is less dangerous and better capable of paying his bills than a starving enemy.

A Socialist in Theory Only.

Minneapolis Journal: It is reported from Germany that Karl Liebknecht, the Socialist leader, left an estate of $3,000,000; he never divided up.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS

Wayne People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills, for Wayne kidney sufferers, have made their local reputation.

"I found here in the testimony of Wayne people.

M. Kroger, proprietor of graft and rent business, who has had a dull ache across my kidneys and was bothered by irregular passages of the secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me from the first and finally cured me." (Statement given August 3, 1910.)

AGAIN PRESENTS DOAN'S.—On July 13, 1910, Mr. Kroger said: "It has been three years since I have had occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I never fail to give them credit for having rid me of kidney trouble."

Forgot What He Needed.

From the Republican, Mt. Gilead, Ohio. The editor had an interesting experience some time ago when a young gentleman came to this office and asked for a copy of the "Morning County Republican." He estimated it was the one when a copy was handed him, and then said: "Now I know." "What is it you are looking for," we inquired. "My wife sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I forgot the name. I went to several stores and the clerks named over everything in the line on the shelf except Chamberlain's. I'll try again, and I'll never go home without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." The Republican would suggest to the proprietors of stores, that they post their clerks, and never let them substitute any other name. It is a case where substituting is permitted, to say nothing of the injustice to makers of good goods and the disappointment of customers.—Adv.

Wilson Follows Taft.

Hartford Courant: Taft has been for several years shooting at a league. Now we are told that he has "come to the support of Wilson" in the matter. So far as they agree it is Wilson who has taken up Taft's scheme and followed his lead.

Bad Taste in Your Mouth.

When you have a bad taste in your mouth you may know that your digestion is faulty. A dose of Chamberlain's Tablets will usually correct the disorder. They also cause a gentle movement of the bowels. You will find this to be one of the best medicines you have ever become acquainted with.—Adv.

Mr. Wilson's Situation.

Ironous Comment: When a man deliberately decides to play a lone hand—because he thinks he holds the cards—he should not squeal because his partner fails to come to his rescue when both hands are needed to win the game. This, briefly, is the situation in connection with the president and senate regarding the league of nations policy.

Try This For Sour Stomach.

Eat slowly, masticate your food thoroughly. Eat but little meat and—eat one of Chamberlain's Tablets before going to bed.—Adv.

Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has stood the test of time and can be depended upon.—Adv.

Will Wilson Luck Change?

Sioux Falls Argus-Leader: If President Wilson does not have his hands full in wrestling with a well organized and hostile house and senate, he will have seen the luckiest days of his life.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or circulatory disease and in order to cure it you must take internal medicine, and act directly upon the blood and mucous membranes. Chamberlain's Catarrh Cure is not a quick medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a genuine prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best purgatives, acting directly upon the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of these two ingredients is the two drugs which wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for treatment free. F. J. CHERRY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.
