CROP ESTIMATE REDUCED

Rust, Insects and Too Much Moisture Do Considerable Harm.

Lincoln, Neb., July 11.—While Nebraska's bumper wheat crop will not meet expectations in yield and quality as recently announced, the spring wheat crop of the state is also badly damaged, according to the July crop report made public today by A. E. Anderson and E. R. Danahoe of the bureau of crop estimates and Nebraska board of agriculture. The average condition of spring wheat after report states a reduction to 89 per cent, which forecasts 12,141,000 bushels.

Winter wheat, which a few days before harvest had the appearance of a record breaking crop, according to the latest special returns received from all parts of the state will be 22 per cent smaller than expected because of premature ripening caused by a few days of high temperatures during the ripening period, and mortality due to rust, insects and blight. Corn, the report states, is very uneven, both in size and stand, but is improving, while the condition of barley, oats, potatoes and hay is very favorable.

The report says in part: "According to the reports received, the damage to wheat seems to be confined largely to eastern and southern counties. The average yield from the counties reporting the greatest damage and from which an average of six special reports have been received from farmers and grain dealers based upon conditions and not upon threshing returns are as follows: Adams—13 bu.; Webster—16 bu.; Phelps—17 bu.; Hamilton—16 bu.; Polk—18 bu.; York—16 bu.; Butler—15 bu.; Fillmore—14 bu.; Thayer—15 bu.; Antelope—14 bu.; Saline—15 bu.; Gage—17 bu.; Pawnee—13 bu.; Johnson—15 bu.; Nemaha—17 bu.; and Richardson—17 bu.; Clay—14 bu."

Corn is Very Uneven.
"The average of corn is estimated to be 6,745,000 acres compared to 6,840,000 acres last year. The condition is 85 per cent. Corn is very uneven both in size and stand, but is improving. There was considerable rotting due to insects and heavy rain. Cultivation was delayed by the frequent rains early in June.

"Some of the spring wheat is badly damaged. The average condition is reduced to 89 per cent which forecasts 12,141,000 bushels. Certain fields have blighted and a year to bring the same disappointment as winter wheat. The total production of all wheats is 79,866,000 bushels compared to 43,141,000 bushels last year. "Barley maintained its high standard with a condition of 97 per cent and a forecast of 8,292,000 bushels. The condition of rye is 90 per cent and the expected production 7,049,000 bushels.

"Practically all reports on oats are favorable and the best condition of 95 per cent forecasts a production of 78,763,000 bushels compared to 56,188,000 bushels last year. Oats were comparatively free from rust and outside of a few reports of damage from high temperatures and drought a crop is expected.

"The acreage of potatoes is estimated to be 115,000 acres compared to 121,000 acres last year. The condition of 91 per cent indicates a production of 9,523,000 bushels. The crop is generally good. The condition of pasture remains excellent. All vegetables are good.

"The preliminary estimate of sugar beets is 60,000 acres, compared to 43,000 acres last year. There is considerable damage from insects.

Why Insulation is Needed.

"The purpose of insulation is just the same everywhere," says J. A. Gurney, Willard Service Station dealer. "Whether it is in a power plant or in a storage battery it is to keep the positive and negative sides of the circuit apart."

"But in a battery there are in all three things that insulation has to do. First, it must keep the positive and negative plates apart; second, it must allow free passage of the battery solution, and third, it must resist the corrosive action of this strong acid solution."

"Certain kinds of wood do all three things and do them well, but the wood must be selected with great care, and even then there is more or less variation; as with any natural product. Wood insulators are also difficult to handle, as they must be chemically treated, must be worked wet, and must never be allowed to dry.

"Threaded Rubber—Insulation, which is now well known among car owners, has all the advantages of the best grade of selected wood, and in addition it gives the plates the advantage of the greater protective properties of rubber." 1917

Stimulating.

Garretson, S. D. News: If the land seeker from other states could just go out in our fields and see the corn now in land in this section would take another big advance in price. It is great.

LIEUT. J. E. MCGINTY HOME

Tells of the Construction and Equipping of Army Bakeries.

Lieut. J. E. McGinty, son of J. W. McGinty, living northwest of Carroll, has recently returned from Europe. He was thirteen months overseas and served in all three American armies. Lieut. McGinty was in charge of the bakery branch, which little is generally known, that of the construction quartermaster's corps, with the duty of training and equipping bakeries. These bakeries were crude in structure and only semi-permanent. A bakery construction unit was made up of one hundred men. These were the upstarts of the buildings and corrugated iron was principally used in their construction. The equipment is portable. Under the supervision of Lieut. McGinty seventeen bakeries were built and thirty-three were equipped. They had an output of 4250 and 21000 pounds a day. When the army was advancing into Germany the bread was on the march. This bread was not fit to eat. The Americans would not fit to eat German bread. Under the supervision of Lieut. McGinty the mechanical army bakery at Bush Terminal, Brooklyn, N. Y. This bakery had a capacity of 165,000 pounds daily.

Beard Speaks at Randolph.

Rev. John W. Beard of Wayne, was the chief speaker at the convocation for the northeast Nebraska medical society at Randolph last week, and the Times of that city makes this among other references to his speech.

He paid a high tribute to the American army and their fighting spirit at Gettysburg. He mentioned Michael, Belleau Woods, the Argonne and the others. Told of reporting to the old Colonel of a certain regiment at the front. The officer was smoking a black cigar and eyed the chaplain out of one eye. A German shell was coming over and as he hid under a tree, the chaplain yelled it longingly; but the old colonel was eyeing him, so he stood his ground. The shell burst about 30 yards away and the colonel then said: "Chaplain, you can stay awhile to cheer us up." Later this same colonel was killed by the same Rev. Beard said in his address words over his grave. This was the spirit of the army.

"Out of the conflict came some new ideas. The spirit of Germany who had been taught that might was right regardless of the principle involved. The world has no use for the words kings or princes.

The speaker told of a dressing station at the front that was blown away by a shell. The chaplain in charge said: "If they won't let us have one in here, we'll have one outside," and he did. This was typical of the spirit of the American doctors. The doughboys had great faith in their doctors. One had said: "The old doctor took it himself, so I'm going to die." He often heard the boys say that no matter what happened our doctors will take care of us.

A Pleasant Funeral.

Nebraska Farmer: The death of John Bagecovorn was one death which will be remembered and which shed no tears at his funeral. He was a crafty old autocrat. He met some of our very best friends and sisters of our former "company" in them with a stronger and more ruinous grip than did the Kaiser hold his portion of the world. He has caused more sorrow, mother-harts than all the wars of the world put together. He delighted in making useless and worthless wrecks out of promising young men. His evil work did not stop there, for when he once gained control of a man, that man would do his bidding, even to robbing defenseless and innocent women and children of food and committing murder. He had many associates—some of them were very clever. He was a man who exercised his powers; but these people were no better off because of his society and can well do without him for the sake of liberating those who were his slaves.

The funeral was held on July 11, 1919, and that will be another date which will be remembered and which shed no tears at his funeral. The American people will be obliged to memorize. The American people will be obliged to memorize. It will be important, because the United States is an important nation. It has led the way and unquestionably other nations will follow either rapidly or slowly, but follow they surely will. Already some pessimists are spending most of their time arguing that the law never be enforced. That argument we have heard all our lives. One of our earliest recollections is that of a local option fight in the town of Lincoln. The law was enforced and the law was fairly well enforced in spite of the fact that adjoining towns had saloons. Then came the fight on the liquor right in the state, and after many years, the nation. When will the world follow our lead?

Who's Alarmed?
B. L. T. in the Chicago Tribune Geneva sends word, that "singles among Europe officers are being alarmed. What do they mean alarmingly."

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

Early days, July 17, 1912: Mr. M. C. Gray and wife retired Friday from their western visit. Frank Venable and James Baird were Omaha visitors, Wednesday. Frank Venable is here from Chicago on business and visiting friends. Miss N. J. Danavitz of Kansas, who arrived on Saturday to visit relatives. Geo. H. and wife are home from an extended trip throughout the west.

Miss W. F. Threlkeld went to Stanton Friday for a visit with Miss W. F. Threlkeld. An appeal was made by Mrs. J. Schuler arrived a few days ago from the old country to visit them. A party was given at the Lutheran church on Saturday with Mrs. H. Krempke, northwest of Wayne today.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Miller arrived home yesterday from Chicago, after a pleasant month spent on a wedding trip. Mr. and Mrs. Guy R. Willard and Mrs. J. W. Miller are on a trip to Seattle and other western points.

Frank Graham went to David City Tuesday morning to attend the races in which he had a number of horses. Chas. Reynolds, Fred Fisher and A. P. Child of Carroll, went to Columbus Tuesday to attend the congressional convention.

From Omaha Journal July 26, 1883: The railroad building from Wakefield into Cedar county, is to have steel rails.

The ruins of an old prehistoric fort have been discovered about two miles northwest from Norfolk. The Wakefield Star last week spoke in favor of the nomination of Prof. Walbeck for the office of superintendent of public instruction.

The healthy aroma of hog pens and slaughter houses is wafted in pungent clouds over town and suburbs, the nostrils of the citizens. The neighboring town of Jackson has been lately trying to have a new brick schoolhouse built, but the citizens are so wise as to what part of the town it should be located, the enterprising fellow thought.

The demand for village lots is greatly on the increase in this town, and prices are in consequence going up rapidly. In fact lots are becoming so desirable that many will not sell at any price. Lots are double what they were a year ago.

One Thing More

Most car owners know that this is the place to have their batteries tested with a hydrometer.

That it is the place to buy a Bone Dry Battery with Willard Threaded Rubber Insulation—which carries with it the evidence of battery newness.

That it is the place to come for battery charging, repair, and a rental battery.

But, one thing more—it is the place to come, just as soon as you buy your new car, to have your battery registered and get the benefit of Willard 90-day battery insurance.

Drive in, whether you have bought a new car or not. Perhaps we can give you some battery information that will mean longer life to your battery and fuller use of your car.

Both May be Right.

in making the league covenant as right as possible by reservation and interpretation.

Prosperity and Discontent.
Troquois Chief: When jobs are scarce and wages low, workmen do not strike. It is only when there is plenty of work at high wages that strikes are numerous. In other words, this is a case where prosperity brings discontent.

ABOUT COAL

Hard Coal, Soft Coal or Coke

All reports, government and mine owners and operators tell that the shortage of coal this winter promises to be greater than two years ago—Why? The labor problem is assigning. Miners are quitting and migrating back to the other side of the pond, and promise to do so in increasing numbers as soon as peace is completed. They are planning to demand a 25 per cent increase in wage—a six-hour day, a five-day week—and if it must be paid to keep them going, coal supply will be short, the prices raise.

Just now we have a supply, and can fill your order promptly at a fair price—a money saving price, and you should not neglect to get the winter coal.

THRESHERS—We can supply you with that excellent coal for your work, the Youghiogheny.

Hot Session Expected. Washington, July 16.—With the usual shouting and controversy the foreign relations committee had opportunity to devote several hours to the continuation of reading of the report submitted by the committee. It was expected that before night virtually the entire document would be covered. The first thing to be done was to present the committee's views on the proposed prohibition reserved for future consideration. Several senators were understood to be preparing to take part in the debate on the prohibition which began in a stormy session yesterday, and Sherman, republican of Illinois, had given notice he would speak tomorrow morning. It was expected that he would call upon his resolution asking for a copy of a letter said to have been written by the secretary of the League of Nations, Lansing and Henry White protesting against the Shantung settlement.

Press-Booze Referendum. Lincoln, Neb., July 16.—An alternative writ of mandamus directed to the state of Nebraska, to cause the voters to either accept and file a protest for a referendum on the action of the Nebraska legislature in passing the prohibition amendment or show cause by August 4, for not doing so, was issued by the district court here today. The court's order was made on request of John H. Hopkins, an Omaha attorney, following the refusal of the secretary of the Nebraska State Board of Equalization to permit the referendum petition to be filed. Secretary Ashberry declined to accept the petition on the ground that the prohibition amendment would be a continuation of the federal constitution.

Stolen Goods Found. Fremont, Neb., July 16.—Merchandise worth $15,000, said to have been stolen from express packages handled at the local express agencies were found at the home of Mrs. Chas. W. Sheehan, at the residence of Special Agent Burke, of the express company, and John Bosteder, an express company employe, in this city. The goods were found by a federal agent who was in the express company's depot station at the Chingburg home, when he discovered that Special Agent Burke walked in to search his room at the station office. The thefts are believed to have covered a period of years.

Attorney General Rules. Lincoln, Neb., July 16.—A statement issued by the attorney general today that the state legislature may become a candidate for the constitutional convention and be elected to that body without first resigning their offices in the legislature. He must resign from the legislature, however, before taking his seat in the constitutional convention. The belief that such legislation is possible is based on the fact that if he does not resign he is ineligible to further continue as a member of the legislature.

Refereudum Hits Snag. Lincoln, Neb., July 16.—Attorney General Davis today ruled that the state's civil administration code law be rejected for filing by the secretary of state because full copies of the code law were not attached to them. Following his ruling it was announced that the referendum on the law would bring mandamus proceedings in the district court here to compel filing of the petitions. Under the law on which the referendum is sought, many state agencies would be consolidated into a few large departments.

Looking for John Wright. Local officials here have been looking for John Wright this week to capture him for Omaha authorities who want him in connection with the disappearance of an automobile. He was still at large at last accounts.

From this experience with paternalism and the wastefulness of glass peddlers, progressive men in Germany have drawn the lesson that the soundest and most fruitful economic idea of modern times is the idea that business and industry must be organized within and not from the outside. It is toward a policy of self government in industry that the future of the world must be directed. Benevolent paternalism may be necessary at times, but its long history shows too many failures to justify much faith in it.

The self government idea in industry has already won marked success in England, where it has succeeded the representative industrial councils. In this country it has been adopted in co-operative associations, joint stock companies, and has been going on along this line to show that it offers a solution of the industrial problem highly worth trying on a larger scale.

Before any industrial readjustment can get very far the old methods of the industrial system must be abandoned. It is a false and pernicious theory as was the case with the old one. Only a trade code benefit.

ment is at hand, and if it comes, it must rest upon the sound economic basis of understandings in production. Why Not a Business Man. The Chamber Press. There is something to think about in a paragraph from the middle of a novel in a recent magazine. It says: "The man who is not a business man is not a man." It is a blunt point and there is something in it. Several suggestions were made at the meeting, but the one which was passed on to another subject of topical interest with it, was that of the next president should be neither learned professor, nor diplomat, nor statesman, nor even a financier, but a man who has achieved what all who profess to believe in nearly as possible the solid reconstruction of the country. An argument indeed and a thought worth entertaining! Why not a competent, trained, experienced business man for president? Why never had such a commodity in the White House. Outside of the military and the learned professions - mainly lawyers - what vocations and walks of life have been represented in the presidency? Really the nearest approach to it was the sixties, when the man of affairs. With the further exceptions of Grant, the soldier, and Wilson, the school of industry, and the president of that period was a lawyer. In the history of the country we have had not one president in a trade and identified man of business pure and simple. The war taught us the value of business training. The men outside the military and the men who won the war by organizing the resources of the country, counted for nothing in the eyes of the nation. They have brought very competent business men, captains of industry and managers of merchandising, into the government. The relationship of the business of running the government of the United States. It will be agreed that nothing is more nearly lawyerly - what vocations and walks of life have been represented in the presidency? What Americans do not realize is that Britain comes out of this war as a great best and her German rival at the bottom of Scapa Flow. Her thirty-three super dreadnaughts are in the water. Her navy is reduced to a few old-fashioned battleships. Even if Secretary Daniels had not curtailed his construction program, Britain would not in all probability have been able to reconstruct. 3 Big Carloads on Track this Week

Don't fail to get your full supply of red raspberries from the car that is due to arrive today. This will be the last chance to secure raspberries for canning and the usual reduction incurred by carload service. There will also be about 200 cases Logan berries in this car. If you want a case, better phone early.

Free Stone Peaches, Bushel Baskets to Arrive Today

A car of this same kind of peaches on the market last week. As soon as the housewives "got wise" that these southern peaches were real free stones, medium size and developed a superior flavor, orders came thick and fast and in three hours the car was empty. This car is the same kind, and although the market is higher, this lot will be sold at the same price, $4.25 per bushel basket. By canning these peaches you will be perfectly satisfied and you may credit your canning account at least one-third as compared with the selling price of Colorado and California stock next month. Don't wait for cheaper peaches - crates will be $2.00 or better next week.

Carload Water Melons on Track to Arrive Today

President Will Confer

Washington, July 16.—President Wilson has decided to invite republican senators to call at the White House to discuss the peace treaty and the league of nations. Secretary Taft unity announced today. Senator Lodge, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, whose criticism of the war department early in the war led to a sharp statement from President Wilson, was among those invited to call at the White House today and those close to the president hoped the conference would result in the establishment of amonious relations between the executive and the Oregon senator.

The members of the Fire Department in the above illustration are going to do their best to extinguish the fire, but their efforts will all be of no avail unless the wagon gets off the hose and allows the water to flow freely. UNCLE WALT THE POET—PHILOSOPHER

ANGER.
The blood was boiling in my veins, my lawn was sploved by Johnson's steers; I felt a sizzling in my brains, and stooped was coming my ears. "That day my little nephew, Pete, was taking snap shots 'round the place; and in his guilelessness and sweetness he made a picture of my face." He laid the picture on my knee, when it was printed and complete; I glanced at it, and cried, "Oh, chief, that's not my face, so help me Pete!" But when I looked again I saw it was my mug, deformed by ire; the foam was flecked upon my jaw, my eyes were like a ferocious glare; my fangs were bared, as though to bite my hair like bristles stood on end. I saw myself a holy fright, and felt that I have looked like that. "Oh, Pete," I said, "you bet your hair, if n'er again shall yield to rage; for soon will take your little spruce, and will keep me humble till old age; I never knew that anger made man's face a thing to spoil one's sleep, so now you'll take your little spruce and plant that picture cubic deep." And now I keep my rage in check when the old pictures are "the rule;" I cracked the pipe upon my neck, and tan myself, and thus keep cool.

SUMMER.
The summer time is here once more. With scented winds from far-off shores, suggesting eastern dree; the air's voluptuous and sweet; the summer time would be a treat. Away to the healthy bugs. The earth is carpeted with green, the smoothest rain has seen, as a brilliant blue the skies; sometimes there is a golden haze, and one might lose the summer days, but for the nasty flies. A stranger bird has ceased to soar and pause, singing, by my door; its melody enchants; and I could listen to his song, in ecstasy, the whole day long, but for the noxious ants. And I could take my picnic pile, and have an outing in the vale, and roam sequestered brakes, find inspiration for a rhyme, and have the blameless gold of time, but for the silly snaker. Now on her way 'round summer struts, and but for sundry ifs and buts all mankind she would please; I would be a blessing to repose where yonder elm its shadow throws, but for the wasp and bees. Oh, I would take my lyre in arms, and sing of summer's gorge; but now I could only moisten my terms, and celebrate her queasily ways, her staid nights and sunny days, but for the slugs and worms.

VACATION TIME.
The man who works too all-fired hard, be he a plumber or a bard, will wake some rainy morn to find that he's played out in frame and mind. And he will murmur through his tears, "I'm not a patriarch in years; I still should be as good as brass; a husky man on active feet, all sound in intellect and brawn, yet to the scrapheap I have gone." Man is an intricate machine, though he's not run by gasoline; he labors, burdened by his cares, and hates to slow up for repairs. "Some other year," says he, "I'll go and climb a large peak capped with snow, or gambol on the ocean's shore, or tread the forest's tufted floor, but now I can't afford to rest and let affairs go valley west. Some slinging plunks have loomed in view, and I must try to cop a few; let others picnic in the glen, while I rake in the iron me!" And so he aakes some rainy day to find his pep has ebbed away, his nerve is in his wind-up sheet, and he is dead upon his feet. An auto must be overhauled; a locomotive oil is stalled, while skilled mechanics test its works, to see why it has jumpy jerks; all things that move and roll need rest, and man's of all machines the best.

OUTDOORS.
I have a home that's pretty slick; a mansion made of wood and brick; the window panes are mostly glass, the door-knobs of cork; brass and there are screens to keep out flies; and in the pantry there are pies; electric fans kick up a breeze when torrid summer days displease. Oh, there a man in peace might rest, and feel that he was doubly blessed, if he had come enough to stay in that large dawning freshness. But summer makes a man insane, some doodle-bug infests, his brain, he leaves his manhood, or a shack in sylvan glade or mountain track; he jumps wild bugs through weary bites, and eyes through stinging bites; he packs his wood from dust, clean pipes, and carries water nineteen miles, and lives on beans and peas when flies and gnats his larvae's cussing flies. I have a home that's slick as grease, and there, if sane, I'd live in peace all modern comforts at command, and levels of ice cold fizz at hand. But here I sit in a cheap coop, where mountain lions round me whop, and drink warm water when I'm dry, and never see a white man's pie; I'm burned and blistered by the sun, and try to think I'm having fun.

PERSISTENCE.
Still the flies around me tinger, on my doings they leave their tracks, though I sweat some with my whinger, butcher others with my ax. Not an instant do I falter in the sweat-flick I pursue, but I say, "So help me, Walter, I will stay a ton or two. Though surviving flies in brow, and drilling deeply in my brow, umbrosia peoples my plant I dream for the good I'm doing now. If we all keep off kerswating, there will be going a time, methinks when the cheap flies will be trotting on the maps of human links." Of the good is in the distance, too far off for us to gaze; notwithstanding which, persistence is the course that's safe and sane. There is nothing like endeavor, be he as lowly as the ant, though we are assured we'll never eat the fruit of trees we plant. Shall we cease our earnest toiling just because the sun's in doleful, sickly, pale, and with spilling may a good thought weary scout. It is vain to sit down weeping, vain to sing despairing dirges; each snail and slug will be reaping, let us keep on sowing plumes.

PATIENCE.
No matter what goes wrong, no odds what wires are crossed, you'd better leave a song than see your temper loose. If causing things would help, I'd say, "By all means cuss; put up a howl and yelp, and raise your heavenly fuss." But with course doesn't chase the shades of gloom away; just wear a cheerful face, and things will be O. K. I drove eight hundred miles, this spring, in my tin car; the rain, in fifty styles came down, from clouds afar. The roadway was a flood, and my old faithful but just fendered car, the mud, and there gave up its goat. Time was when I'd have reared and pawed around and wept, and torn my hair, and flung myself at the ward I kept. But years have made me wise; I know that patience wins, and forty thousand sighs and tears worth a new wheel. I'd so I wanted there and whistled half a day; then saw a granger fair whose horse asked that way. He hailed me from the mare and only asked a huck, and I tuned up my lyre and blessed my goodly luck. The mud-holes dried, and, and there we are hired; and some start up and bray, and make the welkin tier; the big man sits and hums, and sure the shreds he cracks, and until some fellow comes and hauls him to dry land.

Suffered Day and Night For Years
—After Taking Tanlac Looks Like Different Child.

"My little daughter Jean, had gained ten pounds on Tanlac and now she's the very picture of health," said Jim Snell, well known poultry and truck farmer of Raleigh, Tenn. "When Jean was only seven years old," continued Mr. Snell, "she was taken with something like nervous stomach trouble; there wasn't a day or night she didn't suffer until we got Tanlac for her, and she's now fifteen years old. Her stomach was in such a bad condition she had to live on toast and egg and milk, and she couldn't eat any kind of meats or vegetables. She complained of pains in her stomach all the time and would spit up half digested food. She was nervous and would toss and roll all night, for the count of sleep well until she was bad, and she looked pale and sickly all the time. We gave her most every kind of medicine we could think of, but nothing helped her. "After hearing of some of the good work Tanlac was doing, we got some for Jean and it has done wonders for her. She actually looks and acts like a different child, and she's taken up two bottles of the medicine. She commenced picking up as soon as she started Tanlac, and she has gained ten pounds. She never had indigestion now, and she just anything she wants—even such things as beans and other vegetables, and meats of all kinds. We let her eat corn for dinner every day, and it was the first time in eight years she'd ever tasted corn, and she can't get fed bacon—that's, brooked

AGRICULTURE NOTES.

When to Wean Pigs.
At the conference of swine extension workers of the United States department of agriculture, held recently in Washington, the question of weaning pigs arose. The discussion brought out the fact that in some parts of the country farmers followed the practice of weaning their piglets at most all ages from five weeks up. The conclusions reached were that for best results pigs should be allowed to nurse the sow until at least ten weeks, where it is possible to do so. It was decided that it would be still better to allow the pigs to wean themselves. Good suckling sow properly fed should be in a good frame of mind up to the time the pigs are at least ten weeks of age. Without question the mother's milk is the best possible feed to obtain for young pigs. Consequently hog growers should take advantage of the natural feed to the greatest extent possible.

Good Roads Save Money.
The county commissioners of Milwaukee county, Wis., save $25,000 a day to the people who use them. This is the estimate of the county commissioner of highways, as reported to the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture. The statistics are based on a census of the traffic taken periodically during the past four years. The census is made by selecting fifty-two points scattered throughout the county and making seven counts at each point, one for every day of the week. The count is not made consecutive days, but at various periods from April to November, so as to arrive at average conditions. This census is taken to determine the durability of certain types of pavement, according to the amount of traffic a square yard. It shows that about 25,000 vehicles of all kinds use the highways each day. Traffic on the road has increased about 42 per cent a year during the four years in which the survey has been made.

New Record in Road Work.
During the month of June the secretary of agriculture approved project statements for 133 federal-aid projects, involving the improvement of 1,390.29 miles of road, at a total estimated cost of $24,220,808.90, and on which federal aid in the amount of $11,034,289.12 was requested. This represents the largest number of project statements approved, the largest estimate of cost, and the largest amount of federal aid requested during any month since the passage of the federal-aid road act.

During the month there were executed by the secretary and the state highway departments 60 project agreements, involving the improvement of 507.37 miles of road, at a total estimated cost of $7,556,289.22, and on which $3,404,209.18 federal aid was requested and set aside in the treasury. In addition, forty project agreements previously executed were amended during the month. Up to and including June 30, 1919, project statements for a total of 1,210 projects had been approved. The 1,210 projects involve 12,790.37 miles of road, a total estimated cost of $38,833,300.30, and a total of $14,763,957.81 federal aid. On the same date a total of 6567 project agreements had been executed, involving $2,776.39 miles of road, a total estimated cost of $56,367,334.94, and a total of $23,892,740.97 federal aid.

McCormick Harvesting Tools

The Best

The McCormick Binder Saves Down and Tangled Grain

When it comes to cutting extremely short grain, or grain that is down tangled, and lodged, as yours often is, the binder must have exceptionally rigid reel with a wide range of adjustment.

The Reel on the McCormick Binder can be adjusted very close to the guards, so that the operator can force short grain, or grain that is lodged and tangled, on to the platform canvas. There is never any accumulation of grain in front of the cutter bar. No matter how hard the grain is down, the McCormick binder picks it up and binds it all.

It is the unfavorable season that tries the worth of a binder. The McCormick stands the test. Come in and let's talk it over.

McCormick Elevator Turns the Trick

Did you ever go into a field of grain where one side was tall, heavy, and perhaps lodged? Then on the other side find the stand "thin" story, and overtop? It's pretty hard matter to set your machine so that it will take care of such conditions without loss from shelling or without clogging, isn't it? Here is where a McCormick binder proves its true worth.

The McCormick Has an Elevator that Floats at Four Points

This means that if the grain is thick, tangled and matted, the upper elevator will expand to allow the increased volume to pass through, and then drop back to its original position for short, thin grain. There are no changes or adjustments to make—the movement is entirely automatic. Come in and see how simple this valuable feature is.

some are in the east, so that no section of the country is too distant to share in their benefits. The forest service of the United States department of agriculture is endeavoring to bring about a full public realization of what the forests offer.

"You will encounter no 'Keep out' signs in the forests," says one of the several booklets issued by the forest service. "They are not fenced against the public, but invite your presence and use. The only sign you will find are those which point you on your way or ask your cooperation in preserving the beauty and value of these free recreation grounds and their resources. Forests are not barred, and hunting and fishing are restricted only to the requirements of the state game laws.

"You are welcome to all the necessary firewood and to forage for your saddle and pack animals; and to far as possible, the grazing of commercial stock is regulated in such a way as to save an accessible supply of forage for the camper's use. You may camp where you like and stay as long as you please. The forest service asks that you look only to the proper sanitation of the camp and that you be careful with fire.

Information on the forests will be furnished to all who apply to the forest supervisors, the district foresters, or to the forest service at Washington, D. C.

New York Times: Controversy over the president's work at Paris has arisen chiefly through misunderstanding, discontent, it may be by more than a trace of partisan feeling; that misunderstanding it will be the president's opportunity and his duty to remove. The country wants the treaty ratified, it wants the league of nations brought into being. That is the real task before Mr. Wilson. He can accomplish it, we feel sure, if he approaches it in the spirit of genuine cooperation.

CHANGES IN STATE LAWS

Over 200 Nebraska Laws Become Operative Next Saturday.

Nebraska Daily News, July 15: Important changes in Nebraska laws, some of them having a marked effect upon the general public, become effective next Saturday, by reason of acts of the legislature which adjourned April 19.

All but over 200 laws became operative on that date, but many of them have limited or minor effect.

Among the last age extensive revision of the laws for state inspection and regulation of dairies, sale of milk and manufacture of butter and other dairy products.

Two score of new laws provide salary increases for county or municipal officials, and others raise the maximum amount of taxes that may be levied on bonds that may be issued by counties and municipalities for various purposes.

One law requires every dealer in automobiles, to keep at some point in his store, a stock of repair parts for the automobile which he handles. Another requires a similar stock of repair parts for farm tractors, and forbids the sale of any tractor until its sale has been licensed by the state railway commission, and after inspection by a member of Nebraska engineers.

Among a group of "Americanization" laws is one forbidding the use of any but the English language in any public meeting, excepting religious meetings. Another new law requires all school teachers to be "American citizens."

Embodied in a provision of the school laws is a revision requiring every public school teacher to examine each pupil in his or her care, to ascertain if the child is suffering from defective sight or hearing, or has diseased teeth. Another new law gives the public school officials supervision of the course of study, grading and promotion of pupils of parochial, denominational or non-denominational schools, and teachers in such schools to pass public school teachers' examinations and be certified accordingly.

Good Roads Provided.

Theft of automobiles becomes a felony, punishable by a penitentiary sentence of from one to ten years or by a fine of $10,000, and the possession of an automobile without the owner's consent, prima facie evidence of the theft.

Clerks are empowered to pave or improve highways leading out into the country for a distance of six miles and to levy a tax or issue bonds to pay for same.

Berths for Stockmen.

Railroads are required to provide sleeping quarters for stock shippers traveling a distance of six miles and to levy a tax or issue bonds to pay for same.

Display of a red or black flag or any banner bearing phrases inimical to the maintenance of the government is forbidden by the provisions of one new law, and another forbids syndicalism, sabotage, strikes, boycotts, picketing, to the use of force to accomplish industrial or political ends.

Important changes are made in the provisions of the state law, including increased penalties in some cases. There is also a general revision of the mother's pension law.

Public officers are forbidden to employ relatives in their offices, on salary of more than $800 annually.

The sale of cigarettes is legalized, all tobacco dealers are required to procure a license, and sales to minors are punishable by a fine or revocation of license. Smoking in public eating places is prohibited by this law.

The Way to Meet a Demand.

The newest step in Norfolk's progress is the formation of the Norfolk Apartment company and the plan for the immediate construction on Norfolk avenue of an apartment house costing $175,000. The plans for the big apartment are elaborate and call for high apartments. The housing situation in Norfolk is serious and it is thought that every apartment will be rented long before the building is completed. Actual construction will begin immediately and it is predicted that the house will be ready for occupancy early next year.

A similar movement in Wayne would be most advantageous as the number of houses available to renters here is below the demand. The report has been heard that someone in Wayne is planning to build an apartment, and it is true, the improvement would be most welcome, meeting a demand that has long been apparent.

Death of August Lyons.

Laurel, Neb., July 15.—An audience too large for any local church made it necessary Sunday to hold services outdoors at the funeral of August Lyons, Laurel sailor, who died unexpectedly at St. Louis last week. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lyons, who are well known in northeastern Nebraska. He had served nearly two years in the navy. Six discharged sailors in uniform had charge of the services.

LIBERTY SEXTET TO SING

Well Known Welsh Organization to Do Chautauque Work.

With the return of Harry G. Evans from army service, having been discharged at Camp Dodge July 9, the well known Liberty sextet, from the Carroll vicinity, is now complete and will be able to fill all engagements in routine order, giving the high satisfaction for which it is noted. Following is the personnel of the organization: Harry G. Evans, solo tenor; Cely Morris, first tenor; Richard Pinkham, second tenor; Ivor Morris, baritone; E. G. Evans, bass and director; John Davis, bass.

The sextet is under contract to sing for a chautauque organization during August. They boys have also been engaged to sing at the state fair in September. The young men are to be congratulated over their great promise as entertainers.

Increased Valuation.

Lincoln, Neb., July 14.—Forty-nine counties, more than one-half in number and considerably more than one-half in valuation, reporting an assessed valuation, show an increase of $1,000,000 over that in the last assessment, and give promise of an increase for the entire state. Lancaster county alone shows $1,000,000 increase, making up one-half of the gain. The total for the forty-nine counties is $298,243,323.

Petitions Rejected.

Lincoln, Neb., July 14.—Petitions requesting a referendum vote next year on the action of the Nebraska legislature in ratifying the federal prohibition amendment, were presented to Secretary D. M. Amshery, but were rejected by him on the ground that the legislature's action is not subject to submission to a vote under the state's referendum law.

Poor Wheat Crop.

Laurel, Neb., July 15.—With the exception of the wheat crop, prospects never looked better than at present. Small grain is being harvested and oats, barley and rye will yield well except the oats which have been injured in a few local spots by rust. Wheat is a disappointment, some farmers claiming it impractical to harvest their crop because of severe damage done by rust and blight. Corn and hay are both in splendid condition. Two half storms did slight damage north of here last week.

Fight Over Vaccination.

Lincoln, Neb., July 14.—A fight has loomed up in Lincoln over vaccination. The health reporter shows that in the past year Lincoln had a greater number of cases of smallpox than any other city in Nebraska. The result is a demand on the part of the health department, backed by a stringent ordinance proposed by the commissioner of public safety, that vaccination become more general, and that children in public and private schools be vaccinated before being allowed to attend. The anti-vaccinationists are making a fight on the measure.

Birthdays Party.

Bonadine Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Nelson, celebrated her fourth birthday last Thursday at an afternoon party at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. J. H. Riel. The time was spent in playing games, ice cream and cookies were served. Dorothy Roberts, Luella Nelson, Louise Norton and Mrs. Earl Riel helped to entertain the children.

William Hohenzollern.

He once was great; his high estate
Royal social at the Normal auditorium
He ruled his land by God's command,
As I now recollect.

It did him proud when thousands bowed
Until they cracked their ribs,
And spake the name with loud acclaim,
Of his imperial nibs.

The gladiators flew; his greatness grew
Like moss upon a stone;
"The world is mine!" 'till 'cross the Rhine,
And claim it for my own."

His war lords came, they praised his name,
And each endorsed his plan;
'We'll make earth bend to you, old friend,
Or perish to a man.'

Swift beltoplay in Serbia
Was how the thing begun,
The Austrians first, but last and worst
Came on the ruthless Hun.

Four long years of blood and tears,
Sane hope or recompense?
It was the will of Kaiser-Bill,
Who hadn't any sense.

He fought and lost at what a cost,
O, how he rued the day
Now he makes good at saving wood;
That's all there is to say.

To Organize Legion.

Laurel, Neb., July 15.—Laurel will have a chapter of the American Legion soon if proposed plans are carried out. After the recent Decoration day services local veterans of the world war organized temporary committees to go to Lincoln to make this body a part of the legion being organized all over the United States. About fifty men of this locality would be eligible to membership.

Ice Famine Threatened.

Laurel, Neb., July 15.—Hot weather has caused an acute ice famine in this section and many households are being entirely without the much needed article. The reason is, that less ice than usual was put here last winter and the whole region depends upon the ice on Saturday, July 19 at 30 o'clock more than half its orders, even though running at full capacity day and night.

Mass Convention.

There will be a farmers' mass convention at the city hall in Wayne on Saturday, July 19 at 30 o'clock for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the constitutional convention. This is a matter of great importance and do not miss this opportunity of selecting a man that we know will represent the people.—Nels Johnson, Committee.

THE MUSIC OF SEVEN LIBERTY BELLES

To Ring Out at Chautauque Tent.

Some companies seem to have to wait a long time to make a place for themselves in the hearts of Chautauque patrons, and others seem to have just the right kind of program and just the right way of putting it over so that they spring into instant popularity. The Seven Liberty Belles seem to belong to the latter class from the many enthusiastic reports of the work which have been received. The girls are not only good musicians, both vocally and instrumentally, but they are charming young ladies and bring their program over with a dash, enthusiasm and buoyancy that is contagious. We expect also that the public who attend their program

Let Music Brighten the Lives of Your Children

AFTER all, it's not the school training, but the home atmosphere which molds the child. Children brought up in a cultured home betray that fact during their entire lives. It leaves a lasting imprint.

A home with any claim to culture is a home in which good music is enjoyed and understood. A child whose interest in music is fostered will become a man or woman who possesses a resource which makes for lasting happiness. You want to give your children every advantage. A
Chautauqua Chat

Chautauqua is coming again! How much it has meant to town in better community health—a more harmonious, pull-together spirit! How many of our boys and girls have, through it, received the inspiration starting them SUCCESS-WARD!

It is a Good Community Investment

presents a distinguished array of talent, contains something to please everybody, is constructive, informing and harmonious.

Probably the most startling thing on the program will be the epoch-making attempt of LT. "ANDY" NIELSON, "THE FLYING PARSON", former army instructor in "stunt flying," to fly the circuit on schedule and deliver his intensely interesting and instructive lecture on "Problems of the Air," fully illustrated by amusing incidents and an exhibition flight, at each town of the circuit—one of the biggest things any man has ever attempted. DR. BECK, with his wonderful pictures and descriptions of Europe. JAS. T. NICHOLS, world traveler, at the peace conference, three times across the Atlantic during the war—with his intimate story of conditions, will help you to see the Europe of today as it is and has been. DR. LYMAN P. POWELL, distinguished author and educator, will tell the great plans of the government for war prevention through education, and you close-up views of the great leaders of the day almost every day. DR. V. ADAMS, in his happy way that has aroused hundreds of audiences to enthusiasm, will keep you laughing while you think, and ALVA M. RIETZEL will hold you spellbound while he discusses those "PROBLEMS of Patriotism" in which we are all vitally interested.

In the hands of that great friend of humanity, DR. DAVID D. VAUGHN, our city problems, illustrated by his marvelous experiences in a parish where 50,000 people crowded into a square mile, become as fascinating as the tales of a Sawyer. DR. AMAURY MARRS, editor, physician, member French Legion, prisoner three years from beginning of war although an American, has a thrilling story of escaping from German prison camp. General saved him from death. MR. KURTIS W. LIBBY was in Berlin when the war broke out—saw the preparations—heard the Kaiser's speech—and brings information from behind the German curtain. American general staff interpreter.

Music

Several very special attractions will claim your delighted approval. The great OVERSEAS BAND, composed of men back from the battle fronts, under Edwin's leadership, will be not only a treat but an inspiration, and their dress suits, modeled on the French Colonial Zouave uniform, will add to the charm. In contrast will be the ROYAL WELSH LADIES' CHOIR, under the distinguished leadership of Mme. Hughes-Thomas, wife of the mayor of Cardiff. THE SINGERS' ORGANIZATION which has won signal and royal honors throughout England and Wales. TAGGART, "The Man from Vermont," known by his Victor records as "The Old-Country Fiddler," is a musical humorist of national reputation. THE SEVEN LIBERTY BELLS, who fresh chautauqua laurels last year and will be better this year—a singing orchestra with a program full of breath of spring, vibrant with melody and with the dash and abandon of you, but refined and artistic. THE MATHISEN GRAND CONCERT CO. will appeal to every music lover—grand opera quality for popular consumption—Mathisen's voice is even more clear and limpid than his records. A male quartet never fails to please, but you will enjoy "THE AMPHION FOUR" unusually well with "Diebs" Richards leading the tenor. HENRY AND CO.—MAGICIANS—Art. Mystery, Mirth, Crayon, Sand Painting.

Chautauqua is Democracy's Mental Training Camp

Lincoln Journal: There is no peace officer in the state of Nebraska who is not entering the law "at some time in the future—no officer refuses to exert his authority to the utmost towards enforcement. Governor McKelvie will exercise the authority given him to remove such officials. This was a law carried to sheriffs, state agents and others in attendance at the law enforcement get-together held at the Lincoln hotel Saturday and every man present applauded the words of the executive.

"If I can have co-operation, then I must resort to the final authority imposed in me. I can put my finger on the communities in the state not being well-ruled." The governor was given a big ovation by the sixty or more officers present at the morning session.

Despite the activity of the last legislature in passing laws extending the power of the law enforcement division relating to conspiracy and to auto theft prevention, Governor McKelvie admits that "the work of legislating is not completed. He believes that it will be necessary at the next regular session to enact further laws toward stamping out this menace. In this respect, resolutions were introduced during the afternoon session calling for a better cur-rent record, discouraging promiscuous use of dealers' numbers, calling for better co-operation and urgently request enactment of a motor vehicle law passed after the law enacted by the Iowa legislature at the most recent session. The governor proposed that legislating be put up to the next regular session. The resolutions urge that action be taken during the special session."

Knowing Oneself.
Lincoln Journal: A true philosopher has said that man exists to know himself, "not by thinking but by doing." One can never come to a just estimate of his own worth, or unless generally by mere mental processes. Through without action gets a negative result every time.

The Sweet Clover Honey of Northeast Nebraska

Northeast Nebraska, the home of the jackrabbit and the prairie coyote, where years ago the magnificent, undulating prairies stretched away for miles unbroken by the hands of civilization; where the deer and the antelope and the countless thousands of buffaloes roamed over the trackless prairies—here is now a region rich in diverse forms of agricultural resources. As the farmers turned over the virgin sod and introduced the yellow and white flowering sweet clovers, the myriads of blossoms furnish a honey that is simply incomparable, a honey thick and heavy, white in color, and having a delicious flavor, all its own—a flavor that smacks slightly of the mild vanilla of the tropics.

For a number of years, I have been devoting a part of my time to the specialty of producing the finest table honey that it is possible to obtain. The honey is not taken off the hives until it is thoroughly ripened—and all sealed over, thus securing—a product that is thick, rich and delicious—as far superior to ordinary honey as ripe fruit is more palatable than green.

Extracted Honey

This honey is not sold in the comb, but in liquid form. "Extracted Honey"—it is called because it is thrown out of the comb with a machine called a honey extractor.

Extracted honey must not be confused with the Old-fashioned "strained" honey, in which the combs (beehard and all) were washed, and hung in a muslin bag before or over a fire to drain or "strain." Extracted honey is simply the pure honey—thrown out of the combs and is free from impurities.

I put this honey up in one and two quart mason-jars, five and ten pound slip top tin pails and sixty pound screw cap tin cans.

This honey is now being ripened on the hives in the care of the bees who alone know how to transform the raw nectar into the most palatable table delicacy known.

Orders accepted at market prices subject to future delivery and amount of surplus available.

Rhetoric Only.
Kansas City Times: The president's appeal for the league of nations was a moving piece of rhetoric. But it was rhetoric and nothing more. It repeatedly made the assertion that the league would prevent war. But it depends on the mere assertion. Mr. Wilson asked the country to take his word for it. He did not explain how the league would prove the instrument of perpetual peace.

Daylight Saving Law.
Fairbury News: There is weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth in the large cities at the repeal of the daylight saving law. But they are not narrow-minded about it. They admit that the law has been working a hardship to farmers, and that there is plenty of argument in favor of its repeal. If the farmer sets his clock in contradiction to the railroad time, his schedule will get considerably twisted when he is shipping cream and produce to the consumer. But the whole trouble is so easily cured that it is difficult to understand why it ever became a vexed question. It is simply a matter of phrasing. We can call any time bedtime if we want to go to bed. City folks can have what they want without hurting the farmers, if they prefer to start work an hour closer to sunrise. Employers could get together and arrange that offices and places of business shall open and close an hour earlier. Places that open at 8 and close at 6 can open at 7 and close at 5. They will not work any harder and they will have more light in the evening all the year round.

Prest-O-Lite Battery

"If there were a better battery I'd have it—"

"And I'd want every one of my customers to have one. Standing by them and all battery work is what I'm here for.

"Our Service Men are efficiently trained to inspect for symptoms of wear, add distilled water and take dynamometer tests. You see, Prest-O-Lite is the oldest service to motorists in America.

Here are 10 Good Reasons for Prest-O-Lite Supremacy—

"First off, the Plates—a new process adds strength and life to the battery. An extremely porous surface insures a larger volume of current with less internal heat and no injurious chemical action.

"Then the Separators—so porous you're bound to get maximum circulation and no internal short circuits.

"Third—Look at the high bridges for plate support. They give plenty of room for sediment and reinforce the hard rubber jars.

"Next look at these rugged Plate Connectors. They insure maximum electrical conductivity and great strength.

"Fifth and mighty important, the Hard Rubber Jars and Covers undergo a test of 20,000 volts. Reinforced to stand the big trials.

Here's an exclusive feature—Patented Post-Construction—eliminates acid creepage and slopping, the chief causes of corrosion.

"Advantage No. 7 is a sealing compound which won't crack in cold weather or soften in summer and eighth is ease in inspecting and filling.

"Highest terminal voltage in discharge is an important factor. Terminals and Cell Connectors are sufficiently large to carry the highest rates.

"And to hold the 'works' together there's a selected hardwood box built for roughest service."

No wonder it's the fastest growing Battery business in the world.

Navy Enlistments for Two Years.
The navy department has ordered all recruiting officers to announce that men and boys can be enlisted for a period of two or three or four years, which ever the recruit desires. The objection of those men who desire to go to the machinists school at Charleston, S. C., who must enlist for three or four years, and all obligations to the church met in full by September 1. This will help the stewards make out their reports early for the year's work.
Come to church next Sunday; you will be welcome.

The Omaha recruiting district maintains substations at Lincoln, Neb.; Grand Island, Neb.; Falls City, Neb.; Sioux Falls, S. D.; Waterloo, S. D.; Aberdeen, S. D.; Council Bluffs, Ia.; and Sioux City, Ia. All of these stations will be glad to give full information to applicants.
Boys aged 17 to 18 years can enlist for two years or during minority if their parent or guardian's consent is obtained in writing.
Recruits can go to the naval training stations at Great Lakes, Ill., or Mare Island, Cal.

The lowering of the term of enlistment to two years has resulted in the recruiting station at Omaha being swamped with eager lads who are anxious to get into the navy.
Congress has passed a law making the present "war pay of the navy" the pay of all men who enlist between now and the first of July, 1920. The lowest pay is now $32.60 per month with an allowance of clothing valued at $100 and free medical attention and many other advantages of travel, education and the opportunity of learning any one of the fifty-five trades.

Midsummer Business.

Sioux City Journal: A comparison of midsummer conditions in commerce and industry with those of normal years shows that there is less falling off this season than in general. Some lines of activity are actually expanding. The lifting of the German blockade has been anticipated and cargoes of raw materials especially cotton, are expected ready to load in the first available bottoms.

Buying at the present time centers in the more expensive classes of commodities and is not based upon immediate wants. Many of the orders being booked are intended for forestall price advances. No contracts are now made without specific instead of elastic price clauses. The new orders in many lines are greater than the capacity of the manufacturers, and increased activity in industrial plants is the result. Labor is being fully employed because of this increase in output and in a large sense the danger of labor difficulties is secured. The inhibition against trading with Germany in dyes, chemicals and potash, contained in the general treaty, will keep in operation the plants started during the war to meet the demands for these supplies. Germany had formerly had such control of the trade that American competition was impossible. It is expected the present congress speedily will enact the pending legislation shutting out these commodities even more completely than the treaty does. This policy will not enlarge the present general output of goods, but will prevent the industries from slumping with the consequent effect on the labor employed in them.

Money for large enterprises is available on reasonable terms. It is believed that private capital is available to rehabilitate the railroads of the country, if the government lets go of their management so that they may be reorganized on a business basis.
Crop damage will reduce the actual production from forecasts, but more than normal yields are certain in almost every line.

Poverty of Leadership.
Chicago Daily News: In both political parties there is a woeful lack of leaders. The democratic party seems to have only President

The Major stated that he learned more about his own city while he was attached in the American consulate in Frankfurt, Germany, than he had known about it by living in it for 15 years. From the far east he watched the approaching struggle long before its outbreak, but was back in Berlin when it actually started. He collected a lot of information among German officers in their clubs and mess, and from actual documents obtained. He was a prisoner and the thrilling details of his escape make a strong background for the presentation of his astonishing views regarding our present political

HAD A RECORD APPETITE
 Child of Eight Devours Entire Raw Cod, Two Pounds of Candies and Several of Butters.

"Eccentricities of diet and their effect on the digestion" was the subject of a lecture delivered at the Institute of Hygiene by Dr. Sallau Penwick. The physician mentioned people who can never eat enough, who have an insatiable hunger. In appearance they are lean, feeble, ill-favored, and they have cancerous appetites. However, when they eat they are none the better for it.

One little girl of eight had a special keeper to prevent her from eating the household goods. She would cheerfully devour seven times as much as any other member of the family, and securing from her attendant one day for a few minutes enjoyed a meal beginning with an entire raw cod, two pounds of French candies and several pounds of butter. She was fortunately found before she got further than these hors d'oeuvres.

A girl was locked in a little walled garden for two or three hours. During that time she ate every leaf she could lay hands on, most of the small twigs on shrubs and in several places in the not of gnawing a bough.

One boy ate the whole of his clothing to prevent her from eating the household goods. A young woman ingested a diet of 20 unboiled eggs, six pounds of butter five loaves, and drank three pints of milk and two bottles of wine; after which, providentially for the diet-keeper, she fell asleep.—London Express.

Governor Makes Statement.
It has been urged upon me to inquire into the right to the special session of the next Legislature under the Administrative Code with the emergency clause. These suggestions have been made on the theory that a referendum would probably be obtained against the Code. Among those who have so advised have been several members of the Legislature some of whom voted against the Code when it was up for consideration in the last regular session.
After having considered this matter very carefully, I have decided that I shall not include this subject in the call for the special session. I do not want it to appear—even though there could be no basis for the charge in fact—that I desire to exclude any people of any rights that are reserved to them through the referendum.
However, I wish to present to the people, for their information, some very important facts bearing on the subject.
First, the exercise of the referendum in this instance would be a distinct violation of the purpose of the people in writing the initiative and referendum provisions into the constitution. The Civil Administrative Code bill reflected the majority sentiment of the people, as was evidenced by their vote at the last general election, when they approved the referendum platform, in which was contained a declaration for this legislation.
Second, the referendum petition against the Code has received the substantial support of the old, wet machine that has repeatedly thwarted the will of the people in the past, and the petition, in many instances, was circulated in connection with the referendum petition against the ratification of the federal amendment to the federal constitution.
Third, the exercise of the referendum.

World Traveler at Peace Conference Will Give His Impression as to a "Warless World."

Dr. James T. Nichols, author, writer and lecturer, has been to Europe three times since the war began and has had some very unusual experiences. Previous to the war, he has traveled around the world and back and forth to Europe a good many times. On his last visit he not only succeeded in getting into the peace conference but was within ten feet of the President. When he returned he passed the league of nations. There were hundreds of newspaper men outside who would have given thousands of dollars to have had his place. We simply mention this fact to indicate that Doctor Nichols knows how to get well as well as give it. The facts he has collected and his interesting way of telling them will make his lectures here at the Chautauque one of the most eagerly looked forward to events of the season.

ndum in this instance will cost the State $150,000 for the printing and circulating of the Code among the voters, prior to the next general election. This is two and a half times the total amount of the salaries to be paid all of the heads of departments under the Code.
Fourth, the principle of administration involved in the Code has been adopted by at least three other states, and several more states have made provision for its enactment at an early date.
Fifth, the Code represented an expression of the majority of the people and it had a right to be given a trial before it was held up. Had this been done, it could have been passed with the emergency because I wanted the three months succeeding as a period in which to organize the departments under the Code. Nor did it ever occur to me that any political party or machine would have the temerity to use the referendum as a means of enabling a very small majority, headed by a clique of political reactionaries and obstructionists, to defeat a majority expression of the people.
Sixth, it was upon my request to the legislature that the Code was not passed with the emergency because I wanted the three months succeeding as a period in which to organize the departments under the Code. Nor did it ever occur to me that any political party or machine would have the temerity to use the referendum as a means of enabling a very small majority, headed by a clique of political reactionaries and obstructionists, to defeat a majority expression of the people.
Seventh, I want the people to know that a referendum against the Code will suspend the operation of the legislation bearing upon business organization of the state's administrative machinery. Much legislation that was passed with the emergency administration under the Code will have been seriously hampered and in some instances defeated entirely, and legislation which would have enabled the state administration to investigate and control poisoning will have been suspended.
Eighth, I think this referendum petition in connection with the one against the ratification of the federal historical amendment to the federal constitution, simply indicates to the people of the state that the old, wet machine which they thought they put out of business at the last general election, is still very much alive, and is exerting a very dangerous influence in the state. I realize, of course, that many good citizens of Nebraska signed the referendum petition against the Code, not appreciating the pernicious influences that were back of it.

Ninth, if a referendum is filed against the Code, I shall feel that my hands are tied in giving the state an efficient business administration but my lips are not sealed against telling the people that if they want such an administration of the state's business, they must first be awake to the pernicious activities of the machine that has repeatedly thwarted the will of the people in the past; that has attempted on every hand to embarrass public officials who become in law, order and decency; and that in this instance has prostituted the referendum to a use for which it was never intended.
Tenth, it should be understood that the referendum petitions have been obtained at no small cost to someone. An organization has been maintained with offices in Lincoln and several professional petition circulators have been traveling throughout the state. Who is putting up the money? Does it seem probable that Nebraska's old, wet political machine would take such a selfish interest in the public welfare, or does it have some ulterior purpose to justify the campaign it now wages?—Samuel R. McDevitt, Governor.

deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is by an occasional remedy. Deafness is usually due to inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, it swells and shuts off the passage of air and when it is thus closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever, otherwise it is only a question of time before the deafness is permanent.
We have discovered a method by which deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by any other means can be cured for certain. We will send you circular free.
