The Fair Sex and the Battery.
"Leave it to a woman to take good care of a car" says J. A. Gurnon, the "Willard Service Station Dealer."
"I found out a long time ago that when the woman of the family drives and takes a real interest in a car, the car never looks better, but runs better too."
"Take the battery, for example. It is as hard to make the average man remember to top up in distilled water every two weeks as it would be to make him remember to water plants. But when a woman once understands that a battery needs water just as much as plants do, she's pretty sure to remember to put it in."
"Another thing that counts is this: a woman driver as a usual thing isn't satisfied unless her car works perfectly, and if her battery isn't up to the scratch she wants to know why. As a general rule she does what every car owner ought to do—and drives around to have us locate the trouble and put the battery in A-1 shape." a71ad

The Buick Model K-30-44

Buick Three-Passenger Roadster

THE BUICK Model K-Six-44 possesses marked advantages for the man or woman who wishes a car of limited passenger capacity, with an exceptionally roomy and comfortable driving compartment. This three-passenger model makes the most of these desirable features, without sacrificing one whit of the modish appearance that belongs to the type.

The body is distinctly a Buick creation, broadening out to accommodate a wide, deep seat for three, then curving in at the back to form a trim rear deck with a weatherproof carrying space for luggage.

The dimensions of the driving compartment insure easy entrance or exit from either side, with the control and brake levers well forward but within easy reach. The French plated upholstery is built for long wear and comfort.

Inclined windshield, handsome improved top of high grade material, side curtains that swing open with the doors.

Oils That Stand YOUR Tests

Owners of automobiles and tractors may differ in the terms they use to express their appreciation of American White and T. V. B. Motor Oils but their enthusiasm is always the same. The outstanding distinction of these strictly pure Pennsylvania oils is their readiness to serve ungrudgingly at all times regardless of the demands imposed upon them. Users find it unnecessary to lay up their motors for shop service. T. V. B. oils work so continuously and consistently under all conditions, that it has come to be known as THE OIL THAT ALWAYS WORKS. The unvarying satisfaction among T. V. B. users grows with the increased mileage of their cars and the better service rendered by their tractors. It is the basis of the significant statement—"Once a T. V. B. user, always a T. V. B. user."

HARTINGTON MAN WRITES

Judge Wilbur F. Bryant—Discusses Constitution and Courts.

Wilbur F. Bryant in the Hartington News:

The need of a new constitution for the state of Nebraska has been outlined by Wilbur F. Bryant, county judge of Cedar county. He points out the inadequacy of the constitution of 1873 which is still in force.

Judge Bryant's letter follows: Editor Cedar County News:

When this state was admitted to the union, she was, as she is now larger in physical extent, than Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. Her population numbered less than the present population of Lincoln. The state was railroaded into the union for purely political reasons, March 1, 1855. The author of our first constitution was William Kellogg, a breed-and-muster politician, whose only chance for immortal fame lies in the brief space he will occupy in the biography of Robert G. Ingersoll. Kellogg defeated Ingersoll for congress. Two years later Ingersoll's brother defeated Kellogg, and Kellogg was given a lame duck's job as governor. Kellogg bragged about this first forged constitution. We have succeeded under this thing for a longer period than the children of Israel are said to have wandered in the desert of Arabia Petra. It is our present constitution. It is a misnomer; it is a batch of miscrally legislation—not a constitution at all. A constitution is fundamental law, the foundation on which a state is built.

Prefers Short Constitution
I have before expressed myself with the opinion that the shorter our constitution the better, just so is efficient. Create the three departments of government—legislative, judicial and executive—make the governor and the lieutenant executive officers in the state. Leave the rest to the biennial legislature fresh from the people.

When the first constitution was adopted, Nebraska was simply a section in the track of the Union Pacific railroad. That corporation controlled the state. Ninety per cent of the inhabitants of Nebraska were either employees of that corporation or directly dependent on it for support. If a man paid his fare on the railroad it cost him 3 cents a mile to travel. Few could afford the luxury. A select few had free passes, and this select few made up the delegates to our state convention. Taxation and everything that the railroads were interested in were controlled by boards made up of certain state officers. Only two rose above servile mediocrity, and many of them in eastern state, whence they had come, would not have excused the attendance of a next-door neighbor. They had taken Greeley's advice, and gone west. Edward Rosewater and his cohorts of Spartans fought against railroad domination, but never until the advent of populism did the railroads get a check which forced them to change and which which they have not done since, and since then the republican party has been with populism.

But the constitution of 1873 was framed up by rail and influence. It was camouflaged with a lot of tommy-rot to give it the guise of a popular document.

Points Danger Today

But the great danger that threatens this state today is judicial despotism—judge worship. If it is not checked—and checked effectively—it will be worse than the excesses of the Exits of Gaul and Britain or the military caste of Germany. Under the appointive system, a judge may have gotten in on the basis of a bribe or other work; under the elective system he may have gotten by with a packed convention, where a nomination was tantamount to an election. Under the primary system he may have done more advertising than anyone else. Yet as soon as he gets upon the bench, a halo begins to sprout above his ears. If you criticize anything he says from the bench, some shallow skinned, sanctimonious Pharisee will shake his head with dolorous look and groan out: "The country is going to wreck if we lose respect for the judiciary." Courts have come to doing the work of the legislature. "Judicial legislation" has run into a proverb. Courts have taken it on themselves to mandamus the executive department of the government. By a majority of one, the supreme court of the United States declared a law of long standing unconstitutional. The supreme court of Missouri punished a man for contempt for commenting adversely on one of their decisions after the case was closed. There might be ground for punishing public comment when the case was pending. But the other thing savors too much of the expression attributed to Augustine of Hippo: "Roma locuta, causa finita." When he has spoken, the case is finished. Most of the judges of our state and federal courts are men of mediocrity and not specially learned in the law. There is nothing about any of them that calls for incense or holy candles. A lawyer in his argument before a court is stimulated by professional pride, the interest of his client and the prospect of a big fee. The judges sit in silent dignity. When both sides are through, he has the last guess; and the judge who writes the opinion takes the brief of the successful counsel, turns it from the alternative to the dogmatic and it appears as the very learned opinion of Judge So-and-so.

Power Assumed by Courts
Now this power which courts have assumed—without expressed grant in the constitution—to declare a law enacted by the legislative branch and approved by the executive, unconstitutional, is something that should not be lodged in our next constitutional convention, but should be expressly defined by the constitution. I have said heretofore in public print that if the people are capable of adopting a constitution by a plebiscite, they are qualified to construe that constitution by plebiscite. Hence that a recall of a decision declaring a law unconstitutional is not illogical. I am of the same opinion still. But it is, nevertheless, impracticable. A much better method would be to keep the courts elective, as they are now, give the court of last resort the right to pass on the constitutionality of a law, but require a unanimous decision to declare that law unconstitutional.

I wrote a little book nearly 30 years ago in which I pointed out the trend toward judicial despotism. The book went through three editions. I got more abuse for that book than for any act of my life. I am of the same opinion now that I was when I wrote that book; and I expect to continue in the same frame of mind until the day of my death. The idea that the president of the United States, the only officer that the constitution requires to take an oath to preserve, protect and defend that constitution, must meekly bow to the ipse dixit of a judge created by himself and the senate of the United States, is such an absurdity that its simple statement ought to be its refutation. If anyone thinks a recall would be better than the argument of William M. Everts at the trial of the impeachment of Andrew Johnson; to a checker in Bishop's First Book of Law, and to a dissenting opinion by a late chief justice of Pennsylvania. Any person writing to me will receive a prompt reply as to the book and page where these can be found. Otherwise I don't care to turn this letter into a court brief.

I most sincerely hope the people of the state are not going to be scared by the bugaboo of socialism or the howl of Socialism. The legislature: Everybody in the state has got a right to representation in that constitutional convention, and a right to respectful hearing. The people who are doing the most howling wouldn't know socialism if they met it on the road; and couldn't tell enough about the National League to put for putting them on the rack. The fundamental of Marxian socialism is economic determinism, and that is absolutely correct. Whether we are obliged to follow socialism in all its moods

The Good Natured Elephant.

New-York-Sun—Mr. Taft's suggested reservations may not be objected to, but his covering letters to Chairman Hays are sure to give offense. The former president was never noted for finess. And his present kindly offer will irresistibly recall that of the good natured elephant to sit on the eggs of the worried hen and hatch them out for her.

Mr. Taft.

Lincoln Journal: It can be truthfully said of William H. Taft that he never loses his sense of proportion. He thinks and writes intelligently and instructively. He has command of his reasoning faculties. Senators can afford to pay attention to what he says and act in accordance with his instructions.

Senatorial Courtesy.
Columbus Dispatch: Senator La Follette ought to have a pretty good opinion of senatorial courtesy, for without it he would not be writing M. C. after his name now.

Notice of Probate of Foreign Will. To the heirs, creditors, and all persons interested in the estate of George W. Hudspeth, deceased.

You are hereby notified that on the 1st day of August, 1919, J. H. Spahr filed his petition in the County Court of Wayne County, Nebraska, praying for the probate of a certain instrument now on file in said court purporting to be an authenticated copy of the last will and testament and the probate thereof of George W. Hudspeth, deceased. Said petition recites that said deceased died in the month of April, 1887, at his residence in the Parish of St. Landry, State of Louisiana, and died seized of the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter and south half of the northeast quarter, all in Section 28, Township 27, North, Range 1, East of the 6th P. M., in Wayne county, Nebraska. Said petitioner alleges that he is now the owner of and in the possession of the Southeast Quarter of said Northeast Quarter and the East Half of the West Half of said Northeast Quarter of said Section 28. Petitioner prays that said instrument may be proved, probated and allowed as and the last will and testament of said George W. Hudspeth, deceased, and that regular administration of said estate be dispensed with and that a decree be entered finding that the said decedent is free from all debts, claims and demands against said estate and that said estate and the property of which said decedent died seized be assigned under the provisions of said will as of the date of the death of said decedent so far as the same may operate upon it, and petitioner prays such relief and further relief and orders as may be just and proper.

Hearing will be had on said petition before me at the county court room in the City of Wayne, Nebraska, on the 30th day of August, 1919, at 9 o'clock A. M., when all persons interested in said estate, both creditors and heirs, may appear at said time and place and show cause why said instrument should not be proved and admitted to probate as the last will and testament of said decedent and show cause why decree should not be made and entered in said cause as prayed in said petition.

To Improve Your Digestion.

"For years my digestion was so poor that I could only eat the lightest foods. I tried everything that I heard of to get relief, but not until about a year ago when I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and got a bottle of them did I find the right treatment. Since taking them my digestion is fine."—Mrs. Blanche Bowers, Indiana, Pa.—adv.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From Wayne Herald, Aug. 7, 1912.

Miss Anna Gamble visited in Union the latter part of last week. Gilbert French arrived here from Fairfax, S. D., Friday and will remain several days.

Mrs. Theo. Duerig returned home Tuesday from her visit with relatives in Wisconsin.

H. C. Heckert of St. Louis, visited a few days last week with his brother, Dr. T. B., in Wayne.

Ed Raymond returned home Sunday from an extended visit in the west. He reports a most delightful trip.

Misses Hallett and Mary Bardwell of Lincoln have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weber the past week.

F. M. Keegan has built a handsome porch around the front of his residence, which very much improves its appearance.

Quite a number of Wayne people went to Laurel today to attend the M. W. A. picnic. More are expected to go tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Weber entertained a party of young friends Tuesday evening in honor of Eugene Brookings of Tekamah.

So as cutting and threshing harvest is about over, Threshing has already begun and the grain is turning out exceptionally well and of a good quality.

Jas. Harmon returned home Sunday from his western trip. He is of the opinion that he will be able to secure a large quantity of hay on the court house square.

Wednesday evening at the home of C. R. Welden, at 9:30 o'clock, took place the wedding of John C. Harmer of this city to Miss Loretta Phillips, of Cape Girardeau, Mo.

From the Ponca Journal, August 7, 1919:

We trust that our poet laureate, Mr. Rockwell, will soon again favor us by versifying the wedding of the same and furnish the same to the many lovers of good poetry.

The small tornado which came along last week did some little harm. It knocked over an enormous cottonwood tree near the river, in which the bees had a deposit of honey of about one hundred pounds.

Only one man in Clay county, Dakota Territory, was able to wage a successful war on the grasshoppers and save his wheat. He did it in this manner. The first prodder a long rope and hitched a horse at each end of it, then for about a week and during the "hopper raid," he drove the horses up and down his fields, and the rope kept the "hoppers" in a very lively and agitated condition. They did not have time to eat the wheat, hence he saved it. All his neighbors' fields were destroyed.

In Dakota county there are sixteen candidates for the office of sheriff. In Dixon county we have heard no one spoken of yet excepting our present sheriff, E. H. Jones. Mr. Jones is so faithful an officer and personally so highly esteemed as a man, that we believe nine-tenths of the citizens of the county will be pleased to see him re-elected this fall.

A. F. Hines, who resides in the southern part of the county in the Logan valley, was burned out last Friday. His house was consumed, as were all his furniture and household goods excepting two beds. The fire was occasioned by his little boy playing with some matches. One of the highest matches in the large pile of papers; and in a few moments the house and its contents were wrapt in flames. Mr. Hines has not at home at the time. We have not heard the value of the property destroyed.

TRAVELING MAN GAINS 20 POUNDS

Crull Eats What He Wants and Sleeps Like a Lion Since Taking Tanlac.

"My opinion of Tanlac is that it can't be beat," said F. H. Crull, a well known traveling salesman, living at 312 West 31st street, Indianapolis, Ind., while discussing the medicine recently. Mr. Crull has lived in Indianapolis for the past twenty years. He has represented the Taggart Baking Company on Chamberlain's Tablets advertised from its use," continued Mr. Crull. "A little over a year ago I got rid of a bad case of stomach trouble, from which I had been suffering for two years, by taking Tanlac, and do you know I haven't suffered a particle from indigestion to this day. I had been suffering a world of trouble with my stomach and awful pains in my right side and was finally operated on for appendicitis. After the operation I still suffered with indigestion. I had no appetite and what little I did eat would sour causing gas, flatulence and intense pain. I looked like I would never get my strength back and I was as nervous as a cat. Many a night while out on the road I could not close my eyes for sleep. This condition kept up until I went down to one hundred and thirty

The Most Welcome Tire That Ever Came to Market

Men Who Appreciate Superlative Values Prefer The Brunswick

In every great tire factory, the chief question is: "How much can we give for the money?" And the product depends on the policy adopted.

Every man who has become acquainted with Brunswick Tires knows that Brunswick standards are again evident. This famous concern—noted as a leader in every line it entered since 1845—has once more proved that its policy is right.

A perfect tire is simply a matter of knowledge and standards and skill. No secrets nor patents prevent making an ideal tire.

But standards come first. For in tire making there is vast room for skimping, for subtle economies, for hidden shortcomings. Makers without the highest standards don't build high-grade tires.

The Brunswick organization of tire makers includes a brilliant staff of technical experts. Not a man among them has spent less than 20 years in handling rubber.

Each is a master of his craft. And the new ideas they bring to the attention of Brunswick directors receive sincere consideration.

Every proved betterment is adopted unanimously.

The Brunswick Tire is a combination of acknowledged features—plus Brunswick standards of manufacture.

The result is a super-tire, the like of which you have never known before. The kind of a tire you will gladly join in welcoming.

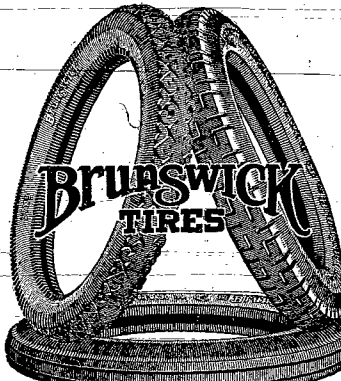

Yet Brunswicks cost no more than like-type tires.

Try ONE Brunswick. We promise a surprise. And we feel certain that you will want ALL Brunswicks.

Then good tires will have a new meaning to you.

Well, the first bottle helped me so much that I got another and it wasn't but a few weeks until I was free from all signs of stomach trouble and found that I had actually gained twenty pounds in weight, besides, going up from one hundred and thirty to one hundred and fifty pounds. I could go out and do a hard day's work and sleep like a log at night, and it made no difference whether I was at a hotel, on the road for twelve years and is one of the most popular "Knights of the Grip" traveling Indians. ### COST OF LIVING ASCENDS Necessities Higher Than During War—Comparisons.

Norfolk Daily News: The cost of 1919 necessities has advanced 20 to 100 per cent during the last year and promises are made by retailers of still further leaps in the prices of many of the great food staples. And while the common people are complaining and wondering what is coming next they find by comparing notes that the increase is already around 200 per cent in some commodities as compared with pre-war prices. Now that the war is over, the ever many questions are asked by the consumers as to why the cost of living is increasing instead of dropping.

The retail grocer in Norfolk says he is not "passing the buck," some of them admit that prices are too high, while others say it's the grocer's fault. Some of them merely say they "don't know," and point to some failures in the grocery business. The meat dealer says the packer and partly the consumer who demands fancy cuts of meat. The wholesalers blame the producers and while this "buck" is being passed on the common people blame them all and foot the bill.

At the Norfolk grocery stores will show the large increase in prices and with a break ago. Most housewives know that without any special trip. They meet the rapidly perplexing problem every day and they are being told today that increases are coming by leaps and bounds on all staple commodities.

Sugar Is Going Up.

Now that the canning time is here and the dealers promise higher prices for fruit, sugar jumps to $11 and $11.25 per sack. It is sold over the counter at 11 cents a pound as compared with 10 cents a year ago and 6 cents in 1914. The reason given for this boost is that the government has recently taken the restriction off the price and that sugar is being exported in great quantities to Europe.

Producers are selling at substantially the same as it was a year ago, $3.45 for a 30-pound sack. This in the face of a great wheat crop is anything but a reduction. And back in 1914 a dollar bill would have bought a sack of flour.

Dealers admit that a great upward slant had its beginning within the last two months. Since the restriction was lifted, they say prices have started climbing and the future is so uncertain that they are unable to guess at where they will stop. The following comparative table will give an idea of how high prices of foodstuffs are soaring:

Coffee	1914	1918	now
Tea	40	60	70
Rice	123	15	18
Lard	25	30	45

Package Goods Go Up.

Cornmeal which used to sell at 10 cents for a four-ounce package sells now at 15 cents. Crackers have jumped from 10 to 25 cents while cookies which sold for 10 cents per dozen sell for 20 cents. There is no hope of ever getting back the nickel loaf of bread and a 15-cent loaf has now made its appearance.

The canned goods retail market is perplexing. Those consumers who thought it would be just as cheap to buy the canned product as to put up themselves will feel badly when they learn that canned peaches which sold for 25 and 30 cents in 1914 and for 45 and 60 cents a year ago, call for 45 and 60 cents. No satisfactory explanation is given for this increase. Canned corn has touched the 25 cent mark and is referred to as "steady." Beans of the old-time 12 1/2-cent variety sell for 25 cents, while a slight decrease is reported by one grocer who canned tomatoes. These sold for 15 cents in 1914; 35 cents in 1918 and now are offered for 25 cents.

More Gardeners Needed.

Getting down to fresh fruit and vegetables, retailers blame the high prices as compared with Omaha to the gardeners who they declare ask high prices and bring in small quantities. Shrinkage and loss demand a slight profit. Tomatoes are expected to drop soon to 2 1/2 cents per pound. Corn too is expected to go down, but when it is necessary to pay growers 20 cents per dozen for corn, the 25 cents per dozen is declared not too high. More gardeners are needed, the retailers say. Some of them declare a city market would bring no relief because experience shows that gardeners never bring in enough to supply the retail trade.

Harnessmakers have their high prices too. Leather which cost 45 to 50 cents per pound in 1914 is now costing $1 per pound. Two months ago this same leather was selling for 78 cents a pound. Lasting leather which used to cost 16 cents is now selling for $1 per foot. Increases in prices of chains, buckles, snaps and other harness-making supplies range from 100 to 200 per cent.

LAUREL LETS CONTRACT Paving of Business Street to Be Finished by December 1.

Laurel Advocate: The contract for the paving of the business streets was let by the village board Thursday evening. The Western States Construction company of Omaha was the successful bidder. This was the only one that came under the estimate made by the engineer.

The contract price is $410 per square yard, and the paving will be of vitrified brick, three inches thick over an inch of sand on five inches of concrete. Working will be 90 cents per lineal foot, and combined curb and gutter 95 cents per lineal foot; extra grading 60 cents per cubic yard.

The work is to be completed by the first of December, and it is expected that it will begin about the middle of August.

Vitrified brick is acknowledged to be the best paving and is said to be far the easiest and cheapest to repair. That being the case, it looks like it will be the cheapest in the long run.

It will only be a few years until a man will not get a great deal of the residence portion of the town will be paved. Well, let it come! Laurel wishes to keep well in advance.

More paving is being done in the smaller towns this year than ever before—and Laurel is right up to the front in this matter, in northern Nebraska, if not in the entire state.

THE ANNUAL TOURNAMENT

Golf Meeting at Norfolk August 19, 20 and 21 Promising.

Norfolk, Neb., Aug. 7.—Three big flights are on the program this year for the annual tournament of the Northeast Nebraska Golf association, to be held at the Norfolk country club course, August 19, 20 and 21.

The tournament this year is open to all amateurs and players (over 18) of the state are expected to participate in the big events. With this idea in view the committee at the country club is giving the final touches to the already excellent course and by the time the big matches begin the green will be better than ever before in the history of the Norfolk club. Word to this effect is being sent out to all country clubs which are being urged to send their players to Norfolk for the big tournament.

The entry books for the tournament have already been opened and amateur golfists are requested to send in their names and other information to William Recker, professional at Norfolk club, who has charge of the entry list. All communications regarding the coming event are to be addressed to Mr. Recker who has a strong working committee which has the success of the annual tournament in mind. The entries close Monday, August 12.

Besides the golf matches, the usual entertainments at the country club are planned by another committee for the visiting players. A dancing party and a big banquet are among the features for this entertainment.

With the program for the three big flights completed, present and former champions are beginning practice. Golden O'Neill, who is the present champion of the association, is reported to be ready to come to Norfolk to defend his title. George Davis, the runner-up, is also said to be in good form and will try his hand in the big match. George B. Christoph, who won the first championship, declares he, too, will endeavor to capture the promoter trophy during the tournament. Other amateur experts have developed since last year, and with the opening of the play to all amateurs, the committee expects to see some of the fastest golf ever played on the Norfolk course.

The tournament program calls for three flights—the championship, president's and secretary's matches. The qualifying round begins on Tuesday, August 19, and consists of an eighteen-hole test. On the same day a nine-hole medal match is scheduled for the non-qualifiers. Wednesday morning, August 20, is slated as the time for the first round—in all flights—consisting of an eighteen-hole match. The second round in all flights, eighteen holes, takes place Wednesday afternoon. The first round in the eighteen-hole consolation event takes place about the same time.

The semi-finals in all flights take place Thursday morning and the finals go on during Thursday afternoon.

Honey and Peanut Butter

Here is a simple substitute for dairy butter that all children like and grownups, too, who like peanut candy. Mix about equal parts in bulk of peanut butter and extracted honey. (This can be done before meals and served as dairy butter, or can be mixed on the plate as required.) Spread on bread as one would dairy butter... The flavor of this mixture is simply great and at the same time constitutes one of the most healthful foods one can eat. Children just love it.

I am now able to announce that honey prices for the present will be twenty-five cents per pound for heavy-bodied, light colored, well ripened, mild flavored sweet clover, extracted honey. Containers will be charged for extra excepting the sixty pound tins, which will be free with each sale of sixty pounds of honey.

Wm. Assenheimer

ALTONA, NEBRASKA

Prof. J. G. W. Lewis interviewed Lincoln Journal, August 1; Prof. J. G. W. Lewis of Wayne, was in the city yesterday and had the following to say concerning the constitutional convention: "The things that most need emphasis just now relative to the coming constitutional convention, are the type of work to be done, the type of men best fitted to do it. The work is to be that of suggesting material improvements in the fundamental law of the state under which people of all opinions and occupations must somehow live together. "This is not to be attained simply by having different classes of men in the convention pitted against each other in a sort of balance of power. The work calls for a concert of the best powers that can be concentrated upon it. It is presently a matter of establishing correct relationships. Each delegate should be able to contribute something to this general cooperative effort, and should be broad-minded enough to see things in relation. These it would seem should be better tests of qualification than membership in any college or non-voting power in the convention. "Fears are expressed in many quarters that this is not a good time to make changes in a constitution because of existing spirit of radicalism. On the contrary it may confidently be stated that the people as a whole will probably be found too conservative to support some of the most needed constitutional changes. As for the radicals, they probably are less radical now than they will be two years hence if now denied a hearing."

STATE UNIT TO ORGANIZE

Society of 355th Infantry of Nebraska is to be Formed.

The "Society of the 355th Infantry," an organization formed by the active members who remained with the regiment during its stay in the army of occupation, while stationed at Saarburg, Germany, has opened headquarters in Lincoln, Nebraska, preparatory to opening the membership campaign for men who belonged at one time or another, but who left the regiment before they had the opportunity of becoming a member of the permanent organization.

Every man who served honorably at any time with the 355th Infantry is eligible to membership and is invited to get in touch with the headquarters. More than a thousand members were enrolled at the first series of meetings in Germany after which word was being delayed on account of the movement home of the Eighty-ninth division.

The society is preparing now to publish for its members a complete roster of all men who were with the regiment at any time as well as list of casualties and the reprinted history of the division and regiment as published in Germany. It is intended to hold the first convention this fall—probably in Lincoln, Omaha or Kansas City on or about November 11, the exact place and date to be made public later, and it is hoped and expected that a large majority of the active thousand men enrolled under the name of the 355th at one time or another will come to the convention, and that cannot be kept alive without some such thing.

Earl M. Cline of Nebraska City, formerly captain of the regiment, was chosen first president when the society was formed in Germany. Charles W. Hill of Kavenna, mess sergeant with F Company, was made vice president and Carlisle L. Jones of Lincoln, Corporal of Headquarters Company, was made secretary and treasurer. The first series of applications for membership or information may be addressed. Membership fee for the first year, which includes the program and program is preparing, is a dollar with provision that the yearly dues may be any thing adopted at the convention.

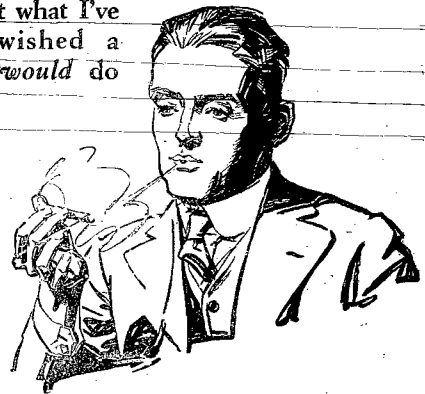

This is of particular interest to Nebraska men because the 355th Infantry was the largest single unit known as a Nebraska unit that reached active service. It suffered the heaviest casualties of any regiment of the division and was generally in the thick of things and known there as the Nebraska Infantry. All members from all states are included in the society and several hundred men and officers from the other states are already enrolled, but it is hoped that for Nebraska the regiment may come to mean what favorite regiments have been to other states in previous wars. To this end it is especially desired that all Nebraska men once identified with the 355th Infantry get in touch with the permanent organization this summer.

Men from Wayne or in the neighborhood of Wayne who are already members of this society and who can give information concerning its formation in Europe and the good it is hoped to do, include: Hans C. J. Graverholt, Wayne, Neb.; James Hakmen, Carroll, Neb.; Leonard Bok, Carroll, Neb.

Trade and Trouble.
Sixth City Journal: Last week was a medley of peculiarities in trade and commerce in industrial circles. The summer's high point remained above that of the average, though elements little short of sensational entered into a situation. Interest centered around the agitation concerning high prices, which reached an acute stage when demands for higher wages were made by railroad employes. The fact that both the executive and legislative departments of the government began energetic efforts to find and remedy the trouble, caused business to pause in anticipation of a collapse in prices and a readjustment of business to a new level. One disconcerting element in the agitation is the uncertainty where the blow will fall or how severe it will be. All agitation is general, no one being able to point out a certain course or to find a place where the remedy might be applied. The proposition to reduce the amount of currency in circulation had its effect in money circles. While banks and banking institutions certain no fear of a panic should this plan be adopted, they conceded that its threat would result in restricted business, money seeking the security of the vault rather than the insecurity of investment. The alternative course of raising railway employes' wages with an equalizing increase in freight rates, struck trade a hard blow. If this plan is adopted, higher prices are inevitable, because the extra freight must be added to the cost of the commodity to the consumer, and instead of a fall in prices resulting, it is fairly clear that another raise will come should the president's plan be adopted.

The basic lines of industry, including iron, steel, lumber and coal, held firm through the week, but agricultural elements suffered a slump. Corn fell several cents and the government plan of selling wheat at

Lalley

Light and Power

Saved Lives in France

Specifications: Over-all Dimensions—Length 31 1/2 inches, Width 15 1/2 inches, Height 22 1/2 inches, Net weight 312 pounds

During the year 1918 more than 12,000 farmers preferred Lalley Electric Light and Power for its very positive savings.

The Government selected Lalley Light to do a very different kind of work in France; but it chose this plant for that very same efficiency which saves time, saves money, and saves labor on the farm.

in our army hospitals in France, Lalley Light saved good American lives by furnishing a strong, steady flow of electricity for the X-Ray machines and unfailing light for difficult and delicate operations

Private Irving H. Taylor, U. S. Army Ambulance Service, writing from France in 1918, said:

"The other night I ran into a Lalley plant at an evacuation hospital, turning out current for operating rooms and X-Ray equipment. I was told that for 48 hours straight, the Lalley had been purring away helping save the lives of Uncle Sam's men."

Lalley Light served on submarine chasers, at naval coast stations, in cantonments, in Liberty Loan campaigns.

J. W. Hoopes, executive manager of the Federal Reserve Bank, Dallas, Texas, writes:

"The service rendered by the two Lalley Light plants on War Relief Trains, Units 1 and 2, which have just finished a tour of the Elvetham district on behalf of the Fourth Liberty Loan, was all that could be desired."

"The big city plants could not have given us better service."

But that was not all.

On more than 12,000 farms during the busy, high-tension producing season of 1918—Lalley Light was saving the labor of men.

It was releasing men to fight, or serve in some other way.

It was helping to increase the production of food. It was saving money that was loaned to the Government.

It is going right on with these savings to its users—it will do the same for you.

Now is the time to see the Lalley Light plant—at our store or on your farm.

Asks Demonstration.

Washington, D. C., August 4.—At the telegraphed request of Governor Allen of Kansas, the United States department of agriculture has agreed to demonstrate in Kansas the government wheat grading methods. They will work in cooperation with the Kansas state grain inspection department and under the joint direction of that department and the federal grain supervisors' office at Kansas City.

"We are offering no criticism of the federal standards for wheat but merely seeking to have them administered as accurately as possible," said Governor Allen, who also expressed the opinion that grading demonstrations are needed "while the state is becoming acquainted with the new grading rules and while there is so much wheat of uncertain grade." Governor Allen also suggested that the federal grain supervisors should visit as many local shipping points as possible to check the grading of the farmers' wheat, to explain to buyers and farmers the correct methods of grading under the new rules.

Annual crop conditions due to weather have increased the importance of a correct knowledge of the factors entering into the grading of Kansas wheat. Grain grading demonstrations already have been held by the department's bureau of markets this year in Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Oregon, Washington and Idaho. Others have been planned in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and Montana. The following men have been assigned to the emergency work in Kansas:

E. L. Morris, division supervisor, Kansas City, Mo.; R. D. Jarboe, grain supervisor, Kansas City; H. C. English, grain sampler, Kansas City; J. R. Mathewson, grain supervisor, Minneapolis, Minn.; J. H. Edwards, grain supervisor, Chicago; J. H. Frazer, assistant grain supervisor, Chicago.

That farmers may better understand the relation of the grain grading work of the bureau of markets to the operations of the United States grain corporation, the department of agriculture makes the following explanation:

Increased Importance of Grading. The special importance of a correct understanding of the grading of grain according to federal standards at local points is the result of the recent instructions of the United States grain corporation and the contract to be entered into by the United States Grain corporation and the local interior dealer or miller, as provided in both contracts, that "The dealer in buying wheat from the producer shall purchase on the proper grade and dockage, under federal standards, and shall pay therefor not less than the guaranteed price based on such proper grade and dockage, at the terminal most advantageously reached, less freight, and a less reasonable handling margin."

Therefore, since the grading of grain correctly according to the federal grades reflects on the proper price schedule at the local points, it is important that the local buyer be fully informed as to the requirements of the official standards, in order that he may correctly apply the grades, and that the farmer be properly informed as to the grade he is to receive for his grain.

Under the contract between the United States Grain corporation has required the proper application of the federal grades at country points and has made administrative provisions for the settlement of disputes between the farmer and the farmer. This emphasizes the importance of the farmer and country dealer's intelligent observance of the inspection of the grain. The grade standards also apply to wheat which is sold, offered for sale or consigned for sale and shipped or delivered for shipment in interstate or foreign commerce by grade; generally speaking, the grading of grain by local wheat buyers throughout the United States does not vary under the specific jurisdiction of authority of the department of agriculture. Consequently the work of the department's supervisors in this connection will be purely educational.

The contract between the grain dealer and the United States Grain corporation provides that "The dealer shall keep a record showing all purchases from the producer, name of the seller, date, quantity, grade and dockage according to the purchase and the reasons for fixing the grade under No. 1, including test weight; and on all parcels of wheat on which there is a dispute, as to grade and dockage or price between the dealer and the producer at the time of delivery, a notation thereon shall be made on the record of the dealer and a sample shall be drawn by the producer and the dealer, and forwarded in a proper container to the vice-president of the grain corporation, the zone in which the purchase is made, for his use in the determination of the dispute." The determination of the vice-president shall be final and conclusive, unless an appeal from such determination be filed within ten days with the United States grain corporation, either the producer or dealer. In case of appeal, the decision of the United States wheat director shall be final and conclusive.

Purchasing and Grading in Different Hands.

Matters relating to the purchase and sale of wheat are handled by the United States Grain corporation. Where the inspection and grading involves the settlement on a load of wheat purchased by a local dealer from a farmer, any information desired should be directed either to the vice-president of the United States Grain corporation, located in the zone in which the purchase is made, or should be addressed to the United States wheat director, 42 Broadway, New York City. If a farmer or dealer, however, desires information to enable him to determine how the federal grades should be applied, he can secure this by visiting or writing any office of federal grain supervision or the department of agriculture at Washington, D. C., or by submitting a sample to the nearest licensed grain inspector to receive an official sample inspection on that sample. Licensed inspectors are not permitted by the department of agriculture, however, to receive an official sample of grain unless the sample be taken under the supervision of, or by the inspector himself. Therefore, the grade would apply to the sample only. The grade may or may not be representative of the entire load from which the sample was taken.

In cases of dispute as to the correct grade or dockage, under the rules of the grain corporation, the grain dealer and the farmer may agree on a sample as being representative of the load in question and submit this sample, together with all the facts relating to the transaction, to the vice-president of the grain corporation in the zone in which the transaction takes place for determination of the question.

Railroad Problem Pressing.
 The Department of Agriculture employs for increase being paid to stimulate consideration of the situation of the transportation industry. For many months the industry has been the object of a rather lackadaisical interest, the fact that the control is in the hands of the government, and that the industry is in a declining condition being met from the public coffers serving to deaden concern as to their predicament. But the fact remains that the industry is in a declining condition. According to Mr. Wilson's message of last December, in less than five months the railroads are expected to be in a declining condition. What will happen then?
 It is not enough that an increase in rates is proposed as temporary expedient to meet the payment of higher wages to employees. Business must be on a better basis than has existed since the government took hold of the railroads. It is estimated that much of the disturbance is incident to the war, but the urgent demand of the government for service is now over, and the work of readjustment should be well under way. This does not appear to have started.

 This is the most serious phase of the domestic problem of reconstruction. The wage question is merely incidental to the greater task of restoring the industry to its efficient serviceability, to renew public confidence in railroads as property in which to invest, and to provide the immense supply of capital that will be required to re-establish the several systems under their corporate ownership. The answer will have to be found within the next few months.
 The prosperity of the entire country is wrapped up closer than ever in the transportation industry. So far the requirements of government ownership has proved extremely expensive as well as inefficient. Unless the utmost care and wisdom are employed, the return of the roads is apt to prove more expensive and disturbing than their seizure.

One Extra Bushel of Corn Per Head

Is About All it Takes to Insure Your Hogs Against Loss by Death

in the American Live Stock Insurance Company

This means that for the approximate cost of one bushel of corn more than it ordinarily takes to raise a hog, your profit is guaranteed, even though the hog dies.

You carry insurance on your buildings, your implements and your crops. Why not on your hogs?

- The hog is the quickest money producer of any farm animal.
- The hog has lifted more farm mortgages than any other farm production.
- The hog has bought more farms than any other farm production.
- The hog has done more for the producer than any other single, and many combined products.

Yet you are much more liable to lose your hogs through disease than you are in danger of losing your buildings, implements or crops by fire or storm. One epidemic may take the profits of an entire season.

Packing Houses Don't Pay for Dead Hogs

The American Live Stock Insurance Company forms the connecting link between the farm and the packing house. It makes certain that your hogs will either be raised and marketed or that you will receive adequate compensation should they die from any cause.

It puts hog raising on a sure footing. You can't lose—you're bound to make a profit.

You depend on your battery many times each day

The battery in your automobile must be able to deliver instantly that swift thrust of power that spins your engine into action, and starts you off with a business-like "zip". It must do this many times a day, and in addition it must supply current for your ignition and for your lamps.
 In a word, a big part of your motoring efficiency and satisfaction is absolutely dependent on the way your battery does its work. And to get this work done as it should be done you must have a battery that can be depended on.

AGRICULTURE NOTES.

Barbery Fight to Go On.
There will be no cessation in the long campaign of the United States Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the States, against the barbery until all of the obnoxious bushes are dug up. Recent information from Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, and other sections where the barbery has been reported is to the effect that it is growing wild at a number of points. All the field men of the United States Department of Agriculture engaged in the campaign recently met at Ames, Iowa. Reports were made on the work of locating and eradicating barbery bushes from all sections of the 13 States interested, which include Ohio, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, Illinois, Wyoming, Indiana, Colorado and Montana.

Power Bulls But Better Ones.
How a bull association transformed a community with 18 nondescript bulls into a community with one-third that number of good pure-bred sires from high producing ancestors is explained by an extension worker of the dairy division, United States Department of Agriculture.
When a bull association was started in a community in Webster County, Mo., the best bull in the community became a standard for the bulls selected by the bull association. All of the new bulls, then, are as good or better than the best bull that was in the community before.

Before the bull association was organized the 18 bulls in the community were valued at $1,355, an average of $75.28. One or two of these bulls were pure breeds and the rest were large bulky and awkward, of mixed dairy and beef breeding. After the association was formed these nondescripts were disposed of and six pure-bred dairy bulls were purchased at a total cost of $1,657, an average of $276 an animal.
The more efficient utilization of the association bulls resulting from organization of the association made it possible for the six pure-bred bulls to take the place of the 18 bulls formerly maintained. The reduction in the number of bulls also resulted in a corresponding reduction in the cost of maintenance to be charged to each cow.
The improvement in the quality of the bulls seemed to have a marked effect on the class of cows kept in the herds, and in less than one year after the association was formed the number of pure-bred females in the community increased from two in July, 1918, to 42 the following June. The large amount of good which resulted from the transformation of a scrub-bull community into a community of good pure-bred sires is an agricultural improvement that is parallel, especially when it is considered that this change was made with an expenditure of only $10 more per farmer, and that the use of good sires will result in a lasting improvement to dairy cattle of the community.
