GMC Model 16 3-4 Ton Truck

The latest addition to the GMC line of Motor Trucks is the Model 16, successor to the Model 15, 3-4-ton capacity.

Experience has proved that there is a big field for a real, substantial 3-4-ton truck. A substantial truck of this capacity, such as the GMC is, can, perhaps be more nearly called a general purpose truck than any other one capacity.

In most cases this truck exactly fits the needs of the farmer. By reason of pneumatic tires and flexible springs it is capable of much greater speed than heavier trucks.

The GMC Model 15 made a great reputation, but the Model 16 has many improvements over its predecessor.

It has been the policy of the General Motors Truck Company to build the best trucks it knew how to build and then make the price as low as is consistent with the high-quality and a fair margin of profit.

Since any manufacturing business to be successful must make satisfied customers and must depend on repeat orders, it has seemed to be the part of wisdom to adopt the foregoing policy, rather than to pre-determine a price and then build a truck to sell at that price.

my name!" And that is why I'm sadder than any mourner, far; it stings like an adder, this guessing who you are.

HOT ENOUGH.

"Is it hot enough for you?" It's a silly, silly question, and it makes me sad and blue, and it gives me indigestion. I could stand the sizzling heat, and look pleasant in my sorrow, looking forward to some sleep, or a snowstorm on the morrow. I can take the cheerful view till some jay comes up inquiring, "Is it hot enough for you?" when with heat I am exasperated. Then my rage, I scarce can quell, and my ire I scarce can bridle, and I feel my lesson swell with emotions homicidal. Commonly I'm meek and mild, yearning for a life of quiet, but this question drives me wild, and I gladly had a riot. Commonly I sing and smile, but this query, vain and brutal, always seems to stir my bile, makes me feel that peace is futile. Lately in the heat I strew till I hear some fellow asking, "Is it hot enough for you?" Then I crave my patient husband. Then my war-paint I put on, green and crimson, blue and yellow, and I strew the sun-struck lawn with the fragments of that fellow. It is hot enough for me; all my organs melt together; I'd be swinish, you'll agree, if I asked for butter weather.

FEAR OF EVIL.

"Oh, today is bright and sunny, it is happy, to the core: I have fifty cents in money and a standoff at the store. My old auto, with its tank full, chugs along to beat the band; I have reason to be thankful—blessings on our great nation—when I think of tomorrow as I loaf around today, and I'm wondering what sorrow will come snoooping down my way. It is the nature of our critics to be gazing out ahead, betting on a dose of bitters, figuring on grief and dread. Oftentimes I sit and wonder why Dame Fortune made us so, why we cannot tear asunder from presentiments of woe. We are thinking of the wedding, when Lucretia marries Mike, of the rough and rocky sledding that the bride and groom must strike. And we think, when you are dancing, with a light fantastic heel, of the time when they'll be prancing to the soup-house for a meal. In oft bright Eldorado, where the tan-hours gayly thrum, we are thinking of the shadow of the evil days to come. When the joyous music quickens, we can hear the prophetic cry, "Eat and drink and raise the dickens, for tomorrow you must die." Always there's the dread of evil to disturb the human soul: in the wheat there is the weevil, in the doughnut there's the hole.

STUNG.

The grocer overcharged two cents last evening in his tinhorn store, and he may raise some loud taunts, but I shall go there no more. Most any man may sting me once, but that one instance should suffice; methinks it is like a first class dance to let the same man sting me twice. "I'll pardon any man's mistakes, if there's no guile within his heart; but when he makes malicious breaks, I say, 'Farewell! We twain must part!' You classed me with the easy jays, you hung the hoof sign on my brow, because we've our divers ways, companions—once, but strangers now." My trade the greener soon will miss; I bought large quantities of muskrat, and his bosom filled with bills, raked in my hard-earned picayunes. The giant swindler may arrive, and sting me sore no more, but I shall keep my stocks in blocks of five, and I admire him for his gall. The polisher-graffer may appear, with every snooty, but I shall make my own bed, and leave me broke, or pretty near, and I respect him for his nerve. I smile when highly gifted cents get all over my coin, I know no more, but I'm stung for seven cents I walk the floor and tear my hair.

THE SUMMER OPTIMIST.

If man's an optimist these days, when this old world seems all ablaze, if he can gaily sing and smile, he is an optimist worth while. There is no trick in being gay upon a spring or autumn day, when gentle breezes rip along, and birds put up a gladsome song, and nature seems to strain a throb to bring all pleasant things in view. When man's mood is so good, the cuds of which obscure his chin, but when the sun rays scorch your pelt, and all your innards seems to melt; when after days of making you weep, you go to bed and cannot sleep, and get up at the break of dawn, all in, worn out and spent and gone, methinks it is another thing to beam around and smile and sing. I've never seen a sunshine glow who shine in summer worth a cent. I know a lot of Sunny Jimms who prance around on boy's limbs at other seasons of the year, but they all wilt when summer's here. When they break out with prickly heat, their words no more are honey sweet; when they're pestered by the flies, they hang us out no maxims worth the aid of the rest of mortal men; they cuss and rant, and cuss again.

UNCLE WALT THE POET PHILOSOPHER

AN OLD TRUTH.
 When I'd impart a moral lesson I spring it many times; and so there's sameness. I'm confessin', in these uplifting rhymes. The same old tale must be repeated in life and catch and rime, of my intent would be defeated—for men forget so soon. These repetitions will not hurt you if they should call to mind some good old time substantial virtue you have left behind. It seems to me all men are wasting their coin they all unfold, with merry steps I see them hastening along the porchouse road. A year or two, when war was raging, we saluted wealth away; and talked with faces worn and aging, about the rainy day. But when the healthy war was over, with all its stress and din, we were springing on putting coin in brine. We're spending cash like drunken sailors, our oars a disgrace; and some day we shall all be walters down at the walling place. Now is the time, while money's plenty, to make your assets thrive; and out of every hard-earned twenty you ought to save a five.

A SMALL WORLD.
 I'm resting in the mountains, where countless people come, to sit beside the fountains and swallow Adam's popu. From regions superheated they come to see the snow, and every day I'm greeted by friends of long ago. All day, like Southey's Kaspar, I'm sitting in the sun; and every hour some jasper comes to me on the run. "I'll bet you cannot name me!" exclaims the cheery wight; and, oddish, who can blame me, if he is guessing right? For I have known a legion whose names I can't recall; and in this mountain region I seem to meet them all.—"Your face is quite familiar," I murmur, through my hat; "your name is Hicks or Hillier, or some blamed thing like that." All day I'm guessing, guessing, who this or that one is, and find it most distressing, and often sigh, "Gee whiz. It fills me with dejection that friends come from afar, and I've no recollection of who the dere they are. But I have known a million, and they're all coming here; and now it's Jane and Lilian, and now it's Vere de Vere. They all seem fond of larking, and they have but one game; they all come up remarking, "You cannot guess

The governor has issued a proclamation calling attention to labor day, next Monday. People who have looked all summer may well observe the day by going to work.

President Wilson plans a speaking tour to impress the people with his position on the peace treaty. But it will be no use for him to try to convince middle-west farmers that he was right in regard to the daylight saving law.

Consistent with the prevailing upward tendency of prices, it is said undertakers, cemetery keepers and monument makers state that the cost of dying will go still higher. Therefore if any one is planning to die soon, he will not make anything by putting it off.

Wayne promises to be the liveliest spot on the map in north-east Nebraska during the next few years when the streets will be paved and an increased number of private improvements will be made. We expect to see Wayne pushed up to the standard to which it has long been entitled.

Now the coal miners are behind a movement for the government to buy the mines, turn them over to the men for operation, reduce their working day to six hours and their working week to five days. This should also allow the government to guarantee salaries and make good any deficits. In succeeding consumers and taking care of savings, the government would of course be expected to keep its hands off. What group will be next to want private control of government ownership?

National prohibition becomes effective January 17 and a report from Washington says the president contemplates lifting the wartime ban on liquor October 1 to enable distillers and others to meet financial obligations before the traffic is entirely wiped out. With national prohibition assured, why tempt and entice the public for three months? Cultivating the liquor habit by lifting the lid would only make effective prohibition harder when it comes. There could not enough to be permanently prevented under penalty of law would seem too bad to be legalized for a brief time.

If we had no pride, no ambition, no energy and no hope, we might as well give up the optimistic tendency which would have the government absorb private enterprise and then turn operation over to the exclusive advantage of a group without capital and without experience in proprietorship or in assuming large responsibilities. This way of doing would remove the premium hitherto offered on ambition, initiative, superior industry and skill and other elements of special merit. There would be no spur to high mental or physical attainments. Central thought would be fewer hours rest, work, more pay, and strife to avoid doing more than the other fellow. Will the farmers sell their farms to the government to be owned by those who never own or rented farms?

MORE PRODUCTION VITAL.
A report from a commercial source, under date of August 19, argues that the high cost of living is wholly a question of production and consumption, influenced largely by a popular state of mind. Increased consumption without increased production, the latter due to curtailed working hours and reduction of effort, stimulates prices.

The report urges increased production rather than decreased consumption as a solution of the problem. In conclusion the report says: "The cost of living is more a religious question than an economic one." Its solution awaits a religious revival rather than the passage of more legislation or the adoption of a new industrial order such as the Socialists, the Bolsheviks, or the I. W. W.'s demand. Until the hearts of men are changed, we should be better off under feudalism than at present; with the hearts of men right, we can get on well under any system. Hence, I should be no better off under feudalism with the thermometer either by changing the scale or by putting our thumb on the bulb. We should go down cellar and put more fuel on the furnace. This means going into the forest and cut more wood, mind the heat and produce more of everything.

"How can we increase production? First, let me say there can be no such thing as too much production, or over-production, or vided all is properly distributed and labor is properly proportioned among the different industries. There could be an over production of pepper, or even of sugar; but it will be many, many years before there could be an over-production of foodstuffs in general, while I cannot imagine a time when there could be an over-production of good homes and comforts. We need not fear over-production. What we must fear is that too many people will lose their jobs by being over-consumed and will not be able to buy their share of good things. In other words, the problem is to get everybody to producing something useful. We can't do this by merely stating economic facts. We must make it a moral issue.

"The abolition of slavery was never accomplished by an argument of economics, but when the majority of people were made to feel that slavery was wrong, it was abolished. When the majority of people were made to feel that drinking was wrong and were named to be seen in a saloon, we got prohibition. In the same way, when the people are educated to regard with contempt the non-producer or the man who curtails his production, we shall strike at the rat tap of the high cost of living!"

Usual Car Shortage.

Omaha Bee: The following statement was authorized yesterday by Omaha office of the United States railroad administration:

"Another shortage of freight cars is in prospect for the coming fall and winter. Instead of the surplus of equipment to be found on nearly all railroads at the present time before the after-the-war business revival set in, very piece of equipment now is in use on many lines and only by handling by the railroads with consistent and whole-hearted co-operation" from the shipping public can prevent serious interference with business.

"Federal managers have been called upon by the railroad administration to utilize every car to the fullest possible extent, and particularly to see that cars are set in motion promptly upon being loaded or unloaded."

"Shippers are asked to lend a hand both by reducing detention of cars to a minimum, and by careful and speedy loading and unloading. The best possible service may be had from each car. From a purely selfish business standpoint, of course, it is to the interest of the individual shipper and receiver of freight to do his part toward minimizing the effects of a car shortage from which he will suffer along with the public generally."

New Autumn Suits

Too much emphasis cannot be given the high quality of our suits
$35.00 to $85.00

To achieve such distinction and varied style and not depart from the simplicity that continues to govern Lady Fashion denotes the finest art of tailoring, and you'll view it skillfully incorporated in our suits for fall.

It may be only the placing of buttons, the line or curve of a collar, a seam that has some novel treatment, but each provides the happy impression of newness and something different that is sought by all women.

We particularly ask you to examine these suits this week. Next Monday we will start sending garments out on the road for our sales. Our stock of suits especially, will not be so complete again this season as it is right now.

This Store Will Protect You

against further advances on coffee

If you supply is getting low let us look you for 25 or 50 pounds. You can't go wrong. The market is rising up every day and our big supply places us in a position to sell coffee at less than replacement prices. Do not delay as the market is more critical than at any time in the past. Coffee is a staple item in most homes and a 20 percent saving should encourage an enterprising business. The saving in buying coffee in quantities is an exclusive service of this store. We have hundreds of satisfied patrons throughout the community and at this time it is very important that every family have a six months' supply of coffee. All our coffee is well aged before roasting, that the cup value may be the best. Exchanging your eggs for a supply of coffee is just the same as receiving a 10c premium on your eggs.

The coffee situation is entirely in the hands of the Brazilian government and to counterbalance the excess prices paid for American goods they must have further advances for their coffee, so best advice says. To buy your coffee in bulk and forget fancy tin cans and labels will reduce the H. C. L. 20c per pound on coffee.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES

Wayne Herald, Aug. 28, 1902: A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Rundell, Tuesday, August 26, 1902.
Judge Hunter issued a license to wed to George Honey and Maggie Peters of Carroll.
The basement of J. P. Gaertner's new building has been cemented and is to be used for a barber shop soon.

Terwilliger Brothers, George and Alex, have purchased the hardware business of E. F. Olmsted and will take possession January 1.
Herman Mildner is excavating for the basement of his new brick building which is to be eighty feet long and twenty-five feet wide.
Ed. Lundberg, formerly superintendent of Wayne county, was instructor at the first county teachers' institute held at Tekamah.

U. S. G. Young, marshal of Carroll, was quite badly beaten by two or three men last Saturday night, attempting to arrest a disorderly man.
A heavy rain storm last Sunday night and Monday morning did a great deal of damage to crops in shock, and a once bright prospect was marred.
At a business meeting of the old settlers' picnic the following officers were elected: James Britton, president; P. F. Corbit, vice-president; B. F. Peaslee, secretary; and A. J. Ferguson, treasurer.

Miss Jessie Tucker pleasantly entertained a few friends at a "candy party." A most enjoyable time was had by her guests, those present being Miss Jeanette Perry, Miss Faye Britain and Miss Queen Meller, and Messrs. Clyde Wierlwin, Cunningham, Willis and Spears.
A heavy hail storm in the southeast part of the county did a great deal of damage to crops, and in fact, in some places it will be worth very little except for feed. The hail was 30 yards and thick that it covered the ground the next morning to a depth of two inches and birds and rabbits were found killed.

From Ponca Journal, August 31, 1919:
James Jeffrey of South-creek was in town on Tuesday. He states that his orchard will have a fine lot of apples this fall—probably 15 or 20 bushels.
On Monday afternoon J. L. Hynes' team ran away. They ran down East street on the sidewalk with a wag engaged to their heels. When they had come as far as this office they became entangled in some shade trees and were thrown into a heap. The harness and wagon were about ruined and the horses were badly cut and bruised.

The teachers' institute commenced in this place on Monday, and will be in session until this (Friday) evening. The following named teachers were its attendees:
W. Schram, Saddle Gallagher, Hezie Cavanaugh, Maggie McKinley, Cassie McKinley, Maggie Gaulting, Lena Fazio, Flora Hoskinson, O. E. Martin, Gerie Jenkens, Marion Rodgers, Della Meeker, Katie Clark, Della F. Doremus, John Sides, E. A. Taylor, M. K. Give Me a Friendly, Natural Hand-shake

an' a friendly natural tobacco. Keep yo' put-on airs an' 'sauced-up' tobaccos for the fellow that likes nut sundaes better than home made pie.

So says a friend of ours named Velvet Joe. And he just about hits the nail on the head.

Velvet is made for men who think there's no smoke like real tobacco. If you are that sort of man, listen:

Velvet was born in old Kentucky, where more than one good thing comes from. It was raised as carefully as any other Kentucky thoroughbred. But the real secret of Velvet's friendly qualities is its slow natural ageing in wooden hogsheads. Ageing in the wood never hurt anything—and least of all, tobacco.

And so we say, Velvet is good tobacco—nothing more or less. It runs second to none.

The picture of the pipe on the tin needn't keep you from rolling a jim-dandy cigarette with Velvet.

Cure for Dysentery. While I was in Ashland, Kans., a gentleman ordered me smoking of Chamberlain's Colic and Rheumatism Remedy," writes William Whitehead, of Des Moines, Iowa. He told me in detail of what it had done for his family, but more especially his daughter who was lying at the point of death with a violent attack of dysentery, and had been given up by the family physician. Some of his neighbors advised him to give Chamberlain's Colic and Rheumatism Remedy, which he did, and fully believe that by doing so saved the life of his child. He stated that he had also used this remedy himself with equally gratifying results."

Royalty and the Republic.

Chicago Tribune. We are threatened with a visitation of royalties. The prince of Wales is on the doorstep. The king and queen of Belgium are said to be planning an American tour. The royal entourage. We hope not. We do not crave their condescending inspection. This is not a nation of princes and of princely obligations. The moral obligation is exactly opposite. Royalty in every form is abhorrent to our people. It is a mark of prestige and of the spirit of feudalism. There are no royal prerogatives for it to be the natural recognition of democratic symbols. It is a mark of the aristocracy's repugnant to democracy. Inevitably there will be curiosity about the kings and princes; pages of fiction and type are devoted to it so is the royal appetite for sensation aroused by the trivial employments of the latest divorcee. It is a mark of the aristocracy. It is to see the prince and the king. But would they have one?

To Be Encouraged.

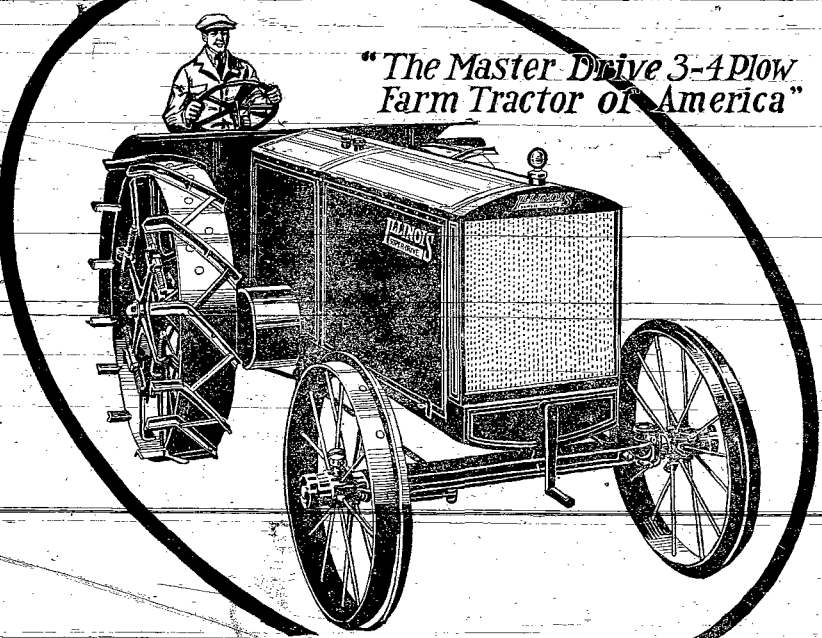

St. Paul Pioneer Press. Encourage Mr. Armour to try a few shoes as possible. If leather is scarce, a few shoes bought by those who can get along without them the more there will be for those who must have them and the cheaper the price.

Sioux Falls Argus-Leader. First Chief Curran is to be met as a non entity as a ruler. He is the poorest apology for a president a republic ever had. (Laramie)

TO USE COURSE OF STUDY.

Supt. J. R. Armstrong Has Arranged Course for City School.

(Contributed) In visiting the high school building this week the attention of the writer was attracted by piles of manuscript upon the desk of Superintendent J. R. Armstrong. On inquiry he learned that the superintendent had spent the greater part of the summer in preparing a detailed course of study for the use of the teachers of all grades. Minute instructions based upon the text in the schools and with blank pages for suggestions of the teachers to be added during the school year will thus be placed in the hands of each teacher. The exhaustive nature of the work required the visitor and he spent some time in examining it with the result that he came away with confidence that the instructions as to the grades in the Wayne public schools this year will have every assistance that thoughtful oversight and previous preparation by the head of the schools can give her. Not more than a half dozen of the schools of Nebraska and those only the larger ones are supported on the same plan of study as Wayne. One is impressed that school supervision requires an expert and that no town board has seen one in Mr. Armstrong.

Business Reaction. Sioux City Journal: Weekly bank clearings of $56,918,182 for the week ending August 21, 1919, for the previous week is one of the signs of the shrinkage of business because of the disturbing elements which have prevailed for the last three weeks. A shrinkage of almost 14 per cent is not an insignificant thing. No one has been able to forecast subsequent disturbances, and threats of still others which will add to these disturbances are sufficient reason for a business man to be a contraction rather than an expansion of business volume. There are other influences in trade and commerce which are equally potent and which may result in a further contraction everywhere.

There has been a marked shrinkage in the volume of business in hides and leather; in textiles and hardware. While there is still activity in fitting orders already placed, there are no indications of an attempt to reach out for new business. Whether this hesitancy is due to the fact that prices have advanced the conservative views of buyers, or whether it is realized that the agitation for lower prices will have a substantial effect and that those caught with stocks for which they paid high prices in the past will lose the difference between their cost and the new level, cannot be determined from the survey of business of the last seven days. In fact, it is impossible to separate one influence from the other, because each produces the same result.

The contracted volume is not localized, but spreads over the entire country. The return to English exchange rates induced a spirit of caution in foreign trade which is blended with local influences in producing the pessimistic outlook of the week.

To Manufacture Phonographs. Frank Gaertner has been making pilgrimages to Omaha recently and last week went down to Omaha and Lincoln to conclude arrangements for the organization of a phonograph manufacturing concern. Mr. Gaertner and eight other furniture dealers are back of this enterprise and they plan to have their first machines on the market by January 1. No name as yet has been selected for the new machine.

SCHOOL OPENS ON MONDAY

Building Renovated and Otherwise Improved For Use. The Wayne schools will open Monday, September 1. The school administration feels that the Wayne schools will open this year under very favorable conditions. The building has been thoroughly cleaned out and finished and the floors have been treated with a wax preparation that is both sanitary and healthy. The windows have been refitted and made almost airtight by the modern zinc-metal-strip method of fitting windows. A course of study has been worked out for the grades and the departmental plan of teaching has been adopted for the seventh, eighth and ninth grades of the junior high school. A Room Library has been placed in each grade, and a number of excellent books have been secured. These books have been selected and so labeled that by the time the child enters the high school he should be acquainted with the heroes of all ages with his neighbors in foreign lands with the many beautiful folk lore stories that are his by right of inheritance. With the birds, plants and animals of the world and with that great body of literature that has been slowly accumulated since before the dawn of history.

The securing of good teachers this year has been very difficult, but we believe that Wayne will begin the year's work with an excellent corps of teachers. With the heavy co-operation of the parents, who have children in school, we feel that this should be one of the best years in the history of the school. If trouble should come your way, be a talker (with the superintendent) not a knocker. Help us to make the new teachers feel that they are one of us, that you appreciate their work, that you are interested in them, and in what they are doing for your children.

Mr. Truman's Business Visit
"Chicago people have nothing on our own folks right here in Wayne," says W. A. Truman of Wayne Cleaning & Dye Works, who has just returned from a business trip to the metropolis on Lake Michigan. "This talk about Chicago being far ahead of the smaller communities, such as Wayne, is all bunk."
"Chicago people are no better dressed nor more prosperous and certainly do not enjoy life as we do in Wayne. While my trip has been valuable to me from a business standpoint, I am glad to be back here and appreciate Wayne all the more, since I had an opportunity of comparing it with more metropolitan centers."
While in Chicago, Mr. Truman made a thorough investigation of the clothing situation and has this warning to make.
"Anyone who is contemplating buying a suit of clothes or a new overcoat had better do so at once. This is frank advice. I feel it my duty to offer because of the serious shortage of woolsens and other factors that will make still further increases in clothing prices inevitable. The woolen men tell me that blue serge is almost impossible to obtain now and next season there will be 30 shades of any like fabric. The output of most of the woolen houses is already sold. Many customers are being turned down everyday."
"Until this tremendous demand for clothing is met the same conditions will prevail, and if our people are contemplating buying any clothes, it is to their interest to do so at once."
While in Chicago, Mr. Truman got some advance information of what styles will be during Fall and Winter. He says there will be a great variety of styles, with the waistcoat continuing in popularity and double breasted, slash pocket and belted models also represented.

For Discharged Soldiers.
Under an opinion of the attorney general recently rendered to the United States soldiers, sailors, and marines who missed opportunity to enter civil service examinations because of their military or naval service, may now be given a chance to qualify for government employment.

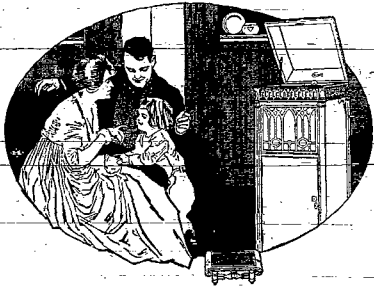

The civil service commission, wishing to give discharged service men every opportunity to qualify for civil positions, asked the attorney general for an opinion as to whether it would be legal to open for the benefit of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors, and marines, examinations which had been closed. The attorney general having expressed the opinion that such action is legal in view of the spirit of a recent act of congress which provides for preference in appointment to civil positions for discharged soldiers, sailors, and marines, the civil service commission will open only to honorably discharged service men examinations which were pending on April 6, 1917, the date of America's declaration of war, which were subsequently announced, and for which registers of eligibles now exist.

Sixty days from August 1, 1919, will be allowed soldiers, sailors, and marines in which to be examined for positions for which examinations have already been held if they were discharged from the military or naval service prior to August 1, and sixty days from the date of their discharge will be allowed those discharged subsequent to August 1, 1919.

For All the Family

The love of music is probably born in us, but musical taste is a thing to be cultivated. Our likes and dislikes are just as personal and just as pronounced as our choice of friends. Every family represents a variety of tastes. Each member deserves to have his musical tastes considered and they can be when you have an Edison in the home, as we have records of all kinds from which each one may select his share of the family library of Re-Creations.

The New Edison is not an imitation, but a re-creation, so complete and satisfying that it is utterly impossible to distinguish the artist's voice from the instrument's.

No matter where you live, you and the children can have the same musical advantages that you would possess if you could take them to New York for the opera season.

The Old and the New

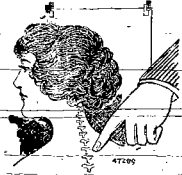

Who would wish to go back to the old days of the tallow candle, the horse street car, the farm plow drawn by a yoke of oxen, the days when the telephone and telegraph were unknown, the days when the only way of locomotion, especially in the west, was a primitive schooner? We talk about the "good old days," but very few would wish to do without the modern conveniences of the Twentieth Century. Why not keep pace with the times and, instead of clinging to the "Indian Medicine Man" superstition, investigate the DRUGLESS HEALTH SCIENCE OF CHIROPRACTY? An extended investigation will surprise you. Try this new method. Your chiropractor will be glad to give you any information you may desire upon the subject. Consultation and Spinal Analysis Free.

AGRICULTURE NOTES
Largest County Bond Issue.
 St. Louis county, Minn., by a vote of about 9 to 1, carried on July 1 a proposition for the issuance of road bonds to the amount of $7,500,000. This is the largest sum ever voted or set aside for road building by any county in the United States. The second largest was that of Dallas County, Texas, voted a few weeks ago of $6,500,000.

Meats Shipped Abroad.
 From July 1 to August 9 last, 15,114,077 pounds of fresh and frozen beef, 6,794,538 pounds of canned and pickled beef, 18,292 pounds of lamb and mutton, 5,153,832 pounds of fresh and frozen pork, and 49,677,417 pounds of hams, shoulders, and bacon. $5,281,142 pounds of lard and lard compound, 1,304,472 pounds of sausage, 57,007,129 pounds of salted and pickled pork, and 233,956 pounds of poultry and game were exported from New York to Belgium, Holland, and Sweden. In this period, also, 420 horses were exported to France and 126 head of cattle were shipped to Belgium, according to records of the United States department of agriculture.

Cholera Kills Fewer Hogs.
 According to records of the United States department of agriculture for the 13 months from April 1, 1918, to April 30, 1919, hog cholera killed 2,815,004 hogs, valued at $2,292,048,16, in the United States. This is the lowest loss ever recorded for a similar period in the live-stock history of the United States, but on account of the high price of hogs the monetary loss was heavy. For example, during the year ending March 31, 1913, hogs numbering 6,041,270 and worth $28,833,633 died of cholera, while the next year the disease took 6,304,320 hogs worth $87,697,461.

This total is made up of the actual expenditures for such items as labor, materials, supervision and administration directly connected with the construction, improvement, and upkeep of public roads and bridges outside the limits of incorporated towns and cities, and does not include any item for sinking fund payments or redemption and interest on road and bridge bonds.

The year 1918 offered an unprecedented condition in practically all lines of highway work. There was not only a tremendous increase and expansion in the amount of heavy truck traffic on public roads and an unprecedented shortage in regard to road materials, labor, and ready cash, but also a decided increase in maintenance work, which, however, partially offset by a decrease in the amount of new construction.

The Battle of Beatrice.
 Lincoln Trade Review: There was turmoil down at Beatrice last Saturday that will go down the line with the battle of Wadon a year ago. It was evidently staged for publicity purposes and it looks as though there would have been great disappointment if the fracas had not occurred. The non-partisan league paid employees, who kept their meeting in that city, they were not wanted and that no converts were to be made among business men whose work and labor of a lifetime non-partisan league doctrines would injure, if not destroy. How the provoked trouble that accompanied the meeting was played up by the socialist league promoters can be readily seen; just as they arrogantly demanded that the Conservative Club of this city make room for one of their speakers, expecting to be turned down as they ought to have been.

ed the production of two cuttings and the two more cuttings were to follow. He had carried the farm work through the season single handed and alone and was proud of it. His children were to go to the university and he would not take two hundred and fifty dollars an acre for his farm.

How many of the thousands of farmers of this kind in the state get column reports of their success compared with the publicity extended to those who are asking farmers to follow a man convicted of disloyalty to his government and whose doctrines would cast men into a personal machine the grist from which no one can foretell.

"Intoxication," according to William Mather Lewis, director of the savings division of the treasury department, in a statement appealing to 6,000,000 thrift and war-savings savers to check waste "through prevent-and-exempt-and-wise buying."

Mr. Lewis said that to lower the cost of living in New York "every-one must begin at once to curtail expenditures for luxuries" now selling at exorbitant prices. He declared the people themselves were to blame if prices of necessities rose because merchants observed the absolute carelessness with which people parted with their money.

"Millions of persons are not spending from their earnings, but from their savings of the past two years," said Mr. Lewis. "It is essential that we keep firm hold on the savings accumulated by purchase of war finance securities, not only as a matter of selfish benefit, but as a factor in bringing prices down."

WHY DON'T YOU WEAR KRYPTOK GLASSES?

Kryptok (pronounced Krip-tock) gives the convenience of Near and Far vision in one pair of glasses, without that irritating "crack" or seam. Not the slightest trace of a dividing line (between the lower part for Near seeing and the upper part of the lens for Far seeing) is visible.

Kryptok Glasses give to your eyes the natural perspective of youth—enabling you to see both near and far objects with equally keen vision. Yet they look like single-vision glasses because the lens is one solid clear piece. That's why they are universally called "The Invisible Bifocals."

In fact, "Kryptok" means "the hidden eye."

We duplicate any broken lenses.

Road-Building in Full Swing.
 Since early in 1919 there has been steady increase each month in the federal-aid business in the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture. States in all sections of the country are filling their projects and receiving all-aid. The road-building era is in full swing, and it would seem that the end is not yet. All indications point to greater records in the months immediately to come.

Based on complete reports from 44 of the states cash expenditures on the rural roads and bridges of the United States for the calendar year 1918 amounted to $286,098,193. To this should be added the value of statute and convict labor, which can not be fixed with any great degree of accuracy, but probably amounted to not less than $14,000,000, thus making the grand total expenditures for the year $300,000,000.

As reduced now by official publication, it is clear that the provoking cause for the breaking up of the meeting was the declaration on the part of one of the speakers, that fifty years from now Beatrice citizens would be making pilgrimages to the Townley shrine in North Dakota, searching for souvenirs of the town. When irans said that a man convicted of disloyalty by a jury of farmers in the court of Minnesota, would be canonized by patriotic citizens of Beatrice, naturally they were stirred to indignation and anger—citizens and especially returned soldiers. That the assertion did stir to anger and overt acts is not surprising. It was not a great needling and only inflammatory talk stirred trouble. There were not three per cent of the farmers of Gage county interested enough in the campaign of the socialists to attend the meeting.

Sunday we were at the home of a farmer a few miles out from Beatrice. He was changing work threatening with his neighbors Saturday and the sound of battle had not traveled the few miles out to his home. He rested Sunday preparatory to re-entring the battle on Monday.

He had in the bin the results of a good wheat crop awaiting sale. His seventy acres of corn were full of promise. Stacks of alfalfa showed Recruiting the Army. The "first hundred thousand" of the recruits asked for the permanent regular army have volunteered. This number was reached in the week ending August 9th and the rate of enlistment continues at over 4000 a week. In a little more than four months, nearly as many men have joined the colors as were in the regular army at the time of the mobilization on the Mexican border in 1916, 1917.

It is an interesting fact, that of the 100,000 recruits, over 68,000 are enlistees. Of these, nearly 35,000 saw service in France. In other words, nearly an average of five men to the hundred, of the 100,000 recruited since the recruiting drive began, have decided that the army offered them a worth while opportunity in further service. This secures to us a high rate of reenlistments from an emergency force in which the vast majority were in uniform only for the brief period of the war.

From every evidence obtainable, the recruits and reenlisted men seem an exceptionally high class. They have joined the army for the chance of betterment it has offered. The army is going to do its best to make them glad of their decision. The recruiting service, working now in all the demobilization camps and in fifty-six stations in the large cities, is relieving the men about to be discharged and those other men who have not yet worn the uniform, what the army orders in the way of educating, training and broadening opportunity. The figures show how successful the effort has been. The army will strive to the uttermost to justify that success.

Carnegie's Example.

W. F. M. in Chicago Pennsylvania died and left a fortune, but died possessed of millions more. He acquired all this because he did not spend his time attending mass meetings and shouting for a 36-hour week.

St. Paul Pioneer Press And now the last straw—a shortage of convict labor! But how easily that could be remedied if everybody were in jail who ought to be.

Miss Patterson Returns. Miss Patterson mentioned in the following from yesterday's Omaha Bee, is a granddaughter of Mrs. W. O. Gamble of Wayne: Miss Eugenie Patterson, daughter of D. C. Patterson, returned to Omaha Tuesday morning after two years spent with the Red Cross as a nurse in the Philippines, Siberia and Czechoslovakia. Two months ago she arrived in New York, and there, as she spoke the language of the Czechs and Slovaks, she was put in charge of the Way Camp Community center, where 100 men from that foreign land were being fitted with new limbs by the American Red Cross. Following her release she went to Chicago, where she visited her sister, Mrs. Livingston Fairbanks for five weeks.

While with the Red Cross Miss Patterson was stationed in many countries, thus having the opportunity to travel. She has visited in Russia, Japan, China, Egypt and Italy. At each place Miss Patterson was given leave to see objects which are of interest to the tourist.

Although Miss Patterson has just returned to Omaha, she has already made plans to continue in reconstruction work here. She has accepted by the Y. M. C. A. a short-time ago. At the present time it is not known whether or not women will be allowed to this work. If they are she may be called within a month.

Russ is Patterson is very enthusiastic over her work and plans to continue it indefinitely.

The Maxwell Truck Chassis

For two full years after the decision was made to manufacture the Maxwell truck, the chassis for its headquarters in the engineering department. Not a single one was sold to a private owner, nor a mile was driven except under the supervision of a Maxwell engineer. And when the final blue prints were turned over to the manufacturing department the instructions given for the manufacture of the first making order of trucks, the Maxwell chassis had undergone a series of tests that had crowded a lifetime of use and abuse into twenty-four months.

Use and abuse seems to be the lot of the average truck, for, unlike the average car, the truck is usually driven by someone who has little or no interest in it financially. So the problem of the engineers was not only to make the Maxwell truck capable of doing hard work, but to make it as immune to abuse as human ingenuity could do.

To begin with, the Maxwell truck cannot be driven more than twenty-five miles an hour.

The manifold construction will not allow any more fuel to be fed to the motor than is required for this speed. This is fast enough to give the snappiest kind of delivery service, but guards against abusing the mechanism by drivers who have the speeding instinct or who race the motor uselessly.

The motor and transmission form a unit—gear-shaft with three-point suspension.

The engine lubrication is provided by combination pump and splash system, with oil gauge on left side crank case. All valves are fully enclosed, the cylinders are cast in bloc, with detachable head, and crankcase integral with cylinders. The crankshaft is of exceptional strength, drop forged and heat treated, with large main bearings. The camshaft and cam are forged integrally from one piece of steel. There's a generator ignition system—with a 6 volt 80 ampere four storage battery.

The battery furnishes current for electric head and tail lamps and electric horn.

The gasoline feed is the simplest possible—pneumatic from the tank in the cowl from which the gasoline is piped directly to the carburetor.

The transmission is the selective sliding gear type, three speeds forward and one reverse. All gears and shafts are alloy steel, heat treated, with bronze and roller bearings on the shafts.

The clutch is a special one-way, asbestos-lined and running in oil—easy smooth and positive in engagement and requiring but little attention at any time.

The steering gear is the irreversible type, worn and gear, with good strong connections and a big steering wheel.

The frame is made of pressed steel, channel section, side members 4 7/16" wide, 3/16 inch gauge, supported with four heavy cross members.

The front axle is a heavy I-beam forging made in our own forge plant, heat treated, with Timken roller bearings in wheels.

The rear axle has an extra heavy malleable iron housing with Timken-David Brown worm drive. The factor of safety in this axle would warrant its use on the average three-ton truck.

And because it is fully enclosed there is nothing to be damaged by mud, water or other road matter getting into it. The propeller shaft has double universal and telescopic joints.

The brakes, both service and emergency, are internal expanding on the rear wheel brake drums, lined with heat-proof asbestos material and have a braking capacity of 77 square inches.

The wheels are steel truck wheels—wood artillery type—equipped with either solid or pneumatic tires, as preferred.

The springs are semi-elliptic, front and rear, firmly attached to the frame by stout bolts and shackles. The leaves are broad and thick, of finely tempered steel, especially designed for this truck.

The wheelbase is 124 inches, and the overhang at the back affords a loading space of four ten feet. In many cases, the loading space is what limits the capacity of the truck, unless the material handled is of unusually heavy nature, and the liberal loading space of the Maxwell truck puts it on a par with heavy trucks designed to carry a much heavier load.

The clear and free bed formed by the other frame members gives a wide latitude in the type of body to be selected for the truck, with the utmost economy of space.

Perfection's Price In Tire Building

A tire-maker's first problem is to decide how much he can give for the money. This, and every other question in tire building, depends upon policies.

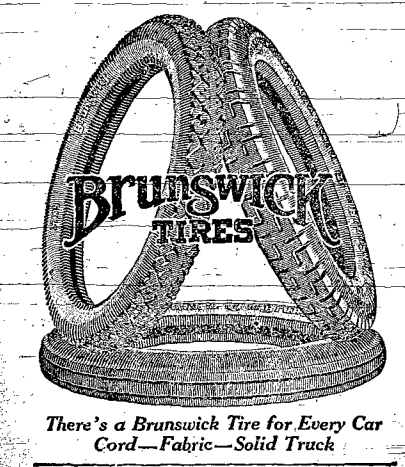

A super-tire, such as the Brunswick, can be made only by a concern which knows well and appreciates that there is nothing exclusive in the tire industry except high standards.

Since 1845 the House of Brunswick has held first place in every line it entered. Brunswick Tires, as more and more motorists come to know them, will certainly be awarded that coveted place held only by the super-tire.

Motors who buy one Brunswick usually adopt it for complete equipment. Yet this is not strange, since the first one so completely proves its superiority.

If the name of Brunswick certifies to you, as to most men, an extraordinary tire, at no higher price, would it not be good business to test one or two Brunswick Tires?

A Bilious Attack.

When you have a bilious attack your bowels fail to perform its functions. You become constipated. The food you eat ferments in the stomach instead of digesting. Potato Crop is Short. Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 23.—The commercial potato acreage in Nebraska is approximately 10 per cent less than last year and the condition 67 per cent compared to 94 per cent in 1918, according to a report made public here today by the United States bureau of crop estimates.

"Consequently," says the report, "the carlot movement may not exceed 2,700 cars compared to 5,000 cars last year."

Some poor rains, insects, drought, high temperatures and smaller acreage are held responsible for the lowered production.

The report, prepared by A. E. Anderson, field agent of the crop estimate bureau, says the late commercial potato crop in the United States as a whole promises a considerably smaller production than in 1918.

"Not only is the acreage less than last year but the condition in many of the states is very poor," it declares, adding that the prospects for a crop are better in the eastern than in the western states.

Of the condition of the crop in the central states the report says:

"The important potato producing state of Minnesota has a seven per cent increase in acreage and a good condition. Wisconsin has a condition of seventy-three per cent compared to ninety-three per cent a year ago, and Iowa per cent less acreage. Michigan expects a crop of 7,000,000 bushels compared to 8,400,000 bushels last year. North Dakota has a slightly larger acreage than last year but suffered a decline in condition during the past month due to drought, the condition being seventy per cent. The condition of the crop in South Dakota is seventy-four per cent compared to ninety-four per cent last year. The acreage is slightly larger. Iowa grows a small commercial acreage but has a condition of eighty per cent compared to seventy-eight per cent a year ago."

FARMER MOORE HAS GAINED 37 POUNDS. All Troubles Overcome by Taking Tanlac—Had Suffered Eight Years.

"I suffered for eight long years before I found a medicine that would do me any good, but since taking Tanlac I have gained exactly thirty-seven pounds, and all my troubles have been completely overcome," said John N. Moore, a well known and prosperous farmer who lives on R. F. D. No. 4, Empire, Neb., in Blomington the other day.

"When I commenced taking Tanlac," he continued, "I had reached the point where I could do any work at all, and was forced to hire a hand to take my place on the farm. I had suffered so much and so long with stomach trouble, I was just about down and out, so far as health and strength was concerned. During all these years my appetite was very poor and although I did manage to eat, would cause me worlds of suffering. Gas would burn on my stomach so bad that I could hardly get my breath, and I would have the worst sort of cramping spells. I finally got to where I could do almost nothing, until what I ate and what I did would actually get nauseated every time I looked at anything to eat. I had fallen off my feet and was in a condition that all my friends were talking about the awful condition I was in. I was very nervous all the time and I could hardly get my good night's sleep."

"I heard about Tanlac, then, and thought I would give it a trial. Well, sir, my friends and neighbors are talking differently now. They are asking me what in the world I have been taking to make such a big improvement in my condition, and it just does my heart good to tell them that Tanlac did it. It is wonderful the way I have gained in weight and strength. I can go to the field now and do as much hard work as any hand on the farm. My stomach seems to be in perfect condition, and I never feel indigestion, and am not bothered with gas forming after meals. I have the best appetite ever had in my life and am just anything I could eat. I am free from all that nervousness, too, and I sleep just like a boy every night. Tanlac has done all that for me, and I am as well and hearty now as I ever was in my life, and as long as I live I will pass the good word along to others who suffer as I did."

Tanlac is sold in Wayne. a281ad.

Harms, Jr.; Theo. Gerhardt, Lydia and Elizabeth Harms; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Harms; Mr. and Mrs. T. Egger of Bancroft; Miss Hannah Reuter and sister of Minnesota. Rev. and Mrs. Harms are expecting to leave for Iowa shortly.

"Watchful Waiting" in Discard. By Paul Emmer Press. Both the United States and Great Britain are now in fine strategic position to get Carranza where he gets off. It is probable the latter will find no attraction in the policy of "watchful waiting." England is not given to empty phrase-making.

False Prophets. - Sioux Falls Argus-Leader. And what has become of the man who predicted that prices would tumble when the war ended? Has he gone fishing with the man who thought there would be a tremendous influx of foreigners to this country at about the same time?

Blowing Off Steam. - Springfield, Mass., Republican. Just by way of preparation for a general election, Pernambuco province in Brazil is suffering severely in a general strike. The world has a good deal of surplus steam to blow off.

A Pathetic Situation. - Ohio State Journal. One rather pathetic little feature of our republicanizing campaign in Latin America is the sending to that our only really influential republican senators seem to be Wm. L. Tate, Charles Evans Hughes and John Root.
