War Risk Insurance

The Bureau of War Risk Insurance wishes to emphasize the importance to service men of one of the provisions of the War Risk Insurance Act upon the fulfillment of which may depend the validity of their claim to compensation under the act. The War Risk Insurance Act provides that "No compensation shall be payable for death or disability which does not occur prior to or within one year after discharge or resignation from the service, except that where, after a medical examination made pursuant to regulations, at the time of discharge or resignation from the service, or within such reasonable time thereafter, not exceeding one year, as may be allowed by regulations - a certificate has been obtained from the director in the effect that the injured person at the time of his discharge or resignation was suffering from injury likely to result in death or disability."

Many discharged men are not familiar with or are inclined to disregard this provision of law and are allowing their rights thereunder to lapse.

Request for the certificate mentioned above should be made to the Chief Medical Advisor, Bureau of War Risk Insurance, Washington, D. C.

BEES SHIPPED TO WAYNE

Wayne Men Raise Honey in Large Quantities For Market.

Last Friday witnessed the shipping in of one hundred colonies of bees for C. E. Carhart and Lambert Roe. The bees were bought at Columbus and distributed on several farms near Wayne. Mr. Carhart and Mr. Roe are interested in the wholesale raising of honey for market and each has several hundred colonies to winter.

Mr. Carhart will winter his colonies indoors in special underground receptacles with double walls which keep the temperature at 75 to 80 degrees. It is estimated that wintering indoors saves 15 pounds of honey per colony, it is less trouble and bees are less likely to be winter-killed. No bees were lost last winter by Mr. Carhart while using this method.

Both of these bee keepers expect to have several tons of extracted clover honey to ship to eastern markets next season.

BRANCH GETS NEW RAILS

Heavy Steel to Replace Light Variety on Bloomfield Line.

The M. & O. railway has a work train and gang of men at work, distributing new steel rails along the branch from here to Bloomfield. The work was started three miles west-of-the-217 and eleven miles of new rails are now in place. The rails have been distributed as far as Sholes.

The new rails are 80-pound and will displace the old ones, which were light 60-pound steel. Increased traffic on this road has made heavier engines a necessity and these must be supported by a heavy rail. A difference can be noted as soon as the heavy rails are struck, as they ride smoother.

The company expects to finish work as far as Bloomfield soon and then come back and put in the new rails between the station and the starting point. The heavier rails will be a real economy, as they will need less repairs.

Truck Buying Should be Done Carefully

YOU will want to decide on the proper size and type for your business; one which is fitted for the work. Then compare a high grade, well-constructed truck with a solid organization behind it. That's the kind of a truck you will see when you come to look at our GMC trucks.

A GMC Truck Will Serve You As—

- 1 A Money Saver: Though the cost of a high grade truck is greater in the beginning, in the long run, it is the best investment. It will require less repair shop attention and always be right there, when service is wanted. The company behind the GMC truck is strong and dependable with fully equipped factories where parts can be procured if necessary.
2 A Labor Saver: Last year on a farm near Hooper, Neb., it required thirteen teams to haul the wheat from the threshers seven and one-half miles. Two 14-ton GMC trucks, fitted with 90 bushel grain boxes, and one team did the job this year. Incidentally the wheat ran seven bushels more to the acre.
3 A Time Saver: A farmer, living seven miles from his shipping point, decided at noon one day to sell some hogs while the market was high. He loaded them into his GMC truck and shipped them on the three o'clock freight. Had he been hauling by wagon, he would have missed his chance.

WILD- INFLUENZA- RETURN?

Recalling Epidemic of Year ago, People Are Apprehensive.

(To the Wayne Herald.)
Recalling the disastrous epidemic of a year ago your people are asking this question: "Will influenza come again?"

A few words of encouragement, of reassurance and advice may be of benefit to many who are unduly alarmed and over-anxious.

According to eminent medical authority, influenza will undoubtedly appear again during this fall and winter. According to the same authority, the disease will be neither so universal nor so severe as was a year ago. Fear and worry have a depressing influence on the body, the same as does fatigue and loss of sleep. It diminishes greatly the body's power of resistance to disease. One of our most effectual means of defense against this or any disease is to maintain a hopeful and fearless attitude of mind. If we are constantly fearing and expecting and thinking of influenza, we are inviting its approach. Prophylaxis or prevention is the slogan of the medical profession of today. Then the logical thing to do is to use every possible means to prevent this disease, knowing of the liability of its coming.

Like the ordinary colds of winter, influenza is contracted and spread by the indoor life, by gathering in crowds, by breathing impure, germ-laden air. Therefore look out for proper ventilation. Raise the windows of the sleeping room even in severe weather and get out of dust, at least a part of each day—always with proper protection to the body in cold and damp weather. Avoid, as much as possible, during the prevalence of this or any epidemic, large gatherings unless there is the best of ventilation. One of the surest ways of catching cold or inviting sickness is undue exposure to the influence of combined coldness and moisture. Either of these conditions taken alone is not dangerous to health. A low temperature with dryness does not chill and depress as does the weather on a cold, wet day and yet how common it is to observe our girls and young women and even the older ones, who should know better, walking through mud and slush on a winter day with unsoled shoes, sans rubbers, sans overshoes, sans common sense. Such people are giving a most cordial invitation to an attack of sickness. Having in mind this particular disease, influenza—keep the nasal passages clean and sterile with the use of a mild antiseptic solution. Use the same precaution as to mouth and tonsils. There are antiseptics that accomplish the effect very—Raise the vitality of the body and its power of resistance to disease by a proper amount of sleep, regular food and regular exercise, body by suitable clothing, avoidance of worry and a clear conscience.

Many are asking what about immunization. It is different than the experience of a year ago has definitely proven that among thousands who received the vaccine treatment good results were obtained. There is no doubt that it reinforces the body's resisting power and that those who receive it are not injured in any way, by its use and are safer than those who fail to use it. Use all the precautions mentioned. Keep mind and body and conscience clean, and your strength aimed toward the temple of health and forget influenza.

TEACHERS HOLD MEETING
Enthusiastic and Helpful Session at Emerson October 11.

The eighteenth regular meeting of the Northwestern Educational Association was held in Emerson on Saturday, October 11, with an attendance of about three hundred. Six counties were represented at this session: Dixon, Burr, Cedar, Dakota, Wayne, and Thurston. Teachers of all sections, primary, grammar, high school, and rural were present and participated in the work and discussion with great enthusiasm.

The inspiration gained by talking over problems with others interested in the same type of work and the pleasure of meeting and knowing the other teachers of surrounding districts were felt by those who attended to be ample payment for the trip.

The general afternoon meeting the first address was delivered by G. Masters, principal of Central high school at Omaha. He discussed the problem of school control he brought out the idea that the responsibility must be put more upon the public, that the school must be made to see clearly what offends they have committed before being punished.

"The settlement of the problem of school control must be put up to the boys and girls themselves," said Mr. Masters.

Supt. H. H. Reimund of Tekamah spoke on the subject, "The Inspiration of Song." Mr. Reimund has had much success as a leader of community singing. He spoke of the influence of song on army life and the fact that so few Americans know their national airs. In an interesting manner he presented the history of "Dixie," "Home, Sweet Home," and "Loch Lomond," and

ROBBERS ASK REHEARING

Men Who Shot a Member of Posse at Laurel, Claim An Error.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 13.—Alleging that Harold Croxover, member of the sheriff's posse that pursued them after they had robbed a store at Laurel, was killed after they had committed the crime, and that his sentence to life by a district court judge was therefore in error, Francis and Parker, the convicted men, have appealed to the supreme court for a review and rehearsal of the case, when that tribunal meets October 20. The Nebraska statute holds that one who kills another while engaged in the commission of a crime is guilty of murder in the first degree. Francis and Parker allege that the store had been entered before Croxover met his death.

The Grand Island factory was first to start in the state this fall. Within ten days four factories in northwestern Nebraska are expected to be grinding.

Farm Lands Sold.
Winnebago, S. D., Oct. 13.—A big sale of farm lands took place Saturday in the sales pavilion. Twelve thousand acres were offered, comprising the lands of the Frank Iams estate and others. A large portion was sold at prices ranging from $50 to $150 per acre. The farms were located in Tripp, Todd and Mellette counties.

Several hundred buyers were here, most of them spent several days in the commission of crime preparatory to making bids.

Sugar Market.
Grand Island, Neb., Oct. 13.—The American Beet Sugar company plant at this place began grinding the latter part of the week and with the beet crop of this season a heavy one, it is estimated the factory will remain in operation for the next three months. So great is the demand for sugar that in twenty-four hours from the time the wheels began grinding the product was sacked and being shipped while still warm.

Miss Dorothy Brasier and Miss Fern Kahn, both formerly Wayne Normal students, furnished music for the sessions. Their offerings were much enjoyed and the association wishes to thank the young ladies for their co-operation.

In the sectional meetings held during the morning, each in charge of a chairman, the particular needs of each class were taken up. The keynote of the work in the primary section was "How. How to reduce the learning of numbers in the primary grades to a habit through practical use, how and where to study spelling, and how to give true educational seat work were the three subjects discussed.

Subjects discussed in the other sections were brought up with the same idea of finding practical solutions of the problems confronting teachers every day.

Bound to Diagnose
New York World: I am hopeful, says William Howard Taft, that the mild reservationists will stand together and that we will have a good party." The former president probably has observed, however, that there are some United States senators who will not stand together, whether it means the accomplishment of anything "good" or not.

A Practical Test.

Lincoln Journal: The labor conference meets while the steel strike grows stubbornly into its third week. Unless it can bring capital and labor nearer to common ground than that occupied by Judge Gary and that held by Mr. Gompers the conference will have little headway to its credit.

Seen Any of It?

Buffalo Commercial: There's so much gold and silver in the United States treasury now that the walls are said to be actually bulging out just as they do in cartoons. The news will pain the profiteers.

Popularizing the Farm.

Boston Transcript: If the law is going to permit the farmers to make as much as they like of hard cider for their own use, the "back-to-the-farm" movement may receive a vigorous boost from an unexpected quarter.

The Bible in the Movies.

Chicago Daily News: If the entire Bible ought to make the scriptures popular with a lot of people who know more about the achievements of Douglas Fairbanks than about the deeds of Samson.

Irrepressible Youth.

Omaha World-Herald: The irrepressible American boy even plays mob as he plays circus, and with kindred result.

B. L. T. in the Chicago Tribune: Baseball has many mysteries, not the least of which is ever how the loser in a world's series is managed to win a pennant.

HOLDUP MAN IS CAPTURED

Attempt to Rob Cash Register in Hardware Store Fails.

A daring attempt to rob the Frymire hardware store in Bloomfield was staged last Friday morning. A fellow entered the store at about 8:30 and began tinkering with the cash register. Mr. Frymire was in the back room of the store at the time and entering the grain part saw the intruder. The said intruder also saw Mr. Frymire and ducked down behind the counter, coming up with a pair of revolvers in his hands. It takes more than that to freeze "Bill," however, and he made a dash for the robber. A short struggle ensued and in the mix-up the robber managed to hit Mr. Frymire a rather severe jolt with one of the guns. This enabled him to make his getaway, which he did with neatness and dispatch, leaving a coat and hat as souvenirs of his visit. The alarm was given at once and posse were soon out scouring the country in search of him. Along with "one" of the posse, he rounded him up in a cornfield near the O'Donnell place west of town. Those in the posse were Dr. J. H.

Motion, T. H. McGrath and E. C. Prescott. He was brought to town and identified by Mr. Frymire as the fellow who had been concerned in the attempted robbery. He was then lodged in the village jail and in the afternoon County Attorney P. H. Peterson came up from Wausau. Owing to the fact that the local justice of the peace was out of the city, it was impossible to hold a preliminary hearing here and he was taken to Center and given a hearing before Judge Laird. We understand that he made a written confession in which he admitted that he entered the store with the intention of robbing the same. His trial, we understand, will come on at the next term of court. A coat little race, which however failed to work, was that he stole a hat from one place in town and a coat from another. He then hid his own hat and coat in an alley and after fleeing from the store put them on. By this he hoped to throw part of the tracks—thinking that the searcher would find a coat on the look-out for a man without a hat or coat on his nose in the lens of the law. He gave his name as William Fitzgerald and has been hanging around the town for a couple of weeks past.

WHAT THEY DO NEXT DOOR

News of Nearby Nebraska Towns From Our Exchanges.

Young Men Fined for Shooting.

Three young men of Randolph were arrested on Monday morning and three more brought before the justice court on the charge of using firearms within the city limits. For the past few weeks rifle-shooting had been going on about the town, resulting in damage to property and danger to citizens. The town determined to put a stop to it and a sentence of $1000 fine or 30 days in jail was imposed upon the boys. The judge cites this as a warning to others, who have been careless in the use of guns.

Raises Quota for Army Drive.

An article in the Randolph Times Enterprise states that Randolph went over the top in raising its quota for the Salvation Army drive. A committee solicited in the business district, but four young ladies were the ones who brought the drive to a successful conclusion on last Saturday. Everyone realized fully the good record which the army made in their war work, but this has not seemed to open pocket-books to help.

Paving Work Going On at Laurel.

The following clipping from the Laurel Advocate shows that Nebraska towns are becoming anxious to have the best of improved streets and roads: "The streets are assuming a more-citified appearance every day. They have been somewhat torn up for several weeks with the putting in of sewer and water mains, and then Monday the paving contractors began work getting the west end of Second street ready for the paving. They put a full crew of men and teams to work on the job. The material for the paving is being unloaded near the mill where the concrete will be mixed and hauled to where it will be used."

Raises Hampshire Hogs.

William Morehouse, a brother-in-law of Walter Weber of Wayne, has started in the Hampshire hog business. On his place, nine miles south of Randolph, he has some "brood sows" for which he refused over a thousand dollars. He also has a big lot of hogs, heavy and ready for the market, which he bought in Kansas City, when that section was short on feed.

Former Wayne Man Visits in Laurel.

Emil Weber, a former Wayne resident, now living at Humboldt, Ia., was in Laurel a short time last week. R. L. Lathrop accompanied him to Dunning on a hunting trip.

Mrs. Ankeny Winters in California.

Mrs. Ankeny Winters in California. Wayne friends will hear with interest that Mrs. Ankeny and daughters are planning to spend an enjoyable fall and winter at Long Beach, Cal. They are now settled in the home of their expectations for several months.

Women Cannot Vote.

Wayne, Neb., October 8, 1919. Chas. W. Reynolds, county clerk, Wayne, Neb., has been asked by years of recent date requesting information as whether or not women will be allowed to vote at the election next month for the selection of delegates to the constitutional convention, beg to advise that I submitted this matter to the attorney general's office at Lincoln and have received a written opinion from the attorney general's office stating that women cannot vote for delegates to such constitutional convention. Very truly yours, Fred S. Berry, county attorney.

The Farmer's Example.

Sioux Falls Press: With a season's corn yield of almost 3,000,000,000 bushels, blame for the nation's underproduction can hardly be placed upon the farmer. While other lines of endeavor surrendered to the feeling of unrest and slackened their pace, the farmer kept at work, and has done his part to replenish our dwindling food supply. The problems of reconstruction would be simple to solve if the chief business Americans is trying to get each other to change their minds.

Unrest in America.

Knoxville Journal: If the king of Belgium is keeping his eyes and ears open he may reach the conclusion that the chief business Americans is trying to get each other to change their minds.

In Sheep's Clothing.

Washington Post: Why is it that a red-mouthed anarchist bleats like a sheep? He can hardly be placed upon the farmer.

After the Great Contest.

Sioux Falls Argus-Leader: Baseball fans are now trying to get up some interest in football, but it is a hard proposition.

Confident.

Omaha World-Herald: The great American corn crop is marching right up to the cost line as strong and bold as ever.

Hoping for the Best.

Chicago Daily News: Perhaps all will be well now if that Washington industrial conference does not go on strike.

THE FAMOUS ROUND OAK COAL FIXTURE

Time Determines Value

When you look back in your experience, the most satisfactory investments were the ones that cost the most at the time of the purchase. Time and use determine value. In the light of this experience, we have always purposed to handle Good Goods ONLY.

Consider the length of life of the Genuine ROUND OAK HEATER. We have in mind a half dozen of them that have been in constant use for thirty to forty years,—one of them more than forty years. Built to last, it costs a little more than most others, but viewed from the standpoint of long life and fuel saving, it is way below any other in final cost.

The double fire pot and anti-clinker grate enables this stove to burn all fuels successfully.

Mr. Wilson's Idea. B. L. T. in Chicago Tribune: We have always been in sympathy with President Wilson's idea of democracy. He expressed it perfectly when he was president of Princeton. "Unless I have entire power," said he, "how can I make this a democratic college?" Given Four Weeks' Grace. Kansas City Star: The work of taking the census will start early in January, and as the enumerators work mostly "by the piece" and regulate their own hours, nobody looks for them to organize and strike before the first week in February.

Now that Colonel House has gotten back into this country—everything and everybody will be safe and secure.

Print paper is higher than it was at any time during the war; and the prospect for revision downward is not encouraging.

The two local hotels are said to be overflowing with guests. The organization of a local company to build a new hotel would be in order. Wayne ought to be and is big enough to meet this need.

An Omaha teacher addressed the rural teachers at Emerson Saturday on how to punish and correct children. We wonder if Omaha has long used his method. Likely not. So we judge from the wild and untrained behavior of the town.

Aquarius has held an unwelcome monopoly of the weather this week to the disappointment of people who expected a pleasant and triumphant initial fair. If Aquarius had kept the water supply corked until after the fair, it would not have been regarded with so much aversion.

The notion that the poorer the service and the higher the price for it the better will pass in due time, and then the efficient, careful and courteous individual who earns all his money and is grateful for the privilege, will gain rapid ascendancy.

A fossilized giant thirty-two feet long has been unearthed in Mexico. This is a larger fossil than we have ever seen. We have seen some, however, not so large, whom we suspected of being fossils, but never had the temerity to ask them if the suspicion were correct.

Someone has suggested that the Wayne county fair ought to be divided into a district fair including several northeast Nebraska counties. Wayne is considered an ideal location for such an enterprise. This suggestion is so far from the state fair stimulates reason for the proposition.

A report states that the Presbyterian and Methodist churches at Hawarden, Iowa, have consolidated. This step cuts down operating expenses and strengthens one institution. The members of each denomination figure they will be able to raise money just as quickly and serenely as though they traveled in different vehicles.

The announcement of an ice and cold storage plant for Wayne is an encouraging prospect. There is room for other new enterprises. A new industrial building is one thing needed. With paving next year, Wayne will increasingly warrant many additional building investments. The Waynes will make long forward strides during the next few years is our confident prediction.

Omaha is probably no worse than other cities and probably no better. But we never could see good reason why a metropolitan city should prefer to live in smaller towns or rural communities. The large city exerts itself on the ground that its population is cosmopolitan and has a greater variety of creatures to deal with and an extensive entry list for each variety. There are no doubt terrific burdens, high taxes and debts in the city as country, though there appear not enough of them to control public affairs, or else they lack the inclination to buckle down to that sort of task. A great city, no less than a town, should reflect, if possible, its government and be long derided by its most civilized people.

Next week, October 20-23, has been designated as the time to make contributions to a fund for a suitable memorial for one of America's most distinguished patriot-leaders, the late Theodore Roosevelt. The object is not to have a large contribution from any one source, but from many people. The purpose is to have as many people as possible share in paying due and lasting honor to a truly great American.

Inspired by the proposed memorial Governor James P. Goodrich of Iowa has issued the following: "In nothing, above all the others, for which the name of Theodore Roosevelt stands, that one thing is sturdy and bestial. It is its strength in this one quality more than any one thing which has endeared Theodore Roosevelt to the American heart. His devotion to his country and his institutions was so wholehearted, so unselfish, that his name will ever prove an inspiration to the thorough American who is seeking to further the interests of his country and the things which it typifies.

People who don't love children are irregular and out of order. They are selfish. The Lord omitted at least one sublime instinct in their creation. Commenting on the children of the king and queen of Belgium, the Sioux City Tribune makes this concluding observation: "For despite the soporific of the 'smarm' layer of American population, the sufficient element—not to mince words—the great majority of American men and women believe in substantial homes with children, burdens though they may seem to the self-centered. And these are the salt of the nation."

People should so live that when they pass on, the world can truthfully and justly say they were desirable members of society. They should so leave the impress of good on the hearts of constructive and useful effort—that they will be missed and remembered—not as loathsome nuisances, but as friends and supporters of the community's highest development and highest ideals. It would be better not to have lived at all than to leave a record void of the traits of careful deeds and kindly impulses. The world expects a man to keep himself in good trim, mentally and physically, expects him to look out for the support and healthy growth of his family, and expects him to contribute wholesome influence and helpful service to society so far as his ability will allow. When a man has done all of these things, the world, as he is lifted on elysian wings, sends real love and breathes warmest benediction. When he has done none of these things, as the grave swallows him, gives a sigh of relief and pity. Which course pays?

May Adjourn Saturday. Lincoln, Oct. 13.—The special session of the legislature may finish its business Saturday. At present it looks as if there might be a tight ball in the house on H. R. 1 comes up in the committee of the whole which might jeopardize passage of the bill or at least force amendments which would in the minds of some make the bill unconstitutional.

The bill provides for amending the Omaha charter which will give the city authority to raise salaries of policemen, elect an inspector and chief of police from outside of the city if necessary, and fix the maximum salaries to be paid.

Precaution Against "Loneliness." Lincoln Journal.—The man whose mind is a storehouse of useful information, and who has trained himself to think coherently, is seldom lonely. He can entertain himself with his own thoughts.

An Unrealized Ideal. Springfield, Mass.—Republican King Albert's genial exaggeration that "everyone here is educated" is another reminder of how far short America is of that goal and of what mischief the lack is making.

On Edge. Chicago Daily News: Esteemed, sometimes dignified, national senators have a way of arguing that is strikingly suggestive of a village dog fight.

Forgotten Already. Minneapolis Journal: What has become of the old-fashioned hotel-keeper who expected to fail unless there was a bar connected with the establishment?

Painting the Lily. Springfield, Mass. Republican: The king and queen of Belgium were served Boston beans from a gold pot. Another case of gilding refined gold.

Unusual. Washington Post: Say what you please, a guy that can do what Pershing did without getting a swelled head is an American worth while.

America Above All. Washington Post: Let every member of the labor conference whisper to himself "America first" and there will be some progress.

Resourceful. St. Paul Pioneer Press: Anyhow you gotta give it to the price hoosters—you never yet caught one without an explanation.

CARNAHAN GRAINS TWENTY POUNDS

Although 69 Years of Age He Works Like He Did Thirty Years Ago—Tanlac Builds Him Up.

"If I had not found Tanlac I don't believe I would be alive today," said W. Carnahan of 1414 Third Street, South, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

"Last October," he continued, "I went to Nitro, West Virginia, to see in the ammunition plant as they were paying extra good wages. I got greedy, overworked, myself and broke down—until that time I had never suffered from any serious illness, but now my stomach was all-out of order and I was so run down that I couldn't work without just playing out completely. I never wanted anything to eat and what little I did force down gave me no trouble.

"I have never had much faith in medicines, especially the advertised kind, and never took two dollars worth in any one medicine. But after reading what others said Tanlac had done for them I got a bottle and it certainly was a wonderful remedy. The right medicine will get a person to feeling right again. I had taken but a few doses of Tanlac until that steady feeling left my stomach and I began to straighten right up. The medicine has put me in shape to where I have actually gained twenty pounds in weight and although I am sixty-nine years old I can do as much work as I could thirty years ago.

"I shoveled dirt over a pine foot wall for five hours, unbound cement for two hours, then started unloading lumber, and came home with it all my back. I simply did anything I want and lots of it and then get hungry between meals, and nothing I eat gives me the least relief. I want to emphasize the fact that I have not had an ache nor a pain since right soon after I commenced taking Tanlac. I simply feel like I have been added to my life. I expect to always keep a bottle of Tanlac on hand. It beats any other medicine I have ever seen or heard of, and I recommend it to all my friends when I hear them complaining of not feeling well."

Here is another instance of the remarkable reconstructive powers of Tanlac. Mr. Carnahan is only one of many thousands who have taken it with the same wonderful results. Tanlac proved of great benefit to him because it contains certain medicinal properties which enrich the blood and promote a healthy appetite for nourishing food. Tanlac has been very successful in overcoming nervousness and sleeplessness, not from a quieting effect on the nerves, for it has no such effect, but by strengthening the nerves and bringing back the normal state of health through its effect on the appetite and nutrition of the body.

TANLAC is sold in Wayne, Mo., by

B. L. T. in the Chicago Tribune. There are many who say, "We don't want any more military men for president." There are others who say, "We've had enough lawyers for president." And there are still others who say, "Heavens! don't elect any more college presidents!"

UNCLE WALT THE POET PHILOSOPHER

SORDID TIMES.

"We're busy proffering that we haven't time to read, and the fish-baiters are fearing that their trade will go to seed. Everyone is talking about how to high they break the heart; and that sort of stuff suffices to divert our thoughts from art. I would talk of books and writers when the evening shadows fall, but the cost-of-living publishers are fearing that their ad. board would speak the evening lamp is lit, but the folks around my shanty cuss the poet and throw a fit. I would grind a snuffball from my trusty graphophone, but my people, sad and pallid, roast the profilers and groan. When I'd take my lyre and play, it, neighbors come and break the strings, and they cry, "Come off! Belay it! We would talk of solemn things." And their talk is all of robbers, and of this and that disgrace; and such hopeful souled Micawbers as myself are out of place. Oh, their talk is all of sneering and of guys who should be pinched, and they spend the gloaming grieving that no fellow has been lynched. I am tired of talking prices, and a word of that suffices to enwrap my soul in frost.

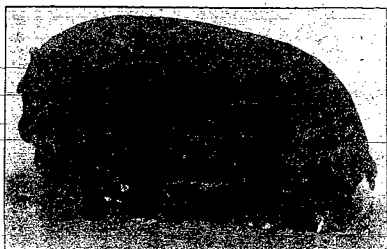

THE SURE CURE

Some grand old cures are everlasting; one is that industry is good; amid the yawping and dogmatizing, remember that, and saw your wood. Too many talkers spring their wheezes, too many make the welkin ring; and as a cure for our diseases work is the sane and proper thing. Too many orators are climbing on stumps and kegs to show their curves; and even as I do this ryming, a braying windmill jers my nerves. The puzzling knots we will unravel, and get things going right once more, when we put pawing up the grand and get down to the useful chore. There's nothing else, some honest sweating to drive the hand-sets from our brains; and help us to the prompt forgetting of all our penitents and pains. When I am idle I start brooding, and entertain the saddest views, and I have nights, stars, and deluding and I see snakes and kangaroos. But I am cheerful when I'm busy, I sing sweet songs in dulcet tones; the Russian staff keeps punks and dizzy to one who's earning honest bones. And when we all get down to toiling said Russian stuff will see a bump and fervid language will be spoiling with other rubbish, at the dump.

THE BROOK.

Its peented water the streamlet loves, it's frolicsome and frisky; and people come to lap its waves who used to call for whiskey. From this part springs its waters start, and flow through meadows derry; it doesn't break a human heart, throughout its whole blamed journey, its green and lanky dell it flows, where thirty things can find it, and doesn't paint a mortal's nose, or leave bad tastes behind it. It is true I have drunk pure and clear, to tired and passing cutters; and old soaks drink it, with a tear, and find it beats the bitters. From dark abandoned harts they come and the brook they totter; they're smart and run on the Dannon Rum, and so they sample wass. They swear that such a drink is 'ere, compared with highballs recent, but when they're drunk about a trefce they find it pretty decent. The brook is filling as it winds to join the distant ocean, and no cheap clops or lemon rinds disturb its sweet commotion. And poor old jaded hoovy wrecks along its margin hover; they pour their waters down their necks, and self respect recover.

LIFE'S EVENING.

When a man is waxing old, and his wiskers change from gold to a sort of rimmed gray, when his peep has slipped away, if he's fixed so he can rest, letting work go galley west, he will find life's gloaming gay, cheerful as a circus day. In my younger years I toiled till my galluses were spoiled, and I salted down some scads, saved the dollars of my dad; when six dollars came to me I would pickle two or three. Now I'm in the yellow leaf I am free from dread and grief, I don't have to work a bit when I am not feeling fit. I can run around and play with the dachsdons all the day; in my stately impudence I am burning gasoline, for I saved the silver wheels when the pep was in my heels, and I do not care a dern how much money I may burn. It is sure to see old lads going forth to earn some scads; it is sad to see old gents counting up their meager cents, trying hard to pay their way, when they should be out at jokes. Age comes on us, swift and sure; then it's beastly to be poor; You'd be old yourself, full-soon, therefore, save the bright doubloon.

PROBLEMS.

Some mighty problems now confront us, there is a crisis every where, one problem enaned, some others hunt us, and take the job of life away. The times are grave; I hear my neighbors bemoaning things; they rant and roar; they have suspended all their labors to argue at the Blue Front store. I do not join them in their ranting, their criticisms I do not cheer; all day they see me gallivanting on useful errands, fro and to. The times are grave, we make them graver by quitting work to paw the ground, e'en though the spels we make may savor of wisdom, wide-spread profound. I fear the problems go to thunder; we are with sistemen well supplied who tear the jim-crow things asunder, to see what sticks they have inside. And all the day I'm busy toiling. I'm banking up my humble shack, to keep my cherished spuds from spoiling when come the wintry storm and rack. There's too much tank—and too much twaddle, there's too much piffle, wind and bark; and while my neighbors rant and howdle, I'm salting down another plank. There's too much idle, boneless drooling, too much of haryns and 'ol jip, when all the fellows quit their fooling the problems will get up and skip.

THE HIGH PLAINS.

I have bought a grand piano and a sumptuous sedan, and a lot of other doodads, on the monthly payment plan. On each thing I paid a dollar, and I'll pay a monthly loan. You'll run away and sleeping underneath a sagging stone. It is true I didn't need them, and I haven't coin to burn, but I see my neighbors blowing every kopeck that they earn, and if they can have pianos and fine motors and such stuff, I will go as far as they do, though it makes the sliding tough. Every month I'll pay a dollar on the junk I do not need, all I limp around on crutches and my whiskers go to seed; and when I have crossed the river to the shining golden shore, I will still be owing money to the Jinx installment store. And I fear the recollection will destroy my peace of mind, when I have a harp before me and a pair of wings behind. But my neighbors, they keep blowing every rouble, every red, and I'd be a sort of piker if I let them get ahead; so I'm buying circus wagons and tin loving costly gems, and my wife is wearing sables and has diamond diadems, and I bought the whole caboodle on the monthly payment plan, and I'm riding to the poorhouse in a super-eight sedan.

THE NEBRASKA CORN CROP

Asses from One Section of State Crop Meets Expectations.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 11.—Production of corn in Nebraska this year was estimated at 169,974,000 bushels in the October crop report of the U. S. Bureau of crop estimates and the state bureau of inspection and marketing made public here today.

This figure compares with 123,066,000 bushels last year and the 1917 average of 188,960,000. The October 1 condition of the crop is given as 72 per cent of a normal.

Corn Withstand Frost.
"A fair crop of good quality is forecast for Nebraska in spite of the poor condition in most of the southeastern quarter of the state," the report says, adding that "outside of the southeastern quarter of the state the yield will be more than met earlier expectations and be nearly normal." Even the late corn has matured sufficiently to withstand a frost without damage, the report says.

The preliminary estimate of yield of oats is 33 bushels per acre which will give the state a crop of 7,599,000 bushels. Last year oats averaged 22 bushels and the total production was 56,188,000 bushels. The 1917 average is 78,788,000 bushels. The crop is below the average in northeastern Nebraska. The southeastern quarter of the state has a very good oat crop. The quality is 88 per cent compared to 70 per cent last year, and 88 per cent the 10-year average.

Spring Wheat Poor.
"The average yield of spring wheat is estimated to be 8 bushels per acre compared to 119 bushels last year. The production will approximate 6,496,000 bushels compared to 9,663,000 bushels last year. Yields were extremely poor in eastern Nebraska. Some fields were plowed under as the crop would not pay for harvesting and threshing. Central Nebraska fared better, and most of the western counties have a fair good crop. The quality is 70 per cent, compared to 85 per cent last year, and 88 per cent the 10-year average.

The total preliminary production estimate of all wheat is 15,092,000 bushels compared to 43,141,000 bushels last year. The average yield of all wheat is 128 bushels, compared to 115 bushels last year and 176 bushels the 10-year average.

The last three wheat crops have been under a cloud of gloom, almost a complete failure in 1917, when more than 85 per cent of the acreage was winter-killed.

Barley Fared Better.
"Barley, like oats, fared better than the other grain crops. The yield is 27 bushels, compared to 10.5 bushels last year. The production is 8,343,000 bushels, compared to 5,600,000 bushels last year. The quality is 84 per cent. Last year it was 78 per cent and the 10-year average, 86 per cent.

The condition of potatoes at the time of harvest was 50 per cent, compared to the 10-year average of 70 per cent. There is a considerable variance in the yields, some being fair, while others are hardly worth harvesting. The present condition forecasts a crop of 6,210,000 bushels, compared to 10,465,000 bushels last year. While the farm crop of potatoes was poor last year, the acreage was much larger and the commercial crop of western Nebraska was good. This year the dry land commercial potato crop of western counties approximates half of a normal crop and the irrigated potatoes probably two-thirds of a normal crop.

Winter Wheat Delayed.
Other minor crops are reported as follows: clover seed, 75 per cent; alfalfa seed, 2 bushels per acre compared to 26 bushels the year average, and the average is 50 per cent of last year; pasture, 80 per cent; field beans, 67 per cent; tomatoes, 83 per cent; cabbages, 74 per cent; onions, 104 bushels per acre, which is less than expected; grapes, 83 per cent; pears, 62 per cent; sorghum, 83 per cent, and sugar beets, 92 per cent.

"While the seeding of winter wheat has been delayed it will not be as late on the average as last year. The machinery was caught earlier this fall. Previous to the September rains, the soil had become so hard and dry over much of the winter, when it was extremely difficult to plow. Most of the wheat growers have had unusually poor success in producing wheat for the past three years and some are of the opinion that next year's acreage will be reduced somewhat. The present year's acreage was larger than usual."

"Estimates of important crops for the United States are as follows: Corn, 2,801,000,000 bushels compared to 2,382,814,000 last year; oats, 1,220,000,000 bushels compared to 1,538,395,000 bushels a year ago; spring wheat, 203,000,000 bushels compared to 358,651,000 bushels last year. Winter wheat, 718,300,000 bushels compared to 558,493,000 bushels a year ago; total wheat, 918,300,000 bushels compared to 917,100,000 bushels last year. Cotton, 10,696,000 bales and last year, 12,040,532 bales."

AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

Wood for Winter Fuel.
Many farms have available large quantities of timber, fallen and otherwise, which the farmer can profitably convert into fuel for the coming winter if he will provide himself with the necessary power-operated equipment. A large amount of labor required in preparing firewood kept many farmers from using wood for fuel, but with the high prices for coal it behooves the thrifty farmer to consider the advantage of investing in a wood-sawing machine which will make it possible to utilize much timber on his land at a relatively small expenditure of labor. Many farmers already have gasoline engines suitable for driving such a machine. The latter is comparatively inexpensive. One outfit can do the work for several farmers each year and the purchase of a complete outfit, including an engine, to furnish power may be profitable for a group of farmers or for one who is in a position to do a certain amount of work for his neighbors. The United States department of agriculture offers free detailed information on this subject.

Distributing Good Sires.
A system of county farmers' exchanges in live stock, feed, and seed has been developed in Iowa during the past year, forces of the State Agricultural college and of the United States department of agriculture working in co-operation. One of the principal activities of the exchange is in the distribution of purchased live stock. The breeders send a list of the animals they have for sale to the office of the county agricultural agent. He makes up lists of these animals and distributes them throughout the county, frequently advertising in the local papers. If any animals are not disposed of in the county, a list of them is sent to the extension department of the State Agricultural college; where lists are made up for the entire state and sent to every county and to adjoining states. In this way many farmers who otherwise would not have the opportunity of locating pure-bred sires are able to get exactly what they want. Through the exchanges many carloads of pure-bred stock have been sold to buyers from other states.

Better Roads for United States.
Maine, by an overwhelming vote, recently endorsed the proposal to raise the bonded indebtedness of state highways from $2,000,000 to $100,000,000, giving an additional $98,000,000 to be spent on the state road system. This is one of the injustices showing a country-wide movement for better highways, as reported to the United States department of agriculture, which administers the federal aid act.

Care in Planning Earth Roads.
In view of the present widespread activity in every form of road building and since nearly all public roads are laid out originally as earth roads, the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture emphasizes the bearing that the location and design of dirt roads have on future highway improvement. In locating and designing public roads the following considerations should be borne in mind:

Sharp curves should be avoided because they are a menace to traffic.

The width should be ample for vehicles to pass each other without leaving the traveled way.

Considerable importance, its users probably will demand that all the steeper grades be reduced to the lowest maximum that would conform to the general topography of the region which the road traverses.

Let the road planners remember that aside from the advantages to traffic of a short route, each mile of additional road involves a considerable and nearly constant expense in maintenance, and this alone may warrant the extra expense of shortening the route when the road is constructed, provided that the decrease in maintenance does not materially increase the steepness of the grades.

Land lines should be regarded only in so far as this may be done without decreasing the usefulness of the road or increasing its ultimate cost.

The pleasing features of the route should not be overlooked. Remember that a large part of the travel on most country roads is for pleasure.

Avoid the necessity for subsequent changes in location. Such changes are always work hardship on some of those who have built homes along the original highway.

Always Pay.
New York World: Married people paid most of last year's income tax. But what possible item of national or domestic finance is there of which they do not pay the most part?

Who?
New York Tribune: Since January 1-strikes and lockouts have cost workers $25,000,000 in wages and employers $100,000,000 in production losses. Guess who is going to pay for it.

Plenty of Solutions

Lincoln Journal: There is no lack of solutions of the labor problems. The industrial conference has already three or four solutions, all backed by men of undisputed skill and wisdom. Most of them would help. The labor problem is to get any of them adopted.

Who is to Decide?

New York World: The latest question in the labor world seems to be: when is a strike not a strike, but a vacation?

A Trade Drawback.

Sioux City Journal: The strikes which concern only production have had little direct effect on general trade and commerce. Production has been reduced by them and that expansion which might have resulted has been held back. But the effects have been local rather than general, and the recuperative forces of the country are sufficient strong to overcome the consequences as might be expected to come from the crippling of the steel industry. However, the strike of the longshoremen at both New York and San Francisco, the two principal foreign export ports, threatens to curtail the foreign commerce of the nation at a time when there is a demand for everything the country can produce. If the strike spreads, it will seriously interfere with commerce, and this will in turn interfere with trade.

Business as a whole, in spite of the handicap of strikes and unrest, maintains a steady front. The volume and the value are above midsummer standards and show an advance over corresponding volumes and values for last year. Price levels are changed but little. The public seems to have settled back into an acceptance of high prices as the inevitable result of present conditions, since the Government has shown no signs of its much heralded policy of reducing the cost of living to head off increases in wages.

Business is suspending judgment on the results of the Washington conference, hoping something tangible and effective may be worked out of the confining elements which comprise the membership, but doubtful of immediate practical results. There is a belief that the steel strike is not holding its own and that if the men were without pressure, many of them would return to their positions. Whether this is correct or not, there is less confidence manifested by the leaders than in the early days of the struggle. Costs of living are eating up savings so rapidly that men are becoming pessimistic over winning.

Wanted: Team Work.

Minnesota Journal: We had team work during the war and it accomplished miracles. Is there any good reason why we cannot have team work now? There is just one reason: Selfishness. In the presence of war's ominous threat we put our selfishness by, and labored together for the winning of the war and the saving of the republic. Now in the presence of the threat of economic disaster, shall we do less? There is but one answer—we must produce more, not less. Verily, team work is imperative.

No Place Like Home.

New York World: "The senators and representatives want to get home to vote," says Senator Penrose explaining the need for speeding up action on the treaty. There is no place like home for a congressman on election day.

Who Speaks for Him?

Chicago Daily News: Standing humbly, but in hand, at the outer door, the consumer respectfully inquires which, if any, of the delegates to the industrial conference represent him.

Last Friday Night's Audience Mystified

Tries Vainly to Detect Difference Between Voice of Famous Soprano and RE-CREATION by Edison's New Phonograph

THOSE present at the Normal Auditorium last Friday night saw Alice Verlet walk onto the stage. They saw her take her position next to a beautiful cabinet. They saw her lips give voice to the opening lines of Gounod's Ave Maria. Then suddenly her lips were still but the song kept flowing on.

How came this? They were hearing Alice Verlet's voice, yet Alice Verlet was not singing. The entire audience gasped as it slowly realized that it had been unable to distinguish between Alice Verlet's voice and the RE-CREATION of that voice by the New Edison.

This was the daring test undertaken last Friday night at the Normal Auditorium by Thomas A. Edison. He sought to prove that no difference exists between the voice of the living artist and its RE-CREATION by the New Edison. The musically cultured of Wayne were invited to pass judgment. No test could have been more exacting.

Alice Verlet made comparison after comparison. Samuel Hungerford also made tests with his violin. The mystified audience tried vainly to catch a difference between the original rendition and its RE-CREATION by the New Edison. No one could tell one from the other.

It was a triumph whole and complete for the New Edison.

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

The instrument used in Friday night's Tone-Test is regular model which sells for $285. It is an exact duplicate of the Laboratory Model which Mr. Edison perfected after spending three million dollars in experiments.

The New Edison alone of all phonographs is capable of sustaining this test. Until Mr. Edison knew it would do so, he regarded his work as unfinished.

Ask some one who was present Friday night. Learn the amazing truth. Then come in and let us prove it personally to you.

UNIQUE RECITAL IS GIVEN

Mlle. Alice Verlet Sings in Unison With the New Edison.

A unique and charming recital was given on last Friday evening in the Wayne State Normal auditorium by Mlle. Alice Verlet, soprano; assisted by Victor Young, pianist and Schmitt's trumpet; which attracted the auspices of the well known and enterprising Jones Book-Music Store, of Wayne. Probably a number of people who attended were at first puzzled when they discovered several phonograph cabinets upon the stage.

Mr. Young, as conductor of the recital, explained that the purpose of the evening was to illustrate that Thomas A. Edison after years of work had achieved his ideal to perfect a musical instrument which would actually reproduce musical tones so perfectly that the "re-creation" would be indistinguishable from the original.

This broad claim was established before the evening was over. Mlle. Verlet stood beside the New Edison and sang in unison with Mr. Edison's recreation of her own voice. This would have proved little as her voice might easily have overbalanced the tone of the instrument should it prove to be weak, but Mlle. Verlet did more, or to be accurate, less. She paused from time to time, apparently at random, and permitted her recreated voice to be heard alone.

In the selection from Rigoletto, the first rendered, the high, sweet notes were heard with the same round, pure quality after the audience knew by watching the singer's lips that she had stopped singing.

As the recital proceeded, the slight difference in volume between Mlle. Verlet's voice and the voice from the cabinet became less and less noticeable. After she had commenced to sing one number, the lights were turned out, so that the audience could not watch her lips. It did not seem that it would be difficult to determine when she sang and when she did not. The audience was quite sure about it, until the lights were turned on and Mlle. Verlet was discovered at the back of the stage. The music heard had been her own.

The assisting artists offered the same tests with their instruments playing in direct comparison with selections on the new Edison. The clear, vibrant tones of the violin were reproduced exactly. The Edison re-creation of a performance by a concert orchestra brought out the notes of each instrument. As a closing number, Mlle. Verlet sang several selections in company with Mr. Young at the piano. In these she let the full power of her glorious voice be heard. Certainly everyone who heard her will want to hear the same voice again in a re-created form on the New Edison.

From Ponca Journal, Oct. 19, 1904.
At the judicial convention held on Wednesday at Wayne, Mr. Robinson, a leading attorney of Madison county, was nominated for district judge.

From Omaha north to our own town the railroad runs through a fertile territory, and passes by a number of stirring villages, most of them being of late date and considering their age, possessed of considerable wealth and population. All these counties are in the same general range with our own. It is doubtful, however, whether the more populous and better known southern of the river counties are possessed of the natural advantages of the more northern ones. Dakota, Nebraska and Cedar have perhaps greater moral resources than any of the third southern counties, and when the stream of coming emigration shall occupy the land and their labor shall After many years of tenacity and sluggishness Ponca is asserting herself and starts forward with all the fire and energy of the most youthful hamlet. New houses are springing up, some of which are the best in the town and more worthy the name than anything out county has yet been able to boast.

Try One Brunswick Then Decide

The best way to know for yourself the superiority of the Brunswick Tire is to buy one and compare it. That is, if the very name of Brunswick isn't sufficient proof to you, as it is to most men, that there is an extraordinary tire. Thousands of men who have known the name of Brunswick for years, realize that a Brunswick Tire has to be the best - for a mediocre product could never bear this historic name. Long before the Overland Trail became famous, the House of Brunswick was established. It was one of the chief users of rubber for fifty years before automobiles came into use. No concern with such a history could afford to offer anything but the best. For reputations are built slowly, but can be quickly destroyed. This is a practical guarantee that Brunswick Tires offer more than the usual, yet at no added cost. Get your first one now. You'll not be satisfied until you have ALL Brunswick.

New Work World: The discovery in France and trade with Germany can be made exceedingly profitable, prices and the rate of exchange favoring it, has led to an argument in which those supporting the wartime idea of non-intercourse are naturally getting the worst of it. When commerce is free enough to be beneficial to both buyers and sellers' self interest becomes more powerful than sentiment, and France is thrifty enough to have recognized the truth promptly.
