BAPTISTS HOLD MEETING

Decide to Hold Special Convention in Lincoln, Feb. 16.

Rev. R. H. Pratt has returned from Lincoln, where he attended a meeting of the state board of managers of the Baptist church. At this meeting a special state convention was called for February 16, in Lincoln, to adopt a new state constitution for the church. Mr. Pratt explained that a new constitution was needed to meet present conditions and progressive steps of the national organization. Delegates from each church will be present at this time. The Baptist convention will precede an inter-church movement-meeting, February 19.

The board of managers also took up the Nebraska Baptists' part in the national $100,000 campaign that the denomination will probably conduct at the same time the inter-church campaign is put on. There are approximately 20,000 Baptists in Nebraska and their quota will be $1,000,000. The pledges will be taken this year, but are to be paid in five years. The funds will be used to assist the home and foreign missionary work of the denomination, and to help in the construction and improvement of churches and institutions.

Watson-Muhm.

Albert Watson of Wayne; and Miss Ruby-Muhm of near Kendallville were married at the home of the bride's parents New Year's day, by Rev. J. W. Beard of Wayne. Mr. Watson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Watson of Wayne. He is a graduate of the local high school, and attended the Wayne State Normal and the University of Nebraska. Miss-Muhm is a graduate of the normal in the class of 1918. Mr. and Mrs. Watson will live on a farm three and a half miles north of Wayne, and will be accompanied by the well wishes of many friends.

---and neither could you have told the difference

Why the audience at Normal Auditorium October 10, was so completely mystified. Alice Verlet was inside the phonograph in all' excepting physical presence.

At first reading, the story of the New Edison's performance October 10 at the Normal Auditorium seems fraught with mystery.

But the explanation is simple enough. First, get a picture of what happened. Alice Verlet sang Commodore's Ave-Marie. She stopped after the first few lines, but her voice flowed on without a break. No one even noticed she had stopped—until some eyes, keener than the rest, saw her lips were still. It was only then that realization dawned. The audience found it had been listening to the New Edison. To every ear, the two voices, living and RE-CREATED, had been without a shade of difference. That was what so mystified the audience. They had expected the RE-CREATED voice to betray its phonographic origin. It was a step too advanced for their comprehension that this instrument should be all that Alice Verlet is, excepting her physical presence.

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph With a Soul"

This extraordinary proof is the only means through which people learn to appreciate the true powers of the New Edison. If you are interested in music; it is indeed unfortunate that you were not present. To every ear, the two voices, living and RE-CREATED, had been without a shade of difference. It is proof that no one can evade or deny. The New Edison is the only phonograph which RE-CREATES music and the soul of music. Come in and hear it for yourself.

The instrument used in the Tone-Test is the regular model which sells for $285. It is an exact duplicate of the Laboratory Model which Mr. Edison perfected after spending Three Million Dollars in experiments.

long season varieties in alternate rows has increased where moisture is a limiting factor. Varieties differ, it has been found, in their ability to adapt themselves and their grain production to varying stands. "Prolific varieties, when given increased space, have shown ability to increase their grain production much more satisfactorily than have the single ear varieties, because of their ability to make-up for their inferiority in grain."

The studies made by the department specialists have resulted in isolating uniform types within a variety. It has been found that so-called varieties of corn are largely conglomerates—of many distinct types, and to arrive at basic facts in breeding work it is necessary to segregate these uniform types.

Banishing Animal Disease.
Victory over most of the destructive diseases of animals is in sight and in a number of cases eradication is nearly complete. This statement is made in the annual report of the chief of the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture.

Cattle scabies, which in 1906, was prevalent in nearly one-half of the United States, now appears only as outbreaks in limited areas. These outbreaks are being suppressed.

Eradication of sheep scabies, which in 1906 existed in more than one-half of the land area of this country, is now about nine-tenths complete.

The cattle ticks, which causes splenic fever among cattle, and which has been the greatest obstacle to the development of the live-stock industry in the south, has had its domain reduced from more than 100,000 square miles in 1906 to 219,381 square miles on December 1, 1919. Progress has been continuous year after year, and the tick should be extinct in this country in 1924.

Eradication of animal tuberculosis has progressed as fast as the work could be handled by the veterinary force employed. In fact, there has been a waiting list of herds to be tested. Animal TB probably will not be banished from the United States in the life of this generation, but it has been proved that the disease can be eradicated from small areas, and there is little doubt that eventually it will disappear from this country.

Meanwhile the bureau of animal industry continues its vigilance to prevent the introduction from foreign countries of such dangerous animal scourges as foot and mouth disease, surra, rinderpest, and other maladies already known or unknown to the farmers of the United States.

Better Seed Potatoes Needed.
Seed stocks of Irish potatoes commonly available to growers contain many mixtures, not infrequently diseased and as a result an unproductive as they should be. The chief of the bureau of plant industry, United States department of agriculture, makes this statement in reporting on the progress of work in developing improved seed stocks. It is a recognized fact, he says, that the yield of potatoes in this country is far below that secured in some other countries, and the difference is commonly attributed to the use of relatively inferior seed stocks. Seed improvement work is being carried on by the department in cooperation with agricultural experiment stations practically all of the important potato-producing states. The best seed stock of the leading varieties in different regions is being grown in the various states. During the progress of the season the various plots are inspected several times for the purpose of eliminating diseased plants and those which are not true to name or to type. At harvest time especially studied selections are made for the purpose of obtaining the best strains of the different varieties. These potatoes in turn will be used for seed purposes with a view to developing stocks that are true to name, true to type, free from disease communicable through the seed, and that possess high-yielding possibilities.

Why Plant Corn Early?
Earlier planting of large, productive varieties of corn is recently much more profitable than the normal planting of early maturing varieties. Proof of this has been obtained in many instances, announces the chief of the bureau of plant industry, United States department of agriculture, in reporting on the results of experiments conducted to demonstrate the practicality and value of the earlier planting of corn. By much earlier than normal planting it has been found that larger varieties can be profitably ensiled or ensilage in northern localities with much better yields than can be had from the smaller native varieties planted at the usual dates.

By planting short-season varieties earlier than normal, much earlier maturity can be secured, affording a supply of corn for very early feeding. Many rather soft varieties that rot badly when planted late produce sound corn when planted early in southern localities. The planting of short and

UNCLE WALT THE POET PHILOSOPHER

DARK DAYS.
There is no coal in yonder bin, and vanished is the cordwood pile; and so it's with a glastiny grin I call on men to sing and smile. The northern children cry for bread-streets, they shivered out and butterfat; I have given them 'bricks instead, and they won't thrive on grub like that. For everyone's roof is a street for this of that or 't'her boss, a shorter hour, an extra buck, a mortgage 'on the 'pale-faced-moose.' My wife demands a son of owl, the house is like an arctic lat; I only murmur and condole, and watch her freezing in her chair. I'd keep her warm, I have the price, but nature is neither coal nor wood; the doctors hand me chunks of ice, and say that they are 'just as good. Was ever such outlandish luck? 'Oncoin won't buy the goods we need; for all the woosy world has struck, and industry is gone to seed. All day the wintry wind has whopped the sea foretells another storm; around a candle we are grouped; alas, it fails to keep us warm. The country's full of useful tricks we need, and have the wealth to buy, but all the world, it seems, has struck, and so we sit and freeze and sigh.

THE LIBERTY BOND.
I've a hundred-dollar bond, that I bought from Uncle Sam, when the war across the Pond gave this nation a slam. It's a document I prize, with its coupons twenty-four, and I wish, with hearseful sighs, that I had a dozen more. People try to get my bond, handing me all kinds of horse, but if I won't be sold or pawned, or be swapped for any junk. "Come and buy a motor car," says the dealer, bold and brash, and I'll take your bond as par, if you'll pay the rest in cash. "I have acres of blue sky in the distance beyond," says the faker, strolling by, "and I'll trade it for your bond." "I've an under-water farm where all kinds of fish are spawned," says the skate whose accents change; "you may have it for your bond." "All the get-rich-quickly sharks come and yammer at me until I smile and then they renounce till their skulls becomes a bore. Then I say, "You've cringed and fawned, and you've argued and you've lied, all to get my cherished bond, with its coupons down the side. But your game's a flimsy flim, and a futile rag you chew; I will trust you Uncle Sam, but I can't bank on you. Of that document I'm fond," I exclaim, in thunder tones; "no one gets that little bond, which is worth a hundred bones."

POOLED AGAIN.
They said this good old world would end; December seventeen, and fireworks of all kinds would lend their grandeur to the scene. I'd have to see this best of globes dissolve beneath my feet, I put on ascension robes with resignation sweet. "If, with the balance of the race I have to loop the loops, I'll do it with a smiling face." I said to frightened groups: "Resigned to seeing things explode, or pass in living fire, I gave away my chance abode, my cork-screw and my lyre. I threw away my cherished pipe, a box of good cigars; "because," I said, "I want to see a pipe for me to climb the stairs." I won't have me for worldly things, I'll care not for long green, when I have donned my shining wings. December seventeen. The fatal morning came at last, and found me in my room; the skies with clouds were overcast, as though with threat of doom. All day I waited for the crash of planes overturned, and passed up smokes and missed my hash, and for the plane, untraced. I'm trying to regain the junk I lightly gave away; once more my fingers go kerplunk upon the harp-all-day. My faith-in prophets, once so strong, is in the

GOOD RIDDANCE.
Of anarchists were weary, of all the kindred freaks of agitators beery who jar us with their shrieks; and so we've started shipping the lot across the sea, and they may do their yipping in Russia, which is free. They didn't like our banter by eagle, 'worth a cent, and 'm'unsocially manner they voiced their discontent. They said that tyrannical rule us, were trampled by the strong, the pliates and robbers' fool, and everything is wrong. They plied us for working, they shuddered at our tale, and thought some timely drinking and bombing would be great. And now they have appeared for Russia's shining shore, where patriots true-hearted may shed each other's fore; where man takes recreation with weapons in his paws, and prompt assassination is sure of great applause. 'I hope they'll all be joyous on Russia's happy straits, and never meet any us, or see this darkened land. They'll have the kind of freedom that's bound to hit the spot, for bullets will shoot and lived 'em, and burn them when they're shot. So let's keep on dispatching the reds to Russia's shore; they've looted us long and scratching has grown to be a bore.

IN OUTER DARKNESS.
We might as well be reconciled to Vital Truths, my fellow men; Old Booze is dead, and protests will won't bring him from the dump again. Some sports with million dollar thrists, have useless hopes that he'll return; but every hope of that sort burats; no more will grog-shop bright lights burn. No more we'll seek the glazing moon to buy cold bottles from the ice; so let's accept the glibly truth, and hit the hydrant once twice. There's naught more futile than a hope that has no ground on which to stand; the courts have handed up the dope that Bentley's doubly canned. Then let's forget the bowl of gin, the forty drops we used to crave, the but-ber sign, the way-side inn—for Barleycorn is in his grave. No walls can ever raise the dead, the loved and lost is not reborn; the hydrant's standing, cool and red, inviting us to take a horn. John Barleycorn will never make return till from the dim beyond, so let's forget his noise and take four fingers of the nearest pond.

THINKING OF SPRING.
I do not mind the winter weather, when I am seated by the fire, with some chaste volume bound in leather, or with my dilemmer or lyre. But when the auto must be started, and I must crank her half a day, the winter funds me broken hearted and yearning for the bloom of May. In spring I merely press the starter, and pistons whiz to beat the band; but now, a pale and frozen martyr, I turn a rusty crank by hand. Last night, alas, I failed to drain her, and now the water's frozen hard, and it has cracked the steel con-tainer; I hand out language by the yard. I call aloud for springtime zephyrs, for azure skies and babbling rills, for pastures with their grazing heifers, and sunshine gliding verdant hills. I cry "Beneath the scent of roses, O Mother Nature, send it back; pray, can these winds that freeze our noses, and put our motors out of whack?" I like to hear the north wind howling through long dark nights, to wake the dead; I like to hear the frost king growing when I'm safely tucked in bed. But when I try to crank the auto, upon a bleak and frozen morn, I yearn for sylvan nook and grotto, and warm winds blowing through the corn.

Why Batteries Can't Last Forever.
"Most people can understand why a tire wears out, or why bearing mounts of a car work loose," says J. A. Curnon, local Willard Service Station dealer, "but they don't quite see why a battery should ever wear out."
"Of course the main trouble is that it's harder for anybody to imagine a chemical process than a mechanical one, and the battery is strictly chemical."
"There's no much inside a battery. About all there is to it is a set of plates, and a solution that covers each pair, and solution that covers both plates and insulators. These form a simple lattice of metallic points of a car work loose."
"The insulators may either be wood or threaded rubber."
"Before a battery can be used at all it has to be charged. The electric current coming in, causes chemical changes. When you turn on your lights, the stop on the meter changes start in the opposite direction and supply you with current."
"Of course this constant charging and discharging will wear on a battery, in time, just as contact with the road will wear out a tire. And even if the battery is in storage, and you don't use it, the chemicals are all present and are never absolutely idle."
"The way to get the longest life out of your battery is to keep in mind the fact that its life depends to a great extent on how well you treat it, and to remember to add water to a hydrometer test, at least once every two weeks."

The Deering and P & O Have Been Added to Our Lines for 1920

The Most Reliable Harvesting and Traying Machines

The Most Efficient Tractors and Power Machines

The Most Popular Plows and Tillage Implements

YOU know these trade names. Your father and grandfather knew three of them. They knew in their time, and you know today that these names stand for the highest quality farm machinery in the world. McCormick built the first practical reaper, Deering sold the first twin binder and was a good twin pioneer, and William Farin was one of the first steel-plow pioneers. The lines of harvesting machines and plows started by these farm machine builders have been growing and developing ever since. Other machines have been invented and developed by the same manufacturers, and every new machine and implement has had built into it the years of manufacturing experience and farm knowledge accumulated by McCormick, Deering, Farin and their successors. Now all of these machines and implements have been merged into one line—the International Harvester. The reputation of every machine and implement in this line is the same.

We Sell the International Line

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN TO YOU AS A FARMER? It means, first of all, that you can buy any farm machine or implement you may need right here in your town, without taking chances on EXPERIMENTS or implements that might be "orphaned" one or two years after you buy them because of the manufacturer going out of business. You can always get repairs for any machine or implement in the International line because the Harvester Company will never go out of business. You are assured of reliable machinery because every machine in the Harvester line is tried out and tested under actual farm conditions, before being offered for sale to the farmer. The Experimental Department of the Harvester Company is the most thorough and active institution of its kind.

Kay & Bichel

Wayne, Neb.

THE EARLY DAYS IN

WASHTON COUNTY

Early Days from the Wayne Herald January 7, 1904:

Wayne Bennett of Randolph proposes to make a trip to the world's fair at St. Louis on a bicycle. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kay, who reside twelve miles south of Wakefield, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, December 29, 1903, by a gathering of all their children and grandchildren.

Treasurer Volpe, Clerk Brown, Deputy Beebe and Commissioner Wittler have completed their terms and will go into other vocations. Officers for the new term are: Superintendent, C. H. Bright; Robert H. Jones, county surveyor; J. M. Cherry, county treasurer; Chas. M. Beekman, county clerk; Grant S. Mears, sheriff.

The barn on the farm on which Adolph Derman resides, eleven miles south of Wakefield, was destroyed by fire, together with five horses, eight tons of hay, four sets of harness, thirty bushels of corn. The loss was valued at $600, mostly covered by insurance in the Farmers' Mutual company, of which Adolph Derman was the local agent.

Wayne will soon have an independent telephone system which will connect with a large number of cities in Washtenaw and other counties. Part of the wires are to be placed under ground, a system which will give the best of service. Connections will be given at the rental of $1.00 per month for a residence and $1.50 for a business phone. The number of subscribers amounts to 110.

From Ponca Journal January 8, 1900:

Under the influence of the mild weather of the past week, the ice on the river is getting quite soft.

The coal company commenced boring this week. The company is getting more land, and everything now looks favorable.

Prof. Davies, the popular musician of this place, commented another term on his Monday evening at Gambler's Hall on Sunday evening.

Whether the railroad will run from New Castle to Smithland, in Cedar county, or on the old route up to St. James, is, we understand, an unsettled question.

The three engines that the St. Paul company expected to bring across the river, on the ice, have not yet been seen to start. The reason is that the company is waiting for new engines to replace those to be brought to this side, which will be the same new-in-use-on-its-own. The company has been in operation on their thirty-three locomotives, and so great is the business of the line, that every one is driven to its utmost capacity.

An International Court of Justice.

Omaha Bee: The announcement that Elihu Root has been invited to assist in the formation of the international court of justice to be set up under the League of Nations is gratifying for a number of reasons. It is particularly because of the eminent fitness of the great American statesman, who has long been recognized on the principle involved.

As secretary of state Mr. Root earnestly sought means whereby this end could be achieved. His approach to foreign governments on the topic is well known. The acquaintance of foreign diplomats and statesmen with the history of the idea occasioned by the war, and the fact that Mr. Root was not invited to accompany the president to the peace conference at Paris. The issue of that international agreement, founded upon the part of patriotic Americans that the president could not have overcome his objection to taking command of the army, and the fact that at least as our leader among statesmen.

In his commentary on the draft of the constitution of the League of Nations, Mr. Root writes: "International law is not mentioned in the constitution, no method provided, and no purpose is expressed to insist upon obedience to law, to develop the law, to press international agreement upon its rules and recognize its obligations. All questions of right are relegated to the investigation and to recommendation of a political body to be determined as matters of expediency."

"I confess I can not see the judgment and best of American statesmen, concurred in by the wisest and best of all our allies, thus held for naught. I believe with them that necessary as may be the settlement of political questions—it is necessary to insist upon rules of international conduct, founded upon principles, and that the true method by which the public right shall be established to control the affairs of nations is by the development of law and the enforcement of law according to the judgments of impartial tribunals. I should have liked to see the confidence in the growth or preservation of an international organization which applied no test to the conduct of nations except the expediency of the moment."

This expression of his conviction at a time when it was yet possible to give the court vitality had effect at Paris, and it will also have its effect at London, if Elihu Root accepts the invitation to participate in the establishment of a tribunal to which, matters of international dispute may be referred and from whose judgment international law will hereafter flow.

Destroyed by Fire.

The early Monday morning caused the loss of three buildings in Winside. The C. E. French real estate office, E. F. Forgey's bakery and confectionery store and the rooms into which Mr. and Mrs. H. Hodson had moved after selling their store. The alarm was sounded about 10 o'clock and before assistance could be brought the buildings were a mass of flames. The origin of the fire is supposed to be in the mixing table in the bakery. The real estate building was owned by Mr. French. It was practically new and covered by insurance. All stock papers were removed. The bakery, confectionery store and the rooms occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Hodson were owned by C. C. Francis and carried insurance of $2000. Mr. Forgey lost most of his stock. The greater part of Mr. Hodson's household furniture was removed. His total loss is estimated around $8000.

Social.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Mittelstadt entertained Sunday for dinner. A. H. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Mitchell and family.

Reinhold-Puls

Mr. Fred Reinhold and Miss Dorra Puls were united in marriage December 24 at the Evangelical Lutheran church in Wayne. After the ceremony they went to the Henry Puls home near Winside. A banquet supper was served and the evening spent in games and music.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Puls of Winside. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reinhold of Wisner.

The bride was gowned in light blue silk trimmed in gold and silver. She wore a veil and bridal wreath. The outfit she carried consisted of roses, daisies, and orange blossoms. The bridegroom wore a dark green suit. Miss Meta Puls, sister of the bride and bride's maid, wore white satin trimmed in overcast and beads. Mr. Frank Reinhold, brother of the bridegroom and best man, wore a gray serge suit.

Those who attended the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Carl Spurr and family, Mrs. N. C. Cary, Miss Ida Reinhold of Wisner, Mr. and Mrs. John Reinhold, Mr. and Mrs. Reinhold and family of Pilger, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woehler and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peterson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wendt and family, Mr. and Mrs. Carsten Petersen and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Puls and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Kopeke and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wendt, Mr. and Mrs. John Isaac, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Voss, Miss Tena Muhs, all of the Winside vicinity, and Miss Mary Boeger of Randolph.

The young couple will be at home at the Carl Spurr's farms near Pilger after March 1.

Methodist Church.

(Rev. J. A. Hutchins, Pastor.)
 Sunday school at 10 a. m.
 Preaching service at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.
 Epworth League at 6:45 p. m.
 Prayer meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m.
 Choir practice Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

The Home department of the Sunday school meets every two weeks on Tuesday at 2:30 p. m.

The Ladies' Aid society meets every two weeks on Wednesday at 2:30 p. m.

Preaching every Sunday at Grace church at 2:30. Sunday school at 3:30 p. m.

The attendance reached 106 in the Sunday school last Sunday. This new class shooting organization for this rapidly growing school. The goal has been set at 200 to be reached by Easter Sunday. Come and help us grow.

Mrs. Overman's and Mr. Ulrich's classes had a big taffy pull Saturday in the basement of the church. A happy group of children was present.

Rev. E. M. Furman, district superintendent of the Norfolk district, will preach at Grace church Sunday, January 11, at 2:30 p. m. He will also preach in Winside the same day at 7:30 p. m. Most trust that large congregations will greet him at each place. Rev. Furman is a strong speaker and will have something worth while for everyone. Do not fail to hear him.

The pastor was greeted with two audiences Sunday that comfortably filled the auditorium of the church. It is an inspiration to any speaker to have a good hearing at every service. The services are growing in interest. The sermons are short gospel themes, the music is bright and cheerful, the spirit among the people is sociable. The church life in Winside is waking up. Are you helping in this good work?

SOME LUCKY FINDS

Priciest Art Treasures Dig Up In Odd Places.

Recovery of Long-Lost Old Masters Have Not Infrequently Made the Fortunes of Their Fortunate Discoverers.

The recent discovery of a long-lost Raphael in an odd curiosity shop in Paris is a reminder of many other fortunate discoveries of treasure in art-savvy London "treasure" hunters.

It is not long since a stouffer came by the back of the "Toby Family" was found in the cottage of an Italian peasant where it was serving the first purpose of stopping a broken window.

Robert's pictures, indeed, seem to be peculiarly fit rated. Only a few years ago his "La Belle Jardiniere" was picked up at a second hand shop in Paris for 24 francs.

"Aman-Éve" was found hanging in the corner of a picture dealer's shop by the Rue St. Lazare, by a man who paid a hundred francs for it and sold it a few days later for 1,000 francs.

More romantic still is the story of the great master's famous picture, "The Massacre of the Innocents," which was discovered in a Paris apartment a poor wretch at Comoy. Originally owned by Cardinal Luigi d'Este, it had somehow come into the possession of a wretched artist who had painted a sovereign for it and who gave it to the Duke of Armaingot.

"The Visitation," was a few years ago exchanged by a Paris caricaturist dealer for two Louis XV. arm chairs and a pair of shoes.

Others play flow and hand, and the "Blue-Headed" is administered by a fox and hounds, according to Miss Vera B. Haines of Lake Bluff, Ill.

It didn't stay to be early fall was awakened by a noise, which was a correspondent of the Chicago Tribune.

WAYNE MINISTER SPEAKS

Rev. William Kilburn Talks at Winside Methodist Church.

Rev. William Kilburn spoke on "The New Day" at a banquet at the Methodist church in Winside Wednesday night. A hundred men attended this meeting, designed to take up the problems and plans of the church. Mr. Kilburn brought out the fact that the social conditions at present predicted better things and he pointed out that religious forces should bring their influences to bear in these matters. He gave as examples the tendency to eliminate extreme poverty and slum districts.

The abolition of war is a movement that is attracting the attention and efforts of the great leaders, whose earnestness is reflected in the people's attitude. Mr. Kilburn said, "Young men have returned from service with an enlarged vision, which will help to overcome the obstacles in the way of progress. The facts that militarism is fast retreating, that alcohol is no longer a necessity, and that clean lives are being demanded, indicate that the world is growing better. The new day will be one of sacrifice and service. Mr. Kilburn declared that the Methodist sextet from Wayne also went to the banquet in Winside and sang several selections. Those who went were Prof. J. T. Coleman, Prof. E. E. Lacks,

Forrest Hughes, William Beckenhauer, Fred Dean, and Clyde Oman.

CHANDLER SIX Famous For Its Marvelous Motor

Chandler Strides into Full Leadership

If there has ever been any question as to Chandler leadership of the medium-priced fine car field, it is answered now. The great Chandler Six is sweeping its market. It displaces less efficient cars. It steps in to serve those who previously have chosen only high-priced cars. And it pleases everywhere.

From two thousand to three thousand discriminating Americans bought Chandler cars—open and closed—every month this Fall. And at no time has the demand been fully met. Thousands have waited months for their new Chandlers, and have felt repaid for waiting.

Nothing could more clearly show the regard in which America holds the Chandler Six, than the patience with which these thousands waited for weeks and months for their Chandlers. They waited because they knew what they were waiting for—because they knew it was worth waiting for.

Rev. William Kilburn Talks at Winside Methodist Church.

Rev. William Kilburn spoke on "The New Day" at a banquet at the Methodist church in Winside Wednesday night. A hundred men attended this meeting, designed to take up the problems and plans of the church. Mr. Kilburn brought out the fact that the social conditions at present predicted better things and he pointed out that religious forces should bring their influences to bear in these matters. He gave as examples the tendency to eliminate extreme poverty and slum districts. The abolition of war is a movement that is attracting the attention and efforts of the great leaders, whose earnestness is reflected in the people as a whole, Mr. Kilburn said. Young men have returned from service with an enlarged vision, which will help to overcome the obstacles in the way of progress. The facts that militarism is fast receding, that alcohol is no longer a necessity, and that clean lives are being demanded, indicate that the world is growing better. The new day will be one of sacrifice and service, Mr. Kilburn declared.

The Methodist sextet from Wayne also went to the banquet in Winside and sang several selections. Those who went were Prof. J. J. Coleman, Prof. E. E. Lackey, Forrest Hughes, William Beckenbauer, Fred Dean, and Clyde Oman.

Present Phone Rates Continue.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 3.—The state railway commission last evening authorized the continuation of the 25 per cent increase in telephone exchange rates permitted during the war period for the two large companies of the state, the Nebraska (Bell) and the Lincoln.

The existing increase will continue for another year. The railway commission during the last year permitted a readjustment of rates and increases on practically all of the exchanges on a showing of the companies that they were compelled to pay much larger salaries and wages to retain experienced help. These rates expired by limitation at midnight, Dec. 31. At recent hearings the companies' representatives testified that war time conditions still exist.

Josephus' Compliments.—Washington Post: Josephus paid a high compliment in his annual report to Admiral Sims, and a still higher one when he had no answer to the Sims' letter.

State's Farm Products.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 8.—While there is no absolute way in which the state department can arrive at accurate figures of Nebraska farm products during the 1919 year, either in quantity or dollars and cents, the following figures compiled by the department will, in a way, give a comprehensive idea of Nebraska's great producing qualities.

The only figures on livestock available are from the April 1 report of the county assessors. There are:

	Number	Value
Horses	942561	$ 38,397,503
Mules	94,289	8,241,472
Cattle	3,140,937	124,806,231
Hogs	1,938,836	41,851,803
Sheep	829,928	2,025,170
Poultry	806,006	do.—no val. computed.

Bees 25,107 stands

The following figures on grain production were computed after the harvest of the crop.

	Bushels	Value
Corn	184,301,094	$220,501,367
Wheat (W)	55,289,969	110,561,938
Wheat (S)	5,699,458	11,113,954
Oats	70,133,995	44,184,416
Rye	5,156,629	6,187,954
Barley	5,584,944	3,864,191
Millet (ions)	215,498	3,232,447
Sorghum (tons)	828,435	8,783,285
Potatoes	5,737,312	8,605,968
Alfalfa (tons)	3,214,999	64,299,982
Wild hay (tons)	2,842,304	45,476,896

No computation is made of pellets, kaffir-corn, pop corn, broom corn, flax, beans, buckwheat, timothy or other tame hay.

Near by the department reliable figures on apples or sugar beets. The sugar beet people have been asked to furnish figures, but so far have paid no heed to the request. Secretary Stubb believes they are holding out this information pending a possible sugar investigation and says that he may be compelled to subpoena the sugar mills and beet raisers in order to get the information.

A Consoling Thought.

B. L. T. in the Chicago Tribune: The New Republic is much distressed by the deporting of the Buford's passengers, and observes that "of those who applaud and acquiesce to-day—many will in later years think back to this and feel the humiliation of it." The consolation for this is that unless the first law of nature, self-preservation, were allowed to operate now, there might not be "in later years" any United States to feel humiliation or even regret.

Omaha World-Herald: When the census enumerator gets through there won't be any question about a quorum.

Wakefield Motor Company's Offering for 1920

William Kay has been in the automobile business in Wakefield five years, and has occupied his present spacious garage two years. He has taken into the company his three sons, Clarence, William, jr., and Roland. These boys are live wires in the automobile business, and are faithful to every duty. The Kays have built on a foundation of honest service, and have won the deserved confidence of the people.

The Wakefield Motor Company has at this time an offering of four well known and popular makes of cars—

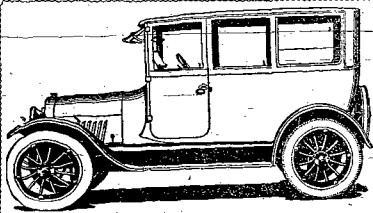

Kissel, Buick, Oakland and Chevrelet

Twenty-one new cars are on the floor at the Kay garage, and more are coming. If anyone can get cars, Kay can, as has been abundantly demonstrated in the past. If you want a new car and can't wait, see the Kays at Wakefield.

CHEVROLET

For Economical Transportation

The present-day value of an automobile lies in its degree of utility. The more it serves the more it saves. And in measuring the value of the Chevrolet by these standards, its real worth is revealed.

Like a true friend, the Chevrolet will wear well. It will not fall out in time of need. It will not be a burden to keep. And the closer your acquaintance grows the greater will be the charm in its possession.

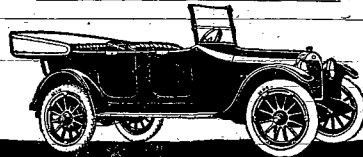

The Chevrolet represents an unusual value. This you will appreciate at first glance, but to know the full extent of its real worth, you must know more of the efficiency of its service—its capabilities for greatest time and labor-saving utility.

The popularity that Chevrolet cars have attained is a reflection of the sound judgment of the thousands of discriminating purchasers who were convinced that the vast resources and sound manufacturing policies of the Chevrolet Motor Company were adequate to insure the production of thoroughly worthwhile products.

(Sale in Steam Heated Garage)

Concord, Nebraska, Monday, January 12, 1920

Forty-five Outstanding Immune Sows and Gilts

For the initial Duroc Sale of Immune Sows and Gilts that carry the service of the Nebraska grand champion, HIGH SENSATION, much time and consideration was given to the selection of high-class breeding matrons of the richest lineage, which would be a credit to him as a sire. Few breeders ever offered forty-five better individuals and no one ever presented forty-five more desirable bred sows and gilts. The sires represented are: SENSATION WONDER 26, REEDS TOP COL, TOP MODEL GRAND MODEL 801, BIG SENSATION, PATHFINDER, KING THE COL, and ORION CHERRY KING. Breeding that has helped to make Duroc history. The sows and gilts are of the type that their pedigrees would indicate. Thirty are yearling and two-year-olds and the balance are full gilts. All have been well grown and display excellent breed character. Molina's Lady is an outstanding daughter of Sensation Wonder 26, Iowa Princess 5th is like caliber. She is by Reed's Top Col. Long Pathfinder is a splendid daughter of Real Pathfinder, one of the best sons of Pathfinder. Another is Ohio Wonder 28, a choice daughter of Grand Model 8th. Four better sows will not be sold this season in one sale. All of them carry the service of HIGH SENSATION. A large part of the offering has been mated to the Nebraska grand champion, HIGH SENSATION. The balance has been bred to LONG SENSATION, truly one of the largest and best sons of the world's famous sire, GREAT ORION'S SENSATION. Illustrated catalog only on request. Send your buying order to J. E. Halsey, fieldman, in my care, and they will receive careful attention. I guarantee his selections.

SPEAKS TO WOMEN'S CLUB

J. G. W. Lewis Explains Ways to Change State Constitution.

J. G. W. Lewis addressed the members of the Woman's club at their meeting Saturday afternoon. He spoke in regard to the constitutional convention, to which he is a delegate. "The differences between a constitution and ordinary laws which took precedence in case of conflict with other laws, that it was harder to change, was made more directly by the people and with more care.

Constitutions need to be changed, Mr. Lewis explained, because conditions change and people's ideas of government change. Further, government is more or less an experiment, and provisions of constitutions may prove with time to be inexpedient or mistaken. In Nebraska, the constitution may be changed when the legislature submits amendments to popular vote, by use of the initiative and by constitutional convention. The first method was found impractical until a substitute was discovered. Since then amendments have been carried by having political conventions endorse them and then every straight party vote is counted in favor of the amendment. Whatever method is used the constitution cannot be adopted until it is ratified by popular vote.

Nebraska's first constitution was formulated by a convention in 1856. It was not satisfactory, and another was drawn up in 1875. Because of discussion on the parochial school question, it was rejected, but the convention of 1875 eliminated the objectionable portions, and the document, which is still in use, was adopted. The present constitution consists of 100 elected delegates, who will gather together fundamental laws and submit them to the people. If the national equal suffrage amendment is ratified before the convention, the amendment will vote on the instrument. After the convention was organized, proposals for the new constitution were in order. Mr. Lewis said nearly 200 had been received and there would be probably 300 when they were all in. Mr. Lewis said he maintained it would have been more efficient to have agreed on a few general improvements and worked them out, but the convention adopted the other method. Of the larger number of proposals, many will necessarily be rejected. The others will be worked over and sifted down to not more than twenty stated principles.

Among the questions which Mr. Lewis will cause much discussion will be a change in the basis of taxation, to enlarge the classifications of property. He thinks elimination of parochial schools and the teaching of foreign languages will be brought up, and some plan perfected to unify the state system of schools. Courts and legal procedure will probably receive attention, in order to make them more effective and do away with much of the lost motion under the present system. Improvements of the initiative and referendum and introduction of the recall Mr. Lewis thinks may be used to increase the people's control of government. A short ballot or some other suggestion will probably be brought up as a means of being responsible in administrative and legislative departments. A good many suggestions along the lines of social and industrial welfare, prevention of strikes and other similar questions have already been made.

Mr. Lewis described the convention as more conservative than radical, knowing no factions or political parties, and above the average legislature in ability, but not the select body of men that could have been selected.

Importance of the Railroad Problem

New York World: Aside from peace, scandalously delayed, no question confronting the country today is of more importance than that of the railroads. If it is not to be met wisely, incalculable wrongs and disasters are certain to result. When the rights of continuous service, stable employment and security of property are all at stake, every form of trifling ought to be impossible. Profiting by what has been learnt our first duty in peace is to restore transportation to normal conditions, with national oversight; both liberal and just, so that the greatest of our industries, next to agriculture, shall be carried on in the public interest and never again made the prey of speculators or the sport of demagogues. To accomplish this we need the steady influence of capital, of labor and of statesmanship. All have their responsibilities.

To Be Taken for Granted. Lincoln Journal: Why do the wires waste their time announcing the candidacy of Senator Owen of Oklahoma for president? That could be taken for granted. As E. G. Lowmyer says, the senate is a candidate for president en masse.

Well Made Men.
 Omaha World-Herald: Some with whose name we do not remember once observed that self made men are commonly ill made men. Not all so called self made men are well made men, it is true, but it is true that all self made men are poorly made men. We need only to recall the careers of many Americans who have written their names on the pages of their country's history to be convinced of this. Lincoln was a self made man, if ever there was one; but who would venture to say that because self made, he was poorly made? Mark Twain was a self made man and William D. Howells, his friend and contemporary, now generally acknowledged to be the most eminent of living American men of letters, had like the great humorist and philosopher, very scant schooling in his youth. But it would scarcely do to say that because self made these men upon whom the greatest of English universities not many years ago conferred degrees, and whom men of culture everywhere delight to honor, were poorly made, would it?

Nothing to Boast Of.
 St. Paul Pioneer Press: It may not be entirely pleasing to the president's pride to have to hold his third term candidacy over the senate as a horrible possibility.

HOME OF GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING

General John J. Pershing has purchased the above home at 1748 R Street, Lincoln, Neb., and has announced his intent to make Lincoln and Nebraska his permanent place of residence. In announcing the purchase of the home, the general said, "As soon as I retire from the service, I intend to make Lincoln my permanent home and, as far as I know now, will enter business in Nebraska. I hope to see my son, Warren, graduate from the University of Nebraska as I did nearly 30 years ago."

The Pioneer-Crusader.

St. Louis City Journal: The news columns of The Journal recently carried an account of the retirement of E. H. Grant, who for forty years was a pioneer Sunday school missionary in South Dakota. Now of these old time crusaders survive. Since the days of Lorenzo Dow, whose name as a preacher among the pioneers of the middle west spread over many states, there has been a great army who have followed his footsteps. They were men of zeal and courage, though often ignorant and eccentric in culture. But they had a wonderful insight into human nature and their power over the mind and emotions of men that caused the wicked to quail and the backslider to dig his heels in the ground and clamor back up the bank of the straight and narrow path.

These pioneers knew no theology. They studied no commentaries. They tried their souls with their eyes on heaven. They believed in a literal hell of fire and brimstone. They believed as fully in a heaven of perfect rest and happiness and purity. They could contrast these places of eternal punishment in words which brought the souls of men to their knees, accomplished much because the fear of one and the hope of the other were powerful influences in shaping the acts of individuals.

The coming of these pioneer preachers and missionaries was the occasion of neighborhood commotion. There was nothing frivolous about their visits. They were of solemn mien and sorrowful words. Their lives were filled with their calling. They created an atmosphere like that of their own in the communities which they visited and in the homes in which they were sheltered. But they never met rebuffs. As the boss of the construction camp at the house told the men which Mr. Grant said he was hungry to go over and make room for the missionary he did the families in the pioneer settlements make room for the visiting preachers.

These crusaders have gone the way of the earth, but the things they did, the influences they left and the impulses they gave to christianity will remain.

Year-End Trade.

St. Louis City Journal: The week covering the closing days of the old and the opening days of the new year was remarkable in many ways. In the speculative field there was a heavy advance in volume notwithstanding the rate for call money was 25 per cent, reaching a point but little below the 30 per cent level which was the apex of the year. The high rate had a bearish effect on the market and many of the standards stocks went off from 2 to 4 points, but recovered when a decline in call loan rates was announced.

Business during last week was largely in industrial commodities, iron and steel and lumber orders piled up and it will require six months production to fill them. The orders in building materials are an index of a heavy volume of building planned for the building season which will open in a few weeks throughout the northern states.

A car shortage and the inability of the roads to provide tonnage for the shipment of grain was a handicap on the marketing of western elevator stocks. The same trouble hindered the distribution of lumber orders for which are keeping the market drifting at full speed, but the products of which are piling up in the yards. The car shortage is traceable in part at least to the heavy demand for cars immediately following the resumption of coal production. When the normal supply of fuel is made throughout the country many of the cars which have been forced into that service will be released for other commodities and the pressure will be relieved.

Wholesale and jobbing trade fell to a low point last week, retail trade being engrossed with post-holiday sales and inventory and stock reductions. It is not expected that there will be a heavy wholesale trade until the stocks on the shelves of the retailers are materially reduced in volume. Food commodity prices retained their old level or went higher, advances being noted in eggs, dried fruits and live hogs.

Mr. Bryan's Reappearance.

Republican: The most eloquent testimony to the present lack of forceful and appealing leadership in the democratic party is the flurry raised by Mr. Bryan. When he reappeared in Washington and in a picturesque old-fashioned cap, of the sort familiar in other days, the stage seemed to have been set for another actor who, lying ill, gave Mr. Bryan his chance. The most effective advertising Mr. Bryan is receiving today is through the publicly proclaimed fears of those who are apprehensive that he may play a real part. But if the president's recovery becomes more rapid Mr. Bryan's reappearance must take on the aspect of having been an interlude or passing episode.

Ridiculous Sensitiveness.

Omaha: "Worshipers" of Shakespeare should have visited and reserved his satire for Americans if he wanted his plays admitted to American schools and libraries. The only people it is safe for a writer to poke fun at in America is the Americans.

Buy Your Ford Car Now

To make sure of getting a Ford car, buy one now. Don't wait until spring but buy now while deliveries are possible. Even next month is an uncertainty.
The number of Ford cars allotted to this territory is limited and specified. Even to get our allotment, we must have real, bona-fide orders for cars. Just so many cars allotted us; just so many will get cars; will you be one of them? Those who order their cars now will be protecting themselves. If you would be forehanded, get your name on an order today.

The Better Court.
Kansas City Star: Victor Berger's election to congress is to be contested by his opponent. Wouldn't it be a better recognition of Milwaukee's peculiar claim to distinction to list let the next man empty like Milwaukee's Americanism?

A Glutton for Punishment.
Chicago Tribune: Was there ever another so gluttonous a glutton for punishment as William Jennings Bryan? Memory does not retain one.

Prominent Fur Wearers.
Dallas News: As a general thing, when a man and his wife both wear furs, it is a sign of either oil or grease.

Mr. Borah on Guard.
B. L. T. in the Chicago Tribune: It seems to be also Mr. Borah's opinion that candidates for the republican nomination should advance and give the counterpane.

Cherish Boyhood Dreams.
Washington Star: Small boys who years ago were told they might some day be president of the United States are now maturely and numerously in evidence.
