DAVID SNEEDEN SPEAKS

Would Select Essential Subjects to Meet Average Needs.

Dr. David Snedden of Columbia University, was the principal speaker at a general session of the North Nebraska Teachers' association Friday night. His talk, "The Search for Minimum Essentials," treated the problems arising from a congestion of worth-while subjects included in the customary school curricula.

He explained that modern education was in the position of a newly rich family, which had so much from which to select that it was difficult to decide what to take. As practical conditions made it impossible to have all the good things, Dr. Snedden said the minimum essentials must be chosen on a basis of what the average person needed to prepare him to take his place in the world.

Fundamental aims of education Dr. Snedden pointed out to be to help nature develop and to force projective ends in adult life. Subjects such as spelling, arithmetic, writing and geography come under the latter class. Although some progress has been made in paring down the dead work in these subjects, Dr. Snedden said he looked for much more. He predicted that in five years, oral reading would not be a prescribed study in the grades, because an adequate system to teach silent reading with speed, precision and concentration would be evolved. He showed that it was silent reading which is the key to success, and that the curriculum would become so flexible that students wanting oral reading could receive training. In the same way, Dr. Snedden said all the formal subjects should be judged according to the use a pupil had for them in later life.

In the subjects included under soft pedagogy, Dr. Snedden said a large amount of flexibility accorded to the needs and inclinations of the individual was possible. He did not advocate manual training, story hours, tool work and various kinds of mechanical and scientific experience as vocational training but as a means of encouraging the development of the individual, what Dr. Snedden termed "inoldment from within."

Although he believed in an elective system in high schools, Dr. Snedden admitted the pupil was least qualified to know what he should elect. To overcome this evil, he said the teachers should be in a position to advise according to the needs of individuals. He did not believe pupils should be allowed to dabble in many subjects, as he claimed was particularly common in language study. He said it would be better to master one language. In this connection, he advised the teachings of Japanese, in order that a proportion of the

MRS. ELLA J. PILE TO YORK To Be Superintendent of New Woman's Custodial Farm.

Mrs. Ella J. Pile, formerly of Wayne, has been appointed superintendent of a new woman's custodial farm at York. She has had several years' experience in industrial work in the east.

Mrs. Pile's husband, the late J. M. Pile, founded the Nebraska Normal College and was its president until his death. Mrs. Pile took an active part in the administration of the college and after her husband's death she and her son, Fred, Pile, managed the school a year, until they sold it to the state.

After leaving Wayne, Mrs. Pile taught in Idaho and Utah. When visiting in Rochester, N. Y., she became interested in schools for defectives. Her study of that opened the way for work in industrial schools. She has held positions in several eastern schools of this type, the last one being in Darling, Pa. There she was buyer of food and clothing for 700 girls.

Mrs. Pile will come to Wayne April 25 to visit her son, James Pile, before going to York to take up her new duties May 1.

UNCLE WALT THE POET PHILOSOPHER

HOLLAND'S STAND.
Dane Holland says (I rather like him, admiring her nerve and dauntless will): "I won't give up that famous piker whose maiden name was Kaiser Bill. It's no use rearing round and pawing, your bluffs and ploys will cut no ice; we need the cowwood he is sowing, since coal is scarce and high in price. He piles up ricks of hick and maple, he drags huge sawlogs from afar; he whacks up elm, which is a staple, wherever hearths and ranges are. In vain your talk, O special pleader, in vain your protests and your roars; you'd like to have Bill Hew your cedars and split your porcupine's." Old Bill has laid aside his sabbre to saw up logs, that pots may boil; and in these days of high priced labor he asks no mood and some bonanzas nutmegs there. And I see my neighbors gay burn the costly gasoline, while I plant my bates of hay, and the early Linn beans. And they go, all primed with cash, to the moving picture shows, while I saw my succotash, Brussels sprouts, and things like those. They'll be buying costly cats, (and the price will make them cry), while I pluck my home grown berries, and consume the shubar pie. (I've a little plot of soil, fifty by a hundred feet; there'll I raise, by honest toil, all the things I wish to eat. I'll have pumpkins I can sell, squashes till you cannot rest, and young onions that will smell much like Arab's blood. I'll have things in-bull and cake. I'll have cauliflower spare, and my cabbageheads will take premiums at the county fair. I'll have growing greens enough all my family to keep, and the God of Living stuff will not rob me of my sleep. If the boys would fall in line, raising gas, this year, they might drop the plaintive whine, "All we eat is so blamed dear!"

APRIL.
With April comes the feeling that winter's flung the ceiling, and spring at last is here; but we are not always freeing, or catching cold and sneezing, and flu germs disappear. The winter's gripes and dryness makes us sad and weary, it fills our bones with aches; but April is enchanting, and we begin our planting and plying hoses and rakes. The winter's knell is tolling, and naught is more coaxing than is the breath of spring; there's solace in its breath, and men are simply chess, who do not dance and sing. The tumble-bug is tumbling, the bumblebees are humming, the grass is getting green; this fact appeals to reason; there is no better season for burning gasoline. Oh, April is a hummer, she is the cheerful comely who gets the welcome sign; though sometimes wet and windy, inclined to raise a shindy, her curves are mostly fine. She shows that winter's edifice, for she is not attended by snow and ice and sleet; with cold she's never stung us, and so she lands among us with both her queenly feet.

IN GERMANY
In Germany all things are mixed, and nothing's settled, nothing's fixed. One government has quite a boom, and then it journeys up the Rhine; another comes, a cloud of dust, and leave behind a cloud of dust. And old Ex Bill, he sits and blinks, and many kinds of thoughts he thinks. "They can't cut ice without a throne," he sighs, as he sits there alone; they talk republics and the like; republics! For the love of Mike! That sort of stuff is purely rot; they'll have to send for Me and Gott". Of course you'll say his thoughts are vain, but he is neither here nor there; that Germans wouldn't dare to place this relic of a bughouse race upon the throne we overest, but wait a while, already, yet. It's sure, when all is said and done, we cannot trust the stinky Hun. He'd do the thing we least expect, although the universe he wrecked, if thereby he could jar the fates who lately led him by the nose. And Germans want old things again, the throne, the crown, and the war lord men. And so the dreams of old Ex Bill are not so wild, already still.

THE GARDEN.
In my common working duds, to the garden I repair, and I plant some luscious spuds, and some bonolis nutmegs there. And I see my neighbors gay burn the costly gasoline, while I plant my bates of hay, and the early Linn beans. And they go, all primed with cash, to the moving picture shows, while I saw my succotash, Brussels sprouts, and things like those. They'll be buying costly cats, (and the price will make them cry), while I pluck my home grown berries, and consume the shubar pie. (I've a little plot of soil, fifty by a hundred feet; there'll I raise, by honest toil, all the things I wish to eat. I'll have pumpkins I can sell, squashes till you cannot rest, and young onions that will smell much like Arab's blood. I'll have things in-bull and cake. I'll have cauliflower spare, and my cabbageheads will take premiums at the county fair. I'll have growing greens enough all my family to keep, and the God of Living stuff will not rob me of my sleep. If the boys would fall in line, raising gas, this year, they might drop the plaintive whine, "All we eat is so blamed dear!"

SPRING MUSIC.
I like to sing of balmy Spring, the season most inspiring, my harp I swat and keep it hot, until it needs new wiring. I like to praise the woodland ways where we will soon be roaming, and shady nooks and babbling brooks with cascades brightly foaming. No gent, I wist, can well resist the Spring, with all its glamor, unless he's old, with blood so cold it gives him katenjammer. When I'm so chilled, my heart's a-bleed, with wotny blast, and water; that I don't sing to welcome Spring, then lead me to the slaughter. My eyes are weak, my hinges creak, I bend them with a lever; my thighs are stiff, but what's the diff? I'm just as young as ever. And so I prance and whoop and dance when Spring comes up the valley; and if a cop should bid me stop, I chase him down the alley. The winter's down, the coal men groan, and idle is the plumber; the birds and bees and bugs and fleas have come to spend the summer. The vernal rain has come again, a resurrection bringing, so let us sing a song of Spring and chorale while we're singing.

THE YOUNG ONES.

The children of these wasteful times have no respect for modest dimes. It's not their fault; they see their dads like drunken sailors blow the scads; they're taught by every spendthrift dud that money grows on tree and shrub. They hear no parent wise uplift his voice to preach the creed of thrift. And when they've grown to man's estate, and find it their's to pay the freight, the habits they have learned today will make them prematurely gray. Ere long these booming times must pass, and men must scratch to gain the brass; and youths who've learned to throw it in, but not to store it, in a bin, will have a handicap so tall that it will force them to the wall. Do parents ever pause, to think as they blow in the shining chink, for furbelows and costly lids, how they are bringing up the kids? Or don't they care a hen's wing as kids of theirs should reach the soup. Oh, let's get back to frugal ways, and save against the rainy days.

FARM EQUIPMENT

Really efficient machinery for the farm and farm home is essential in these days of high priced labor. For standard equipment made by the companies you know to be reliable, come to Kay & Bichel.

Maytag Multi-Motor Washer

Is made with a built-in, air-cooled gasoline engine. The motor is started by simply pressing a starting pedal. The power is constant and steady. The engine, as well as the entire machine, is so simple that there is nothing to get out of order. Operating is simple and, because the machine does not depend on the farm power plant, wash day demands do not interfere with other farm work.

The machine is no larger than a hand washer, is portable and requires no special location. Put in water, soap and clothes, give the starting wheel a flip. That's all there is to doing the washing. In a few minutes clothes come out beautifully clean. This machine handles light or heavy pieces. It has a reversible, power trigger which can be adjusted to wring from washer into blue, from blue into rinse water, from rinse water into basket.

Primrose Cream Separator

In buying a cream separator, it is important to know what kind of service it will deliver. The Primrose separator is made by the International Harvester Company and maintains the same high standard of all their machines.

The Primrose is the only separator with two wide open cream outlets. Another distinctive feature is a simple skimming adjusting screw which makes the regulation of cream density easy. The separator is equipped with a self-draining anti-splash can. An even flow of milk is insured.

Convenience has been considered in building even the smallest features of the Primrose. The feet are inside the frame so they are not in the way of milk pails. The pail shelf is extra large and the pail hooks fit any bail.

DeLaval Cream Separator

Simplicity and efficiency are characteristic of DeLaval cream separators. Some of the advantages obtainable in this machine are: Greater Capacity—new capacities have been increased 10 per cent. Closer Skimming—the improved bowl design and patented milk distributor give still greater skimming efficiency. Easier to Wash—simpler construction makes the bowl easier to wash. A Bell Speed Indicator on every new DeLaval. Easier to Turn—low speed, short crank and automatic oiling throughout prevent the operator from tiring. Wears Longer—low bowl speed, high grade material and exacting workmanship make the DeLaval outwear other separators.

Cut Out the Blue Mondays with the Alco Power Washer

This is a twin tub machine, which will save drudgery and time. There is no reason why women should dread wash day when the Alco will do the hard work quickly, without effort on the part of Mother and turn out clean clothes that have been saved the wear of the wash board. The Alco is an economy—it saves time, strength and clothes.

Miss Maude Reynolds entertained at a party.

Rev. C. A. Lemon handed in his resignation as pastor of the Baptist church at this place.

Miss Mammie and Miss Clara Moran entertained a large number of friends at a party.

F. H. Jones of Springfield, has purchased the book store from Robert Uter. Mr. Jones may put in a line of drugs.

Howser for city engineer; William Piepenstock for councilman; and A. A. Welch for R. Q. Warlock for members of the school board.

An election was held in Mrs. Conn's room at the high school. The following are the victorious candidates: Mayor, Paul Harrington; sheriff, Delos Reynolds; marshal, Don Cunningham; councilmen, Monte Theobald, Frances Pritchard, John Lewis, Fay Britton, Tom Coyne and Marion Harrison; clerk, Ethel Holtz; and justice of the peace, Daniel Jett.

From Ponca Journal April 7, 1881:

The velocipede, or properly speaking, the bicycle, is deemed to be a machine for human locomotion, consisting, as its name indicates, of two wheels, one behind the other and connected together by a bar. Above the large wheel a seat is arranged, where the rider sits and rolls himself along with his feet, while his hands steer his course by means of the wheel which trundles along behind. The definition above given that the bicycle is designed for human locomotion, we consider to be incorrect, and believe that instead of "human" it should read "inhuman," and indeed the inhumanest of inhuman locomotion. In proof of this, we will present a few facts.

Last week T. E. Orr purchased one of those curiously constructed riding beasts. As it stood leaning against the counter, it did not appear to be other than docile and well-behaved. Even the most timid could approach it, and examine and even touch its nicely polished wheels and gaily painted seat without fear of danger. Instead of attempting to create a disturbance when such attentions were shown, the bicycle displayed the utmost good nature and kindness of spirit. In fact anybody could handle it. Emboldened by these friendly manifestations on the part of the bicycle, Mr. Orr and a number of his friends, comprising two lawyers, one doctor, one divinity student, three county officers, two merchants and several candidates, in all quite a multitude, led it out for a little ride down the street. One of the party now bestraddled the gentle creature and started. This is a world of deception and disappointment. Frequently the mildest mannered man will cut your throat, the meekest appearing horse will whisk his tail over the lines and run away, the tamest old cow will suddenly and spitefully kick over the milk pail, and alas! a government mule will buck no worse than the docile appearing bicycle, as was learned by an individual who had confidently climbed upon its back as above related. It had proceeded but a few steps when all on a sudden it hobbled up in a most venomous manner and discharged its legs and arms extended towards the rider. After when he came downward to terra firma, which he did in a horizontal position with his legs and arms extended towards the four quarters of the globe, he looked like a descending spread eagle. He smote the earth with the whole length of leg, and from his shoulder blades down to his diaphragm and epigastrium, and from thence to his shin bones, he had, by the concussion, been mauled into one solid bruise. He rose, rubbed his eye, and the strucken hide, but rode no more.

Then another of the party tackled the optropneuro bicycle. He grabbed the high-sinker with more caution than had his predecessor. He projected himself upon the seat with uncommon care, clapped his feet upon the pedals, seized the lever of the steering wheel, and then, in one fell instant, he stood upon his head in the middle of the street. The big wheel, one or two inches, he had laid down on its side and laughed.

Another now braced himself for a ride. He approached the bicycle with circumspection yet with determination, seized it resolutely, stood it up perpendicularly, straddled it, and then attempted to make it go. It went six feet, then wobbled, then tipped, and then rider and ridden fell in one chaotic rout. In a similar manner did each of the bicyclists in his turn show the others how to ride. Some discovered their heads between the spokes of the big wheel, one was shot lengthwise into a neighboring drygoods box, others were precipitated into a ditch, while still others found that instead of riding the bicycle, the bicycle was trying to ride them. It would kick up behind, or rear up in front, or flip over on its side in a manner most exasperating. After laboring with it for a long time they concluded in view of their many wounds and bruises, torn clothes and their general bedraggled condition, to relegate the untamable bicycle to private life for a season. Accordingly it was done.

Since the foregoing experience, we notice the bicycle has been tamed and conquered, and that Mr. Orr and his friends are rapidly developing into graceful and rapid riders.

HAPPY WOMEN

Plenty of Them in Wayne, and Good Reason For It.

Wouldn't any woman be happy after years of backache suffering, Days of misery, nights or unrest, The distress of urinary troubles, When she finds freedom.

Many readers will profit by the following. Mrs. H. Kellogg, Wayne, says: "I was subject to frequent attacks of kidney trouble. I found Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Feller's Drug store, to be just what I needed at those times and the trouble always went away. I had suffered from nagging pains in my back and found it difficult to move around, or lift because of the sharp twinges it caused. I would feel depressed and nervous, too. Doan's Kidney Pills always give me great relief, so I don't hesitate to endorse them."

An Unusual Supper
The ladies of district 22 (Park Hill) decided to visit school, so accordingly they went in a body to the school building for a luncheon, fee paid and lots of goodies. To say the teacher Miss Mabel Nelson, and pupils were surprised, is putting it mildly. The guests listened to the regular studies during the last session, after which all enjoyed coffee and the many good things that go with it. The school gave a party some time ago and used part of the proceeds for an organ and an oil stove, and the ladies decided it was a fine time to visit the oil stove. All report a splendid time.

Sugar For Canning
The fellows who took our word for it that it was a "good buy" and during the month of February placed orders for sugar at $17.50 will get their sugar about April 10. The first hundred names on this list will be served from this shipment, the next hundred names will receive from next shipment and so on until orders are entirely filled. This store will continue to be of service to this community in securing sugar supplies. We do not hesitate to make the stand, the question of securing sugar in 100-pound sacks will be of greater importance than price in a few weeks and the fellows fortified with a supply of sugar will have saved considerable inconvenience and possibly several dollars. It is freely predicted in "sugar circles" we will be set to 27 cent sugar before the new crop. We will hope this does not come true, however, it will be better to be safe than sorry. We are booking orders for MAY DELIVERY AT $18.75.

Another Baked Bean

The quality compares favorably with any advertised line and this sale will place another 200 dozen into homes in this community. Baked beans are growing more popular with the housewife and our offering is an unusual opportunity to secure a supply. Monarch baked beans retail usually at 20 cents per can. This sale reduces the price less than 15 cents per can. Owing to the high price of potatoes, more beans will be used and an advance is predicted. Sale begins Friday next and continues for eight days.

300 Pounds Santa Clara Prunes
60-70 size at 23 cents per pound--10 pound lots
We were fortunate to secure a 60-70 size, which is known as the most popular seller to offer at this price. Prunes require very little sugar and are much in demand at this time of season. The quantity of our offering is limited. We use a 10-pound lot of these prunes. The saving is so great every housewife should be interested. Ten pounds costs $2.30; smaller lots 25 cents per pound.

"For the Love of Mike Sell Me a Sack of Good Flour"
This was the manner we were approached one day this week. This fellow's name was not "Mike," but it was evident the housewife had attempted to save a few pennies on a sack of flour and had met with failure on baking day. "Send my kind or Lincoln flour to that fellow," said the flour man. He planked down four dollars for 48 pounds of honest-to-goodness flour and was off to his work. "The grass on the plow-hill after looks so much better," said the flour man. "My kind or Lincoln flour you are securing the best grade of flour from wheat marketed at $2.75 100 lbs. and per bushel date A. The flour brands are better and the housewives recognize the difference. We are maintaining an active flour demand on quality. If you are having "bread troubles" we can solve them.

LEONARD WOOD ADMINISTRATOR

At the close of the Spanish war Leonard Wood's supreme administrative duties began. He was made the governor of the city of San Juan and a few weeks later of the entire eastern half of Cuba. Here at this time came the test of his services as an organizer and of his administrative qualities. For out of conditions of starvation, disease and empty treasuries it was necessary to bring order, reasonable food conditions, protection for life and property, reorganization of the customs service and the control of food prices.
Then there came the rehabilitation of the municipalities, the establishment of schools, the opening of roads, the organizing of government in the provinces, the reorganization of the judiciary and of the courts, and the work of providing for the thousands of children, little orphans by war or famine.
Striking Business Experience
Leonard Wood was in Cuba about four years. He left there a reorganized and sound financial system, a good railroad system, a debtless treasury, 25,000,000 incumbered homes in the trust, a sugar crop of nearly 1,000,000 tons, a sound and efficient public works, a firm agricultural foundation and an absolute respect among the people for life and property. The school system which was established was founded on the laws of Massachusetts and Ohio. Roads were built which made complete communication speedy. The hospitals erected under his supervision were of the highest type.
So when people say "Wood has been the business experience of this man," they can get from him the greatest of things, the sense of the same things which were done under his immediate direction and for the efficiency of which he was directly responsible.

PINCHOT TELLS THEM!
Theodore Roosevelt's Friend Makes Strong Answer to Wood's Defamers.
"If the American people want a man in the White House who knows and hates militarism, who is hated by every militaristic soldier in America, who has suffered greatly from their opposition and jealousy, who was loved by the soldiers he trained because he was human, who was loved by the military clique for the same reason--let them take Leonard Wood."--Gilford Pinchot, Chief of the Forestry service under Theodore Roosevelt.

WANTS STUDENT COUNCIL

Miss Pound Speaks on School Problems—Beveridge Talks.

Practical suggestions as to how to make the social life of the high school have the desired influence in the lives of the pupils were made by Miss Olive Pound, assistant principal of the Lincoln high school, at a general session of the teachers' association Saturday morning. She pointed out that the aim was to develop in the individual knowledge and powers to prepare him for adult life.

The average citizen, Miss Pound explained, is expected to assume the responsibilities of citizenship, such as the ability to make a living, provide a successful home and take part in community life, and he is also expected to make a worthy use of his leisure time and to be a person of worthy character. To cultivate the spirit of democracy and teach the duties of citizenship, Miss Pound suggested a student council conducted by the pupils. She said the students soon learned to select candidates for their ability and the organization was an experiment in the sort of community affairs in which the pupils would later have to take a part. Through such a council more cooperative projects were carried out which developed a sense of responsibility, a spirit of service and higher qualities of ethical character. She also suggested dramatic, debating and discussion clubs and a free use of the school library as means of securing knowledge during their leisure hours to good use.

J. L. Beveridge, superintendent of the Omaha schools, spoke on the Order of the Teachers' association. Miss Madge Shapiro accompanied them. The trio sang at the Saturday morning session of the Omaha Teachers' association. Miss Madge Shapiro accompanied them. The trio sang at the Saturday morning session of the Omaha Teachers' association.

Human nature, Mr. Beveridge declared, is "one constant quality." For this reason he advised teachers to study the personality of pupils as completely as possible to understand human nature.

Mr. J. W. Winterstein.
Griswold, American. In the death of Mrs. Jerome W. Winterstein, who passed away at the home of her son, J. A. Winterstein, on Thursday, April 2, a good woman passed on.

For years Mrs. Winterstein was a resident of this locality, she and her husband living on a farm west of town, later moving to another farm just across the river. They owned a large family, all of whom have gone out into the world and made good.

Augusta A. (Miller) Winterstein, was born in DuPage county, Illinois, October 2, 1847, and at the time of her death had reached the good old age of 72 years, 5 months and 24 days. When ten years of age her parents moved to Cedar county, Iowa, settling near Cedar Rapids. On December 24, 1868 she was united in marriage to J. W. Winterstein. They remained in Iowa until 1872 when they went to South Cedar, Kan., and took up a homestead. In 1889 they returned to this part of Iowa and it has been some thirty years since they broke up housekeeping on account of their children all being away. They moved to Nebraska so as to be near him.

She was the eldest of a family of twelve children, all of whom with the exception of one survive. When quite young she was united with the Presbyterian church and kept the faith until her death. For many years she was active in all the work of the church, but as she grew old she was compelled to give up much of her christian work. Mrs. Winterstein was the parents of seven children, George died in infancy and Mrs. Mattie Spencer passed away about 1890. The three who survive are three sons, Joseph E. of Parker, Kan.; J. A. and H. W. of Wayne, Neb., and two daughters, Mrs. Beesie of Regent, N. D.; and Mrs. Irene Surber, of Wayne, Neb.; the bereaved husband, who was too ill to attend the funeral services, had six grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; and a host of other relatives and friends.

The remains were brought to Griswold Saturday afternoon and the funeral services were held at 2 o'clock in the Presbyterian church, being conducted by Rev. C. Memmott. After the services at the church, which were attended by a great concourse of sympathizing friends, the remains were taken to the Flint cemetery and laid away. For the many acts of kindness extended the surviving relatives wish to extend their heartfelt thanks.

SENIOR PLAY ON APRIL 23

Grade Pupils to Give Cantata—To Debate With Oakland.

"And Home Came Ted" is the name of the play which the high school seniors will give April 23 in the opera house. The manuscripts have come and have been distributed among the members of the class. When the coach, Miss Leona Mills of Lincoln arrives April 9, the seniors will be ready to try out for cantatas will be presented by the grade pupils of the grades under the direction of Miss Madge Shapiro, music instructor. Nearly all the children will take part. The name of the cantata is "The Princess of Poppoland."

The debating team will meet the Oakland debaters at the local high school Friday night. Wayne will take the negative side of the question, "Resolved, that the government should prohibit strikes on railroads doing interstate business."

The senior girls' trio sang at the Saturday morning session of the Omaha Teachers' association. Miss Madge Shapiro accompanied them. The trio sang at the Saturday morning session of the Omaha Teachers' association.

Members of the physics class attended a demonstration of the X-ray last week, when Dr. C. T. Lingman lectured to them. The class met at Dr. Lingman's office. The demonstration followed a study of this subject. Twenty-eight pupils are in the class.

Some improvements have been made in the school wireless telegraphy outfit. The new wires for the aerial that were connected so they make them continuous and catch longer wave lengths. A new heavy continuous ground wire has also been installed. Now high school students are able to send and receive messages from the physics students at the Wayne State Normal now.

$35,000 ASKED FROM COUNTRY

United States Would Give Memorial Statue to France.

Miss Pearl E. Sewall, county superintendent, has received word from the state superintendent of schools that the proposed memorial gift of America to France, Wayne county's quota is $35 in the good will fund to be held in Nebraska April 2 to 9 for the purpose of raising funds for a $250,000 statue. Contributions from school children and grown people are solicited as the aim is to have as many Americans as possible give toward the memorial.

The plan is to erect a colossal statue on the first battlefield of the Marne, in commemoration of the victory of the French forces there in 1914. The gift from America will be to France what the Statue of Liberty, France's gift to America, is to the United States.

Boy Fractures Left Arm.

Julius Winget, the little son of Mrs. E. J. Winget of Magnie, fractured his left arm Friday morning when he fell on the railroad track at the station in Wayne. The little boy uses a crutch and it is thought he tripped on it as he was running across the track. The break was just above the wrist. Mrs. Winget and her mother went to visit in South Dakota. While waiting for the train, the boys went outdoors to play. The accident occurred about 11 o'clock. As the train was nearly an hour late, a physician dressed the injured arm and the children and their mother were able to continue their journey.

Ima Elming Married.

Miss Ima Elming, daughter of Mrs. Phoebe Elming of Wayne, was married in Los Angeles, Calif., March 28, to Mr. Frank Henry Jones. The couple will be home in Los Angeles after April 10. The bride attended the Wayne schools and is well known here. She became a professional nurse through training secured in Chicago. Wayne friends will join the Herald in extending best wishes.

VISITS LIBRARIES HERE

Member of State Commission Commends System and Lists.

That the book and magazine list and management of the public library in Wayne are superior to those in most towns is the opinion of Miss Nellie Williams, Lincoln, secretary of the state library commission, who visited here this week. After looking over the library Tuesday afternoon, Miss Williams met with the library board that night. She said she had no suggestions to make for improvement, as the librarian, Mrs. E. S. Blair, used a satisfactory system of classification and card cataloging, and the book and magazine lists met the needs of the community.

On request of the library board, Miss Williams explained a generally used budget. In this system, 50 per cent of the funds are used for books; 40 per cent to employ a librarian; and the rest divided for janitor, light, fuel, insurance and other expenses.

Miss Williams also visited the libraries at Wayne State Normal while here.

The state commission of which Miss Williams is secretary was organized in 1912. Since that time establishment of new libraries in Nebraska has been rapid, as there are now 125 public libraries. The commission assists in the organization and gives whatever other help the community wants. A more vital part of the commission's work is sending out traveling strikes on individuals needing references for essays, club papers or any other purpose.

As part of Miss Williams' work is in connection with the libraries in thirteen state institutions. An appropriation from the legislature is used to furnish beautiful sets of books for the children's institutions, and volumes for the adults' institutions. The insane asylum, which the patients read. They are particularly fond of poetry and cheerful fiction. Books of nature are popular at the tuberculosis hospital. Less interest is taken in reading at the industrial homes and the feeble-minded hospital than elsewhere. The men at the penitentiary take perhaps the greatest interest in the libraries. Each man has a printed catalogue in his cell, from which he selects the books he wants the librarian to bring him.

The librarian is a young man serving a life sentence. Morbid and gloomy at first, library work aroused this man's interest until now he is constantly devising schemes to improve the book fund.

Just how much influence the libraries have in the state institutions can hardly be determined, but the interest shown in their popularity, Nebraska is a pioneer in the work of furnishing libraries for its institutions, and the only state which conducts this work through the state commission.

HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Reports at Business Session Indicate Growth in Church.

The annual business meeting of Presbyterian church was held Monday night following a box supper at 6:30 o'clock. Reports from every department of the church work were heard. It was found the church had added nearly fifty members within the fiscal year, that all departments were growing. Financially, the church had no debts and the various societies were in an equally satisfactory condition.

C. W. Hiscox was elected elder to fill the vacancy left by the late S. J. Maxwell. W. Jones, John Hartington and R. R. Smith were new trustees elected. W. H. Morris and James McIntosh were chosen as trustees to succeed themselves.

The congregation adopted the new Era budget, which calls for $7,000 from the Wayne church to go for benevolences other than the local work.

AGRICULTURE NOTES

"Mixed Corn Brings Lower Price."—Incessant water, and consequent states are losing money because so much of their shelled corn grades mixed, according to reports received by the bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture.

The demand in this section of the country is for white corn for making meal and grits, and millers usually pay a premium to get it.

If the corn is husked before shelling, ears containing colored kernels can be sorted out and used for feed on the farm.

The best method of applying the formaldehyde solution is the so-called "dipping method," which is as follows: Prepare a solution of formaldehyde.

The commercial reports show fewer business failures in the three months ending March 31 than during the corresponding three months in the last forty years.

The operation of the Edge law, under which American capital may be organized to conduct business in foreign countries so that payment by exchange will be reduced and exchange rates stabilized and foreign exchange rates raised, provides the machinery for increased foreign trade.

During the last few weeks some of the industrial lines show near sensational fluctuations. Hides fell about 50 per cent, but recovered slightly from the low point.

Disquieting features, other than that of labor are the increased price of coal, which affects every industry, and the increase in railroad rates which must be made to pay the transportation lines on a paying basis. In addition to these features the agricultural outlook is not flattering. The acreage of winter wheat is short and the condition of the crop at this time is below normal.

NEW COMMUNITY CHURCH

Methodists at Wynot Propose Involvement—Other News.

A $23,000 community church is a new project of the Methodists at Wynot. Tentative plans submitted by an architect have been adopted and the board is busy devising methods for raising the funds needed.

Non-Partisan league meetings in Beatdolph, Laurel, Coleridge and Hartington last week aroused more than a little opposition. Following the meeting in Laurel, the American Legion post there adopted resolutions denouncing the Non-Partisan league organizers and their methods. In Hartington, according to the Cedar Rapids News, one of the organizers denounced the members of the council of defense and one of the members, F. W. Green, charged he was said to have made previously in regard to the management of funds. Although the organizer denied making the statements, Mr. Barnhart took the opportunity to explain that the funds remaining in the treasury of the council of defense were to be used for a memorial.

Burt county real estate and personal property amounts to nine million dollars, according to facts brought out at a recent assessors meeting in Tekamah. The banks have taken on deposit not including county school and other non-taxable funds.

Salaries for Tekamah city officers were raised by a recent decision of the city council. The new schedule does not go into effect until the officers take their places in May.

A county Sunday school convention in David City last week was very successful. The convention was held at the David City school building. Eighteen places were represented.

The American Legion post at Pender has voted to assist in organizing a women's auxiliary. The Farmer's Union at Laurel has purchased an elevator from another company. Many of the shareholders in the other company have transferred their interest to the Farmers Union. Others have been paid back the amounts they had invested.

Miss Florence Gardner of Wayne has been engaged to teach in Pender next year. The superintendent and one other teacher notified the board, and two others have not decided whether or not they wish to return to Pender. The rest of the faculty was re-elected.

Farmers of Leslie and Plum Creek precincts organized a good roads club last week. R. S. McQuire and J. G. Chambers were elected temporary chairman and secretary. A committee was appointed to call on the county commissioners in regard to road improvements in the southern part of the county.

He Bought the Treats.
Belden, Ernest W. Morris, the good natured Trentons life insurance man of Wayne, was in Belden Tuesday. Mr. Morris is considered one of the most distinguished men in the state. A life insurance man meets with many surprises and Mr. Morris met with one on Tuesday. He had heard something of the birthday organization we have here and was curious to know more about it and asked many questions but refused to tell the day of the month when he was born, but threw out several taunting remarks to some of the members of the organization. He was informed that by F. E. Harper, captain, and B. P. Roland, first lieutenant, would make it all right to him but he refused their offer with thanks. After a hasty consultation it was decided to take him through the initiation on general principles which they did to the satisfaction of all concerned—including the candidate for he bought the treats and the crowd. Mr. Morris was very much worried that his wife would hear of the affair here and it is our opinion she will for news travels fast these days.

WORLD INTERCHURCH
In 2000 Counties This Month
The Forces of the Church of Christ Will Gather To Face The Facts

In 2000 counties in the United States the pastors and laymen of 30 great denominations will meet in conference this month.
It is the kind of conference that generals hold before a critical engagement; that business men hold before entering a new market. A conference of judgment, not emotion; a clear-eyed facing of the facts.
A Survey that Business Men Must Admire
For more than a year hundreds of workers have been quietly engaged in making a scientific survey of the mission fields, and of America county by county.
The facts developed are startling. No such picture of America's religious situation has ever before been drawn.
On the basis of these surveys thirty Protestant denominations are uniting in a Nation Wide Cooperative Campaign
Each of the thirty denominations has its own "Forward Movement" organized and officered. The Interchurch World Movement is the clearing house for all of these.
It is the agency which the churches have created to avoid duplication, to foster cooperation and make sure that every man and dollar render the utmost service possible.
The month of April will be devoted to making the facts of the survey known to America in the week of April 25th-May 2nd, will come a united simultaneous financial campaign.
Whether You Are Inside the Church or Out
To every man and every woman who loves his country, these 2000 county conferences are vitally important.
For the facts developed by this great survey show vividly what forces are at work in America—and what kind of a country this country is to be.
See that the pastor of your church appoints delegates. Any pastor can tell you the conference place and date. Or write direct to the
INTERCHURCH WORLD MOVEMENT
4 WEST 16th STREET, NEW YORK CITY
The publication of this advertisement is made possible through the cooperation of 30 denominations.

For Immediate Delivery Chevrolet and Vellie Automobiles JUST RECEIVED

We have the Chevrolet "Four-Ninety" which possesses all the necessary qualifications and affords satisfaction those who, although desiring to spend a limited amount of money for a car, wish to possess an automobile having sufficient power and all round capabilities to do all that can be expected of any motor car. That this model meets the requirements is evidenced by its ever growing popularity. And it is safe to say that its popularity will increase. The latest refinements and changes make this car more acceptable than ever before.

We also have the Chevrolet "FD 50" touring model. To inspect this model is to realize the real meaning of the word "complete" as applied to an automobile. For here is a car that lacks nothing which could possibly contribute to its beauty, comfort or mechanical excellence. It has size, power and looks.

Vellie Cars in Stock

We take pride in offering a New Model 48 Vellie Six to discriminating motorists everywhere. Here is the triumph, embodying many months of engineering and designing that it has ever been possible to give a motor car before. The Vellie 48 is strikingly attractive. Its straight-line, high-cowl body and tapering hood give the eye a long, unbroken unit of beauty from front to rear. Its bumper fenders, octagonal lamps and radiator, distinctly different in outline, indicate the modernity of detail built into the entire car.

The Vellie also presents a new motor in this car. It is a motor having an internally heated vaporizer, burning successfully low-grade fuel, giving vastly more miles per gallon.

We claim more improvements in the Vellie 48 than the industry has created in a decade. You cannot know what engineering science has done until you see and try this car.

Developing Pure-Bred Cattle. Iowa - Honest. Every year new men are entering the pure-bred cattle business.

This has been the case for generations past. Sooner or later most of these men find the business unprofitable and go back to grades and some of them actually revert to raising scrubs.

Were it not for this fact there would probably be no scrubs left in this country and our cattle would all be pure bred or high grades.

Many engage in the breeding of registered cattle because they have been told that pure bred make better use of their feed than scrubs and can, therefore, produce more beef or more milk from a given amount of feed.

Others turn to pure bred because they have tried a neighbor or had seen somewhere making more money with that kind of stock than they have been making with scrub cattle.

Both are good reasons for seeking improved blood in their cattle, but too many start with the wrong conception of pure-bred stock.

Registered cattle have pedigrees but their pedigrees are of little value unless the cattle are handled and cared for like their pedigreed ancestors before they were fed and handled. Registered cattle owe their excellence first to breeding and second to care.

An animal may be a very economical producer or feed her ability as a manufacturing plant cannot be given. The cow is a machine and like any other machine, she must be given something to work with.

Recently a breeder sold an outstanding registered yearling bull in a public sale for a high price and a farmer, admiring the calf and its probable worth at the head of a herd, asked the breeder point blank: "How do you obtain so much size and development on this young bull?"

The breeder proceeded to answer in substantially the following manner: "It is the result of the foundation blood kept in mind, bone and quality. Good bone is closely associated with vitality. He then explained in detail how to care for the young calves and emphasized the importance of seeing to it that they get plenty of milk. In those where the dams do not furnish enough milk nurse cows should be supplied and during the hot summer months the calves should be kept in a darkened barn away from the flies. They should be allowed to run to their dams morning and evening and be kept away from the herd the remainder of the time.

In addition to the milk, the calves should be given good alfalfa or clover hay and a high quality, high-probability grain ration, containing about 10 per cent of oil meal or other concentrate. This sort of feeding is not expensive, but if such heavy feeding is necessary, I don't want anything to do with registered cattle."

Why not explain to the market purveyors that very same method of feeding and making money at it. If he finds full feeding of grain, alfalfa and hay is not profitable, how much more profitable it must be with registered cattle that have breeding value.

Some of our readers may say, "If such heavy feeding is necessary, I don't want anything to do with registered cattle."
