SCHOOL HELD AT NORFOLK

Norfolk Daily News, May 8: Twenty-one county highway commissioners, county clerks and patrolmen from twenty-one counties in state highway district No. 1 were at Norfolk Friday attending a school in the Chamber of Commerce hall, supervised by Assistant Division Engineer N. J. Vail. The county officials were through a brief summary of detail work and were taught the correct methods of making reports of road work to the state. Many questions were asked and matters pertaining to the state and federal road work were thoroughly explained in order that the county division headquarters which are located in Norfolk.

STARTS ON SUMMER TOUR

Savage Carnival, More Complete Than Ever, Begins Year.

The Savage Amusement company closed its initial engagement of the season in Wayne Saturday night with the favor of fair weather and the support of big crowds. Early in the week rain and cold offered a good deal of discouragement. Warm sunshine followed threatening weather Friday morning, however, and the next two days were ideal. Beginning with their appreciation of the Savage enterprise, and turned out in large numbers to enjoy its amusements.

In addition to the usual merry-go-round and ferris wheel, new attractions enticed the interest of old and young. The Savage band is up to its ears in high standard. The free act is a contribution of feats in jugglery, and is—eminently—worth seeing.

The stellar attraction is the big theatre where dramatic performances of the highest order are staged. Mr. Savage has succeeded in employing an exceptional group of performers. Al Wilson who has been managing the dramatic part of the carnival for several years is still on the job, and reflects ability and fine judgment. The plays are sufficiently involved to be interesting, and are threaded with clean, witty comedy, and the performers are well adapted to the parts taken. The dramatic group is manifestly the strongest ever assembled by the carnival.

FIELD MEET POSTPONED

Unfavorable Weather Hinders Plans—Date Set for May 21.

The thirteenth annual field meet for the high schools of Northeast Nebraska, was scheduled to be held in Wayne last Friday, was postponed because of unfavorable weather until May 21. This date will be the closing day of many of the schools but it is thought most or all of the teams before registered for entrance will take part.

Wayne residents are working to make this occasion a gala day for the participants and other visitors. The commercial club is working with the State Normal school to provide entertainment and accommodations for those who come.

The program for the meet will reach the same as far as is now known. It is expected that no changes will have to be made. Besides the track events, the baseball championship will be decided, and also the girls' basketball championship.

A ROUGHNECK HANGER-ON

Stranger Believed to be an I. W. W. War Ordered to Leave Town.

The Savage carnival had a roughneck hanger-on for a few days last week, and it was finally necessary to put him out of town as an alternative to prosecution. It is believed he is an I. W. W. or some other equally undesirable person. The man claimed to be in the employ of the carnival and demanded pay. Mr. Savage had not hired him and did not want him and therefore refused to be worked. The roughneck cut off the lights in the big tent one night and threatened to blow up the whole carnival Friday night. Then he was taken in hand and put behind the bars. Early the next morning he agreed to put distance between him and the carnival as far as his legs would carry him if he were released. Accordingly he was started down the track towards Sioux City and was going in high gear when last seen.

Wanted: The Best Man.

Col. Nelson Johnson, of Concord, O., in an interview in the Washington Post: Public sentiment is not divided along party lines this year. Men and women are asking, "What of the future?" They yearn for the next few years. They want to be assured that the destiny of the nation is in safe hands; no idealist, no high-minded party man, no pussyfooting, but a firm, vigorous executive, who will not be found wanting when the storm clouds mass and the sun turns into a torrent. A business man for president now, if ever.

THROWN AGAINST MANGER

Boy Hurt by Horse—Paving Begins at Pierce—Nearby News.

Milton Sherman, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sherman of south of Pierce, was seriously injured last week while playing in the barn. It is thought he had climbed upon his favorite horse which threw him against a manger. The parents heard the boy cry and when entering the barn found him in an unconscious condition. His head was lacerated and he was unconscious for forty-eight hours.

Work was begun on the paving of the streets of Pierce last week. Two blocks have been closed to traffic. Grading and putting in the curbing have been started in earnest.

Wood Cones of Randolph, went to Washington, D. C., last week with eleven other state bankers of Nebraska to appear before representatives to ask the enactment of a law to prevent the encroachment of the federal reserve system on state banks. Representatives from banks in thirteen states were to be present at the hearing.

John Conners of Emerson, died of his home here Saturday, May 1, following a long illness. He was 66 years in this part of the state, having been a druggist at Emerson for thirty-two years. The funeral service was conducted Monday by Father Burke, and interment was in the Emerson cemetery.

W. R. Shearer, janitor of the Emerson school, caught seventy-nine mice in the school building one day last week.

The fremen of Bloomfield bought a new truck chassis for the fire department. The old truck was traded in on the new one. As the department has no source of income the people of Bloomfield donated the $700 yet to be paid on the new truck.

Conductor Pat Salmon on the Bloomfield line cut one of his feet last Thursday morning at the depot in Bloomfield. The station was not open when it was almost train time. Becoming impatient he broke a window to enter and cut his foot when doing so. He was taken to his home where medical attention was given.

While in Laurel last week, C. H. Moore, a state officer, found several cars without licenses for 1926. The owners of the cars were put under the authority of the marshal. The state agent said he had found several cases in which a man owning two or more cars transferred the one license to the one he was using. This is a violation of the law the same as not having a 1926 license. William Zinn of near Martinsburg met with an accident last week while plowing in a field. No one knew just what the accident was but he was found dying in the field the next day. Mr. Zinn was 68 years old and leaves one son with whom he lived and three daughters.

According to the Laurel Advocate, the water level in Crystal lake has been raised sixteen inches by the late rains. The owners about the lake had raised $2000 to raise the level of the water but now they will not need to use this money.

Why We Sell

Gripwell Tires

We are not recommending the Gripwell Tires just because we sell them. We sell them because we recommend them. There's a difference. Back of the gripwell product is a conscientious desire, not merely to "make tires," but to make tires right. And it is that determination, more than anything else, which puts the extra miles under your car. We can fill your wants in either cord or fabric tires, and tubes. Remember that prices are advancing on account of the scarcity of fabric, and that it is highly important to supply the summer's tire needs now.

Also remember that we handle paints and can give you some real bargains.

The country's welfare must not be sacrificed on the altar of politics. What we need most right now is high-minded self-examination.

A writer in Harvey's Weekly says the only hope for the success of the democratic party this year lies in the remotest possibility of a colossal blunder in the Chicago convention.

The man who advertised for a "Christian gentleman" to drive an automobile, will have difficulty getting one who will long remain a Christian if he has to drive over unimproved roads at this time.

Children are taught in school that the surface of the earth is three-fourths water and one-fourth land. This ought to be proportionately with the facts. The proportion of water is far larger than that, and is growing larger every day.

A man who is big enough to aspire to the presidency, ought to be big enough to accept defeat and abide by the judgment of the convention. If Hiram Johnson fails to muster nominating strength at Chicago, as seems likely, he will appear before the eyes of the people endorsing the nominee and boosting for his election.

The drought which cast its withering spell over this section for three days—seventy-two hours—was broken Sunday night. Immediate danger of another dry period was averted Tuesday when water fell in torrents. As people had developed fins and webbed feet under the influence of successive days of parched moisture, they could move and have their being in ease and comfort again.

It is strange, indeed, that governmental authority is unable to successfully cope with some of the outstanding situations on the minds of people in the way of big costs. Prices exacted for two commodities—sugar and paper—give proof of a high-handed administration that is to be attacked and routed. Herbert Hoover says the administration blundered when it failed to take advantage of the opportunity last September to buy the Cuban sugar crop at six cents a pound. He further suggests that this country could even now secure relief by cooperating with large European countries. The public interest would warrant the government in taking care of the essential commodities and seeing that the practice is stopped. Even if the paper supply is cheap to the demand, there is no good reason to allow the price to be forced up until purchase becomes prohibitive. The administration announces its intentions, but really accomplishes nothing in the direction of furnishing a remedy.

Wayne is too big to do many things that villages may do. One of the things is to often close business houses for special occasions. Only rarely is it advisable to shut down the business district and create an "anti-traffic" for an afternoon. Wayne draws trade from a wide area. If the industry is increasing, therefore, the reasons are multiplying. It is not necessary to interrupt industrial output or dis-appoint patrons by shutting off steam and closing doors. The event is of sufficient general interest and importance to warrant a holiday. The business district may pour out its encouragement and attention to any public enterprise or function without unnecessarily hampering its service and jeopardizing its sources of revenue. People are too prone to view a proposition from one angle, and that one angle often contemplates only self. A broad perspective is desirable and should be considered in all interests. What one man can easily do in his business or industry one day cannot be done by a whole town. Therefore, when the business district should be asked to attend and support a worthy public event, it should not be asked to close its doors. These things are so manifest in a town whose size and importance compel it to shake off the habits of a village. That no argument should be needed.

The primaries make it plain that a large majority of the less than half a million of us who are in sympathy with President Wilson's policy in demanding acceptance of the proposed League as a condition of support. The administration would be overwhelmed with negative votes on the proposition of accepting the League as it now stands. The primary party lines, many showed favor for a League with the Lodge reservations. Many others showed opposition to any sort of League. Even in the Georgia primaries, democrats repudiated the administration's League policy. Mr. Hulse said on the morning after the primary: "I advocated the ending of the legal fiction that we are still at war with Germany favoring the declaration of peace by joint resolution of congress. Everywhere in all parties the president's short hours insistence on his League plan is being opposed. He seems determined to allow himself to be peremptorily routed. He proposes change to wartime procedures and powers, apparently opposed to a declaration of peace unless his program is exactly followed. As I anticipated he even threatens to veto the resolution of Senator Knox declaring for the re-establishment of peace. In concluding a plea-out review of conditions, Senator Knox said: "The Parisian peace-makers should have confined their activities to making peace and then, as soon as peace was permitted, to the participation therein by all peoples, initiated an international conference to formulate for submission to the nations of the world a plan of view to adoption by them, an arrangement providing for the establishment of international law, the establishment of a court of international justice and the outlawry of war. This arrangement to be as complete, comprehensive and compelling as that which is consistent with human rights and human liberty, with the progress of civilization, with the preservation and fostering of free institutions and with the inherent right of every people to be secure to enjoy peace, and to work out unhampered by his own destiny subject only to his equal rights of all other peoples."

Politics.
(Dixby in Living Journal)
The democratic fight in the usual way. The platform committee had something to say; the caucus was clearly to obviate harm. It pointed with pride, and it viewed with alarm, it worked against sinners who pledge to deceive. It promised salvation to all who believe in the "quick service" in nation and state. All evils exposed and reformed while you wait. The democrats always amuse me as such. So cheerful of speech, and they promise so much. In pleasing demeanor, they do very well. But, put them in office and dam-mitted, their pledges forgotten, they laugh at the folks. And matters run on as they always did. BIX.

REPRODUCES HERALD ADS

Omaha Trade-Exhibit Picks Out Two for Favorable Comment.
The last issue of the Omaha Trade Exhibit reproduces two advertisements appearing recently in the Herald which were set by Albert Neelson and J. J. Ahern, one of the two per branch of the Herald's mechanical department. One is the advertisement of J. J. Ahern and the other that of George Fogarty.

The exhibit makes this comment on the Ahern ad: "It will leave it to you to the accompanying cuts and to the mighty fine advertisement for women's seasonable shoes."

This ad appeared in the Wayne Herald and we are struck as being the very best and one we have seen this Spring.
The cuts are all furnished by the advertiser and they picture actual shoes they are in this instance, much better than a cut of a shoe that would only show an approximate style. The fact that the cuts are identified with the brand name helps than hurts the effect of the ad.
The lay-out, arrangement, type and border faces, etc., are all appropriate, artistic and pleasing without losing force or continuity.

"The last-mentioned advertisement about the whole ad is its generous but for the optimism of the Spring, its suggestive influence to dress up, to discard old styles and to take on spring attire. Even the outline cuts are suggestive of lightness, coolness, as contrasted with heavy black cuts that may be more appropriate for winter and fall seasons."
"We are merely suggesting a few of the good points of such advertising that there are many more worth consideration for any merchant who is wondering how he is going to start the spring buying in his store. The ad and cash in his merchandise."
Also appears this comment on the Morgan ad:
"Would it have been better to have shown the suits in action, or as being worn by men."
"You will note that the cuts in the ad are pretty close representations of the actual garments, and you know that isn't often true about the pictures that show men and boys dressed as advertising for clothing."
"There are advertisers, and good ones, who know that isn't often true about the pictures that show men and boys dressed as advertising for clothing. They value the selling force or suggestive value of any cut to show goods too much in detail. To bring out every

Buy Your Suit or Coat Now at a Big Reduction

The awful weather and impassable roads have cut down our ready-to-wear sales badly. Women from surrounding towns who always come here for their garments have been unable to get here and we are left with a big overstock. We must offer a big special inducement to sell these surplus garments, so we have cut the price to the very limit. You can get a coat or suit now at prices you would not expect until July or August, when you would have only the left-overs to choose from. Never have we had to sell ready-to-wear at such a sacrifice at this time of year.

little more every seam and button, more than the goods nothing more but dead merchandise, whereas to show a man well dressed and in action suggests the pleasure and satisfaction to be derived by the purchaser of the clothing.
"However, it is our judgment that the accompanying ad is a good one. It is also taken from the Wayne Herald. There are other good newspapers carrying good advertisements published in this section, of course, but it happens that this week the two ads that appealed to us most for comment here are both from the same paper."

Davenport Times: A roster of the nation's wealthiest men would show that the majority of them are not the men who inherited their wealth, but that they are men who have made their money on their own initiative and as a result of their own ability have attained to competence. For after all it is the men who do things, not the men whose fathers have done things for them, who hold the conspicuous place in the world of affairs today. The exceptions are so few as merely to prove the general rule.

the sprouting corn, and the playful colt and steer. May's a pippin and a peach, o'er whose charms all birds waltz; and of the pobbles on the beach, she, the one the wise boys choose. Oh, a month ago we felt shab—the winter might return; and the sleet again might pelt, and there might be snow to burn. And it was us in suspense, and the weather prophets all were forever on the fence, knowing not what might fall. And a month from now we'll try in the superheated air; and no doubt the passers-by will forgive us when we swear. But May brings us no distress, in her genial smiles we bask; climate, as we go to press, is the smoothest man could ask. It's the month that hits the spot, after winter's old and drear; every other month, I wot, should be May, throughout the year.

BAD LUCK.

It is seldom that a single, in a regiment they rise, and outgadding cardraps mingle with the tears of other guys. When a blaze calls out the firemen, there'll be seven in a party, while the rest of the kindred brethren chant the litany of woe. Now a tire sustains a puncture, in a long cross-country run, and the driver, at this juncture, knows his grief is but begun. Not a passing fellow'll travel, but a tire is running flat, tacks and nails and chunks of gravel all contribute to that. To the moral, undermining all such grievous things as these, and his language, hot and shining, wits the leaves on nearby-trees. Things go wrong—early—morning—waking when from your couch you start, and you take it as a warning that the flies will harass and the luck will turn your evils come evening, not, alas, as single spies; but in legions they come snorting, as we sadly swat the flies. But they'll soon have run their courses, and the luck will change awhile; from our woe we'll have divorces, and we'll spring the old time snipe.

IN THE OLD TIME.

When I was young a shilling was pretty hard to get; for once I went grilling in boots of honest sweat, before he'd fairly earned it, and when he drew his tin, 'twas seldom that he hurried it, or idly blew it in. At Christmas time he'd sell and make some kopecks by; and he would spend a dollar the Fourth day of July. One day, when a circus came lumbering to town, with grafts and fakes to work, we'd happily blow a crown. Then, having had his ride, he'd come back, returned, and, strictly on the quiet, he picked all he earned. And when life's winter found him, it didn't find him broke, he'd come home all around him, and greenbacks in his pocket. But now such sane endeavor, such sense, we vainly seek; the dollar, with its silver, is a common mass once a week. The money's coming easy, with equal ease it goes; the toiler, flip and breezy, just blows, and blows, and blows. With all his wiles disgusted, he blows his wad today; cheer up! we'll soon be busted! a panic's on the way!

SHOES.

I priced a pair of shoes today; I asked the price, and went away. The dealer begged, in frenzied tones, that I would hand him twenty dollars, and a cloth, and a shining kid, as other gorgeous swindlers did. "Nay, nay," I said; "again, nay, nay—'I'll fall for no such graft today." I did not purchase my old feet, and make them think they're cute and sweet. I reared them in a frugal way, and they let me go gay, in they wore shoes at such a price they'd soon be feeling too blamed nice, and they would look with high disdain on feet attended in leather plaun. Then I went home and splayed the stair that leads up to the attic bare, where all the household junk's been thrown, for years, with shoes and shoes not known. And then I found old shoes galore; a dozen pairs were on the floor, all lying in a straggling heap, thrown there in times when shoes were cheap. I had the cobler fix the soles and sew a few unsightly holes, and now I've shoes enough, I wot, to last me till I last I'm shot. Now see the moral, very well. One way to beat the H. C. L.

The Eldorado Stage Co. of Los Angeles tested 22 loadings on 12 passenger Packard buses. Not a tire was found to match the Millers in that extreme service.

Some Costly Mistakes

Men are Making on Tires

Men who buy tires on a guess, or on claims, are making some costly mistakes: Large tire users make tests and comparisons. And the results in large years are amazing.

California stage lines are using Millers after million-mile tests with many rivals.

The Way to Know

At the Miller factory over 1,000 tires yearly are worn out in tests and comparisons.

They constantly prove that Miller is the best tire built.

In extreme rear-wheel tests they require an average of 15,000 miles on Cords. They prove that the new Miller tread outwears the best of others by 25 per cent.

Such tires should be tested by every owner of a car. See what they give you. Compare with any tire on opposite rear wheels.

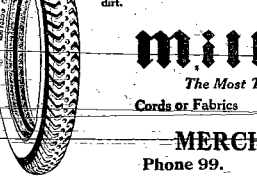

Miller experts, in large years, have doubled average tire mileage. Old-time figures do not apply today.

You will fix new requirements for your tires when you try a Miller. Do it now.

Hudson Taxi Co. of Detroit, for instance, made a long test on Miller Cords. And the average was 15,000 miles.

Miller dealers get hundreds to compare Miller mileage with others. And they find an increased mileage of 50 per cent to 75 per cent.

Large truck users are comparing Miller Cords, passenger type, with all others. And they are coming in large numbers to Millers.

Real Bargain in a 160 Acre Farm

A good quarter section farm with an extra good set of improvements, located in Wayne county, for sale on very easy terms.
This quarter has a strictly modern house that would cost at least $16,000 to build today; a good barn, double corn crib, hog house, garage and other buildings, excellent water works system, fine gas plant, had it all ground and gently rolling and in excellent condition. Close to church and school on telephone and R. F. D. The price is $300 an acre and it will take $16,000 to handle, long time of balance.

SCARCITY OF FARM HELP Country Employment Preferable to City for Saving Money.

The Nebraska farmer, the "hired man" on the farm is disappearing and notwithstanding the great strides that have been made in farm machinery improvement, he still has to be reckoned with. While he is scarce as gold dollars during a general campaign, he is one of the articles that is absolutely necessary in every agricultural community here in Nebraska as well as elsewhere.

That the "hired man" who is anxious and willing to do farm work is disappearing is as certain as it is that night follows day and this description of the "hired man" is something that is giving the farmers more than a little annoyance. In large numbers the hired men who formerly were contented on the farms have migrated to the cities, hoping in these cities to gain what is termed a "broader" view of life, better living conditions and better wages together with an opportunity to wander up and down the "Great White Way" as the crowded street is termed.

Even with their improved labor saving machinery, our farmers are pressed single handed and alone there are few farmers who are able to plant and harvest the crops that are to be grown on the 160 acre farms of 160 to 640 acres. Consequently the farmers are in a dilemma and one that is giving them considerable anxiety. It is not a usual problem as one of getting help.

On the Nebraska farms this spring farmers are paying men who are capable, $65 to $100 a month, exclusive of board, room, laundry and mending. In addition to this farm hands are getting their Saturday afternoon and Sundays off with the use of a horse, if they desire to go to town, or calling during their off time. Even with these wages obtaining, farmers are unable to find the necessary help to plant and care for the crops.

While the city has its allurement and feels with excitement if young men desire to find it, so far as saving money is concerned, the farm has it better to stand still. While the farm boy, or young man, earning in the city, may receive $100 or possibly $150 a month, if he is capable of doing expert work at the end of the month he jingles considerably less money in his pocket than he would if he had remained on the farm. In the first place, in the city, there is his board, which is around $40 a month, unless the cats at some cheap chop house. Added to this there is his room rent in a respectable locality not less than $10 a month. Then there is his car fare going to and from his work. This takes close to $5 a month out of his earnings while his family with tent mother loses the lost time by rain and bad weather, unless he holds an inside "job," will amount to not less than $30 a month and with another $25 to $30 a month for theaters, picture shows and other amusements, his high wages are practically gone when he returns a month later.

If the country boy has a good "job" on the farm, as a financial and profitable proposition, he had better hold on to it, rather than try his luck in the city.

Under Civil Code.

From Ponca Journal, May 19, 1887.

Last Saturday we received by mail a copy of the Elk Point Tribune dated April 5, which, blocked by the flood, had been over five weeks on the route.

The unhappy condition of the water-stricken town of Niobrara has been described to us by H. Harding of that place. Mr. Harding was formerly a resident of Ponca, and went to Niobrara to live about two years ago. Last week he and his family arrived here in a skiff. He reports that Niobrara is in a terrible condition. The town is now an island made by a new channel which passes along between the town and the bluffs. There is no getting to the place nor out of it except by boat. And from present appearances this state of affairs is not temporary merely, but will continue permanently. There is no travel into the town, and the streets have a deserted, lifeless appearance, business is suspended and Niobrara, which but a few months ago bade fair to become a formidable rival to Sioux City and Yankton, is dead. Owing to the scarcity of provisions and the difficulty of obtaining them, a large number of people are suffering, and in many instances actual starvation is barely avoided. Under the circumstances, there is little work to be done by which money can be earned.

People do not care to farther build in that town, when, as is believed, the line rise of the Missouri will put the finishing touches on the business of wiping it out. Mr. Harding states that everybody in Niobrara, except three or four heavy real estate owners, are in favor of moving the town to higher ground.

He thinks that the cause of the suffering, and in many instances actual starvation is barely avoided. Under the circumstances, there is little work to be done by which money can be earned.

People do not care to farther build in that town, when, as is believed, the line rise of the Missouri will put the finishing touches on the business of wiping it out.

Damage by Flood.
O'Neill, Neb., May 6.—Flood damages to the graded roads and the bridges of the county will amount to more than $50,000, according to the estimate of the county board of supervisors in session here today. The bridges and grades in various parts of the county, but few bridges were washed away, but the approaches to nearly all of the river bridges on the Elkhorn are gone.

"The mortality of live stock during the past year was considerably higher than usual. The weather of the past month has been severe on all stock, particularly young stock. Losses have been unusually heavy, especially those caused by exposure. The condition of health of live stock, although quite satisfactory is still below the average condition for this time.

FOR OIL WELL AT BASSETT Wyoming Syndicate Behind Enterprise in Rock County.

Bassett, Neb., May 11.—Another company has plans under way to start prospecting for oil immediately in the vicinity of Bassett, making two companies operating in this vicinity.

Mr. Hollinsworth of Osage, Wyo., has been spending a few weeks in the south part of the county and it has been learned that he has already leased 20,000 acres and intends to secure leases on at least 30,000 acres. Mr. Hollinsworth represents a Wyoming syndicate of five men, all experienced oil men, who, with their geologist, are expected here this week and will put down a test well as soon as the site is selected. The company is well financed and no stock is expected to be offered for sale.

These men were attracted here by the work of the Basset Oil and Gas company with their test well last year and firmly believe there is paying oil somewhere within this vicinity.

The Bassett project is at a standstill while efforts are being made to raise the amount necessary to complete their test well. A recent meeting this amount was set at $15,000, of which $10,000 has been raised and the remainder is expected this week when work will be resumed.

Herefords at Auction.

Norfolk Daily News: Over 500 worth of Hereford cows, heifers and bulls were sold at public auction here Monday afternoon by Theodore H. Serck of Meadville, Neb., who held his registered sire under very unfavorable conditions. The condition of country roads was such that it was impossible for many buyers to reach the city and Auctioneer M. H. Cruise who had charge of the sale decided to withhold selling a large number of the cattle. He sold O'Neill, a Hereford bull, brought the top price during the bidding which went up to $300 on this animal. The finer stock offered for sale, was very choice, but absence of bidders made it only a fair sale.

STATE'S GROWING CROP

Winter Wheat Improves Spring Variety Behind Normal.

Lincoln, Neb., May 11.—Condition of winter wheat in Nebraska improved 4 per cent during April, forecasting a crop of 4,385,000 bushels as compared to 3,997,000 bushels last year, according to a crop report made public here today by the U. S. bureau of crop estimates and the bureau of markets and marketing of the state department of agriculture.

Cool, wet weather during the past month, the report declares, is highly favorable to the crop and improved wind-damaged wheat to such an extent that the abandonment will not exceed 8 per cent.

Death of Mrs. James Reid.

Mrs. James Reid, a former resident of Stanton county, died at her home in Topeka, Kans., Wednesday, May 5. The body was brought to Wayne Sunday for burial. Funeral services were conducted from the undertaking parlors here Monday morning, Rev. William Kilburn officiating. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

Mary Sophia Hower was born January 14, 1855, at Danville, Penn. She lived there until fourteen years of age when she came with her parents to York county, Neb., in January, 1874. She was united in marriage to John O. Milburn, who died September, 1908. To this union were born three children as follows: Charles H. Milburn of Hayer, Neb.; Mrs. Minnie Bare of Rushville, Neb.; and Mrs. Zella M. Craig of Topeka, Kansas. All three were present at the funeral service.

Mrs. Milburn was married to James Reid February 5, 1892. Mr. Reid died September 24, 1915. The deceased was aged 65 years, 3 months and 21 days. She is survived by her three children. Mrs. James Baird of Wayne is a sister-in-law of the late Mrs. Reid. Mrs. Reid was well known in Stanton county and the southern part of Wayne county.

In fact, he has demonstrated that the people generally are against the peace treaty and covenant. Johnson has been the one uncompromising opponent of President Wilson's treaty.

MOTHERS' DAY - OBSERVED
Wayne Pastors Preach from Texts Appropriate to Occasion

Wayne ministers remembered Mothers' day last Sunday morning by preaching from texts appropriate to the occasion. The congregations were large, and the mothers usually wore carnations in remembrance of their mothers.

At the Presbyterian church Rev. John W. Beard preached the sermon from the text, "The love of the Father is the love of the Son." Following all his suffering and anguish, and as his earthly career was drawing to a close, he turned to his mother and expressed tender and anxious solicitude. Christ's consideration for motherhood was pointed out as worthy of the emulation of the ages. Obligations of mother to the church and of the church to mother were stated reciprocally. Men who have become famous in noble service through the influence of their mothers, were mentioned. Mr. Beard said the mother looks forward anxiously for high character and success in her son or daughter. Her impressions are fixed on her children. Her love is lasting and inseparable.

"My Mother" was the subject of the sermon by Rev. R. H. Pratt at the Baptist church. The pastor addressed his hearers to think of their mothers, and called attention to their mother's revelation of love and duty and all that lead to the attainment of life up to his mother's ideal. The speaker expressed assurance that people whose mothers had passed on would meet them again.

Rev. William Kilburn took for his text "Benedict Thy Mother." The pastor described the suffering of Jesus and how, as his mother grieved and his muscles cried out with pain, he lifted his eyes to look on his mother, and a flood recollection passed over him. The Sacred Home in Nazareth was described—how he was cared for by his mother. The pastor called attention to the origin of Mother's day, the suggestion of Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia in 1908. The appropriateness of the carnation as a Mother's day flower was also mentioned. The speaker suggests purity; its form, beauty; its fragrance, love; its wide field of growth, character; its lasting qualities, fidelity.

Rev. J. H. Fetterolf at the English Lutheran church, spoke in part as follows:

"For fifteen years custom has set aside one day each year to give special honor to the one person in all the world whom we admire the most and love the best—mother. It is not a day set apart to give her advice. She does not need it any more than the fathers, but to pay the tribute that is due her. She is entitled to a word of encouragement by those who love her, and what she does for the blessed work of training, comforting, and encouraging us year after year, but few are the words reaching her ear of noble work she is doing for mankind. In silent but potent exertion she throws out streams of influence, the value of which eternity alone can estimate. She is the quiet monitor who shows a thousand safeguards around her children, impress upon them the truth that virtue and righteousness are the greatest assets of life.

(Mother is the most eloquent preacher that God has on earth, and the effect of her ministrings is the most far-reaching. She has sometimes been looked upon as inferior to man. God has given to man a talent in which he exceeds her—a woman he has given another field in which she is pre-eminent. Home is the realm in which she exercises her highest power. There she is queen. There she wields the scepter with which the world has to reckon. Love is her crowning virtue, the highest and truest reason she has of the home.

"The world has always given to mothers the supreme place for shaping the destinies of nations. Our country today is largely what the mothers of a generation ago were, and the coming generation will be largely what the mothers of today are. It was not mere fable or sentiment but sober truth that Napoleon spoke when he said:—'Who rocks the cradle rules the world.'"

"It is right that this day we should bring our tributes of love and lay them at the feet of our mothers. We can never discharge, even in a small way, the debt we owe her. But we can let her be the occasion to bring our gifts of devotion to her. We can never crown a queen of all. No word strikes so deep or brings back such sacred memories as that sweetest of all words in the human vocabulary—mother. A good mother comes nearer to our idea of God than anything we know. This because her love and sacrifice are Godlike. It is the love that follows us like shadows, and helps to shape the entire course of our lives."

The Drive in Wayne.
On Wednesday and Thursday of last week, Rev. Clark Bancroft, director of promotion for Nebraska Baptists, was in Wayne making the new year-end movement canvass. The response of the Baptist people was very gratifying. Practically every one who was approached by Rev. Bancroft made a pledge—this week. About $1,900 has already been pledged and a number of pledges are yet to be counted. Any who were omitted last week will be seen during the next few days. Rev. Bancroft expressed himself as well-pleased. He was called to Omaha on Friday by an important conference. The canvass will be completed by the pastor.

Next Sunday evening the baccalaureate service of the high school will be held in the M. E. church. Our church unites in this service.

Bad Weather for Spring Pigs.

One Discontented Germ.
Sioux City Journal.—One reason why some of the soldiers are discontented and are asking for hours remuneration for their services is because of a blunder made by the government in another direction. The soldiers may be discontented for the reason, but if they analyze the facts they will find the germ. When the war came on the able bodies were drafted for military service. It is conceded that the money remuneration was insignificant as civilian pay. Duty to home and flag and the spirit of patriotism were the rewards. Those were noble and pure and lofty. But the government did not apply the test to all lines.

The demands for food supplies called for extra effort from another great army which did not bear arms. Food had to be produced. Coal had to be dug. Steel had to be converted into cannon and shells. Timber had to be cut and ships had to be constructed. Except in a few cases those who entered these services were rewarded with wages higher than they had ever received in private life. They were induced to put in extra effort to meet the extraordinary demands. In some instances they claimed extra pay for special duty, because they remained on the job. But in every case they received their pay envelope regularly and incurred few of the real hardships and terrors of the dangers of the men who went to the front or to the training camps. The injustice of this policy is how apparent, but it is too late

FIVE SONS ARE PARTNERS

Their Father Solves Problem of Keeping Them on the Farm.

Drovers - Journal - Stockman Charles Bousack of Shelton, Neb., is a man whose sons have not been affected by theuring inducements of city over living on the farm. He has five sons ranging in ages from 18 to 31, and every one is well-satisfied and content not to be dragged off the home farm. "My father has taken the idea of moving to the city, out of our heads by giving us a share in the business," says Frank Bousack, the oldest of the five brothers, who acts manager of the farm. "We go under the name of Charles Bousack & Sons, and each of the sons has a 20 per cent part in the work. Father is 66 years old and retired from the farm three years ago. He still lives on the old homestead, but lets us do the running of the place. "We are farming 380 acres and do not feed, so you see we can all find plenty to do without moving off the farm. And the fact that each have an interest in the farm and draw our share of the profits is an added inducement for us to stay. I believe it isn't worth talking all of us boys in with him, that we would not have stayed on the farm. Take me, for instance. I learned the blacksmithing trade with the intention of going to town and starting a shop. Dad soon cut this bud short and took me in with him, and I have never regretted the move.

"This farm we live on is the only one of us have ever known. My father started farming on the farm in 1886 when he bought his first 80 acres for $7 an acre. He has continually worked on this place ever since, until now we have 380 acres - the most modern and most extensively improved farm in Buffalo county. There are 24 buildings on the farm, ranging from the house to the stock barn, and a piece of farm machinery made, excepting a threshing machine and tractor. It was bought by trade, but a tractor with as much help as we have to drive horses, and we do not pig in enough small grain to warrant the purchasing of a private threshing outfit.

"Before my father bought this farm, he was working on the section for 13 miles. He had just come over here from Germany six years before, where he had served in the German army for several years. He was a blacksmith by trade, but a farmer by heart, and longed and longed for the day when he would be hearing by himself. My father could not read or write the English at the age of 21, and now he can read and write much better than the average man of his age. "Beginning on an extensive scale as we are now is a very risky piece of business and we have to figure pretty close on everything. Take these cattle I sold today. Some men would claim they made me money, but I lost it. I bought them last fall for $9 when they weighed 1,920 pounds apiece. It was a good buy, as usual. I sold them today for $12.40 and weighed 1,475 pounds apiece, showing a gain in weight of 445 pounds, and disposed of it with the profits as high as they are now, you can read language when I first arrived here, but that that we did no more than break even. Of course, I want to figure the price of corn at the time I fed these cattle, I would also say that a reasonable profit was realized.

"Yes, these cattle did exceptionally well on feed. They gained an average of 3 1/2 pounds per day while they were on feed. We have worked out a standard ration which we feed all our stock and the results are good. Silage is the basic feed of this ration. We grow them, alfalfa and corn in the silage. Cattle fattened in this manner show a much higher quality than corn and alfalfa fattened cattle. I can prove this by the higher price my stuff has sold for.

"Laying quality of silage I lay the credit for our establishing a record every time we have shipped to market. We have been feeding this ration for just a few years. The first year we shipped in our load of steers was seen to top for the year. The second year's shipments were remarkable because on the first two shipments we lost money, but on the third shipment we made a profit. It was just a matter of time to make up for the deficit of the other two loads and leave some money on the profit side. Last year we more than broke even, while most other farmers were losing money. This shipment today is one of the heavyest lots of cattle on the market and among the highest in condition. They were purchased for shipment to Belgium and brought the next top price for the feed. "I guess you might say that we go in for the red colored breeds of live stock right straight through. Our stock cattle are polled Shorthorns, and all feeder and fat-stock are true Shorthorns. We are enthusiastic about the red jersey hog. All our stock is bred up very high, and practically all hogs are eligible for registry. We do register the males and as many of the females that we think will develop into good sows. There are two more light loads of steers that will be marketed some time next week, if we can get cars, and that will clean us up in the feeder line. "We have around 25 head of hogs and a fair batch of spring pigs. "Out of the 380 acres on the farm, 340 of them are going to be planted with corn, 80 acres of alfalfa, 60 acres of wheat, 50 acres of pasture and the rest to be sown with cane. In the past we have filled our big 170-ton silo with corn silage, but this year we are going to load it with cane and save the corn for marketing. We raise an average of from 7,000 to 8,000 bushels of corn each year.

"All of the corn is listed, or check planting for us at all. There is too much work connected with checking the corn in, both in preparing the seedbed and the caring of the crop. In listing the corn, all the seedbed preparation we give the field is to disc it over once, while in checking the ground must be plowed, disced and harrowed. We save time in this manner and can plant the seed much faster. In cultivating we use a two-row corn plow to a much better advantage than it could be used for in a check row planted field."

Fighting the Dandelion. - Sioux City Journal: Fighting the dandelion in the usual manner is like deporting a few dozen radicals while the thousands remain and others develop. But if the public is once convinced that the young and radical dandelion is one of the most vicious spring dishes, an army of housewives will go after the plant with flower trowels and table knives and a plant will remain to reach the spring dishes. The dandelion is one of the choice tidbits which generous nature places at the door and which may be had without paying the robbery prices of the profiteer, and which does not depend upon the existence or nonexistence of the dandelion for the cure. For years the patent medicine manufacturers have understood the value of the elements found in the dandelion for the human body. It is one of the thousands of nature's remedies that lie about the country. But people refuse it unless it comes in a glass container from an apothecary's shop. To think of eating the dandelion has been like drinking the cure for a grand ball. But it is also were the rage and everybody dressed in it. It would wear it. It is so with the dandelion. If it use were made popular everybody would eat it and the dandelion properties which it contains would be taken as a food instead of a concoction. "Spinach comes from the grocer's. It is the aristocrat of the 'greens' garden. It, therefore, is accepted by all and finds a place alike on the table of the aristocrat and the humblest of the rich and the poor. But the dandelion is better than spinach. It is spinach with a kick, one epicurean editor puts it. It has valuable bone building elements. It contains the essences of the earth and the cream of the sunshine. It draws from the storehouses of earth and air and sky and confines within its leaves both food and medicine. But it is pleasant. To be seen gathering a basketful of the plant would be humiliating. Yet the tomato was once like the dandelion: "It was called a love apple and was believed to contain a subtle poison. It was grown for an ornament at first, and when it grew wild the hogs would not eat the fruit. "Now it is the aristocrat of the summer and the royalty of the winter table.

Charged With Illegal Practice. - Amesworth, Neb., May 8. - P. R. Carpenter of Long Pine, after a hearing in the county court here Friday was bound over to the district court on four counts, charged with the illegal practice of medicine.

The state was represented by John M. Coston, county attorney, and the defense by William M. Ely of this city. Secretary of H. H. Antles of the department of public welfare was here to testify that the defendant was not registered in his department as a practicing physician. Section 2724 of the state laws says: "Any person shall be regarded as a practicing medicine within the meaning of this article who shall operate on or profess to treat or prescribe for, or otherwise treat or profess to treat, any mental or mental ailments of another." Evidence was given that the defendant came within that definition as he has a large practice in Long Pine and one hundred counts, it is asserted could have been easily furnished as four hundred counts. The defendant advertises himself as "Dr. P. R. Carpenter." He belongs to that school that is called "Nagropathia." The case will be heard at the next term of the district court of this county and promises to take on a national aspect, as the renowned Clarence Darrow of Chicago has been retained to defend. It is understood that he will attack the constitutionality of the law and will probably take the case to the United States supreme court as the state supreme court has passed on that question in Geo. Woo vs. State, 36 Neb., 241; O'Connor vs. State, 40 Neb., 157; State vs. Baswell, 40 Nebraska, 183; Little vs. State, 40 Nebraska, 780 and in each case has sustained the constitutionality of the law.

already determined upon and the food shortage will send prices still higher unless later unusual seasonable conditions produce bumper crops. The continued contraction of credits resulted during the last week in a decrease in the volume of collections. Business credits gradually are being restricted so that more nearly pre-war collections are required. A few weeks ago collections largely took care of business, the volume of business and the large profits making turnovers easy and contractions prompt. But the tightening of the currency, the restriction of credit extension and the need of keeping accounts down to the "tight" point possible have changed the face of collections. They are now expected instead of awaited. The volume shows a marked decrease.

Business Tapering Off. - Sioux City Journal. - Both trade and industry showed a continuation of the tapering off process last week. Cold and late spring weather was one of the dominant factors in the trade of seasonal goods, but there were other influences at work. The retail trade there was a marked decline in leading lines of wearing apparel, notably in men's clothing. A near nationwide policy of unloading stocks at foreign prices was noted. The conditions extended in Canada, where reductions in prices were more pronounced than in the states. It is shown that the same reason was behind the Canadian movement as behind that in the United States. Manufacturers of shoe, tire, foreign clothing and prices which ought, they say, to reach the consumer in three or four months. Their statement is in marked contrast to former ones in which they anticipated higher leather prices with the end nowhere in sight. The reduction in price sent into the reflection of the tendency of the buying public to stop its reckless extravagance and demand fair prices instead of high prices when buying. In this connection it may be noted that there has been a growing decrease in the volume of trade in what has been termed common luxuries such as silk shirts, high priced neckwear those receiving meat scrap averaged from 125 to 150 eggs apiece.

 Meat scrap is not produced on most farms here and is bought at a higher price than elsewhere.
 It produces eggs, though, several cents a dozen cheaper than where no meat scrap is used.

Milk products or fish give as good results as meat in increasing egg production.
 Save Waste of Purered Bull Calves
 Nature has her own percentage for which she is inflexible in the long run, as the dealer's margin at a Monte Carlo gambling resort: According to this inflexible law of averages there are about as many bull calves born each year as there are heifer calves.

Very good dairyman knows the value of a pure-bred cow from record, and what such an animal may accomplish in the way of improving a grade or scrub herd. Despite their acknowledged value, it appears that 73,000 purebred bull calves of dairy breeds were killed for wool or were fattened for beef in 1918.
 A chart has been prepared by the dairy division, United States department of agriculture, which furnishes a graphic illustration of what happened to the purebred bull calves in 1918.

The time representing purebred Holstein-Friesian cows registered in 1918 runs out to 30,000. The line for the bulls of this breed registered during the same year extends only to 30,000. The difference, 30,000, represents the approximate number of bull calves not registered. Presumably most of them were either wasted or fattened as steers.

The Jersey-bred is 1918 registered purebred milk cows. The business loss of 18,000 purebred sires, many of which might be more profitably employed in the work of improving scrub herds, is a loss of Guernsey and Ayrshire totals is less, but the percentage of loss is heavy, these also.

In the face of this waste it is estimated that five grade or scrub bulls are in use for every purebred bull. According to experts of the United States department of agriculture the replacement of scrub and grade bulls with good pure breeds would quickly and materially raise the average production of dairy herds. One of the reasons for the surprising situation outlined is probably an underdeveloped system of distribution.

of horses to stand idle while the tractor was in use.

The horses remaining on these farms are doing 73 per cent of the tractor work and the tractor the remainder.

The tractors were used for an average of 20 1/2 hours daily a year on the home farms. No records being kept of custom-work.

Three-horse tractors on these farms do the work of eight and one-half horses in plowing, disking, harrowing and harvesting.

The results of this study further substantiate the conclusion that the principal advantage of a tractor lies in its ability to do heavy work in a shorter time than is possible with horses.

It Adds a Wealth of Joy to Family Life

The Cleveland Six adds joy and recreation to the family life in a most unusual degree. It is such a comfortable car, so easy to drive, so distinguished in its refined appearance, that the mother and the children find real delight in it.

And the Man of the House, no matter how critically inclined he may be in mechanical matters, finds in the Cleveland Six a triumph in motor car construction, a car which he will drive with enthusiasm.

The Cleveland Six touring car seats five in comfort. The soft cushioning and the low, under-slung spring suspension, wipe out the road-bumps. The car is handsomely finished and the upholstery is of genuine hand-buffered leather.

And the motor! If you want to know what a motor it is come in and see the car. Ride in it. Drive it yourself. Then you will know. There are few motors indeed that can compare with it in actual performance.
