The True Secret of Success

Is thrift in all its phases, and principally thrift as applied to saving. A young man may have many friends, but he will find none so steadfast, so constant, so ready to respond to his wants, so capable of pushing him ahead, as a little leather-covered book with the name of a bank on its cover.

While in Los Angeles he found in a leading newspaper, under a screaming headline a story heralding the advent of a great army of automobile tourists. The article told how much money the transient band would spend. The tourist crop in southern California beats the wool-crop, prune-crop or grape-crop. Mr. Korrigt felt well repaid for the trip when he worked up in Nebraska and saw by contrast the green fields and great material promise.

WOMEN'S CLUB MAKES $125

Chorus, This Amount from The Washing Ring Performance. After business sessions and donating the net proceeds with the John H. Rogers producing company whose director managed the production of "The Washing Ring" here Thursday and Friday nights, the Wayne Women's club cleared about $125 to add to their fund for the Memorial Community house.

The chorus singing and dancing the humor of some characters, the low making of the flirtatious couple, and the charm of the Mother Goose favorite combined to make this play a pleasant evening's entertainment.

Man and Jack employment. To cause another will not allow them to stay up to her party, wish themselves in Story Book Land and the children of Mother Goose. These two parts were taken by Esther Mae Ingham and Katherine Lou Davis. The light ladies and Musician Mrs. Lovell, and the children of Mother Goose. The second scene shows the children on the road to the castle. Mrs. Lovell, the King's messenger arrives and posts the notice that the king's wishing ring has been lost and the person who finds it is favored with the death or banished from the kingdom. Great consternation follows. Tom Tom, the piper's son, comes to find Mary. This character was taken by Frank Clark.

Bo Peep (Mrs. A. R. Davis) arrived with the news that some child has been chased for sheep away and she can't find them. Tom leaves Mary to console Bo Peep. During the time the King's messenger (Mrs. Lovell) had stolen and which the children had found and given to Tom. Simon (Mrs. Lovell) had stolen and which the children had found and given to Tom. Simon puts it into Marjorie's pocket. She puts it into Mary's hair. Mary puts it into Tom's pocket and the boy of jealousy of Bo Peep transfers it to the latter's pocket and then goes to notify the king where the ring may be found. Mary feels that Tom does not love her. Mary, Tom and the chorus sing "Ask the Flowers to Tell Us." Lightly the girls as Snowdrops sang the concluding chorus of the first act. All the cast appeared for the finale.

The first scene of the second act is at the court of the King, the King of Hearts (Lloyd Rohrer) and the Queen of Hearts (Miss Margaret Chase) are receiving company in the throne room. A group of girls, costumed as knights and ladies danced the minuet. The king's messenger (Harold Croghan) announced the guests as they arrived. King Cule (Fred Blair) and his three hiddlers kept the court audience merry.

Bo Peep and the Knaves become attached to each other. These two sang "Little Girl at Home." They are joined by Mary and Tom and together the four sang the quartet number, "Our Farm." Mrs. Spratt (E. Fleetwood) and the society girls made a decided hit with their singing and dancing. Mrs. Spratt and her assistant, Mrs. Spratt (Mrs. Spratt) and the society girls made a decided hit with their singing and dancing. Mrs. Spratt and her assistant, Mrs. Spratt (Mrs. Spratt) and the society girls made a decided hit with their singing and dancing.

The scene changes to the home of Ian and Jean. They are found sound asleep on the floor when their mother (Mrs. C. A. Orr) comes to bring them some ice cream from her party. They are glad to see her and she is glad to see them. They are joined by Mother Goose. Behind the gauzy curtain at the rear appear all the people that the children had met in Story Book Land. This finale was very effective and beautiful.

For the success of this home production the credit is due to the boys, Doyle, the cast, the ushers and the women of the club who worked faithfully for its production, share in the honors.

Trim the Trees. To the Herald: Midsummer day is just all matters in time. No one who appreciates the beauty of outdoors is free to go to the country and breathe deep June, but it seems that the citizens of Wayne would be able to better enjoy the remaining summer months all the trees which line the streets throughout the town were trimmed right enough to afford an unobstructed view of the fine homes and lawns that are the boast of this city. Boughs overhanging the walks often touch the heads of passers-by and on some street in particular, are so low that they are ready to admit the hand of the pedestrian from either side until it is too late to avoid collision. That this is the case should be made to admit the hand of the pedestrian when the paving is completed.

Sugar by the Sack

We expect two liberal shipments of sugar this week. We offer in 100-pound lots at prices ranging from $27.50 to $29.00 per hundred. Sugar which we now have in stock will be sold in 50c and $1.00 lots, over the counter only at 20c per pound. We are promised no decline in sugar until October. The fellows who control the sugar market will "make it tough" for the housewife during the entire canning season. Nearly all of the Basket Store patrons have secured their canning sugar before the price got so high. This was a service we owed our patrons and this was one store that "delivered the goods."

geon general to be in all probability a fatal wound.

The elements of a rampage occurred in the afternoon. A heavy storm set in, accompanied with a deluge of wind and thunder and lightning. One of the timber bolts which support the roof struck Mr. Hobbs' house, dashing the chimney to fragments and doing much damage to the house, though miraculously not striking the inmates.

About a block south of Mr. Hobbs' house a gang of section men were working on the railroad and some of them were knocked down by the electrical current. Their fellow workmen thought them to be dead, but they were found to be conscious, though they had lost all control over their bodies.

In a short time, however, they revived and were all right again. About five minutes after this electrical exploit, a big tornado passed over town going east. As it was very high it did not damage to the town, but about a mile away it let itself down to the ground and made things fly. The corn cribs and sheds on the Sibley ranch place were lifted skyward and were sent spinning over into Dakota territory.

Mr. Dunlop's wagon was also carried off and the horses, cows, sheep and trees were also scattered along the line.

At the river the tornado assumed the functions of a waterspout and sucked up an immense volume of water, a little farther along its course the water jet and the water fell a vast distance. The tornado was gathering strength as it moved and probably did much more damage east of us than here.

It is reported that a Mr. Comskie who was driving home on the Daily when the storm came up, had one of his horses struck and killed by lightning. Mr. Comskie was not injured, nor was his other horse.

Later this cyclone tore down buildings, and killed and wounded several persons, about four miles north of Sioux City.

Back to Plain Orthodoxy.

Philadelphia Plain Ledger. In nominating Livingston as a candidate the republican party has returned to the traditions of McKinley. They are not trying to elect a super-man who will feel himself entirely competent to do all the nation's thinking for it. They are putting a man in the position of chief executive who will seek and listen to advice from the public servants whom the people elect to surround every chief executive. It is not an American spirit to establish in practice a dictatorship over themselves. They do not reject an autocrat, hereditary or self-appointed. They sincerely believe in the democratic form of government.

This gives stability to an administration, and that what we particularly crave. We want and profoundly need settled policies in our public business, whether at home or abroad. We want to get back to plain orthodoxy. We want to see the government strictly mind its business, in saving its money and let production, industry, agriculture and all the energies of this mighty nation enjoy free play.

We are due for a term of conservatism, if that means keeping quiet away from the giddy brink of socialism. We do not want to see the government in any way hampered by its departments just because we have a president who has a penchant for "forward-looking" persons, who cannot perceive the middle of holiness because the light of "the Millennial dawn" is in their eyes. We want a government of sane and sensible men, men who value personal liberty, believe in personal initiative and refuse to believe that any one man knows more and better than all men taken together.

A Harding-Coolidge administration should bring us back from the clouds. We can get the Almighty run this own universe for a few years, while we make of America the greatest single social experiment in the world for righteousness, honor, freedom and decency. We may or may not get into a formal league of nations, but nothing in the world can keep us out of the brotherhood of mankind. We were not members of any league when we went to the rescue of the Cubans and then presented them magnificently with self-government. If anybody wants to know what we think about Ireland, let him look at Cuba. We were not members of a league when we took up the challenge of the German autocracy and rushed to the help of the democratic forces battling for human freedom. We do not refuse to belong to an organization or to wear a uniform, or to pay an initiation fee to be decent, straightforward, clean-living, liberty-loving Americans who will fight any foe on earth, however far or formidable, who wars upon the things we love and the principles we cherish.

Harding on Labor. Collier's Weekly: "What this country needs," said Senator Harding recently, "is an employer and employee job. In Marion, O., we have a chip of this nature and not long ago I was in the position of shaking hands with the man who there will never be any capital and labor problem between me and my chauffeur."

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From the Wayne Herald for June 29, 1899:

Rev. R. Weldon is the new pastor of the Baptist church.

Judge Davidson of Humphrey, will be the orator for the Fourth of July.

Markets are: Wheat 55¢; corn, 23¢; oats, 20¢; cattle, $4.50; hogs, $3.00.

Corn is making wonderful strides. The growth the past week has been marvelous.

Carl Beckenbauer fell from a horse when riding near the school house and received a number of bruises.

Mrs. James Britton entertained the Acme club members and their husbands at the final meeting for the year.

Arrangements are being perfected for the Fourth of July celebrations in Porto Rico, Hawaii and the city of Wayne.

Commencement exercises at the Nebraska Normal college will begin August 11. The graduates are preparing their final orations.

An arch and fountain being put in at the intersection of Main and Second streets, is a big undertaking but will be a beauty when completed.

The Methodists of Wayne held their quarterly conference and passed a resolution for the return of Rev. Bithell to this pastorate for another year.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Moran, Mrs. John Coyle and Mrs. Charles Langert went to Humphrey to meet the two little Moran girls who had been attending school.

Principals C. H. Brigh of Winslow, C. E. Morgan of Pierce, C. J. Malone of Wauka, C. C. Singer of Page, C. E. Wilson of Stanton and John McLeod of Neligh, are taking advanced work at the college.

Among those finishing the teachers' course at the Nebraska college are: Myrtle Hennings, Mae Branson, Edna Sewell, Hattie Jeffries, Mamie Hughes of Wayne and Emma Scherwin of Pierce. This is but a partial list.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lessman,

Henry Walters, Henry Meyers, Mrs. H. Robert May, Amy and Mrs. Edna Welsch, and Henry Hendricks, went to Norfolk to attend the Carhart's Home picnic given by the Carhart's.

Nearly three thousand people were present.

The seventh annual convention of the First District Christian Endeavor held a three-day session at Albia, Ia. The team and welcome was given by Thomas Rawlings. A reception was held on the J. D. Haskill lawn for the delegates. Twenty-two societies were represented.

W. S. Kenyon, a brakeman on the Bloomfield train, met with a serious accident while switching in the railroad yards here. The engine was slowly backing up near the stock yards when Kenyon attempted to step on the dead end of the rear of the tender. His foot slipped and the wheels ran over his leg from the heel to the knee, crushing it badly. The foot had to be amputated.

Considerable horse stealing has been going on in this vicinity. One night when John Liveringhouse's son was returning from Altona, he and a neighbor noticed two horses pulled up and the fence down at the Liveringhouse farm. Inside the field they saw a team and wagon. No one was in sight so they un hitched the horses and took them to the barn. They waited for the owners of the team but none appeared.

From Ponca Journal July 1, 1920:

In Washington, at about half past nine o'clock last Saturday morning, President Garfield was shot by a man named Gitzau, the president in company of Secretary of State Blaine, was entering the depot of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for the purpose of taking the train to New York. They had just entered the large recessed portion of the depot when the assassin in rapid succession shot the president twice in the large steel revolver being used. It is supposed that he also intended shooting Mr. Blaine, had the son, how-instrument used by the police in attendance. MEETING OF WOMEN'S CLUB

A. R. Davis Tells of Convention—Mrs. Mark Miller Speaks.

The Women's club met at the opera house Saturday afternoon, in a short business session. Mrs. J. C. W. Lewis gave a partial report of the results of the annual alumni banquet which the club served at the Normal and "The Wishing King" performance.

A. R. Davis talked to the ladies about the Chicago convention. He first spoke of the organization of the Wood and Johnson delegates before the convention. He described the colossus in which the convention was held. It is two blocks long and was liberally decorated. Telephone arrangements made it possible for those at the rear to hear the speakers plainly. He vividly described the scene at the nomination of Wood. Red green and blue feathers with Wood's name on them came down from the roof as the nomination speech was made.

Mr. Davis said that the delegates themselves proved an interesting study. There was one Crooke present from Louisiana. The speaker gave his impressions of Joe Cannon, Senator Borah and Chicago De-Pew Mrs. Longwell, sister of Theodore Roosevelt and her husband had prominent places. Whenever Roosevelt's name was mentioned it was greeted with applause. His sister, Mrs. Robinson, made an especially striking appearance in a speech in which she mentioned Wood as the man best fitted to receive the mantle of Theodore Roosevelt.

Mayor Thompson of Chicago professed himself for the use of the delegates in seeing Chicago. Gov. McKelvie entertained the Nebraska delegates at dinner one evening and they were examining at the hotel of Gen. Wood. The delegates also visited the steel mills.

Mr. Davis said that while seeking headquarters for Nebraska delegates, they were asked $100 a day for room in one of the hotels available for such a purpose. The delegates were established at the auditorium. As many people were in the auditorium as there are in Wayne county. The speakers and many delegates and many visitors.

The nature of the ballot voting was explained. Mr. Davis had great faith in Wood although he called him a "has been." He repeated a statement of Gen. Wood's that the first thing to do was to demobilize the army of the shirked unemployed.

Mr. DeWiest said that Gen. Condit of Massachusetts won the nomination for vice president through his advertising.

The Nebraska delegates always tried to see that Nebraska visitors were admitted to the auditorium. When all the seats were taken, Nebraska friends were to get on the floor and could stand up throughout the session. Wayne county people who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Miller and John T. Bressler, Jr., Le Roy Owen and Pingree Hughes.

After the talk by Mr. Davis, Mrs. Mark Miller spoke about the National Convention of the Federation of Women's clubs at Des Moines in June. There were 1,200 delegates at attendance and 1,200 members of Des Moines clubs. There were 101 delegates present from Massachusetts. There was a large delegation from Nebraska and the organization has a membership of 3,000,000 women. Mrs. Miller explained how important it was to have a federation which could put it in touch with so many other clubs.

Little Bobby Schults of Stanton while playing with his brother near the creek there last week, lost his balance and fell into the water which had been swollen by the late rains. The brother ran to the house to call for help. A man heard the crys and ran to rescue the boy who was caught beneath the brush. The boy was unconscious but was restored to health after several hours.

Complain to your wife.

And then you forget all about it until the next meal.

STRAHAN & NOAKES AT TOP

Wayne Stockmen Win High Place on Sioux City Market

Sioux City Live Stock Record, June 23: Strahan & Noakes of Wayne county, Nebraska, were high on the top piece of the day in the fat cattle division, their load of 1,314-pound steers selling this morning at $16.00. These feeders were to hand a week or so ago with another consignment of their good offerings that sold at $16.00. Wayne county feeders have been generous contributors to the fat cattle market at Sioux City recently and the satisfactory prices obtained for their offerings have gone far toward making their regular patrons of this market.

Town of Pierce Flooded

Norfolk, Neb., June 26: The crest of the flood in the Norfolk river, caused by the cloudburst at Plainview, reached Pierce early this morning and inundated streets in the eastern part of town. Employees of the flouring mills went to work in boats this morning and the water was running over the Northwestern tracks. Some untimeliness is caused here, and merchants are taking precautions against flooded basements.

In the next shipment the creamery used second-hand milk instead of higher quality clean, attractive packages such as were used in the 3-tub sample. Although the firm's shippers were satisfied in quality and cost of the 2-point milk, the commission firm was unable to dispose of it as "extras," and the shipper was compelled to take a loss of 2 cents a pound on the shipment.

Would You Wait for Permission?

What do you think of having to telephone for permission to run from a flock of bears—and then having your more or less petting proposal turned down?

That is what happened to J. W. Hodge, a fire guard on the Shenandoah National Forest, a few days ago.

Hodge was stationed at the lookout tower on Hazyton Mountain and to make expert diagnosis of far away smoke smudges or any other indication of fire in the forest. This particular morning when he went to the lookout tower on the mountain top he failed to attach his gun to his person. It was a mere formality anyhow—and guns are cumbersome things to carry around.

When he got into his lookout box and began searching the dim distances that look like the further fringes of the world, he saw various things that he thought were bears.

When he saw one of these animals slipping to the ground, he immediately called to the three bears who were prowling around only a little distance from his 10-foot tower. "Get over here and get out of my sight," he thought, but he did not know how soon they might become hungry. They being no animals at all, he decided to wait for permission.

Then he remembered he could not leave his post without permission, so he called up District Warden Shandling, laid the case before him and requested permission to go for his gun. He was promptly told that the thing was impossible. The forest were dry, and fire might start anywhere at any time. Bears of no bears, it was Hodge's business to stay in that lookout box. Being a perfectly good forest guard, he stayed. Fortunately another lookout happened to listen in on the telephone conversation and succeeded in sending help to Hodge.

Cost Factors in Milk Production

Why is it that it costs so much for a yearling to produce 100 pounds of market milk? To answer this question in terms of feed, labor and other cost factors, the Division of the United States Department of Agriculture has been collecting for several years facts and figures from various sections of the country. The results from northwestern Indiana, typical of many farms supplying the Chicago market, are now available in bulletin form. In collecting the information the department worked in cooperation with Purdue university.

To give permanent value to the figures, the investigators determined the cost of milk production chiefly in terms of feed, labor and other important factors. Thus, by applying current value to any of the items a dairymen or anyone else interested in his own business present facts with those published by the department. Practical farms owned or handled by resident farmers were used in the investigation.

Among the outstanding results are the following:

The unit requirements for keeping a cow one year were: Concentrates, 142 tons; dry concentrate, 364 tons; haying and grain concentrates, 212.3; hedges, 14 tons; pasture, 1.36 acres; human labor, 102.5 hours; horse labor, 16.2 hours; overhead and other costs, $1.17. These figures cover the entire year, 68 weeks, and are based on 5% calf.

Feed and pasture comprised 57.6 per cent of the total cost of production; labor 19.5 per cent; overhead and other costs, 22.9 per cent. The total cost was about 2.2 per cent higher by calves and manure. A different percentage relationship would exist however, if present prices for the various items were used.

The extent to which cows of high production save labor was shown clearly by comparative figures for the twenty-five herds studied. The owner of one herd of cows averaging 9,200 pounds of milk annually had to feed and milk only nine cows to obtain the same quantity of milk as that given by twelve average cows in other herds.

The results mentioned, together with other facts, are given more fully in the new publication department Bulletin 888, "Requirements and Cost of Producing Milk in Northwestern Indiana."

White Materials For Summer

WHAT is nicer for warm summer weather than a dainty white skirt and waist? Always cool and appropriate for all occasions.

Business is Contracted.

Sioux City Journal: The close of the fiscal year in business is always marked by a shrinkage in business volume, due to reduced mid-summer buying and to vacations which reduce activities. But at this time the shrinkage is not traceable entirely to these agencies. Transportation troubles, including the fear of outlaw strikes barely averted by the promise of the railway labor leaders to devote the year vacation by July 20, is a prominent factor in the reduction of the volume of business. Another is the restricted monetary operations under which loans for investment and speculation are prohibited. The limitation of loans is a matter of discrimination by bankers, but the available funds of financial institutions are being conserved for commercial and manufacturing purposes. But in these lines loans have been reduced, forcing stocks to be turned in order to meet payments, a policy that would not have been followed had it been possible to borrow for new stocks.

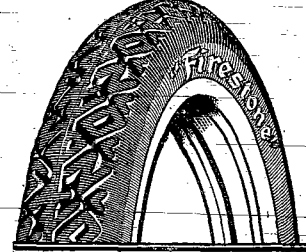

Prices for the future are uncertain. Quotations for 1921 are from one-fourth to one-third higher than present ones. While there has been during the last few months a slight increase in efficiency in industry, the demands for higher wages, shorter hours and other advantages by labor tend to overcome the increase in output and accounts for the prospective higher prices.

The following case is but one of many occurring daily in Wayne. It is an easy matter to verify it. You cannot ask for better proof than I, J. P. Gaerner, retired, Wayne, says: "A number of times I have had kidney ailments and have always found Doan's Kidney Pills to relieve my condition. A cold settled in the small of my back and weakened my kidneys. My kidneys acted too frequently and my back was sore just over my kidneys. After reading the statements of others who had been helped by Doan's Kidney Pills, I decided to try them. When I had used Doan's a short time I could see a wonderful change for the better. My kidneys became normal and my back became strong. I believe Doan's Kidney Pills are just the remedy to keep the kidneys strong and active for anyone who is getting along in years as I am."
