The True Secret of Success

Is thrift in all its phases, and principally thrift as applied to saving. A young man may have many friends, but he will find none so steadfast, so constant, so ready to respond to his wants, so capable of pushing him ahead, as a little leather-covered book with the name of a bank on its cover.

IN LIGHT OF EXPERIENCE. More socialism is the demand of some people, and yet experience should lead us in the opposite direction. Let us call attention to two fact examples: The Nebraska Telephone company is a corporation, operated under certain well defined laws...

The company canvassed the town and secured permission to make the change, proposing to advance its rate slightly. When this was done, users were consulted. They were not asked to pay for phones or other equipment...

The city owns its electric light plant. This is a form of socialism. It is found advisable to change over to an alternating current which is now being done...

Lately Twin Falls, Idaho, let a contract for twenty-seven miles of additional paving. It already has many miles of paved streets. Wayne was old enough to vote before Twin Falls was thought of...

two or three languages. If the city service is poor, and one is prompted to protest, he is only raising hell.

As between the corporation-owned telephone system and the municipally owned lighting and power plant, which is the more arbitrary, which is the more autocratic?

Do we want to extend socialism? Do we want to own the railroads and telephone and telegraph lines? Do we want to become joint proprietors in private enterprises about which we know nothing...

The weather has been ideal for growing crops, and big harvests will be the reward.

Interest in a thing to be accomplished will largely overcome a too common proneness to fumble memory, wasting pep and inefficiency.

The vacation period is on and will not end until September. One may desire a vacation as an institution that is beneficial because it makes the rest of the year more easy by contrast...

Henry Ford was talked of as the presidential candidate of the third party. Henry is no doubt conscientious but mistake in the matter of his great wealth, gained from making cars, has endowed him with eminent qualities of statesmanship.

Comparatively low prices for raw materials and exorbitant prices for finished products present a discrepancy that does injustice to the producer of the former...

world-wide program of healthy reconstruction and rehabilitation.

The labor unions don't like the Kansas industrial deal because it gives them a square deal. They want more than a square deal. Of all decisions rendered by this court, only one thus far has been against the unions...

Among other bursts of radicalism in the proposed platform of the third party is one advocating repeal of "all seditious and criminal anarchy statutes."

"What is the matter with the railroads?" we asked a man who is a student of public problems. When he did not profess to have a complete understanding of the subject, he called attention to one condition which seemed to shed some light...

The third party, in course of formation in Chicago, loudly cheered commendation of the soviet government of Russia. Such cheering is presumed to reflect the sentiment of the convention, which will make a bit with the average American.

The city should either dispose of its lighting plant with proper restrictions, or adopt the city manager plan by which one man will be paid enough to become responsible for all public utilities and the conduct of all other municipal affairs.

We spent one rainy day in the spring of 1883 in Hartington. The town just started and what we were young in a town that had had to be fed around, we remember that everything looked unfinished...

News. The latter explained that he had been asleep, justifying himself on the ground of ill health. Before someone did not say he had been asleep, though we suspected that he had...

The farmers are asked to join the labor unions in promoting the third party, and an attempt is made to convince each group that what helps one will help the other. This position is inconceivable and insupportable.

BALD PRESUMPTION. Bald presumption, manifest in trait and outrageous sacrilege, may be charged upon those who reported to be uttered at the opening of the third party convention Tuesday. Here it is...

UNCLE WALT THE POET PHILOSOPHER

THE PACIFIC.

The great Pacific ocean enjoys a reputation for being a peaceful common, she plays her pleasant game. Day after day her waters roll by with dove-like roar, white and blue, for there is no wreath in the air. No wild and mad breakers will assault the brown-toned cliffs, no play of underkang's search on the beach. The sea is calm, the waves are gentle, inside these gentle waves, and there is nothing doing in sterns and sailors' graves. The western coast is nearly always frantic, it roughs out its boast. It rears around the shores and throws out a hundred and a voter wonders just what is eating it. Its rages are terrific, and dangerous its fun, unlike the mild Pacific that slumbers in the sun. I am a judge of ocean, I have studied them for long; they fit me with emotions that find their vent in song. And these Pacific waves my gentle song, my ocean's cry, please my wife and daughters, like my maiden aunt.

THE MODERN WAY.

I do as little as I can, and ask the highest pay for that which I can master. I ran, now that I'm bent and gray, I fooled along, year after year, at every job. I was a success, always had a steady job that I would do to the hilt. I've heard of men who strive to give full value for their wages, such men are too good to live and never reach old age. Such people live in story books, and treat sacred tales, and many years have passed since I have seen such males. Like other independent spirits who swell the tolling through, I've always stood up for my rights, and whooped about my wrongs. I've paved around in noble rage, and shed all kinds of blame, the rights of those who paid my wages, some occasions, I've done now that I am gray, and but if I cannot find a place, employers will give me one. I do not like my face. They scorn me when in work.

arrayed, with work I'd get in touch; they're heavy, I always was afraid they would do to much.

THE CIRCUIT.

Soon the state-wide presidential candidates for White House fame, in a heat that's pestilential, will pursue the modern game over the country. They'll be chasing, making speeches here and there, with the perspiration racing down their noses and their hair. And their collars will be wet, and their neckties will be tight, and their whiskers dripping sweat. Oh, how better it will be, if the candidates will maintain, for we're thinking when we view them, they look neither sane nor sane. Who can hold his admiration for a man whose neck is red, who has dampened down the sweat with the lakes of sweat he's shed. In the days when I was younger, men of presidential size had more force or frenzied hunger for the mob's approving cries. In the distance, calm and steady, they glided through all the lines, doing nothing, nobly, greatly, and they made a bit with us. Of the candidate collection who could tread the White House way, few will stand closer inspection on a red hot summer day.

THE BAD RECORD.

The hour I stole long years ago, I have ruined my career, for where I chance to go, their phantoms reappear. Oh, men forget the things I've done, of which I may be proud, and they ignore the things I've done competing with the crowd. They spread the tale with tongues and horns, set it from group to group. This is the man who stole the hens from Widow Whitesmith's coop. A hundred widows I have helped, and a hundred orphans, when they've been from me could draw a back. I've made a point of being good, I've held my head very out of luck, my crime has stood triumphant and alone. The usury years have slipped away, in fits and in tees, and I have a widow's hens. Song day a monument, if I rise above my present, I will be the legend on it.

Heat; but don't get on that granite gaze and strike their veins, and say, 'How hollow is such praise. He pinched a widow's hens.'

PARTING GUESTS.

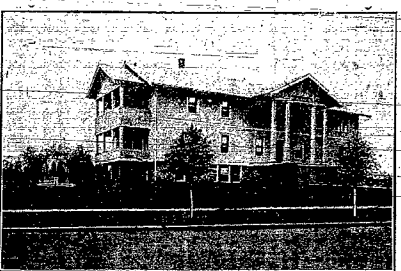

Like to have my friends come in when evening's growing gray, and talk of autos made-of-iron, of hens and hogs and hay. Their coming does not make me sore, 'tis this that makes me grievous: When they would go, their visit over, they take so long to leave! They quit the dazzling sitting room, at half past ten o'clock, then in the hall's religious gloom they talk and talk and talk. At last they leave my tumble door, but on the porch they pass-and go for another hour or more, they play their useful jaws. The night is waxing old and late, when down the walk they go, and then they go at the gate to talk an hour or so. How grand is that infrequent guest who says, at nine o'clock, 'Time flies, you want to rest, so I will take a walk.' He takes his walking stick and hat, and when he comes some more, he finds a welcome on the mat that lies before the door. My friends are welcomed to my gate, and harmless suds shall flow; but when it's time to pull their freight, I wish they'd up and go!

SYMPTOMS.

I read no able doctors' books, peruse no aids and their kind of frightful his, gadzooks, and pains in human backs. The more you read about disease the sicker you will feel, and you'll have nipped and housemaid's knees, and fantods in the heel. I used to read the almanac that boasted Hooper's pills; I kept it hanging in my shop, but by the window sill. And when I should have studied hymns, and treats, and things like those, I read Hooper's one-line and one-liners on the toes. And every time I read a line it filled me with despair; I found I'd get on in my spine, and I'd dander in my hair. Then from my savings bank I drew some nice ten-dollar bills, and to the drugstore promptly flew, and called for Hooper's pills. Oh, Hooper in a palace dwelt, and Hooper's yacht was fine, and Hooper's butter used to feed down stairs to fock the wine, and Hooper lived in Easy street, and Hooper lived to hounds, while I on weary, dragging feet to druggistars made my road, and in the night, I found I had a ray of reason in my dome, and I got up and threw away the dope that filled my home. I told myself that I was well and felt as sick as wax, and why, when I was no longer left by Hooper's annunciations.

Tire Treads

Improved 25%

The latest Miller triumph is a super-grade tread. It excels the best rival treads today by an average of 25 per cent. This has been proved, under careful watch, by many road comparisons.

The Miller Tire mileage is the talk of the day. Not these new-grade treads outwear the balance of the tire.

But one Miller Tire, built with this new tread, has ever come back with the tread gone.

These treads do not vary. Every day the Miller tread stock is vulcanized and tested in the laboratory. It must prove up to these new standards before a tread is made.

Miller-Cord Tires, in the factory tests, now average 15,000 miles. Miller Fabrics from 8,000 to 12,000 miles. And these factory tests are extreme.

Watch your mileage on one Miller Tire. Compare it with any other and it will win you. You owe that to yourself in view of Miller records.

His arrival at Marion was in keeping with his democratic sentiments. There was no parade to meet him and escort him into the city with flying banners and brass of trumpets.

It is impossible not to contrast the trip of Senator Harding with that of President Wilson. It was conceded at that time and it is still conceded that in going into the society of royalty it was incongruous to wear the blue and white ceremonial.

Official dignity is not personal isolation. The president can go out among the people without losing any of his official dignity.

Eight members of scout troop number three left Monday morning on a five-day camping trip. They take near the Chautauque river, south west of Piler. This is a large troop but it was difficult for many of the boys to take the outing. Those in the party were: Joseph Nishals, Horace Feteroff, Ted Milder, Melvin Olson, John and the other boys, Alvin Eichers and Lyle Mabison. The boys were accompanied by Rev. Wm. Kilburn and Rev. J. H. Feteroff.

In the course of a letter to this department, registering a kick follow to receive the Herald, J. H. Porter who lives at Chautauque, Wash., going there a few years ago from Wayne county, said the weather in Washington had been very hot and dry. He reports eighty-five in the shade. He says the farmers want it dry and the fruit men want it wet, and thus the weather man finds himself in a terrible dilemma. A carnival in one town and a chautauque in another have lately kept Mr. Porter very absorbingly amused. Three teams among the recently saw five boxing matches and three wrestling matches at Everett.

SITUATION IN SCHOOLS
Scarcity in Teachers Not Greatly Feared in This County.

Although only half the districts in Wayne county have contracted for district school teachers, there is no reason to believe that the county will face a lack of teachers when school time comes in the fall. A desire to keep up the high standard of the Wayne county teacher has kept various boards of directors from signing up with teachers with little schooling and experience in teaching. Three teachers among those signed up will receive salaries of $150. On the whole throughout the county salaries will be higher than in former years but the districts are willing to pay good prices for good teachers.

One district in this county which has a scarcity of pupils is entering negotiations with the neighboring district, which will allow these few children to attend the other school.

The payment of tuition from this home district funds. This will do away with the hiring of a teacher for a small number of pupils and means that the children will receive better advantages from attendance in a larger school.

The Iowa school of the county report success in filling the vacant positions in their faculties.

County institute will be held in Wayne, August 30 to September 3. Two of the instructors already secured are Dean McProud and Miss Rosabella Reimers of Wesleyan University. The former was an institute instructor here last year.

A majority of the property owners in the eastside residence section of Randolph have signed a petition to pay this district. Even if the city council decides to favor this petition the paving, will probably not be done for more than a year on the existing city business district is not finished and the city will be low on funds accessible for paying for the pavement of the street in this residential district.

The Community club of Randolph has purchased an army truck and when it arrives it will be used dragging the rocks in the vicinity.

Charles Chace of Stanton has purchased a $21,000 home in Long Beach, Calif., and will take possession of it in September. The house contains ten rooms and basement and is handsomely furnished. The grounds have been extensively beautified. The lot is 45 by 150.

From here Mr. Gillilan went to Madison, S. D., to fill a chautauque engagement Sunday.

STATE'S GROWING CROPS

Winter Wheat Has Made Steady Improvement Since March.

Lincoln, Neb., June 12.—The condition of all crops on July 1 was highly satisfactory according to the joint estimates of A. E. Anderson of the bureau of crop estimates and Leo Stahl, secretary, Nebraska department of agriculture. Winter wheat has made steady improvement since March and July 1 estimate of 86 percent forecasts a production of 54,999,000 bushels as compared to 54,097,000 bushels last year. Since July 1 some black rust has developed to an extent that will cause shrinkage of some grain, particularly in lodged wheat and that every acre of the section most seriously effected, by black rust although some has been found in many of the eastern counties. Whatever loss occurs from this cause will be given all the benefit in return. It is estimated that 9.1 percent of last year's crop is still on farms. This is larger than usual. The difficulty in securing cars for shipment is responsible for the large reserves.

The corn crop is making great headway. The month of June was favorable for its cultivation and the fields are exceptionally free from weeds and in splendid trim. The average is 50 percent larger. The harvest is estimated to be 7,382,000 acres as compared to 7,030,000 acres last year. The condition of 98.2 percent promises a crop of 188,241,000 bushels last year.

Spring wheat is estimated to be 88 percent of normal which indicates a crop of 5,820,000 bushels compared to 5,678,000 bushels last year. However, with the presence of black rust the chances are against a total production of both spring and winter wheat should be 57,222,000 bushels according to the July 1 forecast against 60,777,000 bushels last year.

Oats Promising.
The oat crop is promising and with a condition of 86 percent should produce 65,770,000 bushels as compared to 69,662,000 bushels last year. This crop is exceptionally good south of the Platte river. West of the river the seeding was delayed on account of late rains and the average condition is not as promising. However, the July weather to date has been most favorable to late oats and an improvement may be expected in the August 1 report.

The condition of rye is 93 percent and promises a crop of 6,508,000 bushels compared to 6,650,000 bushels last year. Barley is rated at 91 percent of normal which forecasts a production of 5,146,000 bushels as compared to 5,857,000 bushels last year. The maize average has been reduced 10 percent, the preliminary estimate being 104,000 acres. The corn crop acreage is also considerably less than last year. The weather conditions throughout the year have been highly favorable for this crop and if continued the production will exceed that of last year in spite of the reduced acreage. The July 1 condition of 91 percent promises a crop of 8,328,000 bushels compared to 8,950,000 bushels last year.

The farm apple crop is quite satisfactory this year. The commercial apple crop is about four weeks probably equal that of last year. Some of the leading peach trees have fruit this year. Grapes are promising. Blackberries and raspberries are good. Cherries are fair in some places and light in others.

The condition of hay is exceptionally good. Timothy, clover and alfalfa produced bumper crops. The second crop of alfalfa was checked somewhat by dry weather in June. Wild hay is excellent. The average weight per fleece of wool is eight pounds. Pastures are fine and exceptionally good for the sand hill section. All vegetables are in excellent condition. Sugar beets have impressed and are reported to have a condition of 96 percent.

July Business Dullness.
Sioux City Journal: July is never an active business month. It is the month for vacations, vacations and small buying. This year the dullness is aggravated by the uncertainties of the future. In a few instances, notably hides and leather, there is an increased activity over previous weeks, but the field of activity is limited. A crop prospect is optimistic. Conditions this time indicate large yields. But wool hardly finds a market, though the price of woolen goods, especially clothing, remains at the pinnacle.

Money remains close and interest rates high. Demand for agricultural commodities which began two months ago, will continue until the crops are marketed or at least in storage on the farms. Repayment of loans will commence so soon as the southern wheat crop now in stock begins to reach the market. The cotton crop will soon be in storage and that forecasts large advancements for financing it through the growing and picking seasons.

Building operations are conducted in a desultory way, few large contracts being undertaken because of the danger of unexpected labor strikes and the high cost of materials. Public improvements are a standstill, though had the prices of labor and material for such enterprises been normal the country would now be in the midst of the greatest public construction program in its history. The army is building, would be employing an army of men had the program of the last two years been carried out.

Amended and Substituted Articles of Incorporation.

Amended and substituted articles of incorporation of the Farmers Union Co-Operative association, acted by the stockholders on June 5, A. D. 1920:

Notice of Hearing.
To the heirs, creditors and all persons interested in the estate of Samuel Pritchard, deceased: You and each of you are hereby notified that Fannie G. Pritchard has filed her petition in the county court of Wayne county, Nebraska, alleging that said Samuel Pritchard died intestate at his residence in Woodhill, Henry county, Illinois, on or about May 2, 1892. That at the time of his death, he was seized in fee simple of the following described real estate, situated in Wayne county, Nebraska, to-wit: the north half of section two (2), township twenty-seven (27) north of range one (1), east of the 6th P. M. That Samuel Pritchard left surviving him, as his sole and only heir at law, his son, Lafayette E. Pritchard, and also known as L. E. Pritchard; and the son, Forest T. Pritchard, also known as F. T. Pritchard.

That all claims, debts and demands against said estate have been paid in full. That said estate has never been administered in the state of Nebraska. That said Fannie G. Pritchard is the owner of an undivided interest in fee simple of the real estate above described. Petitioner prays for a finding and decree determining the date of the death of said Samuel Pritchard, the date of the death of each of the heirs; the degree of kinship and the right of descent of said real estate; and for an order barring all claims of creditors and persons claiming other relief as may be proper.

Said petition will be heard at the county court room at Wayne, Nebraska, on the 2nd day of August, 1920, at 10 o'clock a. m., at which time and place the heirs, creditors, and all other persons interested in said estate may appear and show cause why a decree should not be made and entered as prayed in said petition.

Dated this 30th day of June, 1920.

What the Automobile Has Done

Automobiles Have Raised the Value of Farm Lands

A remarkable effect of the automobile's utility has been its development of the country. It has overcome the objections and added to the attractions of country life.

Hencefore the attractions of a city home has been its convenience. Travel between cities and surrounding country has been something of a task. Now the motor car has made it a comfort and a pleasure. It has caused the improvement of roads in every direction.

It has made profitable the shops and amusement of small towns. It takes families to local places of entertainment and adds to the interest of the recreation.

The Small Town Benefits From Automobiles

The housewife can secure all the necessities of life without delay. It is a pleasure to shop in her car. By means of the automobile delivery systems the merchant brings merchandise to residence doors.

Farms are closer at hand where fresh produce may be obtained, often at less than city prices.

The automobile has made neighbors of those who would otherwise see each other seldom because of distance. It promotes social life.

It is due to the modern all season automobile that these advantages can be enjoyed the year "round."

Mr. Tumulty's Little Jest.
Kansas City Star: After insisting on an interview, a President Wilson had not expressed an objection to any one regarding a choice of the convention at San Francisco. Secretary Tumulty said: "It has always been his policy to refrain from taking any stand that might be regarded as dictation." The best in our country is that when Mr. Tumulty gave out this statement, it said to have been unusually impressive.

Canned Oratory

Kansas City Times: Speaking is a useful thing in modern life. There is the nominating speech. Did an eloquent presentation of a candidate's name ever sweep a campaign? It is not the best of nominations? Not that anybody recalls.

Luther League Convention.

The Luther League convention which was held at the Salem Lutheran church was a great success. The opening program was held on Friday evening when Rev. F. A. Gustin, of Wausa, delivered a powerful address on the subject, "The Race Course of Life." A business session was held on Saturday morning. Delegates from Wausa, Concord, Hartington, Anoka, Bristol, Wakefield were present. The delegates from Dallas and Hamilton, Tex., were prevented from coming.

The officers of the league are the following: F. E. Anderson, Wausa, president; Paul Pearson, Concord, vice-president; Mildred Frostrom, Bristol, secretary; Vermer Johnson, Concord, treasurer. It was decided to continue the use of small savings banks for the gathering of money for foreign missions. It was recommended to the local leagues that the money gathered in the banks be given to the mission which the Augustana synod has just opened in Sudan, Africa. It was also recommended that the various leagues exchange programs during the year.

A young people's program was rendered Saturday afternoon. Delegates from Hartington, Rosedale, Wausa, Concord took part in this program. At this occasion Rev. A. T. Seashore, president of Luther college at Wahoo, delivered a strong address on the subject: "The Young Christian in Business and Politics." A prayer meeting was held on Saturday evening with Rev. F. A. Gustin as leader.

On Sunday morning Rev. Oscar Caxling preached at the Swedish service and Rev. Jno. V. Carlson preached the English sermon.

Another young people's program was rendered Sunday afternoon. At this occasion Mr. E. E. Anderson of Wausa gave a very interesting and instructive address on the subject, "Love and Romance." Very valuable lessons were drawn from the Bible narrative of Ruth and Boaz.

At the closing service on Sunday evening, President Seashore gave another appealing address on the subject, "In the Service of the Church." It was pointed out that it is only through Christian education and training that a person will be fully developed for service in the life. It is through the work of the Christian church that the world will be saved from ruin.

Many visitors for the Sunday programs came in automobiles from Wausa, Hartington and Concord. Dinner and supper were served in the church basement on Sunday.

This convention was pronounced one of the best ever held in the Wakefield district. The numbers rendered by the delegates from the various local leagues were very good.

At the Swedish services held on Thursday and Friday very able sermons and instructive and edifying discussions were held. Such results as these will have lasting results for the spiritual uplift of a community.

Wakefield Loses to Bancroft.

Wakefield lost the baseball game with Bancroft Sunday by a close score of 2 to 1. The game was played for thirteen innings. One reason for Wakefield's loss was the fact that their catcher, Truby, had one of his hands hurt in the first inning, and this necessitated putting a newer player into the field.

Furnish Club Rooms.

The American Legion men were busy the first of this week furnishing the rooms above the Variety store for the use of that organization.

tion, the Commercial club, and the Automobile club. They took leather rockers, library tables and such furniture as will make the rooms comfortable and pleasant.

Chautauque begins July 19.
Chautauque at Wakefield will begin Monday, July 19, and continue five days. The Lotus company will open the afternoon of the first day, and Charles H. Platenberg will deliver an address in the evening stimulating interest in the home town. Each day following will increase the interest of the people attending.

Two great features of the week are Laurant the Magician, and the play "It Pays to Advertise." This is a play with a thousand laughs. The Wakefield band will play on Wednesday evening at the chautauque grounds on the high school campus.
