Lincoln Journal: If the government is to get by special taxes a revenue of $100,000,000 a year out of the railroads under the new rates the quicker those taxes are repealed the better. The rates themselves will be enough of a brake on industry without the added pressure of special taxes. The tax on sleeping or ticket riding is a proper exception, though that is not certain.

She Can Easily Stop All Outside Rust

But She Can't Stop Inside Rust

You never saw a range rust so badly on the outside that a little oil or stove polish wouldn't stop the rust.

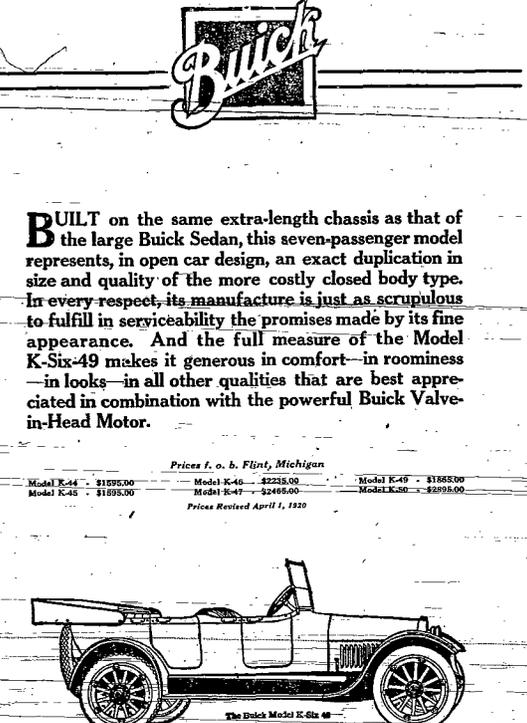

But what can you do for inside rust, even if you knew it was rusting? You never know if until rusted, though if you couldn't do anything if you knew it.

By placing the sheet of copper between the sooty asbestos and range body in Copper-Clad Ranges, internal rust is prevented. The copper stops the sweat and the dry air space prevents any moisture from touching the outer casing.

If there is no internal rust you can take care of external rust with a greasy rag or a little graphite or oil or paraffine wax. Any other things stop the rust if you can see it.

Buy a Copper-Clad Range and be certain that your range will never be destroyed by internal rust. It can't rust out.

They were all of Mr. Owens' own raising and averaged grade cows and a pure bred bull. They were calved last spring and allowed to run with their mothers until November. In December they were put on a ration of snapped corn and alfalfa hay. This was gradually changed until the grain ration consisted of about three-fourths shelled corn and one-fourth oats. Third cutting of alfalfa was fed at all times. This bunch averaged 303 pounds when they went over the scales. We think the number of people reported to have joined the Non-partisan League in Wayne County has been stupendously exaggerated.

As between the horrors of an absolute monarchy and those of applied socialism, we would have little choice, and we would escape the oppression both with equal ease and determination.

Governor Cox has found it quite impossible to satisfy both Wilson and anti-Wilson forces within the democratic party. It is said anti-administration democrats made Cox's nomination possible and that they are now incensed because the nominee has been fighting with the Wilson group. Cox is finding it a spin task to ride two horses going in opposite directions.

The county seat contest now on in Dixon county suggests the advisability of a reorganization in which Logan and Wakefield townships, Dixon county, could be absorbed in Wayne county where they belong. It would be more convenient for the people of those townships to have the seat of their county government located in Wayne and they would be cordially welcomed by Wayne county.

A case of hypocrisy: In the course of his speech of acceptance, Gov. Cox charges the republican congress with failure to reduce taxation following the precedent of the democrats who they are elected. On the contrary, however, it is a part of the record that republican congress reduced taxes by $2,414,115.14 in opposition to the demands of the democratic administration.

Touching inconvenience caused by paving operations City Engineer Robinson explained that contractors allowed more liberty in the last few years on account of scarcity of labor and anxiety to get results. He explained that in former years contractors were restricted to reduce public discomfort to a minimum. But like everything else depending on labor, paving is now accomplished without any great regard for the feeling of the employees.

We had occasion to ascertain rates for electrical service in five towns this week—Geneva, Kearney, Fremont, Norfolk and Sioux City, and in each case we found them considerably lower than those enforced in Wayne. Plants in at least five of the towns are owned by regulated corporations, if the other two towns have privately owned plants—information which we lack at the time—the facts are suggestive of the advisability of getting away from municipal ownership.

The Herald's solicitors are again canvassing the paper's territory for new and renewal subscriptions, and the editor certainly appreciates the somewhat courteous treatment accorded them. He is also encouraged by the cordial feeling usually manifested toward the Herald. Those who don't agree with the editor in religion or politics, take the paper anyway. More than a hundred new names added during the week are more than sufficient to renewing, testify to the growing popularity of the paper.

A few people have asked us if Rev. J. Harris whose letter appeared with Herald footnotes, in last week's paper, in regard to the Non-partisan League, was the same of similar name who lectured in Wayne in behalf of the government during the war. They are not the same. Rev. H. H. Harris, of the second installment is therefore necessarily delayed—whether temporarily or permanently, we don't know.

THREATS OF BOLSHEVISM.
This report of the ominous purpose of Russia to invade the continent given by the New York Times, republished by the Lincoln Journal of recent date; the Norwegian socialist, recently, tapped the ideas of Lenin at the fountain-head. The bolshavist premier was as terribly frank with him as he is with the third international. There is no hope for the world except in a forcible seizure of all wealth and all power by the proletariat. A body revolution in all countries is the only way to fight "capitalism". Presentists who do not go along with the bolshavist state be slaughtered just as remorselessly as bankers. "Do you intend then," Friss asked Lenin, to use the red army against the internal enemy?" "Yes," of course," was the prompt reply. "What the peasants call a divine natural right we call high treason." "Such are the views, such the purposes of the men now in control of central Russia. The real war remains, in our mind, to be fought. They would regard a Polish peace, as they regarded the treaty of Brest-Litovsk, merely as a "breathing space" in preparation for the world-wide struggle to kill all men who have property and to destroy every existing government. The thing, to us, is impossible. Not even in Russia can that attempt go on much longer. Mankind and civilization are not going to jump into the abyss at Lenin's bidding. But it is just as well to have a clear idea of what he is aiming at."

THE SUGAR SITUATION.
Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas keeps well posted on the sugar situation, and is frequently called on for information. A Lincoln dealer wrote Mr. Capper asking him why one wholesaler charged him much more than another for sugar, adding that it was not easy to explain the large discrepancy to customers. It was shown by an exhibit of invoices that wholesalers' prices varied from 12 to 28 cents a pound, although the government had ruled that the retailer could charge a profit of no more than two cents and the wholesaler a profit of no more than one cent.

Mr. Capper makes this concluding explanation to the Lincoln dealer: "The reason sugar is not selling at 11 and 12 cents a pound retail in the United States where they are from 17 to 20 cents more, is because the president did not take the advice of his own sugar equalizers, but followed the president's recommendation. Herbert Hoover, credited to him from Europe at this time last year, and buy the Cuban crop. "The Cuban crop is the source of half our sugar supply. The planters offered it to the board at 1-2 cents. Regarding a decision that was never made, the American refiners were kept out of the Cuban market. By the latter part of September, 1919, the foreign nations bought one-third of the Cuban crop, and on September 22 the Cubans withdrew their offer."

"Not only did the president make no answer to the board, but more of the facts, nor any of the recommendations, were laid by him before the public. This was a most unfortunate blunder, the most disastrous ever recorded in history, if we count the fact that the president acted so temporarily in not heeding his well-informed advisers, and again in keeping the facts to himself. Congress knew nothing about it until later."

"We can pardon the president, perhaps. But when on November 12, 1919, the attorney general of the United States, whose duty it is to prosecute profiteers instead of legalizing their profits, agreed to allow the Louisiana cane sugar producers to charge 17 and 18 cents for their sugar at the plantation, at a time when refined sugar was selling in every state in the Union at 11 or 12 cents retail, it looks as if the same kind of political favoritism was being shown as when the price of wheat was limited and that of cotton was allowed to soar."

Wilsonism the Issue.
St. Paul Pioneer Press: There are great and grave questions before the electorate, but they present no features upon which popular opinion divides along partisan lines. If the peace treaty stands at the head of these, it is not presented clearly and unmistakably as an issue. Both parties will claim it must be reserved before it can be ratified, and there is no clean-cut line of cleavage for the information of the partisan elector. There are serious domestic questions awaiting consideration, but upon none of them does opinion follow a partisan line. Both parties agree upon the essentials. But the issue of Wilsonism, of autocracy of administration, stands out clearly and distinctly as an election objective, and it must be decided along party lines. It cannot be mislabeled or camouflaged. More than from any other cause or argument, the election will turn on the issue of perpetuating Wilsonism.

It All Depends.
Kansas City Times: "The first duty of the administration," says Gov. Cox, "clearly will be the mitigation of the treaty." But that will depend upon the administration. Mr. Cox may not be speaking for the next one.

This Is the Real Issue.
Kansas City Star: With the platform and the acceptance speeches out of the way, the country now has a chance to consider the real issue of the campaign, which is, Does it want a republican or democratic president?"

That Missing Insert.
Chicago Daily News: At the last moment Gov. Cox declared. A make that promised insert to his speech. The insert therefore now takes on all the intriguing mystery of a noise about a noise.

Dollar Gasoline.

Chicago Daily News: Prospective shortage of oil has at least one value. It will sting the average American into thousands of a foreign policy. When gasoline goes to $1 or $2 a gallon at least the automobile driving nation will wake up. The frontiers of his thinking will extend beyond his garage. Around that intimately important item, the price of gasoline, a statesmanship may develop. The race for oil has been called the feature of the coming age. Possession of those reserves of preparation for the world states a strong advantage in the competition for peace. Already Great Britain is credited with a monopoly of a large percentage of the world's future stocks. But these are not the facts that arouse the average gasoline-going citizen to enthusiasm regarding a foreign policy. It will be the mounting price of gas. When he must choose between British Mesopotamian oil or Persian Sahara oil, he will have his convictions on foreign policy will acquire greater definition. Then America may begin to think. Gasoline at $1 might be worth almost that price in educative value. It would stimulate ideas. We could expect monumental histories to be written regarding the foreign policy of the philosophy of gasoline in politics. There is hope that Americans will become world minded. Dollar gasoline would be beneficial at least as an antidote to provincialism.

Are They So Stupid?

Harvey's Weekly: "Big Demand for Hops Puzzles Dry Agents," says the New York World. "It may be true. If so, the 'dry agents' must be simple-minded jackasses. What were hops used for, and why were they in great demand, before January 17, 1918? They are used for the same purposes now, and are in demand for the same reason, and are in demand for the same reason: and the business is a racket of dried apple pies or flavoring for ice cream. Are not the 'dry agents' capable of understanding the significance of the prospectors in thousand shop windows, of packages of hops and of malt and bottle-corking machines? Do they suppose that it indicates a racket of ping-pong?"

Paderewski Claims.

Waterloo Times-Tribune: Prof. Paderewski claims that the Polish army was simply defending itself from the bolsheviks, and they had to go a couple of hundred miles into Russia to do it!

On the Other Side.

St. Paul Pioneer Press: At last Great Britain and France seem to have taken a look at the wreckage of the Russian race banner. They find it reads: "Fighting as usual."

A Woman's Weakness.

Jay E. House in the Philadelphia Public Ledger: A woman can inherit money and retain her sense of fitness and values, but marrying it usually makes a fool of her.

Vanderbilt Was Right.

Knoxville Journal and Tribune: The railroad unions got what they wanted, the railroads got what they wanted, and now the public will have to want what it got.

Another Labor Problem.

Boston Transcript: How are the farmers who have joined the labor party to keep their cider from working more than eight hours a day?

The Common Lot.

Marshalltown Times, Republican: No matter who is elected president some of us will have to go right on working for a living.

Sardonic Humor.

Washington Post: Germany's indignation at the threatened violation of her borders would make even a devil-dog laugh.

Can He Do It?

Harvey's Weekly: I shall be frank in telling what I do know—"The Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Isn't that rather a large order?"

Won't Need to Talk.

Minneapolis Journal: Coolidge has been named "Sleazebag." What he will not need to say much in the senate after March 1. The senators do the talking.

Fearing the Worst.

Ethan, S. D. Enterprise: If the speed demons and the gunmen of our cities are not checked in their wild career, that city will show 100 per cent decrease in its next census.

Would You Enlist?

Cedar Rapids Republican: Are you willing to enlist for the war again Russia? If you are, no, then do not vote to compel someone to do what you yourself are not willing to do.

Joe's "Boner."

Washington Post: Polish nature history hereafter must always include the story of how line Husid, skid pulled the red bear's tail and what happened.

The John Deere Elevator Sells Itself

It Pays for Itself
The cost of putting up a corn crib and granary in one, and equipping it with a John Deere elevator, is actually less than the cost of putting up an old style crib alone.

It Cannot Sag
Many elevators sag when subject to the strain of a load but the John Deere elevator is bridge trussed to overcome all strains.

It Prevents Leakage of Grain
The sections overlap at the joints avoiding leakage of grain.

It Works With Speed
The wagon can be elevated and contents delivered into a corn crib, car or granary in from three to six minutes, depending on the activity of the operator.

It Takes Out Shelled Corn
A screen in the first section separates shelled corn from the ear corn so none of it gets to the crib, filling up necessary air spaces. These are only a few of the many advantages a John Deere Elevator brings to its owner.

John Deere Spreaders Possess Distinctive Features

EASY TO LOAD AND UNLOAD
It is only hip high at the top so you can see to put in an even load. The beater is near the ground so wind cannot blow the manure to one side. The revolving rake makes uniform spreading certain.

Built to Last
The John Deere Spreader throughout its construction is built to withstand hard use and strain.

Come in and talk with us about the purchase of a John Deere Elevator or John Deere Spreader.

Lower Prices Predicted.

Lincoln Journal: Mayor Miller predicts that the time is near when coal will be as plentiful as shoes. He believes that this day of plenty will come in the next few weeks, at a time when the visible supply of shoes was so low that even at unheard of prices, stocks were kept steadily on the move. Those who get the days when shoes were hard to get, when manufacturers were feeding the invisible supply at the cost of the visible. But of a sudden, the country is flooded with shoes. They are so plentiful that an over-abundance threatens to keep shoe profits at their minimum.

"We have plenty of wool, plenty of sugar, plenty of wheat, plenty of cotton and plenty of silk. Surely there is sufficient to justify a prediction of a gradually lowering scale of prices all along the line" said the mayor in an interview Tuesday.

Shoes for fall will be a little less with a great abundance of them sure to hold down the profit. Cotton goods are sure to get a bump soon. Woolens are some lower."

When money was free and easy, was not impossible to put great things in a price. A steady increase of supply must bring a lowering of price. The tightening of the financial strings put a cramp in the speculator who operates were dependent upon borrowed money. And so it is, that since the supply of these commodities, which keep machinery in motion and the human body in food and warmth apparently is fully up and beyond the danger line, Mayor Miller assumes that prices must tumble.

E. P. OWENS INTERVIEWED

Experienced Feeder Explains Some Things About Business.

Drivers Journal-Stockman, August 6: "Cattle will sell for $20 and upward within the next two years," firmly declared E. P. Owens of Carroll, Neb., just after he set his price of his market topping load of yearling cattle here this week.

"With all these old time feeders quitting the business, and the bumper corn and hay crops that will be harvested this year, I don't see how beef on the hoof can help but go up in time."

The statement of Mr. Owens can be taken as that from one of the most conservative cattle men in the west. He has been feeding and raising cattle for nearly 25 years and it is due to his keen foresight that he has been able to reach the top of the market.

At the present time he has 720 acres of land in Wayne county which he and his four sons are farming. Cattle raising is being just as important a part in their operations at the present as it did two years ago when the beef market was at its lowest.

Keep Sons on Farm.

Mr. Owens is one of the farmers who has solved the problem of keeping the younger blood on the farm. Cattle raising is being just as important a part in their operations at the present as it did two years ago when the beef market was at its lowest.

At the present time he has 720 acres of land in Wayne county which he and his four sons are farming. Cattle raising is being just as important a part in their operations at the present as it did two years ago when the beef market was at its lowest.

Pat Cattle Coming from Owens' feedlots are always noted for their condition and quality. For a great many years, he has been a firm sponsor for the use of pure bred stock in his breeding operations.

"A registered, Shorthorn cow has been in my possession for the last ten years or more, and all his she stock is eligible for registration. A registered Duroc Jersey boar I found headless. His drove of market hogs. His last hogs, he claims, were purchased at the Iowa state fair, and have grown to be wonderful producers. When his method of fattening cattle and his use of pure bred sires for breeding is considered, it is small wonder that his stock invariably reaches top or very near top prices on the open market. When I market stock as yearlings, I always let the calves with their mothers until November 1st explained Mr. Owens. "The calves are then weaned in the yard, and are fed oats and alfalfa until the holidays. They are then fed on snap corn for about 30 to 60 days, and then placed on a ration of shell corn and oats, three-fourths shell corn, and the rest cutting of alfalfa. By the time they are ready to come to market, they are usually rolling in fat and have all the quality in the world."

Feed Too High.

"One of the big difficulties we cattle feeders have is that too high priced feed is given our stock. Now take the feeders who sold here: They topped the market, but still did not make me a profit, if I figure feed at what I could have gotten for it. This alone cost me these yearlings was from our 1918 crop. It belonged to my son who went to France soon after it was harvested, and I just stored it until he came back. This spring we sold some of this corn for seed to our neighbors for $3 a bushel. So you see, feeding at this price cost me cattle that bring $15.50, don't make an awful lot of money."

Conditions are going to be different next year, however. That is one reason why I think there will be big money for the cattle feeder. Corn will go down into a dollar a bushel this year, due to the bumper crop, and hay is going to sell for almost nothing. This coupled with the shortage of cattle, is going to mean big money for the man who stays in the game."

Likes Calves Early.

"We have about 40 head of calves on the farm, and the entire herd of cattle will number about 130 head, I should judge. I usually aim to have the cows calve early in the spring around March and April, but this year they didn't come until late in the season, and I'm thankful that they didn't, for if they had been dropped during the cold wet spring, I don't think more than half of them would have lived through until this fall. I have 120 acres of good blue grass pasture, and believe me, it is a real money maker for me."

In addition to having his large herd of cattle on his farm, Mr. Owens feeds not less than 125 head of hogs a year, at a profit, and is rated as one of Wayne county's most progressive agriculturists.

John Thompson, a prosperous farmer living southeast of Wayne, came to town with a load of hogs and suddenly died on his way home, August 6, 1894. Death was due to rotting of the brain. He was survived by his wife and five children.

From Ponca Journal, August 11, 1881:

A letter was received a few days ago by Mr. Stough from J. D. Cameron, a banker at Sioux Falls, in relation to putting down a shaft for the coal company. Mr. Cameron states that he can find all necessary capital to open up the mine, and inquires as to what proposition the company desires to make. Mr. Stough's letter in reply contained such favorable propositions that we deem it almost certain that Mr. Cameron will undertake the business in hand. He will probably be heard from again in a day or two.

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

PLANS.
If you observe the also rans, you'll note they're always making plans. Some day they'll recall the shining heights and bank in wealth and fame's delights. Next week, next month, perhaps next year, they'll venture on the high career, and by the time they're goggled-eyed that they're all wool and three feet wet. And while they plan they let today, the golden present, slide away. They surround the village pump, and plan and dream while others hump. And Time flies on with a sugar-scape, like my Time scoots is a district, and men grow old and bent and bald, and hang around until they're called. And those who worked with pen and pencil made the most of every hour beneath their big trees sit in peace, and find old age as slick as grease. But those who sit muddled in dreams, and made their lulu plans and schemes, and talked "improvement" when today was slipping from their grasp away,—and that's grim and ordeal, you can't guess how tough they feel. Oh, make your plans for future times, but while you're planning nail the times!

TOLLING ON.
Each one I labor with my lye, while my neighbors go joy-riding, my tears may fall, my hands may freeze, but Work is all-thing my joyous lord. I'll be glad to pay my toll of lizzie cry. "Come with us and burn some gas, and knock the speed laws dizzy." When I have done my bestness of my own costly paper, it'll say in car, along the road, you'll see me proudly caper. But not until the ole is done, and to you may I be urged: I don't believe in burning my before I believe's earned it. Don't spend your unearned money yet. I beg your cents and take that's that's the road that leads to debt, and debt is simply ludes. I would not tool my gas-green car and leave my work neglected, the thought of it would surely nag such bliss as I'd expected. My pushcart doesn't leave its stall till all my tasks are done, so I'll be sure to clear along the Mall in pomp that's truly splendid. Oh, then I feel I have the right to go around rip-tearing, and honk my horn throughout the night, and keep the pedlers swearing.

MY TICKET.
I'll vote for the Harding when comes election day, and thus avoid retarding, the good times on the way. They stand, it seems manly and bold, and I see the banner: from Portland to Savannah let's sound our loud hooray. I'll vote for Hoax and Carding for president, and I'll see the ticket guarding our sacred thumbgobs; when these two are elected our rights will be respected, our wrongs will be corrected, and I'll cut out the sob's. The ticket's surely, legal, the smoothest thing in vogue; well may our famous eagle rear up and spread its wings, and see the nation, thation, who've won our admiration, and they will sweep the nation. Waco to Wahoo, I cheer for Card and Hoax, and I'll see the ticket, when I am busy boxing my odes to slip away; and in my sleep I'm dreaming of faces proudly beaming and eagle bravely screaming upon election day. When they're declared the winners the rich will be gloared the poor will have their dimes, and every kind of coal we'll have our bin full; we'll all be glad and grateful, the pitfalls of the sinful will never more avail. So rise, my men and brothers, rise up, of one accord! Rise, sisters, aunts and mothers, and vote in every ward. Let's gain the full tribute of every high ambition, and lay the opposition, all stricken, on the sword!

HOPEFUL PROSPECT.
The problems which so long have vexed will soon dissolve in air, and editor will be the next to fill the White House chair. And our editor is gifted gents who call the largest bluff; they would not give you fourteen cents for all that problem stuff. The men who on his tripod sits and writes those gems you know, is used to every kind of fit that this old world can throw. New problems face him every hour, each one a rumpus makes; he plies his pastebrush, blue and sour, and solves them in three shakes. The man who runs a paper now, not takes the porpoose trash, has shown that in his bulging brow there is a massive brain, and soon a journalistic scowl will walk the White House way, and cry, "The hatching's always out" and "We have come to stay." And then the people will see with their own eyes that fears them not, who has blue prints to show his feet are comfortably set. We edit will laugh to scorn the Problem's sticky hands, and clear its confusion in a horn of prohibition suds.

SUPERFLUITIES.
I am always making payment on the things I do not need, furbelows and gorgeous raincoats, rubbers, rags on wheels that speed to the village shops. I'm going every day with eager tread, useful, shining kopecks showing, for all kinds of pinger-freed. And as round-the-town I'm driving, throwing money to the birds, I denounce the cost of living in "exciting" words. Nothing cheap in price will suit me, costly things I must demand, or I fear my friends would hoot me, as they praise to carmine and glow for all kinds of gems and rubies they have blown the minted lones, and they look on folks as hoobies who don't clank with precious stones. We are all blamed fools together, buying junk whose price is high, heedless for the same sweetest that will hit us by and by. And while I do hourly give exhibitions of the kind, I denounce the cost of living as a graft that's most unkind, away. When we all regain our senses and just buy the things we need, simple duds and picket fences, hay and bread a bunch of leeches who will breed the wage they drive away. But since the times became unsettled they tried to travel on their gall, they became so high, they were away, and can't come one and all. And now my wife does all the cooking, rejoicing that the gang is gone, and I'm throwing and gad, looking, keep up the fire and glow the lawn. About my household tasks I scaven, so gay I carol songs aloud, and I'm convinced, when I can buttle as well, my hiring pool. My wife is singing "Annie Rooney" and other good old songs, and you before song writers all grow loney, as she mops up the kitchen floor. Without hired help my heart is bubbling with harmless mirth, that makes a wit; my days no more are filled with troubling for fear some haughty maid will quit. The pies are burned, the bread is steep, the meat comes smoking from the stove, but I'm so glad I'm feeling cozy, because we feed that grouchy, drove. I don't care two rats or three, if the people say of us in town; far better live on ruined vittles than will behead a servant's frown.

HIRED HELP.
We used to have a stately butler, the most impressive gent alive, a foreign-domo and a sutter and proud domes as four or five. Before they did their duties as good retainers ought to do, they seemed to us a bunch of leeches who will breed the wage they drive away. But since the times became unsettled they tried to travel on their gall, they became so high, they were away, and can't come one and all. And now my wife does all the cooking, rejoicing that the gang is gone, and I'm throwing and gad, looking, keep up the fire and glow the lawn. Kerosene Tractor

We have a number of the new, improved machines in stock. They are stronger than the old type with wider fenders, wider platforms and water air strainers.

Remember this when you buy a tractor—Harvest service is a reliable and very important thing you get "thrown in" when you buy the tractor named above. It safeguards your entire outfit—Power, Machine, Hitch! Later on, if you need a tractor part you will get it with the same dispatch and certainty of perfect fit that you have experienced in connection with your binders and mowers.

Titan 10-20 kerosene tractor is built to operate from start to finish on low-priced kerosene (coal oil), or distillate. It does more than simply run on kerosene—it delivers its full-rated horsepower or does any kind of work within its capacity on any kind of oil fuel above 39 degrees Baume.

This means that at the present prices of gasoline and kerosene in this locality you will save fully one-half your fuel costs—on a tractor of equal horse power—operating on gasoline. Getting down to a dollars-and-cents basis, if a Titan 10-20 is used, you will be able to make a saving of $1,000 on fuel alone in five years of 1,000 hours work each.

A Titan 10-20 will furnish dependable power in all seasons. For field, road or belt work it can be used day and night if the case demands. It will do this work at the least possible expense. It will be to your advantage to know the Titan 10-20. Come in and look it over. The best time is now.

CLOSING OF CHAUTAUQUA

Outlook for Next Year Favorable —Pageant by Children.

The seven-day chautauqua under the Midland circuit closed last Thursday. The program of the week on the whole was very pleasing with some numbers of exceptional worth. The last night the association acted for guardians for tickets for a chautauqua next year. The full number necessary to bring a chautauqua here was not secured at that time but prospects are favorable for a good week of entertainment in Wayne next summer. The directors will hold their annual meeting in September to decide the matter more definitely.

The pageant "The Modern Crusaders," given by the Junior chautauqua boys and girls Thursday evening, was one of the most pleasing and interesting parts of the week's program. The play portrayed a mother putting her three children to bed. They protest at having to go to bed so early and she tells them of the great age, Monitor Dixie, who with his darts, Red Air, Stay Up Late, Germs, Flies, Dirty Hands, and other such creatures, would get them and carry them away to his dirty home. The children then are willing to go to bed and they dream that the gnomes come for them but that the good fairies chase them away. The work of the children was worthy of the highest praise and the patience and skill of the director, Miss Clarion Leisher, was evidenced in the exceptional success of the little pageant.

Katherine Lou Davis took the part of the mother and the children were John and Harry Kemp and Wyna Bostrom. Groups of singers were the Gnomes, the Trees, the Health, the Crickets, the Rainbow Dancers, the Sunshine Fairies and the Fresh Air Fairies. Henry Gulliver was King Hildeo, who led the Gnomes. The chorus of the wind-bow fairies was Alma Suther and the queens of the Fresh Air Fairies were Mary Alice Ley and Lucile White. These three girls gave some pretty solo dances. When all the fairies had sung their songs they all joined in on a closing song "Bring Sunshine and Water." Miss Helen Feiber played the piano accompaniment for the songs and dances.

Tracy Kohl Leaves

Tracy Kohl left Wayne Monday for Grand Rapids, Mich. He is on New York from which point he will sail August 21 on the Kanard liner, Coronia, for Liverpool, England. Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Kohl accompanied him as far as Chicago. Mr. Kohl will return the last of the week and Mrs. Kohl will visit her daughter, Mrs. C. I. Robertson, at Lake Buffalo, Ill., for several weeks. At Grand Rapids, a Dartmouth classmate will join Tracy and will attend Oxford with him. LeRoy Owen went to Sioux City, Mo., to attend the Olympic series this summer, and the three men will spend the same amount of time in October, getting acquainted with English people and English customs. Tracy will enroll in what is known as the modern history school of Oxford and will devote special attention to economics and political science. In December, his Dartmouth room-mate will come to England and enter Oxford as a Rhodes scholar. These four young men intend to devote vacation periods to travel on the continent.

Hot Weather Hints on Battery Care
Nobody expects a man to stop his car a half dozen times a day being hot just to see if his battery is getting too hot, says J. A. Williams, service station dealer, but it pays to keep an eye on overheating when hot days and long runs are the rule.

At noon and at night the careful driver feels of the battery terminals. If the terminals seem hot he turns on the lights for an hour or so. This relieves the battery of surplus charge. Unless this precaution is taken the battery plates may be warped so that repairs will be necessary.

Another thing to remember is that summer heat increases the evaporation of water from the cells. The water must be replaced. Many drivers make a habit of putting a little distilled water into each cell every week. Of course precautions must be taken against pouring too much. If a cell is overfull, some of the solution will slip out through the lining vents at the top of the jar, and will cause rotting of the battery case, corrosion of connectors, terminals and so on.

Cherokee Democrat: That third party candidate won't have far to run—from Salt Lake to Salt Creek.

Some Odds and Ends.

Des Moines Capital: Some of the preliminary work of the campaign has been performed. Senator Harding, and the town of Marion have been put in readiness. The front yard of the senator's home has been nicely laid with stone so that the grass may keep until the campaign is over. The office of the Marion Star has been touched up and prepared for visitors. Everybody in Marion has taken a new oath to reform, and not to hold up a visitor for taxi fare, or anything else. Senator Harding has been photographed in his working garb, "making up" the forms of the Marion Star. The senator's father, his brothers and sister, also cousins have been discovered and photographed for the aspiring newspaper. It has been related that the senator is a real play-actor, and that he once played a horn in a band. He has never had a strike on his paper, and is endorsed by the "Typographical Union." These circumstances ought to secure the vote of the common man, and all of them we presume have had the approval of Will Hays, chairman of the republican national committee. Now comes Gov. Cox. He is mounted on a beautiful horse. On this horse he does not sit like a cavalry man, but rather like a goller mounted. All agree in the statement that the governor is a lover of the horse. Another picture has appeared with the governor with his arm over the neck of what is called his favorite cow. This is intended to add to the governor's popularity in the farm bosom. It is stated that the governor, when he was a newspaper reporter, secured a promotion by a scoop which he filed for the Cincinnati Inquirer, the statement being proven by the fact that the governor, when a young reporter, filed a copy of one of Nick Carter's stories to keep the operator busy while he, Cox, prepared his copy. Notice of Probate of Foreign Will.

To the heirs, creditors and all persons interested in the estate of Robert H. Ives, deceased. You and each of you are hereby notified that on the 7th day of August, 1920, Vernice M. Kayton filed this petition in the county court of Wayne county, Nebraska, praying for the probate of a certain instrument now on file in said court purporting to be an authenticated copy of the last will and testament and the probate thereof of Robert H. Ives, deceased. Said petition recites that said decedent departed this life testate in the City of Providence in the State of Rhode Island on or about July 6, 1915, and that he was a resident of said City of Providence at the time of his death; that said decedent died seized in fee simple of the southwest quarter of Section 28, Township 27, Range 2, East of the 6th P. M., in Wayne county, and of other real estate situated in the State of Nebraska; that petitioner is now the owner of all that part of said southwest quarter of Section 28, Township 27, Range 2, East of the 6th P. M., in Wayne county, Nebraska, lying north of the right-of-way of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railroad Company; that said petitioner further alleges that said decedent left surviving him as his sole and only heir at law Elizabeth A. Gammon, his daughter, and alleges that all claims, debts and demands against said estate and all legacies, gifts and bequests contained in said will of said decedent have been paid in full. Petitioner prays that said instrument may be proved, probated and allowed as and for the last will and testament of Robert H. Ives, deceased, and that regular administration of said estate be dispensed with and that a decree be entered finding and determining that said estate and all property thereof descended free from all debts, claims, demands and obligations against said decedent and against his estate and that all legacies and bequests contained in said will have been paid and that said estate and the property of which said decedent died seized be assigned

Lalley

Light and Power

Saved Lives in France

Specifications: Over-all Dimensions—Length 31 1/2 inches; Width 15 1/2 inches, Height 22 1/2 inches, Net weight 352 pounds

During the year 1918, more than 12,000 farmers preferred Lalley Electric Light and Power for its very positive savings.

The Government selected Lalley Light to do a very different kind of work in France; but it chose this plant for that very same efficiency which saves time, saves money, and saves labor on the farm.

In our army hospitals in France, Lalley Light saved good American lives by furnishing a strong, steady flow of electricity for the X-Ray machines, and unflinching light for difficult and delicate operations

Private Irving H. Taylor, U. S. Army Ambulance Service, writing from France in 1918, said: "The other night I ran into a Lalley plant at an evacuation hospital, turning out current for operating X-ray machines and other equipment. I was told that for 18 hours straight, the Lalley had been putting away helping save the lives of Uncle Sam's men."

Lalley Light served on submarine chasers, at naval coast stations, in cantonments, in Liberty Loan campaigns.

W. Hooper, executive manager of the Federal Reserve Bank, Dallas, Texas, writes: "The service rendered by the two Lalley Light plants on War Relief Train, Units 1 and 2, which have just finished a tour of the Eleventh district on behalf of the Fourth Liberty Loan, was all that could be desired. "The big city plants could not have given us better service."

But that was not all. On more than 14,000 farms during the busy high-tension producing season of 1918—Lalley Light was saving the labor of men. It was releasing men to fight, or serve in some other way. It was helping to increase the production of food. It was saving money that was loaned to the Government.

It is going right on with those savings to its users—it will do the same for you. Now is the time to see the Lalley Light plant at our store or on your farm.

A. G. Grunmeyer, Wayne, Neb.

Lalley Light saves time, saves labor, saves money.

ed under the provisions of said will as of the date of the death of said decedent so far as the same may operate upon it, and petitioner prays such other and further relief as may be just and proper.

Hearing will be had on said petition before me at the county court room in the City of Wayne, in Wayne county, Nebraska, on the 4th day of September, 1920, at 9 o'clock a. m., when all persons interested in said estate, both creditors and heirs, legatees and all others interested may appear at said time and place and show cause why said instrument should not be proved, probated, allowed and admitted to probate as and for the last will and testament of said Robert H. Ives, deceased, and show cause why a decree should not be made and entered in said cause as prayed in said petition.

STOP THAT ACHE! Don't worry and complain about a bad back. Get rid of that pain and lameness. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Many Wayne people have used them and know how effective they are. Ask your neighbor! Here's a Wayne case.

Mrs. J. M. Kellogg says: "I haven't needed Doan's Kidney Pills for several years. I was subject to frequent attacks of kidney disorder and I found Doan's Kidney Pills to be just what I needed. When troubled that way I suffered with a nagging ache in my back and found it difficult to move around, get up or down or lift anything because of the sharp twinges it caused. I was feeling depressed and nervous. Doan's Kidney Pills always gave me fine relief and I am glad to endorse them." (Statement given July 17, 1916)

On May 29, 1920, Mrs. Kellogg added: "Since using and recommending Doan's Kidney Pills several years ago I haven't had kidney trouble, my cure being a lasting one. I still keep a box of Doan's in my house and take a few at different times as a preventive against any return of the old trouble."

Slight Price Reduction. Sioux City Journal: While not pronounced, there has been during the last week a slight reduction in price levels. The reductions are small and a study of wholesale statistics is necessary of commodities of them, but they are spread over such a wide space and cover so many commodities that they indicate a response in prices to the reduced consumption which has been in evidence for several weeks. The reduced consumption is the result of the elimination of luxuries, cutting out of extravagances and a general disposition on the part of the public to conserve rather than waste its individual resources.

The evidence of the trend towards lower price levels is found in a comparison of wholesale prices of a large number of commodities at this time and prices for the same commodities a few weeks ago. The general level is below those of the weeks of June 1 and July 1. Behind the diminished wholesale demands is found another evidence. This is the curtailment of production in a number of standard lines. The surface indication of this curtailment is that the cause of high prices has not been so much under-production as overprofits.

Money continues high. There has been a sharp increase in the number of figures compared with last week with corresponding increases in other months and in other recent years. Some of these undoubtedly are inescapable to inability to secure loans at low rates. The marketing of the crops now under way makes a heavy drain on the available money, but as the crops reach the terminals there is a slight relaxation, as the amount required to finance the business then is for shorter periods than when the crop is being planted and harvested. National Vacuum Washer

Hollow dasher shaft to permit air to be taken in at top.

All wood coming in contact with water is best grade Louisiana Red Cypress.

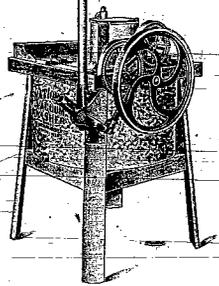

Note wringer board which is made of hardwood which makes it very strong and wringer clamp will not chew holes in same.

Note shape of tub. It is round, making a large capacity, and no lodging of clothes in corners.

Body of this washer is made of rust-resisting durable metal sheets. Cannot shrink or warp. Never have a leaky tub. Will last a life time.

Note location of lever. You stand in a perfectly natural position while operating the machine. Any child can run it.

Bolt from leg to leg holds body of machine, holds ing legs secure; also prevents bottom of tub from sagging.

Fly wheel bolted to frame; lid can be raised without disturbing same.

Cover is locked with thumb screw.

All gears are cut on automatic gear machines, which makes them also perfectly perfect, and noiseless.

The legs are made of hard wood and of ample size, so they will withstand abuse.

The dasher with four gears, this is the part of this machine that does the work. This dasher has a valve at lower end of dasher shaft, which permits of taking in air at upward stroke; then valve closes on downward stroke, forcing the suds and hot water through the clothes. No pegs to bore holes in the clothes.

WHY YOU SHOULD USE A NATIONAL VACUUM WASHER

Because: It washes much quicker, does it much cleaner and with a great deal less work to the operator.

WHY DOES IT WASH QUICKER

Because: The rapid action of the dasher driving the hot water and suds through the soiled clothes forces the dirt out. The agitation of the hot water makes the dirt wash immediately. Two to six minutes will remove the dirt from any fabric that can be cleaned with soap and water.

of the volume will not be pronounced, however, until the crops begin to reach the consumer. The financial burden is only shifted from one point to another in the loans for financing and harvesting are changing into the loans for storage and marketing. The labor question remains a factor in both trade and industry. The outlay coal strikes were demoralizing to the production of coal and in turn the shortage of coal is reflected in other industries which are dependent primarily upon fuel. But the lessening demand for labor in the industries in which curtailment of output is being made has an influence on labor in other lines, and there is a more general disposition to promote harmony than to create dissatisfaction.

Steel Elevator With Cross Conveyor

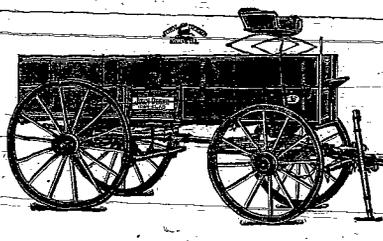

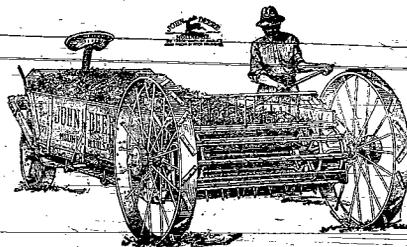

In designing our Steel Elevator we have aimed to keep it as far ahead of competing steel elevators as our wood ones are in their class. The first consideration was to make it thoroughly practical for the work it is intended to do. The next, to make it strong, stiff and durable. That we have succeeded in distancing all competitors in excellence of design, quality of material and perfection of workmanship, a very slight examination of one of our elevators will show.

The Cross Conveyor

The Cross Conveyor is made of No. 16" steel. It swings to one side to permit the wagon to be driven to the dump. That part of this conveyor immediately back of the wagon is made lower than any made except the one used on our wood elevator. This low feature is of great value because it permits the use of wagons with very low wheels, which are becoming very popular for husking corn. The conveyor has a shifting hopper for receiving the grain from the wagon. This hopper can be adjusted to the wagon box should the wagon not be driven exactly opposite the hopper.

The above is our portable steel elevator with steel cross-conveyor, expanding derrick and National dump with engine drive. The National dump can have the steel platform. The American dump can be driven by horse power.
