Resolution Adopted. The following resolution, drawn by a committee consisting of H. H. Pile, C. A. Orr and P. L. Harrington, was authorized by the Irwin L. Sears Post, American Legion No. 43, Wayne, Neb., Sept. 14, 1920.

It has been called to the attention of Irwin L. Sears Post 43, American Legion, Wayne, Neb., that certain unpleasant occurrences, that is, an interruption of a political meeting held in the Wayne opera house on September 3, has been charged against the post.

The post, in union with the great national body of the American Legion, has always stood for law and order and the rights of free speech and so stands today.

We deeply resent the implication and accusation printed in an issue of the Norfolk Press, Sept. 9. Such accusations are not only against the American Legion post, but also against many two of our fellow-citizens who have always stood for the highest and best in American citizenship.

Irwin L. Sears, Post American Legion, No. 43, Wayne, Neb., September 14, 1920.

Why Telephone Bills Are Paid in Advance

Suppose we charged your account this month with 10 cents more than your regular telephone rent.

Then, when you asked about it, we told it was a part of the telephone bill Mr. Somebody did not pay.

If we did not collect telephone rent from every one in advance, some people never would pay. Yet the cost of having furnished service, and the expense of installing and removing the telephones, would have to be paid by someone.

In order that one subscriber will not have to pay indirectly a part of the telephone bill of another, we require advance payment for local telephone service.

CITIZENSHIP SCHOOL IS HELD

Wausa Women Learn Science of Government—Other Nearby News.

The Wausa League of Women Voters held a two-day citizenship school October 26 and 27 in order to enable the women of the community to become better acquainted with the science of local, state and national government. The school was under the auspices of Miss Charissa Dorano, an instructor furnished by the extension department of the state university.

A full house greeted Prof. J. G. W. Lewis of Wayne upon his appearance at the city hall in Wausa, Friday evening. Mr. Lewis gave an interesting and instructive discourse on the purpose and history of the political parties and a brief summary of present day issues.

A questionnaire on the subject of government operation of industries which was sent out to editors of Nebraska and other states showed that Nebraska is opposed to radical government experiments. Of the 205 editors who replied, 163 or 80 percent said that the citizens of their communities were opposed to the government going into business in competition with its citizens.

A scientific expedition which hopes to establish the origin of man and to locate the most primitive human remains, the link between man and the ape, will soon leave United States for Central Asia, according to Roy Chapman Andrews, associate curator of mammals at the American Museum of Natural History. The expedition will include botanists, zoologists, anthropologists, paleontologists, archeologists and other scientists. It will visit camel, mules, and probably airplanes in reaching its destinations which will be farther removed from civilization than the heart of Africa. The expedition will cost $250,000 and will be continued for five years. Hitherto unpenetrated portions of Tibet, Turkistan and the Mongolian desert will be visited.

Claiming that the preliminary census showed increased mortality, a storage of 500 in the city's population, officers of the Hartington Commercial club have taken up the matter with the director of the census in Washington.

John Schoenberger, 19-year-old son of Gus Schoenberger, who lives eleven miles north of Bloomfield was drowned in a shallow creek when going

Rev. A. Ollenberg of Bloomfield, the members of the Lutheran church of that place, and about thirty-five families from Pierce, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Lutheran church in Bloomfield at that place a week ago Sunday. Rev. Ollenberg has been with the church ever since its founding. Twenty pastors—disseminated addresses at the jubilee meeting and a song service conducted by Prof. Karl Haase of the Lutheran Normal school at Seward was held in the evening.

A new tankage factory opened for business at Hartington Saturday of last week. The building is situated near the slaughter house south of the city limits. this county with their wheat, have a tough time plowing through the unfathomable mud of the Dakota side.

The Silver Ridge Seminary, under the efficient management of its able principal, Rev. W. H. Clark, has become one of the best institutions of the kind in northern Nebraska, and is receiving well deserved patronage and prosperity.

John Davery has also been having lumber troubles. He was at Sioux City, saw his lumber loaded upon a car, and came home satisfied that it would be here in about two weeks.

When he went to hunt it, an hour or five days afterwards, it was discovered that the car had been sent to some station in Iowa, a hundred miles east of Sioux City. The lumber will be back in the course of a month or so—John is in no hurry for it anyway.

A corps of railroad engineers started out Sunday to run a preliminary line west from this place by way of Silver creek. From this it appears that the project to extend this road has not been wholly abandoned. In regard to this extension the Sioux City Journal has to say: "This looks like a reconstruction of the line through Cedar county to Augusta, a consummation devoutly to be wished by Sioux City dealers." A connection with the roads which will center at Nebraska next year is to this city now one of the most important railroad projects afoot."

THE WAYNE HERALD

The Oldest Established Paper in Wayne County, Published Every Thursday. Entered at the Postoffice at Wayne, Neb., as Second Class Mail Matter in 1880 under the act of March 3, 1879. The election of Harding will establish confidence and cure many existing ills. The election of Harding will give us a government which will function completely and contribute their full share to governmental business.

If we were going to prescribe for the Nonpartisan League speakers who were here Monday, we would carefully omit anything that could possibly serve a true tonic. They don't need it. And their exhibition of nerve, with affront, ought to be resented by Nebraskans and Wayne county people by a solid vote against them next Tuesday.

Congressman K. E. Evans is one of the most conscientious gentlemen in the Third District. Into his life is flowing the best interests of the farming communities to which he belongs. His communities are his constant thought and effort. His record reflects highest conception of statesmanship and his motives to be re-elected by an increased majority.

L. L. Bebe, main actor in the Nonpartisan League performance here Monday afternoon, referred to the Herald as Wayne's Bible. This is gratuitous presumption which the Herald has never in any manner assumed. However, we would suggest that the Herald be followed in one particular as carefully as any one would follow the Bible, that is in voting Tuesday against every candidate endorsed by the Nonpartisan League. Thus putting a crimp in the dangerous socialist program that threatens.

Otto Ulrich, Nonpartisan League who is the republican ticket for state senator, has been circulating a unique campaign card. On one side of the card he announces himself as the "Republican Candidate for State Senator, Seventh District." But when you turn over the card you find in his republicanism is joined with the announcement that he has been "appointed by the Nonpartisan League," followed by identity of the socialist farmer labor bloc. Anyone who thoughtlessly decides to vote for Ulrich when he reads one side of the card, should promptly change mind and vote the other side. It is certainly no small presumption for the Nonpartisan League to use the party with which it is not allied, as a campaign vehicle to carry its men into office.

FOR STATE SENATOR. Chas. Graf of Bancroft, who is the democratic nominee for state senator, to represent Wayne, Cuming and Pierce counties, will receive the support of republicans who are not in favor of the Nonpartisan League. He is a native of Illinois and has been a resident of this state since 1880. He is a graduate from Germany in the early 1870s. When he became of age in 1884, young Graf moved west to Nebraska. Like many other pioneers, he started with nothing but robust health, abundance of ambition and willingness to work. He has owned some valuable Cuming county land which is carefully supervised and made as productive as possible. In addition to his farming interests, he has been able to give attention to public affairs. For ten years he has been connected with the state board of agriculture, and at present, a member of the board of managers. For eight years he has been president of the National Record association. For the past 15 years he has been president of the Nebraska Live Stock Breeders association. He served in the Nebraska legislature in 1907 and 1908, and in the latter session was chairman of the sub-committee on the guarantee banking law. He has cooperated with the Farmers Union, but is not a member of the Nonpartisan League whose policies do not appeal to his judgment.

During the war Mr. Graf spent all his income in helping activities for the government. He took an active interest in classifying farm boys, and was careful to see that their interests were properly safeguarded. He made special reference to Wayne county. Mr. Graf has the reputation of being frank, positive and aggressive, and does not hesitate in standing up for the right.

AN OPEN LETTER. Wayne, Neb., October 16, 1920. Governor K. McKelvie, Lincoln, Neb. My Dear Governor: One might be led to suppose from the address made to you by Mrs. Marie O'Donnell Weeska, third party candidate for congress in the Third district, and other reports put into circulation that Wayne, among other towns, is dominated by a band of barbarians who have respect for neither law nor order. Reports with diluted, unverified and unfair conclusions, insinuated to Wayne and other towns, have been given as wide publicity as possible. As a matter of fact Wayne is perfectly peaceful and law-abiding. It is not indifferent to the privileges guaranteed by the constitution. The incident which Mrs. Weeska has sorrowfully pointed out to you, and which, being a valuable campaign asset, she is trying to keep alive by plenty of exercise and artificial repression, grew out of an unfortunate violation of a meeting addressed to the citizens of Wayne, Cuming and Otto Ulrich, the last named being a Nonpartisan League who secured the nomination for state senator on the republican ticket.

It seems that when a few members of the American Legion of Wayne, who, by reason of long membership in the republican party, are considered a vehicle to carry its men into office.

partisan League leaders, and which is really a political party. If Frank E. Packer of North Dakota, told the truth in his Nebraska speeches, which I have no reason to doubt, he would be a witness, rather than an aid, to representative democratic government. And that is the reason I am against it. Opposition to this socialist cut does not mean that the communities complained-of are in the least disposed to curtail free speech or a free press or in any way to tamper with the laws or the constitution. It should also be clearly understood that opposition to this cut does not mean an unfriendly attitude toward the worthy Farmers Union or other wholesome and helpful farmer organizations.

In her letter to you, charging Wayne and other towns with assault on constitutional liberty, Mrs. Weeska says: "The Wayne Herald has been the mouthpiece of the lawless and the constitutionless." It is repeated that any of its (Wayne's) people should so far forget themselves as to make any public meeting, no matter how unimportant or unwelcome." Thus, it would not appear that the Herald had made a very powerful effort to deny the disturbance here as charged by your correspondent.

While people of this town generally are not interested in the interference complained of, they deplore and resist exaggerations and unwarranted implications. Wayne welcomes any investigation. In the meantime, Third party candidates will cling to the lamented incidents in the Third district towns, arising there in connection with the election to excite new interest and trotting them up and down the state, visibly sobbing over bold infringement on free speech, but secretly expressing them as the biggest asset in their budget of campaign thunder. Yours truly, E. W. RUISE

The stock is limited and you will do well to come early to make sure of getting the things you need. On all our new goods we have marked the prices down to the bottom of the present market and will continue to do so whenever there is a lower price named by manufacturer or jobber. You do not need to go away or send away from home to get goods at the new low prices. You will find them all right here and you can depend on both the quality and price being right. We call your particular attention to the following goods which are priced even below the present market.

Wool Dress Goods at Lower Than Present Prices. All our wool serges, poplins and wool challies carried over from last season are still marked at the old prices, $1.50 to $3.00 per yard. These are fine cloths in the very best shades and these prices are below any cut prices you can get on this season's goods. Nice dark plaid goods for girls school dresses are here at the old prices, $1.00 and $1.50. Middy flannels in red, navy, grey and khaki are still on sale at the old prices. This stock is not large and has been selling well the past two weeks so we would advise you to come now to get a good selection. We have several pieces of this season's finest grades of tricotine and serge, which were marked at $5.00. We have marked them down to $3.00. This is a greater reduction than the present market calls for, but we don't want to carry them over until next year and we have put a price on them that will sell them out regardless of cost or loss. The new McCall Patterns for November are here and our salesladies will be glad to help you select the new and correct ones for you.

Money Saving Prices on Underwear. We carried over a good stock of underwear from last year and we are still selling it at last year's prices, which are lower than any cut prices being made on this year's goods. You can get fleece-lined and woolen underwear for men, women and children here at good savings from this carried over stock and depend on the quality and sizes being fully up to the best standard. We are low on a few sizes, but if you come early you will have a good chance of getting what you want. The saving-in-price is well worth your immediate attention.

New Prices on Cotton Goods. You will find our sheetings, percales, ginghams, quired flannels, muslins, calicoes, denims, sheets and pillow cases all been marked down to the very bottom of the present market. These goods are being advertised by the catalogue houses and city stores. We are selling the fine grade wide sheeting at 85c; best light outings at 35c; percales of best quality at 32c; 350 yard spools Coates thread at 10c. We follow the market closely on all these staple goods and will not be undersold by anyone.

Shoes Priced Much Below The Present Market. We carried over a good stock of children's and ladies' shoes and the old prices we are selling them at are much below present prices. The styles are exactly what are shown in this year's shoes as there has been no change in styles or lasts from last season. The leathers are the very finest black, brown and grey kid and brown calf skin. You can buy the shoes for your girls and boys at $3.50 to $5.00 and for yourself at $7.50 to $11.50. These prices are much below present value because shoes were up a good deal this Fall and the price has been better than we expected. Since the cost of shoes is mostly for labor and labor still will continue to rise, we have a good chance of getting what you want. The saving-in-price is well worth your immediate attention.

Traveler's Sample Blankets Are Much The Cheapest. Before you buy any blankets come in and get the prices on our traveler's samples. We get one-third discount on these samples and are selling them at prices much below the present market. Samples are always extra good. Salesmen pick out their samples with great care and they know the good ones you may be sure. We want you to be glad to show you through this stock and give you an idea of what good savings you can make by buying these sample blankets.

Ladies' Coats and Suits Priced Below The Market. We are ready to close out our, this year's winter coat and suit stock and have reduced the prices to below the present market. You can buy now as cheaply as at any time in our run. We do not mark our goods away light at the beginning of the season. We carry a high quality of bargain goods and we do mark them reasonably to start so that every customer gets good value no matter when they buy, and when the season draws to a close we sell them out at a good big reduction. High priced coats and suits now on sale at one-third off or one-half off sound like big bargains, but you can't judge a bargain by the price alone. You must see the goods and compare with values you can get elsewhere—that is the way to know you are getting the most for your money. We want you to see our coats and suits through this stock and give you an idea of what good savings you can make by buying these sample blankets.

Grocery Prices. Coffee is cheaper; sugar is higher; flour is cheaper; butter is higher—than the grocery prices go. We follow the markets daily and meet every cut that is made and where goods go higher we sell the stock on hand at the old prices. You can depend on us for a square deal on your grocery prices and for the best quality groceries. We carry no doubtful quality or bargain canned goods to sell at a few cents' reduction as we have always found such goods the most extravagant things you can buy. There is always a catch some place when you bargain prices on groceries. You will find as we have found that the reliable first quality groceries always go first—do not waste your money and get the cheapest in the end. Sprague Warner's canned goods—Chase & Sanborn's teas and coffees—Minnesota hard wheat flour—are the world's best and cheapest foodstuffs. We have them for you at the lowest market prices.

B. L. T. in Chicago Tribune: "How many knots are there in every league?" asked old Memory Tests, and ever so many bright persons have written to us about the knots in the league of nations. Oddly, no one mentioned the may-I-note.

Are You Going to Market Your Oats at 45c per bushel?

Why not clean up the feed lot and make nine times as much? Every load of manure you haul out is worth $8 to $12 per load each year for at least five years. Which at the end of five years paid the most for your one day's labor?

DID YOU EVER STOP TO FIGURE?

Using the following figures at present prices:

Oct. 1, 1920, hauled two loads of oats, 100 bushels at 45c.....	$ 45.00
Oct. 1 hauled fifty loads of manure at $8.00 per load.....	400.00
Continuing this one day's work for a period of five years as follows:
Ten loads of oats at the rate of two each year.....	450.00
250 loads of manure at the rate of fifty loads each day.....	$2000.00
Making a difference of.....	$1550.00

If every farmer would figure profits he would be hauling manure instead of oats. It being impossible to load this amount by hand, the Lessman loader and your Fordson will load all the manure you have and many other things, such as loading dirt or gravel, making this machine pay more dividends than even your grain harvester.

We are prepared to deliver you one of these loaders on short notice and it will do all we claim in our folders.

Do not fail to see this Lessman Loader attachment on exhibit at the Wayne Motor Company.

UNCLE WALT

The Post-Philosopher

The Speed Fiends:
In vain I stand protesting to speed fiends as they pass; they seem to think I'm jesting, and give their horns more gas. The coroner is busy, he's checking up the dead, run down by these...
The coroner is always, he tells by day and night; his task is sad and dreary and there's no end in sight. The village cops are chasing the fiends over hill and dale, and after bitter racing they put a few in jail. And then they're fined so lightly they think it all a joke, and leave the courtroom brightly, and make their autos smoke. Through highways residential, through traffic's busy main, with gas testostated they rob their delectable cats. They wing the fleeing baker, they main the frightened clerk, and now the undertaker gets in his grewsome work. The doctors' nerves are bagged, so many victims yelp, the coroner's disgusted and wildly calls for help. And still the crazy moters go rushing through the town, and sway the adult voters, and mow the children down. And when I stand protesting the speed fiends scorn my figure, and jauntily go questing for some one they can climb.

Night Coneth.

The night is coming on apace, when I shall quit the road, and seek my final resting place, my daisy-strewn shoddy and so the little bits of life don't fret my ancient heart; night coneth, with the end of strife, and every sting and smart. It isn't sound my while I'm thinking of the doleful tune; for all life's troubles end in sleep; and sleep's the greatest boon. It isn't worth my while to hate the man who does me wrong; far better keep my smile on straight, and chirp my cheer-up song. It isn't worth my while to sweat the man who manes me; far better keep my fan-birds hot beneath the sunset tree. My autumn day will quickly pass, the sun's low down the sky, and stormy passions cut no grass when it is time to die. And hates and grudges look so cheap when night is drawing on, and it is time to think of sleep of dark without a dawn. I haven't time to mope and brood o'er some small passing woe, and in a glad and cheerful mood I watch the bright days go. Why fret the workman when the prunes are wholesome, sweet and cheap? The night is coming on oft-sons, when I lie down to sleep.

Better Days.

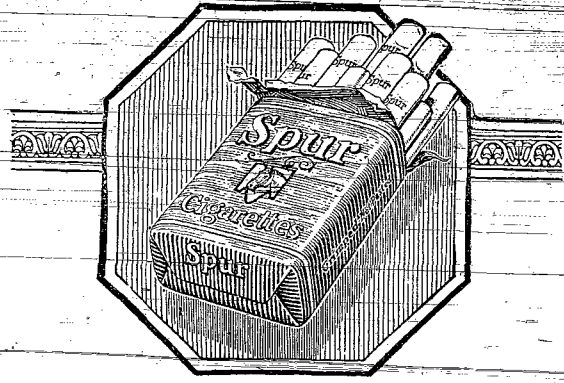

For long, long months we've lived to spend, but now our wags see—saw and better days begin; the man who has a bunch of bones now asks himself, in stenter tones, "Why should I blow them in? Why feed my money to the cows when wonder-savings-bank allows a penny interest rate? Too long, too long I've thrown away the shining plunks I drew as pay, and bit a coward's gain. And now the merchant princes rise, and say to clerks and kindred gons. "Our prices—most come down; so let's reduce some picayunes on every pair of pantaloons, and every velvet gown." And all the hungry profiteers are doubtless filled with soulful fears, as they stare up their rolls, doomed is the graft they long have held, the easy marks have all rebelled, and they must hunt their holes. An end to profiting where would come, I've said, in countless rhymes, and many a deathless screed, when people, sane again once more, refused to purchase at the store the junk they did not need. And now that happy day has come, or all the signs are on the bum, and all the owners punk, and Father, when he draws his wage, won't seek the marts, in noble rage, to blow his bottom plunk.

Those Prices.

The price of silks and motor cars has reached a lower spot; but necessaries, like cigars, still cost a frightful lot. The price of many silken duds is lower, I admit; but when I price a trick of spuds I straightaway have a fit. I could eat without a hat all trimmed with costly lace; but I must have some bacon fat to feed my haggard face. Expensive hams have slumped, they say, but bacon does not fall, and so I bash my head-piece gray against the Kitchen wall. The price has slumped on limousines, which ought to soothe my soul; but when I buy a can of beans it puts me in the hole. The things we really do not need are slumping, you will find, and here a hawk and there a seed the prices have declined; the doodads worn by gilded loons cost less, if loons will buy; but oh, my friends, the poor man's prunes are still too beastly high. Don't think the profiteers are dead because some prices shrink; still, as they crouch us on our bread, on all we eat and drink. Until this profiteering stops, the situation's blue; we can't afford to lose the hops, and raisins when we're brew.

The Corsairs.

"The monied imitators all combine to get these hard earned plunks of mine; the Wall street barons plot and plot to sloop me in a tender ship, the corsairs of unearned gold would give their heads to knock me cold." This is the way that James P. Jones declaims to me in trumpet tones, when every shadow seems to fall, and he leans on the garden wall. And if the barons climbed on him,

Cramped, not crimped

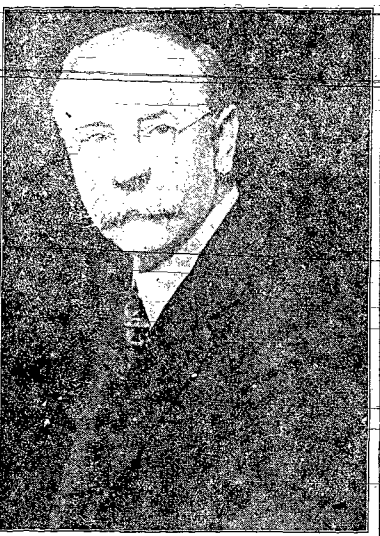

What's all this talk about Crimping?

LISTEN, Lester, and you shall hear: There are three ways to roll a cigarette—wet it with your tongue, use paste, or crimp it. But Spurr is the only cigarette—note that word only—that has the crimped seam; No moisture as when you roll a cigarette—no paste as used by other makers. Crimping makes Spurr draw easier, burn slower, taste better. Looking at a Spurr will give you the idea—and smoking one will give you the result. And of course everybody knows that Spurr are blended from choice Turkish, fine Burley and other home-grown tobaccos. That's where Spurr's good old tobacco taste comes from. There's a lot more to be said—but write it yourself after you've enjoyed twenty Spurr from the neat-looking brown and silver package.

Election, November 2, 1920

Congressman Evans is a man of honesty, integrity and ability and is entitled to re-election by an overwhelming majority.

John M. Matzen

Candidate to Succeed Stanislaus State Superintendent of Public Instruction

The names of candidates for this office will appear on a separate ballot without party designation.

To the Voters of Nebraska:
I know you are interested in the schools, the finest flower of civilization and the greatest conservative enterprise of our democracy and for equal opportunity. I was appointed State Superintendent last January to fill a vacancy, and wish to refer you to my record during the ten months I have served. I believe my experience, training, and knowledge of the work of the office, enable me to render the schooling of the state a valuable service. Therefore, I should like to be elected that I might have this opportunity.

I have resided in the state 36 years, having had 24 years experience as teacher, principal and superintendent, and was superintendent of the Dodge county schools 14 years. I hold a college degree, a Nebraska professional life certificate and a city superintendent's professional life certificate.

It shall be my earnest endeavor to conduct the affairs of the office in an efficient, economical, businesslike manner to serve all school interests with justice and fairness; and promote an upward and forward looking program of education.

YOUR SUPPORT WILL BE APPRECIATED

they'd find the pickings mighty slim; for James P. Jones is always broke; his credit is a ghastly joke. And I have always found it thus; the man who makes the biggest fuss about the plutocratic knaves who beat us into early graves, is one who never had a roll, some chap who's always in the hole. I find that if I work and save, and like a thrifty gent behave, I have the plunks to put in brine, and none disputes that they are mine. No Wall street barons are abroad to touch me for my humble wad; no manufacturers of great wealth that we'd be by force or stealth. But still I hear this James P. Jones: "I cannot have a store of bones, because the grasping, soulless plunks will rob a poor man of his looks."

A Year Ago
A year ago today, no doubt, I had the fantods of the post; or some grim grief oppressed my soul, and made the scalding teardrops roll. But what it was that made me sore, I don't remember any more. A year ago, I wist and wot, my grumblings made the welkin hot; the burdens I was doomed to bear seemed nothing than a man should wear; but what those burdens were that galled my shoulders till I wept and howled, I don't recall; how can one say what's chanced a year ago today? Today I'm weeping by the hour; the life I live seems lemon-sour; the government is on the blink, and there's nothing for a man to drink, the baseball scandal broke my heart, my ding-donged auto will not start. But if you meet me one year hence, and lean with me against the fence, and look me in the eyes and say, "We met one year ago today, and you were shedding bitter tears, and had craps lessons on your ears, and sackcloth on your jaded frame, and ash-ashes under your whiskers came, you seemed a most grief-stricken man; now, please explain it, if you can," ah, who can recollect the woe that jarred his soul a year ago?—I have fresh troubles every morn; each hour catastrophes are born; I'd be a break-if I could say what hurt a year ago today.

AN INTERESTING PONCA CASE

A. R. Davis Opposes an Action
Sued by John L. Webster.

Last week A. R. Davis of this city was engaged in conjunction with J. J. McCarthy of Ponca, and a railroad attorney of Omaha in upholding the defense in an interesting lawsuit in the district court at Ponca. The plaintiff was represented by John L. Webster of Omaha, one of the ablest and one of the best known lawyers in the state. It seems that the plaintiff who is a woman, claims a plot of ground by reason of adverse possession and one witness after another was called to give a history of such possession.

Mr. Webster whose experience has been largely restricted to large cities, could not understand how witnesses who had moved about in Ponca for thirty or forty years, could not give the names of streets there. He couldn't understand how any one who assumed to know anything, especially to know what happened thirty years ago, could travel over a particular street during all that time and not know its name. The great jurist was amazed and out of patience.

One witness who was questioned about the origin and antiquity of a clump of willows on the disputed ground, delayed answering Mr. Webster's question until he had drawn a bar of bubble gum from his pocket and placed a round-sized hunk in a comfortable position between his teeth. The incident would have been more complete if the witness had sought to extend the hospitality of a chew to the questioning counsel. "Volunteer" was the answer to the question as to origin of the willows. This started Mr. Webster who had never heard of trees growing on their own initiative.

Mr. Webster took witness back in recollection to the late seventies when the narrow-gauge railroad was built into Ponca, and he expressed some surprise that the many intervening years had not produced something better in the way of a railroad than that now running into the town.

Mr. Webster is about 70 years old, and is well preserved.

America's Telephone Achievements
France has not as many telephones as Chicago. Greece has not as many telephones as some of the largest American office buildings. All Europe has only one-third the telephones that the United States has. In twenty years the number of Bell-managed and connected telephones in the Bell system has increased fourfold. In 1880 there was one telephone to one thousand persons—today there is a telephone to every nine persons. During the past year and a half more new telephones were installed in American homes and offices than are in use throughout Great Britain. America has only one-twentieth of the world's population but nearly two-thirds of the world's telephoning is over the 24,000,000 miles of wires in the Bell system. The Bell system—that is the American Telephone & Telegraph company and Associated companies which is the extent of its public service has no counterpart anywhere. It has built out of the savings of hundreds of thousands of thirty ten and women.

WHO IS YOUR CHOICE?

Nebraska is an agricultural state. More than half our people are either directly or indirectly engaged in agriculture. Surely the Governor of Nebraska should be in whole-hearted sympathy with this industry.

Who then should be our choice next Tuesday?

Shall we vote for Mr. Morehead, a banker, who promises to establish a Department of Banking?

Shall we vote for Mr. Wray, a lawyer, who promises to establish a Department of Labor?

Or shall we vote for Governor McKelvie who HAS established a Department of Agriculture, as well as a Department of Labor and a Bureau of Banking?

In the two years that Samuel R. McKelvie has been Governor, he has fulfilled every pledge that he gave to the people before his election. He has proved himself worthy of the confidence that the people of Nebraska reposed in him when they elected him Governor. In answer to every "promise" that other candidates are now making, Governor McKelvie can point to what he has already done.

Samuel R. McKelvie deserves your vote.

Agriculture Notes

Value of Pure-Bred Stock.
In the western range states all kinds of sire breeding operations are being conducted by licensed owners. There is increasing evidence that good purebred males have wide influence on the quality of young stock and on the returns from stock-raising operations.

One day recently the United States department of agriculture enrolled in the Greater Sioux-Better Stock movement several ranchmen, each of whom had more than 1,000 head of live stock. One flock of sheep contained 250 purebred ewes and 2,150 crossbred ewes, the sires being all purebred. A cattle raiser who enlisted in the campaign the same day notified the department: "I have disposed of two grade Hereford bulls recently having decided to put nothing but purebred sires." This remark is typical of the progress of the movement in Montana.

Seed Corn Tests.
Seed corn that gives 100 per cent germination will show no injury from harmful organisms was matched against corn that showed no infection in a series of tests carried out by plant specialists of the United States department of agriculture in cooperation with the Indiana experiment station. The disease-free seed gave an increased yield of 10 to 30 per cent above its competitor.

Further results of the test seemed to prove that when corn was planted too thick for the soil it was more susceptible to disease than when better space was given it. In a similar test at Bloomington, Ill., the disease-free seed gave an increase of 23 per cent over the other corn, which was selected for high germination only. At Hoopston, Ill., the difference measured in tons, ranged from 0.01 ton to 1.5 tons in favor of the seed selected both for high germination and freedom from disease.

The selection was based on the absence of discoloration in the kernels and cobs as indicating soundness. Disease is indicated by brown discoloration of the hulls of the ears and at the kernel tips and by decay in the cobs.

Oil to Lay Duct.
Shifting sands which cover up a highway soon after it is completed have formed a serious obstacle to improved road building in some of the country, particularly in the northwest. To remedy the evil, the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture has issued a more extensive application of the agency that has been used in the past to lay dust on ordinary highways.

Five thousand miles of construction of the Columbia river highway from the Dalles eastward lies through sandy country, in many places of a volcanic ash light as fluff. As fast as cuts are opened up and fills made in this light soil the wind whips out the fill slopes and sand dunes creep into rock cuts, completely blocking the road. Oil in the city agency yet found to stop the trouble. The equipment used to spray the crude oil consists of two supply tanks, one of which the oil is carried from the storage tank at the railway siding, and a tractor which draws the oiling rig and supplies the steam through a hose to the compressor tank, which is carried on a trailer. The oil is heated by the steam and forced through a hose with a nozzle consisting of a half-inch pipe. The steam atomizes the oil and sends it in a fine spray for 100 feet or more, depending on whether the spray is projected in the direction of the wind or against it. For obvious reasons, spraying is usually carried on in the direction of the wind.

Where sufficient oil is used, this means of controlling the sand dunes is very effective, and it is believed that the cost will be not excessive, though exact figures are not obtainable at this time.

Price Drops Control Trade.
Sioux City, Iowa.—The widening scope of the economic readjustment in price levels which had been slighter under way for some time, but which took on an accelerated speed about six weeks ago, continues. It was the absorbing influence in trade during the last seven days. Following the period of unexpected expansion which reached its apex in the early months of 1920, the slump has been far more rapid than the inflation of October last year. Such price levels were exactly at the same point that they were in October, 1917. The highest point reached in the inflation was in early February, 1920. Thus in eight months, mostly in the last three months, wholesale prices have fallen as much as they increased from October, 1917, to February, 1920, a period of two years and three months.

The change in price levels may be restated by saying that the composite wholesale cost of ninety-five articles of common consumption on October 1 was 16.91 compared with 20.87 for last February and 19.90 for October last year. Such a medicinal change is not without its effect on business even where precautions were taken by business to guard against the consequences of such a sudden and general collapse.

Retail trade is experiencing a period of restricted buying in spite of the most extensive advertising campaign of many months, and in spite of the fact, that price cuts are such that they were not made by reputable firms, they would not be believed. It is not uncommon for merchants to offer 50 per cent cuts in their lines. There is a resistance on the part of the buying public. The late wave of extravagant buying has been followed by a wave of reticent and conservative buying that is as pronounced as was that of extravagance. People who bought generously of $60 and $100 suits of clothes a few months ago refuse to buy the same make and quality of clothes now when offered at half the former price. The public mind has reacted. The premium of the buying mania has swung to the other extreme.

The present low buying can well be followed by one of normal buying. Readjustments of prices on the lower levels will give the public a confidence in prices that will not be shaken. The sudden and unannounced cut in automobile prices was the prime factor in creating the present public distrust. People are afraid to buy today lest the price of that which they bought be substantially cut tomorrow and they be forced to pay more than the later purchaser. The people are watching for the cut in prices. This fact is proven by the efforts in many lines of goods to guarantee that the prices will be kept up for specific periods. That policy gives assurance to the buyer that he will not have to pay more than the later purchaser, but at the same time it is having a demoralizing effect on the buying public, because it is taken as a determination to hold prices up. These influences are confusing and disorganizing and business is having difficulty in adjusting itself to the conflicting impressions of the public. Unfortunately the readjustment is bringing some evils. The low level of bankruptcy which was reached last year is on the upward trend at this time and will increase as merchants with stocks purchased at high prices are forced to compete with either cut prices or stronger competitors or against stiffer purchasers at readjusted prices. Those who are unable to finance their depression with borrowed capital and who are not sufficiently strong financially to stand the strain will be forced to the wall. Manufacturers in certain lines are responsible for some of these evils. They have told their customers there was no possibility of price slumps and on the strength of that assurance, many of them have kept up their high priced stocks which now must be sold at cut prices.

Chicago Daily News: Another reason for the lower price of grain may be that there is more grain.

Revival News. The revival meetings now being conducted by the Harrington evangelistic party in the newly constructed tabernacle at Carroll have surpassed all expectations on the part of the workers and they have also broken the record of many past meetings.

Last Sunday was one of the biggest days in the religious history of Carroll and vicinity. The tabernacle was filled at the services, which were considered by many to be the largest gatherings ever held in Carroll.

Musical ability of the citizens of Carroll and vicinity was in evidence in both the congregational singing and the excellent work of the large chorus choir.

There were many solos rendered by local people during the week which were greatly appreciated by the audiences. Selections were rendered by Mr. Egan Davis, Mrs. Elmer Jones, Mrs. Fay Snowden, Miss Montgomery and others.

Mrs. Satele's message in song has been inspiring and the work of Prof. T. D. Gately has been telling from night to night in the way of increasing interest shown in the singing and in the chorus and the congregations.

Evangelist Harrington was at his best at the Sunday services, especially at the afternoon services, when every faculty of body and mind was brought into action and applied in the sermon in a most masterful manner.

At the evening service many recommended their lives for christian work.
