DINKLAGE BABE GETS MONEY

Mrs. Sophia Stark, an Aunt, to Take Child After its Recovery.

Settlement of the George Dinklage estate will leave Edna, the Dinklage baby, only survivor of the murder of his family by George Dinklage, heir to an about $40,000, according to estimates received.

Mrs. Sophia Stark of Clearfield, S. D., a sister of the late Mrs. George Dinklage, has offered to care for the baby as soon as it leaves the hospital, and it is likely that the child will make its home with her for a time.

Edna's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Tonges, have given their consent to have the baby cared for by Mrs. Stark, who has a daughter of her own, three or four years old.

Affairs of the Dinklage estate are being settled as rapidly as possible. Sixty three of the 135 head of cattle on the place will be disposed of by the administrators as soon as possible, as they have been fattened for market.

WATER PIPE CAUSES TROUBLE

Necessary to Tear Up New Paving to Locate Source of Damage.

A pipeline leading from Merchant & Stinson's filling station broke at the place where it was attached to the water main Thursday, making it necessary to shut off the water from the west part of town for a few hours Thursday night, and to tear up the new paving in order to locate the trouble.

Contraction of the lead pipe from cold is thought to have caused the break. Instead of being curved just before it was joined, the service pipe was attached directly to the main, leaving no chance for it to give when contraction due to cold set in.

Insists on Burning Corn.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 4.—Reports from farmers that they are going to burn ear corn as a substitute for the high priced coal, continue to be received here.

In a letter to A. E. Anderson, federal statistician for the bureau of crop estimates, P. H. Kitzer, a farmer of near Lebanon, Red Willow county, says he is not only going to burn corn as fuel, but has opened up 700 acres of winter wheat to his live stock. The present price of wheat, he says, does not make what a profitable crop for farmers, and he has decided not to harvest the winter wheat he has in.

Kitzer's letter accompanied his report to Mr. Anderson of crop conditions on his farm.—The letter follows:

"In regard to the winter wheat condition, I am sure it is hard to guess as everyone near here has turned live stock on it, considering what an unprofitable crop.

"I have always preferred my wheat and alfalfa fields, but my live stock this year has access to such fields, I do not expect to harvest my 700 acres of winter wheat. My 1920 crop was good, I am forced to sell it at $1.10 a bushel. Cars to ship it in were not available sooner. I put in my order for cars last June, but none was granted until the market was below the cost of production.

"In regard to firewood, the farmers are all going to burn ear corn, as 25 cents a bushel is all we can get for it. Elderly people who burn corn years ago, say it makes a very nice fuel.—We younger farmers can say more about it when this winter is over.

TURN HOGS INTO THE FIELDS

Low Farmers Explain How Good Profit is Realized From Corn.

Drovers Journal-Stockman: "Hogs are the most efficient and economical corn-pickers the farmer in Carroll county can possibly secure," explained a farmer shipping from Templeton, Ia., while on the market yesterday with a load of mixed cattle. "Few cattle are fed by Carroll county farmers due largely to their inability of securing a decent hay crop, according to the shipper from Carroll county. The farmers make up for their shortage in this department by the excessively large number of hogs which they raise as from 100 to 300 hogs can be found on practically every farm but carry a load of cattle."

"Hogging Down" Corn Popular. "Our farmers believe in raising two litters of pigs a year, for the most part," continued the Iowa. "They begin with good success in following this plan, year in and year out. Hogging down your corn is a common practice and it will be more popular than ever this year on account of the scarcity of huskers and the unreasonable demands they are making for their labors, and the bumper crops. I don't believe I have seen all of my hogs at one time for nearly a month now, and I have about 250 spring pigs in the fields now."

"Last spring I had unusual luck with pig crop as from fifty-four litters I got very few pigs," usually will raise the pig at around 10 weeks of age and turn them into pasture while the cows are penned up for feeding. "We usually sell all our pigs twice a year, once during summer and another time during winter months. The best of the spring and fall harrons are retained for breeding purposes but all the rest are sent to market. It was during the early part of October that I had my last crop of culled sows on the market and I will have another consignment here within a short time."

"During the fall of the year the pigs are taken from the pastures and placed in the cornfields. They make unusually good gains under their sort of feeding. We usually sell the other day a neighbor of mine sent a bunch of spring pigs to market which averaged about $75 pounds each."

Carroll county farmers have worlds of corn on their hands this year and are crowded to the yards of last year's crop which has not yet been marketed. "This is one reason for the increasing popularity of turning hogs into the fields this year. Most of the Carroll farmers who still are holding their last year's corn were forced to do so more on account of the car shortage at the time than the demand was the most, but rather than their desire to hold for higher prices. However, the county is not devoid from farmers who were disinclined to market their corn when it was selling for prices well over the $1.50 mark and are now finding the grain to be an extra burden on their shoulders."

The Dinklage Funeral.
Pender Republic: Pender was much moved and stirred to the depths, on Saturday last, when the funeral of the stricken Dinklage family was conducted from the Presbyterian church. Many hundreds of people flocked in from the country, the streets of Pender being thronged with automobiles and other conveyances. Long before the hour of service, the church overflowed with people, and the great crowd reverently awaited the cortege, upon the sidewalk where they congregated. The immediate relatives assembled at the Demme undertaking parlors and there bade farewell to the remains, when three hearses brought the five coffins to the church, where they were escorted in to the strains of funeral music, and then the choir singing the beautiful hymn, "In the Hour of Trial, Jesus Plead for Me."

This was followed by the solemn service over the dead, with special selection from the holy scriptures, followed by prayer and then the obituary of the stricken family. The choir then rendered the hymn, "Does Jesus Care?" which was followed by the pastor's sermon—a touching tribute, delivered with great power, yet with extreme tact and deepest feeling, the reverend dwelling upon the necessity of these critical financial times for men to remain balanced and ready to meet conditions with honor and judgment, and to move near to the Almighty Father, from which all misery have strayed in prosperity and allowed themselves extravagant view and practices, from which all should depart, and especially return to the Lord and serve Him with the whole heart. But kindly, light-allusion was made to the dead Rev. Bray, with his tender soul towards all afflicted, meeting the confidence and conveying to the living a sterling call to the holiest and the highest.

After the services hundreds marched past the caskets, which were eventually taken to the Pender cemetery, followed by a great number of mourners and sympathetic friends, where they were laid away, side by side, in five open graves ready to receive them.

B. E. T. in the Chicago Tribune Ladies' ears are to be shod again, we read. And perhaps, because of a season or two of top-dressing, they will lie a little closer to the head.

LETTER FROM PACIFIC COAST

Miss Laura Lyons Writes From Winter Home at Long Beach

234 Pacific Ave., Long Beach, Calif. December 2, 1920.

Wayne Herald:

The mornings have been rather damp and foggy, but about 10 o'clock it clears up and every one tries to get some sunshine.

Tri-weekly the municipal market is held. A few of the articles and prices follow: Two or three heads of lettuce 5 cents; eggs, 92 cents; "puller" eggs, 80 cents; strawberries (fresh), 25 cents; 35 cent cabbage, head 5 cents; tomatoes, pound 6 cents; celery, bunch 5, 10 and 15 cents. Fresh home cooking and baked prepared meats, flowers, fancy work, also souvenirs.

The week we came was "maac week" when excellent musical programs were rendered in different parts of the city and the evening of the 22nd all twenty-one selections were played by bands, grandstands or piano and every one was given a chance to write the name of the selection and the composer and prizes were given. As a wonderful climax to the program was carried out in the park, on two sides of which the municipal market is held. Thus particularly could hear the music or join in the community sing, which was certainly beautiful. The day before Thanksgiving we were under palms, mild flowers and lawns and sunshine. One could enjoy this to the fullest.

One evening there was a "fiddlers' contest" of the "boys" 60 years young and one was dressed like a clown and did many funny stunts while playing. Only two contestants won "maac" money. One has a subscription to the Long Beach Telegram and the other to the Long Beach Press, the dailies here.

I have seen Mrs. Livingston, who is well, also the Art Halladay family, who are enjoying themselves, and I noticed he glad to hear from the Wayne friends. One Hansen, my father and I spent last Sunday afternoon with them.

Laura E. Lyons.

Rate in Telephone Rates

A ten per cent increase on local telephone rates, was put into effect by the Nebraska Telephone company on December 1. According to telephone officials this raise, which is called a surcharge and will be only temporary, was made necessary because the company only realized 8.65 per cent on its investment last year. E. S. Krause, local manager, says he does not know how long the extra rates will be in force.

BRUGGEMAN HOME BURNS

Family loses $1,500 in Furniture and Clothing—Other News.

Fire destroyed the house on the Rev. A. G. Garner farm, seven miles south of Laurel, a week ago Saturday. Louis Bruggeman, Jr., and his wife who occupy the house, were in Laurel shopping. When they received a telephone message saying their house was on fire. Before they arrived home the building was completely destroyed. About $1,500 in furniture and clothing were lost by Mr. and Mrs. Bruggeman. Rev. Garner carried $1,500 insurance on the house which partly covers his loss. A defective fuse may have caused the fire, although Mr. and Mrs. Bruggeman thought there was no fire in the store when they left home. Mr. and Mrs. Bruggeman will probably move into the new house on the J. M. Mohr farm until other arrangements can be made.

Nathan Benditson, proprietor of The People's store in Pierce, received word recently that his brother had been murdered in Poland, by Bolshevik forces of Russia. The news came in the form of a letter from the wife of the murdered brother. The victim owned eighty acres of land in Poland and had over two million dollars of money. According to the letter his murderers took all the money and everything else they could carry away, even his clothes. Mr. Benditson said he intended to send his sister-in-law a ticket to the United States.

Stanton Register, Dec. 2: Our latest report from the coal mine northwest of Stanton was that nothing was being done, the prospectors waiting for the machinery to prosecute the investigation. There is an expert from Lincoln in charge of the work of investigation and it may be some time before the result is made known to the public. It is believed, however, that the coal is there in paying quantities. The discovery was made by well diggers and eight feet of coal was found in three different places some distance apart.

Emerson Enterprise, Dec. 2: Miss Jackson, who has been teaching the third grade in Emerson schools, practically deserted her post when she notified the superintendent and school board, Tuesday evening, that she would not teach any longer and left Wednesday afternoon, without giving the faculty time to secure a teacher in her place. Her reason for leaving was that some time ago, she took the examination for rural mail carrier at Harbard and had just received word that she passed examination and would commence on her new job immediately. Her action has left the schools short one teacher and the securing of some one to take her place has worked a hardship on Superintendent Bixler and the school board.

Battery Advice To Consumers

"Battery advice is free," says J. A. Gurnon, Willard Service Station dealer, "and like all free products, it is a drug on the market. It is ordinarily if a car owner would try to do all the things suggested by the trade papers, the car builders and the battery manufacturers, he would have no time to drive, to attend to business or keep up a speaking acquaintance with his family."

"As a matter of fact, a battery does not need a great deal of care, and the average driver gets good results by putting in a little water every week or so, and making regular calls at the service station. "It is always important to give a battery the right start, and the first thing every purchaser of a car, new or old, should do is to drive around to the service station on that first battery start, and get the right sort of start toward a useful and active life." d71ad

Woman Adjudged Insane

Burning of her husband's and child's clothing and other irresponsible acts witnessed—Neighbors caused Mrs. Carrie P. Person, wife of a farmer living one mile north of Carroll, to be adjudged insane after examination by authorities at the courthouse Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Person's answers to questions put by the board were quite rational and she responded to questions about herself which were asked of her husband, before he was able to do so. According to witnesses, however, she has been irrational for sometime and has seemed to grow worse in the fall. She is forty-five years old and has one child, nine years old.

Sheriff O. C. Lewis, accompanied by his wife, took the patient to the Norfolk asylum Saturday night.

Norfolk Man Aceded Here

Because he had annoyed Wayne inhabitants Wednesday and Thursday nights by looking into windows, rapping upon panes, and in general behaving in a disorderly manner, O. D. Dally of Norfolk, was arrested here at 7 p. m. Friday night by Chief of Police A. A. Chance, and placed in jail. He was placed under a $500 peace bond by Judge J. M. Cherry Saturday morning and fined $15.00.

Sleet Storm Does Damage

The slight storm in eastern Nebraska last week is reported to have caused damages to the property of the Nebraska Telephone company aggregating $20,000.00. Many wires and poles went down under weight of the wet snow. Five hundred miles of toll lines went down and 326 telephones were put out of order. The territory most injured was the southeast and west of Humphrey.

How You Can Tell

R. L. Madigan, Tri-State. It is easy, says the medical director of the Washington Home, to tell whether a man has been drinking good whiskey or moonshine. The whiskey drinker merely staggers while the moonshine consumer spins like a top. So if you see a person spinning on a corner you will know what ails him.

Only Temporary Relief. Sioux City, Dec. 8.—It may be judged by news reports from Washington, the minority of the delegates introduced and he has been elected congress for the relief of the farmers are only exponents. They are intended to provide temporary relief only and do not reach the seat of the trouble. They leave the bill, do not cure the cause. Of course, temporary relief is essential, because something must be done at once to save the agricultural industry from ruin. Therefore, considering the fact that the bill is not even temporary. But such relief must not be allowed to shadow the need for the legislation that will bring the cause of the trouble under which the farmers may borrow money to tide them over the period of low prices. It is all right, provided such doing over brings them to a market in which the farmers may sell their crops at cost of production, plus fair profits. But if the market is not provided, the evil day is only postponed for the time of payment will find the farmer in a low-price, they now face, and it is just as well to make the sacrifice now as then. But after they secure a reprieve from the bill, the cause of the trouble must be located and removed. It is doubtful if any remedial legislation will be passed unless approved by President Wilson. The administration, especially the secretary of the treasury, is hostile to the bill, which they are opposing for their relief. The president has an idea that all the financial difficulties have come upon it because the United States did not enter the league of nations. But no intelligent, practical individual can figure out how membership in a combination of what would create a market for wheat, corn, pork and beef, or provide the money in foreign markets to pay for their goods bought in this country. Some democratic members of congress whose constituencies are as seriously affected by present conditions as those republican members have announced that they are ready to overcome the presidential hostility by passing relief legislation to the president. If they stand by their announcement it is possible temporary relief bills at least, may be passed early in the next session. It is not probable that a bill can be secured until the extra session which will be called by President Harding shortly after his inauguration.

What form either the temporary or the permanent relief measures will take is sufficient to pass such a measure over a veto. The middleman and the speculator in farm commodities may be responsible for the farm disasters of the present time. If they are, legislation which figuratively hangs them as high as Haman must be enacted. It is found that dealing in futures robs the producers, the agencies of such dealings must be exterminated if they are not. The truth ought to be determined so that the real cause could be found.

"The Bird of Paradise." Richard Walton Tully's delightful story of the Hawaiian Islands will play its annual engagement at the Orpheum in Lincoln Monday and Tuesday, December 13 and 14, with a special matinee Tuesday. The play is in its tenth year, which in itself is sufficient tribute to its quality. It tells with frank truthfulness that the brown skinned race and the white should not wed, and it also teaches a wonderful moral lesson. Although there is a note of tragedy in it, yet there is a note of many flashes of wit and humor. Richard Walton Tully is sponsor for the play. He is the author of the play. Florence Rockwell in the role of Luaua, the Hawaiian princess. Miss Rockwell is one of the best-known stage actresses in the American stage, having for years gained recognition in the support of Robert B. Mantell, Henry Miller, and other notable actors. The supporting cast includes Brandon Evans, Robert Brister, Gertrude Walters, Robert Wilson, Lee Curley, John Sumner, and George W. Ford. One of the features of this performance is the singing and dancing given by the play's fascinating approach.

GOVERNOR URGES RELIEF

Nebraska Executive Adviser Needs Help to Tackle Over Crisis

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—Gov. Samuel R. McKelvie of Nebraska, who was in the District capital for eight or ten hours today, having come on to Washington from the conference of governors held this week in Harrisburg, was an exceedingly busy man this morning before the committee on agriculture, conducting hearings looking to the relief of the farmer, and the extension of bank credits to help them over the present financial depression. He pointed out the Governor outlined economic conditions as they relate to the farmers of his state and while he had no concrete remedy to urge at present, he thought a cure might be accomplished through a perfect knowledge of existing conditions.

State Country Menaced

"You, of course, are aware," the governor said in his statement to the joint committee, which is presided over by Senator Norris in the absence of Senator Gronne, the chairman of the senate committee, "of the severe situation in which the farmer finds himself. It is the culmination of a condition that has been growing for some time and has now reached a point where it not only menaces the immediate and future welfare of the farmers, but that of the entire country."

"The farmer has quite successfully saved his crop of production until, for instance in Nebraska this year, the crops are larger than they have been in the history of the state. Over 75,000,000 bushels of wheat, added to a surplus that has been accumulating for a number of years, has resulted in a surplus of wheat, the price of which has fallen to a point where the farmer is not able to market his crops at the prices that were offered for them, although he was willing to do so."

Prices Unreasonable

"There was such a shortage of cars that he could not get his crops to the market. That condition has been relieved and there is a sufficient supply of cars, but the price offered the farmer for the two principal crops in Nebraska, wheat and corn, is wholly unreasonable and he was obliged to sell his corn in this market of the state today at prevailing prices it would be about 50 percent below the price that he was offered for it."

Our Farmers are Prosperous

"Our farmers are prosperous as farmers in most communities. They have some accumulated wealth. The farmers who own their land will be able to bear the loss, but the tenant farmer is not able to bear the loss of the agriculturalist, so he is obliged to sell these crops at prices which will result in his financial ruin. He will not be able to meet under the most favorable circumstances in the years that will follow, to recoup the loss that he sustains now and it is going to mean that thousands of these tenant farmers will be driven from the land."

Names Important Factors

Governor McKelvie suggested three things that are fundamentally important in connection with the solution of the problem now being considered by the committee:—First, these are: Transportation, adequate finances and distribution. Distribution, the governor thought, is the most important question that confronts the farmer. "It is purely a question of economics, which questions the distribution of the product of the land at the lowest possible cost from the original producer, to the ultimate consumer," said Governor McKelvie. "There has been growing up in this country for years a condition of wasteful distribution, a situation that has enabled certain agents, rendering no essential service, to obtain a control over the markets which has become highly inimical to the farmers welfare. He thought that relief might be had if more elevators were built and owned by the farmers, especially at terminal points, the idea being that the farmers could then hold their products and market them when prices warranted, thereby cutting out the middleman and the speculator.

Governor's Resolution

Asked what had been recommended by the conference of governors, Governor McKelvie told of the resolution adopted by the governors' meeting, which foremost of all advocated revival of the war finance corporation or something that would open the foreign markets, also they urged a more liberal discount policy to farmers by the federal reserve banks. During the hearing Governor McKelvie said that in his annual message to the next legislature he would urge some means to help finance farming operations in the state on long-time credits secured by loans on land to run probably 20 years and to start to be paid back in 1925. In fact, he said he was calling within 10 days a conference of the representatives of all the state farm organizations to discuss with them the program for the legislation outlined above.

"Let Alice Do It"

New York Evening World: Alice Robertson of Oklahoma has been elected to congress.

Alice Robertson was elected while she was proprietress of a cafeteria in her home town. Now, be it known, for years the farmers have been protesting against the farmers in arranging satisfactory food service at reasonable prices in the house dining rooms. In fact, homepun salons have been known to arise on the floor of the house and suggest that there must be profiteering somewhere. It is the opinion of a portion of sacoch was far greater than the farmer received for his corn and beans.

Such suggestions were made even before "profiteer" became a word second only in popularity to the first personal pronoun.

Now the suggestion is, "Let Alice do it," meaning that the representatives favor Miss Robertson as a committee of one on the congressional commissary.

But wouldn't this be revolutionary?—It would—more in accord with precedent to invest a committee of five confirmed dyspepsics who have forgotten that food exists.

Another danger impends from such a suggestion, if the users suggest that Miss Robertson won because of the occupational appeal of her business in Oklahoma. She had the brutes and the brutes voted for her.

With Miss Robertson in charge of the congressional kitchen, would there be danger that she might undermine the constitution and the prerogative of seniority with fried chicken, corn pone, and apple pie? When a sleet storm is reported on the way, telephone repairmen get busy.

Often before the storm has reached the place of threatened attack, linemen with emergency material are on the ground.

But often the storms come almost without warning.

Sleet and lightning are the telephone man's worst enemies. Lightning hits only here and there, but often sleet will take down miles and miles of wires.

NEBRASKA TELEPHONE COMPANY

Seep Crop to China.

Bookings, S. D., Dec. 4.—The following was written by Philo Hill, former congressman from South Dakota, Second district, and published in the "Money" column of the "Washington Post."

One of the great middle west arid areas, including the largest corn crop ever produced in the United States, is in a state of crisis and granaries, and considerable is still standing in the fields unharvested. None is sold at the present market prices, except in case of dire necessity, and much of it is being used for fuel. It is estimated that we produced a surplus of 70,000,000 bushels of corn this year. On the other side of the globe, as the result of repeated droughts and crop failures, millions of human beings in China are starving to death; they have been subsisting for months on the bark of trees and even on grass, but the trees are now stripped, and the vegetation killed by frost. Death stares them in the face, and many have already succumbed.

These conditions readily suggest a means whereby the farmers of the middle west and the starving Chinese may be mutually helpful. The two evils, opposite in nature, may be made to neutralize each other. We can relieve their hunger, save them from starvation; they, on the other hand, can be the means of furnishing our farmers with a market for our surplus corn.

business may be rebuilt on these lines.

The condition of the agricultural sections is still a dominant influence in the financial future. Food prices have not declined as much as farm product prices. Consequently, the consumer is not getting his share of the deflation. As a result he is not purchasing more than his pressing necessities require. If he were getting the benefit of low prices he would buy more and the market for farm products would be increased to the extent of the increase in his buying.

In the cities rents and the price of fuel remain at above the war time basis. Overpricing gives property owners the opportunity to charge excessive rents. They are taking full advantage of the condition. Rents are from 25 to 50 per cent higher than other business conditions justify. Fuel prices are excessively high. Operators and dealers are conducting their business on the basis of profits measurable in the months of profit-taking.

In general, each line of business has its peculiar problems, but the consensus of opinion is that retail prices will decline more rapidly once the stocks purchased at inflated wholesale prices are moved. The trouble is that the public is unable to purchase these stocks at high prices and the only way they are moved across the counters is to cut prices to the lowest possible point. This means the sacrifice of profits and in many instances heavy losses. Fuel and housing being conditions which impotent weather force the public to stand against at any price, are able to withstand any refusal of the public to consume. They are commodities of life and death and it is easy to hold up the price on the public.

In the labor world the significant feature of the business is the large number of employees temporarily laid off, who are returning to work at lower wages. The United States department of labor statistics show that comparing October figures of 1920 with those of 1919, in the same industries, there has been an increase in the number of employees in 1920 and a decrease in 1919. The Massachusetts department of labor reports shows there are now unemployed in that state more than any time since 1908. The effect on retail trade of enforced idleness is pronounced in the sections where the number of unemployed is large.

CONSOLIDATED WITH THE WAYNE REPUBLICAN

WAYNE HERALD, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1920.

VOL. 34, No. 27.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF WEDDING

Ingham-Forbes Nuptials Will Take Place During the Holidays.

Miss Margaretta Forbes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Forbes of Wayne, has resigned her position in the advertising department of the Martin store in Sioux City, and has come to her home here, preliminary to the marriage to Mr. Ralph C. Ingham, now living in Chicago, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Ingham of this city. The wedding will take place at the Forbes home between Christmas and New Year's.

A miscellaneous shower was given for Miss Forbes at the Republic Cafe on Tuesday afternoon, which was a group of girl friends.

Previous to entering the advertising department of the Martin store, where she had been employed for over a year, she was a member of the news staff of the Sioux City Journal for a year. Her aptitude for journalism was soon manifested when she entered the employ of the Wayne Herald in February, 1919. Here she exhibited rare talent, resigning in September, 1919, to take a course in journalism in the university of Missouri at Columbia.

The fortunate young man in the coming matrimony is also a newspaper product. He was first in the employ of the Wayne Democrat, and then he was engaged until he joined to work with the editorial staff of the Norfolk Daily News. Returning from the government service, he took a course in journalism at the university of Chicago, and is now engaged in advertising work for a Chicago company.

Both are 100 per cent alive and ambitious, and their success and happiness promise to satisfy their most ardent wellwishers.

PLANNING MILL READY SOON

Wm Zastrow Is Now Installing Machinery for the Industry.

William Zastrow has this week moved here from Emerson and is installing machinery for a planing mill in the building formerly occupied by Mitchell & Christensen's marble works. Mr. Zastrow will add new machinery as soon as possible. He understands the business thoroughly, and it is believed he has found a permanent location here. His plans will come to Wayne as soon as he is able to secure a house.

Would Stabilize Agriculture.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 8.—H. F. Mcintosh, agricultural commissioner of the Omaha chamber of commerce, has a plan for the stabilizing of agriculture by stabilizing the cattle business, which he considers the key industry of farming.

Mr. McIntosh would have the packers agree on a minimum price for standard steers over three months periods and announce this price several months in advance.

"I believe the problem of stabilization is so simple that a solution of it may be reached within a few months," says the Omaha expert. "I see no reason why the same methods which have been adopted in all grain markets are not applicable to the cattle market. It all hinges on the producers and packers agreeing on a standard type of beef steer and on a minimum sale price a considerable time in advance of production. This is neither difficult nor impracticable."

"Every man in the beef cattle industry knows the standard type of steer the moment he sees it much better than the farmer or the elevator man knows a sample of No. 2 red winter wheat." The cattle man needs neither scale nor grading to confirm his judgment.

"The other day I presented this problem to the superintendent of one of the leading packing companies. We readily agreed on the standard hypothetical case. Supposing there were only one packing firm in the world, and so, only one buyer in the market, would it be practicable to notify cattle feeders or agree with them some months in advance of the market season that for a period of time, say January, February and March of any year, and by three months periods for the rest of the year, that the buyer would pay for standard steers not less than an agreed price for the given three months period? This packing house superintendent, without much hesitation, assented to the proposition.

"I undertake to say that five packers can be made to agree upon a standard type of steer and can be compelled to stabilize prices by establishing a minimum buying price in advance of production by agreement among themselves and with representatives of the producers."

"I believe in recognizing monopoly in the packing industry. I believe proper distribution and sale of meats can be effected in no other way. "A prosperous live stock industry is at the basis of any sound, economic system of agriculture. This live stock is produced largely from by-products or waste in farm operations, and through consumption of this waste they reduce or maintain the fertility of the soil."

Change Nebraska Dry Law.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 7.—A proposal to amend the Nebraska prohibition law to conform with the federal anti-liquor statute is being considered by some members of the state legislature, according to William L. Randall, Omaha attorney, recently elected to the house of representatives.

"I would consider the enactment of such an amendment very advantageous from the standpoint of expense to the state," Mr. Randall declared. "As prohibition is a national proposition now I think we ought to let the federal government stand the expense. As it now stands, there is a duplication of effort and confusion has resulted."

Mr. Randall said that the federal law permits the sale by druggists of intoxicating liquor on physician's prescriptions, whereas this practice is not permitted under the Nebraska law, and pointed to this as a conflict between the state and federal laws.

Wants to Lower Rates.

Lincoln, Dec. 7.—The Northwestern Railway company wants the state railway commission to give it permission to reduce its rates.

The application is for a reduction on commodity rates on brick from Hooper to points out in the state. The reason for this unheard of proposition is that the company has discovered that it has been charging more for intermediate points than it has for more distant points. They want permission to equalize the charges.

Alliance Barber Shot.

Alliance, Neb., Dec. 7.—Earl Anderson, 25, a barber, was shot and killed here today. Mrs. Evelyn McElheny, proprietress of a rooming house, was arrested, and is alleged to have confessed and later denied to the police that she was responsible. No motive is known. Anderson, formerly of Lincoln, came here several months ago.

Rail Man Denies Rumor.

Norfolk, Neb., Dec. 7.—General Superintendent Dickenson of the Northwestern railroad denied here the report that the Northwestern would take over the Omaha route next January. He says the reports have been in circulation for some time without official sanction.

Northwestern Cuts Force.

Norfolk, Neb., Dec. 7.—Northwestern officials announced here today that 125 men would be laid off in the shops located at Missouri Valley, Norfolk, Fremont, and Chadron. This makes a 10 per cent reduction in shop forces as ordered over the entire system.

At Welsh Congregational Church, School district No. 44, where Miss Ruth Franson is the teacher, will give a box social in the Welsh Congregational church December 17.

CORN NEAR WAYNE HARVESTED
This Week—Yield Good

"Cornhusking is almost finished. Some farmers have harvested their crops, but on the average-sized farm there probably remained at least a 1,000 bushels to be harvested at the beginning of this week. A few men who have exceptionally large crops will probably be two or three weeks longer in gathering their corn.

In spite of the fact that most of the corn is harvested, very little is being received by the shipping elevators in Wayne. At the Farmers' Elevator only two farmers' crops have been received and these were brought early in the season, one of them, that of Carl C. Thomson, having been contracted for early in the summer. Under his contract, Thomson received five a bushel for his corn and hauled in 1,200 bushels. George Giese also disposed of his crop early in the season before the price had dropped so low, receiving five a bushel.

Only about 1,000 bushels of corn have been bought by the Grain Elevator and Grain company this season. They have been buying around a bushel for most of what they have purchased. George K. Mohr recently sold his crop of 3,000 bushels to this company. J. T. Peck is another farmer who has sold, having disposed of his crop mainly to feeders around town. Farmers about Carroll are said to be getting rid of their crops faster than those around Wayne.

The average corn yield this year is forty to fifty bushels an acre, according to reports received from those harvesting. This is considerably larger than the average yield last year and the quality of the corn is very high, fully as good as it has been in previous years. Corn under cover now has a moisture test of three or four but that exposed to the recent wet weather would now have a more unfavorable moisture test.

I was so nervous and restless, I never got a good night's sleep and felt tired and worn-out all the time. In spite of all the medicine I took I kept on getting worse, and was very much worried over my condition.

"Two bottles of Tantar have already changed things for me and have given me such a ravishing appetite that I can hardly get enough to eat. My nerves are so strong that nothing seems to excite me and I sleep like a child every night. I'm feeling just fine and get up in the morning ready for my housework. At the rate Tantar is now building me up, I think it will only be a short while till I will be as strong and healthy as I was before I ever got sick, and I'm always glad to say a good word for the medicine."

Tantar is sold in Wayne by H. J. Fisher, in Carroll by L. R. King, and in Winnside by B. & C. McIntyre—advt

North Dakota Banks. Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 7.—Three hundred bankers of this state meet here to discuss the financial situation in North Dakota, adopted resolutions drafted by a special investigating committee which found the "financial situation essentially sound" and recommended steps for improving conditions which have resulted in the closing of twelve banks since and one national bank in less than a month.

"The assets of the state's banks are more than sufficient to meet an legitimate demand upon them," said the resolutions. "Temporary embarrassments only have arisen through changing prices on account of the low prices of agricultural commodities, and due almost wholly to the nationwide conditions accompanying the period of reconstruction."

The resolutions recommended depositing by each bank of $500 to $1,000 in a special fund to be placed at the disposal of the state bank examiner to aid banks which have been closed. Recommendation also was made to reduce the national necessary foreclosures of mortgages.

The bankers also endorsed the offering for sale by the industrial commission of bonds amounting to $5,200,000 which would be used to extend the operations of the banks of North Dakota in making farm loans and in financing state projects, such as the mill and elevator and home builders' associations.

Agriculture Notes

Saved a $200 Cow.
 With a first-class veterinary bill containing a chicken pull and a tomato-planting, one of the county agents of the United States department of agriculture save a $200 cow belonging to a farmer in Pioneer county, N. C.

This farmer had expressed an unreasonable opinion of farmers' cooperative demonstration work, declaring that he would rather use his money for other purposes than in helping to pay the county's portion of the expense. While he was in town he received word that his valuable cow was attacked with milk fever. The county agent went home with him and found the neighbors using primitive methods in treating the animal for "hollow tail" and colic.

Using the chicken pull and the automatic pump, the veterinary agent pumped the cow's udder full of air. In less than two hours she was on her feet. Some simple remedies completed the cure.

The farmer attempted to give the county agent a check for $10, which, of course, was declined. The farmer, however, became a warm supporter of the farm-extension work.

How to Dispose of Wool.
 Farmers of North Carolina, assisted by a representative of the United States department of agriculture and the state college of agriculture, have found that there are more ways than one to dispose of wool. They are having their wool manufactured into blankets and expect to sell the blankets. About 15,000 pounds of wool produced in North Carolina has been handled in this manner.

The bottom dropped out of the wool market in North Carolina. Three wool sales, which were to be held at Washington, Greensboro, and Asheville were abandoned, due to the fact that sheep raisers were unable to get the wool at prices acceptable to the farmers. After the sales were canceled a large manufacturing company, with establishments at Winston-Salem and Elkin, was interested in the proposition to make up the wool of individual farmers into blankets. About 15,000 pounds of wool produced in North Carolina has been handled in this manner. Each consignment was weighed, graded, and a report made on showing just how many blankets of a certain grade and quality could be made from the lot. This saved the manufacturing establishment the necessity of advertising for wool on an uncertain market. Many of the farmers are now arranging to place their blankets on the markets, and it is estimated that their wool will average them something like 50 to 55 cents a pound and in some cases more. Wool from the state export-market station netted approximately 75 cents a pound and that from a state test farm—approximately .84 cents a pound.

Practical Enterprise.
 In Orange county, Florida, one of the members of a home club organized by the home demonstration agency is making a specialty of "egg boxes," and is doing well with her enterprise. These attractive boxes contain a few perfect oranges, grapes, fruit, and nutmegs, and are sold all packed and ready for shipment to the tourists who send them north as gifts to friends. During the best part of the winter season this club member sell forty to fifty boxes a day, and on each she makes a very fair profit.

Housewife of home women.
 found in every state who are anxious to earn money without going from home to do it. Hand-painted china, embroidery and crocheted articles are usually the first things thought of as a possible means of producing money or in some instances, a most necessary living income. The amateur manufacturer soon finds, however, that the demand for such articles is small and that as income producers they are a failure, for almost every woman is able to make them for herself and few desire to buy them ready-made.

The home demonstration agents were sent out by the United States department of agriculture and the state agricultural colleges advise the women in their territories who are anxious to earn some money of their own. They sell something that the majority of women can produce for themselves, but to look over the local field and see if there is not something which people want and need that the one desiring an income can make better than anyone else can. It is not something which people want and need that the one desiring an income can make better than anyone else can. It is not something which people want and need that the one desiring an income can make better than anyone else can.

It may be, if the woman lives in the country, or in a small town, that the list of things to make and curries and can make a delicious bar-le-due, a small jar of which brings a good price in the city, or she may be taught how to make it, if she has the material. Basketry is taught in some sections of the south where the long-stemmed banana is the material. The baskets are filled with dried oranges and grapefruit marmalade and are sold to tourists.
