

WAYNE STUDENTS RECEIVING TESTS

Senior Class of the High School in the Lead in Results of Recent Geography Tests.

THINGS EXAMINATION PROVES
Difference in Thinking Power Noted - Names of the Leaders - Superintendent Explains.

Two standard geography tests were given to the Wayne high school students recently. The first was a test in general knowledge and the second set required thought in answering. The graph showing the results of the two tests, averaged for the two tests, is as follows: The senior class in the lead, the junior-sophomores a class ranking second, the Juniors and Junior Sophomores a class ranking third place, the freshmen ranking fourth, and the senior sophomores fifth.

It was expected that the freshmen would rank highest since they are now studying geography. However, it is satisfactory to note that the senior class has developed thinking power that more than offsets the natural lag in particular study when the mind is not directed to the subject.

Following are the names of the pupils receiving honors in the different classes:

Senior - First, John Hufford and Merrit McConnell; second, Floyd Carpenter and Tripp Michael.

Junior - First, Merrit McConnell and E. McKinnin; second, Henry Ley and John West.

Junior Sophomores - First, Grant McCall and E. McKinnin; second, Junior Sophomores A - First, Paul Bowen and Edward Reynolds; second, Alton Rippon and Hazel Mitchell.

Junior Sophomores B - First, Carl Sande; second, Lulla Henegar.

Freshmen - First, Thelma Peterson and E. McKinnin; second, John Hufford, Merrit McConnell, Grant McCall, and Carl Sande.

Speaking of the standard tests given pupils of the city schools the superintendent says that the average for the two tests was 87.1-2 percent.

These tests included the Curtis Research test in arithmetic; the Nebraska test in mental ability; the national intelligence test. These tests recognize a standard of attainment for the several grades.

The standard test based upon the average work of students to whom the tests have been given. They represent the lowest or average work of the several grades and therefore it is possible to determine the relative standing of any pupil or of any class in terms of standards.

"They offer a valuable check on the work of the teacher. By these tests she is able to determine whether or not her mental ability is the standard of the leading schools of the county. The pupil will be impressed with the fact that his work is being compared with that of his grade and if his work is not up to the standard the superintendent and the teacher will, quite likely, be able to determine the cause of the short.

We are all familiar with the fact that one child may make the same physical growth in a year that another may make in an even year's mental development, although, both may be the same age.

"Grading by chronological age is abandoned in the method used by the teacher who graded her pupils according to weight, placing all pupils who weighed less than 70 pounds in the first grade, and those who weighed between 70 and 80 pounds in the second grade, and so on.

"By the use of the Standard Intelligence tests the mental age of a pupil can be determined very closely and the child placed in the grade suited to the age of his mental development. Quite frequently a 9-year-old child will have a ten or eleven-year-old mental development.

"If the child is standing well at the head of his grade he may safely be promoted, because he will easily keep up with the work of the next grade. On the other hand if a 9-year-old child has an eight or seven year-old mental development it is better to try to cram him into a grade that is one or two years in advance of his mental growth.

"The Standard tests are furnished to the schools of Nebraska at cost by the Nebraska Bureau of Educational Research. After the tests have been given they are checked over by the United States and the results are sent fit they may be sent to the bureau for accurate scoring. If sent in, they are carefully graded and returned to the schools.

"The usefulness of these standard tests is now generally accepted by leading educators throughout the United States and it is only a matter of time when we will determine the efficiency of our teaching more accurately by these standard tests than by any other method.

WAYNE COUNTY MOTHERS TO BENEFIT BY PENSION

Judge A. A. Welch Appoints Committee For Investigation.

Mothers who are the sole support of dependent children will receive aid at the hands of the county under the direct supervision of a mother's pension committee which was created this week by A. A. Welch, judge of the district court, with Mrs. C. A. Chace as chairman and Mrs. Art Baker of Oriskany, Mrs. M. S. Linn of Carey and Mrs. C. W. Cunningham and W. M. Orr of Wayne, as fellow members of the committee.

The purpose of the committee, according to Judge Welch, is to keep children under 14 years of age at home under the care of the mother in cases where the absence of such mother would mean work for the child or $50 a month to an orphan home, is sufficient to enable the mother to maintain the home with only one or two children.

Under the provisions of the pension law no mother who has $2,000 in addition to her household goods will be granted a pension and in no case where there are relatives of the second degree able to contribute to the support of the children will relief be given.

The chairman of the committee, Mrs. Chace has the title of probation officer and has the authority to issue orders in such cases as are provided for in the law.

The committee has finished the necessary investigation and reported Judge A. A. Welch passes on the merits of the cases and the amount of the pension. One application is pending, he reported today.

CONFERENCE OVER ATHLETICS
Prof. E. E. Lackey Represents Wayne State Normal at Meeting.

Prof. E. E. Lackey, who is chairman of the budget committee as representative from the Wayne State Normal, attended the annual meeting of the executive committee of the association of Nebraska held at Lincoln on December 10.

The conference was unable to award the football championship to either school having lost no games this year. Some time was spent in discussing various sports upon which such awards might be made. About two hours were spent in discussing the application of the rules to specific cases that had come to the attention of the executive committee this year.

Most of these cases concerned matters dealing with the eligibility of players. It was decided that a player in the home town of basketball as their players had won the basketball championship for three successive years.

The committee also considered the case of a player who had been suspended for three successive years. It was decided that the suspension committee should spend not to exceed $75 for trophies for the champions in each of the three major sports.

The meeting closed at 10:30 a. m. and adjourned at 4:30 p. m.

The Four-Ply Copper-Clad Wall

In the above diagram you see the exact construction of the body wall of the Copper-Clad Range.

All other ranges have three-ply walls. These three-ply walls consist of the inner lining, the asbestos, and flat against the asbestos, the outer casing or iron range body. The moisture from the asbestos, driven against the outer wall every time a fire is lighted in a range, is what causes it to rust out.

In the Copper-Clad this rusting is overcome by placing a sheet of pure copper between the asbestos and the outer wall. When the asbestos in a Copper-Clad sweats, the moisture is driven against the copper — and copper doesn't rust. Thus the sweat does no damage.

The domes on the copper produce a dead air space that is unequalled for retention of heat. It is estimated that this air space saves a Copper-Clad over more than 1,000 shovels of coal a year.

Come in and let us show you how the asbestos sweats.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher.

Snow.
 When I was young, long, long ago
 I loved to see the falling snow;
 Now that I am old and bent, I do not like to see a snowflake—'tis a gusty, stark and dead, when over it the snow is spread; the land where into the rocks bloomed is in its shroud, in snow entombed. I like this good old pleasant glow when verdure forms its robe, when grass is growing on the hills, and red fish sport along the rills; then every thing seems full of vim; I dance and shake a buoyant limb; and if some common village scold comes up to tell me I am old, I turn a handsome grin on the man, to show that I am good sixteen. It takes the sunbeams and the breeze to hinder up a hard's knees, and make him feel like a still on earth, a creature of some use and worth. But when he from the window looks on naked wood, and frozen brooks, on snow wreaths whirling in a rage, he feels the burden of his age. It seems to him his age must be a thousand years, plus two or three. And all the boys he used to know are sleeping somewhere 'neath the snow; and colder than a miser's soul the snow comes down, while church-bells toll a re-moin for Tom or Jim—when will the blamed bells toll for Jimmy?

 Such thoughts the drifting snowflakes bring; and snow's a bleak and ghostly thing.

All Men Are Liars.
 We sit around at evening and tranquilly we lie, and tell of how our cars can climb stupendous hills on high. We used to be a truthful lot before the auto came; we used to ween and wot and wot that falsehood was a shame. And when from fishing trips returned we stretched the truth a yard, our conscience like a bonfire burned and scorched us pretty hard.
 But that was in a time gone by,
 a time that's vague, remote; and now we sit around and lie, each in his little boat. And when we to our beds repair, some folks sneeze to spring; does conscience, while we're lying down, make snoring common things?

 Does she point out that falsehood's wrong? She has, but sure we morners; we've lied so much, we've lied so long, that conscience is a bore. Our cars are fixed with rust, they're long-sines out of style, and something's always sure to bust before they go a mile. We're always tinkering with tools, our gears broken down, and biring farness with their tools, to haul us back to town. But when we smoke our evening pipes the fiction graft prevails, and Ananias has the grapes if he can hear our tales. And so we sit, beside the sea, and tranquilly we lie, of how our autos climbed a tree, and did the trick on high.

December.
 December winds are blowing, and wearily I'm going down to the waiting place, the windy clouds are flying, the old gray year is dying, it finishes its race. The old white year is falling and better winds are sailing its dirges as they pass; the fact they keep repeating—and the frozen sleeting that years, like flesh, are grass. Each year, when it beginner, is sure to be a winner, that truth is understood; and the bells are ringing, and all the choir are singing their prophecies of good. The new year seems a treasure, with promises of pleasure and happiness we've lost; but when with age it tolters, we sweat it with our sweaters, and say it was a frost. And now in dull December, the new year is dead, December has good the new year secured; its guarantees were thrilling, it promised the fulfilling of all the dreams we dreamed. December always sees us so tired that naught will please us except a brand new year, with its fresh promises for profits and for pleasures, to merit and proffer. Old year, so sad and sickly, get out, and do it quickly—you've hung around too long! Old years are always creaking, and musty maxims speaking; we like the young and strong!

The Secret Sorrow.
 I have a sorrow in my breast,
 a brother to despair; and I've concluded it is best to keep the blamed thing there. You ask, "What is this corking word, that has your soul capsioned?" But you will never, never know—it won't be advertised.
 I've found a martyr never fails to have a sorrow to share, so long as he omits details about his Secret Care. 'Tis best to merely shed a sigh, and sadly wag one's ears, and carry in one's secret eye a pair of unshed tears; and one may spring some cautious hints about his broken heart; but if he hands out his broken blue private sorrow-depart—mystic sorrow, undefined, its boundaries in doubt, appears quite strangely to the eyes of the human race.
 Men wonder what has wrecked your past, destroyed your fondest goal, and frozen, as with winter blast, the current of your soul. And there is pity in their glance when you they contemplate; you are a figure of roe to them; and you are up to date if you tell them you have corns, they mutter, "Shoo" or "Scat!" For every honest voter scorns a sordid vote like that. And so I leave a soul full sigh, as one who'd fain be dead; but if you ask the reason why, I merely smother my head.

Tips.
 I always tip the waiter who blithely brings me, as my slice of allegiance, and cup of sparkling tea. I don't believe in tipping, in principle, it's wrong; I've done a lot of yipping this morning line along. And doubtless soon or later abolished it will be; but now I tip the waiter who brings my mush to me. I see my neighbors waiting a long time for their meals; the manager berating, and making frantic appeals. Their words are fierce and tripping, the thunder and they screech; they don't believe in tipping, and practice what they preach. But I, who tip the waiter, am pushing through my face an egg and boiled potato, with tact and princely grace. My grub is cooked to please me, my portwine and my owl, and there is none to freeze me with most forbidding scowl. And no one spills the gravy, the salad or the rest upon my white napkin, and I am on my trouserleons. I am an ardent hater of tipping as a graft, but I still tip the waiter who brings me my grub. I like to see the waiter when I demand a stew, a hash all spiced with gentian, a goufash or ragout.

Sunset of Life.
 I'm waxing old, I've reached the gloaming; the coming night its shadow flings; and here I sit, my whiskers combing, and musing on all things that have gone by. The crows, laughers, the singers of life's morning hymn; and I'm unlike some other gallers; for envy makes their eyes grow dim. Some great birds watch the young in sorrow, and long to tread their shining ways; and sigh, "Why always I was 'longed for' in my age has only yesterday. The wintry dusk seems rather tragic, but I would cry, "Nay, nay, my dear," if I saw a kind fairy, who her magic would take me back to yesterday.
 I once was young and full of trouble, in trackless woods I went astray, and every bright hope proved a snare, my idols' all had feet of clay. I had no tranquil eves or mornings, all day a weary toil I bore; the world was marked with solemn warnings, left there by failures gone before. Oh, youth was full of fire and fever, and love was false and vows awkward, and every hope was a deceiver; and only bitter dreams came true. And now

I sit, with a valise full of broken grapes; by my side, the closing hours are calm and peaceful, and summer comes at evening.

 The Ballingtons were lawing it again on Tuesday for Justice Hewitt. There was the usual amount of fun.
 Numerous small boys employ their time nowadays, in sliding and skinning their noses on the big hill.
 About an inch of snow on Sunday whetted up the interest. It gave notice that winter had not forgotten us.
 While Sheriff Jones was at Newcastle the other day, he noticed that that town is improving rapidly. The new passenger of Father O'Toole is nearly completed, and is a very large "home, finished and painted in the best of style. It will be finished throughout this week, and will be occupied next week. He says that the store of Thos. Hoy is doing a heavy business. He will soon put up a large new building.

Professor Jones has again been rampaging around the Black Hills, and has made another thrilling report to the effect that a certain district in that country is the richest gold-producing region in the world.
 It will be remembered that at the time of the breaking out of the Black Hills fever, in 1875, the worthy professor made similar statements concerning nearly every locality in the hills; so, perhaps, he need fly off his heels over this last report. Probably the exact amount paid him for it by Black Hills capitalists will never be known.

The proposition regarding the state normal schools of Nebraska in a series of debates, taking somewhat from the attention hitherto given to football, will be regarded by many as an encouraging sign.

Christmas will be here in little more than a week. It will be cheerful, kindly and generous. Christmas availing automobiles as Christmas presents. To remember another, it is not necessary to give over a farm or set one up in business. One hundred over giving may go up to thousands—through the shade without reaching the heart of the donor. A simple gift, expressive of the right spirit, will often do more to buoy the heart than the inheritance of a small fortune. It is the way you feel that really counts.

We can have little faith in the good intentions of a man who is trying to grab a basis of advantage from the present period of readjustment and loss. The severity of readjustment is not necessary to give over a farm or set one up in business. One hundred over giving may go up to thousands—through the shade without reaching the heart of the donor. A simple gift, expressive of the right spirit, will often do more to buoy the heart than the inheritance of a small fortune. It is the way you feel that really counts.

A committee from the United States has been investigating the coal industry, and finds according to its partial report, that profiteering has gone on unchecked. It has been revealed that certain employers have combined with labor leaders to force up coal prices. The committee advises drastic steps to regulate coal production and prices, with the government taking over the mines if necessary as a last resort. The increase in cost of production and distribution cannot be great enough to justify the prices charged to consumers. Coal mining has overworked its green—operating and operating has been busy breaking in exorbitant profits that evidently they have not heard that the coal is coming down. They will perhaps catch on to the general drift of the government goes after them with mailed fists and spiked shoes.

An appeal is now being made to philanthropic America for funds with which to keep 3,500,000 little European children from starving until the next harvest. The plan is to give each child one meal every day at a cost of seven cents. It is proposed to increase the allowance to ten cents for each child on Christmas when something extra will be served. It is figured that $10 will care for one lent organization in America have set to work to raise the fund which, it is understood, will be used to buy American products for exportation to the starving children abroad. How little are our own troubles compared to those involving the starvation of helpless little children in Europe and the Orient? The great American heart will throbb with sympathy for the unfortunate of the earth, and it is abundant sufficient—from American abundance may be sent across the waters to keep hungry bodies and souls together. As we approach the first day of the unselfish Nazarene, we may very conscientiously with sympathetic hearts and helpful hands to the millions of little ones who are crying for bread. At this season when the spirit of Santa Claus, of kindness, of charity and of love dominates the soul, we may find extra efforts in performing the part of the Great Samaritan. We may want a little less, deny ourselves but a trifle, and by contributing to the relief of the millions of little ones who are crying for bread. We may also thus evolve from material giving the spiritual exaltation experienced by the great lender whose birthday we are soon to commemorate.

IN THE CHAIN OF YEARS.
We had another birthday this week, and it is the most important one since we were 21. It is important because we have reached a certain juncture where we cannot expect to be longer excused for shortcomings on account of youth and inexperience. But we are profoundly impressed with the fact that we are twenty-five years older than we feel. Since the beginning we have known the value of life, and we have learned the value of certain things. We have more and more learned that hard work is the price paid for success in any line of endeavor. We have learned that the path of truth is the easiest one to follow. These are some of the things that lie a little to serve the convenience of the moment, but it has to be fixed up again and again in the most gripping westerns ever filmed. Jackie Saunders is the leading woman.

We have learned to be frank without unnecessary and foolish exposures. One wants to be candid without revelations that make people think he has just escaped from a feeble-minded institution. We have learned to respond to obligations promptly. We found out long ago that it makes small difference how much or how little capital one has, and it can build and maintain credit by coming up to the good voluntarily and cheerfully on pay day and in some way satisfying the demands of an honest obligation. Like the tempting little, dodging man, it is easier at the moment, but it is harder later on. Dodging is a work, and it is a social disgrace.

We have learned that striving to work out ideals in any industry is more healthful and more satisfying and more profitable in dollars and cents than eager contemplation of the actual money that will result from the effort. We have learned that the material advantage accorded to work whose purpose is not purely one of pecuniary gain. We have been trying to learn to be content with what we have, and others do unto us, but this is no soft snap. Pride or incredibly hinder this golden rule stunt. So many people try to be imposed upon and they are liable to regard entirely good motives with suspicion, misinterpreting as an effort to "do" them one "do" them.

Well, we have learned lots of things, and we expect to keep on learning as we slide down the other side. One of the welcome remembrances we received—a fine and thoughtful touch of sentiment from one who understands our inner feelings—is an enlarged picture of the editor's father. This picture is hung where we can see it and we can see him. We can see his eyes at any time, if we are in doubt, but we can't speak to him, and we know about what he would say.

Telephone Consolidation.
 The following statement has been issued by W. B. T. Belt, president of the Northwestern, Nebraska and Iowa telephone companies:
 It is planned to consolidate the three Bell telephone companies operating throughout the states of Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota under the name of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company on January 1 next, subject to the approval of the public utility commissions in those states which have such bodies.
 The name, "Northwestern Bell Telephone Company," has been chosen for the proposed new company be-

Christmas Shopping?

HUNDREDS of shoppers are thinking, planning, searching—trying to determine just what is the best gift to give. This store is filled with practical articles that have a close, intimate appeal associated with them, will make gifts that will express a sympathetic understanding of a man's or woman's desire.

Let us suggest a few practical gifts that convey with their giving something more than just a "present." For the ladies we offer all grades and prices of Handkerchiefs, Lunch Sets, ranging in quality from Japanese cloths to Maderian-Sets, Fancy Wool Hose, both in the real heavy sport styles to thinner silk and wool, all kinds of Ladies' Neckwear, Gloves in leather, short models, longer gloves and all fabric gloves, Bags and Purses in a great variety of styles and shapes, Sweaters, a Coat, Dresses, Silk Hose in all popular shades, Silk Underwear, Ladies' Suits, and many other articles.

We haven't forgotten to show something for the men as well. How would a warm Comfy Bath Robe, Fancy Wool Hose, Neckties, Silk Mufflers, Handkerchiefs or some other useful gift appeal to you?

Don't forget that we are soliciting your Christmas order for Trees, Candies and Nuts. We may also suggest that we are prepared to make your Christmas dinner just a little better than it has ever been before.

The Orr & Orr Co.

QUALITY STORE

a considerable part of the territory included in the organization has long been known as "the Northwest," and the name in itself identifies the company's location in the country.

This consolidation proposed will include the Nebraska Telephone Company, which operates throughout Nebraska and part of South Dakota; the Iowa Telephone Company, which operates throughout Iowa; and the Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company, which operates in Minnesota, North and part of South Dakota.

For ten years all of these companies have been under a single management and such changes are contemplated in the officers or in the district, division or general headquarters of the organization.

Naturally there has been considerable inconvenience in the operation of three separate companies and three distinct corporations under one management. This will be eliminated by the change to a single corporation.

Notice.
 To the patrons of the Wayne post office: As the Christmas season is at hand, I wish to again make a few suggestions relative to mailing of gift packages.
 First—Mail them early, in this way you help avoid congestion and insure their delivery by Christmas day. Packages may be marked "Do not open until Christmas."
 Second—Wrap them securely, use heavy paper and strong twine. Your parcels will be handled more promptly and will arrive in much better condition if this suggestion is followed.

Third—Mark them plainly and be sure to place your return in the upper left-hand corner. Do not attach Christmas seals to the address side of the parcel—place them on the back. Do not seal parcels unless intended for first class mail. If your parcel is fragile or perishable be sure to inform the receiving clerk of this fact.

Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

Parcels will be received at the back door at heretofore and beginning December 22, the office will be open from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m. for delivery and dispatch of parcels post.

Wishing you all a Merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year.—C. A. Berry, Postmaster.

Clinical Proof
The development of Chiropractic in spite of organized opposition, is one of the really great achievements of modern times. Chiropractic has reached a stage of progress, where its uniform success is being investigated, studied and adopted for extensive practice by many of the illustrious members of science and other health modes. Clinical proof is the acid test which has given the science the regard it has today. It is now being regarded as "hopeless" where Chiropractic spinal adjustments have not been tried. See your Chiropractor and let him tell you more about Chiropractic. Consultation and spinal analysis free.

THE BLOOMFIELD TRAGEDY
Details of Shooting as Told by Journal—Guilty One Confesses.

Bloomfield Journal: Last Sunday night the community was horrified and shocked to learn that an unknown assailant had attempted to take the life of Wm. Haggie while he was at the home of the Peitzmeier brothers, eight miles north and east of town.

The would-be murderer, at a distance of approximately five feet, fired through the window from the outside. Almost the entire charge of that struck Haggie in the back of the head, just below the right ear. It giving vision to eyes which but a few years ago were considered beyond all human aid. In no other branch of science has so much progress been made. We are constantly investigating and studying new ideas and methods, so that our patients may receive the benefit of all advances made in this line. If you are looking for twentieth-century ideas you will find them here.

is a wonder that he was not killed instantly.

Monday morning he was taken to the Lutheran hospital in Sioux City, where an X-ray examination disclosed a large number of Mr. 4 shot imbedded within his skull, some of which apparently had penetrated the lower part of the brain. No attempt was made to remove the lead pellets, the physician deeming it wise to await a change in his condition.

Haggie's case is a marvel. Being conscious and rational at all times he cannot seem to associate his injury with the attempt on his life still believing, as he did at first, that his injury was due to something that bursted within his head.

Haggie and Miss Peitzmeier were alone sitting at the table playing cards when the awful deed was perpetrated. Hearing the noise of the explosion and the falling glass Miss Peitzmeier's first thought was that the lamp had exploded. Haggie, thinking that something had gone wrong with his beer, neither of them realized what had happened until neighbors and relatives arrived on the scene.

With the arrival of the sheriff and city marshal a posse was formed that instituted an all night search with the guilty party still missing.

Though suspicion was directed towards Mike Supik, a young neighbor farmer, and an intimate acquaintance of Haggie, nothing that could establish his guilt could be proven at the time. Many people, though, thought him to be the guilty party, attributing his motive to jealousy, so he was kept under surveillance. Wednesday evening two experienced detectives arrived in town and Supik was taken up into the doctor's office where under a cross examination he broke down completely and confessed his guilt.

Supik is a young farmer about 28 years old and heretofore has always enjoyed a good reputation. Though the motive is thought to be jealousy, no reason can be given for his dastardly deed as he was apparently the best of friends with young Haggie, who had been keeping company with Miss Peitzmeier for the past two years.

NEWS FROM NEIGHBORHOOD

Cedar County Teachers Meet—Couple celebrate Golden Wedding.

The meeting of the Cedar County Teachers' association at Laurel, December 4 was attended by seventy-five teachers from town and rural schools. It was considered the most profitable meeting in the history of the association.

Mr. and Mrs. Soren C. Jensen who have lived near Laurel for thirty-five years, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary December 7. Both are about 70 years of age, and are natives of Denmark. They came to the United States in 1870.

—Good Conduct Medals were received in Laurel from headquarters of the national marine corps at Washington for Garret Artman, Howard Durrie, Gilbert Linn and T. L. Moore. These medals, suspended from a red and blue ribbon, are marked for "Fidelity, Zeal and Obedience," and are separate from the regular service medals which all ex-soldiers are receiving.

Dr. G. T. Nelson, superintendent of the M. E. hospital at Sioux City, was a guest in the home of J. B. Bessire at Laurel recently. Dr. Nelson and Mr. Bessire were friends in South Dakota many years ago. At one time Mr. Nelson was engaged in the newspaper business at Seward, Neb., but for thirty years has been in the Methodist ministry.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Royer of Laurel, will soon go to Orange, Calif., where Mr. Royer will look after an orange ranch for an uncle.

On the evening of December 9 the Randolph Community club banquet was held with an attendance of 100. Nels Darling who was in attendance at the Wayne chautauqua a few years ago, was the speaker of the occasion. He made a hit with his talk on "Service." He hit all the "aginesters," those who were against paving, electric lights, school improvements and other things. He inspired any one he had missed to call him up. He appealed for active citizenship, not for what one gets out of it, but for what one puts into it. He said Randolph should have 700 members of its community club, and that all farmers should belong.

The Newman Grove school board has authorized the building committee to rent the high school gymnasium for entertainments, using discretion and charging a fee of $15.

The Newman Grove basket ball boys defeated the Genoa Indians recently, being the first defeat the latter had sustained this year.

Henry W. Ebersole, a Dixon county pioneer living at Allen, died in a Sioux City hospital December 6, aged about 60 years. He located in Dixon county at the age of 18. Among surviving relatives is a sister, Mrs. W. S. Ebersole, living at Wakefield.

On the very technical ground that there were a few names on their auto registration record where the license number and engine number were not given," says the Hartington Herald, "the following garage owners were fined $100 and costs by a state agent last Saturday night: L. A. Miller, Adam Waldschmidt, William Ward, E. E. Swihart and Nile Gibson." The Hartington Herald explains: "The parties whose license and engine numbers were missing were well known to the garage men, but that made no difference to the agent who halted them into court. In court, B. Ready, who had been retained to fight their case, by Miller and Waldschmidt, pleaded for a remittance of the fine on the ground that the offense was technical and unintentional. Judge Bryant was willing to remit the fine, but County Attorney Millard objected, insisting that the law be enforced to the letter.

Death of Mrs. Reichert.
Rebecca Ann (Reed) Reichert was born in Northumberland county, Pennsylvania, June 8, 1829, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Reed. When but a small child the family moved to Marion county, Ohio, which at that time was but a wilderness and they became pioneers of that place. Here she grew to womanhood and was married to Jacob Reichert July 21, 1850. To this union nine children were born, six of whom are living. Two children died while very young, a daughter, Elizabeth Shorrock, died July 8, 1915.

Mr. Reichert passed away February 22, 1905. She was the last of her own generation as well as that of her husband's generation, all of the sisters and brothers having passed on. She leaves to mourn, seventeen grandchildren and ten great grandchildren.

In the spring of 1888 the family moved to Wayne county, Neb., where again they took up the task of pioneering. At that time this county was an unbroken prairie, where houses were few and far between. They lived on a farm four miles southwest of Winslow, until seven years ago when she disposed of the home place and went to California to live with her daughter, where she remained until she passed away December 6, 1920 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. A. Pittenger. She was a member of the Reformed church since a young girl of fifteen years. During the war she did knitting for the Red Cross and helped in every way that she could. All during her life she was full of help in sickness or misfortune ever went unassisted.

Her remains were brought from California by her daughters, Mrs. B. A. Baldwin and Mrs. G. C. Meade. She was buried Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 14, in the cemetery of the Reformed church, five miles southwest of Winslow.

The children who are left to mourn the passing of mother are Samuel and John Reichert of Winslow; George Reichert of Midland, Mich.; Mrs. F. A. Pittenger, Mrs. B. A. Baldwin and Mrs. G. C. Meade of Arcadia, Calif.

CARROLL STOCKMAN'S PLAN

C. E. Closson Tells How He Proposes to Make Sixty-cent Corn.

Drivers Journal-Stockman: Farmers in Wayne county of proven ability as live stock feeders, who are desirous of feeding cattle this winter but are lacking the necessary funds to purchase stock, can handle cattle this season with the usual financial transaction if they so desire.

Men taking cattle "under" his arrangement are guaranteed at least 60 cents a bushel for the corn and free feed for their hogs, while in return they must produce a net gain of two pounds per day for each animal placed in their feedlots.

Present Market Too Low.

Some time ago Mr. Closson was approached by a certain party who owned a string of feeding pens, and weighing around 1,000 pounds, asking him to assist in placing these cattle in cornbelt feedlots. They felt that the prices quoted on the open market were by far too low for them to accept and had confidence that the future market would be considerably higher, especially for well-finished corn.

"In arriving at a definite plan for placing these cattle I figured that the price should meet at least 50 cents a bushel for the corn fed the animals," explained Mr. Closson. "If a steer is valued at $40 by the owner, and the feeder gives him 70 bushels of corn, the cost of the steer is boosted to $120.

"Therefore the man who owns the steer has a three-quarter interest in him, while the man who fed the steer has one-quarter interest, or $30 in corn invested in the animal—It is no more than right that the feeder should receive some recompense for what he gives the animal and for his overhead expense. To rebalance this, he is given 10 bushels of allowing the hogs to run with the cattle and be fed at the expense of the cattle.

Require Two-Pound Gain.

"We incorporate a clause in our contract whereby the feeder guarantees that these animals will register an average daily gain of at least two pounds. This means that the feeder must merely insure the owner that his cattle will receive proper care. All the stock placed in the feedlots will be weighed in 100 pounds and in every instance are well-bred feeders which should respond to proper management.

"The fact that Closson is unique, yet conservative in that it allows the corn grower a safe market for his crop as well as a chance to get more for it, is so secure, free of charge to him, full feed for his hogs, a feature which cannot very well be overlooked by the Nebraska farmer. For the man who raised the cattle it means that he is gambling on the future market and the chances are that regardless of when the cattle are sold, he will net him as much, if not more, than the present market would.

Agriculture Notes

Time for Farm Inventory.

With another season of farm work fast drawing to close, the United States department of agriculture is urging that an annual property list or inventory be made by every farmer. It is the only means, department specialists say, whereby farmers may know accurately their net financial position and their progress in making from year to year, and how their investment in farm property is being distributed. Property lists in various series, made in accordance with a plan outlined in the office of farm management, United States department of agriculture, are not difficult to make and are of great value to any farmer who is striving to better his condition, overcome obstacles to success, and place his business affairs on a secure foundation. To drift along year after year, not knowing whether toward success or failure, is not the practice of a business man. Specialists of the department are prepared to give complete directions for making a farm inventory that will put the farm on a business basis.

The Corn Borer Pest.

A conference between representatives of the United States department of agriculture and corn growers was held at Guelph, Ontario, November 17 and 18, to consider best methods of control for the European corn borer, which, according to latest surveys, has infested a territory of about 3,800 square miles. One infested territory extends for about 100 miles west of Niagara river, along the north shore of Lake Erie and about ten miles inland; the other, farther west, is 800 miles in its largest dimensions. It is now definitely believed that the pest was imported with European broom corn brought to a large factory in St. Thomas about 1909 or 1910. It is only recently that it has spread to sufficient extent to attract general alarm. It is expected that the matter will be taken before the Dominion parliament this winter. The conference also held a conference in Buffalo, November 19, where a program regarding the conduct of the corn borer quarantine of certain towns in Southern Hogs.

Information secured by the bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture, indicates that southern hogs will command prices as high as those paid for hogs from the corn belt if they are properly fed and handled. Nearly 6,000 hogs from a single owner in Mississippi have been received at the National stock yards, Illinois, within the past few months and all were firm, finished porkers, which sold well in line with the best that came from other sections of the country. A representative of the bureau of markets made some inquiries into the market in which these hogs were fed. He discovered that the same owner has feeding pens in Iowa as well as in Mississippi, and that he bought his young pigs and fed them a mixed grain ration in connection with corn and tankage. All the animals showed intensive feeding and weighed 250 pounds or over when they arrived at the market.

It would be especially advantageous to the southern farmer to study the use of well balanced grain rations and the complementary adaptation of intensive feeding and weighing which can be grown so abundantly in that section.

Twelve carloads of hogs were received from a single Tennessee owner at the same stockyards. These animals were of a distinctly southern type, says the bureau of markets, and they were well representative, but they were well finished on corn, and sold readily at the top of the market, despite the fact that they came from the so-called "doubtful territory." The owner received a check for $73,417, the largest ever paid to a patron of that market for a single shipment.
