Hears from Leper Victim.

Norfolk Daily News: The government is taking care of Charles Young, the leper victim, who escaped from his temporary nest house near Battle Creek, some time ago and created a sensation when he started at Washington that he had been held to leave the county by officers of Madison county.

A letter was received from Young by Sheriff C. S. Smith stating that he was being carried by the federal government and that he was getting along very well.

"It is not living in a hog pen anymore," the letter states, "the government is taking care of me in Washington, D. C."

May Not Return Here

The sheriff takes the letter to mean that Young may not be returned to Madison county, and that the county officials are through with the leper.

The sheriff had previously denied knowledge as to how Young escaped from the poor farm. He declared that he "did not blame him for leaving" and would have left himself because the surroundings were not sanitary," he said.

Knows Nothing of Inquiry.

The sheriff says he knows nothing further about the threatened government investigation into the Young escapade. So far as he knows there is no investigation being made, although he thought at one time he had been questioned by an investigator who wanted to know details about Young, but who did not give his name or official capacity.

County commissioners feared that the government might send Young back to Madison county. Commissioner Fred Terry had planned to ask the government to send the leper direct to Louisiana where the government maintains a leper colony.

Springfield, Mass., Republican: Gov. FORMER WAYNE STUDENT DIES

Music Teacher for Three Towns Succides at Craig—Other News.

Harold Leamy, the 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Leamy of Pierce, died at his home of typhoid fever Friday afternoon, December 10. He was a graduate of the university school of agriculture at Lincoln and attended the Wayne State Normal during the summer of 1919 and 1920.

Miss Margaret Damm, music teacher in the Oakland and Craig, committed suicide in Craig about 5 o'clock Sunday morning, December 12. Mr. and Mrs. Motters with whom she made her home in Craig, heard her moving about in her room during the night. In the morning a physician was called. When he arrived Miss Damm ran out of the house toward the railroad tracks. Mr. Motters, the doctor and a coal heater searching for her against her flight near the bridge. The body was sent to Omaha, where a mother and three sisters reside.

The building of a bridge across the Missouri river at Yantron which has been talked of hopefully for many years, seems likely to become a reality before long. It is believed it will be finished for use in 1922.

Mrs. Freeman Manola died of blood poisoning at her home near McClure Tuesday afternoon, December 14. She leaves a husband and four small children. The burial was made in Hope church cemetery Friday afternoon.

Harting for Herald: The sequel of a midnight watermelon rasey written last week when Oscar O. Hansen was awarded $192.70 in district court in his suit against Leffelman, Leffelman and Joseph Frank Leffelman. It will be remembered that one night during the last county fair Hansen and some companions entered the Leffelman farm with the intention of visiting the watermelon patch.

While they were on their way through the patch the Leffelmen brothers opened fire on them with shot guns and Hansen was so badly wounded as the result of the attack that he had to be taken to the hospital. He was confined to the hospital for some time and, when he recovered, the suit against the Leffelmen for $15,000 damages. The case was tried at the fall term of district court which convened in this city last week, and the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $182.70. While the plaintiff's attorneys did not deny that Hansen and his companions had been guilty of trespassing on the Leffelman property, they contended that the brothers had used unnecessary force in expelling them.

Randolph Times: The $5,000 given by Henry Lammers to the Red Cross following a demonstration given at Hartington by an excited crowd which charged him with failure to fulfill his duty during the war, was returned to Mr. Lammers last Wednesday by an officer from the national headquarters following a three day investigation. Mr. Lammers had received offers from leading attorneys in Omaha, Lincoln, Sioux City and the Twin Cities to undertake collection of the amount but he refused to entertain them. The subject was called to the attention of the national headquarters by F. E. O'Gara, Mr. Lammers' attorney. The investigation resulted in the immediate return of the money which had been placed on a demand deposit in one of the Hartington banks.

The farmers in the Canadian settlement in Stanton county have reduced the wages of all farm laborers to $50 a month. Corn pickers are offered seven cents a bushel. The drop in corn prices has been given as one of the reasons for the reduction of wages.

Louis H. Burbach, pioneer citizen of Cedar county, died at his home near Hartington Thursday evening, December 9. He came to America from Germany in 1850. He leaves his wife, nine children, forty-three grandchildren and six great grandchildren. May 9, 1921, would have been Mr. Burbach's golden wedding anniversary.

Hans Christian Etwald died in Tilden, Neb., December 11. He was born in Denmark and came to America about ten years ago. The funeral was held in Stanton Sunday afternoon of last week.

On Return From California. Laurel Advocate: Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clark arrived last week from California and will occupy their Wayne home a few weeks, while Mr. Clark looks after his farms south of Laurel.

Mr. Clark says they keep a home at both ends of the trip, "up self defense," as living at hotels is not all to their liking. A lady friend of Mr. Clark's will keep the Los Angeles home open during their absence, otherwise, if the "mass" somebody would probably back a van into the door, shove out their furniture and sell it and the neighbors be none the wiser. Between six and eight o'clock every evening it is hard way to keep very light in the house and about the grounds burning full blast, as that is the time the burglars work. The switches in the Clark home are so arranged that all certain places upstairs and down all lights in the house and on the premises may be turned on at once—a very wise precaution, they find.

While living in a big, beautiful, naively city like Los Angeles has its disadvantages, Mr. Clark feels that he owes his life to the change of climate. He was taken to California in a wheel chair on his first trip out and now is as hale and hearty as any man his age need expect to be. They like Los Angeles very much (in spite of the burglars and "sick like" drawbacks) and wouldn't care to live elsewhere, but business won't run itself, Mr. Clark says, so they must return here at frequent intervals.

As to the rent problem, Mr. Clark says his conscience is quite clear, as he has had but one cash renter in twenty-five years. Like the share plan best—considers it most advantageous to both owner and tenant and wouldn't rent a farm any other way if he could avoid it.

When Christmas Comes.

The hand of the world seems cold. The heart of the world seems cold. Of selfish schemes seem all its dreams. And its only goal seems gold. Yet whenever Christmas comes The world the mass removes From the dark part of its kind, true heart. And we learn how much it loves.

We see it's a good old world Which only plays a game; Though it loves the race and it keeps the peace, its life to the same. It is leader, all the same. Though it struggles hard to win. The dream in its heart is sweet. And on Christmas day it is glad to say The prize at its Savior's feet. —Lee Shipley in Leslie's Weekly.

Your Bodily Resistance.

The resistance of your body against so-called disease depends upon the condition of your spine. If there is a pressure upon the nerves caused by a subluxation of the vertebrae of your spine there is bound to be trouble and your bodily resistance will be lessened that much. Try a spinal analysis by a competent chiropractor and if there is any subluxation let the chiropractor adjust same. You will be surprised at the result. Consultation and spinal analysis free.

The Early Days in Two Counties

From Wayne Herald, December 21, 1893: Gilbert French was reported conversing from a very serious attack of meningitis.

The Baptists celebrated with an appropriate program the twelfth anniversary of the establishment of their church in Wayne.

Announcement was made for a meeting to be held at Chase & Neely's hardware store for the purpose of organizing a fire company.

Mrs. John Larson, Mrs. J. Conger and Frank Strahan returned from Malvern, Iowa, where they were called by the illness of their father.

Mrs. and Mrs. A. P. Childs celebrated their silver wedding anniversary by the entertaining a crowd of friends. Also Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Smith celebrated their tin wedding anniversary in a similar manner.

From Ponca Journal, December 22, 1893: The village schools close tomorrow. It is not known when the next term will commence, nor who the teachers will be.

The Sioux City artesian well is down 890 feet. No flowing vein of water has been struck yet, nor any coal bed.

We understand that another of Mr. Burgett's children died this week of the diphtheria. This makes four deaths in his family within ten days.

On Monday night there was a second edition of Halloween. Numerous salt barrels were rolled around the streets, signs were taken down, and the deuce was raised generally.

It appears probable from the present outlook, that Cedar county will soon vote bonds to aid the proposed railroad extension from this place westward through that county. If that is done the road will be built in the spring.

It has been suggested by a gentleman that the ladies of Ponca keep open house on New Year's. This is a good custom, and we know a number of gentlemen who are anxious to make the calls, if the ladies will announce themselves willing to receive the same, and we know a number of gentlemen who are anxious to make the calls, if the ladies will announce themselves willing to receive the same, and we know a number of gentlemen who are anxious to make the calls, if the ladies will announce themselves willing to receive the same.

The Cedar County Nonpartisan League has the following about aiding the extension of the railroad through this county: "The road returned from Sioux City on Friday. He brought with him a petition for the signatures of our people which is being used in connection with the proposition. If a road is profitable in our county, and the matter is looked at in that light, we hope every man will cheerfully place his name in the petition and secure the road. We need it, and need it bad."

Reckless Check Writers. Lincoln Journal: "The lenient judgments of the merchants who are victims of the bad check habit do credit to their hearts, if not to their heads. The business man who can not only pocket losses from worthless checks but even find plausible excuses for the same, is naturally surcharged with the milk of human kindness. One cashier suggests that unemployment may account for the gross practice of offering 'no fund' checks. Overcome perhaps by the loss of their jobs, some persons in their distraught frame of mind overlook the fact of writing checks that for quite a season they have made no deposits at the bank. Others, presumably never very good at figures, and misunderstanding the phrase about the elasticity of our financial system, distribute checks with ill-considered freedom, vaguely expecting that somehow the natural expansion of the currency will take up the slack in their bank accounts. Some of these check writers are actually so surcharged with fraudulent intention, they do not return of the check 'stagnant no funds' or 'nothing in my beautiful faith in human nature.' To protect these kind-hearted merchants from further damage from such sources, and to serve as a warning some restraint to those in whom the possession of a bank check book arouses the feeling of unlimited wealth, it might be well to print on the cover of each check book a summary of the laws duly ordained against offering such checks, and to enforce, in case these significant hints are of no value, a severe punishment on those who in their bank accounts fail to perform the painful but necessary process of subtraction.

Opportunities of the Country Town. Omaha Bee: "The importance of the State circulating library is brought to attention by the news that in thirty-five counties of Nebraska there are no public libraries. While there are no complete intellectual droughts it does indicate a lack of cultural facilities that perhaps is most severe on the younger members of the community, but is suffered by almost every citizen. There is a pleasure and profit in good rearing that should be made readily accessible to every citizen, and the suggestion that women's clubs in the country towns should take advantage of the law authorizing taxation for the establishment of county libraries is a good one. These Nebraska towns should be the capital of the surrounding agricultural territory, leading in business enterprise, education and progress. Instead of this, a recent survey, after studying eight villages in Nebraska, South Dakota, Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas, Illinois and other states of the Midwest declares that the rural town is almost everywhere outstripped by the farmer. This survey has been made by M. Birkhead, a clergyman of Kansas City. In general, Mr. Birkhead reports, the country town is either losing its population or barely holding its own. The movement of young people from the villages to the cities is as marked as the similar heging from the farms. Leadership is needed, he asserts, but there is nothing to develop it, and no satisfactory opportunities for young people. Information Withheld. UNCLE TANT

Out of Work.

A lot of factories and mills are closing their doors. Thousands of men are out of work, and winter's here. And they have seen their fortunes, smile and frown, and more in sight.

They. The nations, they are many and far as in the breeze; the cats of old Kilkenny were mild, compared with these, compared with peoples reaving for blood in ripples waving.

The Troubled World.

The clashing foreign nations have tried to give our way new woes and tribulations afflict them every day.

Sage Council. The Christmas season comes, when smiles will hang from every face. The Christmas spirit, it is true, will make our lives a thing of joy.

The Early Days in Two Counties

From Wayne Herald, December 21, 1893:

Gilbert French was reported convalescing from a very serious attack of pneumonia.

The Baptists celebrated with an appropriate program the twelfth anniversary of the establishment of their church in Wayne. Announcement was made for a meeting to be held at Chase & Neeley's hardware store for the purpose of organizing a fire company.

Mrs. John Larson, Mrs. J. Conger and Frank Strahan returned from Matern, Iowa, where they were called by the illness of their father.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Childs celebrated their silver wedding anniversary by entertaining a dinner in friends. Also Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Smith celebrated their tin wedding anniversary in a similar manner.

The expression department of the Nebraska Normal college announces presentation of "The Lady of Lyons," the cast of characters are: Mr. John Murphy, Cora B. Simmons, Jennie Menden, Lucy E. Ruffington, E. R. Lundberg, M. Cunningham, C. E. Bartlett, Elmer Lundberg, Alexander B. Person, Chas. Bright, Dorr H. Carroll, John McClusky, R. W. Ball.

From Union Journal, December 22, 1881:
The village schools close tomorrow. It is not known when the next term will commence, nor who the teachers will be.

The Sioux City artesian well is 6079-700 feet. No flowing vein of water has been struck yet, nor any coal bed.

We understand that another of Mr. Burgett's children died this week of the diphtheria. This makes four deaths in his family within ten days.

On Monday night there was a second edition of Halloween. Numerous salt barrels were rolled around the streets, signs were taken down, and the deuce was raised generally.

It appears probable from the present outlook that Cedar county will soon vote bonds to aid the proposed railroad extension from this place westward through that county. If that is done the road will be built in the spring.

It has been suggested by a gentleman that the ladies of Potosi keep open house this year. There is a good custom, and we know a number of gentlemen who are anxious to make the calls. If the ladies will announce themselves willing to receive them, such announcements may be made through the columns of this paper, if handed in before next Wednesday at 3 p. m.

The Cedar County Newsrell of last week has the following about aiding the extension of the railroad through that county: "Wm. Potter returned from Sioux City on Friday. He brought with him a petition for the signatures of our people which is in favor of the extension of the railroad through that county. If a road is profitable in our county, and the matter is looked after in that style, we have every man will cheerfully place his name to the petition and secure the road. We need it, and need it bad."

Reckless Check Writers.
Lincoln Journal: The lenient judgments of the merchants who are victims of the bad check habit do credit to their hearts, if not to their heads. The business man who can not only "pocket losses from worthless checks but even find pleasure in the doings of the delinquents is surely surcharged with the milk of human kindness. One cashier suggests that employment may account for the growing practice of offering "no fund" checks. Overcome perhaps by the loss of their jobs, some persons in the distraught frame of mind overlook the fact in writing checks that for quite a season they have made no deposits at the bank. One sees, unaccountably never very good at figures and misunderstanding the phrase about the electricity of our financial system, distribute checks with all-considered freedom, vaguely expecting that somehow the natural expansion of the currency will take up the slack in the amount.

ant profit-in-good reading that should be made readily accessible to every citizen, and the suggestion that women's clubs in the country towns should take advantage of the law authorizing taxation for the establishment of county libraries is a good one.

These Nebraska towns should be the capital of the surrounding agricultural territory, leading in business enterprise, education and progress. Instead of this, a recent observer, after studying eighty villages in Nebraska, South Dakota, Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas, Illinois and other states of the Middle West declares that the rural town is almost everywhere outclassed by the farms.

In general, Mr. Birkhead reports the country town is either losing its population or barely holding its own. The movement of young people from the villages to the cities is as marked as the similar hegira from the farms. Leadership is needed, he asserts, but there is nothing to develop it, and no satisfactory opportunities for young people.

of the farming communities is said to be derived from the national and state departments of agriculture, the agricultural college, demonstration agents, farm institutes, farm papers and other publications, including books. While all these agencies are at work in the country, there is nothing like this for the country town.

It was a ruthless and hardened cynic who remarked that "God made the country, man made the city and the devil made the village," for there are many small towns where a great deal is being done to realize the opportunities for development. If the women's clubs enter actively into the movement for establishing libraries where there are none, at least a beginning will have been made in others.

Work is progressing but slowly on the basement project. Shipment of fixtures and equipment is delayed and re-delays. Mr. Schultz is exerting special effort to have everything here and installed by the time the holidays are closed. The next three or four months is the time of the children's greatest need for modern, modern facilities. This long drawn-out remodeling project has its lesson for us, however, and that lesson is: Plans and work cannot be undertaken too soon looking toward adequate housing conditions for next school year which begins the first of September, 1921. We have a scant eight months in which to do something which is greatly needed for our own children and the community. Rev. Orr talked to the pupils of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades one day last week. John G. Noland, Nebraska's poet and history genius and one of its pre-eminence is declared by critics to be the author of the highest class epic poetry ever produced by an American. Many local residents have expressed a desire to see his work, especially our American who, by the way, lives in the neighboring town of Bancroft. He is western born and a Nebraska through and through. His chief writings have for their settings the reach of the Missouri river as it touches east and northeast Nebraska and the states northward through the Dakotas. Some of the most beautiful and thrilling tales of adventure, discovery and exploration are his. Mr. Noland is a very compelling and interesting speaker and much in demand in the culture centers of the east. We have an exceptional opportunity to get him at a reasonable figure on one of the above dates and because of the many excellent reasons that exist for wanting to know him, we have a letter, it has been decided to arrange for his appearance, as previously stated. High school students will benefit in many ways by hearing Mr. Noland inasmuch as the high school English course includes the study of one of his masterpieces. Music has started off very promisingly under the able leadership of Mrs. Crabtree of Wayne, newly appointed music supervisor. Plans are under way for the organization of a pipe club and orchestra. Mrs. Crabtree, whose experience as instructor in music has been extensive and varied, asserts that she has never before seen children so eager to express themselves in song as the pupils here are. Mrs. Crabtree thinks that since the children are music hungry and at the same time naturally musical, that teaching music here will be an especially undertaking. Final plans and arrangements for to be held here Jan. 21, 22, 23 will be announced in a few days. Plans for and breakfast for a few more boys are being sought that we may have accommodations for the 150 high school who may be here from out of town.  SHOLES  John Davis was a Carroll visitor Saturday. Gay Bristol was a Wayne passenger Monday. W. E. IN GETTING BACK TO NORMAL People Generally Must Cooperate and Quit "Droaving the Buck."

Omaha Presses Journal-Stockman: Straight from the shoulder and right to the bone Jim M. L. Corey, attorney for the federal land bank of Omaha drive home facts concerning the problems which the federal farm loan system had to solve, in speaking before the convention of the Nebraska Farmers' congress yesterday afternoon.

Business of relief for the financial straggle and the need of full cooperation on the part of every industry in the country were fully explained by the speaker. The farmer of today recognizes that in the basic industry of agriculture, grain, as well as hogs, is needed to promote the national development of the country, for the general good of the country, he asserted.

"We realize more today than ever before that the prosperity of every industry in the country is dependent upon the prosperity of the basic industry of agriculture. When the farmer, the merchant, the banker, the manufacturer, and the jobber are able to cooperate...

Quit Passing the Buck.

The time has come when the farmer must work in cooperation with men of business, of big business. We are all to blame for the present conditions and all must together get out. Right now, we are engaged in the great American game of "passing the buck" when we should be "giving" and working together like troopers."

"We had just as well bring our minds, whether we are bankers, business men or farmers, to the realization that we are all going to suffer a loss before we are back to normal. It is true that the farmer is being called upon to bear a larger share of the burden than he should. He has produced the most expensive crop his country has ever raised and he is expected that he should market this crop at a loss so great as almost to ruin him."

At this juncture, he attempted to explain the cause of the sudden limitation of credit from the federal reserve. It was pointed out that while there were mounting, many of the weak of life made the big mistake of thinking that the high prices would last indefinitely and instead of making a good investment, they waited on to increase all the time. The federal reserve system encouraged the bankers to grant more loans, who in turn urged their clients to purchase a little deeper. This encouraged excessive speculation in lands, stocks and other interests.

When the big crash came and we all needed more credit, we awoke to the seriousness of the situation, declared the speaker. "Then the war broke the gold reserve of the federal reserve system was $85 for each $100 of deposits and federal reserve notes. The last reports show a net of deposits and notes. At the time the crop moving demands began to be felt in July of 1919, the federal reserve loans and investments of the federal reserve banks amounted to $3,150,000,000. The farmers, bankers and business men were greatly pleased at the common sense attitude which most farmers were taking toward the situation and not demanding any more credit from the banks. The farmer is now most interested in the problem of marketing his crop, he said, and most interested in the question of the orderly marketing of farm products. The present financial situation does not permit of this orderly marketing. The country banks have made it a practice of having the maturity of farmers' paper coming in the fall, when it is supposed to market his crop. This situation is bad. Every year for the past twenty-five years it has brought about a glut on the market during the fall and winter months. If possible, the banker should distribute the maturity of the farmer's paper throughout the year."

It has been suggested for the relief of the farmer at this critical period were discussed by the speaker. The first step was up with proposed Lever plan which was given before the A. F. B. F. convention at Indianapolis. The Lever plan is outlined—would embody the following features:

1. The standardization of staple agricultural products of a warehouse character into grades or classes.
2. The building up of a system of bonded warehouses and elevators for these products under federal, state or both, regulation and inspection.
3. The issuance of uniform warehouse or elevator receipts for a given product.
4. The pooling, regionally of these warehouse receipts of a certificate of bond and the selling of the same to investing public at such rates of interest as such collateral will command.

New Finance Corporation. Another plan proposed which was a high favor was that of the American Bankers' association which was also explained at the Indianapolis convention. An organization of a finance corporation with a capital of $100,000,000 capital and a $5,000,000 surplus to provide for the financing of the farm industries which use raw American materials. Mortgages to be approved by the federal reserve system will be taken upon the mortgage and the farmer will register this system to comprise a farmer, a manufacturer and a banker in each federal reserve district.

The third plan taken up was the restoration of the federal farm loan system, which Mr. Corey explained, was now unfortunately tied up by a suit against the federal reserve system by the American Farm Mortgage Bankers' association.

Senator G. M. Hitchcock of Nebraska's message offered a tentative plan to aid the farmers. He would utilize the profits of the federal reserve system for short term loans through the federal farm loan system.

In closing, Mr. Corey declared that conditions were never as bad as they could be and that a feeling of optimism would do much toward making the solution of the problems more easy to solve.

Some'set. The hostess served lunch.

Mrs. Harry Tidrick was a Wayne visitor Saturday.

Miss Pearl Reisse came from Wayne Friday to visit relatives.

Business Outlook Brighter. Sioux City Journal: The signs of betterment in the business and industry, though outnumbered by unsatisfactory ones, are becoming more distinct. In certain primary branches of industry the outlook is sufficient to create an optimistic spirit. This is especially true of the leather trade. An announcement of significance is that of the W. I. Douglas Shoe company that on December 27 it will start a three month run of its factories with a daily output of 10,000 pairs of shoes. This is the most encouraging statement that has come from a responsible source for a long time and is taken as representative of the general prospects in the leather industry. A survey of the situation shows that during the last six months more shoes have been bought by the consumer than were manufactured, so that a revival of activity in the industry, of which the Douglas announcement is the harbinger at hand.

Another significant thing in connection with the present recession is the decrease in the amount of food in cold storage. According to the report of the New Jersey state department of health, which has charge of the cold storage of that state, the decreases in the principal lines from November 15 to December 15 were as follows: Fresh meats from 20,785,771 pounds to 18,210,977; eggs, from 341,592 cases to 215,343; cheese from 1,750,923 pounds to 1,518,477; butter from 4,099,925 to 3,200,132; fresh fish from 3,787,272 pounds to 3,234,272; milk and its products from 871,885 pounds to 529,477, and edible oils and fats from 20,883 pounds to 19,040. While this survey includes only one state, it is a fair index of all the states. The decrease is not pronounced in many of the commodities, but the significant thing is that there is a decrease in all of them. The decrease indicates a better market for the primary supplies. Farm products markets would be affected by the demand for storage replacement.

Most of the public attention during the last week has been centered on the foreign market. Congressional action is expected to give encouragement to the development of markets abroad. But that situation has its drawbacks. Aside from the fact that European nations use this government approximately $10,000,000,000, the country has gone on selling Europe more goods. But in the attempt to find markets the people have overlooked the fact that Europe is not paying for these goods and that a gigantic private debt is piling up in favor of American sellers which in time must give rise to serious financial disturbances. It is estimated that the foreign credit extended to the United States since the armistice is $3,500,000,000. The manufacturer and exporter have been paid for these goods, but they have not been paid for. The fact that loans which now enter into the financial stringency of the country. Thus, while the United States is a large credit nation, it is unable to collect its bills, and is pinched for ready money. Of the $20,000,000,000 in exports since 1914, there has been received in payment only about $6,000,000,000 in American securities and $2,000,000,000 in gold. This makes a total of between $7,000,000,000 and $8,000,000,000, credit against the $20,000,000,000 debt. It does not seem possible to improve the general situation by aggregating the one abroad. Readjustment, it would seem, must be more domestic than a foreign matter. The indications are that the domestic situation is improving.

Business Outlook Brighter.
 "Sioux City Journal": The signs of betterment in business and industry, though untraced by manufacturers, are becoming more distinct.
 In certain primary branches of industry the outlook is sufficient to create an optimistic spirit. This is especially true of the leather trade.
 An announcement of significance is that of the W. L. Douglas Shoe company that on December 27 it will start a three months' run of its factories with a daily output of 10,000 pairs of shoes. This is the most encouraging statement that has come from a responsible source for a long time and is taken as representative of the general prospects in the leather industry. A survey of the situation shows that during the last six months more shoes have been bought by the consumer than were manufactured, so that a revival of activity in the industry, of which the Douglas announcement is the harbinger at hand.

Another significant thing in connection with the present readjustment is the decrease in the amount of feed in cold storage. According to the report of the New Jersey state department of health, which has been made available to the Bureau, the decrease in the principal lines from November 15 to December 15 were as follows: Fresh meats from 2,857,771 pounds to 1,821,000; 277,777 eggs, from 341,592 cases to 215,348; cheese from 1,790,923 pounds to 1,516,427; butter from 4, 999,925 to 3,200,125; fresh fish
 3,685,272 pounds to 3,294,278; milk and its products from 271,885 pounds to 229,477; and edible oils and fats from 20,863 pounds to 15,040. While this survey includes only one state, it is a fair index of all the states.
 The decrease is pronounced in many of the commodities, but the significant thing is that there is a decrease in all of them. The decrease indicates a better market for the primary supplies. Farm product markets would be affected by the demand for storage replacements.

Most of the public attention during the last week has been centered on the foreign market. Congressional action is expected to give encouragement to the development of markets abroad. But that situation has its drawbacks. Aside from the fact that European nations owe the government approximately $10,000,000,000, the country has gone on selling Europe more goods than in the desire to find markets the people have overlooked the fact that Europe is not paying for these goods and that a gi-gantic private debt is piling up in favor of American sellers which in time must give rise to serious financial disturbances. It is estimated that the volume of unbalanced credit extended Europe since the war is approximately $3,500,000,000. The manufacturer and exporter have been paid for these goods but they were financed from loans which flow into the financial stringency of the country. Thus, while the United States is a large creditor nation, it is unable to collect its bills, and is pined for ready money. Of the $20,000,000,000 in goods which this country has sold abroad since 1914, there has been received in payment only about $5, 000,000,000 in American securities and $2,000,000,000 in gold. The balance of $13,000,000,000 is due abroad. Readjustment, it would seem, must be more a domestic than an international matter. The indications are that the domestic situation is improving.

HEY, KIDDIES! PONIES IN SILVER LININGS

There was "a Shetland pony on a greyling" in the silver lining to the dark cloud which hung over this little boy and girl for years. The world called their daddy a bandit and he went away from home, leading his followers in battle most of the time. They are Pandilo and Luisito Villa, son and daughter of the former Mexican bandit, who now leads the life of a ranchman on the broad acres given to him by the government, one of the terms to his surrender.

Ohio, 100 on a fruit district in Virginia, and 100 on a cooperative tractor and farm organization study in two areas in Ohio. Several of these surveys have been in progress for a number of years.

Similar studies on specialized types of farming are being made in cooperation with state agricultural colleges. In Kentucky the tobacco crop on seventy-five farms in each of two areas has been intensively studied, with a complete farm survey record taken on many of the farms at the end of the year. In New Jersey about 100 enterprise survey records were obtained on tomato and potato farming.

To Find Cause of Cattle Losses.

Recent losses of cattle in some sections of Texas from what is locally known as loin or back disease, the cause of which is unknown, have resulted in a call for assistance from the United States department of agriculture. A specialist of the bureau of animal industry recently visited the area where losses had occurred and is now making a preliminary study of the ailment and the conditions likely to be responsible for it.

Unsteadiness of gait is usually the first symptom observed. It was found that within 24 hours after going down the affected animal may be unable to rise, although definite illness may not be apparent from the general appearance, i. e., from temperature, pulse, respiration, etc. Death may result in from 24 to 48 hours; on the other hand, animals not infrequently recover after being in a helpless condition for a period of from two weeks or a month. Animals that recover appear to be rather susceptible to second attacks.

Losses have been mainly confined to the warmer months, from May until October, and as far as could be determined the affection is limited to the low-lying southeast gulf territory extending inland not more than 100 miles.

The condition at the present time is seemingly an unwarranted cause for grave alarm. Certain individuals, nevertheless, have experienced sufficient trouble to prompt them to dispose of their calf crops rather than assume the risk of having their stock succumb to the affection as it reaches maturity.

If the losses continue to be serious enough to justify it the department will endeavor to make other investigations at a more opportune time to study a number of cases.

Buffalo Herds Increasing.

The American Bison society reports that in January, 1920, there were 3,393 wild and tame buffalo in the United States. This encouraging report sets at rest the very real fear that existed not long ago, that the native buffalo, which once roamed the western plains, would soon become extinct.

Of the nine government-owned herds, two of the largest under the care of the United States department of agriculture, located in the Wichita national game preserve, Oklahoma, and on the national bison range at Dixon, Mont. The herd on the latter preserve now numbers 154, including 28 calves of this year. In this herd four bulls and twelve cows are 10 years of age or over and one cow is 20 years old. The fifteen animals that constituted the original Wichita herd came from the New York zoological park.

In accordance with the provisions made by the 1910 appropriation bill for their care, it is planned this year to dispose of some of the surplus herds in the government herds. Public parks and municipalities are the largest patrons. By distributing the animals over the country, if disease or misfortune overtake the main herds, there still will be stock left with which groups could be built up again.

The buffalo in the United States have increased about 300 per cent in 12 years. In 1908 there 1,116 wild and tame buffalo in this country; at the beginning of 1920 there were 3,393. Canada has a larger number—5,000. This is due to the fact that several years ago, when the Pablo herd in Montana, belonging to MR. Pablo, a half-breed Indian, was for sale, the Canadian government bought the animals, sufficient interest not being exhibited by Americans at that time to make it possible to retain them in this country. The total number of wild and tame buffalo on the North American continent at present is probably more than 9,000 head.

Agriculture Notes

Surveys on Farm Costs.

Since the reorganization of the office of farm management and farm economics of the United States department of agriculture in February, 1919, two important preliminary studies in the cost of production have been completed—wheat and cotton. A third, beef cattle, has been brought to the point of final tabulation; and a fourth, sugar beets, is now well under way. A study of the Iowa "land boom" has been completed, also an investigation of hail insurance. Field work has been done in over a score of surveys of different kinds, including business analysis surveys, farm-life surveys, and studies of the economic aspects of ownership and tenancy. A study of the use of the motor trucks on eastern farms has been completed. While important results have been secured, a number of projects outlined by the committee on reorganization, notably farm labor, trial credit, and taxation, have not as yet received adequate attention, owing to lack of funds.

For Business Basis.

In order to put at the disposal of farmers information which will enable them to place their farming operations on a more businesslike basis, the United States department of agriculture has conducted extensive studies in farm business analysis. During the last year 400 records were obtained in farm business analysis surveys on two general crop and livestock areas in Iowa, 500 on fruit and truck areas in Florida, 136 on a general farming area in New Hampshire, 50 on a singular area in

In addition to giving news, the right kind of a newspaper will sound warning at the approach of danger, arouse popular conscience, and inspire courage in faint and doubting hearts. This the Herald has endeavored to do in accordance with its best judgment. This it will do in the future.

The Herald believes the most trying period in the course of readjustment is over, and that people may confidently look forward to early realization of a healthy pre-war basis. As the sound of joyous Christmas bells pass with the coming of the New Year, there is good reason to hope for the ushering in of an era of renewed prosperity on a foundation of more equitable values.

A SUGGESTION

The Herald sent to a friend or relative during 1921 would be an appreciated gift. The recipient would think with gratitude of the donor, besides the satisfaction of receiving all the news of Wayne and Wayne county fifty-two times during the year.

This is also a good time to renew subscriptions that are due.

As An Advertising Medium

The Herald has 2,500 subscribers—approximately 10,000 readers. That is the reason any one having anything to sell should advertise in the Herald. Farmers planning public sales should remember the big circulation guaranteed by using this paper for their announcements.

Our Greeting

WEALTH is but a relative proposition. It requires millions to make some people feel wealthy, while under other conditions and circumstances, a few hundred dollars would bring content and peace to others.

We are going through a chain of circumstances that tends to make many feel discouraged, but when we consider the good health and peace of the community and the abundant crops with which we have been blessed, as compared with conditions of other peoples and countries, we cannot but feel that we are a VERY wealthy community.

If we enter the Yuletide season with the spirit of thankfulness for what we have instead of lamenting the things which we do not have, we will surely feel encouraged to take up the duties of the new year with vim and vigor.

Can this institution be of further service to you in your undertakings? If so, tell us.

Our Best Wishes for the Season to All.
