Wesley Barry in the Screen Play of "Dinty"

How has Marshall Neilan succeeded in making such an overwhelmingly popular screen favorite of a thirteen-year-old, freckled-faced, red-haired, tow-headed and mischievous youngster who answers the name of Wesley Barry?

That is Mr. Neilan's secret, of course, but an observer at the Neilan studio recently received some enlightenment after watching the director and members of his company at work on "Dinty," in which Wesley Barry has the first starring role of his career, and which will be shown at the Crystal Theatre for an engagement of two days beginning Feb. 17.

The visitor's report follows: The actors who were to take part in the scenes—little Wesley Barry, Walter Chung, a young Chinaman; Aaron Mitchell, a coal black pick-up; Newton Hall, a youngster who plays the part of a dressed-up boy and who couldn't have a bit of fun during rehearsals or when scenes were being shot because he couldn't muss his clothes; and Pat O'Malley, a charming chap—were employing their leisure in various ways.

Neilan seemed abstracted while the men were getting ready to take the scene. "Generally he's joking," O'Malley remarked to the visitor. "Tom Held notified Neilan when all was ready, and Wesley was sent out under the great arched cloister that surrounds the main building so the final focus could be made.

Wesley is "Dinty," a neysoy in the picture. In the scene about to be taken "Dinty" was to be shown feeling very sad and lonely after the loss of his mother.

Wesley was doing a little "shimmy" all by himself and getting away with it famously.

"Be still Wesley," Neilan commanded, "they're getting the focus." Wesley quieted down instantly and stood patiently waiting the word to act.

"Begin!" Neilan called out as the camera started to click.

Wesley clasped his hand in front of him, head down, eyes on the ground—a picture of woe. Slowly he walked across a patch of sunlight. It seemed many minutes were consumed in making the short journey.

"Stop at the column!" Neilan called.

The director watched every move of the boy, who kept up his walk without a perceptible indication that he had heard the new command.

He neared one of the great columns. Neilan walked quietly toward the same point, keeping out of the camera's focus.

"When you get to the column," he said, in quiet positive command, "lean against it and think of your mother."

Wesley had reached the cool shadow made by the mighty column. He paused a moment, leaned wearily against the column—a look of unutterable woe on his face.

"Now," from Neilan who spoke quickly and quietly to the boy. "Now, begin to cry. Put your hands to your face, turn your face to the column and cry."

Wesley followed the instructions as they were given.

Neilan watched the rise and fall of the lad's shoulders for a few seconds, gave a signal, and the scene was finished.

Dave Risson, the cameraman continued to turn the crank until one of the technicians held up a painted board on which were several markings.

"Get ready for a closeup," Neilan told his cameraman, and the cameraman and technicians began moving their equipment close to the column.

Wesley, released for the moment, held a conference with young Chung and the pickaninny. Chung had been to the fountain and with a fine silver thread and a hook had caught a minnow. The three boys gabbled over the poor little fish until it burst out of the casing of his silvery scales.

While the men were getting the camera into position the director perused the continuity sheet which one of the technicians kept.

"The camera now ready for the closeup, Neilan whistled for Barry, who came running up to take his place, fresh from a game with the other youngsters, laughing and excited.

He took his place at the column, facing the camera. Which was brought very close to him. A ring of men with screens painted silver formed around him, the white surface throwing light upon his face.

Neilan stopped so his face was near that of the boy, although not in the focus of the camera lens.

"Begin!" he said to the photographer, then to Wesley: "Think of your mother. She's just dead! You've lost her forever! You're lonely and sad. She will never come back to you. What will you do without her? You loved her so much. She meant so much to you. You had just got the newsstand on the corner and were going to try to win a match for her. And she's gone."

He spoke gently, in a low, tender tone, but every word reached the lad, who loves his own mother dearly.

As Neilan continued speaking Wesley's face began to twitch, his mouth drooped at the corners, his eyes closed fast, his lips quivered. A tear oozed out between the lids of his eyes. One dropped on his cheek and bounded off. Sobs began to shake his small body. He burst into violent weeping.

The director gave the signal and the scene was ended.

Neilan turned to O'Malley. There were tears in his eyes, and most of the men in the circle were coughing and drawing their handkerchiefs.

"A wonderful piece of acting," said O'Malley to his chief.

"It was," he answered. "Wesley is a marvel."

Great Britain's proposal to the United States that all war loans be cancelled would seem to be a fine thing for all nations but the United States. By such a concession, it looks as though we would be holding the sack.

South Dakota is taking steps to repeal a lot of so-called "Blue Laws" while other states are trying to adopt more "Blue Laws." The likelihood is that we have laws enough to satisfy all requirements if they were properly observed.

"Every man who makes politics a business is everlastingly seeking recognition."—Bixby in Lincoln Journal. But he assumes that he is urged forward by his friends. If he wants an office, he mentions that his friends have been urging him for the place.

though he regards the step a personal sacrifice which he would not take unless persuaded by sense of public duty. A politician is as strong as horse-radish in the direction of duty and the wishes of friends.

In accord with the general slump in things, the Herald is going to cause a sharp decline in use of adjectives. For instance, we will ask the public to admit that all refreshments served at social functions are "delicious" and give the word a vacation and much needed rest. It has been overworked.

Restaurant and hotel keepers in Chicago seem to be the only ones in this city who have not heard that the war is over and are still charging prices altogether out of accord with the times. The city council proposes to notify these dealers that the armistice has been signed and that conditions have materially changed, inviting them to adopt a lower scale of prices or forfeit their licenses.

Nearly everybody everywhere wants peace. Nearly everybody is against war only as a last saving remedy. Opinions differ as to the way to prevent clash of arms. Some think great preparation is a safeguard for peace; others that disarmament is the solution. This country which has fought successful wars, is generally against militarism. It has demonstrated that it could, in case of emergency, equip and train itself in better order for defense or for support of a righteous cause.

How foolish, brutal and useless is vengeance! A young man in the neighborhood of Centre, Neb., told a girl that if she went to a dance with his rival for her affections he would break up the dance. Three-qued, of course she went with the rival. Enraged, the jealous young man carried out his threat. He invited the assistance of a party of little animals, black with a streak of white. (The dancers thought the young man did not show even the streak of white carried by some of the Italian confederates.) Accompanied by the bevy of stunks, he went to the school house where the dance was being held. He tied the doors and after dropping the animals into the room, nailed down the window. He had also covered the chimney, so that volumes of smoke poured out of the stove. The assault was noiseless, but varied and powerful. Eleven of the seventeen girls present faintly at as soon as convenient, and they required a lot of attention and effort really needed to open the building and rescue the crowd. At least accounts officers were searching for the young man. Manifestation of ugly jealousy has no doubt ruined his chance of winning the girl of his choice and wrecked his reputation in a whole neighborhood.

More publicity and closer cooperation between the city council and the Commercial club would prevent a great deal of misrepresentation and avoid much criticism. Municipal improvements have been considerable and costly the last year, and the public should be kept advised as they are accomplished and what has been paid out. Ground for complaint is likely to disappear if people understand exactly what they are paying for in public improvements and in public policies. We think the Commercial club's committee ought to act as an advisory board to the council. The committee should be sufficiently active and alert to offer intelligent suggestions in behalf of public interest. The committee should of course be consulted in the matter of innovations. Bills allowed by the council should be published the same as those allowed by the county board. Semi-annual financial statements ought to be published. More facts reflected by cooperation on the Commercial club's committee would create a clearer understanding between the public and the municipal body. In harmony with the public opinion, and in accordance with what it conveys is by its duty to the council and to the public, the Herald will soon secure facts which will have a review of things accomplished during the past year, showing the cost to the city. Also while the publication of lists of bills allowed by the council, a class of matter that ought to be paid for, the Herald will publish without charge the list after each meeting if copy is furnished this office.

THE SMITH-TOWNER BILL.

At the meeting of school men in Norfolk last Friday, Superintendent L. J. Surface expressed his desire to have broken loose with a stick on Congressman Robt. E. Evans on account of the latter's opposition to the Smith-Towner bill which, as we understand, is designed to centralize school control in the federal government. The published report states that after Surface's caustic arraignment of the congressman, the school-masters voted unanimously in favor of the bill. We happen to know that at least two leading educators who attended the Norfolk meeting, had previously expressed themselves in opposition to the bill and in sympathy with the congressman's attitude. If these two men voted for the proposition, they must have changed their minds, which we very much doubt. If they did not vote for it, it was not supported unanimously. Still another leading educator says he did not vote on the proposition. The likelihood is that those who did not vote at all, were against the bill, but were in fact coerced by it.

As we understand it, the Smith-Towner bill is one to take the control of schools out of the hands of the states and place it in the hands of the federal government. Congressman Evans opposes the measure on ground that it accepted as sound and sensible by many school men. He thinks state control keeps the schools closer to the people. He thinks the less the centralization of schools in the federal government, the better for the cause of education and the better for those who sustain it and benefit by it. He thinks control by the federal government would cost much more money with decreased efficiency. It would make Nebraska, with its low rate of literacy contribution to the states, have a high rate of literacy. It would make educated Nebraska responsible for ignorant Mississippi. It would create at Washington a lot of costly official berths without yielding anything to education that is not greatly accentuated by state control.

These are in substance among Congressman Evans' objections to the bill, and they may prove ample to the general public that supports the schools even if they do not meet the approval of the Albion superintendent who took advantage of the Norfolk occasion to fire off his views and abuse the congressman.

A New Kind of Pattern to Make Sewing Easier

The patterns you've always used—haven't you spent weary hours puzzling out the how and why of them!

It takes an expert to sew in the old way.

Now—there's a new kind of pattern—and even the woman who has never sewed before can take a safe try at making her own clothes.

All instructions for cutting and sewing are plainly printed right on the pattern. Where the dots-and-dashes used to be—now words that tell you how.

No lengthy directions on the pattern envelope. A wonderful aid to home dressmakers.

All the New Materials are Here

For Your Early Spring Sewing

These long winter days are good times to make up your house dresses, aprons, dresses for the girls, waists for the boys, underwear, shirts, pillow cases, towels and other plain sewing. We have a fine new stock of all the materials you will need—trimmings to match and McCall patterns to help you carry out the newest style ideas.

The prices will please you—they remind one of old times.

ZEPHYR GINGHAMS

Five—three, close woman, bright looking gingham in fancy plaid, dainty checks, neat stripes and plain colors. The sort of gingham you feel like spending your time in making up because when you're through you have a garment really worth while in both quality and appearance. Two grades—the wider, so-called Scotch zephyr, at 25c and the regular width, fine yarn zephyr gingham at

25c

FINE PERCALES

Some very attractive new two color effects—printed on white grounds. Have been brought out which make the new light percales very attractive. For instance, fine black stripes alternating with groups of neat yellow, red or green gingham make a combination especially pleasing. These are patterns in these goods attractive enough when made up in a shirt to please the husband and you know that less than about the limit in attractiveness. The prices are a great relief, just 3 1/2 what they have been.

25c

JUST GINGHAMS

We call these "just" gingham because while they are fast colors and suitable for some purposes, they are not really what you would choose for your better sewing. You will see them mentioned a great deal in bargain advertising—at bargain prices, and we just want you to know that if you can use this grade of gingham we have it for you as cheap as it is sold anywhere.

Washing Machine Demonstration

On February 17, 18 and 19 we are going to hold a SPECIAL DEMONSTRATION of One Minute Electric Washers, One Minute Power Washers and One Minute Hand Washers. We are going to SHOW YOU just how the One Minutes operate by actually washing clothes for you.

We are going to have a demonstrator here from the factory, and whether you need a One Minute or not, we want you to come and see the demonstration. Our demonstrator is of broad experience and will give you many valuable pointers about the washing of clothes, showing you how to wash at less expense, how to wash easier, and how to get your clothes cleaner and whiter.

REDUCED PRICES—Our prices of One Minutes have been greatly reduced, and while not as low as in pre-war times, are very close to it.

TERMS—We are selling our One Minute washers during this demonstration on EASY MONTHLY PAYMENTS—so easy that the prices you are paying to have your washings done every week will almost pay the monthly payments.

Agriculture Notes

Outlet for American Cattle.

As a result of a trip to South America by representatives of the United States department of agriculture in the interest of marketing purchased live stock, contracts were established and a business was transacted up to June 30, 1920, amounting to $400,000. The results of this trip have been so promising that it has been deemed advisable to keep a representative in South America, and arrangements are now under way by the bureau of markets for the establishment of a permanent office there.

Information on Foreign Markets.

The United States department of agriculture is collecting systematic and comprehensive information covering the problems of marketing farm products in foreign countries. World markets have a deep and far-reaching influence on domestic markets and prices, but, although approximately 50 per cent of American exports last year consisted of agricultural products, and although the prices of some of the larger staple crops, such as wheat, cotton, and wool, are made in foreign markets, little attention has been given to conditions which American farm products encounter in foreign fields, say specialists of the bureau of markets.

Watching Noodle Shipments.
A yellow streak is an evidence of quality in a gold mine, but it may mean something entirely different when it appears in a so-called egg noodle. Some manufacturers of noodles impart a yellow streak to their product with dye. The only purpose is to make the noodle resemble a real gold mine, according to officials of the bureau of chemistry, United States department of agriculture, who are charged with the enforcement of the federal food and drugs act. Food inspectors have been instructed to watch interstate shipments of noodles in order to enable the department of agriculture to check this practice, which, under the provisions of the food and drugs act, is illegal.

The use of the dye, which costs little, in place of eggs, which are expensive, is not only a fraud upon the consumer, but it makes for unfair competition among manufacturers, the department holds. It is difficult for reputable manufacturers to meet the competition of unscrupulous producers who substitute cheaper and less nutritive substances for the genuine and more expensive material.

More Enforcement, Less Laws.

Omaha World-Herald: What Nebraska needs is not so much new laws—for which hundreds of bills are pending in the legislature—but a few men of at least average competency and devotion who will try to earn their official salaries by an intelligent administration and enforcement of the laws we now have.

Some Facts Touching Annual Income Tax

Births, deaths, and marriages during the year 1920 affect materially some of the tax returns for that year. Millions of babies were added to family circles, most of whom bring an exemption of $200 in the parents' income tax return.

Widows and widowers who lost their husbands or wives during the year are especially affected. They are single for the purposes of the income tax law and are granted only an exemption of $1,000, unless the head of a family.

Persons who were divorced or separated by mutual agreement during the year also must consider themselves single persons.

The status of the taxpayer on December 31, 1920, determines the amount of the exemptions. If on that day the taxpayer was married and living with wife or husband, claim may be made for the $2,000 exemption. If single, or married and not living with wife or husband on December 31, the exemption is only $1,000.

Persons who reached majority during the year and whose earnings for that period amounted to $1,000 or more, or $2,000 or more, according to their marital status, must file a return and pay a tax on their net income in excess of those amounts.

To avoid penalty the return must be in the hands of the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer lives, or has his principal place of business, on or before midnight of March 15, 1921.

"Home, Sweet Home"—that's the music for me

IT WAS a rotten night.
RAIN, WIND, mud, slush.
AND AFTER a hard day.
IT MADE me sore.
TO GET all dilled up.
JUST TO go calling.
ON a pair of fish.
I NEVER could see.
BUT ORDERS is orders.
FROM FRIEND with aid.
AND "GEE," I said.
"THIS is a bum life."
THEN THE phone rang.
AND THE party was off.
I CLIMBED out quick.
FROM THE soup and fish.
INTO THE easy clothes.
AND SAT by the fire.
TOASTING MY toes.

AND WATCHING my wife.
QUIETLY KNITTING away.
IN THE front.
AND I heard the rain.
BEAT AT the window.
AND THE winter wind.
HOWL AROUND.
AND I stretched out.
IN THE old arm chair.
TOOK UP a book.
LIT ONE of those cigarettes.
THAT "SATISFY."
AND SAID, "Oh, Man.
IT'S a great old life."

IT'S a great life, all right—some times. But in fair weather or foul, you're in a heap to you get Chesterfields—they always "Satisfy." It's all in the way we blend those the "Satisfy" and the "Satisfy" and mind you—the "Satisfy-blend" can't be copied!

In new-light packages.
Also obtainable in round tins of 50, vacuum-sealed.

Notice of Hearing.
To the heirs, creditors and all persons interested in the estate of John Braunger, deceased.
You, and each of you, are hereby notified that on the 19th day of January, 1921, Elizabeth Braunger, Pauline B. Duling and Carl Braunger, legatees, filed their petition in the county court of Wayne county, Nebraska, alleging that John Braunger departed this life intestate in the City of Wayne, Wayne county, Nebraska, on or about November 15, 1898, and at the time of his death was a resident and inhabitant of said City of Wayne; that no application has ever been made in the State of Nebraska for the appointment of an administrator for the estate of said decedent, and that more than two years have elapsed since his death. Said petitioners pray for a finding and decree determining the time of death of the said John Braunger, deceased, that he died intestate, for a determination of his heirs, the degree of kinship and the right of descent of said real estate, and for an order harrng claims of creditors against said estate, and pray such other relief as may be just and proper.
Hearing will be had on said petition before me at the county court room in the City of Wayne, in Wayne county, Nebraska, on the 21st day of February, 1921, at 10 o'clock a.m., at which time and place the heirs, creditors and all other persons interested in said estate may appear and show cause why a decree should not be made and entered herein as prayed in said petition.
Witness my hand and official seal of Wayne, Wayne county, Nebraska, this 15th day of January, 1921.

Coterie Club.
 The Coterie club met Monday afternoon with Mrs. Horace Campbell. After the regular business meeting the hour was spent in a discussion of current events. The hostess served refreshments. Mrs. L. W. Ellis was a guest of the club. The next meeting will be with Mrs. L. W. Vath February 14.

U. D. Club.
 Mrs. H. S. England was hostess to the U. D. club on February 7. Roll call was answered with some items of interest concerning the Virgin Islands. Mrs. Ray Reynolds gave a paper on the "Virgin Islands." Mrs. Jas. Miller gave a talk on "Our New Possessions." The club will meet for a Valentine luncheon next Monday at 1 o'clock with Mrs. Ray Reynolds.

Six o'Clock Dinner.
 Mrs. Arthur Lyman entertained a party of guests at a 6 o'clock dinner Tuesday in honor of her husband's birthday. A fine birthday cake, made by the Wayne bakery, was a center of attraction. Names of guests: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Cedrick Swanson, and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Martin and daughter, Miss Alma.

Social Afternoon.
 On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. F. S. Utecht entertained a few friends in honor of Mrs. Hubert Leuck of Bigler. Music and playing "Ball" were the sources of much entertainment throughout the afternoon. A delicious lunch was served, after which the guests departed, voting Mrs. Utecht a delightful hostess. Those present were: Miss Georgie Bowers, Miss Mabel Holmgren, Miss Lillie McCorkindale, Miss Myrtle Carlson, Mrs. Louis Schedelins, Mrs. Hubert Leuck, Mrs. Louis Leuck and Mrs. F. S. Utecht.

Helping Hand Society.
 The members of the Helping Hand society and their husbands met Thursday, Feb. 3, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Durant, twelve miles northwest of Wayne. Thirty-five members were present. A delicious three-course dinner was served by the hostess. After dinner, a business meeting, resulting in the election of the following officers, was held: President, Mrs. Irvie Reed; vice president, Mrs. Harry Lessman; secretary-treasurer and reporter, Mrs. Alex Jeffrey. After the business session, games and social chat were indulged in. At 5 o'clock, the hostess served a delicious luncheon, after which the guests departed, voting Mr. and Mrs. Durant, royal entertainers.

Wayne Woman's Club.
 M. Grace Keyser entertained the members of the Wayne Woman's club at her home Saturday afternoon. The regular business session was omitted. Mrs. Keyser gave a paper on the lives of four famous Indian musicians: Edward MacDowell, Carlos Troyer, Arthur Nivins and Thurston Lieurance. She gave a brief biography of each and told how he had lived among the Indians until he had absorbed the spirit of their music. Miss Katherine Strickland played four descriptive piano solos: "From an Indian Lodge," by McDowell; "Kiowa," the Apache War Dance; "The Ghost Dance," and "Unwis, the Clown Dance," by Carlos Troyer. Mrs. A. R. Davis sang, "The Wounded Pawn," "By Weeping Waters," and "In Mirrored Waters," by Lieurance. As a closing number, Miss Katherine Strickland played a very difficult selection, "An American Rhapsody," arranged by Oren and composed by Lieurance.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. James Miller, Saturday, Feb. 19. A program on "Music of the Plains," will be given.

Narrow Escape From Fatal Auto Accident

What might have proved to be a far more serious accident occurred immediately east of the depot at Hoskins Saturday noon when a Ford car driven by Robert Statters, a farmer living eight miles north of Hoskins, was hit by the westbound passenger train. Mr. Statters, the only occupant of the car, escaped with a head wound that rendered him unconscious for more than two hours. The train was stopped immediately and the train crew and interested persons rushed out to see what damage had resulted. It was found that one of the wheels of the car was almost demolished and other minor parts bent. Mr. Statters explained that the engine had choked in front of the oncoming train and that he had been unable to start the engine in time to avert the accident.

Mr. Statters had been in the process of moving his household goods to the station at Hoskins preparatory to moving to Craig. Some of the livestock and household goods had already been packed and were on the freight train. Mr. Statters was sufficiently recovered to accompany his freight down to Craig on the afternoon train Saturday.

Nebraska Teacher Suicides.

Falls City, Neb., Feb. 8.—Despondency brought on by bad news in an anonymous letter, attacking her reputation, caused Miss Florence Stewart, 25, school teacher in the Zimmerman district, eight miles northeast of here, to shoot herself through the heart with a revolver at her father's home here late Sunday night. She was dead by the time members of the family reached the room.

The anonymous letter over which Miss Stewart had been brooding had been sent to her last July.

It is believed that it was written by a man living in the school district in which the young woman taught. While the text of the letter has not been divulged it is said to contain statements very detrimental to her reputation. Friends say they believe the writer intended the missive as a veiled threat in an endeavor to bring the young woman under his power.

Attorneys are making a thorough inquiry. Feeling is said to be running high against the writer as Miss Stewart's reputation was of the best.

Fire Sweeps Colon.

Colon, Neb., Feb. 8.—Fire originating in the B. A. Harris general store about midnight destroyed six business buildings including the state bank on the north side of main street, wiping out the principal part of the business section. Besides the Harris store, the pool hall, drug store, hardware store and the bank were destroyed.

The fire is said to have originated in a defective flue in the Harris store. Mr. Harris is in a hospital for an operation and his wife, they believe, left the store. She left the building about 11 o'clock and the flames were discovered about an hour later.

The Peterson general store and all buildings east of it were saved by hard work.

Ask Lower Freight Rate.

Washington, Feb. 7.—A reduction in freight rates was asked today of the interstate commerce commission by six of the largest cattlemen's associations of the west. Their spokesmen told the commission that market prices of sheep, cattle and wool had fallen as far this winter as they could and that the cattlemen, sheep raisers and farmers were no longer able to sell their produce for enough to pay freight rates.

Epidemic of Mange.

Norfolk Daily News: A serious epidemic of mange has broken out among the horses on the Indian reservation in Butte county, especially around Deatur, according to Dr. J. C. Meyers of Norfolk, state veterinarian, who has just returned from an inspection of conditions there. Dr. Meyers states that he will recommend the establishment of big vats to disinfect the horses on the reservation and also ask the state to send more veterinarians into the affected district. He believes that it will be necessary to quarantine the mange-affected territory in order to check the spreading of the disease which is likely to kill many valuable animals.

Dies White Shoveling Snow.

Excursion shoveling snow caused the death of Emil Huelle at Madison Sunday morning. Mr. Huelle located at Madison in 1908.

Early Morning Robbery.

Carl Hartman, Northwest railroad coal hauler at Norfolk, was held up and robbed of $3.50 while at work at 6 o'clock Monday morning. The report states that Hartman who works alone at the coal chutes after midnight went to the top of the trestle to unload coal. When he arrived at the summit of the bridge he held up man who lay in wait for him picked him up bodily and threatened to throw him to the ground and crush out his life unless he "cleaned his pockets."

Cheer Up Disheartened Ones.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: The systematized efforts of any organization to discourage those who choose death as the easier way is to be commended and upheld, but everyone who at his own past of duty "carries on" with buoyant hope and radiant humor is doing his part to make life easier and duty clearer to the disheartened ones.

INSULATION

Look for the Name

"Willard" on a battery identifies it as the product of the pioneer in starting and lighting batteries.

It stands for the most important battery development—the Willard Threaded-Rubber Battery.

When you buy a Willard Threaded Rubber Battery—the only battery with Threaded Rubber Insulation—you buy freedom from old-time separator troubles, because the plates of this battery are insulated—not merely separated. Saves trouble and expense.

Thirty Head Registered Herefords

From Anxiety-breed will be offered at public auction at Wayne Livestock Pavilion,

Saturday, February 12

Blanco No. 666062

This offering consists of nine heifer calves, coming yearlings; four bulls about 1 year old; two bulls coming 2 years old; balance are cows 3 and 4 years old.

There are five daughters of Beau Baron, bred by the veteran breeders, Judgell & Simson. Beau Baron is by the noted Mousel Brothers' Beau Mischief. Nine great grandsons and granddaughters of Beau Baron are in the lot. The entire offering is bred along the same lines of the Anxiety Herefords of today.

The offering will be of the type in demand today. They have not been pampered, but are just in good breeding condition. They are ready to go to your farm or herd without extra care.

The offering will show for itself, as every cow will have a calf in the sale or on foot or well along calf to the great young bull, John Charming. This fine animal will be shown in the ring on sale day.

Mayflower No. 704307

The curly-coated Hereford of today is here to stay. He has paid his way to the feed lot everywhere in the corn belt, and is noted for quick and early finish. The Hereford has no equal when it comes to baby beef for which it is a top-notch on all leading markets.

Spending Habit Persists.
 Des Moines Register: Could anything be more incredible than that the American people, who are accounted pretty shrewd in getting their money's worth, should be rushing pell mell into spending countless millions of money for boats, at a time when we are in less immediate need of boats than we ever have been in 150 years, and when in the opinion of the experts the boats we are getting will not be worth their weight in scrap if time ever comes for using them?

Order to Show Cause.
 In the district court of Wayne county, Nebraska.
 In the matter of the application of Rollie W. Ley guardian of the estates of Harold W. Corzine and Kermit A. Corzine, minors, for leave to sell real estate.
 On reading and filing the petition duly verified of Rollie W. Ley, guardian of the persons and estates of Harold W. Corzine and Kermit A. Corzine, minors, for license to sell the undivided one-half interest of said minors in and to the west-half of lot ten (10) in Crawford and Brown's addition to the city of Wayne, in Wayne county, Nebraska, for the purpose of putting out the proceeds derived from such sale at interest or investing the same in some productive stock and it appearing from said petition that it is for the benefit of said minors and for the best interest of their estates that their interest in said real estate should be sold, and the proceeds thereof placed at interest or invested in some productive stock.

 Wherefore it is ordered that the next of kin of said minors, and each of them, and all persons interested in the estates of said minors and each of them, appear before the district court of Wayne county, Nebraska in the courthouse in the city of Wayne, Wayne county, Nebraska, on the 20th day of February, 1921, at 10 a. m. to show cause, if any there be, why a license should not be granted to said Rollie W. Ley, guardian, to sell the undivided one-half interest of said minors in said real estate for the purpose above set forth. It is further ordered that a copy of this order be published in the Wayne Herald, a legal weekly newspaper published at Wayne, Nebraska, and of general circulation in said county, three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing.

 This order made in open court this 15th day of January, 1921.

UNCLE WALT The Post Philosopher.

Not on Duty.
I called on Dentist Bacon to have my teeth half-scaled; the way said teeth were achin' caused agonies untold, and I, by peace-foroken, had fact supernely cold. The office was deserted, no scientist was there; but patient, molar-hurted, reared up to groan and swear, because the dentist first with golf and diamonds fair. "Oh, was and willow waly," I fretted, used to shriek—I hired the village tanner; he, with the plumber's aid, with crowbar and with spanner dug out the tooth decayed, and in a bilious manner the modest bill I paid. Those business men are silly who close their office doors, to seek the golf course hilly, and they open their doors; their customers grow chilly, and chase to other stores. I like to play and gamble, the business hours between a gamble in my tin limousine; but first I scratch and scamble to earn the good green. When people seek my dwelling in his denon keep. Poor Eugene, I find me there a-selling my merchandise sublime, my honest bundle swelling by added plunk and dime.

Eugene Debs.
In a prison cell he sits, for his criminal of crime, jailed for throwing andy figs at a nervous, crucial time. Now the crucial time is past, and 'twould make the angels weep that we took him, engaged, and fast, signing in his denon keep. Poor Eugene, his heart is good, and his courage high and strong; but his head has wheels of wood and they're always turning wrong; and when war was sweeping by, sponsored by some tinhorn kings, he reared up, nine cubits high, and "reeled off some foolish things. The hearts of men were hot as we watched war's crimson tide, and we all were talking rot—but we took the proper side. Then the wheels in Eugene's head backward turned, as in their work, and he pawed around and said silly things, in language blunt. And he's been in jail for years, and it seems he'll there remain, while the beastly proferters flourish on their crooked gain; and the gangsters run, and the swindlers and the thieves raise their divers kinds of hell, while poor Eugene sits and grieves, at the window of his cell. In the bustle and the rush many errors must prevail, but our Uncle Sam should blush that this man remains in jail.

The Walker.
A cold wet wind blows from the sea, and pees rheumatics in my knee; my sole remaining tooth gets sore, and aches until it seems a bore. The wind comes sighing from the sea, all day, and puts a crimp in me. But on the hills, some miles away, the breeze is warm throughout the day, the sunshine on the landscape glows, and there an old gent might repose without an ill to cause my grief, without occasion for a beef. Why, then, you ask, do I remain, upon the seashore and complain? Alas, I could not happy be, where everything is fair to see; unhappy is the wretch who wakes in bed and his person free from aches; he has no topic and no theme to justify a roar or scream. I sit and watch the seagulls wheel, and tell the world how tough I feel; I describe the ache that racked my head last evening when I went to bed, detail the symptoms I possess, and analize my soul's distress, and life seems sweet and full to me, when dark winds come in from the sea. I might be freed from all my ills, they tell me; if I sought the hills, but they'd have no good excuse for shedding tears to beat the deuce.

Nights at Home.

I always spend my nights at home, remote from strife and care; a pillow soft supports my doming, my feet rest on a chair; and so I read some gripping poem or volume ripe and rare. My aunts and grandpas play some game, or blithely sew and knit, while merry children, full of prunes, throw many a gladsome fit, till lullabye their mother croons—and so the calm hours fit. And when the morning comes I read how men who roamed by night, fell victims to the auto's speed, were shot up in a light, or touched for all their chicken feed by some unbely victim. I read of kid-snapped maidens fair, and parents in distress, of youths who lose, in White Way glare, the rubies of their noses, of misdeeds in the gambler's lair, and crimes no man dare guess. If say, if those gallivant would spend their nights at home, with grandpa, niece and maiden aunt, and read some helpful tome, the crime of which the papers rant and blare, they'd be like foam. I'd rather be with hardy who think than with the men who prance to places where the glasses clink, and there are games of chance to drink, or a book is better than a drink, or than a tango dance. And when at dawn I leave my bed I caper and I sing, no hold-up with my hair, I've had a night my larboard wing, I do not have to stitch my head, or wear it in a sling.

Silk Shirts.
I sadly view the silkier shirts I bought some months ago (ah, me, the recollection hurts!) at fifteen bucks a dozen. The world was then reveling well, the goose was hanging high; if any man had junk to sell, I was on hand to buy. The haberdasher and the dry goods store were "Now, here's a shirt of blue and gray I'll sell you for two bones; of honest goods this shirt is made, of fabric good as steel; it will not warp or shrink or fade, or rave at the heel."
"What sort of skate?" I asked that guy, "do you suppose I am? I don't buy things unless they're good, and cheap things are a sham. I am no piker, friend of mine, my roubles grow on trees; so show me silks that gleam and shine, and I'll be your well wheeze!"
And now my once proud spirit sags, when I look in my trunk; the silkier shirts are all in rags, the lot not worth a plunk. And times have sadly changed since then, and once blithe hearts are sore, and kopecks, marks and iron men grow on the green no more. The peddler works where I'm employed are dropping men each day, and there may be an aching word where once I drew my pay. The briny from my sad eyes squirts, I heave a sigh of woe, when I survey those silkier shirts I bought some months ago.

California Winter.
The winter in this pleasant land, where I have pitched my moving tent, but goods like snow and sleet are banned, and frosts don't function worth a cent. Yet foggs come drifting from the deep and moans and eves are often cold, and shivers through your system creep, and all the air seems damp with mould. And then it's like to build a fire, a good old-fashioned roaring blaze, such as all mortal souls desire, on cold and clammy winter days. But here, where all the prospects please, and only proferters are vile, you'll have to sit around and freeze—no man can get a cordwood pile. We buy our wood in little sacks which from some distant forests came; with chunks the size of carpet tacks we feed the sad and ghastly flame. Our cot, we choose by the quart, and burning it seems quite a crime; no fire can roar and rip and smother when fed a pellet at a time. The fire-annihilator this winter night, it pierces through me like a sword; my lantern's burning as I write—it's all the heat I can afford. But there are countless sunny days when everything is fine and grand, and then I take my lyre and praise the glories of this wondrous land.

Mrs. Art Auker, Mrs. J. Bruce Wylie and Miss Edith Carter will be the committee to entertain the "Light Bearers" and "King's Herald" in the church basement Thursday, Feb. 17.

The Home Department will be entertained in the church basement next Tuesday with Mrs. Art Hutchins hostess.

Rev. E. M. Furman of Lincoln, was here Wednesday to conduct the third quarterly conference. The meeting was held in the afternoon. A missionary contest is being conducted to obtain new members for the Missionary society. The leaders are Mrs. G. S. Hanson and Mrs. Art Auker. The losing side will banquet the new members and contest winners in March.

Missionary society met Friday afternoon with Mrs. George Gaebler. Thirteen members and five visitors were present. The following program was given: Devotional, Mrs. George Carter; program leader, Mrs. Art Auker; reading, "The Artistic Society"; Mrs. E. S. Brown and Mrs. M. L. Halpin. The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. Overman. Mrs. Gaebler served sandwiches and coffee.

The first social was given by the direction of the Epworth League since its reorganization was well attended and a thoroughly good time enjoyed. There was a fine display of victrola music and a variety of games. Light refreshments were served. We hope these social times in the church parlors will continue.

Atchison Globe Sight. The man with a still had better keep still. Examine a diamond and the owner will at once explain that it is dirty. A girl is doing some figuring when she takes more than a passing interest in suit cases.

No weather lasts long enough to get used to it. Today's snow will be gone on the suit in time to come. Many men used to die with their boots on. Now days too many men are dying in the bedrooms of other men's wives.

There are not as many headaches these days as there were a few years ago, but hunching seems to be on the increase.

The Nonpartisan league may thrive on opposition, as some of its backers claim. There doesn't seem to be any other reason for its being.

Jude Johnson, who is writing a book on political economy, knows so little about domestic economy that all of his creditors are consulting attorneys this week.

Emergency is Passing. Kansas City Star. Emergency tariff bill is having about the same kind of a time in congress that a regular tariff bill has. But there's one advantage. Most emergency bills get through the emergency will have passed.

Supreme Court is Fair.
Minnesota Journal-Victor Berger, before his appearance in Judge Landis' courtroom, had proved himself an American and a coward.
The Supreme Court reveals again with white fairness and with what a broad spirit of justice, the United States government operates. Even the so called citizen who attempts to destroy it, is treated without malice in the decision.

High Taxes Cause Idleness.
Chicago News-Excessive taxation is one of the causes of the present unemployment. Unjust and oppressive taxes retard the business recovery which all are anticipating. A moderate sales tax as a substitute for excess profits taxes and surtaxes of the higher categories would help consumers instead of hurting them.

The "U. S." Bootee

Wear them all day—your feet stay dry and comfortable

WHEN the ground is wet, and your job means lots of walking, what sort of footwear do you put on? Ordinary leather shoes get soaked and caked with mud in no time.

At the very places where rubber footwear is usually weakest, the U. S. Bootee has been made strongest. Its sole consists of heavy layers of the finest rubber. All other points of strain are heavily reinforced.

For such work you need the lightweight comfort of a shoe combined with the protection of a boot. And here at last is a shoe that gives you this combination—the U. S. Bootee. It's a watertight rubber shoe—designed, originally for miners, and now becoming popular with farmers everywhere.

Ask your dealer to show you a pair of the new U. S. Bootees. Note their water-proof, smooth rubber surface—feel how pliable and comfortable they are—examine for yourself their wonderful built-to-wear construction.

The U. S. line of footwear has a type for every need—arctic, rubbers, "overs." Every one is backed by over half a century of experience. The rubber comes from our own plantations—the whole process of manufacture is supervised by experts.

Always look for the U. S. Seal—it means solid wear and long service for your money.

Six days mail was received at this office on last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Dearborn arrived in town Monday night.

It is now positively asserted that the new town of Brookdale in this county will be located on the town line between ranges three and four, in township 26, on sections 13 and 18.

March 10, 1881.

Mail arrived Tuesday, March 7, the first of the month.

Died, Friday night, March 4, 1881, of dropsy of the heart, Mrs. Geo.

Childs, aged 36 years.

Goods for this town shipped at Sioux City, January 22, on the S. C. & N. R. R. arrived Monday, March 7, and then they were hauled from Hubbard, over half the distance, by teams.

From Ponca Journal February 9, 1882:

Butterflies, common fleas, mosquitoes, and occasionally a little grasshopper, coming together with dry road and not snow enough for a single snow ball, indicate how severe the weather is.

A young man was riding along the sidewalk Monday evening mounted on a velocipede. On the walk were two large yellow dogs who were baying there comfortably dreaming. The velocipede passed over the tail of one of the dogs causing him to squeal with pain and rage. He rose and striking the other dog had bit him, attacked him and a lively scene took place. They fought up and down the walk until some kicked them in the face, where they were one another, stirred up the dust, and growl the air with their howls and renell. By means of their tails their owners finally dragged them apart. The moral of this story is that the numerous and most useful body of dogs—journaling in this town should be prevailed upon to take their repose at the center of the sidewalks, or they are liable to get into trouble. The railroad news so far as this country is interested is very scanty. There are various rumors, but whether any of them are reliable or not, we are unable to say. If the citizens of Cedar county vote bonds to aid in the construction of the road, it is said that the same will be extended from this place. If it is extended it will either go up the Aoway valley by the way of Newcastle or up the South creek and Daulty branch. Which route will be taken, no one outside of the railroad magnates can tell. But if Cedar county votes the bonds, we shall soon know what route the road will go. There is a rumor which has been floating around a long time—that there was a probability that a road would be built from Wakefield up the north Logan into Cedar county, passing through the new town of Norris, and from there to the center of that county, where it would unite with the road that is extended from Ponca. The efforts of the railroad company to make a place of Wakefield and their numerous side tracks, etc., in that place (and which would not be necessary if Wakefield were to be only a station) would indicate that there was something in the story of a road up the north Logan. We notice that a large number of railroad ties are arriving.

IT'S JUST GRAND SAYS IOWA WOMAN

Mr. Fisher Says Taniah Ended Troubles and Built Her Up Wonderfully.

"Since Taniah has restored my health and built me up I just can't say enough for it," said Mrs. G. H. Fisher, of 2707 Avenue A, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

"For more than a year before taking Taniah my stomach was so bloated I couldn't eat a thing but what it would hurt me. I was subject to blinding spells of dizziness and had almost unbearable pains in the small of my back. I was nervous and restless and a good night's sleep seemed out of the question. My appetite left me and I got so weak and run down my housework was just a drag.

"But the first bottle of Taniah took made a wonderful improvement in my condition. I have now finished my third bottle and my stomach is well, without an ache or a pain of any kind. I have a fine appetite and never have a trace of indigestion. That tired feeling has left me and it's no trouble for me to do my housework. In fact I feel good all the time. Taniah is certainly one grand medicine."

Taniah is sold in Wayne by H. J. Felber, in Carroll by L. R. King, and in Winslow by E. C. McIntyre—ad.

Wilson Becomes Reactionary

Springfield, Mass., Republican: The reasons stated by Mr. Fisher in his behalf of executive clemency for Mr. Debs cannot fail to command the approval of a large majority of people, and Mr. Wilson's view must be regarded as both ill-considered and despicable. Mr. Harding, it may be expected, will reverse Mr. Wilson's "policy" and his "utter" and will probably witness the strange spectacle of the "reactionary" and the "liberal" presidents changing roles.

News Gathered From The Herald Exchanges

An interesting wrestling match took place at the Legion hall at Tekamah the evening of February 1 when Pat McGill of Wisner, threw Bob Watson of the east, the match having been won in two straight falls of 15 and 8 minutes each. The match was promoted at Tekamah by Don Brumhall who signed the contestants. Both contestants had put up a purse of $3,000 and neither one was there for anything save business. Both men expected "head" work, but the Wisner man proved too fast for his opponent. The match was refereed by Denny Ryan of Omaha. Among the nobles who were at Tekamah to witness the match, were Joe and Anton Stecher, John and Adam Krieger, Stengle, Hanson and Barackman, each of whom was introduced to the audience by Referee Montour. Fans from various points in the state were there to witness the match.

Charles Lovejoy of Bloomfield, Monday evening, January 31, completed 16 years of faithful service in Uncle Sam's employ as a rural mail carrier on route 4, The Bloomfield Journal has this to say of Mr. Lovejoy and his work: "February 1, 1905, was a cold day in Bloomfield, the thermometer registering 36 degrees below zero. On this day, Mr. Lovejoy made his first trip as registrar and carrier for your town—thence, through rain and sleet, in all kinds of weather and over all sorts of roads, Mr. Lovejoy has been faithful in the performance of his duties as Uncle Sam's mail carrier. To the best of our knowledge, no patron on Mr. Lovejoy's route has ever lodged a complaint against him."

The past week has been a busy one in Oakland for preparations were being made for the community father and son program which took place the evening of February 9 in the high school gymnasium. A Y. M. C. A. committee had, the planning in charge. Plans to seat 200 men and boys had been made. A program was also given. The ladies' rest room recently prepared by the Bloomfield Gynecological Club has become quite a factor in the life of the visiting public in Bloomfield. The matron, Mrs. H. W. Gould, reported that the number of visitors during the month of January was 1,274.

The community programs at Wausau given by the American Legion during the past season, though not successful financially, have been considered by the Wausau Gazette as very beneficial to the community. The programs have consisted of music by the Filipino orchestra and various lectures leading to the betterment of the community in general.

County Superintendent Schwiner of the Cedar county schools, who has recently been conducting a campaign in the interests of more regular attendance at school, compiled a report recently and submitted it to the taxpayers of Cedar county for consideration. The report stated that preparations had been made by the taxpayers to care for 4,361 pupils in school, whereas only 3,193 attended. The average cost per capita, it was stated, was $2.83 per day to the taxpayer. Miss Schwiner encouraged the enforcement of regular attendance at school in order that the interests of the parents and taxpayers might be served to greater advantage.

The electric light plant at McBean was completely burned by a fire of unknown origin Monday, January 31. The result was a total loss to the proprietor, James Love, as he carried no insurance.

The rumor that teachers' wages are to be cut next year was given no credence at a recent meeting of board of education at Norfolk, for all instances of the kind in the same pay and the same schedule as prevailed last year.

The Randolph high school debating team defeated the team at Easton, Monday night, January 31. Dean H. H. Jahn of the Wayne State Normal, judged the contest. The next debate in the district semifinals will be with the Wayne high school.

Newcastle has voted bonds for a $75,000 school house. It is planned to make it thoroughly modern and large enough to care for the needs of the community.

Dr. Frank G. Wilcox, who lectured in Wayne last week in the interest of the National Hygiene Welfare Bureau, started a similar campaign in Wahoo last Tuesday. The campaign will close Feb. 15.

Wahoo recently began a campaign for membership in a farm bureau drive, the result of which netted 300 members in less than two days.

E. Holland of the extension department of the state university addressed the gathering as did also A. J. Crawford, manager of the campaign for members in the state, and C. H. Gustafson of the Farmers' Union. Community singing was a special feature of the program. It is reported that much interest was manifested by the farmers in this movement.

A man of 82 years of age was raised at the auditorium in Pierce last week for the Near-East relief, which goes to help the United States in carrying on its work among the starving Armenians. Although the collection was a complete surprise to the audience, it responded liberally. Mayor Connington said the matter before the townspeople at the picture show at the request of P. D. Correll of Plainview, who is looking after this work in Pierce county.

Why Telephone Numbers on Party Lines Are Changed

Often we can give a person who moves, the same telephone number at his new location, but if he moves to a different part of town or he has a party-line, we cannot always do this.

Party-line telephone numbers are sometimes changed at times other than when the subscriber moves. The reason is that a demand for additional wires in some localities occasionally forces us to place on the same circuit those party-line subscribers who live close together.

We realize changing telephone numbers is an annoyance to our subscribers, and it is an expense to us, it is only done when necessary.

Poor Children Best Fed. Sioux City Journal. It is contrary to general belief, we now have the assertion that poor children are better fed than those of wealthy families. This statement is made by Dr. Henry F. Vaughan, health commissioner of Detroit, who just has completed an exhaustive survey of conditions in the city.

Ignorance and ignorance on the part of parents, he says, is to blame for the situation in which children from wealthy families are more seriously undernourished than those of the slums. The rich child, Dr. Vaughan continues, rises at the last minute, bolts his breakfast five minutes before school opens and is driven to the school door in a motor car without obtaining any exercise. The boy from a poor family, on the other hand, usually goes to bed early at night, rises early, eats a good breakfast and by way of exercise scuffles with another bag in the block on his way to school.

Conditions in Detroit, where Dr. Vaughan found thousands of school children undernourished, may be taken as a fair average for other cities of the country. The Michigan metropolis has a large, wealthy population and great masses of families in less fortunate circumstances.

As a remedy for the condition of lack of nourishment among children, the Detroit authorities have begun an educational campaign among parents of school children through women's clubs, parent-teacher associations and other organizations.

The problem of the undernourishment of children is one that is properly engaging the attention of school authorities. Undernourishment, even in as small a city as Sioux City, exists to a greater degree than the average person might suspect. As we have few wealthy families in Sioux City, it is not likely that much undernourishment here is a result of the conditions described by Dr. Vaughan. For the most part, it arises out of conditions of poverty.

Measures to detect and relieve this undernourishment have been in effect in the Sioux City public schools for some time, this being a part of the duty of the school nurses. The reports as to the beneficial results of this activity have been gratifying. An underfed and undernourished child is getting a poor start toward good citizenship.

Remedy for Speeding. St. Paul Pioneer Press. Out in California automobile speeders are not permitted perpetually to satisfy their obligations to society with $10 bills. A dispatch from Sacramento tells of the revocation of Jack Pickford's operator's license by the state because of three successive convictions for violating the speed law. For one year the screen star will be prohibited from endangering the lives of others. California has learned, as have other states, that fines will not stop speeding.

America Could Have Played Part. New York World. Had the senate ratified the treaty of Versailles, instead of playing partisan politics with it, that alone would have gone far toward stabilizing conditions in Europe. The adherence of the United States to the treaty would in itself have been a guarantee of peace, and the matter of reparations could have been determined, under American influence, with some show of respect for economic possibilities.
