Official tangents from Washington, are certified to and returned for scoring after they have been shot each week, by the members of the club. Each week will count for the matches. In a trial contest the five high men of the Wisner Rifle club shot a score of 692 out of a possible 1000 points, a record of which they may justly be proud.

Income Tax Information.

Numerous errors in claims for deductions have been discovered in taxpayers' returns. To be allowed, deductions for losses must be confined to the following classes: Losses sustained in trade or business; losses sustained in transactions entered into for profit, though not connected with a trade or business; losses sustained by property not connected with trade or business if arising from fire, shipwreck, storm, or other casualty, or from theft.

To the extent any of the above losses are compensated for by insurance they are not deductible. To be allowed as a deduction in the return for 1920 a loss must have been actually sustained during that year. A taxpayer may feel certain that real estate owned by him is worth less than what he paid for it. A merchant may be convinced that certain stock can not be sold unless marked below cost. In neither event, however, is he entitled to a claim for deduction until the loss is made absolute by sale or other disposition of the property.

Claims for losses must conform closely to the wording of the statute. A loss sustained in the sale of an automobile purchased for personal use is not deductible because it is not a transaction entered into for profit. A loss sustained by a taxpayer in the sale of his home is not deductible for the reason that ordinarily when a man buys a residence and moves into it he has no intention of selling and has not entered into a transaction for profit.

If the month of March does not furnish anything very rough, we may look back on the mildest winter within the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

The Herald is pleased to note that Congressman R. E. Evans is opposed to the government's free seed distribution which costs about $10,000,000. The seeds which are said to be inferior, are usually representative of practical horticulturalists. The free seed business has always been a useless burden, rather to annoy the original purpose of stimulating larger and better production.

An Allen young man by the name of Percy Lockwood learned recently by practical demonstration that gasoline and a lighted lantern are unfriendly and that having been permitted to quietly lie down together, Percy was filling the gasoline tank of his Ford and put a lantern on the tank to determine when it was full. The two antagonistic things did not behave well long enough for him to find out. The car and a nearby garage were destroyed. Fortunately Percy escaped injury. If any one else behaves gasoline and a lighted lantern can be pushed into close proximity without quarreling, he ought to be persuaded to change his mind unless he is bent on being prematurely fired into eternity.

Senator Borah of Idaho introduced a bill last week to strengthen the rights of individuals under the constitution. "The civil rights of the private citizen have of late often been challenged and many times wholly denied," said Mr. Borah, in presenting his bill. He says facts

In support of this judgment are at hand and overwhelming. He proposes a law which, by the removal and removal from office of any federal official found guilty of trespass on the signing of any false process and assemblage granted and guaranteed by the constitution. Disregard of the rights of private citizens have not been more disregarded, points out Senator Borah, who thinks it is high time for an effective remedy.

After two terms in the presidential chair, President Woodrow Wilson will step down and out and give place to his successor, President Wilson entered the highest executive office in the world eight years ago full of life and vigor, and now returns broken in health and stung by disappointment. History will deal justly with his record after a sober and impartial review. It will point out his stupor, short-comings and mistakes. President Harding takes up the burden at a tough spring, much of which will be reconstruction is still far from complete, and problems to be solved will require the broadest and soundest judgment. "One very encouraging sign offered by the incoming president is his determination, now evident, to surmount himself with a cabinet member of uniform large caliber and of special fitness for responsibilities to be undertaken. It is also encouraging to note that all branches of the Harding administration will function freely and fully. It is further encouraging to find that the Harding administration has given right-of-way as to have first attention. The Harding administration assumes a great task in public life, the unique task of reconstruction. The combination of brains, called to duty, will prove completely equal to the emergency."

Easter Draws Near!

Three weeks from Sunday you will want your Spring costume to be complete.

Are you planning on a new Suit, Coat or Dress—or all three? Or would you like to have a look at the new garment styles before trying to make up your mind—and try on some of them to see what really becomes you best?

We will be glad to have you come and see what the new styles are like. We have an especially large stock at this time—and will welcome an opportunity to show our fine display of Coats, Suits, Dresses and Skirts.

Our Suit Display Now at Its Best

John and Arthur are both on the road now, giving special suit sales. Express shipments of new styles which we send out to them every day for these sales are coming to our store from New York, Cleveland, Chicago, Cincinnati and Toledo on almost every train. We have had twelve shipments so far this week. All these garments are unpacked here and you have a chance to choose from them before they go out. You will see more styles here within the next few weeks than you would find in a large city store, as we have sixty tons to produce.

If you have suit on your mind, now is the time to run, while the suit season is at its best.

Welcome

Prices are very much lower. Good all wool suits of serge and tricotine, hie styles and nicely tailored are priced low as $27.50. We could get ever cheaper suits but our customers wouldn't want them. They look nice in a book or in a show window, but when you get a good look at the cloth and the making and see them tried on, you know that Wayne women folks wouldn't have them. But $27.50 will buy a nice suit, $35 to $40 will buy a finer suit, finer material, more trimming, better fitting and more elaborately styled. $50 to $60 buys our very best. But whatever suit you choose will have our guarantee of all wool material, good service and very best style. We sell suits in quantities that secure for us the lowest prices of the best eastern factories.

SPRING OXFORDS ARE HERE

We can fit you now in brown or black, kid or calf ox-fords—either Louis or Military heels.

Prices are reasonable for good dependable shoes. We never tried so hard to get shoes at lower prices as we have this spring. Shoes are largely labor and labor still demands good pay. But we did find a reasonable lowering in prices and we stuck to our plan of buying good leather shoes no matter what the price. We have good shoes for you.

$6.00 to $9.75

New Materials For Spring Sewing

SILKS SATINS VOILES

All the favored materials suitable for your best dresses and blouses are now on display. Foulards are always a great favorite for spring and summer dresses and we are showing a number of very attractive patterns in this handsome silk. We bought no two patterns alike, so you can have an individual dress style if you choose from our stock.

The new taffetas, satins and voiles are arriving just in nice time to allow you to get your new dress made up for Easter.

The improved McCall patterns with full directions for cutting and putting together printed right on the pattern pieces will make your sewing easier and simpler. The April styles are just in.

Ginghams
We took particular care in picking out the gingham this spring to give patterns and qualities suitable for all the different purposes for which gingham are used. For children's play suits and dresses we have Devonshire cloth that can be boiled and boiled without losing color. The patterns are the real children's patterns in this cloth excepting four or five which we thought would be fine for house dresses. There are gingham for house dresses, for school dresses, for petcoats, for waists, for skirts, all qualities and all colors. Priced very reasonably

Longcloth
A Special Value

Here is a real bargain in a longcloth suitable for dozens of purposes. Just a right weight for gowns, teddys, etc. We got ten pieces at a very special price and are putting them on sale at an equal reduction.

19c, 29c and 50c — 20c Yard

Home Goods for Spring Uses

Cheery Cretonnes and Dainty Curtain Nets

Come in and let us show you pretty new materials and new ways for draping your windows this spring.

We have made a study of the correct materials for these purposes and have in stock of materials for carrying out the latest ideas.

Panel nets are to gain in popularity and we are prepared for the increased demand with several new patterns.

Cheery cretonnes are greater favor than ever and for this season we have added some imported patterns that are especially fine.

Children's Shoes Moderately Priced

Of all the lines of goods we buy not a one has been so hard to get this spring at reduced prices as Children's Shoes. With leather lower priced, and so many other a good big cut. But we ran square into the labor question—labor makes the price of shoes, they say, and when you think about it, that looks reasonable. There is not any gets good wages. We tried several shoe factories, but the best bargaining we were able to do, we have managed to get together a spring cut of children's shoes at about a 25 per cent to 33 1/3 per cent lowering in price.

We have shoes for you at $2.25, $3.50 and $4.25 according to size. And remember they are good shoes. We could get paper shoes as cheap as anybody but we buy know how to fit children's shoes, too, and will give your boys and girls the same careful attention you would get.

Repairs made for International implements and other farm equipment by the Harvester company are the only repairs made from the original patterns. All others are taken from copies, and in this roundabout reproduction they may lose in correctness of shape, sharpness of detail, closeness in fitting and quality of material. These repairs are made for Deering, McCormick, Milwaukee, Titan and other International made machines.

Genuine I. H. C. repairs are made of the same material, have the same finish, fit as accurately and wear as long as similar parts purchased with the original implement or machine.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher.

The Crucial Time.

The country's reached an evil pass, and there is worse to follow, this crucial time, alas, is pretty hard to swallow. So speak the jays, in doleful bands, who grunt and grumble daily throughout their brief winged lives. But wiser men say that bitter times are just what we are needing; we're learning now to prize the dime, we used to blow unheeding. We used to spend our coin in haste, for all the "juni-juni" dished us; we're learning now that wanton waste is foolish, vain and vicious. We had to learn that much of truth, and heat the spindrift canker, and take our earnings to the boot, where seat and slushed around on squirt-dwells the village banker; we had to learn this sort of dope, and quit our where you are; I'll do the fussing with money burning, before there could be any hope of stable times returning. We're getting down again to tacks, we're rearing our spindrift wings, and you may see us hitting tracks to salt away our savings. When we are seedy, sick and sore, it takes strong dope to cure us; and now Good Health is at the door, the wise old lads assure us. The medicine we have to take may seem a trifle bitter, but what's the diff if it will make each get a healthy critter?

Flat-Tires.

I rode with Johnson in the rain, in his new 50-horse-power wain. The rain was pouring down, gadzooks! The road was crossed by running brooks. But we were snug and dry inside, and carried smiles three cubits wide. And then, kerplunk! a tire had to learn that much of truth, and went flat; and Johnson merely sighed and the spindrift canker, and take our earnings to the boot, where seat and slushed around on squirt-dwells the village banker; we had to learn this sort of dope, and quit our where you are; I'll do the fussing with the car." And out there in the tempt-wild he toiled around, and still he smiled. He seemed to think his labor, fun, and whistled "Johnnie Get Your Gun." And when he'd changed the rubber tire, he climbed in from the rain and mire, and grasped the costly steering wheel, as cheerful as a loosed cat. "Ods fish," I said, "is saint you are! Were I compelled to leave my car and tinker round it in the wet, my language would be blue, you bet!" And Johnson heaved a smile at me: "I've lived for many my ups and downs, and willed 'neath misfortune's frowns. I've found when things were going wrong, it brings one to shed a song, in times of sorrow and despair it doesn't help me out to swear."

The Priceless Thirst.

Some thirsty people wail and sigh because there is no gin; some day their costly thirst will die, and comfort will begin. A little while they'll dodge the coin and go to witless tremors to carry home a sack of hops and work out homebrew drafts. A little while they'll think it sport to tail the boning shark through alley foul and squalid court, to some sequestered park; but they'll soon tire of all such brews that work like his commands; that make a man take off his shoes and walk upon his hands. A little while they'll walk in gloom, and yearn for things to drink, and their restorers they'll consume, and many brands of ink. While yet this thirst of theirs endures they'll drink all things that link, and liniments and spavin cures will make their innards sick. But all things perish and decay, like roses in the dell, and even a thirst will fade away, if it's not nurtured well. And to these wights will come a time, a morning fair will come, when they're woful to give a dime to greet the Demer Rum; often they'll wonder why they used to widdy beer because they lacked a shot of rye to multiply their grief.

The Mucky Luck.

In Kansas, where I lived for years, the winters were a fright; the north wind came and froze my ears when I lay at night. The snow was always under deep, and filled my heart with pain and misery because I used to sweep twelve kinds of chaffing rain. And so I said, "I'll seek a time where winter isn't known, where there is neither snow nor rime, and his yards do not grow." And so I pitched my moving tent upon a sunny shore, where weather prophets don't come and growl, and Kansas climate proved, and sprung a great reform; and my blizzards of her berries ceased, the air was mild and warm. "The sweetest winter ever seen," my respondents say; "the skies are blue, bunch that could not wait at least a the grass is green, the jaysbirds sing all day." And on the seashore where I sit, the shore by long waves lashed, the old inhabitants admit that records have been smaller. "The coldest winter we have seen," these ancient men remark, "since we came o'er the billows green in Noah's costly ark." Add should I back to Kansas, where all the prospects please, the clouds would dump six feet of snow, and I would promptly freeze. Alas, this is the sort of thing that always has been mine; and yet I'm happy as a hinc so many things are fine.

Poor Humanity.

Sometimes I think the human race has very little fun; less pleasure than the brutes that chase and gambol in the sun. I'd like to be a bob-o-link and circle in the air; for little birds like this, I think, know naught of human care. They bear no burden on their backs, no weary loads that kill; they do not pay an income tax, or face big monthly bills. I'd like to be a kangaroo upon a desert plain, and leap and chace, they take no pains when hop back again. Sometimes sad thoughts like these I think, when life has made me hot; but some one shouts the bob-o-link, and I remain unsat. The lower animals I view, and think them satisfied; but some one slays the kangaroo; that he may eat his side. "I'd like to be a crocodile," in poem mood I wail, "and I would swim the storied Nile, and smash things with my tail." But crocodiles know little mirth, and much of woe they've known; for every critter on this earth has troubles of its own. But cats and wolves and grizzly bears and cows and birds and snakes don't publish forth their bitter cares, their little trials, will fade away, if it's not nurtured well. And to these wights will come a time, a morning fair will come, when they're woful to give a dime to greet the Demer Rum; often they'll wonder why they used to widdy beer because they lacked a shot of rye to multiply their grief.

Eight are Dead.

Eight men lately have been slain while rushing mail across the waste; to me such labors seem to wait; oh why this everlasting haste? Eight men are dead and in their graves, young chaps cut off before their prime—since some of them rave that mail must go in record time. The letters that the alarm bear with pain and misery because I used to sweep twelve kinds of chaffing rain. And so I said, "I'll seek a time where winter isn't known, where there is neither snow nor rime, and his yards do not grow." And so I pitched my moving tent upon a sunny shore, where weather prophets don't come and growl, and Kansas climate proved, and sprung a great reform; and my blizzards of her berries ceased, the air was mild and warm. "The sweetest winter ever seen," my respondents say; "the skies are blue, bunch that could not wait at least a year. Eight men are dead and gone to waste, their brave hearts stilled for evermore, because of this infernal haste that fills the world with fur and gore. The old time methods were the stuff, and all this madlin' haste is bum; our letters travel fast enough—they always jolt us when they come.

Agriculture Notes

Soy Beans in North.
 The soy bean, an Asiatic importation, popularly associated with the South, is making its way north, and, according to reports received by the United States department of agriculture, is being well received.

Most of the varieties first brought to this country were from parts of Asia, whose climate correspond more nearly to the southern states. Within the last year or two, the department has obtained about 300 introductions of soy beans from Manchuria, Korea, and Japan, some of which grow as well north as the fifty-second parallel. The most promising northern varieties are the Black Eye-brow, the Mandarin and the Manchou, adapted to a latitude of about 45 degrees, on account of which they are adapted to our most northern states. A large number of samples of Black Eye-brow soy beans were sent to northern farmers last year, and out of 551 reports returned more than 400 were favorable. Reports promise a marked increase in acreage in northern states this year. Seedsmen are laying in supplies of these more northern varieties but many farmers, if unable to obtain northern seed, will plant old varieties, such as the San. From ninety to ninety-five per cent of soy beans are raised for soy-sauce, and, therefore, although they are prolific seed producers.

Federal Road Building.
 Federal aid highways constructed last year cost more than double the average amount spent annually for 10 years in building the Panama Canal. The cost of the work completed during the fiscal year of 1920, including the amount paid by the states, totaled approximately $50,000,000.

The transportation department is regarded the world over as a record-breaking achievement in respect to the dispatch with which it was carried out. The cost, however, was only $375,000,000, and a 10-year period was required to complete it, the average annual expenditure being only $37,500,000 a year.

Comparing the magnitude of the federal-aid program with the entire highway program of the United States, the significance of federal aid is readily seen. Federal money allotted to projects actually under construction at the end of the fiscal year 1920, namely, $103,925,094, was only slightly less than the total expenditure of $106,861,063, from state funds for highway construction during the calendar year 1919. In spite of untoward economic conditions, the amount of federal aid business handled, as represented in 1920 by the number of projects, was approximately 25 per cent greater during the single year than all previous work done under the act since 1916.

Using Truck on Highways.
 Repair bills for damaged roads would be much reduced, engineers in the bureau of public roads report, after extensive experimental work, if motor trucks were designed to carry more of the load on the front over the front axle and less over the rear wheels, as at present. In the average heavy truck of today the body is nearly balanced on the rear axle. When the truck strikes an obstacle or an irregularity in the highway, the damage done to the road surface by the rear wheels is much greater than it would be if the load were distributed on both axles.

Given a perfectly smooth road surface, traveled by a truck with perfectly smooth circular tires, there would be no impact, regardless of the speed or weight of load. Since such an ideal condition is practically impossible, road engineers recognize that all factors which increase or reduce the impact of a load are of the greatest importance in highway construction and regulation.

The placing of the larger part of the load on the rear axle is only one of several factors which lead to high impact forces. In general, the increased speed of the truck will increase the impact, hence the necessity for keeping the operating speed within reasonable limits. Roads kept as smooth as possible by careful maintenance will reduce the possibility of trucks exerting impact and pressure forces upon the highway surface. Cushion or pneumatic tires also reduce impact and cause less damage to the highways than those of hard rubber, especially if the latter are not kept in good repair.

Respect for Congress Wanes.
 Lincoln Journal: There is no news in the report from Washington that the emergency tariff bill has been looked upon from the first as a piece of buscombe, which the president would be obliged to veto in order to sustain his self respect. Performances of this kind are frequent enough to account for the steady decline in the place of congress in the respect of the people of America.

Simulation a Common Game.
 Minneapolis Journal: Simulation is a game that is as common as it is difficult. Sometimes it gets by and then again it does not. Pretending to be what one is not, or to have what one does not have, is a sure way to lose and to bring retributive coloring sometimes assumed by certain animals or plants in their struggle for existence. The simulator is not to win prestige that is not genuine. There is the simulation of deceptive courtesy that has a motive. There is the professional mendacious whose tone and tale surpass in pite-ness the appeal of honest victims of misfortune. Sometimes even religion is used as a means of getting on "in the world." A familiar illustration is the professional agitator who, by his glib tongue and assurance struts up discontent without caring whether it leads. Not frequently the agitator plays the role of reformer, the professional politician that of patriot.

For Five Years Des Moines Woman Got No Relief From Her Misery—Feels Fine Now

"I'm so well pleased with Tanlac that I wish everyone knew its value like I do," said Mrs. E. T. Ballard of 1250 Locust street, Des Moines, Ia. "I have certainly had my share of suffering, for I had been in bad health for nearly five years, trouble in one way or another just about all the time. My appetite had almost entirely disappeared, I could eat barely enough to keep me alive. My stomach was disordered and my weight would diminish fearfully and I would go so short of breath that I felt like I would choke to death. I suffered dreadfully from headaches, and if I stopped over I became so dizzy that I almost fell over. My nerves seemed to be all unstrung—and frequently I became so excited that I dropped everything I had in my hands. "But Tanlac has restored me to good health as I enjoyed years ago. I feel perfectly well in every respect and nothing at all ever troubles me now. My appetite has returned and what I eat digests properly. My heart action is normal and my breathing is free and easy. The headaches and dizzy spells are all gone and my nerves are steady. It is a pleasure for me to recommend Tanlac, and every time I tell anyone about it, I feel that I am doing them a favor."

Letter From Miss Beebe.

The following letter, given the Herald for publication through the courtesy of the Epworth League of the Methodist church, was written by Miss Bernice Beebe, a daughter of C. S. Beebe of this city, who is at present under treatment in the Agnes Memorial sanitarium near Denver, Colo. The letter follows: Dear Epworth League Members: I'm certainly sorry and ashamed that I've wanted to thank you for the pretty plant which brightened my room for so long. I sincerely thank you for that and for all your kindnesses to me while I've been here. The cards and greetings have helped me so much.

I'm all the while having lovely weather. Now that I am beginning to think of leaving, I realize that I will miss the beautiful view of the mountains and all.

I wish I could show you some of the beautiful sunsets I see. I could never describe them. Last night about 6, the sky was a flaming red; the lower mountains were a deep purple and between the two colors were the white snow caps. I feel well and am gaining weight slowly, but regularly.

I wish good luck to each one of you and hope to see you all before long. Sincerely, Bernice Agnes Memorial Sanitarium, Denver, Colo.

 Decides in Favor of Farm.
 Drivers' Journal-Stockman: "I reached the final conclusion that farming is my occupation, and that the farm, not the city, is my home." Pete Kappelman, who up until two years ago operated a small farm just a few miles north of Des Moines, made this remark while on the market, looking for some feeder cattle.
 "Living but five miles from the city, we had begun to think that we were city farmers," the farmer explained. "A couple of years ago our entire family packed one duce and moved to the city proper, relinquishing the old farm. It was one of the worst moves I could possibly have made at that time."
 "After living in Des Moines for two years, trying to earn a living at various enterprises, even my son, who was instrumental in getting me to move to the city, admitted that our place was on the farm. It was not because we were unable to make a living in the city—but from it we were successful, if success is to be measured in dollars and cents, and our family never wanted at any time—but we just couldn't make ourselves fit in with the run of the city."

used in dollars and cents, and our family never wanted at any time—but we just couldn't make ourselves fit in with the run of the city."

Must Have Live Stock.
 "This spring we are going back on the farm, and I feel as happy as a baby over it. I am here looking for a bunch of cattle and some stock pigs to take back with me, providing I can get them at the right prices. Running a farm without cattle and hogs is almost like not farming at all, in my estimation, and while I don't intend to stock up too heavily, I do want enough hogs and cattle to eat what crops I raise."
 "We have already purchased a bunch of brood sows and have six head of milk-sows for a starter. There will be no tractor on my farm, as it doesn't seem like farming to be plowing up a field behind a gas engine while the horses are standing in the barn. Perhaps I am just a bit sentimental about keeping horses on the farm, but I would much rather use my corn for fuel for horses than sell and feed it to a tractor."
Expected Decline Not Landslide.
 "From all indications, I think we picked the best time to stay out of the farming business. It has been frightful—the manner in which the farmer has been hit during the last two years. They all expected a drop in the prices for their products just the same as other business men, but they did not expect and were unprepared to combat the landslide which swept down upon them."
 "The general attitude of the Iowa farmers is optimistic now where three months ago it was disheartening and pessimistic. They are willing to accept the new order of things and are preparing themselves for one of the most active campaigns in their history. Yesterday is a thing of the past and they are confidently looking forward to the time when they will be able to recoup their losses."

In a New Home or An Old One, Let Me Provide You With a

Borromite Water Softener

which does away with a cistern, and which gives you water that is absolutely soft and entirely free from impurities.

Yes—the Borromite Water Softener converts hard water into soft water, making it available at every faucet—thus eliminating the extra pipes, pumps, etc., incidental to a cistern and furnishing a constant supply free from the disagreeable features of cistern water.

The water is taken direct from the supply whether city mains or private well. The hardest water is actually made SOFTER than rain water. We can prove that rain water from a cistern requires two to three times as much soap as Borromite water. We add no chemicals and the water can be used for drinking or any purpose.

The system has no moving parts and requires no storage tanks, motors or pumps. All there is to it is a simple filter that is connected to the water supply. As the water passes through under full pressure ALL the hardness is instantly removed, leaving a pure water of no hardness.

A. G. Grunnemeyer

Phone 199

A. G. Grunnemeyer

Wayne, Neb.

The filter needs no refilling as the Borromite material lasts indefinitely. All the attention required is the flushing with common barrel salt to remove the hardness taken out of the water. This is a simple operation taking fifteen minutes' time once or twice a week depending on the quantity of water used. The cost of the salt at present war prices is $2.00 to $5.00 a year for an average residence. We show an actual saving in soap of 50 per cent to 75 per cent which will amount to many times the cost of the salt.

The cost is less than a cistern while the results are not to be compared. Think of it, you can turn on any faucet and draw an unlimited supply of pure and fresh water—softer than rain. The plant can be easily installed in any house where there is a pressure water system.

Let me also figure with you on your plumbing and heating, sewer and water connections, electric wiring and electric supplies. Remember that I am agent for the well known Laley Light Plant which is especially adapted to all needs for power and lighting on the farm.

The Early Days in Two Counties

From the Wayne Herald, March 4, 1897.

Wayne county farmers are beginning to labor all the fall and the wagon train is growing.

Most cattle are being fed in this locality than ever before.

The meeting was held on William Jennings Bryan Nelson.

The Fairview Horse company stopped doing business last week.

Ted Philcox closed a successful term of school in district 44.

A son was born March 1, 1897, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Straban.

It is rumored that a branch of the Short Line may be built to Wayne.

Major William McKinley, industrial president of the United States, March 1, 1897.

Mr. Harry U. Boland and Miss Louise House were married March 2, by Rev. Mr. Theobald.

The weather was extremely cold Friday. In the morning the thermometer registered sixteen.

Markets, March 4, 1897: Wheat, 65; corn, 36; butter, 10c; potatoes, 27c; pigs, 20c; hogs, 10c; eggs, $2.70.

Lambert Row went to Omaha to meet Mrs. Roe and child on their return from a five months' visit in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Clyde Dobbin and Miss Vic Knouse were married February 25. The parents of each are pioneers of Wayne county.

McVicker and Hood have dissolved partnership in the bakery and confectionary business. Mr. McVicker will continue the work.

Edwin S. Young of Syracuse, general Missionary for the American Sunday school union, arrived with his family to make his home here. He will supervise the nine counties surrounding Wayne.

From Ponca Journal March 4, 1880.

To obviate the scene a dust storm reigned this region on Tuesday.

The tide of immigration is evidently subsiding this way very strongly.

Reports from different parts of the county indicate that in a few days a large amount of wheat will be sown. The mail did not come up from Sioux City on Saturday, owing to the storm being so violent that the river was impassable.

Mr. Beardshear has his saw-mill north of town in running order. He has the contract for 20,000 ties, and saws daily about 250.

An immense number of ties are being hauled to the railroad at this place. The average is about one hundred loads per day.

Quite a number of buildings are to be erected at the Summit this season. We believe the Summit will be long make a thriving and pleasant town.

Captain Herring was in town on Monday. He and several of his neighbors had been expected to commence sowing wheat on that day, but the storm of Saturday delayed them a few days.

A. D. LEWIS

MRS. A. D. LEWIS

Newcastle, Neb., Jan. 22, 1920.

To Whom It May Concern:

Little Harold Pfister, aged 22 months, became seriously ill on October 18, 1920.

The family physician was summoned, who gave him every attention for seven days, the child gradually growing worse, and becoming wholly unconscious. A second physician was called from Sioux City in consultation. They agreed that the condition was very serious.

The last doctor who was called said cholera infantum and also said look for the worst. The attending nurse said he would not live three hours longer.

In this almost hopeless moment, a brother suggested as a last resort the chiropractors of Wayne, Neb.

In two hours Lewis & Lewis, chiropractors, were at the bedside of the little sufferer, who to all appearances was very nearly a corpse. Improvement became evident and continued. Harold had a fever of 104 2-10. He fully recovered after twelve adjustments without the aid of any drugs whatever, and is today in a perfect state of health with every faculty 100 per cent.

This we consider a "Twentieth Century Miracle" and cannot speak too highly or recommend too strongly the science of chiropractic, or the work and skill of Lewis & Lewis, chiropractors, of Wayne, Neb.

Any further desired information will be cheerfully given by his grateful and happy parents.

The Farm Wage Rate.

Sioux City Journal: While the labor unions are contesting even slight reductions in their rates of pay, the farmers of Woodbury county as represented by the Woodbury County farm bureau, have reduced the wages to be paid farm laborers during the present year to $10 a month and half the amount paid last year. At present prices of farm products, the farmer is not warranted in paying the high wages that have been the rule during the last two or three years.

Wage rates for farm labor reached their peak in 1920, according to figures recently published by the bureau of crop estimates of the department of agriculture. The average monthly rate for the whole country in that year was $16.89 with board and $17.69 without board; for day labor other than at harvest, $3.60 with board and $4.36 without board.

The farm wage rate in 1920 was $23.64. In 1919 the rate began to exhibit the first effect of the war, having risen to $32.83. Then followed rapid increases to $40.43 in 1917, to $47.07 in 1918, to $56.29 in 1919, and to $64.95 in 1920. These figures are all national averages.

The rate of gain over 1890 was 70 per cent in 1918 and 987 per cent in 1920. The rate of gain in the five years from 1916 to 1920 was 197 per cent.

This increase in the wage rate was one of the causes of the greatly increased cost of production on the farm, and which resulted in so much hardship for the farmer when market prices for the crops of 1920 began to decline. So high had farm wages become during the last two or three years that they were prohibitive in their use of labor saving machinery.

As an illustration of the tendency to seek relief in machinery, there was wide demand in this section last fall for corn husking machines, owing to the refusal of farmers to pay the high wages demanded by corn pickers.

With large numbers of men out of employment, and with industrial conditions not yet stabilized and in process of readjustment, there should be abundant labor for the farm this year even at the moderate wage fixed upon by the Woodbury County Bureau. This is the belief of employment bureau executives who are in a position to know.

Farmers cannot be expected to pay the high wages that have ruled during the last five years on the basis of present and prospective prices of farm products.

Watch Your Kidneys.

Inhibiting the function of reabsorbing and white lead often weakens the kidneys. That's one reason why so many farmers have bad backs and weak kidneys. Exposure, frequent colds and chills and the strain of climbing up and down ladders help start the trouble.

If your back aches, if sharp pains strike you in the back when stooping, lifting, or working; if you have headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, try Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy so widely used and so well recommended by men in the painting trade.

Here's a Wayne testimony:

Alvin Norton, painting contractor says: "I have been a painter for the last forty years and the continual inhaling of the turpentine fumes put my kidneys in a bad condition several years ago. At times I could hardly move or get around on account of the steady aches and pains in my back. I tried other remedies for this trouble but to no effect. At last I tried Doan's Kidney Pills and they benefited me. I kept on using Doan's and soon after I have relieved me. I use them different times now when I feel my kidneys need a little attention and they always remedy the trouble."
