ness management trustworthy and accurate news columns are good business. Let Tracy Ellis, an Indianapolis advertising man, answer Bishop Williams. Speaking before the better business bureau of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World in Chicago, Mr. Ellis said newspaper advertisements are believed by readers in direct proportion to the truthfulness of news stories among which they are placed. "Confidence sells goods," he said. "The newspaper which makes a determined effort to build up confidence in its news and editorials will profit through selling more advertising space. "Just as the public shops for quality in merchandise, so advertisers are selecting newspapers which stand high in the readers' confidence." Mr. Ellis might have added that newspapers that are "sold out" and "pre-digested" cannot win the confidence of readers. Chicago Post: The indemnity having been fixed, it now remains to be seen whether the goose can survive long enough to lay the necessary golden eggs.

School commenced Monday in the building formerly occupied by the

From Ponca Journal March 18, 1882.
On Monday at the Ponca landing, the river was frozen over so that four passengers were unable to cross.
The new passenger railroad lines are at a decided discount in these parts, about the only thing they are good for being to run up into stove wood.
It is reported by the Sioux City Journal that the fall of snow on Friday and Saturday, was the heaviest known at that place during the past eleven years.
Last Saturday the water tank building at the Summit caught fire

To Dispose of Censorship.
Lincoln, Neb., March 12.—After battling all day on the question of censorship of the motion pictures or the state by the board of three members or by regulation by the ordinary law enforcement officers of the state, the house of representatives late yesterday afternoon voted 51 to 35, to let the matter go over for final disposition next week, and adjourned until 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.
By the unanimous adoption of a motion by Foster of Omaha to vote on the Borka bill, memorializing congress to pass a federal censorship law. The Borka bill passed without a dissenting vote.
Would Amend Dry Law.

The committee of the whole killed Senate File No. 272, creating a state bureau of forestry and providing for a state forester.
The committee of the whole reconsidered its action of Thursday in accepting a committee report to kill Senate File No. 345, creating a state bureau of animal health and referred the bill back to the committee.

Changes Road Law.
Another bill advanced was Senate File No. 180, to abolish the present two-mile road improvement zone limit in counties under 40,000 and permit the county board to assess the benefits back as far as the property owners want the district.

Corn Held in Nebraska.
Lincoln, Neb., March 11.—Sixty-three per cent, or 160,983,000 bushels, of the last year's corn crop in Nebraska remains on farms or in reserves, according to the March statement issued today by the federal bureau of crop estimates and the state department of agriculture. So far as is known, the farm reserves of corn are larger this year than ever before. Last year the corn reserve supply amounted to 73,674,000 bushels, which was about equal to the ten-year average.
Reports indicate that 63 per cent of the corn crop remains on farms of a reserve supply of 160,983,000 bushels, as compared to 73,674,000 bushels last year, minus the state export. A year ago 43 per cent of the crop was reported on farms and the ten-year average is about the same. Last year's crop was much higher than usual and less than that has been fed. Prices have been so low that farmers have refused to sell. Some buyers stated that the cost of hauling, shelling and loading to market has taken half the price offered at the local elevator. About 95 per cent of last year's corn crop was of marketable quality as compared to the ten-year average of 82 per cent. It is estimated that 43 per cent of the crop will be shipped out at the current average of 20 per cent.

Stocks of wheat are estimated at 19,058,000 bushels as compared to 17,528,000 bushels a year ago. This is approximately 33 per cent of the crop against 19 per cent on hand a year ago, and the ten-year average of 21 per cent. About 72 per cent of the crop is shipped out of the county where grown, the balance being milled locally, used for seed or fed to stock.
The balance of the oat crop on farms totals 48,163,000 bushels as compared to 23,384,000 bushels a year ago. This represents 58 per cent of last year's crop on hand against 42 per cent of the crop a year ago and the ten-year average of 42 per cent.
Estimates of stocks of barley are placed at 3,564,000 bushels, or 48 per cent of the crop, as compared to 2,667,000 bushels a year ago. Approximately 35 per cent of the crop will be shipped out of the county where grown as compared to the ten-year average of 31 per cent.

Gary Generous in Spots.
Mitchell Republican Judge Gary, head of the steel trust, declares that there must be a further reduction in living costs. A few weeks ago Comptroller Williams wrote him a letter, calling attention to the fact that a big reduction could be made in the prices of steel, without denying the monopoly a reasonable profit. Judge Gary said that he did not have time to read that letter. Gary is just another of the thousands who right now are willing to reduce prices on the "other-fellow's goods."

In going to the court of St. James, we wonder what Col. Harvey will do with his large fund of inactive English, and how he will settle down to the management of diplomatic language. We can easily imagine what he would tell the British lords and others if they irritated his nerves.

If we did not have to seek wealth, we would be content with what we have. Evil would multiply, and society would become a pitiable wreck. The mind and muscle which have apparently sustained some of the last few years, is necessary to development, to orderly and proper social functioning and to contentment and happiness. Regardless of one's financial condition, work is a supreme essential.

Financial conditions are reported improving notwithstanding threatened strikes and problems of wage readjustments. However, the paucity of the serious question. Although claims have been increased, railroad rates to be losing so much money that they cannot survive without reducing operating expenses. Employees threaten to quit if wages are cut. That is the situation, and to measurably satisfy all concerned will require the earnest efforts of master minds.

The Sioux City Journal calls attention to a misuse of the word "identical" by Washington correspondents and explains when it may be correctly used. "Identical" is said to be all right to treat out in the course of diplomacy which seeks to show that two governments adopt the same action. It seems that diplomacy, treating the relationship of governments, has a first mortgage on "identical," "identical," which is synonymous, but otherwise employed, seems to be the wayward correspondent should have used. While the Journal is not a pedantic punctilio peano, or words to that effect, in the matter of language, it believes in preserving the purity of the English, and is simple, clear and faultless in its own direction.

Representation of women on the school board is eminently desirable. This idea inspired the nomination of Mrs. W. H. Morris for member of the local school board at the recent convention. The fact that the average woman stands higher in scholarship and that she is more in rapport with school life than the average man, understands and sympathizes with the frailties and aspirations of children, possessing fine qualities that are important in the rearing of youthful minds and characters, is a convincing argument in her favor. Representation of both sexes on boards of education is manifestly desirable. The archaic notion that women should remain in the background and keep their hands off public affairs is now, as dual as a wicket and hoop strike and cannot be revived without causing a flood of popular resentment.

The bank failure at Blair presents a pitiful situation. F. H. Chandler, president of the institution, which was founded fifty years ago, and which was identified with the growth of Blair from the beginning, is wanted on a charge of violating the state's banking laws. Chandler has so won the confidence of the community that people there refuse to believe he is guilty of any intentional wrong. They attribute his failure and downfall to warm-hearted generosity. He has gone, but Blair people believe he will voluntarily return. Under the provisions of the state, depositors will not lose their money even though they come to lose confidence in an institution. What a priceless possession is the steadfast faith of a whole community! How it should be guarded and cherished! The loss of money would seem far less important than the loss of popular confidence. The tragedy that may grow out of the Blair failure would be a revelation of misplaced trust.

W. M. Orr has accepted the majority nomination reluctantly. It is no snap to be mayor of a town bearing neither sufficient emoluments nor adequate honors to justify the task. Thus, the office seeks the man, and his seeking is often necessarily a drastic performance. Thoroughly competent men dodge the majority fighting as much as possible. Mr. Orr, however, was overwhelmed. It is a compliment to his standing in the community that he was so generally urged to accept the trust. A mayor is in a position to draw the fire of a lot of knockers and critics if he assumes responsibility and accomplishes anything. He can't avoid conflict of opinion if he has a backbone and exercises decisive judgment. A man does not relish having trouble without compensation. He tries not to create, in doing his duty, a varied assortment of enemies, and then want only to get to heaven to reap their reward. This is the danger of the majority. If he placed paid a satisfactory salary, as it should, a man would more willingly accept it, and more completely suffer the consequences of involved municipal problems and frequent spasms of ill will. It is to be hoped Nebraska towns of Wayne's class will some time be legislated into ability to pay its officers more nearly in accord with the importance of their duties and the weight of their responsibilities.

It appears that the finance committee of the house of representatives has recommended a cut in the appropriations for the four state normal schools and the state university. This reduction would be reflected in salaries paid instructors, and would include a sum needed for repairs and upkeep. The exercise of economy which is admittedly important, seems to be directed almost wholly at the expense of education. The recommendation of $3,600 a year for each assistant in the state general office, from $3,000 to $4,000 for each engineer and $5,000 apiece for code secretaries, contrasts sharply and discouragingly with the price of over $3,000 paid state normal department heads who have usually had long and expensive preparation and much experience. Education on which the progress of civilization largely depends, should be given the same consideration and support as good roads and other essentials. We must have good schools, if we are to go forward. The last few years have seen the teaching ranks reduced because of inadequate pay. Inefficient compensation makes dissatisfied teachers and dissatisfaction among teachers is reflected consciously or unconsciously in students who are to master the future economic problems of the country. Out of this spirit of discontent often comes the menace of socialism or other social ills. Let us pay the teaching profession in proportion to other lines of endeavor, making the field of pedagogy more attractive and lift instead of lower the standards of education. When the budget goes to the senate it is hoped that body will correct the error of the house committee and restore appropriations for worthy educational purposes.

Come to Our Special Display of Ladies' Ready-to-Wear

Friday and Saturday of This Week

We are going to have a lot of extra Coats, Suits and Dresses here for Friday and Saturday. There are several express shipments of new garments on the way from New York and Chicago which will be here for this sale and John Ahern is coming with his traveling trunks filled with fine Coats, Suits and Dresses.

These special garments added to our own stock will make up a collection you should not miss seeing if you expect to buy a Coat, Suit or Dress this spring.

Silk Dresses

You will see a fine display of taffeta and canton crepe dresses here Friday and Saturday.

We have them coming from several different places so there will be a large variety of styles and no two alike.

If you want an inexpensive taffeta dress in a pretty new style, you will find it here at

$15.00 to $22.50

If you want a very fine dress of canton crepe, mignonette or guaranteed chiffon taffeta, beautifully embroidered and trimmed, you will see many of them to choose from at

$37.50 to $47.50

$25.00 to $35.00

Coats

This illustrates a style of coat that is coming into great favor for dressy wear. They are generally made of the finer materials on the order of Bolivias and are the high class coats of the season.

You will see some that have just been brought out within the past ten days if you come Friday and Saturday.

There will be a large selection of the popular short coats and staple long coats at from

$12.50 to $35.00

We will have anything you want in Coats, Suits and Dresses and the prices will be very moderate.

Suits

It is a wonderful season for suits. It seems like almost everyone is interested in a new suit.

We think the great moderation in the price is largely responsible for this.

Now one can get a nice suit for just about the price of a coat and for spring wear the suit is generally more useful as a dress garment.

Nicely made suits of all wool serge and treficine will be shown here at

$25.00 to $27.50

These are good suits, full cut, well made and nice wool materials.

The finer suits that seem to sell the best here are priced at

$35.00 to $47.50

A few very fine ones such as sold at $110.00 to $125.00 last spring, are here at

$62.50

You will have a good stock to choose from in the four leading styles if you come Friday or Saturday.

UNCLE WALT The Poet-Philosopher

Government.

The cost of government's top position is a burden at the spring, and Jones, the voter, pays the freight and feels that he is being sung. Economy is thought a bore sung by governments desired; it takes nine men to do a chore that one could do, and not feel tired. The government can't buy a mule without the million of dollars; it can't improve the critter food, and write reports upon its shape; and sets report upon its looks; describes the more than a hundred clerks in its office; and forty clerks write down the findings of the vets. The mule would bring the little man, if offered at a farm or a sale, but when the state gets done it costs him half a ton of kale. And everything our Uncle does is done the most expensive way; with no one to help, and he will get on. Oh, you are Jones, and I am Jones, and we have business on our backs, and we have tired and aching bones. From tending to a beastly tax. The country for re-treatment grows, some pressing will to abate; also, my friends, are ones, and Jones, you know he pays the freight.

Romance.

When I was young I looked on Grace as being an enchanting maid; she had a sweet and winning face, her hair was of an auburn shade, and when through town she designed to chase, she made the other damsels fade. I asked her if she would be mine; but I was then an awkward clown, and other suitors stood in line, and some had wealth and some were known, and through long months I shed the brine because that maiden turned me down. All kinds of youths have flown since then and kings have tumbled, with their crowns, and little boys are now old men, and little girls are ancient cronies, and I sit smoking in my den, and thank the gods in fervent tones. Today I met the dream girl, Grace, and we exchanged some startled stares; she has flown in official pieces and medals in the state's affairs; and like a mousetrap is her face, and on her chin are long gray hairs. And sometimes when she saw me stand so fat and lame, an ancient skate, she thought her luck was simply grand, that she had dodged the married state, that she had had wealth, and some had money.

me from her maiden fate. And she is glad, and I am glad, that youthful dreams and hopes are dead; for in our youth we all are mad, and all our stars are burning red, and I adjust my liver and take nine pills, and go to bed.

Spring.

Now comes the end, my fellow-men, of winter, stern and bitter; the spring is coming once again, and my merry birds will twitter, and they will permeate each hen and cow and human critter. The winter has been mild and kind, no tempests rage, no winds howl, and the snow declines to treat us fair, or nearly; the frost king and his right kind were kept in thimble, clearly. And so we have no tick to make about the season going, but oh, our buzzards fly aching to see the green things growing, to skimish with a spade or rake, or do some such thing. The winter makes us feel our years, and fills our hearts with sorrow, and, though a balmy day appears, small comfort can we have, and though the sun's deck lull, we have a fear corroding that Boreas will come our way, his thimble goods unloading. To all such fears spring gives release, his fears—that used to bore us; we do not summon the police when clouds assemble o'er us; spring fills our jaded souls with peace, and places hope before us.

Dreariness.

It is a cold and clammy day as I proceed to write these lines; the skies are desolate and gray, no sunlight on the water shiner, and round my cabin by the bay a bleak wind from the ocean whistles. Oh, my friends, as this, I know, inspired all sad old dogs of yore; of such a day poor Edgar Poe embalmeth his loved and lost wife, and says, "And my dear Lin-wood, bewailed his Hallam gone by." And all the diggers men have turned me down. All kinds of youths have flown since then and kings have tumbled, with their crowns, and little boys are now old men, and little girls are ancient cronies, and I sit smoking in my den, and thank the gods in fervent tones. Today I met the dream girl, Grace, and we exchanged some startled stares; she has flown in official pieces and medals in the state's affairs; and like a mousetrap is her face, and on her chin are long gray hairs. And sometimes when she saw me stand so fat and lame, an ancient skate, she thought her luck was simply grand, that she had dodged the married state, that she had had wealth, and some had money.

The Discard.

Though egotism is a necessary requisite for a success, you'll always hear a plaintiff voice proclaiming bleak distress. The most of the egotists are of the same kind; pleasant grips; we don't send up our doleful cries until we bark our shins. We know this world's a good deal of a discard, and we don't get any, and so don't linger to anoint the velvet with useless tears. A better world we could not wish, life is its own reward; but there is one thing, however poor, who hits a minor chord. And while we sing of azure skies and blue and silver seas, he jars us with discordant cries of crime and soup and chics. We travel on a sunlit track and play the fife and drum, but he has read the almanac, and knows that storms will come. We see the bride and bridegroom pass, and boast their wedding rings; but he is sure that flesh is grass, and brides will be old bags. We sing of love and happy days, and dance upon the sward; but always there are dreary jays who hit the minor chord.

Home Brew.

My neighbor Blitzen took some hops and herbs and roots and bark, and brewed a fine beer, and he banished care that carks; and then he added some forty drops, with eloquent remarks: "There is no reason why a kick should offend me; this brew of mine is pretty slick, it beats the stuff you buy; it has the pep, it has the kick, the potency of yeast." He took a long drink directly from the pail, then uttered sundry warlike yells that made me shrink and yawn, and tried to whip the village constable and send him off to jail. The home brew artists have no luck, this mad and merry year; through straws or garden hose they can't get their beer out, or they get their brews—loaded on a truck and jailed for half a year. They've never seem to put across the graft they've framed so well, and so they get their blithely toss, and arch their necks and yell, and then they're seen, a total loss, in some punk prison cell. And having seen what I do, I feel the home brew sports this year. I do not fill my flagons tall with stuff that looks like beer, but to the hydrant by the wall my steps I safely steer.

Getting Together.

Hartington Herald: Various executives have been tried by various communities to draw people closer together, but none of them have been altogether successful. The fractional spirit is strong everywhere, and the problem of how to overcome it is, indeed, a serious one. To call the most effective way to cultivate the community spirit would be to arrange community meetings at which matters of common concern are discussed. The commercial club meets this demand to some extent, but its scope is limited in that it excludes the women of the town, and the women's clubs exclude the men. Probably some kind of a community center like the ancient forum where all the people could gather and discuss the vital questions of the day would be of great benefit and would undoubtedly foster the community spirit. For, after all, it is the serious problems of life that people are really interested in, and no lasting bond of fellowship can be built up merely on extraneous or trifling amusement. This fact was plainly demonstrated during the war when people united in Red Cross and other activities, who had never affiliated with each other before.

Back Bad Today.

Backache is usually kidney-ache and makes you dull, nervous and tired. Use Doan's Kidney Pills for weak kidneys—the remedy recommended by your friends and neighbors. Ask your doctor. Mrs. John Sylvanus, Wayne, says: "A number of years ago I had occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills and I found them to be all that was needed for them. There was a continual dull, nagging ache across the small of my back which at times made it difficult to bend over at all. I lost a good deal of much weight. I had read of Doan's Kidney Pills helping others and was sure they would help me. After using a few I was sure they were the way. One box of Doan's was all I needed as I took them in time and I have had no signs of backache since. This proves to me that Doan's are a reliable medicine."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills, which mention that Mrs. Sylvanus had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y., ml171

Stanton County Rural School Catches Fire

Thursday morning, March 3, the school house in the Elsie Sheck district in Stanton county was found to be on fire, the fire alarm having been given by a member of the Nelson family, who lives in the vicinity. Neighbors hurried to the scene of the fire and found that combustible articles in the room had been saturated with kerosene, and it is apparent to have been the work of an incendiary. The damage done the building was slight.

Pat Wiser, won two straight falls from his opponent, Bill Drity of Omaha, at the latter place March 7, when the two grapplers met on the wrestling mat. The same evening Joe Stecher of Dodge, Neb., won from Joe Olin, the Finnish wrestler, in two straight falls. Wiser wrestling fans think that in McGill they have a future Stecher.

The action of the Cedar county commissioners relative to the transfer of a bridge fund was upheld last week when District Judge Graves dismissed the action brought by the board of commissioners to secure the return to the taxpayers of $40,000 raised in 1919 in an emergency bridge fund. In 1918 a special levy was made to raise money to pay for damages caused by seasonal storms. Though the money was raised as a special bridge fund, it was intended to use the sum raised for general purposes to replace money used from that fund in the emergency. When County Treasurer Robinson refused to make the transfer, the board of commissioners instructed County Attorney Millard to start a mandamus suit. Simultaneously, a petition asking that the amounts collected from them be returned, was filed in the district court by S. H. Morten, W. H. Burnett, J. C. Robinson and Alphonse Lammer. During the time that the differences were being settled the county was paying 7 per cent on all outstanding warrants and was receiving only half that amount. Following the decision of Judge Graves, the commissioners proceeded to pay its bills and a large sum was placed in circulation immediately. Willard Schulte, who had lived on a farm in the vicinity of Bow Valley for fifty years, passed away March 6 following heart trouble. Mr. Schulte was one of Cedar county's oldest residents.

The Randolph-Times Enterprise of March 10, in reporting the recent tournament at Wayne, had this to say of the outcome of the Randolph-Tilden game in which Tilden won by a score of 21 to 15. "Randolph found the Wayne students and Wayne rackets against him. This attempt to put time on an athletic event that is supposed to be impartial, did not appeal to the visitors from Randolph. The Enterprise further stated that after 'Tubby' Bernard had been put out of the contest because of four foul against him, the remainder of the team was so tired by fear of making any more fouls that the best they could do was play marbles and let Tilden crawl up until the final score was 21 to 15.

Lots were purchased by H. J. Mancke of Pierce for the purpose of erecting as soon as the weather will permit, an oil service station at one end of Main street. The new owner says that the station will be of brick and that it will be modern in every way. There now boasts two oil service stations, one at each end of Main street.

The Stanton Red Cross answered Mr. Hoover's plea for aid for the starving millions of Europe and China in a donation of $750, which amount was transferred from the county fund. Pigoz has promised to assist with a donation of $250. Stanton county's quota is $2,000. The next problem of the Red Cross will be to secure a county nurse.

Dissatisfaction of Newman Grove patrons over the increased rates of the Nebraska Gas and Electric company led to an interview last week between the mayor, Dr. Frank Jensen, and a representative of a light plant. The representative claimed to be able to sell current at 15 cents a kilowatt-hour, with a decreasing scale for large consumption. However, no arrangements have as yet been made either way. Patrons hope that the rate of the Nebraska Gas and Electric company will be reduced or that a cheaper plant will be installed.

A bonfire in the yard of the home occupied by A. C. Roberts at Laurel last week resulted in a loss of about $300 worth of goods and the total destruction of the house, a five-room frame structure. The house was owned by F. Hopkins of Ponca. The Roberts family, residing with relatives, until another house, moved from the C. P. Johnson farm in the vicinity of Laurel, can be made ready for occupancy.

An Unusual Experience.

By Chas. K. Harris, author of "After the Ball."

"I am going home," she said, with a clear and determined look in her eye. She followed up the statement with the further information that she was seeking employment in order to facilitate her trip.

"You see, Mrs. Harris, like others of my kind, I come from a small town in Wisconsin, where those who had admired my work in amateur theatricals, had insisted that 'The City' was waiting for me and my talents. I arrived here about three weeks ago, and with but meager funds, I have had the battle ever since, representing young girls has had to endure when she tries to catapult herself into the big affairs of this man's town. I have been refused all kinds of employment wherever I have sought it. My eyes have been opened as to the truth and conditions, necessary to win success in New York. I am not a girl in my heart that alone as I am, I am unequal to it, and I am frank enough to say it is not a question of 'which' prior or questionable art, but rather a question of thought out conclusion, which has brought me face to face with the fact that I belong home instead of endeavoring to put through the strife. Frankly, I am seeking employment, as a singer, pianist, or stenographer, in order to earn enough money to take me to my home, where I have a loving mother and hosts of friends, who will believe me when I explain to them the conditions necessary for a career in New York. Thank you, sir, I do not care to accept the money without repaying you, and the only way that I can do so is in the form of a promise. I really did not believe there was one human being in this big cold city, where eyes are torn and hearts are cold. I certainly will, and you will hear from me in a week or so," and she softly closed the door with the ten dollar bill clutched securely in her right hand.

A few weeks passed, and Chas. Harris received a letter. The letter told of the girl's reception at her home. Her immediate re-employment as a cashier in the General Store, and that she would send one dollar weekly, so as to pay back the ten she had borrowed in order to get her to her work, her contentment and mother, and from this simple human story Mr. Harris has written his latest ballad entitled "I'm Going Home," which was inspired by the sight of a young girl, hungry for the love of her mother, and honest enough to admit defeat in her one-sided struggle.

"I'm Going Home" has its appeal, and the appeal is in the heart, where the young girl first felt the twinge of loneliness and insecurity, and remedied it by being brave enough to face the truth.

I'm Going Home. My heart is weary, mother dear, I've tried to live content and mother, But 'tis no use, I'm longing still, to see you all again. The big, cold city is so hard, For one we get alone, And no one cares just how you live, That's why I'm going home.

Chorus. I'm going home, no more I'll roam. I'm going back where the flowers bloom. To sweetest charms, my mother's arms. And where the birds sing their sweet tunes. No more I'll stray the Great White Way. Where eyes are bold, and where hearts are cold, I want to feel, one kiss that's real, I'm going home, I'm going home. I've wandered o'er the city streets, All tired and forlorn. And many times I've often pray'd That I had ne'er been born. Sweet memories steal o'er me tonight, I see the shady lane, My heart is sad, my eyes are wet, I'm going home, I'm going home.

"Flying Straight." New York Times. Mr. James J. Davis, the new secretary of labor, says: "Employers and employees have their duties one to the other and both to the public as well as their respective rights. I will endeavor to secure proper recognition from both of their duties as well as their rights. Whatever I do, I'll play the game straight, and expect others to likewise." That is the department of City and Labor, run with fairness to employers as well as workmen, not run with reference to groups of voters or parties to the nullifying of any constitution. The department will "play straight." Both the secretary and his subordinates will obey the laws and regulations and not violate or suspend them to satisfy their economic or social theories and prejudices. They will respect the law. They will not exempt, and persons who have broken the law in short, the methods of the department of labor will suffer a great change.

This is Our Case:

We think we are standing our full share of shrinkage in values and you can find us in the front rank fighting for an equitable readjustment for all.

It is an American to respect the food producers to suffer heavy losses and let others take gains. A dollar in the city must buy as much as a dollar in the country.

The following statement shows how far your money goes, as compared with former conditions, when you subscribe for The Sioux City Tribune:

In 1920 each full-year subscriber of The Tribune received 101 pounds of print paper. The contract price in Sioux City this year is seven cents per pound—and manufacturers are talking of raising again. Each subscriber, therefore, will get $7.07 worth of print paper for the subscription investment of $5.00.

Four years ago the same amount of print paper cost $2.20 for the year.

Have we not assumed our full share of the shrink ?

Bearing in mind that the print paper, alone, in a year's subscription now costs us $7.07 we ask you to consider other items of increased cost. Our expenses have been materially increased for Wages, Postage, Ink, Machinery, Office Supplies, Fuel, Taxes, and many other essentials.

In addition to the print paper cost of $7.07 in each yearly subscription there should be considered the proportionate cost of:

Producing the Finished Paper
Printing the Paper
Mailing the Paper

Each day The Tribune provides for its readers an array of news, editorial and features not equalled by any newspaper in the middle west. The menu, in part, consists of:

Why We Charge to Move a Telephone

A certain amount of money is necessary to pay telephone employees wages, buy material to repair the plant and to provide for taxes and other miscellaneous expenses.

We get the money to pay these expenses from the people.

It helps keep telephone rates down to charge for moving a telephone or connecting one up for service at a new location.

Some people keep their telephone in one location for many years and others move several times during the same period.

If those who have telephones moved or connected up to give service did not pay a part of the cost, it would have to be charged to the general expenses and the rates as a whole would be higher than they are now.

"Millions Now Living Will Never Die"

You May Be One of Them.

Strange, isn't it, if our old ideas were true, that the proclamation, "millions now living will never die" goes unheeded in every city—this now, and startling message is rapidly awakening an international leban. Prominent crowds through the largest auditoriums in the largest cities, and many thousands are turned away, unable to obtain admittance, all eager to witness and hear the evidence bearing on the fulfillment of prophecy indicating that the time is "at hand" when millions living now on earth need never die.

Thousands upon thousands of the world's most astute Bible students claim that all persons who cast by any means wrong along with the year 1926 will have a chance to live forever. Their matured and unanimous conclusion is based upon the same prophecies that enabled so many during the past thirty or forty years to clearly see and predict the coming of a world war in 1914, and subsequent events, the unanticipated fulfillment of which clearly proves to the Bible student and the thinking mind that the kingdom of God "is at hand" and "at the door"—and not a thousand, five hundred or even fifty years hence, but now.

Every family is involved, as hundreds in this city will be of these that will live forever as human beings on this earth, who will never die, who will build houses and live in them with no one to molest them. It is a definite proof of this message of glad tidings, which in accordance with the Scriptures is preached without cost and without price, you are cordially invited to hear.

Great Crowd Attends Soldier Boy's Funeral

The funeral of the late Arthur Hinrichs was held from St. Paul's Lutheran church Friday afternoon in charge of Rev. H. A. Teckhaus of the Evangelical Lutheran church, assisted by Rev. J. W. Beard of the Presbyterian church. The G. O. P. lodge and American Legion attended in a body, and the crowd that filled the church to overflowing testified to the esteem in which the boy was held and the sympathy felt for the surviving sister who had done everything in her power to prolong his life. Both Mr. Teckhaus and Mr. Beard gave appropriate talks. Burial took place amidst impressive services in Greenwood cemetery.

The following eulogy was read by Mr. Teckhaus:

Arthur Henry Hinrichs, son of Mr. Fred Hinrichs and his wife, Caroline, was born in Wayne county, Neb., 1896, in Wayne county, Neb. He was baptized and also confirmed in the Lutheran church, Dixon county. He spent his entire life in the city of Wayne where he attended public school. He took up the profession of mechanic August, 1918, he enlisted in the U. S. army being stationed first at Lincoln, Neb. Later on he was transferred to Lafayette, Ind. December 1918 he was honorably discharged from the service.

He came home failing in health, but nevertheless he took up work again until his physical weakness compelled him to give up. Everything possible was done to restore his health. He spent some time in the state hospital at Kearney, Neb., and also Des Moines, Ia., and finally in the warm climate of Arizona. But everything was of no avail. His doctors, being convinced that there was no hope for his recovery, it was decided to bring him home. And home he came, but only his body, his soul having departed his heavenly home where he suffers no more. He passed away at Kansas City, Mo., March 7, at 6 o'clock, leaving his only sister, Ida, three uncles, four aunts and many more distant relatives and a host of friends to mourn his departure. He reached an age of 24 years, 8 months and 10 days. We must through much tribulation enter into the kingdom of God. They that sow in tears shall reap in joy.

U. S. FARMERS' GIFT CORN NOW MOVING TO STARVING EUROPE

Fifty million bushels of corn, long train loads from every state in the middle west and the gift from American farmers are moving to Europe to the relief of starving children of central Europe and Asia. Carl S. Vrooman of Bloomington, Ill., former assistant secretary of Agriculture heads the committee named by the American Farm Bureau Federation. The corn is shipped first to great milling centers where it is ground into meal and then sent to the wooden ships commanded by the farmers from the Emergency Fleet Corporation. Wakefield Wins Honor

To say that the Wakefield boys "brought home the bacon" when they returned from the state tournament Monday with a silver loving cup would be expressing it lightly. Not only did they acquire themselves creditably by winning from strong teams, but they won by a substantial majority in the four games which were played. The cup, an emblem of victory, presented by the Lawlor Sporting Goods Co., designates Wakefield the winner of the Class C championship tournament.

The first game was played in the "Y" building Thursday morning with Bloomfield, and ended 24 to 22 in favor of the legal team. In the middle of the Bloomfield-Wakefield game a protest was filed by the latter team because the referee had called a foul on Bloomfield at the beginning of the game, and by mistake had permitted her to have two free throws. It was therefore reported that the score was 22 to 20 in Bloomfield's favor. A committee to whom the matter was referred called the score a tie for the day, but decided that the game should be played off the next evening in five minutes. This decision of the committee gave the victory to the Wakefield boys by a score of 24 to 22. The game was clean, contested and honestly won and there should be no cause for complaint.

Friday at 12:30, Wakefield met Champlin in the auditorium and the resulting score was also in favor of the home quintet, 19 to 8.

8:59 P. M. evening in the auditorium, Pupillon received the worst end of a 20 to 6 score, leaving Wakefield to enter the finals.

The last game was played in the armory with Franklin Academy. The contest was full of spice and "go" and the final score, 16 to 12, showed a hard-fought battle.

The eight boys were accompanied to the tournament by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Leuck. All returned Monday morning and were given a royal reception by students and patrons.

The silver cup was displayed previous to the declamatory contest Monday evening. Each of the basketball boys who went to Lincoln was introduced to the audience. The Lawlor Sporting Goods Co., who presented the cup also presented basketballs to the fourteen teams losing in the final rounds. That the patrons and students are proud of their team is a foregone conclusion.

The next day they met defeat at the hands of the Bellevue team, but the defeat came only after a struggle.

The first hit of the Bellevue-Carroll game which was played in the chapel, found Carroll in the lead, 7 to 6. Once during the last half, when only three minutes of play remained, and when both teams were showing their teeth, two field goals by the Bellevue team gave the latter the desired lead. The hard fought game ended, 14 to 10.

It is reported that over 200 schools and 1,684 boys participated in the tournament. Of these over 100 were eliminated the first day and fifty the next. Carroll was one of the fifty to remain in the contest for its second game. It was the only team on the bracket to do this.

The reductions made are far greater than any present gain in costs. On most of these articles our costs today are still above the costs of 1920. These prices are based on the best calculations we can make as to what our costs will be after we obtain the benefit of reductions recently made in some material prices and our estimated gain in labor rates and efficiency in the immediate future. On the goods above mentioned in stock and that will be shipped for some months to come, we are taking a substantial loss.

The reductions cover goods that will benefit most by declining prices of material, particularly lumber and pig iron. On steel we have never figured in our costs a price above the government industrial board schedule of April, 1919, which price is still the market on practically all steel used in implement construction. Therefore, on goods in the manufacture of which steel is most largely used, no relief is in sight in the immediate future.

GOS. 35 MILLS TO GET TANLAC

Iowa Farmer Gained 36 pounds on 5 Bottles and Never Exp...
"I've come eighty-five miles to get these four bottles of Tanlac, but after the wonderful food it has done for me, I wouldn't be without it for anything," declared Frank Mayer, a progressive farmer of Hamilton, Iowa, who writes from Hamilton, Iowa, last week.

"About three years ago my stomach started to trouble me and I was in a mighty bad fix ever since," said Mr. Mayer. "I lost all desire for food, and what little I forced down would sour on my stomach and fill me up with gas until I could hardly breathe. I had a lot of trouble too with my kidneys and liver and my feet got very swollen and all my work went down that I began to dread to knock off work for a month at a time. I could do no more at night and steadily lost weight and became thin. I had the best treatment and medicine that I could get, but I couldn't get anything to put me right." "When I saw by the Omaha papers that so many other people were being helped by Tanlac, I got me a bottle and it sure has done me a world of good. I can eat anything I want now and never suffer the least bit from sickness or pain afterwards." "After taking my fifth bottle of Tanlac I found I had actually gained thirty-six pounds and I'm so well and strong now that I can't do any more work than any man on the farm and I'm sure you need a great medicine and I strongly recommend it."

Tanlac is sold in Wayne by H. J. Carter, 212 N. W. 10th St., and in Winslow by B. & L. Meloye—adv.

Agriculture Notes

Better Stock Campaign—The "Better Stock—Better Stock" campaign is making substantial progress in the Grand-Danish model of the Grand-Danish agricultural experiment station. The same plan for conducting the campaign that was started in this country more than a year ago by the United States Department of agriculture is being carried out on the island. Local representatives to take charge of the work have been appointed in each district.

A copy of the following letter by Capt. J. C. Wetengel, U. S. N., governor of Guam, expressing his interest in the campaign, has just been received by the department. "I have read with great interest the booklet on the 'Better Stock—Better Stock Campaign,' and I am very glad to learn that this movement is being taken up in Guam. The improvement of the breed of hogs already accomplished by the efforts of the agricultural experiment station is an object lesson to the farmers of Guam, and the campaign for better livestock of all kinds should receive the hearty support and encouragement of everyone who has the interests of the island at heart."

A new road start has already been made on the island to build up specific livestock breeds. The agricultural experiment station has for some time been recommending the use of Ayrshire cattle, Jersey cows, and Red chickens. These breeds have been found to thrive best in Guam and will cross well with native stock. No other purchases are being suggested.

Perishable products worth millions of dollars are destroyed annually on account of leakage in quantity of the shippers in which they are packed. More than one railroad has appealed to the U. S. bureau of markets to find a remedy for this situation. An official of southern railroad states recently that in his opinion shippers should be compelled to use containers of adequate strength and proper car-loading methods should be exercised.

It is vastly to the interest of the shippers to use containers of adequate strength that will carry perishable products safely to market, and the bureau of markets has made many investigations and experiments to determine just what strength containers should be to accomplish that result. These investigations are still in progress, but the information already collected is sufficiently complete to enable the bureau to advise shippers with regard to the best containers to use in shipping specified fruits and vegetables.

For Cooperative Marketing. Four states have made use of the suggested law on cooperative marketing of farm products promulgated by the bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture, as a guide in the enactment of cooperative legislation. The department conducted investigations of cooperative organization problems in forty states, last year, and gave assistance to purchasers of dairy products, live stock, dairy products, fruit, vegetables, wool, cotton, tobacco, nuts, honey, and other products. In addition to this assistance advisory aid was given in formulating plans for a national federation of live stock shipping associations, a state state federation of farmers, and a federation of farmers' elevators.

Conferees were held with secretaries of state farmers' associations in Washington. A committee suggested set of by-laws for cooperative train elevator companies was prepared.

Inspection Service Needed. Claim agents of public carriers are quick to use the advantage of impartial inspection at shipping points and at the terminal stations. Many claims for damage to shipments of fruit and vegetables are sent into the transportation offices with little or no data to substantiate the statements. The carriers are loath to make an adjustment unless the evidence is sufficient to show that the shipment was received in good condition and that the damage was really caused in transit. Delay in settling claims involves the full feeling of the shipper and the carrier, and many misunderstandings and costly litigation are the inevitable results. For this reason the state department of agriculture maintains inspection service at the principal shipping points, and where this service is not available at the terminal markets, furnishes facts and statements of inspection. Adjustments of claims which are fair to both shipper and carrier. When a claim for damages to a shipment is presented by certificate of it by inspection, which shows that a competent and impartial observer checked the load into the car in good condition, and the statement of a record inspector indicating that the shipment arrived at the terminal in poor condition, the claim agent has definite proof that the claim is just, and an immediate and satisfactory adjustment can be made.

According to consular reports, the Japanese government has invested in Manchuria for the making of woollens, and to encourage the manufacture is loaning the machines to private concerns at a nominal charge. This is a new departure in Japan, where the cloth industry has been limited long to cotton and silk. The action of the government is very likely dictated by the prospect of diverting to this island empire the wool production of Mongolia and central Asia in general. Windbreaks Will be Needed. Washington Post: If Hank Ford insists on many more hearings, the senate committee will want to borrow one of his windbreaks.

That Chiropactic Lie Which Was Nailed

Affidavits of Abraham Rubin, Dollie J. Rubin and Dr. Paul O. Berger, Parents and Chiropactic Physician of Marian Rubin

AFFIDAVIT IN RUBIN CASE

When the news of the child's recovery was flashed abroad a storm of scientific discussion was precipitated. Anticipating criticism of scoffers, friends of Dr. Berger advised him to secure an affidavit signed by the parents. This he did, he signing it jointly with Mr. and Mrs. Rubin. It follows:

"We, the undersigned, each being duly sworn, on oath depose and say that Miriam Rubin, 8 years of age, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Rubin of 132 Gillette av., Waukegan, Ill., became afflicted with a malady referred to as talking sickness and from the time she became ill was talking constantly and continuously for eight days.

"That during that time Miriam Rubin did not sleep, but merely continued to talk. Dr. R. H. T. Nash of Waukegan, Ill., the family physician, was called shortly after she became ill. Dr. Brown, county physician of Waukegan, was called for consultation, and in addition there were called into the case the following physicians, specialists, from Chicago: Dr. Robert B. Peck, Dr. M. M. Johnson, Dr. Dr. Alonzo C. Tenney, 25 E. Washington St., and Dr. Isaac A. Abbott, 104 S. Michigan Ave., all of whom immediately made all necessary blood tests and examinations, and their prognosis did not disclose the nature of the malady, and they were unable from their examinations and diagnosis of the case to offer any solution or remedy for the patient, and during all of this time the patient continued to talk constantly as before without any sleep whatsoever.

"That on the ninth day of her illness Dr. Paul O. Berger, a practicing chiropactor in Waukegan, was called to treat the patient and found upon examination of the spinal column that the patient had two misplaced vertebrae in the neck, one of which pinched the nerve affecting the speech center of the brain.

"And that on the ninth day he administered two chiropactic adjustments to the said patient, and that after a lapse of about twelve hours, and during the tenth day of the illness of the patient, she showed marked and noticeable improvement and for the first time during her illness slept for brief periods, her temperature became lower than it had been at any time during the nine days of her illness; that the said Dr. Paul O. Berger continued to administer the chiropactic adjustments daily for about three days, and that at the end of three days the patient had ceased talking and the symptoms of the malady entirely disappeared, the patient was resting and sleeping soundly and that her present condition is normal.

"ABRAHAM M. RUBIN.

"DOLLIE J. RUBIN.

"DR. PAUL O. BERGER, Chiropactor.

"Subscribed and sworn to before me this 17th day of February, A. D. 1921. Albert McDermott, Notary Public."

Wheeling Intelligencer: Henry Ford believes the time will come when we will have synthetic milk. Where has Henry been all these years?

Springfield, Mass., Republican: An increase in New England railroad rates is opposed by the associated industries of Massachusetts, which suggests that the railroads reduce wages instead. It is probable that the New England executives, before they announced their decision, canvassed thoroughly the possibility of a joint appeal to the railroad labor board for special consideration of the New England situation in advance of a general readjustment of wages.
