Agriculture Notes

Soy-Bean Oil Industry
Figures on the importation of soy-bean oil, particularly from the Orient, indicate the possibility of a future industry in this country, in the opinion of specialists in the United States department of agriculture. So far as the census statistics show, no soy-bean oil was manufactured in this country in 1920, although western oil-mills and southern cotton-oil mills crushed both imported and domestic grown beans for oil in earlier years. The total quantity of importation of oil for the year ending June 30, 1920, amounted to 195,773,594 pounds, valued at $25,233,520. The importations as soy-bean oil cake for the same period amounted to 16,273,758 pounds, valued at $428,825. Beans were imported to the amount of 4,222,553 pounds, valued at $213,694. The absence of a soy-bean crushing industry in this country is ascribed by experts to the rapid increase in acreage, which has produced a surplus of beans, and to a large per cent of acreage utilized for pasture, silage and forage.

Confer on Live Stock Classes.
A conference of representatives of the various branches of the live-stock and meat industries, together with representatives of the United States, United States department of agriculture, was held in Chicago March 10, 11, and 12 to consider the tentative classes and grades of live-stock which have been promulgated by the bureau of markets.

The first day was devoted to a consideration of the proposed classes of cattle and calves. On the second day sheep and hogs were considered, while the third day was devoted to a consideration of the proposed classes with a view to outlining a series of proposed bulletins dealing with the above subject.

The meetings were held at the Stock Yards and were attended by representatives of the producers, commission men, live-stock exchanges, bankers, retail meat dealers, and the bureau of markets. Everyone present was agreed as to the necessity of having standard classes and grades of live stock, and with only a few exceptions, the tentative grades already promulgated were approved.

Pork Day in California.
Pork Day is one of the big annual events of Kings county, Calif. It comes in October usually. In this contest the farm bureau center is the unit, and every farm bureau center in the contest advances one carload of hogs to be exhibited and rated by an expert judge. Every farm bureau center must have at least six consignments to the fair, thus preventing any big concern from exhibiting a carload. In the contest last fall six farm bureau centers as well as a boys' pig club took part in the contest. Ten carloads were auctioned in addition to seven cars that had been in the contest.

The county agent leader says in his annual report to the United States department of agriculture: "There seems to be no more convincing argument in my own home than to see the actual sales of his animals take place and to know the difference in price paid for a superior quality animal."

Farm bureau sales of this kind were started in California in 1914 and the initiative of the county agent of Fresno county, California, has been common in all pork-producing counties of the state. There were 175 such sales in 1920, with sales aggregating $2,000,000.

Spent in Fighting Weeds.
Fighting weeds occupies about thirty per cent of all the time a farmer spends in cultivation of crops, according to experts in the United States department of agriculture, who recently have been conducting a weed survey. Special attention has been given to the best methods of conquering some of the worst weeds, and the following publications on their eradication or control may be obtained by writing to the department.

Farmers' bulletins: 610, Wild Onion and Wild Mustard in Spring; 822, Wild Oats in Spring; 823, Wild Oats in Fall; 945, Bermuda Grass; 1161, Dodder; 1166, Poison Ivy and Poison Sumac; 1002, Canada Thistle. Department circulars: 108, Chickweeds; 140-45 cents a copy, Hayweeds or Paint Brushes.

Department bulletins: 511 (10 cents), Farm Practice in the Cultivation of Cotton.

In addition to these the following multiphotographed leaflets on sprout and grub may be obtained by writing direct to Forage Crop Investigations, Bureau of Plant Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Leaflets: Eradication of Nut Grass; Wild Carrot; Crab-Grass; Killing Dandelions in Lawns; Sheep Sorrel; Chickweed in Lawns; Thistles; Quack Grass; Wild morning Glory; Bind-Weed; Honeysuckle in a Weed; Parasitic Sow Thistle.

The Wayne Grocery

Had a wonderful volume of business on its opening day April 2. Its long list of customers, coming from all points of the compass, had orders filled from this fresh stock and went away satisfied.

The aim of the Wayne Grocery will be to turn over its stock often and therefore keep it fresh and inviting. Only a fair, reasonable profit will be expected on sales, and prices will be marked down to a uniformly low level consistent with costs and safe business. Personal interest will be taken in the wants of all customers, and every effort will be made to accommodate and please the buying public.

New goods are received every day. Fresh fruits and vegetables are selected with care, and will appeal to the most particular buyers.

Remember that we handle Gooch's Best Flour, which is appropriately named, as its use will testify. Our great stock of canned goods has proven popular. Also bear in mind that we carry Superb, Quail and Butter Nut brands of steel-cut coffee in cans, besides Peaberry and other varieties in bulk. We can satisfy your coffee wants. Tip-Top bread from Omaha, will be fresh every day.

Free deliveries will be made four times daily. Let us serve you.

Which Battery?

You won't be satisfied with a car unless you are satisfied with the battery. The Willard Threaded Rubber Battery not only gives the right service to begin with, but keeps on giving it, and actually outlasts the battery plates. The plates are insulated—not merely separated. The threaded rubber insulation neither warps, cracks, nor punctures, because unlike wood separators, it is not affected by battery acid. Drive around. Ask questions. We give authorized Willard Service.

Phonics at Bloomfield Cut Out—Other News

Ninety per cent of the telephones in Bloomfield were disconnected Thursday evening following an action by the state railroad commission increasing the telephone rates. A petition addressed to the commission contained 650 signatures, and was presented in the hopes that the company would decrease the rates. After the action of the commission, a mass meeting was held in Bloomfield to decide what was to be done, and almost without exception the people of the town took the firm stand against the rate increase, stating that they would rather do without telephone service than accede to the new rates demanded by the commission.

Oakland townspeople recently leased fourteen acres of ground for use from E. A. Aisling and purchased from J. A. Sandquist thirty-five acres adjoining the leased land. The ground to be used for a public park and fair ground. The Sandquist land was bought for $7,500. It is expected that the city will buy the land when the proper time comes, at the present prices. Promoters engaged 104 teams to clear the park site at once.

A deal was made the past week whereby Fred Schill of Wausa, became the owner of the Olson business property in the east part of the city. The building formerly used as a rooming station—three-quarters of the structure has been leased by Peterson Brothers for a carpenter shop. Action was recently started in the county court by Robert J. Webb of Omaha, to foreclose a mortgage on the Hotel Harrington, which is owned by the North American Hotel Co. It is said that the North American Hotel company has filed an application in the district court at Colwell—Bluffs, Ia., petitioning for the hotel to be declared bankrupt. The company's attorney declared that the total indebtedness of the company was over a million dollars. The three hotels which are run by the company are located at Harrington, Hampton, Ia., and Ottawa, Kas. It is further reported that work on several other hotels in the process of construction will be stopped until further developments. The uncompleted properties will be sold to give the company a cash basis.

Prof. Conrad Jacobson was retained as head of the Ponca schools at a comfortable increase in salary. His patrons appear well satisfied with his work. The supreme court recently upheld the bridge tax imposed by the Sioux City bridge company, declaring that the assessment of the company on bridge property in Dakota county was in accordance with the law. The tax imposed, the tax asked by the company being 55 per cent of the valuation of the property. The supreme court contended that the tax was to raise, rather than lower rates. Mrs. A. Lundvall, states the Oakland Independent of Bend, Ore., has recently killed in Seattle, Wash., when a car, driven by a speeder, knocked her down, causing concussion of the brain and a fractured skull, from which she died at the city hospital in Seattle, before morning. It is said that the man driving the car had all effort to find him having proved unavailing. Mrs. Lundvall formerly lived in Oakland.

A community club was recently organized at Bluffs. The following officers were elected: Wm. H. Butterfield, president; Robert Larson and R. O. Brands, vice presidents; B. F. Eberhart, secretary; A. H. Ayen, treasurer. Committees were also appointed to look after street sanitation, roads, photographing the stock cards and the depot, shipping in ice from West Point, and assisting the treasurer in the collection of dues. Last Sunday several girls were unharmed between Meadow Grove and Tilden following the intoxication of one of the members of the party, who gave the secret away. The Newman Grove schools were commended upon their efficiency in fire drilling by State fire inspectors. The following schools were commended: Newman Grove, Tilden, and West Point. It required but twenty seconds for the high school to get out of the building, while it required about thirty-four seconds for the grade building to be emptied.

Modern county schools are being built all over Pierce county. They are constructed entirely of brick, tile and concrete. Plans include modern heating, lighting and ventilating systems. It is planned to make the buildings suitable for community gatherings also.

The mayor and city council of Stanton county have gained the railroad company's consent to allow the fier No. 3 to stop at Stanton. For the past ten years the train had been through Stanton without stopping. The new rule will be a great benefit to the town and community.

Should Rates be Reduced? Sioux City Journal: C. H. Markham of the Illinois Central system, presents in the adjoining column a discussion of freight rates, with reference to the demand that has been made for a reduction of the existing rates. It is Mr. Markham's contention that the rates have not yet had a fair tryout and that the basic rate is not too high if the railways are to carry through transportation. He considers that agitation for lowering of the rates is unfortunate, inasmuch as it raises false hope of reduction and may result in postponement of shipments. He contends that freight rates cannot be manipulated up and down in response to the fluctuations of business. He does not accept the view that a reduction of rates would encourage shipping and increase the volume of traffic in the nation. A study of the situation will show that the August increase had an almost negligible effect upon business. He believes that the "buyers' strike" for the general recession of business rather than the increase in rates. He asserts that business should modify its attitude toward the freight rates until shilway income rises to a point where a reduction would be justified. Carrying the burden has been fastened upon them by war prices and government control, the railways, says Mr. Markham, cannot function without rate expenses. Ultimately, he predicts, the transportation cost will be lower, but in the meantime the basic freight rate cannot be lowered if the country's transportation plant is to function.

Polato-Hill Philology. The Germans, in the days of their prosperity, demanded everything; now they have nothing. If a woman has had more than one husband, she is a little proud of it, and, if given time, will mention it—Old people are as a rule, ugly. But there is something pathetic about the ugliness of age that makes us charitable. How viciously and unfairly we criticize the famous and rich! And how madly we are all trying to acquire notoriety and money! I don't believe I am an indignant as I once was, I am coming to be livelier more and more that it was never intended that people should know much. The politicians are always telling the people that unless they look out, their heritage will be wasted. Their heritage is secure, and has never been in any real danger. The next time an agent calls on you, note the number of falsehoods he tells. If an agent does not expect to be benefited at your expense, by calling on you, why does he not let you alone?—E. W. Howe's Monthly. Fishermen to File Protest. Norfolk, Neb., April 1.—With the opening of the fishing season on Friday announcements were made to several Norfolk merchants by farmers living along the Elkhorn river that they are preparing to send petitions to Gov. McKelvie protesting against the oil deposits from the Northwestern townships, and also because a fishery is not constructed near West Point.

Bloomfield, Man Resident. Norfolk, Neb., April 1.—Rev. A. Vollenberg of Bloomfield, was chosen president of the Northern Nebraska Lutheran association at the annual conference held in Grace Lutheran church, which closed Thursday noon. Rev. O. Krueger of Orchard, was re-elected vice president. Rev. Bullman of Fairfax, S. D., becomes secretary, and the former incumbent is treasurer. Rev. J. Holstein of Plainview, gave the principal address of the conference. The main business considered was the proposed removal of Concordia college at Concordia, Mo., to Nebraska. It will be located at Omaha or Lincoln in all probability. Edition Too Large. Houston Post. The former publisher's printed seventy copies of his book on the war in which charges England and its allies with the war. Measured by the historical worth of this book, there was no sense in printing such a tremendous edition of it. Grief for Government. Washington Post. Cho Cho, the health clown, has been entertaining and amusing school children in this part of the state. He is said to summarize his health principles in three rules, plenty of milk, vegetables and sleep. He tells children to be in bed at 10 o'clock. If Cho Cho could talk, Wayne people might go to bed earlier and get up earlier, we would like to have him come here.

The election of two women for members of the board has given recognition of the sex recently given full electoral rights. Mrs. W. H. Morris and Mrs. O. R. Bowen have the intelligence and the judgment to contend favorably with men in meeting official obligations, and it is firmly believed they will do so to the satisfaction of the public. It is believed they will justify the confidence of people who favor women in official places.

Wayne is manifestly growing as a popular trade center, and it must be acknowledged that paved streets are one of the reasons for this. The bringing people here in increased numbers. People don't like to travel over bumpy streets, nor through mud, nor avoid the clouds of dust. They prefer paved streets. They will travel farther in order to land on pavement and be free from the annoyances of dirt, bumps and dust. Paving is a powerful argument in favor of coming here. The great thing attracted to Wayne's market Saturday night only testifies to the enterprise of local dealers, but testifies to the advantage accruing to a town with paved streets.

It plain to people who own automobiles that a man who is engaged in repairing cars ought to be required to undergo an examination and secure a license from the state, raising the standard of workmanship and adding proper sense of responsibility. Intrusting a costly automobile to the hands of some one who gives no proof of ability to master its mechanism or solve its problems and correct its ills is expensive directly and indirectly. Any one who undertakes to remedy defects in the human body is compelled to pass an examination and take out a license. Why should not a doctor of automobiles be required to meet certain tests before being allowed to practice? The licensing system would be a profession to competent mechanics as well as a safeguard to the property of the general public.

"Why should the spirit of mortal be proud?" The Lord only knows. There is no earthly reason for it. Even pride necessary to keep one from becoming broken and drooping.

ing flower takes somewhat of imagination to bolster up. We come into the world without our consent, and we go out of it without our consent. We come without anything, not even sense or experience, and we go out with nothing, sometimes plus a modicum of sense. We make a game of cutting a conservative swath, and then, falling to reform the world or make a deep impression on society, we hang around in a state of innocuous desuetude until time opens the avenue of escape, and we are soon forgotten. We should draw our eyes enough for keep-up courage and self respect, but not enough to make us haughty and disagreeable.

The largely increased attendance at the teachers' meeting here last week would seem to reflect appreciation of Wayne's known interest in education and its hospitality to visitors. The fact that many northeast Nebraska teachers have been students in the Wayne State Normal in past years stimulates their interest in coming back here. To many, it is like coming back home. The State Normal building is available for use without charge. The homes of the city are opened to the teachers at comparatively small cost. The guests are treated with kindly consideration. Why shouldn't they want to come here? At the conclusion of the sessions, one city superintendent expressed his opinion in this way: "I have attended many state conventions of teachers, but I have never attended one in which the teachers were better treated than those at the late meeting in Wayne. The treatment was royal, and the large crowd was well handled. Many beautiful and large bedrooms were available at homes at 75 cents to $1 which contrasted sharply with poor accommodations in Omaha last autumn at $8 per day. The service at the college cafeteria was perfect. The program was strong and moved smoothly. The meeting was an unparalleled success." We are encouraged to believe this superintendent reflects the feeling of most of the teachers who attended the meeting.

NEED OF GINGERING UP.

The necessity of ginging up and going after business as well as going after jobs is apparent to the wise. During the year, by having the armistice material and labor were scarce and both commanded unprecedented prices. The demand was as much greater than the supply that goods were snapped up regardless of cost, and labor frequently drew wages together out of proportion to the work rendered. Habits of indifference to salesmanship and employment were terribly jolted by the reaction which set in a year ago. Many men have been learning that business and jobs will not be fired at them from a thirteen-inch gun. They have earnestly seek both, and take good care of them when they get them.

Touching the depression from which we are now happily recovering, Chicago publication makes this comment as reproduced in the Literary Digest: "Business is dull, and the business man too frequently is duller. He sits in his office and laments conditions largely because he has become accustomed to a situation in which he did not have to be a business man to succeed. What he today calls hard times, before the war would have considered almost normal times."

"In fact, to many a man today, anything which demands work indicates hard times. The man who buys to come to him to get him for his goods the way he has done in the past. He thinks because the post-war world was a seller's market that a seller's market should obtain until the end of time. He has a strong habit of not wanting to custom. He has caused one chain and a dictatorial manner of transacting business.

"This is an error of the retail merchant as of any other business man. Last summer the retail merchant was busy refusing orders; this summer, he is busy getting them, or he is going to be out of business. My personal opinion is that this is the way it should be."

seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Johnson was fatally burned as the result of playing with matches. In the absence of their parents the younger children started out to the barn to play and Olivia picked up two or three matches from a table as she left the house. Reaching the barn, she struck one match and set fire to the clothing of the cat she was carrying. The flames caught her own clothing and she ran, screaming for the house. A neighbor, W. V. Briggs, ran to the rescue, but could not put out the flames before the child's clothing was almost entirely burned from her body. Medical care was unavailing, and the child died six hours after being burned.

Fight for Life.

Norfolk Daily News: While the mere fact that opponents of the Non-partisan league have decided upon a recall election is not sufficient evidence as to what the voters of the state will do when election time comes, it does indicate that the farmers of Nebraska believe the time is right to deal it a body blow. The last election showed unmistakable signs of a change by continuing.

While Gov. Frazier was re-elected the league lost one house of the legislature and maintained only a precarious hold upon the other. The voters dealt insympathetically with the league program as represented in referendum questions on the ballot. These are several reasons for this: Some of which are that the league policies have not worked out to the satisfaction of the farmers; the state finances have been demoralized and taxes have been greatly increased by experimentation in socialized industries.

Whatever the cause the fact is that the Non-partisan league is battling for its life in North Dakota where it has held its own for several years. This mere fact is enough to put the league on the defensive in those states like Nebraska and Kansas in which it is trying hard to gain a foothold. Tried and found wanting will be the judgment passed upon the league program. And even a league victory unless it is overwhelming, will hardly wipe out the unfavorable impression that has been made the situation in North Dakota.

Mr. Towley was no doubt exercising his usual sound judgment when he let go of the organization in North Dakota. The battle he fought out is a critical one for the league in North Dakota and Mr. Towley's recent retirement from active management of the organization in that state looks somewhat like a strategic retreat, a falling back and a decision to try to hold out in the north-eastern Wyoming, southern western North Dakota and the adjacent Nebraska territory this year, according to reports.

In the past the fields of small farmers have gone to waste because of the difficulty of getting threshing outfits to handle the grain. Often the farming sections are almost impossible to reach because of the bad roads; and when the roads are in good shape there is not enough grain to thresh to warrant moving outfits from one place to another. Even if the harvests justified the employment of large outfits, the distance between communities is such that much of the grain would be left in the fields. For these reasons thousands of bushels of grain are a total loss every year, nine-tenths of it being left on the ground.

T. S. Parsons, extension agronomist of the agricultural college at Lansing, suggested the remedy of the purchase of the community outfit; and his advice is being followed by the organization of farm communities to own and operate their own threshers. According to Mr. Parsons, the advantages of the small community outfits are as follows: The outfit can be handled over mountain roads where larger outfits could not go except slowly and at an immense extra cost.

The cost of threshing with a large machine is $1 per acre, exclusive of help, fuel and other fixed charges—about double that of the community-owned outfit.

Where five or six men live in a neighborhood own their own outfit they can cut down the labor expense by doing their own work. Their own outfit can be done when farmers have the time to do it or when it must be done.

The combination of engine and thrasher on one truck is especially desirable, being economical and practical for work in widely scattered harvest sections. After the threshing season the thrasher can be removed and the engine used to run a corn sheller, feed grinder or wood saw.

Small-sized outfits have from 21 to 30-inch cylinders, from 4 to 5 horsepower and weigh from 1,000 to 2,000 pounds when shipped. Their capacity is from 20 to 50 bushels of oats per hour and from 15 to 30 bushels of wheat. In addition to threshing oats and wheat, these outfits

Bill to Change Primary Law Killed. Lincoln, Neb., April 4.—The senate today voted, 59 to 4, to kill the house bill which sought to repeal the nonpartisan ballot system of electing supreme court and other judges, state university regents and the state superintendent of education. The senate debated only about five minutes. The bill passed the house with a comfortable majority.

Seven of seventy-eight bills in the hands of the Nebraska lower house sitting committee were reported out for general file today. The remaining seventy-one bills, under a special ruling of last week, will die in committee unless house action is taken to the contrary.

Among bills left in the committee were eight belonging to the "child welfare" series, including a bill which contemplated the creation of a state bureau under the control of a "child welfare commission."

Measures saved included a bill establishing chairs of homeopathic and eclectic instruction in the University of Nebraska medical college at Omaha. A bill making actual value of property the basis of assessment and taxation; a bill regulating procedure for state board of pardon, and a bill providing constitutional amendment on forest development and mill-logging the form and wording of improvement bonds.

Praises Marketing Plan.

Lincoln, Neb., April 4.—Gov. S. R. McKelvie has approved the marketing plan as outlined by the grain marketing committee of seventeen according to H. D. Luite, secretary of the Nebraska farm bureau federation. Secretary Luite quotes Gov. McKelvie as saying "that the proposed grain marketing plan of the committee of seventeen is an undertaking well deserving the support of the whole country, and I am proud that Nebraska is so intimately related to the plan." The Nebraska chief was seen to add that the problems pressing for solution on behalf of farmers and producers of the people "it means just as much to the dweller in Chicago as to the farmer in Nebraska." "Economy in distribution will aid us materially in returning to normal."

"I am glad to say that the committee of seventeen took time to study the question and called men of vast experience to receive their testimony." In his estimation, the committee has found the correct course—the central course, unprejudiced by radicalism or by reactionism. It is the house of progress on a sound foundation. It is very fortunate that the farmer has had counsel and leadership that respects the rights of all."

Secretary Luite announced that Secretary of Agriculture Henry C. Wallace has accepted the invitation to address the ratification meeting to be held in Chicago Wednesday of this week. Delegates, numbering from twenty-five leading grain producing states, will consider the plan and either reject or accept it. In case that the plan is ratified, a temporary organization will be made and the work carried to every grain growing state.

Nebraska delegates to attend the Chicago meeting are: J. N. Norton of Polk, H. G. Keeney of Cowles, W. F. Dale of Lincoln, J. L. Hull of DeWitt, H. C. Elmer of Kearney, H. L. Keefer of Walnut and J. W. Short of Omaha. Secretary Luite will accompany the Nebraska delegation to Chicago.

Business Progress.

Sioux City Journal: The American people today are profoundly interested in the business outlook of the country. Some who are pessimistic cannot see a light of promise. But others, who sanely regard the elements that contribute to business prosperity, have seen encouraging signs and are confidently building much upon them. The latter is the safer thing to do because it is the more sensible. There can be no doubt about the past; it is known. But as to the present and future it can be said truthfully that things have gone before for a much of its power to control that which will come. Otherwise, there could be no "new slate," no starting over again—exactly what the business people are doing and will continue to do.

There have been losses. The farmers have had them. Others, too. But these losses will not be permitted to operate against future gains and profits. As everybody knows, the farmers last year suffered heavy losses. Prices of their products declined discouragingly. Nor did they dispose of all their crops. In addition to the decreased prices, they had the further discouragement of a lessened demand. That means they have produced more to dispose of at the new low price, which means a further loss on last year's crops. But, as one big farmer and national farm paper editor suggests, it will provide them with "quite a bit of money right quick." And when the farmers have disposed of the surplus carried over, even at a loss, they will be ready to begin anew, will have the opportunity to produce crops more cheaply and sell them this year at a profit. The reduction in the wages of farm labor and in prices of equipment have helped the farmer to see his way out.

The Fidelity and Deposit company of Maryland, in its current review of "What Is the Country's Condition?" shows some interesting facts in connection with the agricultural situation. The question is put: "Are farmers reducing the acreage; these sections of the country include those they are reducing the acreage; these sections report there is no reduction. But it is important to observe that the acreage reduction in the entire acreage has resulted comprise the greatest agricultural states in the union. These states are, Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Washington, Oregon and California. The crop outlook for 1921 is declared in the review to be good in eleven states and sections and fair in others. In no case is the outlook bad or poor. That also is a good augury.

"The optimistic view of business conditions is strengthened by the reviewer's report that the cost of living has been reduced everywhere in the country, that there has not been a single failure of any consequence since last September, and that building operations are increasing in eleven states and sections and are rising in only three." Cancellation of evidence by retailers and wholesalers resulted, it is recalled, immediately after the first announcement a few months ago that prices were on the decline. The review now shows that in no state or section of the entire country is this practice being continued. And that shows industry to be healthy and optimistic.

The Journal is of the opinion that there is no excuse whatever for gloom. Of course there have been losses in many instances, but the country is rich enough to sustain
