Sioux City Woman's Suit Against Counties

Mrs. Emma K. Bionzo of Sioux City, has been granted a new trial by the supreme court of Nebraska, against Cedar and Dixon counties for the death of her husband who was killed in 1918 when the car in which he was riding turned over the bank into the Mississippi river.

Miss Mabel Mack, was also killed. Her mother is suing the counties, but the trial is awaiting the outcome of Mrs. Bionzo's case. Mrs. Bionzo bases her claim for damages on the absence of a guard-rail. The counties maintain that the road had been abandoned a number of years and therefore they were not responsible.

Henry and Ernest Jackson of Ashland were sentenced to thirty days in jail by Judge Heath of Dixon for stealing twenty-four chickens from a man in Ashland. The boys were returning by automobile from Warner, S. D., and ran out of money. They tried to sell the chickens at Omaha, but the buyers were suspicious and notified the authorities.

John Castiel of Randolph was third place in the poetry contest held before the auditors of the woman's federated club of Nebraska. The poem received honorable mention and was autographed by John C. Neidermyer, laureate of Nebraska.

Pierce held his second community bargain day yesterday. The first one was held four weeks ago and was completely sold.

Mayor Hammarstrom of Oakland, received a telephone call from Bancroft Wednesday asking him to intercept a 16-year-old boy who had run away in company with another young man who said that he was bound for Illinois. A few minutes after the message had been delivered the boys stopped at an Oakland garage for gas, and the runaway boy was persuaded to return home.

County Commissioner Shively of Cedar county has purchased three new modern road machines to be used on all roads throughout the county. A contract has been let with a Denver firm to build ten miles of state road between Hartington and Crofton.

The following teachers were recently elected to positions in the Laurel public schools: Prof. H. H. Linn, superintendent; Wm. McKinley Evans, principal; Miss Revie Johnson, English; Miss Rebecca Schenbeck, language; Miss Emilie Thomas, domestic science; Prof. C. H. Robinson, agriculture; Miss Geraldine Young, junior high; Mrs. Alfreda Chase, sixth grade; Miss Mary Fleming, fourth and fifth; Mrs. Guy R. Stewart, second and third; Miss Louise Savage, kindergarten.

The report that C. S. Harris of the Cotteridge-Blade had sold his business seems to have been premature as he is still proprietor of the paper.

The Poet Philosopher.

The corn and hay and rats, and beat off our collective frowns. And thus the role of gloom is worn by fellows who were made to mourn; their always miss the bliss and fun of larking in the genial sun.

The Pariah.
The man whose credits on the bank is known by all upon the street, and there's no one who will stand the town on future feet. He has frightened, hunted air, no tragedy fears by him enjoyed; he dodges here he dodges there, the wealthy princes to avoid. Perchance he is a gifted scout, the fire of genius in his vein, but he has worn his credit out, there's no welcome here for him. No smile of greeting warms his heart, no good shuffling down the street but people stay in shop and street and give him the blank and the cold booby hat. His children suffer for his sins, when to the schoolhouse they repair, scorned by the teacher's staffed there to welcome them for him. His wife has not a cold catch in nearly every state in town, when she would buy on tick some new dress, she is rebuffed.

So he and his, without the pale, dissonance hon their futile way, because he doesn't bring the kale to pay his bills on settling day. And it is strange that any man will wish a state of things endure, and be the village also ran, when there is such a simple cure. Let him not show his wife desire to pay his creditors their, and, nothing more will require to gain a footing in the sun.

The Peasimist.
The recent winter was the best that ever struck the middle West. The skies were blue as skies of May, the sun was shining every day, the breezes had the scent of spring, and summer birds came back to sing. And men of wisdom said, "Great Scott! This kind of winter hits the spot, so let us cast all fears aside, and take the gifts the gods provide. It may be we will have to pay for sunny nights, and sunny days, but while the sunny days are here, we'll sing and dance and never fear." But now were grousches everywhere, and every one who you know." Says another, "This winter was a doozy, I need cold weather now." They said with storm clouds looming overhead, we need all kinds of snow and a lambkin to the slaughter to the left, we need a different and more plentiful rain. This kind of winter is a flaw, a slip in nature's ancient plan; and when benighted with mustard plaster, she makes a hot break, she'll even attack us on still, for the health-giving and no mistaking. There'll be a blizzard in the spring, and it will wilt. Through the heeled glads, preclude everything; the fruit will wilt, ditions never are fulfilled, still in winter's breath, the bugs that listen to the fictions of the balsters should have died the death will skillful. Every next one finds me waiting with my checkbook near, and his prophecies dating long my soul of fear. And the healer, like a linnet, sings his note of praise: "One is born twice every minute, hence, my practice pays."

Helping The Along.
We can all contribute due to Old Normaley's return. If we do our labor gayly, at the end or the churn, if we quit idling talking and put on our boots and get to work, we'll be less knocking and declare how good we feel. If you have a job be thankful, go about it as a gem, like a fever with a tank full of gas, like a brand of gin; put some vim in every motion, earn your pie in honest sweat, and discard the foolish notion that you earn more than you get. Once he said, "When Huns are beaten we'll begin to put up hay," but the locusts they have eaten golden months we've thrown away, they've been grumbling, talking, spitting, charging that our neighbors sinned, and the country hit the ceiling as a consequence of their sin. Now we've got our costly shieldy, handed out our bitter dose, let us work and be less windy, if we talk let's talk in hope. Statesmen all will do their staving in the absest way they can, but the working land is Normaley will doubt and apogee who will fall the will. In tracks, let us cease to fool and palter, and get down to old bras tracks.

Sharp Ears.
The sad-eyed boarders leave their beds, and come to eat the breakfast steak, and they have tired and shell-fish, but they will still stay in their beds. Say one, "That Jones has stayed the night and robbed me of a ton of sleep, and if the pip is barked from my nose, I'll sleep, I shall not sleep." "A million cats disturbed my rest," another mutters, while he chews; "and now I do not know how to sleep, my mind is howling sad refrains." The remark another mournful wail: "I finally bent my head back and fell clear in sleep on such a night?" "It just was dropping off to sleep," sighs one, indignantly of his wrong, "when some men with voices clear before the door sung dingy songs." My ears are badly on the blink, I do not hear the night wind blow; and when I hear such tales I think how I am blind that it is so. The cats may yowl, the dogs may bark, and thunder rull along the skies, and through the logcours of the dark, I sleep in thought in a wize. But all the boarders poster me with sympathy, day after day, it is a shame, they all agree, that I can't hear as well as they."

Japan and the Philippines.
San Francisco, the make Japanese stately, big and dignified. Japan's interest in Philippine affairs. Within two days two barons, both former imperial ministers, have taken it upon themselves to discuss that problem should and should not be done with and in the Philippines. Perhaps this free-handed distribution of pills may stir up some more of the presence of Gen. Wood in Japan on his way to the Philippines. But one may be pardoned for a slight suspicion that it might be something to do with the conflict over War.

Gasoline Miles

Every gallon of gasoline is capable of giving a certain number of miles—but some give more than others. The reason is this:

There are a certain number of explosions in a gallon—and the value of a gasoline lies in the number of uniform and complete explosions.

Maximum Service Gasoline is straight-run and will produce more explosive gas and therefore produce a far greater number of explosions to the gallon. The explosions are uniform and complete. Little fails to explode and so go out past the exhaust or escape past piston rings to dilute the oil.

A gallon of Maximum Service Gasoline gives full value. It gives power and mileage and in no way destroys the life of the motor.

Monogram Oil and Maximum Service Straight Run Gasoline make a powerful driving combination.

Agriculture Notes

Violates Grain Standards Act.

Findings of the secretary of agriculture recently issued disclose a violation of section 5 of the United States grain standards act of the part of Franke Grain Co., Milwaukee, Wis. This company had a contract with an eastern dealer for No. 2 white corn. A carload was shipped and inspected as No. 6 mixed, was invoiced to the dealer as No. 4 corn. The secretary found that the Franke Grain Co. had received no invoice and correspondence, represented to the receiver that the corn was of a better grade than that shown by the official inspection certificate.

Shortage of Fruits Predicted.

The state agents of the bureau of crop estimates, United States department of agriculture, report that there will be short fruit crop this year. The shortage will be fairly general east of the Rocky Mountains, except in portions of Michigan, New York and Pennsylvania. The shortage is particularly to stone fruits, such as cherries, plums, and peaches, but also indicates that there will be a shortage of apples and grapes, though not as extensive as the shortage of stone fruits. It is too early, the statisticians say, to make an estimate of the probable yield of blackberries and raspberries. With the shortage of stone fruits it is expected that the fruit supply for domestic consumption will be limited in many sections. While considerable frost damage has occurred in some parts of California, the general outlook for domestic fruits on the Pacific slope is still regarded as good.

Penalty for Game Law Violators.

The federal migratory bird treaty act. Federal Judge Jacob Tridway, at Little Rock, Ark., imposed maximum penalties on John Hardy and Nick Garms, at the May term of court. Hardy was fined $200, while Garms was sentenced to six months in jail and assessed a fine of $50. It was alleged that both of the accused were being lawless in federal traffic in wild ducks. Both had previously been arraigned in federal court for violation of the game laws.

Watch Tame Gopher Demstrate.

There's one animal that would be mighty unpopular if he ever left civilization and his free board and kept and went back to his fellows. That's the obnoxious little pocket gopher that traipses with Leo K. Couch, of the bureau of biological survey, United States department of agriculture, who giving the cause of demonstrations out West on how to trap and poison pocket gophers.

This little rascal, whether he has no choice in the matter or because he likes the government fare of carrots, potatoes, and parsnips, divulges the actual working methods of his kinmen. Who's the cause of the demonstration, he is taken from his cage. He sets to work, unabashed by the spectators, and gives a first-hand exhibition of how a gopher makes a tunnel. Then he shows how the mound is made and the entrance to it stopped up. The keeper then digs him out, places him back in the cage, and proceeds to his explanation of how to set traps and where to place bait to destroy his mischievous brethren.

Five Pictures of Live Stock.

In response to a general demand for illustrated material to be used in connection with the "Better Stock-Better Stock" campaign, the United States department of agriculture, through the bureau of animal industry, is preparing a series of live-stock pictures to be available for exhibit purposes and for distribution to agricultural high schools, farm bureaus, banks in rural districts, county agents, and breeders' associations. The pictures are halftone reproductions of photographs, and are approximately 11 by 14 inches, including the frame, which will be printed as a part of the picture, and thus make a neat finished job.

At present ten pictures are planned for the series. The first picture as the live-stock improvement series of the "Better Stock-Better Stock" campaign. The first picture in the series shows a community picnic at which fifteen Jersey cows are being judged. All the cows are from accredited herds, thus giving the best-of-double interest. Other pictures in the series will show beef cattle, horses, swine, sheep and poultry. It is expected that several of the illustrations will be ready for distribution by July.

Hog and Cotton Prices.

The average price received by producers of the United States for hogs during April fell below $2 per 100 pounds for the first time since March, 1916, according to a report of the bureau of crop estimates, United States department of agriculture. The average price for April reached the low mark of $7.60. The highest price reached at any time was during August, 1919, when the average was $11.30 per 100 pounds. Prices rose and fell more or less steadily from 1916 to 1919, then took a rather rapid drop during the latter part of 1919. During 1920 the average price for each month was below $10, with the lowest in December, when it dropped to about $7.11. The price which producers received for cotton seed reached the lowest mark in April since November,

Danger in Delay

Remember the coal shortage of 1919-20, and take no chances this year when the outlook for supplies is considered even less favorable than it was then.

A report states: "The only time in recent years, except during the miners' strike, when the production and transportation of coal were anywhere near so small as they are now was early in 1919. The situation now, however, is much more threatening than then. Not only is less coal being produced than then, but the country entered the year 1919 with a storage supply of about 59,000,000 tons, the largest amount ever on hand at the beginning of a year, while it entered the year 1921 with comparatively small storage supplies."

By Samuel Dunn, Editor Railway Age.

Coal cannot be cheaper with existing mining wages and freight rates. There is no immediate prospect of a reduction of either. Coal cannot be stored at the mines, nor can dealers store enough to protect this community.

Admiral Benson's Remedy. New York Tribune: Admiral Benson's plan to man American mail-carrying ships with naval and naval reserves crews in case of a group is sound. The government is responble for continuity of mail service. When a railroad strike in Chicago held up the mails President Cleveland sent troops into Illinois to force resumption of service, in spite of the protest of Gov. John P. Altgeld. It is certainly within the competency of the government to keep the ocean mail carriers going by the same means.

BALD HEAD HELPS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

Stansbury Zysko, active member of the world who for twenty years has been in the hands of the American not game, had to wait until he was an old man to win the title. "Thanks to his bald head."

He took the championship from Straighter Lewis New York last week through one of the most unique situations in the history of the sport. After twenty-three minutes of lightning work, Lewis made a flying leap at the forty-seven-year-old. In the attempt to catch Lewis in his famous headlocks, Zysko's head and face were slipping over and off the ground. Slipping under him, Lewis could recover. Zysko was on top of him with a winning stock-block.

Annual Banquet Held at Wayne State Normal

The banquet at the Wayne State Normal and their spouses, Prof. and Mrs. E. J. Hutzinger, entertained the seniors, Prof. and Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis and Miss Martha Dewey, and President and Mrs. U. S. Conn at the annual banquet in the canteen Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. The decorations in the canteen were green and white, very unique. A small aeroplane hung from the center of the ceiling was kept in constant motion. Myriads of small butterflies were strung from one light to another. The table decorations carried out the same color scheme. A menu of sophisticated dishes served the three-course dinner. Jay Muhn, president of the junior class acted as toastmaster and presided over the introduction of the other speakers with the toast, "The Lark Stage." Merle Miller, president of the senior class, responded with "The Pupa Stage." Helen Reynolds, the next speaker, and of "The Butterfly" and Prof. J. G. W. Lewis of "The Aeroplane." Marjorie Miller spoke on "Early Development" and Raymond Hoff on "Progress." Prof. E. J. Hutzinger responded with the toast, "If We Rest, We Rust." President Conn closed the speeches with "Our School a Land of Peace in Civilization."

Old-Time Printer on Way to Seattle, Wash.

An old-time printer, giving his name as F. E. Rogers and his age as 79, was an early Monday morning caller at the Herald office. He said he was walking on a wagon from Miami, Fla., to Seattle, Wash., a distance of 3,800. If he makes the trip in 150 days he is to receive $2,000 and national fame. Miami—Where he resided—Wayne, he had traveled 1,050 miles and had been on the way sixty-nine days. In order to properly observe the destination of his printer's business, he had in mind, Rogers, started without any money. This old-timer says he learned the printer's trade sixty-one years ago at Lowell, Mass. In 1889 he worked on the Marion Star, owned by President Warren C. Harding. Rogers says his intended journey has no resemblance to the printing business that old-fashioned printers like himself, had themselves out of commission many of the time.

In his journeying through Oklahoma, he had one experience which seemed to weigh somewhat on his mind. He met a man who was rich but a terrible rickler. He decided to offer him as a rare bargain a pair of spectacles that cost eight cents and sold for $5. The sale was for only $4.50. When his conscience accused him of profiteering, he defends himself on the ground that the Oklahoma man was suffering from chronic grouch and deserved to pay high for what he got.

(An Explanation.)
To the Herald.

It has been the custom in Wayne to hold the baccalaureate services for the graduating class of the high school in the evening and all the churches of the city have united for the occasion. This year, as the graduation exercises of the high school and of the Wayne State Normal occur in the same week it became necessary to make other arrangements. Sunday evening, May 22, had been pre-empted by the Normal. The high school, therefore, arranged the baccalaureate for Sunday morning, at 10 o'clock in the Presbyterian and Baptist churches. Unfortunately this action was taken without consulting the Ministerial association as a body, or the individual ministers of the local churches. It is not surprising that the fact that a service at 11 o'clock interfered seriously with the Sunday school hour of the Presbyterian and Baptist churches, was overlooked. The fact that a morning baccalaureate would interfere with the normal service of morning worship was also disregarded. After all the arrangements had been made the superintendent of schools called on and requested the other churches to unite in the service. While the undersigned desire to be as helpful as possible and as ready to cooperate in any community service or school function as possible, we feel that we cannot, in fairness to our own work, write in this meeting. We therefore would like to submit the plans to the Ministerial association or to the churches that are asked to con-

Business Men Organize.
Stanton, Neb., May 18.—The Stanton business men's club has been organized here and regular noon day luncheons will be made a permanent affair.

Dr. W. R. Peters was elected president; Attorney D. C. Chase, vice president, and F. H. Shultz, secretary-treasurer. The chair appointed the following committee of three to arrange for by-laws, constitution, and any other details which might come up: W. P. Cowan, George Eberly, and E. O. Collins.

During the discussions following the luncheon it was decided to have a big celebration at Stanton July 4. A committee of five was named to make arrangements for the day. Mr. or L. Collins, Fred Shlobinsky, J. E. Hicks, C. G. Deines and Henry J. Shultz.

Much enthusiasm is being displayed at the mid-day lunch of the business men.

Confidence Maintained.
Drovers' Journal—Stockman:
The confident and even helpful attitude of the farmers and stockmen banking institutions of the country during the period of readjustment has been a potent force in maintaining the morale of the people through the times of depression and discouragement. Lending bankers have not lost any of this confidence and the Northwestern National Bank Review of Minneapolis points out optimistically that the "financial ability of the country to go through the deflation and readjustment processes is indicated by the fact that without causing anything more serious than scattered minor troubles, the total deposits of the country's national banks have decreased a billion and a half in a year. What check if any to this downward tendency has been called for by the present process is indicated by the fact that the office of the controller of the currency will show, or whether further decline will appear, cannot yet be told. Interest rates remain unchanged despite some expectation earlier in the year that by this time there would be some reductions. Retail credit is so well in volume, general conditions considered, nor have there been decreases of any consequence in savings deposits."

I noticed the trouble, mostly when I awoke cold and it settled on my kidneys. I have felt the excruciations to pass too often. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills helping others and was led to try them. It didn't take a full box of Doan's to relieve me. I have been bothered several times since but a few Doan's have always fixed me up again in a day or so."

Why Paint is Like Eggs:

Fresh eggs are good eggs. The older the eggs the greater the deterioration. The same thing holds true of paint. Fresh paint is better paint—if it has stood too long on the dealer's shelves it is liable to play tricks on the job. You are certain that Bradley & Vrooman House Paint is strictly fresh because you combine the coloring matter with the liquid base at the time you use it. This is the famous patented Base & Tinter System, exclusive with this store.
