It is believed that restoration of pre-war relations with Germany will materially aid in building up world trade and restoring world plenty and prosperity.

George Harvey's lack of tact is accentuated by his great ability and power of expression. He is a master of phraseology, but is not a master of diplomacy, as evidenced by his recent London speech.

Strict application to any task with a view to success is reasonably sure to win material, no matter what one's occupation may be, and he will succeed if he is not lacking in earnestness and energy.

Towns that have repeated cooperative bargain day events have been well satisfied with results. Efforts to prolong such days each month, however, are not to be recommended, and a further desire to have such business situations at regular intervals.

As long as all people are not attended by nature to an exact and proper mean between dead conservatism and dangerous radicalism, it is good for society that neither extreme philosophy predominates. If ultra-conservative and ultra-radicalism, we would make no progress. If radicals were unchecked, we would hit the rocks of indirection and go to pieces.

We would suggest that the Wayne board of education by electric globe of stronger power for the high school auditorium. People who visit and place Friday night to see the entertainment must have been reminded of the period when candles were in vogue. As one feels around to get somewhere or find some one in the auditorium, the knowledge that there are no more lights to turn on is startling and painful.

While Chas. W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, may be considered somewhat old-fashioned, he has lived a long time, has had a wealth of experience and society may often profit by his suggestions. Dr. Eliot stresses the need of a frugeness—and more courtesy—and while the world is moving too fast to stop for much ceremony, we should not neglect the need of civility and tend to cultivate respect. Touching the subject, Dr. Eliot is quoted as follows among other things: "There has been a quite general change of manners, the courtesying of greetings and goodbyes, for instance. The commonest salutation, whether in conversation or in the telephone, which I nowadays hear is, 'Hello, Ben,' or 'Jack, hello.' Unheard of in my youth, x x x x I also noticed that my young women always expect to encounter rudeness from young men, and that they don't much regret that. For instance, in my time, it would have been an extreme rudeness for a man to take a girl to drive and smoke a cigar on the way; in fact, by my time I never saw such a thing done or attempted except by down-right roudies."

Present day graduating exercises against slavery and favorably with old-time commencement programs, when older generations graduated, they were required to prepare and deliver a paper on the subject of slavery. These orations were shot off in their entirety, and of course, the night, and large audiences prepared and delivered through the seemingly interminable siege. And audiences in those earlier periods were no more desirous of punishment than are audiences of today. Now one speaks, with a timely message, gives the commencement address, and the exercises of significance is worn out. This change is notable and welcome improvement.

Memorial day, an appropriate outgrowth of the Civil war, revives memory of all American wars and the patriotic services of all American soldiers. The ranks of Civil war veterans have rapidly thinned, during late years, and the comparatively few who remain show the infirmities of advanced age. It will not be long until none will be left to participate in the annual Memorial observance. It is proper for younger war survivors to take the lead in the observance, taking the lead in carrying out the sacred purpose of the holiday, and pay the necessary of earnest and reverent effort. Flowers that will decorate soldier graves and the eulogies that will glorify the Memorial day will express a nation's love and gratitude.

The state normal and high school will conclude another year this week, and today new groups will graduate with honor from the two institutions. Hard work has made acquisition of skills possible, and careful hard work will make later success possible. Education will facilitate achievement, but not eliminate the necessity of earnest and persevering effort. Graduates of each institution may well stick a peg at this juncture and give it all they can get, using knowledge gained to every possible advantage, but not leaning too heavily on it as a license for getting something for nothing. If the west are useless without irrigation. Touched with water, they blossom luxuriantly and become good crops. If the west are useless without irrigation. Touched with water, they blossom luxuriantly and become good crops. If the west are useless without irrigation. Touched with water, they blossom luxuriantly and become good crops.

We have heard much more usually you run men whose expense does not run back far—that times were never so hard as they have been during the past year. This is a view dispelled by the recollection of those who went through the period from 1893 to 1897. At that time labor was selling for nothing, and demand at ten cents and less per bushel. A review of markets published in the early days of the war shows a level of prices then prevailing. The most serious objection to present times rests on the fact that some things are sold at a profit in proportion to others, and an adjustment of values by opening markets and reviving credits is the intricate problem to be worked out. This will of course be done. But it cannot be accomplished by a wave of the hand or a stroke of the pen. It will take a little patience, a good deal of courage and a lot of hard work.

A Nebraska Woman in Portugal Writes Home

Mrs. Clark Hagenbuch, sister of Miss Elsie Ford Piper of the Wayne State Normal School, writes interestingly from Portugal where she and her husband are sojourning, the latter engaged in Y. M. C. A. work. Mrs. Hagenbuch, who is of general interest, appeared, together with an explanation, in a recent issue of the Lincoln Daily Star.

East August Dr. and Mrs. Clark Hagenbuch, both well known in Lincoln, went to Lisbon, Portugal, to attend the general assembly of the duties of general director of physical education of the Y. M. C. A. in Lisbon. Her husband has been many and varied, but all extremely interesting. They have been confined to the Y. M. C. A. also, and have extended their work to the army, the high school and to the organization of boy scouts organizations. He is also the Y. M. C. A. secretary.

Mrs. Hagenbuch before her marriage was Miss Helen Piper of Lincoln, and her letters are interestingly written. Her husband is also well known in Lincoln. They have been confined to the Y. M. C. A. also, and have extended their work to the army, the high school and to the organization of boy scouts organizations. He is also the Y. M. C. A. secretary.

Maybe a bomb placed where it will not hurt anyone. But for a moment a fresh man took to me, bang, bang.

In the following letter Mrs. Hagenbuch tells of her life and about some of the interesting people whom they have met:

Describe Her Hosts.
 "You will be very interested to hear from Mrs. O'Gray. Maybe you will remember an American girl with a Portuguese husband who came over on the boat with us. She has even something out at his brother's but Americans to talk to. We are the first Americans that she has had visit since her Portuguese relatives understood how she feels about her countrymen."

"My family goes back to the sixteenth century and is wealthy. 'About the houses the parlor and living room are immense with beautiful paintings and many chairs. The dining room is all hand carved black walnut, the ceiling has an old painting of a saint when she was a child. I had never seen such a one. The kitchen is a large room on the third floor. The furniture here was all upholstered in Persian velvet and the floor covered with a Persian rug. The bedrooms are very comfortable and boudoir. The bedroom was dark, the walls covered with red silk paper and the bed with a cover of great blue and white. It was all silver—large bowl, pitchers and all. The boudoir was light; it had a lounge covered with dainty white cushions, a table with a silk dressing table. It was a dainty place. 'She told us that it was one of the best homes in Lisbon and their address is 41 Rua de Santa Catarina. I have never seen. Twenty-eight rooms. However it is—as all nice houses have—wide hallings distance of one hour and a half."

Eager for New York
 "Mrs. O'Gray is anxious to go back to New York to bathrooms, hot water, and gas stoves. The best of the fireplaces. Most of the houses here haven't even that much. She said they served dinner at 9 o'clock. I am so used to the table set in the house. It is as wonderful as can be."

"This week has been one of much excitement. The United States has been honored and everyone has been here—Joffe and Diaz and an English general whose name I have forgotten. They were all in the harbor. Flags flew everywhere and there are floral decorations in every window. Every patriotic association displays its flag before sending it. King Manuel sent a wreath and the crowd would get so great in front of the window where it was sent that they would have to pull down the curtains in order to clear the street. All the wreaths were of paper or paper and flowers. It is so desirable in a country of flowers, but such is the custom."

"As a student I went with Miss White, an English woman in the American consulate. Fortunately we got place where we could see everything. A man, who I don't know, spoke English and told us many things. It took three hours for the general quite to pass and the level of general quite a mussy affair—but interesting. Joffe, Diaz, and the rest marched behind the corpse. The highest and the best of the church dignitaries took part in the procession. The burial took place in a Batavia, where many kings are buried. It is a very old place. We are going to see very interesting. We will of course be done. But it cannot be accomplished by a wave of the hand or a stroke of the pen. It will take a little patience, a good deal of courage and a lot of hard work."

"They have just organized a Y. W. C. A. It is really in charge of the English although a Russian baroness is in the lead. Last night we went to the opening. They have two very nice rooms. Today we had the baroness to lunch. It is amusing to see the people here how they live. Tonight I am going to a meeting in which she will outline her course—as I have just given a letter to help—shall have some gymnasium work, shall teach games at first and shall have to use Portuguese entirely. I am going to have kindergarten class. We shall have just the older girls at first and train them for the leaders of the Y. W. C. A. 'Everything in this town is done after 9 o'clock, so I can't begin to do all that I want to. I go shopping in the morning, but I go shopping so great in the afternoons that buying a box of hairpins is a difficult matter. People say 'Oh, you go out before lunch. What would they think if they knew that I had gone from White Plains to Menomakers before 2 o'clock?'"

"Last Sunday we went to a Portuguese church. The minister is an Englishman. He speaks so distinctly that we understood him better than we do in our own country. The Portuguese do not do. They sang 'Oh, That Will Be Glory for Me.' and 'Be Ye Reconciled—In Portuguese—covars. I remember that I was surprised how much one can learn of a language in a few months if one has a good teacher."

For Decoration day wear you are probably planning on light summer wearables for yourself and the children. This week we are getting in new stock of many of the things you will need.

A Chicago dress manufacturer is sending us a nice assortment of ladies' organdie dresses made up in colors of maize, orchid, honey dew, green, rose and blue.

These will be dressy, dainty garments of the nicer sort that you will enjoy wearing. They will be moderately priced at $15.75 to $21.50.

If you prefer a nice, white dress with a light skirt to wear with a voile or georgette waist, you will find a complete new stock to choose from. The skirts are trimmed with watch pockets, large pearl buttons and self strappings and are very reasonably priced at $2.75 to $6.75.

White silk hose, silk gloves, dainty collar and cuff sets, light weight summer corsets, flesh colored vests of Italian silk, washable silk underwear and the newest hair ornaments and handbags are here to complete your costume in the most up-to-date way.

In addition to sumptuous dresses of light gingham, ready made for your girls you will find here pretty frocks made of white silk, and pretty flowered voiles, all priced moderately at $1.50 to $5.00. Middys in either white or blue with pleated skirts to match are very useful and dressy for girls' summer wear.

White midday blouses are on sale at $1.50 and $2.00. There are nice garments of this kind very midday cloth and full cut. No need to pay $3.00 and $4.00 for a midday blouse when you can get such nice ones as these so much cheaper.

White low shoes or light dainty black strap slippers are required at this time and we are in possession to show you the correct styles, both for yourself and the girls. Military heel models, both in strap slippers and oxfords are mostly worn and may be had in fine cloth at $3.50 to $5.75 for yourself, and at $1.50 to $3.25 for the girls. White footwear should be just as carefully fitted as any other to preserve the shape and comfort of the foot, and we have a complete stock of widths and sizes to take care of your needs.

Miss Lewis has trimmed in entire new stock of white and dainty colored hats for wear with summer costumes. You will find much of this collection at its very best if you come now.

If you saw you should have a copy of the new McCall summer quarterly. This book is just out and suggests fresh, pretty clothes for every member of the family—a handy book to help you plan summer wardrobes. (Isn't it the planning of all the things a family needs that is really making the difference?) We carry in stock all the patterns shown in this catalogue and the new McCall pattern with instructions printed clearly on each piece are certainly much easier to sew by than any other pattern we know of.

Every housewife is greatly interested in the price of flour and sugar. Whether or not the price advances of the past ten days are to hold and continue to gain are questions we wish we could answer.

Your guess is just about as good as any body's as the market does not seem to be governed by the law of supply and demand. We are keeping or will keep posted as much as possible and will at all times take care of your needs at the lowest prices.

We recommend Pillsbury's flour on account of the increased number of loaves you can get out of every sack and because you never waste any on account of a poor sack. Pillsbury's is always good and the cheapest in the long run. We have cheap flour if you want it and meet any prices you find quoted anywhere on this grade of flour.

If you would figure up three per cent discount on all the groceries you bought in a year you would find that it amounted to a good deal more than you could save by shopping here and there after weekly grocery bargains. It is the steady, every day saving of three per cent on every thing you buy that counts in the long run by means of our cash discount stamps. We give this three per cent discount to everyone who pays cash or pays at the end of thirty days.

You will be surprised how this discount counts up in a month. You never have any waste when you buy Sprague Warner canned goods, Pillsbury flour, Chase and Sanborn's teas and coffees, and that is another saving you should take into consideration when buying food stuff. Bargain groceries are generally an extravagance in the long run. Quality counts big in groceries—no two alike.

If you require a nice silk dress of real dressy skirt, you will find a nice assortment here for your selection at very reasonable prices. Not "sale goods" remember as we handle 'em cheaply made or skim cut ready-to-wear of any kind. These are nicely tailored, full cut garments of the kind you all feel well dressed in and that will keep their shape and nice appearance throughout the season. If you have admired someone's new pleated skirt of striped or plaid worsteds, the chances are you have purchased these—we have sold many of those skirts this spring. There are several nice styles here for your selection—no two alike.

Dr. Stein Delivers Baccalaureate Sermon

The baccalaureate services of the Wayne State Normal school were held in the auditorium Sunday evening at 8 o'clock with the various churches uniting for the purpose.

Prof. W. C. Hunter, accompanied by Prof. C. E. Fouser, played the professional. Miss Lida Clayton sang, "Open the Gates of the Temple," and President U. S. Conn introduced the speaker, Dr. Frederick S. Stein, of Lincoln, who gave the address, "The Mysteries of Life."

"The world is full of mysteries," began the speaker, "man must believe in some things without understanding them." To Hunter, he cited examples in the scientific world, in nature and in the constellations.

"Man thinks that he can explain things if he can give it a long-hand name," he said, "but it is only a camouflage to hide his ignorance." He said that mysteries do not always remain so; what were mysteries to the child are perfectly plain to the adult and what were mysteries to our ancestors are perfectly plain to us. To one who cannot understand nature, art, philosophy and literature, another's delight in them is a mystery. "As there are mysteries in life so there are mysteries in the Bible," and the speaker, "It is proof of a divine power. If there were mysteries in God's works why should there not be mysteries in His word?"

"There are some things we can explain," he concluded, "but there are others we cannot; there are some things we must believe in even though we do not understand them."

Miss Fern Oman sang, "Abide With Me." Music was also furnished by the State Normal chorist society.

Jessie Randall who taught the past year in the high school at Mankato, Neb., returned home Monday, the term having closed last Friday.

Glee Club Presents Japanese Operetta

The girls' glee club of the junior high school presented the Japanese operetta, "Princess Chrysanthemum," before a large audience in the Wayne State Normal auditorium Friday evening, May 21.

This story dealt with the princess being wooed by Prince So Tra and Prince So Shi. The former received the princess' favor and the rejected suitor plans revenge. With the aid of Saucer Eyes, the wizard on, he spies the princess away to the cave of Lily Night. Here Prince So Tra finds her and all turns out happily. The costumes and dancing of the chorus members were especially interesting. The songster, What For Whi, was the favorite character. The solo work of the princess, Fairy Moonbeam, Tu-Lip and Prince So Shi were well given. Each part was well taken and the audience declared it a success. Much credit is due Prof. C. E. Fouser who directed the operetta. Miss Dorothy Hitchcock played the accompaniment.

Following is the cast of characters: The Emperor What-For-Whi-Lil-Lilo Goodwin.

Princess Chrysanthemum—Phyllis James

Fairy Moonbeam—Dennis Sommer.

Prince So Tra—Mabel Jessen.

Prince So Shi, Ruby Randol.

Top-Knot—Frances Cherry.

Saucer Eyes—Frances Lackey.

Tu-Lip—Margaret Aern.

To-To—Helen Nuss.

Fairies, Sprites and Gnomes.

Dr. G. Nieman, a former practicing physician of Wayne, was here Sunday. He is traveling for a whole sale drug house of Des Moines.

E. C. Tweed, formerly of this place, came up from Lincoln Tuesday. He reports his health greatly improved.

Rev. J. W. Beard Writes of His Trip to Coast

Rev. John W. Beard, former pastor of the local Presbyterian church, now located at Hoquiam, Wash., writes the Hoquiam as follows:

Hoquiam, Wash., May 14, 1921.
Dear Mr. Huse: I promised just before leaving Wayne that I was going to write you a little account of the trip, and I fully intended to carry out my promise and all along the way kept making notes of interesting things to write. At each stop of the train I would start to write and then something would draw my attention, the train would start and the writing would be left unstarted. The notes kept accumulating till when we got on here they were enough to fill a "Six foot shaft of the world's best literature," but I was too lazy to do the work of composition, so the trip was left undescribed and the world will never know what it has missed. Poor old Huse, he has a right smart list of good starting-places.

Let me say, however, that the trip was just fine. The cars run on the rails and the rails run on the ground, so it is no labor at all to ride on the cushions. There is a right smart list of good starting-places from Hoquiam. I would hate to have to walk it backwards or in my sleep. It is no more to stand his toe on one of these mountains or fall into one of these gulches—he would get his nose skinned all right. Talking about mountains, Robert allowed that he never knew before that there had been so many Christmas trees for whisksers.

Some going out here have had several trips out into the old forest, and it seems rather good. Somehow one feels like being a better man when he looks nature full in the face. It is beautiful the way the grey mist lift veils of thinnest lawn and mingle them with the delicate foliage of the trees. Then the deep green pines, and the clear laughing brooks are just like dear friends heartily welcoming one back home. When one gets a little discouraged, she stands part and there stand the hills with white fingers pointing up. I hope we have ferns, and trees, and clouds, and mist, and rivers, and mountains in heaven. I like them better than streets of gold. I would rather hear the music of running water than sing all the hymns the angels have in their song book. I would rather lie under a great old fir tree a thousand years old than live in the grandest palace ever built or dreamed. When I get to heaven if the place shuts out these things, I am going to get God to let me go on a vacation back to old earth, one month every year, and the trees, the shade, the greenest place I can find is going to be my home, and I am going to wade barefoot in the water of the Pacific waves just like I did when I was a boy. I know God will do it. He never yet denied his children one single wholesome joy.

Things are going very much better in the work here than they have been. We are getting the property in better shape again. The attendance has been splendid. The interest is fine. We have received about a hundred into full membership of the church. The future is very promising. We are praying that we can see great results.

The people seemed very glad to have us back. A great crowd got on the train at the first station out of town to welcome us, and they surely did have a time on the way in. The new matter is to be started the first of June. It promises to be very comfortable.

Our regards to all the friends in Wayne. It was hard to leave them, but it seemed the way of duty, and it has proved more the way of duty than we thought. Sincerely yours, John W. Beard.

Ban on Sunday Horsematch Pitching. O'Neill, Neb., May 21.—No more will the clanging of the horseshoe against the peg, or the raucous arguments regarding "fingers and 'scoopers" disturb the Sunday quietude of Chambers, the metropolis of southern Holt county. Some of the greatest horseshoe pitchers in Nebraska reside in the village and there are now practicing for the summer tournaments. But they must not play on Sunday, according to the "city charter" and the village chairman has promulgated and caused to be published the following notice: "Warning—Any one caught pitching horseshoes or quills in Chambers on Sunday will be dealt with according to law, for Sabbath breaking."
The state law prohibits "drinking, quarreling, hunting or shooting" on Sunday. The horseshoe pitching fans of Chambers valley will probably await the next legislature to provide that Sunday horseshoe pitching may be voted upon the same as baseball is now. Until the legislature meets the Sunday games will be conducted outside the city limits.

When Miss Kate R. Sainclair, a resident of Drewry's Bluff, Va., was sixteen years old, she became possessed with an idea that fathers need not receive an square deal. And so she began to do the best she could for the Governor of Virginia and laid her plan before him. He accepted it and set aside the second Sunday in June to be celebrated as Father's Day. Since then several states of the Union have taken the matter up, and it bids fair to become a national event, all because of a little girl who stuck to her idea.

"Henry Leisy, one of our oldest and most prominent farmers of Wisner township," says the Wisner Chronicle, "returned last Thursday, expecting from Omaha, where he had marketed a carload of hogs, and related a story of a dastardly assault of which he was the victim committed at Fremont as he was on his way to the city Wednesday night. The stolen train made its usual stop at Fremont and the train men and passengers in the caboose went to the nearby eating house to get a luncheon. Mr. Leisy did not care to eat anything, but left the caboose for a stroll about the platform. While walking along the depot platform the train moved down the track to the yard house, and a rail-rover employee directed Mr. Leisy to where the caboose was standing and advised him to walk down there as it would not back-up again. Mr. Leisy followed the directions and when he was about halfway down the track, something he knows he was struck on the right side of the head from behind and stunned. When he regained consciousness he was in the yard house where he had been ossessed by train men. The company's local physician was summoned and an examination showed that his face was badly bruised. The injury was treated and Mr. Leisy continued his trip to the city. The call at the Chronicle office Friday, the right side of his face being greatly discolored and his right eye bloodshot, but apparently no more serious injuries were sustained. He declares that he saw no one near him at the time he was struck down, but believes that some one very quickly and silently approached him from behind, told him to get down and then became frightened and fled with-

The Patrons Meeting Draws Large Number

A great concourse of school children and patrons attended the public exhibition at the school house Friday evening. Exhibits of work done in different departments were on display, and attracted close inspection and lively interest.

From the kindergarten on through the successive grades the exhibits reflected the earnest application of pupils and the painstaking efforts of teachers. Constant, tireless coaxing of talent was expressed in the finished work. The annual training department also had open house Friday night and had on exhibition the splendidly finished work of previous months.

Following inspection of exhibits, a crowd gathered in the auditorium where a program of musical numbers was carried out. At a fitting juncture, R. Davis, representing the school board of which he is a member, made a brief talk expressing praise and appreciation for the superintendent and his corps of teachers. A number served in the gymnasium which was liberally patronized and thoroughly enjoyed.

A Special Chautauque Attraction. The Chicago Operatic company, headed by a sterling singer, John E. Miller, is to be the attraction at the Wayne chautauque on Sunday, July 11. The program of this company has been marked by its discriminating judgment in selection. They have been chosen by a musician thoroughly conversant, not only with the art of music, but also by reason of an extended concert appearance with the men and women who make up the chautauque audiences. Thereupon has been given extended popularity to good music, for untalented has not been subordinated to technique in presentation. The average man likes a Chicago Operatic company program as well as the critic, and the critic gives it his most eulogistic appreciation.

Negro Janitor a Lawyer. Lincoln, Neb., May 24.—John Henry Lawson, erstwhile janitor at the state house, donned his overalls and donned a Prince Albert suit. Equipped also with a gold headed cane he went before the supreme court, and emerged with permission to practice law in the state. He came here from Arkansas, where he had practiced law for five years, and the proof of that fact was all that was necessary to get him his permit in Nebraska. Lawson is colored and 51 years of age. He has lived in Nebraska a year, and is said to be a good lawyer. He worked as a janitor in order that he might make a stake to tide him over the dull times which may possibly yawn as a lawyer.

Held for Postoffice Robbery. Lincoln, Neb., May 24.—United States Attorney Allen has filed a warrant for the arrest of a man named H. L. Whitmore, charging him with the robbery of the postoffice at Ansam, Neb., and stealing three mail sacks and $39,716 in stamps. A letterhead copy of the warrant, which was served on him and take him to Brush for trial, Attorney Allen said.

Reaction in Georgia. Springfield, Mass., Republican: That Gov. Dorey's distinguished services to Georgia and the nation by his vigorous assault on penance and other crimes against the negro race is not appreciated in all circles at home is not surprising. Defense of the law cannot have continued so long without influential supporters. It is depressing, however, to learn that Gov. Elick Thomas W. Hardwick, who succeeded Gov. Dorey in office next month, is among the detractors of the courageous executive. Mr. Hardwick promises he will assent to the governor's pamphlet as soon as he takes office, meanwhile denouncing "as an infamous slander on the state these statements that have been sent over the country."

The "Guardians of Liberty" are militant. They demand the impeachment of the governor for his "betrayal of Georgia on another" before the world. In this country also Samuel L. Oliver, president of the Georgia senate and Judge E. S. Secoy, of Flint circuit, superior court of Georgia. Mr. Oliver points his defense of the constitution of a particular case. It is a negro burned at the stake, claiming that negroes themselves assisted in applying the torch. A sad commentary indeed on the degrading condition of our state, which is the condition of free slavery which exists in Georgia and elsewhere in

Methodist Church.

(Rev. F. M. Druiner, Pastor.)

The regular worship service will be held next Sunday as follows:

— Preaching 10:30 a. m.

— Sunday school 11:30 a. m.

— Junior League 6:30 p. m.

— Evening service 8:00 p. m.

The ladies met Wednesday and gave the church a thorough cleaning, putting everything in first-class condition.

School Notes.

Wednesday of this week was class day. In the morning the members of the senior class gave a play entitled, "Sweet Girl Graduate." Two very interesting features were "The Class Will" given by one of the girls and the "Class Prophecy" given by one of the boys.

The baccalaureate services Sunday evening were very largely attended, the church being taxed to its capacity and many were unable to gain admission. The sermon delivered by Rev. F. M. Druiner will leave a lasting impression. He took for his subject, "Spirituality and Culture." Rev. W. O. Jones and Rev. Dan Harris assisted in conducting the service. The ladies' quartette rendered a special number which was greatly appreciated.

Tuesday evening the members of the senior class and the high school faculty were entertained at a "good time" at the home of Edgo Jones, one of the members of the senior class.

The pupils of the primary room held their picnic in the W. E. Jones grove, one-half mile south of the school house.

The second, third and fourth grades held their picnic in the Griffith Grove, two and one-half miles northeast of town.

The sixth, seventh and eighth grades enjoyed themselves at the M. Garwood grove two miles northwest of town.

England is Disturbed.

Philosophical Public Ledger: At a time when the English empire is straining in the currents of unrest, Ireland rebellious, Egypt muttering, South Africa troubled, and India seething, England is watching the growing French dominance in a disputed market. The balance of power in Europe is shifting and England is not its sole guide in the shift. In this renewed but as yet unacknowledged, Upper Silesia is an incident, although it may prove to be the important incident—in the meantime the cunning brains of Berlin are probing and searching, anxious for the breach to widen so that a wedge may be driven deep and firm between France and England.

Should Amend Trencher Bill.

Chicago News: Under the Trencher bill, should it become law, one of two things would be almost certain to happen: Either the regulation would be so drastic and arbitrary as to close the grain exchanges, encourage oppressive monopolies and open the door to irresponsible gambling in agricultural products, or the secretary of agriculture would shrink from using the powers conferred upon him and administer the act only in a perfunctory manner. Neither of these alternatives is desirable, the country wants neither autocracy nor do-gooder legislation that breeds contempt for all law and government. The Trencher bill should be rejected in the senate or substantially amended in accordance with reason and common sense.

Health Shattered by Service Overseas, Ex-Soldier Says Tanlac Has Restored His Health.

"It was my mother who persuaded me to try Tanlac, and when I took her advice it was certainly one of the best things I ever did in my life. I have been in bed for nearly a year, and I am now able to get out of bed and take care to ever get something and when I did force down much it always lay heavy on my stomach like lead. It was of great benefit to keep my spirits up and there was a bitter taste in my mouth all the time. I had sharp pains in my stomach and my heart would palpitate till I nearly cut off my breath and I felt like I was choking. Dizzy spells often came on me and I was better a sign to indicate my recovery. My heart never bothers me any more and I can breathe free and easy as ever. Those dizzy spells have all gone and I have no more trouble with my stomach and the best health I ever enjoyed, and I don't see how anybody could feel better than I do." 19191

Good Roads are for Farmers.

Chicago, Chicago. Statistics show that the farmers own one-half of the total number of automobiles in this country, use one-half of the tires sold and pay for one-half of the gas burned. If the farmer is not interested in good roads, then who would be? The argument that good roads are for the benefit of city joy riders has long ago been exploded.

Stop That Ache!

Don't worry and complain about a bad back. Get rid of that pain and lameness! Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Many Wayne county people have used them and know how effective they are. Ask your neighbor! Here's a Wayne case.

Mrs. H. Kellogg, says: "I haven't needed Doan's Kidney Pills for several years. I was subject to frequent attacks of kidney discomfort and Doan's Kidney Pills were just what I needed. When troubled that way I suffered with a nagging ache in my back and found it difficult to move around, get up or down or lie anything because of the sharp twinges it caused. I was feeling depressed and nervous. Doan's Kidney Pills always gave me the relief and I am glad to endorse them." (Statement given July 17, 1916).

On May 29, 1920, Mrs. Kellogg advised since using Doan's Kidney Pills several years ago I haven't had kidney trouble, my cure being a lasting one. I still keep a box of Doan's in my house and take a few at different times as a preventative against any return of the old trouble. J. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Agriculture Notes

Control the Stable Fly. The numbers of stable flies can be kept down by caring properly—feasibly and by properly disposing or otherwise disposing of straw in a way that will not make it attractive as a breeding place for the flies. Stable flies cause much distress among animals and at times heavy losses. Control measures are described by the United States department of agriculture in a circular entitled "Control the Stable Fly. How to Prevent Its Annoyance and Its Losses to Live Stock."

Illegal to Water Oats.

From the interest displayed by the trade, much good is expected to result from the series of joint conferences recently concluded in a number of southern cities between officials of the bureau of markets and the bureau of agriculture. The United States department of agriculture and representatives of the grain trade, held for the purpose of making clear the requirements of the food and drugs act, and its relationship to the grain standards act. A misunderstanding of the meaning of adulteration of grain particularly oats, it is said, has been more or less prevalent in certain localities. Some dealers have thought that it would not be a violation of the food and drugs act to add water or foreign material so long as the grain "made the grade" under the requirements of the grain standards act. Oats are apt to have a lower moisture content at this time of the year than the maximum permissible under the standards, and this presents a temptation, it is said, to add water before marketing to increase the weight. The department emphasizes the fact that this is illegal. As evidence of the interest in the conference, it is said, that about 100 delegates from the trade attended the Nashville meeting, and practically every grain firm in the city was represented at that held in Louisville. Other conferences were held at Cairo, Ill., and Memphis, Tenn.

To Eradicate Sow Thistle.

The perennial sow thistle is found throughout the eastern states and in California and Colorado, and is a serious pest in the Red River valley of North Dakota and Minnesota, according to the United States department of agriculture. On account of the wide distribution of it is practically impossible to exterminate it unless an entire community cooperates. There is no single method of control applicable to all conditions. Several methods of eradication are recommended by the department. One is to plow in late June, before the blossoms have opened. After plowing, pack the soil immediately and then cultivate with a roller or frequent intervals, keeping the ground bare until frost. This method will kill the weed in a single season if the soil is consistently dry. The use of eye and of early oats has been successful against sow thistle. Some farmers plant spring wheat on sow-thistle land in early May, cutting it for hay in late July, followed immediately by plowing and reseeded to fall wheat, thus covering the bare fallow until frost. Many farmers in the grain belt are turning to mixed farming. Close grazing with cattle or sheep will keep down sow thistle, but this is a temporary expedient.

Where the sow-thistle occurs in small patches it may be eradicated by covering for an entire season with tar paper or other material that will completely exclude light. Cutting the plants and applying crude dry salt or grabbing out the plants and burning the removed parts can be practiced in some instances. Sow thistle should never be permitted to go to seed if possible to prevent. The importance of using clean seed can hardly be overemphasized, particularly in the sections of North Dakota and Minnesota which are at present free from the pest.

Business.

Sioux City Journal: Recognizing the settlement of the railroad question as the paramount problem affecting industry throughout the country, the various elements of commerce are now hopefully looking forward to the coming announcement of the bill by the board on wage reductions that are to be made. The board's recent announcement of a decision to cut the pay of unskilled workers without figure being arrived at or given, was greeted everywhere as an earnest of the early settlement of this vexatious question. Affecting as it does the pay of more than 1,000,000 men, any reduction whatever will contribute to a lessening of the railroad burden on operating industries, and which they have so bitterly complained and which, they point out, is making it impossible for them to consider readjustments.

It is not doubted that the board's decision, by full knowledge of which business revival depends largely on its decision and will adopt a program sympathetic with that view. The board also may be trusted to remember that in the official capacity as judge and jury it must be fair to the workers, who, it cannot be denied, have their side of the case. Skilled laborers, whose cases are to be studied by the board, also are likely to be reduced, which would increase the retrograde opportunity to reduce rates and that of the public to enjoy quickened business activity because of the lower tariffs. Unemployment, which was slightly decreased in April over the March figures, comes in for its share of interest and attention as reflecting business conditions. The decrease in 210 cities as reported by Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, is approximately 65,000, a figure not considerable in some lines. As might be expected, some industrial centers have reduced unemployment, while others have seen more men join the ranks of the idle; but the average is what counts and the figures supplied show jobs are more plentiful than they were.

Dun's review from New York sees an brighter turn in business while admitting that buying is still restricted and that the factors making for increased activity do not lend themselves to full reflection and review. Dun's counts very strongly on the return of confidence, which is marked, and explains the lack of vigorous action following this change as being due to the desire of the interests to wait for extension of industrial adjustments and for a further dissipation of the uncertainties attaching to prices. Money has been made easier in various leading centers and foreign exchange rates have recovered somewhat, the improved financial conditions brightening in no small degree the general outlook for business.

Walt. Sioux Falls Argus-Leader: Wholesale prices for April showed a decline of 5. per cent. from March, according to figures of the department of labor. Now, all eyes are on the retail prices.

A Hard Problem. Kansas City Star: The editor of the Albany Capital comes right out and laments his ignorance. He says that he can't help his son with his night work when the questions asked are like these: "If it takes a four month's vacation with a rubber bill nine months and thirteen days to peck a hole through a copper hopper with a cork leg to kick all the seeds out of a dill pickle."
