

CONSOLIDATED WITH THE WAYNE REPUBLICAN

HERALD'S CAMPAIGN OPENS FAVORABLY

Paper's Expectation to Extend Circulation Into New Fields Justifies Enterprise.

NOW IS TIME TO JOIN CLUB

Opportunity to Share in the Herald's Awards is Urged in All Parts of Territory.

The Selsamanship Club and Great Circulation Campaign has opened auspiciously. The question as to how this paper can afford to give its readers a better paper than any other is often asked.

The paper's high standing in the county makes it easy to work for, and its steady improvement, step by step, is a fact which will be accepted as evidence that it will continue to grow better, not worse.

Members of the Selsamanship Club are urged to contribute to the paper. They will not have to give as an object of charity nor an institution based on hope.

There is room for subscription with the opportunity to earn prizes or commissions should not be lightly passed up.

All-at-tasks to win is a little well directed energy. The campaign is in its infancy. The opportunity to share in the banquet of Herald awards should inspire earnest effort in all parts of the county.

It is human nature to wait and see what the other fellow is going to do over a certain period of time in this campaign.

The thing to do is to get into your stampan. You can't sit in the grandstand and play the winning side.

It means more actual money earned in a shorter length of time than you ever thought possible.

Get Started Today. You can't lose. You can't start to send in your nomination blank which counts you 10,000 credits, and which appears elsewhere in this issue.

Very few fields are represented by active members. The opportunity to work in his or her field will reap a variable harvest of credits.

Decide Today. If you are on the fence regarding this proposition for goodness sake get into the game.

Every member who gets started in any way whatever with the award plan will be glad to see you.

Special Prizes. Every member who gets started in the campaign and turning in eighteen or more subscriptions on or before Wednesday night, July 6, will receive a beautiful lamp and silk shade.

Every member who gets started in any way whatever with the award plan will be glad to see you.

The speaker quoted Emerson as saying, "Education is our Chief Business," and applied it to the nation, state, county and community in a forceful manner, emphasizing the fact that the parent should be careful in seeing that the students receive the proper training for developing good citizenship.

He also made reference to Lincoln, McKinley and Roosevelt, each of whom believed that education is the foundation stone upon which all great nations are built.

E. A. White presided as chairman and put a fine climax to the address by eulogizing the splendid remarks of the speaker and placing the stamp of disapproval of frivolity in the schoolroom.

The chronic thief is probably worse than the cheerful idler. Either is a good deal of a nuisance.

With Wayne's paving operations completed, we ought to plan to celebrate the Fourth here next year in elaborate fashion.

Prices have been revised upward in the newspaper business during the past month, and we have assurance of an increase in postage rates next month. This is a sad fact which we may accept cheerfully or otherwise without changing results.

The Wayne Commercial club has been stimulating its treasury this week by gathering in membership fees. Out of these collections, leadership of the band will be paid. The band is showing steady improvement, and is becoming a valuable institution. Wayne had long needed a good band, and the acquisition is thoroughly appreciated.

"Goes to His Eternal Rest," is a favorite heading for an obituary which is not pleasant to contemplate. It is also unbecoming. No one wants mending zeal. Sitting around with nothing to do would be unbecoming. It would also be contrary to the laws of nature. Going to one's eternal abode with greater usefulness, greater achievement and greater enjoyment, unhampered by physical infirmities, would seem nearer representing the truth and come nearer giving satisfaction.

A grasshopper scourge is said to be threatening crops in Lincoln, Crowley and Pueblo counties; Colorado, and the farmers are up in arms to fight the pest. Nebraska counties were laid waste by grasshoppers for a number of successive years in the seventies, but since then they have had to contend with nothing worse than unfavorable weather, political mania and inconsistent prices. In the seventies in Nebraska, different counties were used to minimize the damage. But when an army of grasshoppers descended on a county, little could be done to save growing crops. Millions of voracious jaws gnawed away on vegetation until not a green thing was left. The deadly gas used in the late war suggests a way to discourage the pest.

We abhor any cunning and artful device in moral or business relationships. Telling half-truths, with a convenient subterfuge, does not gain the advantage expected. It is really a hindrance to popular favor and desired success. Deceit is usually so thinly masked that it deceives no one, and only reacts unfavorably on its source. Be open, clear-cut, dependable policy, founded on the rock of truth and free from the smooth tricks of the high heel, is one that finally triumphs.

The intense heat of the past week has been bad to humanity as well as to most forms of vegetation. In the early days when scorching hot winds devastated Kansas and extended their blighting influence into southern Nebraska, this section of the state suffered only partial loss. Since its earliest settlement, north Nebraska has escaped the wholesale damage due to drought farther south, and while the scorching days oppress and somewhat alarm, this season will undoubtedly turn out, as usual, better than expected.

Next Monday will be the glorious Fourth when people will celebrate usual activities and devote the occasion to various forms of celebration. Some will rest; others will become excited over baseball or other sports. All will roast more or less, if the weather continues hot, and the amount of ice cream and lemonade to be consumed would flood a battleship. Orators will remind us of the independence gained by trimming England to a finish around about 1776, and the independence that they followed from time to time. We should allow our thoughts to rise above the heat and fire, and make a mark of burning freckles long enough to realize that we live in America where the privileges of government are equalled nowhere else in the world. Let us celebrate with such discretion as will prevent accident or sickness, so that we may be able to wake up the next morning glad that the holiday is safely and happily over.

Rules of the Road.
Marshalltown Times-Republican: Road rules are the result of experience. They are intended to establish safety and advance traffic. The reasons the traffic top hats you are several. Your safety is involved. Not only yours, but that of hundreds of others. If you run by you are or should be pinched and fined. That's because a large number of persons besides yourself have rights on the road.

Just so, my boy, with the rules of the long road you must travel until you wear out or get to the junk pile through accidents or misfortune. Those rules of this long road haven't been made in a minute. They have grown. They are the result of experience. Most of them were born out of calamity just as the road rules at the street corners came about through injuries and deaths and destruction of property. Every one of these conditions, you see, was a lesson paid for by bitter experience. The moral rules are safe posts showing the best and guiding the driver.

Drive by the signs, kid, drive by the signs. Observe the rules of the road. They are the signal of the man in front. Signal to the one behind. Traffic experience has been 1,000 generations working out those traffic rules on the big highway.

You may think it is up to you to "show speed." Nothing to it. The only applause you will get is from the motorist. The general traffic will remark, "that fool will kill himself and somebody else," ought to be pinched. "The worst of it is that the general prediction comes true. You'll find that you'll get farther on the journey by observing the rules of the road. You'll have more miles from your friends. You'll keep the repulse of a sensible man leaving behind you."

The fellow that insists on breaking the rules goes to the ditch. Sometimes folks are sorry for him. Usually they forget him and mention as they go by the place "that fellow who went to the ditch." "Kill him!" "No, no, quite, but left him a cripple." There are many moral and business principles that are broken because they insist on making their own road rules.

Drive a decent gal. Watch the signals on the traffic signals. Remember this, that when you wreck the car you are not the only sufferer. Others suffer. Sometimes the family dies under the wreckage.

The rules of the road have been growing since the first man. They grew as the family dies under the wreckage of the common sense and wisdom of 5,000 years. Stick to the rules.

Cash Wheat Prices Higher.
Drovers Journal-Stockman: Chicago wheat future prices moved up moderately today after a week opening flat. The market expected to rise from yesterday's big break. In price, assistance in bringing about an advance as did also reports of continued drought and heat in the northwest. Drought news was also received from Russia, Roumania and Great Britain. Opening prices of unchanged 1-2 were $1.15 at $1.19 and September $1.17 to $1.17 1-2 were followed by an additional decline in September and then advanced to last deliveries to points well above Monday's close.

The market continued to advance during the late trading. Shorts covering was less strong at the close. The finish was 4 S to 5 S-8c higher, July $1.23 3-4 to $1.24 and September $1.22 1-2 to $1.23.

Corn rallied with wheat, starting 1 3/4 to 1 1/2 cent lower, July 57 1-2 to 58c, September 59 1-8 to 59c, and December 59 3-4 to 59c, and then scored substantial gains all around.

Corn exhibited pronounced strength throughout the session, with shorts buying as well as commission houses. Overall condition of the pit as well as strength in wheat were the main factors. The shipping demand has been good the past few days. The close was 3 to 5 cents higher.

Oats were stronger with other grains. After opening 1-8 to 1-3-8c lower, July 35 1-2c, September 37 1-2 to 38c, and December 39 to 39 1-8c, the market turned up grade.

Reports indicate threshing returns from the winter wheat belt are disappointing as to quantity and also as to quality of grain, says the Chicago Price Current. It adds: "In the northwest the spring wheat crop, as well as oats, is generally a bumper crop. However, has an unusually fine outlook. Growth is forward and in leading states much of cultivation has been completed. A dry area covers a wide territory, and generally throughout the surplus grain states moisture is quite badly needed, while temperatures have been exceptionally high."

Trading in December wheat will start Friday, July 1, directors of the Chicago Board of Trade announced yesterday.

Export sales of cash wheat at the terminal yesterday were 1,000,000 bushels, the largest in some time and in addition there were 400,000 bushels of corn and 350,000 bushels of soybeans. A considerable amount of wheat was stored at the last but buyers seemed to be filled up. Considerable Montana wheat was included in the sales.

The Omaha Grain exchange will be closed Saturday, July 2, to Monday, July 3, inclusive. The Chicago Board of Trade and other exchanges have taken similar action.

Not Afraid of Moral Lepers.
Omaha World-Herald: Announcement that a preacher has been sufficient to clear a San Francisco court-room instance. But the defendant was not a leper, but a man who is to be exhibited, diagnosed and discussed. The crowd stays there.

Education Enhances Loyalty.
Yankton Press and Dakotan: The illiteracy of the young manhood of the United States as Gen. Pershing says, is a danger particularly to the greatest nation on earth. "It is no less a danger and a handicap. The country is dedicated for it for no other reason than to make them loyal citizens."

Advertise Nebraska's Boats.
Omaha Daily Journal-Stockman: Aaron Burr said that whatever was plausibly asserted and firmly maintained at length came to be accepted as the truth. Although Burr lived many years before the day of intensive scientific advertising as we know it, the true, fundamental principle of publicity, as the art of publicity is judged today by its fruits.

Nothing is truer than the fact that whatever is plausibly asserted and firmly maintained concerning a town or state at length becomes solidified into a popular conviction of that town or that state. In short, advertising pays a town or a state just as simply and for the same reason that it pays an individual.

As an example of the value of regional advertising our own Pacific coast leads the world and sets the pace for every other section in the union. The stretch of coast from San Diego to the straits of San Juan on Puget Sound has almost given birth to a new art and a new literature. To many millions of educated Europeans California stands out as the one bright spot in the otherwise gloomy landscape of American geography.

The orange groves of California, the stately old Spanish missions with their legends of priestly self-sacrifice and heroism; the channel islands looming clear above a sea beat with eternal summer and flanked with the golden hills of the coast with its story of daring achievement and the inexhaustible wonders of the Yosemite, are known from one end of the globe to the other. The writers from many lands have also written of the snow-clad peaks which guard the forest-girt Columbia and the Adams-Agawa a thrill in millions of souls.

Naturally Nebraska can never enter the Golden State. The fact is that the state has no such matchless wonders to exploit. In its own way, however, Nebraska is one of the most beautiful of all the states.

It would be hard to find, for instance, a lovelier land to look at and to live in than the great valley of the Platte. The common conception of Nebraska is that it is simply a great plains state redeemed as far as possible from its original dreariness. This conception is only 75 per cent true. The great plains with their billowy hills swells over which the long emigrant wagons toiled westward some 70 years ago are now covered with thousands of farms and mud towns where the blessings of a complex modern life are enjoyed every hour without its misfortunes or its tragedies.

There is infinite variety in Nebraska. Right near the prosaic town of Omaha which a doggerel writer of Chicago freak poet stigmatized as the "dicky-faced feeder of American bread-cakes," there exists one of the most entrancing vistas of the continent, namely, the first glimpse of the valleys of the Elkhorn and of the Platte from the summit of a military road. The Indians are gone; the campfire ashes have been transubstantiated into many a harvest; and the country is a checkerboard of golden wheat fields interspersed with the deep green squares of alfalfa, the fainter green of shimmering oats, which are bounded and intersected by "the gleam flitted coin ocean of summer."

There is scenery in Nebraska to delight the most voracious taste of the richly cultivated, rolling hills country of the Missouri river to the White river canyon and the northern lands through which the Nebraska rushes-by cliff and rapids to join the sea bound rivers. Let Nebraskans talk about these things, words about them, make pictures of them. Let the photographers of scenes from our own state be placed side-by-side in railroad stations with the eekings of the Cascades and of Shasta with their snowy splendors. Let the world know that Nebraska contains more than its share of the best of things which are an everlasting inspiration to those that live among them—that the possibilities of re-education and enjoyment are only in the beginning in the sunny land across the Missouri.

Thyroid Glands Good Allhi.
Sioux Falls Argus-Leader: A woman caught at burglary blinds her short-coming on thyroid glands. It is more dignified to get a victim of a thief. But we are not likely to carry this sort of thing too far. All murderers and rapists are not thieves and not all thieves and burglars are victims of disease. There is such a thing as a moral criminal and there are a lot of people who want things that money will buy without being willing to work for it.

Dawes and Warwick.
Baltimore Evening Sun: If, as indicated in the Washington dispatches, Gen. Charles T. Dawes is to be director of the budget and Alexander W. Warwick controller general, such appointments, we think, will deserve nothing but the warmest congratulations. The present budget, which has combed the country without finding two men so well fitted by ability and experience to handle the job, has been in positions under the lately enacted budget and accounting law.

Sugar and Lemons Seaw.
Atlanta Journal-Constitution: When sugar went down, lemon took some of the sweetness out of life by slipping up. The price of lemons has risen so that it was not shipped because of the high freight charges.

Raising Pure Bred Stock Requires Care

Journal-Stockman: "The man who thinks that all he needs to do to acquire fame and wealth is to buy a lot of purebred cattle, hogs, horses or sheep and then proceed to make a shift for themselves will soon learn the reputation of the man with the undesirable purebreds that we hope to eliminate," said E. W. Sheets, chief of the bureau of the industry of the department of agriculture in a recent talk before an audience of farmers.

That the boys and girls who are enrolled in live stock club work are interested in pure bred live stock was brought out by Mr. Sheets. Many a time a boy or a girl whose father is a member of the club has been found a scrub and because of giving their animal the best possible feed and care, has caused the animal to be sold for more than the rest of the animals on the farm. At the county fair in competition, the father has seen his son or his daughter with a scrub animal, and the animal was not just as well fed as the winner, but because the winner had various points that make a purebred outstanding over the ordinary grade or scrubs. It has then determined that the next year the son or daughter will have a high grade purebred animal and the father will develop the fair. It is probably impossible to state the real value of the boys' and girls' clubs in helping to dispense with the scrubs and replacing them with a purebred.

"The subject of gradual, continuous live stock improvement is not a new one," said Mr. Sheets. "It has been practiced for many many years by the most successful live stock farmers everywhere. When we speak of the live stock club work, we mean eliminating the scrub, etc., we merely emphasize the practice of those successful men who through all these years have been keeping the best and breeding the best to the best. It is well known for example that a good cow when bred to a good purebred bull will produce a good calf. It is also well known that a better bull bred to a better cow will produce a better calf, the same applying to the other kinds of live stock. To emphasize this important practice, the United States department of agriculture has developed for the purpose of the live stock club work, the 'Better Sires,' 'Better Stock' crusade to raise the general quality and usefulness of our live stock. The scrub sire is to be eliminated, but the undesirable sire as well, even though it may be an undesirable purebred. That we have a few undesirable purebreds is no reflection on the many thousands of good purebreds in the various stock raising sections of the country."

"In this Better Sires-Better Stock crusade the department of agriculture fully recognizes the obstacles to the success of the live stock club work today, which believe that a scrub is in any way equal to the purebred or better-bred animal. The purebred, and particularly the better-bred animal, is rapidly finding a place on farms where heretofore the less desirable kinds were raised."

"This is a man who is engaged in the work of helping to make the United States scrub-free is of particular interest at this period when such a large number of farmers are securing reasonable prices. The man who wishes to secure the foundation for a coming herd of which he may be proud certainly has a splendid opportunity now."

Captures Rabbit by Hand. O'Neill, Neb., June 29.—Michael Ford of Sioux City is said to be the fastest runner in the world. Mr. Ford's diversion is running down his own rabbit. Moral Standards. Lincoln, June 29.—"Has the fight of women against the double standard of moral life in the present age, and does the single standard mean that man has raised his standards or woman has lowered her standards more than that of man?" This was the question asked Miss M. E. Taylor in charge of the social health section of the state department of health.

"I am afraid that many women are lowering their standards," Miss Taylor answered.

"The social disease in Nebraska is appalling," Miss Taylor said, "and there is much work ahead of us."

This department, buried in a secluded room in the state house, gives out little public information. Only through secrecy is dealing with the cases of venereal disease. Only through cooperation between fathers and mothers and relatives of young girls suffering from disease.

It was admitted today that the home for women at York was full, and it is known that the state department has been urging private institutions to take patients in an effort to effect a cure.

"It really is a shame that the false moral code for years has catered these illis of humanity cannot be shown entirely and the time will come when it will," Miss Taylor said.

the quick ripening would injure the grain. This apparently will not prove to be the case. Most of the corn is laid by and occasionally a little is tending out. It is of a good color and indications are for a big yield, probably as good as the preceding year. Wheat is coming along nicely and maturing rapidly. Alfalfa is being cut with a good yield, and preparations are being made extensively for the late sowings.

in the United States department of agriculture to convince anyone of the value of co-operative associations as a means of developing profitable dairy herds. In all these associations records are kept of the amount of milk produced and food consumed by each cow, and with this information the members of the association are able to weed out the poor producers of the herd to make room for the better calves of the cows that give the largest production of milk and butterfat. This practice, together with the use of selected bulls, is the best and surest way of building up the dairy herd, say dairy specialists of the department.

The Grove City, Pa., Cow Testing association has developed some high producers by this method, and is an illustration of what it is possible for such an organization to do. In one month recently there were seventy-six cows in the Grove City association that produced more than thirty pounds of butterfat each. Of this number sixty-two produced more than forty pounds. Most of the animals that produced a larger amount were three years of age or over; but there were seven cows under three years that produced more than forty pounds the highest yield was 74.5 pounds of butterfat, which was made by a 2-year-old Holstein. The highest yield made by an animal under 3 years was fifty-six pounds, produced by a 2-year-old Jersey.

"Handled Eggs for Profit" is the title of a little mimeographed circular issued by the food research laboratory of the bureau of agriculture, United States department of agriculture, which gives detailed drawings for the construction of egg cases, and outlines methods for packing the eggs so as to reduce loss from breakage while in transit from the producers to consuming centers.

The specialists of the food research laboratory have made a study of method for packing shipping eggs in order to reduce the great losses from breakage that have occurred in the past. An instrument has been devised for measuring and recording the shocks to which cars containing eggs were subjected while in transit.

As a result of these experiments the specialists have recommended methods of packing eggs which reduce breakage to a minimum. These methods have been tried practically under a great variety of conditions, and have been incorporated as requirements in the graded and express classifications for the transportation of eggs.

Copies of the mimeographed circular may be obtained upon application to the department's food research laboratory, 22 Jackson Place, Indianapolis, Ind.

The accident happened while turning a corner at the foot of a hill. Hansen had his foot on the brake and a job the car got caught in a slip-off onto the accelerator. The car turned completely over and righted itself. A few weeks ago Mr. Hansen had his car broken while cranking a car. He is the manager of the Farmers Co-operative company here and is also president of the school board.

Agriculture Notes

The Seed Loan Fund.
Work of administering the $2,000,000 seed loan fund, appropriated by congress for the relief of farmers in the drought-stricken areas of the northwest, has been completed and the field office established at Fargo, N. D., has been closed. The relief fund was managed by Secretary of Agriculture, Wallace, through a committee appointed by him for the purpose, headed by Leon M. Esterbrook, chief of the bureau of plant industry, United States department of agriculture.

Officials look upon the completion of this important work with relief and with little criticism and much commendation, as very gratifying to all concerned. Records of the committee show that the agricultural bill making the fund available was signed March 3, 1921, a printed copy of the bill not being available to the department until the following week. After the necessary regulations and blank forms were drafted, procedure continued, and the fund was established in the field, that within seventeen days after the committee was appointed the first loan was made, and in a few days thereafter 17,500 applications for loans were received, and 14,000 loans were made, amounting to approximately $2,000,000. The total amount of interest, made from state reclamation fees, will probably not exceed $10,000.

Raising Pure-Bred Stock Requires Care

Drivers Journal-Stockman: "The man who thinks that all he needs to do to acquire fame and wealth is to buy a lot of purebred cattle, hogs, horses or sheep and then proceed to let them shift for themselves will soon learn the reputation of the man with the undesirable purebreds that we hope to eliminate," said E. W. Wayne, of the bureau of the industry of the department of agriculture in a recent talk before an audience of farmers.

Moral Standards.

Lincoln, June 29.—"Has the fight of woman against the double standard of moral conduct in a single standard and does the single standard mean that man has raised his standards or woman has lowered her standards to meet that of man?" This was the question asked Miss M. E. Taylor in charge of the social health section of the state department of health.

"I am afraid that many women are lowering their standards," Miss Taylor answered. "The double standard in Nebraska is appalling," Miss Taylor said, "and there is much work ahead of us."

T. Chapin of Winside, and Mr. Mark Stumger, Jr., of Wayne, were married Tuesday, June 28, 1921. The bride, Miss Edith Chapin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. W. Chapin, of Wayne, was given away by her father. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Hunsberger, pastor of the First Methodist church, at 10 o'clock. The bride wore a gown of white tulle and carried a bouquet of white flowers. The groom wore a suit of dark blue. The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. There were 100 guests.

The entire roof of Fred Weiske's store at Winside was torn off by a heavy storm last week. The rain poured through the upper story and ruined the goods in the store below. Lightning struck in four places in Wayne Friday night. A bolt struck Evergreen house, causing considerable damage. At the Standard Oil company a hole was knocked through the main pipe and the gasoline pump was stopped. A horse belonging to Mr. Northup was killed. A bolt passed down the lightning rod on the Richards Brothers livery stable, but no damage was done.

From Ponca Journal June 27, 1921. Two headache medicine aides were in town yesterday. On Sunday Bob Scott visited his farm in Wayne county. He has a very nice place and a large number of desirable improvements and additions to it.

Mr. Sherwood states that he is breaking the highest bid on his farm on an orchard. The fruit trees are in splendid condition, and will put out as many more every year. He broke thirty acres this season.

The trial of the bed-room of Landford Reynolds one night and took $25. Mr. Reynolds was asleep at the time. Miss Edith Chapin, daughter of A.

A disgraceful affair took place in Jackson last Sunday whereby an inoffensive boy named Curdinus Hoffert was shot and severely injured by a drunken desperado who was arrested and the awful punishment of a $20 fine imposed on him! According to such ideas of justice we suppose that the punishment of murder in that town would be about $50 fine.

The excursion train which went down to Sioux City on circus day was crammed to overflowing. Nearly 300 went from Ponca, and a large number also from Jackson and Dakota. Bob, the conductor, was his efficient, and managed affairs to the perfect satisfaction of every one on board.

Town was enlivened on Monday for a few minutes by a runaway. A pair of horses attached to a lumber wagon came tearing into town from towards the river without their driver. They stopped after coasting nearly the whole length of East street. The horses were somewhat blown, but the wagon was not injured. They ran from Mattison's Mill, about two miles distant. There was a load of lumber on the wagon when they started, but during the short flight it was strong promiscuously along the road.

Dakota county can lay the flattering unction to her soul that she possesses a race of mosquitoes that cannot be beaten anywhere. The woods around Covington is their lair, and in size and general appearance they resemble a young turkey, while their business end is, in stabbing capacity, equal to that of a healthy hornet. Just ask the pilgrims who went to the circus about them.

Business. Sioux City Journal: Observers of conditions throughout the country agree both as to the present unsatisfactory situation and, in spite of this, the ultimate business recovery. It is a good augury since it shows a reflection of confidence in the ability of the American people to regulate the pendulum of commerce. No one would be so foolish as to deny that some situations are beyond remedy now are bad; nearly everybody is able to see the indications that point to better conditions in the not distant future. It can be taken, really, that a thorough understanding of what is bad for business recovery will help materially in that recovery. It always is necessary for the physician to diagnose correctly the case of his patient or he will fail of the proper treatment.

Crop conditions just now are receiving much attention. It is a critical period, of course, for the major crops and there is much speculation, especially in the markets, as to the immediate developments. Wheat, it is observed, has commanded better prices at Chicago because reports insist that black rot is making inroads on the growing crops. Corn and oats plantations are affected by the same condition and also by the measure of uncertainty that attaches to their condition of growth and the maturing process. Uncertainty, however, which can affect prices always comes at this time of year and skepticism may be characterized as a normal condition of some minds which practice the discovery of untoward crop conditions.

Industrially things continue quiet in many lines, while others are decidedly picking up in activity. David Lawrence, writing for the Journal from Washington, says there is a better turn in business with the the American people may be a more gigantic task in its accomplishment than Washington now realizes. Also the move to establish a credit system in Europe for the stimulation of export buying and, consequently, the movement to foreign shores of American goods is a big undertaking with questionable features. It is recalled that the respective representatives of the respective countries of the American people to make the last Liberty loan and the Victory Loan successful, and the public at individuals cannot be expected to buy European securities with the same show of spirit. The refunding process may finally be shown back upon the big financial interests of the country, which will have to shoulder it if it carries out all. The American people are interested now first of all in working out their own problems instead of seeking solutions for the Europeans. It cannot be forgotten, however, that times have changed and that relations between America (the government, the public and individuals) and Europe are closer than ever and that prosperity cannot exist here with impoverishment continuing there. Business recovery in America will depend in no small measure on the business recovery in Europe. With that understanding, the American people will have to consider in some light Europe's problems as well as their own.

A. B. A. Cheques are safe, because if not countersigned they are useless to anyone but the owner. They are convenient, because hotels, railroads, steamship companies and merchants everywhere accept them as readily as cash in payment of bills, and because the only identification needed is the countersignature of the owner in the presence of the person accepting the Cheques.

WOULD GO FROM HOUSE-TO-HOUSE

Tennessee Farmer Wants To Go From House-to-House and Tell Everybody About Tanlac.

"If I were not so busy with my farmwork I would go from house to house and tell the people about Tanlac," said A. J. Livingston, a well-known farmer, living near Ashland City, Tenn.

"I had stomach and kidney trouble and suffered torment with my back and sides. The doctors could do nothing for me so I wrote to a friend of mine in Nashville about Tanlac and he advised me to try it. Having had heard so many favorable reports about it and sent me a bottle.

"After taking the first bottle I felt so much better that I ordered an other bottle for myself and the result is I am a well man. I told a friend of mine about it and ordered a bottle for himself and his wife. I can eat anything I want and it don't hurt me and can sleep like a log. To tell you the truth, I just simply feel like a new man and have more strength and energy than I have had in years. It is simply the grandest medicine in the world. I would like to see all of my friends and get those who are suffering to try it and I hope you will reach them through this testimonial, which I have gladly given.

"Tanlac, the celebrated medicine, which accomplished such remarkable results in this man's case, is a wonderful tonic, appetizer and invigorant. It builds up the system, creates a healthy appetite, promotes digestion and assimilation of the food and makes you feel strong, sturdy, and well as nature intended." 13011

Style Prompts Poem. New York, June 29.—Scant summer styles, as exhibited in these parts have inspired Rev. Dr. John Roch Stratton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church in New York, who was going through its second edition in the public print today.

Wrote Dr. Stratton: "They had a little skirt; The latest style, no doubt; But every time she got inside 'She was more than half way out.'"

In a prose forward delivered from his pulpit Sunday night, Dr. Stratton declared he did not advocate a return to the old street-sweeping style.

"There is a style for women's dresses which is in harmony with the laws of sanitation as well as the principles of modesty," he said.

Why Girls Get Jobs. Chicago, June 27.—A surplus of men clerks and not enough women clerks to supply the demand was the situation reported today by the Illinois Free Employment bureau, which gave the following reasons for the condition:

Women don't cock their feet on the desk and criticize the boss; they don't waste thirty minutes a day counting the smart papers; they don't leave the office at intervals to smoke a cigaret; their relatives are never indisposed; they do not gather in groups to gossip; they don't swear; they don't flirt; they don't boast; and they do the work assigned to them efficiently and without question.

As to Rain. (Sixty). The corn upon the western plain is stretching toward the sky. Now is the time to pray for rain. (The ground is muddling dry); No other method will obtain. No odds how hard we try.

Man doeth very wondrous things, He's wise to some degree, But can't control the air that brings The moisture from the sea. Upon the farmer's restless wings The clouds ride fast and free.

The rain that blesses field and mead Obys no human power; In other lines one may succeed Who does the best he can— But woe's the man who does not need The poor device of man.

than any other individual who is speaking to the public. He sees whither labor is headed, if it listens to the siren voice of radicalism. He sees that with certain soviet control in this country the workingman would be doomed to slavery such as he has never experienced or even dreamed.

A farmer who feeds himself in perplexing position must think and realize that he is not alone. The business world with few exceptions is having the same experience he is having. There is no economic balance. The retailer is blamed, because prices do not fall more rapidly. Yet the very wage owner who complains against any reduction in his wages, although there has been a general decline over a large range of articles. The electrician who receives $8 a day wonders why there is not more building. The manufacturer finds a lack of demand for his product. It all goes back to the central point—until there is a general reduction of costs, there can be no forward movement.

There is no complaint to be made against the great majority of these workers or business men. The former are anxious to hold all the income possible, and the latter are trying to keep from failure. A simple illustration of what faces the retailer will make this clear:

A certain staple food article that is bought heavily was reduced materially by the manufacturers in early spring, and the retailers were told that $1.64 a dozen would be bottom price and that they were warranted in filling their shelves at that figure. The store was hoisted, retailers accepted that statement and put in stocks at the new price. When the goods were fairly on the shelf, the manufacturer cut the price further 20 cents a dozen, leaving both the retailer and the wholesaler to bear loss on all their stock.

Such instances can be multiplied. The result is that the retailer tries to hold other articles up to a price that will "add up an average" as it is said from the fact that certain articles are too high. The agricultural implement dealer is in an even more unfortunate situation than the farmer.

The reason the country has not seen more failures is that the banks have not called for money. If they should call for money in any arbitrary way to the full extent, the country would be "broke" in a week and the wage earners would be without employment.

And at this very time certain wage earners lacking in vision, are seeking for a shorter hour week in different lines of work. Can they not see that this would be only another nail in their own coffin? Even if it is granted, it is still one more nail in their own coffin, because an accumulation of just such methods will finally break down the industry and agriculture of the country, and cause wide idleness and great depression.—Eight hours is a reasonable day's work. Anything less will determine us in a decade.

But behind all this are the constant nagging of the dialyog press and the convincing politicians, which strongly tend toward the unfortunate end suggested—whether it be revolution or depression and idleness.

Free speech and free expression, but not license.—A free press, but an American press, and not a hypocritical and dialyog press, spreading subtle poison against the interests of all the people.

Old Time Congress Needs.—Springfield, Mass., Republican.—As one compares this republican congress with those republican congresses following the civil war, they wish shapes itself that the leaders of today had somewhat the will and courage of the leaders of fifty and fifty years ago to consult the country's fiscal and financial needs the more and to consult their own fears of international annihilation the less.

WOULD GO FROM HOUSE TO HOUSE

Tennessee Farmer Wants To Go From House to House and Tell Everybody About Tanika.

"If I were not so busy with my farmwork I would go from house to house and tell the people about Tanika," said A. J. Livingston, a well-known farmer, living near Ashland City, Tenn.

"I had stomach and kidney trouble and suffered torment with my back and side. The doctors could do nothing for me so I wrote to a friend in Illinois in Nashville about Tanika and he advised me to try it, saying he had heard so many favorable reports about it and sent me a bottle.

"After taking the first bottle I felt so much better that I ordered another bottle for myself and the result is this man's case, is a wonderful tonic, appetizer and invigorant. It builds up the system, creates a healthy appetite, promotes digestion and stimulates the brain and makes you feel strong, sturdy and well as nature intended."

Style Prompts Seen. New York, June 28.—Seam summer styles, as exhibited in these parts have inspired Rev. Dr. John Russell Stratton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church to pen a "poom," which was going through its second edition in the public print today.

"There is a style for women's dresses which is in harmony with the laws of sanitation as well as the principles of modesty," he said.

Chicago, June 27.—A surplus of men clerks and not enough women clerks to supply the demand was the situation reported today by the Illinois Free Employment bureau, which declared the following reasons for the condition: "Women don't cock their feet on the desk and criticize the boss; they don't waste thirty minutes a day scanning the sport pages; they don't leave the office at intervals to smoke cigars; their relatives are never indisposed; they do not gather in groups to gossip; they don't swear; they don't flirt; they don't boast; they do their work assigned to them efficiently and without question."

As to Rain. The corn upon the western prairie is stretching toward the sky; Now is the time to wait for rain (The ground is maddening dry); No other method will sustain No odds how hard we try.

Man Booth very wondrous things, He's wise to some degree, But can't control the air that brings The moisture from the sea. Upon the tempest's restless wings The clouds ride fast and free.

The rain that comes, and goes, Obeys no human plan; In other lines, and may succeed, Who does the best he can. But wondrous nature does not need The poor device of man.

Don't fail to see these Wonderful Aeroplane Stunts.

than any other individual who is speaking to the public. He sees whether labor is hoaxed, if it leads to the strenuous voice of radicalism. He sees that with certain soviet control in this country the workman would be doomed to slavery such as he has never experienced or even dreamed.

A farmer who finds himself in perplexing position must think and realize that he is not alone. The business world with few exceptions is having the same experiences he is having. The retailer is blamed, because prices do not fall more rapidly. The very wage earner who complains against any reduction in his wage, although there has been a material decline over a large range of articles. The electrician who receives $8 a day wonders why there is not more building. The manufacturer finds a lack of demand for his product. It all goes back to the central point—until there is a general reduction of costs, there can be no forward movement.

There is no complaint to be made against the great majority of these workers or business men. The former are anxious to hold all the jobs as possible, and the latter are trying to keep from failure. A simple illustration of what faces the retailer will make this clear:

A certain staple food article—the one he bought—heavily was reduced materially by the manufacturer in early spring, and the retailers were told that $1.04 a dozen would be bottom price and that they were warranted in filling their shelves at that figure. As the cut was heavy, retailers carried that statement and put in stocks at the new price. When the goods were fairly on the shelf, the manufacturer cut the price further 70 cents a dozen, leaving both the retailer and the wholesaler to bear a loss on all their stock.

Such instances can be multiplied. The result is that the retailer tries to hold his articles up as long as possible that will sustain an average. This is made from the fact that certain articles are too high. The agricultural implement dealer is in an even more unfortunate situation than the farmer.

The reason the country has not seen more failures is that the banks have not called for money. If they should call for money in any other way to the full extent, the country would be "broke" in a week and the wage earners would be without employment.

And at this very time certain wage earners lacking in vision, are seeking for a shorter work week in different lines of work. Can they not see that this would be only another nail in their own coffin? Even if it is granted, it is still one more nail in their own coffin, because an accumulation of just such methods will finally break down the industry and agriculture of the country, and cause wide illness and great depression. Eight hours is a reasonable day's work. Anything less will undermine us in a decade.

But behind all this are the constant nagging of the distal press and the conniving politicians, who strongly tend towards the unfortunate end suggested—whether it be revolution or depression and illness.

Free speech and free expression, yes, but not license. A free press, yes, but an American press, and not a hypocritical and diabolical press spreading subtle poison against the interests of all the people!

Old Time Congress Needed.
Springfield, Mass., Republican As one compares this republican congress with those republican congresses following the civil war, the wish shapes itself that the leaders of today had somewhat the will and courage of the leaders of fifty and fifty-five years ago to consult the country's fiscal and financial needs the more and to consult their own fears of international ambushes the less.
