Concerning an imposter who was a cripple and claimed to be a student of the Pierce County, Cal. folks, of the beggar as follows: "A man giving his name as Otto Ziget was detected on Monday by City Marshal Sauter, soliciting funds in the city of Pierce on the pretext that he was a mute and a cripple. When he first saw him Mr. Koehler was over-seeing work done on the streets in the east part of town. Later he was in his mother's home when the fellow entered and, assuming himself Mrs. Koehler to give him some money, leaving the house the marshal approached him and told him he was an imposter and would have to quit begging in the city and to leave town. They were near the railroad track and the fellow said, "I'll have a little talk with you" and started to run up the track. Mr. Koehler followed him, but was unable to overtake him. Seeing his brother driving into town Mr. Koehler stopped him and with the use of the automatic they caught the man about a mile out. He was arraigned before Judge Beach on the charge of being an imposter and was fined $50.00. In searching the man a ladies' stocking was found containing $50.00 in small change. Besides this the right hand pocket of his coat was filled with silver and all the other pockets contained money. After taking his fine he said he had recently escaped from the Madison county sheriff and on several occasions had barely escaped being sent to the penitentiary. He said he deliberately placed his arm under a train when it was cut off in order to make himself a cripple and that he would never work in this country. He wore a full beard, was dressed in rags and left town immediately after leaving the court room.

A Pacific Hoidup. Editor and Publisher—San Francisco, as well as New York is having trouble with the musicians' union. The San Francisco Bulletin engaged the Creole Jazz band of eight performers to play in the Civic auditorium while the "retains" from the Dempsey-Coxeter fight were being displayed for the benefit of the public.

The day before the event the musicians' union notified the Creole band members that they would not be allowed to appear, and if they did they would be heavily fined. The result was that according to a rule adopted by the union, not less than thirty musicians must be employed for entertainments given in the Civic auditorium.

The Bulletin, rather than disappoint the crowd, swallowed its pride and indignation and agreed to give the Nebraska Potatoes Command High Prices Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 6.—Nebraska grain prices are commanding, as much as a dollar per bushel more than last year. The price of wheat this year on the Chicago market, according to an announcement by the Kansas market and crop estimates. The potatoes are of practically the same kind and raised under similar conditions, but the difference in quality is mainly attributed to a new manner of grading now used in the commercial potato districts of Nebraska.

The bureau pointed out the market of last Tuesday as an example of the great difference in potatoes of the same rating from the three states.

On the day Kansas potatoes sold from $1.30 to $1.40 per 100 pounds and Missouri grown varieties, sorted brought $1.75 and $1.85 a bushel. Nebraska grades from the Kearney district sold not lower than $2.25 and up to $2.60.

The exceptionally good natural conditions under which Nebraska potatoes are grown is given by the bureau as one reason for the higher prices, but grading is considered as the chief cause. A bureau of markets and crop estimates maintains a branch at Kearney during the harvesting season to supervise the grading of potatoes and make reports. The Chicago market is said to have been quick to recognize the superiority of Nebraska spuds shipped under these conditions.

Most of the fields show potatoes of good size and quality, but there are less to the hill than last year. Good potatoes are pronounced as very good now but the early crop was curtailed by dry weather. Conservative estimates place the commercial potato crop this year at about 600 cars with other reports running a little higher.

Condition of Corn Crop in Nebraska

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 6.—Pis is ripe and corn is corn, but climatic conditions in Nebraska cause such a variance in average growth and size of the stalks, ears and kernels that a distinct difference is noted in the physical structure of the same variety of corn grown under different conditions in the state, according to a recent bulletin issued by the agricultural experiment station of Nebraska.

The bulletin states that in the western part of the state the corn, as compared with that grown in the comparatively favorable conditions of eastern Nebraska shows a dwarfish growth habit. Soil is said to have little to do with the condition, it being mainly attributable to the varied climatic conditions of the east and west. Radical differences in this nature which are shown in the bulletin are as follows:

Western Nebraska has an average five or ten lower temperature during the corn growing season than eastern Nebraska. The frost free period is fifty days shorter while western Nebraska only has one-half the rain of the eastern part. Northern Nebraska is four degrees cooler during the corn growing season and its frost free period—twenty days shorter.

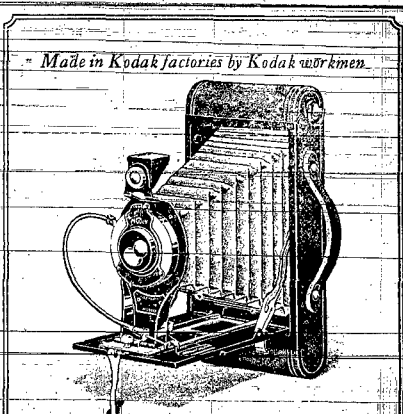

As an example of the effect of these conditions the bulletin points out an experiment with corn from Kimball county and Richardson county taken in 1915, when conditions were pronounced the same as this year. These are stated as representing the two extremes:

As shown by average measurements "the stalk height in Kimball county was 60 percent of that in Richardson county, ear height, 35 percent; leaf area, 30 percent; ear weight, 34 percent; ear circumference, 30 percent; and leaf thickness, 20 percent. This indicates according to the bulletin "that proceeding west in the state, the gain became lighter and more in circumference, fewer roads and are scrubby in appearance. The shelling percentage lowers, and the kernels become shorter and non-flinty, as well as slightly lighter in weight."

Editor and Publisher—San Francisco, as well as New York is having trouble with the musicians' union. The San Francisco Bulletin engaged the Creole Jazz band of eight performers to play in the Civic auditorium while the "retains" from the Dempsey-Coxeter fight were being displayed for the benefit of the public.

The day before the event the musicians' union notified the Creole band members that they would not be allowed to appear, and if they did they would be heavily fined. The result was that according to a rule adopted by the union, not less than thirty musicians must be employed for entertainments given in the Civic auditorium.

The Bulletin, rather than disappoint the crowd, swallowed its pride and indignation and agreed to give the ough to seek an interpretation of the dream of the lean king which devoured the fat king. So what Secretary Hughes has described as the progressive impoverishment of the masses of Russia has continued, and they have arrived at the present apocalyptic stage. The consequences unacceptably flowed from the conditions that were artificially established. Lenin's policy was not up to the level of that of equal which forces against future need. Lack of rain precipitated the famine, but its cause lies elsewhere. Bolshevism reduced production to the verge of extinction and there was no reserve, which nature turned slack.

Cost of Governing Too High. New York Herald: The cost of pretty nearly everything in this country is coming down, faster and faster than the cost of government, but the cost of government should come down faster and farther than pretty nearly anything else.

It is generally agreed that the weather this week has been ideal for maturing corn, and it is further agreed that the crop will reach high expectations in both quantity and quality.

The person who is constitutionally too tired and inert to work and accomplish things for himself is likely to be jealous, envious, mad, and spiteful at another who applies himself and wins desirable results.

It is interesting to note the success which followed a little advertising effort in the Herald last week. A woman wanted to sell an article of second-hand furniture, and expressed her wish in four lines. The telephone commenced ringing at 7 o'clock Friday morning, and kept it up intermittently all day. The piece of furniture was sold to the first inquirer, and the lady commences to advertise again. Advertise something people want at an attractive price, and there is no dearth of customers.

Thomas E. Wilson, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers, informed a convention of packers in Chicago this week that price declines in wholesale meat products during the last year ranged from sixteen to forty-seven per cent, and that practically all by-products are lower than in 1913. This information will be a source of much encouragement to consumers who have been nettled by the wide and seemingly unfair discrepancy between the price of the animal on hoof and that of meat over the block.

One man who just returned from a two weeks' outing, said he could not stand so much hotting, and felt a profound sense of relief in knowing the experience was over. He says he feels like one who has had a spell of hot weather and suffers weakness due to the fever breaking. After being in the convalescent ward for a few weeks, he thinks he will get over the effects and be himself again. He thinks a few weeks' outing each year is a good thing to stimulate appreciation of home and, by contrast, show up the ease of one's accustomed employment.

Violence broke in the only war clouded seven years ago this month. It was a dull day in the month of August, 1914, when no declaration of war had been made. Germany digressed from the usual order of paying grocery bills on the first of August by declaring war on Russia. August 2 slid along without an eruption. On August 3 Germany declared war on France. Now the outcome in the war business, England declared war on Germany August 4, Austria did not get other chores done until August 6, Italy on August 8, Russia until August 6. France declared war on Austria August 10. After teetering on the verge for ten days, Italy declared war on Turkey August 20. Then began the greatest tragedy in all history. Declarations of war came in quick succession. "The whole civilized world was finally involved. The result was death and destruction, and huge bills of expense from which surviving man will suffer for a century or more. The frightful experiences of war present a powerful argument in behalf of President Harding's proposition for universal disarmament as a means to permanent peace.

During the special subscription campaign we are drawing to a close, the Herald has maintained unusual fairness and impartiality to all candidates. No one can reasonably expect more than a fair deal, because it would be unfair to other candidates. All are deserving, but there is only one automobile to be awarded, and it will go to the candidate who shows the greatest number of credits when the sealed ballot box is opened. Twelve hundred applicants who do not win the first prize, must understand that the Herald would not favor one above another if it could, and it could not if it would. A candidate in a campaign of the sort must show the courage of one who is running for office, although the advantage of this subscription business over politics lies in the fact that every one reporting each week gets something, whereas those defeated in a campaign get nothing. After the campaign, the records will be available for inspection, though the Herald wishes to review the records of the campaign, should so without delay, so that the manager who will soon leave, may be present to assist.

RATE REDUCTIONS.

Lowering freight rates $2 not always easy according to the experience of Henry Ford in that direction. It seems authorities will not permit him to revise his railroad rates downward as fast as he would like. Commenting on this condition, The New York Daily News says: "While everybody is demanding lower prices, Henry Ford has run up against a strange obstacle in that direction. He could lower automobile prices of much as he rapidly as he wished, but he has to be careful how he lowers railroad rates. Government authorities will not stand for any undue haste.

"Mr. Ford wants to lower certain freight rates ten percent on one of his recently acquired Detroit and Ironton Railroad. Applying to the interstate commerce commission for authority, which he supposed was his right of charge, he was astonished to be told that he could not reduce the rates more than 5 percent a month. Such graduation of his rate-cutting, which was necessary in order to give competing carriers a chance to re-vise their own charges accordingly.

"Possibly it is all right. The interstate-commerce commission usually has pretty good reasons for its rulings, however inconceivable they may be to the taxpayer. It does seem, though, as one newspaper critic intimates, that the commission is sometimes disposed to grudge its rate-fixing by the standards of inefficient or over-capitalized roads rather than by the standards of the honest and competent."

Congress' Task Clean Cut.

Chicago Tribune: Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's outline of complete tax program before the house ways and means committee probably will be popular with a vast number of Americans, but as an initial step toward accomplishment of much needed tax revision it will be of value. In considering the secretary's program, the committee, and later the house and senate, must remember that taxes at best are unpopular and burdensome. The task before them is to frame a bill which will be necessarily popular, but which will distribute the burden where it will do as little harm as possible in retarding the productive business and industry.

Politics Determining Factor.

Chicago Tribune: Economics is a clogged word on the tongue, but congress seeks constantly to apply it where it does the most harm nationally and the least to the citizen. A skeleton is the skeleton now to have, but when congressmen propose to amend the skeleton to fit them, they throw away some of the parts there ought to be genuine reform.

New "Grandfather" Clause.

Omaha World-Herald: The New York legation commission rules that a man past 38 cannot enter the ring, which bars Jack Johnson. Our colored friends may roll that another "grandfather" clause.

A Question for the Believers.

Buffalo Inquirer: If the behelver had succeeded in revolutionizing the world, would they then be the breed now?

Passing of Sid Hatfield.

New York Times: He was an orderly, quiet and successful shooting match. That it took place in the shadow of a courthouse carried through him a notorious moralizing or special virtuous indignation. These men are of an inimitable and light quality. Meanwhile Time is not so slow in killing off their most active specimens.

Not All Milk and Honey.

Dall Rapids, S. D. Tribune: The news-balls that are being daily cast upon the difficulties of making newspapers pay, save the flash times have passed. A lot of people have had a goodly number of newspaper plants is nothing less than a gold mine, but if they had to pay the bills and keep the wheels turning they might have a different impression.

Filver: Chorus Girls Chaperone.

Chicago News: According to Florence Ziegfeld, the typical chorus girl now is much smaller than was the type of a few years ago. Perhaps it has been found that the upkeep of the filver model costs less.

We will have home grown melons this week direct from the grower. The quality promises to be fine and the price within reach of everybody. Vinegars for Pickling or Table Use

Our brands more than comply with the requirements of the state and federal pure food laws. UNCLE WALT

The Post Philosopher.

Another Crusade.

When peanuts will no longer please when peanuts are not sold; they are a menace to the race, they're causing grief untold, they're bringing in disease, and troubles manifold. One solution for their extermination and their at all it tells, refuse their teacher as a guide, although she's their delight, and not her shells. I've organized a band of guys to fight the peanut cause, and shortly we'll have our rifle and put it in a hour, and if you think the cause is wise, produce your ample purse. We cannot turn this big crusade upon the modern plan, unless you promptly give us aid, and shell out all you can; dip up the bucks with a spade, and send them in a van. We can't change long-continued habits, but if you're plating no, for evil will rise up again, unless our link is strong; we need all kinds of iron-men to help our work, and we have a high and noble aim, our purposes are broad, but we can't queer the peanut game and place it, again the soul, unless the reader, gent of daime, will send along a "Walt" column, that will cheer us, reach our goal, it may not be this year, but soon or late the bells will ring the peasant dawn, that's clear, and you will produce your roll and send a sample here.

Exquisite Food.

Our ladies of the Germans, a few brief months ago, inspired our songs and sermons, filled every tale of woe; and now, all jumping to keep our rolls from slipping, we are so busy humping the hatred has to go. We used to hate the Kaiser, the author of all crimes; but now, if we're at this stage, at least we have less time; we have to visit an axe, while in the summer, waxes, to pay our income taxes, that comes the winter. I noted that, angry peasant, forsakes the human breast, that we, in kindly fashion, can, old spectacles rest, that we grow tired of keeping our rolls from slipping, we are so busy humping the hatred has to go. I noted that, angry peasant, forsakes the human breast, that we, in kindly fashion, can, old spectacles rest, that we grow tired of keeping our rolls from slipping, we are so busy humping the hatred has to go.

brains caused, this life becomes a stretch of woe. So let them, while they draw their breath, smoke on! Though smoking may be wrong; not with the front of Dame MACHO, Zé, insurance their course in language, strokes, let them smoke themselves to death; for they'll be dead so long!

Stepping Higher.

In strong forerunners, a number of the reformers, is drifting into a punnier groove; it is to see men striving to gain the heights sherd, but will stand for driving through many may be lost. And nowadays reforming is driving reformers into a punnier groove; it is to see men striving to gain the heights sherd, but will stand for driving through many may be lost. And nowadays reforming is driving reformers into a punnier groove; it is to see men striving to gain the heights sherd, but will stand for driving through many may be lost.

Somehow.

A terrific wind blowing across the wilting world, the sun whose curves are showing, the sea like mirrored gold; but somewhere it is snowing, under a complete of cold. Somewhere the clouds are dishing, all kinds of snow and sleet; somewhere the boys are wishing, while gnawing out their feet for weather, for fishing, a sport that can't be beat. The weather's something awful, the pavements smelt of tar, guage, hit or miss, and says he has his crew full of climate such as this. But somewhere men are freezing, still they're sneezing, and colder still they grow, and there's no way of casting the agonies they're feeling. I may be tracing the lands with earth-goods, where lamish wolves are racing in lonely neighborhoods, and polar bears are chasing the water between the words. The heat, in language spiteful, we roast till we're disgraced, but in those regions, faithful who suffer, we're free to waste, they'd think it most delightful if they could have a taste. Somewhere men dress in leather, to show down from the blood, and have a cub's habit, in wilderness vast; so let us prize this weather, which is too good to last.

New Prices on Titan and International Tractors Now Lowest Ever Quoted

EFFECTIVE immediately, we make another big reduction in the prices of Titan and International tractors. These reductions wipe out all former advances and place Titan and International tractors at the lowest prices at which they have ever been sold.

International 8-16 $900

Titan 10-20 $900

This price is about one-fourth less than the price at which the 8-16 sold prior to March of this year. The new figure is the lowest at which it was ever sold. The new price includes all the necessary equipment—platform, fenders, governor, belt pulley—features which must be paid for extra on most tractors.

This is the lowest price ever quoted on the Titan, considering the equipment now included (formerly sold extra). Up to March of this year the price was $1,200—today it is $900. At this figure the Titan 3-16 tractor is the best value in the farm power field.

The International 15-30 has been reduced to $1,750—lower than it has ever been before. The man who needs a 4-50 tractor cannot find a better investment than the 15-30 at this price. (All prices f. o. b. Chicago.)

Considering quality, power, equipment and the service which follows every machine, Titan and International tractors at these new low prices are unquestionably the best buy in the tractor market.

As these prices have been made regardless of manufacturing costs, we do not guarantee to maintain them.

These prices certainly justify the immediate purchase of a tractor. Put it at the horse-killing work of hot weather plowing, and your fall and winter belt work.

See our tractor dealer for full information on deliveries and terms.

Under Difficulties.

It's hard for me to write a punche when life is full of care, when bleak afflictions, with no pun and haunt me in my lair, when flies ascend at my nose, and I have a picnic there. And yet I have to write a hay before the night arrives, although the solar rays today felt much like red-hot knives, and I can't force my thoughts to stray from prickly heat and hives. Of what shall I bake poets writing? All things are madly scorn, and victory is won, by hardware; by hardware how are tort, giving attacks is a sight, and man was made to mourn; a strange remedy for a man but no laughs in me rise, save those that treat of bric-a-brac, and jugs of noble size; and I saw my lyre and screan and I saw a book I find. I hit the door. And thinking of the door I weep; it's caused me lots of woes; it always blinds my eyes, when through the darkened room I creep, it bats me on the nose. And of my nose it has been said by King of Valatad type, that it is of too rich a red, it's color far too rich; that the Demon Run is dead and men drink liquid type. And so I proceed; and divers topics greet my eyes, in my dark hour of need. I write a hay—my nose—some—flow, and earn my fragrant feed.

State Doesn't Support People.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: The president is right. There is menace in the belief that the state must support the people. After all, the state is a creation of the people; they have blown the breath of life into it. It will fall without their support and active participation. States are built from the people upward and not from the figureheads and symbols of state downward. The president has shown the evil roots of the tree. But this ax will need to be laid at those roots by many men, in many places, and through many years before they can be hacked away.

Beresford, S. D., Republican: Careful accounting discloses, it is asserted, that if the road which is being worked in North Dakota against the Frazier-Jenke-Hugen regime should be put, it will require $7,000,000 to put the state back on the books before the day of Townley rule. These are figures of special interest to rich old South Dakota.

State Fair Prizes to Boys' and Girls' Clubs

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 9.—Boys' and girls' club work and demonstrations have been given separate class in the premium list of the state fair, this year, according to the College of Agriculture. A total of $2,775.00 and several special prizes will be distributed among the young boys and girls. It is indicated that probably 25 counties will enter teams in the judging and demonstration contests, and it is thought that the exhibits of live stock, vegetables, fruits, sewing, etc., will be larger than at any previous fair.

The best judging and demonstration teams will receive five trips to the interstate fair at Sioux City, Ia., where they will represent Nebraska in competition with teams from other states. The best judging team will go to the national judging show.

One Coleridge Farmer Expresses Optimism

Drivers Journal-Stockman: One of the largest strings of corn-feds that has been received at the yards for some time was brought in by Jesse Lowther of Coleridge. He had in seven cars of Shorthorns totaling 110 head and averaging 1,300 pounds and the entire string sold to a packer for eastern shipment Monday at $9.00 a hundred weight. These cattle were all bought here at the Omaha yards last week, some of them being bought the latter part of September and the remainder the first of October. They were all laid down at Coleridge at a cost of $8.50. The first three or four weeks they were put on a hay and alfalfa ration and then they were put on a moderate snappet-corn and alfalfa ration before being given the full ration of shelled corn and alfalfa. At the time that they were put into the feed-lot they weighed 775 pounds, so that in the time that they were on feed they put on the very substantial gain of 545 pounds per head.

"I made money on these cattle—that is, they gave me a very good price for my corn," remarked Mr. Lowther in commenting on the sale. "I did not raise nearly enough corn to take care of the feeding of them, but I could get plenty in my neighborhood at a fairly good margin to enable me to come out ahead on the feeding. Many feeders do not take into consideration when they are feeding cattle and having hogs follow them that the hogs are making money and adding to the value of the corn that is put into the feed-lot. I always have hogs following my cattle, thus killing two birds with one stone."

"If feeders this fall can get help from the banks they are going to feed all of the cattle that they can get their hands on, as they realize that this is the only way that they can get the money out of their corn, because there will be so much corn this year that it will not bring the price that it would have brought with a smaller yield. I am going to feed the number of cattle this fall, whether the money situation gets any better or not, because there is money in cattle if they are handled right."

Mrs. J. H. Brugger, daughter Mildred, and son, Chas. H. Chapin, are in Wayne Tuesday afternoon.

State Doesn't Support People. Philadelphia Public Ledger: The president is right. There is menace in the belief that "the state must support the people." After all the state is a creation of the people, they have blown the breath of life into it. It will fall without their support and active participation. States are built from the people upward and not from the figureheads and symbols of state downward. The president has shown the evil roots of the tree. But the ax will need to be laid at those roots by many men, in many places, and through many years before they can be hacked away.

Should Interest South Dakota. Bessford, S. D., Republican: Careful accounting discloses, it is being worked in North Dakota against the Fraction-Lemke-Hager regime. If it succeed, it will require $7,000,000 to put the state back on the basis it was before the day of Townley rule. These are figures of specific interest to rich old South Dakota.

One Cologridge Farmer Expresses Optimism

Drovers Journal—Stockman: One of the largest strings of corn-feds that has been received at the yards for some time was brought in by Jesse Lowther of Coleridge. He had in seven cars of Shorthorns totaling 119 head and averaging 1,300 pounds and the entire string sold to a packer for eastern shipment Monday at $9.05 a hundred weight. The entire cattle were all bought here at the Omaha yards last week, some of them being bought the latter part of September and the remainder the first of October. They were all laid down at Coleridge at a cost of $3.60. The first three of four weeks they were put on a hay and alfalfa ration and then they were put on a moderate snapped-corn and alfalfa ration before being given the full ration of shelled corn and alfalfa. At the time that they were put into the feed-lot they weighed 775 pounds, so that in the time that they were on feed they put on the very substantial gain of 545 pounds per head.

"I made money on these cattle," Mr. Lowther is commenting on the sale. "I did not raise nearly enough corn to take care of the feeding of them, but I could get plenty in my neighborhood at a fairly good margin to enable me to come out ahead on the feeding. Many feeders do not take into consideration when they are feeding cattle and having hogs follow them that the hogs are making money and adding to the value of the corn that is put into the feed-lot. I always have hogs following my cattle, thus killing two birds with one stone."

"If feeders this fall can get help from the banks they are going to feed all of the cattle that they can get their hands on, as they realize that this is the only way that they can get the most out of their corn, because there will be so much corn this year that it will not bring the price that it would have brought with a smaller yield. I am going to feed the number of cattle this fall, whether the money situation gets any better or not, because there is money in cattle if they are handled right."

Mrs. J. H. Bruggen, daughter Millard, and son Dale, of Chapin yesterday were in Wayne Tuesday afternoon.

J. M. Strahan, Paul Mines, Frank Brady and W. C. Hunter were among Wayne golf players in attendance at the tournament in Norfolk this week.

Mrs. Mel Goodyear and Mrs. Ray Reynolds and son and daughter left Monday for Park, S. D., to visit the family of Bert Morgan, formerly of this place.

Mrs. Selma Maiders arrived here Monday to visit her mother and niece, Theodore and Helen Baumgart, at the R. O. Stricker home in the Wayne vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Riese and daughter, Pearl, went to Winside Saturday evening to visit relatives, Mr. Riese returning Monday and Mrs. Riese and daughter remaining for several days.

Miss Mamie Welbau and Miss Abigail Manning returned Tuesday from a few days' visit with Miss Emma Schuering at Hartington. Miss Schuering was at one time a teacher in the Wayne city schools.

Miss Alice McKeon returned at her home in Wayne the following relatives over Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Slaughter and Miss Gladys Cook of Burke, S. D.; Mrs. A. C. Williams of Nabrara, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Lewis of Norfolk, and Miss Blanche and Master Terrance Slaughter of Moberly, S. D.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cunningham arrived home Friday from their automobile trip to points in Montana and Idaho having been about two months, and returning in the best of health and spirits. They drove leisurely and were not fatigued by long drives during the trip without causing trouble aside from a couple of punctured tires. Mr. Cunningham took with him a few tools which he is likely to be needed, but did not have occasion to use any. The travelers did not rush through towns and cities, but had their very slow, and carefully. Mr. Cunningham says he came back better satisfied than ever with Wayne and Wayne county. While the business district here is not up to the standard reached in many western towns, the residence section of Wayne is superior, and the country surrounding this city is no worse than desirable. People journeying elsewhere will join Mr. Cunningham in expressing favor for this spot on the western prairie.

By obtaining cost figures on the same farms each year, or at longer regular intervals, the department is able to compile very practical information relative to farm management.

This work was started by the department in Indiana in 1910, when all the farms in a given area were studied. A survey was made on the same farms in 1913 and each year since. The same method of farm-management studies is being conducted in general farming areas and in Ohio and Wisconsin, on citrus and truck farms in Florida; on 150 farms used. Comparative studies are made on farms using tractors and in several other states where tractors are used, and is known as area work.

and tenant farms showing the onic effect of crop rotation, the feet, different systems have on yield, the comparative merits of fertilizers, the crops raised on the farm, and the advantages of labor-saving equipment.

Since the first surveys were made, tractors have been purchased and used on one some of the farms under observation, thus giving an opportunity to study their efficiency and to compare systems of farming in Ohio and Wisconsin, on citrus and truck farms in Florida; on 150 farms used. Comparative studies are made on farms using tractors and in several other states where tractors are used, and is known as area work.

How to Bake a Fruit Pie

Juicy fruit pies present unexpected difficulties to the home cook owing to their tendency to become soggy.

Specialists in the experiment kitchen of the United States department of agriculture have found, in the course of their experiments, that if the undercrust is prebaked until slightly brown, the pie will be much better. Another point brought out in connection with pie-making, especially in warm weather, is that speed in handling is an important factor. If the housewife does not wish her pie to become soft and consequently difficult to roll and lift.

Pests Destroy Wheat.

If all the wheat destroyed annually by pests could be saved and made into flour the United States department of agriculture says it would equal approximately 4,700 barrels to the yearly output of the nation. The annual production of wheat in this country for the crop period 1911 to 1919, inclusive, was 783,329,500 bushels. The annual loss from disease during this period was 147,269,500 bushels.

While it is not possible entirely to eliminate wheat diseases, it is possible to reduce the toll much "hollow" wheat has been in recent years, says the department. One branch of the work of the office of cereal investigations in the bureau of plant industry is to work out the preventive and control measures for the diseases of all cereal crops. Another branch of the work of this office, which is of equal importance in increasing production of cereal crops, is the development and introduction of superior varieties of grain which produce higher yields in localities where they are especially well adapted, or which have disease-resistant qualities. This work is carried on in cooperation with the various state experiment stations, and is many

Frank Gaertner's Statement to the People

You will be surprised to learn that I am going out of business; that I am closing out and quitting. Other interests demand my personal attention and I am compelled to make this announcement to the people who have traded with me for so many years. I have engaged Mr. Chas. Glass of Minneapolis, Minn., to close out my entire stock. I have placed the matter in his hands and have let him use his own judgment as to prices. Policy of U. S. Unchanged. Washington Post: Secretary of State Colby, in his well remembered address to the American people, issued notice upon the rulers of Russia that they need not expect a resumption of diplomatic relations with America until a stable government has been established in that country, which was able and willing to carry out its undertakings and protect the lives and property of American citizens. The Harding administration evidently is inclined to adhere to this view, since no steps have been taken to recognize the Lenin government, and Secretary Hughes has served formal notice that no negotiations to that end can be considered.

Constantly Growing

The number of patrons who are learning to make our filling station their service station is constantly growing, and there is ample reason for this increase.

People demand service—but many places of business have no conception of the word. Service at our station means the very best grades of gasoline and motor oil from your motor, in addition to all of the little courtesies that tend to make motoring a pleasure.

For all of this you pay no more—in most instances less. Fasting in any one of these, we would feel that we had utterly failed in rendering service in all that the word implies.

Maximum Service Gasoline and Monogram Oils get you there and back again.
