School Clothes For Boys

The "free and easy" days of vacation are over for your boy now. It's back to school and study.

With this annual turn of events in the youngster's life comes his request for new clothes. He wants to be as well dressed as his classmates and hence, nothing will please him better than a new fall suit and overcoat. In supplying those needs as his parent, no doubt these remarkable values will interest you.

port, salaries that year amounting to $71,468,004, more than twice as much as last year and to approximately 5,000 less persons. "Seventy-eight fatal accidents, directly responsible from injuries received in industrial plants, occurred during the past two years," the report declares, "principally from lack of proper protection and safety appliances. This year the fatalities will not be so large, chiefly due to increased attention given by industrialists to installation of safety devices for their employees." More machinery guards have been installed during the last two years than ever before, Mr. Kennedy says, and the proper factory illumination is also beginning to receive a larger amount of attention. "This betterment alone will reduce factory accidents from 11 to 20 percent," according to statistics. "Industrial workers will have better protection through laws recently enacted providing for a direct return of factory conditions to the state commissioner," Mr. Kennedy declared. "From these the commissioner can ascertain immediately where violations are being made of standing laws, as well as from reports of the various insurance companies who are constantly suspecting the plants."

Fire Losses in State.
Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 19.—Fire losses in Nebraska during the last seven months amounted to $1,198,927, according to a report made here by C. Z. Harford, state fire marshal. The total number of fires reported in that period was 915, more than half of which originated in Lincoln and Omaha. An outstanding feature of the report is the percentage gain in the number of fires, investigated as of secondary origin. Forty-six fires of this nature are reported for the entire year of 1920 and twice as many as reported during 1919. Sixteen of these fires were investigated and reports made up to August 1. In the seven-month period the report shows 6,720 orders issued against three regular fire inspectors from a total of 18,324 inspectors. Complaints asking for condemnation or repair number 766, although the findings have not been announced on all cases, according to the report.

Former Wauna County Girl Visits Alaska

Miss Helen Schemel, formerly of Hoskins and at one time student in the Wayne State Normal, now a teacher in the Lincoln schools, has been enjoying a trip to Alaska, and extracts from the following description of her trip are reprinted recently in the Lincoln Journal:

"Have had a grand and glorious time so far. I only have one regret and that is that I didn't bring along more things. As it is, I have piled on every heavy thing I have and as a result I feel like I used to when I prepared for my trip out to the Otto Miller school. Yesterday I tried to shiver along and as a result I have had rheumatic pains in my hip and feet. If anyone ever asks me advice regarding the kind of clothing to take on an Alaskan tour I shall certainly know how to answer in light of my adventures. The most significant articles of wearing apparel in my eyes at present are a thick flannel union suit and a pair of woolen trousers. I have also had a pair of heavy socks. I have a pair of swimming suit and several pairs of hose, my Jersey jacket and plaid shirt besides my geyser shirt and long coat and rubber gloves. This winter blowing across the water and coming up it does from glaciers, strikes into the narrows."

"We finally reached Cordova after a trip of precisely eight days, lasting seven hours. I was about already worn out when we landed. My trip isn't the most enjoyable kind of life under present conditions. You know the strike did knock the bottom out of shipping at least in the northern Pacific. Between Juneau and Cordova we lost some fifty days due to incompetent handling and poor weather. The steamer, the Janau, arrived Tuesday at 1:30 a.m. and was scheduled to dock at Cordova Wednesday at about 8 p.m. We left the capital in seemingly fine condition and got out about thirty miles when the most terrific pounding commenced down in the engine room."

"The hose grew loose and leaked and suddenly the boat gave a lurch and then settled down just as the engine gave forth their dying breath. The piston head had blown off. We stayed right there until 3 a.m. the next day and lost about fourteen hours in that way. Wednesday at 11 a.m. we were on our way again and had just gotten into the real ocean of Alaska, far away from land."

"Even though the boat lay anchored, it tilted a lot and I became seasick, so gave up and went to bed. About three o'clock the next morning the sickness became oppressive because of a wind change and sacrificed all the repairs of the previous day in order to get a sheltered anchorage. At noon we anchored in Nuchek bay, about fifty miles from Cordova. There we remained until Friday at 7 p.m. when the engine quit."

"The crew of the cutter are several very bright good miners. Electricity is scarce in Alaska and no one even has a flashlight. I was the well lighted mines and the equally well lighted streets of several deserted mining towns adjoining Cordova. The only one of the tremendous population of the city. At 2:30 we saw a glorious sunrise. You see the sun is out of sight for about four or five hours now but it never sets any day. At twilight, I just stepped out onto the porch with a book and had no trouble reading the print and it was 12 p.m. You know I feel like the man who has had one too many drinks. This lack of darkness gets me and somehow can't get right with the sun. I seem to have lost all time sense. In fact, my brain is muddled when I try to grapple with the time situation."

"Up here a fire always feels good. We generally have a fire and in the sitting room fire feels pretty good. This damp climate has got me and I have a sore throat. Talk about wet, everything here is water. Bays, rivers and lakes are everywhere you look. You can't even step on a dry spot if you look square. See, this is tundra and you sink into it up to your ankles the moment you step on the hard wood. Quest looks like stuff if it is not so spongy and composed of vegetable fibres wet to saturation. It often gets the four or five inches of snow. Cordova must be planted a little higher they have to haul soil from 100 miles. How would you like that? Needless to say, all cargo stuff has to be shipped from Seattle. The interior, especially around Fairbanks, has some very productive farms but the fine agricultural districts but there are no railroad facilities to transport the produce to these coast towns. I am rather sorry I shall miss out on all the nice green vegetables this year. We depend on canned chowder altogether."

"Fairbanks is a city of the mid-nights but June 21 is a great festival with the people there. The whole town, equipped with picnic supplies, adjourns to a neighboring National Republican-herbert C. party of all the people." The official returns of the last general election show that the New York vote is 65 per cent. The northern lights in all their glory. "The democratic party is the glory."

"Just about this time I gave up and never would get to my destination. Here I had traveled between 3,000 and 3,500 miles to reach Cordova and was wearing out by simply drifting out of the sound only four miles from the Cordova docks. After a half hour delay the boat was run ashore and we docked just at midnight."

"All Cordova was down to see the long expected boat. The crowd was between 8 and 12 p.m. and here I was Friday past midnight. Mrs. Graham was down 16 hours after we had left eight years ago."

"The Trip. - "Furthest south we went. There are low, timbered hills skirting the water's edge, on either side. Going out, we saw several little pleasure boats also one of the new gift war ships on their way to Seattle. Every once in awhile down along the shore we saw salmon boats. The land certainly seems in small islands, most of them situated in lochs with the mainland and you cannot sail the two apart. You really don't feel as if you are passing an island in the coast proper. When we got out of the sound we reached a more open bay, now meeting the open sea. It began skirting Vancouver island."

"Again the channel narrowed. On both banks were low, heavily timbered hills, back of which were the coast ranges; many of the peaks still rugged with snow. To quote from Max Bendix's 'Iron Trail': 'All day long we mingled our way through an endless succession of straight and undulating, now successive through an inlet so narrow that the southern spruce trees seemed to be within a stone's throw, again flowing across some open reach where the pulse of the north Pacific could be felt. "Always roar at land was the deep growl of the Canadian forest, the hillsides were carpeted knee deep with moss, wet to saturation. Out of every notch occurred a falling stream whipped to milk white frenzy. (I counted seven waterfalls in about 600 feet. Never had an iron that water could become so furious.) Snow lay heavily upon the higher levels, white now and then from far inland, peered a glacier, like some dead monster crouched between the granite peaks. There were things too, and fishing stations and mines and quarries. Those burst suddenly into view, then slipped past with dramatic swiftness. "The first stop we made was at Ketchikan, 600 miles from Seattle. This was a very busy town and a distributing center for the southern portion of Alaska where the fishing industry holds first place and mining and lumbering come second. After leaving Ketchikan, the hills (we would say mountains) gradually gave way to more extensive hills where snow abounded and the timber line was much in evidence. The timber line slowly decreased in height as well as the temperature. At dinner Monday night we were in the Wrangell Narrows, one of the most strait places I ever saw despite the dangers of the passage. The tide was right so we made our way past hundreds of little coral reefs set in a sea of deep blue. At times the banks were so close we could only have thrown a stone from the deck to the shores. The red bays and orange range slicks and white light houses gave variety to the scene. We passed 27 milesburg right in the middle of the fishing industry. The low banks on either side of the channel were full of salmon traps and the usual many of the traps were being hauled out. Ketchikan, is built on a low flat plain and at least has the semblance of a town. So many of the Alaskan towns are built right at the base of overwhelming mountains whose sheer cliffs can never utter for building sites and so many of the streets are built right out over the water similar to wharves."

"The sea was stretched out for a long distance along the water's edge which really affords the only possible building place. That evening I saw one of the most beautiful sunsets I ever saw. The mountains set behind a range of snow capped mountains enveloped in mist and you can imagine the glorious coloring resulting from such a scene. I watched the changing color effects until 10:30. To make the beauty and more impressive we missed several miles of the coast. The coast to the northwest we saw the cruel, unrelenting snowy ranges of Baranof Island which Sitka is located. Against the western sky at one place was a small rocky islet, about as large as a city block. On it was a substantial, large, square, white lighthouse with its big blinking light coming right out of the center of the roof. There were several outbuildings and a launch, all painted white."

"Tuesday at 10 we docked at Juneau. I was up and dressed and on terra firma by 2 a.m. Juneau was all lighted up for about a mile or more down the way we stepped to the dock. The capital of the territory, like other Alaskan towns, is built right at the foot of a high mountain. Clinging to the very edge of the cliff are several very bright good mines. Electricity is scarce in Alaska and no one even has a flashlight. I was the well lighted mines and the equally well lighted streets of several deserted mining towns adjoining Cordova. The only one of the tremendous population of the city. At 2:30 we saw a glorious sunrise. You see the sun is out of sight for about four or five hours now but it never sets any day. Property owners in the business district should not be merely content to raise and harvest rents. As soon as financial conditions will permit they should improve their holdings and make the district more nearly harmonize with the rest of the town.

The Chicago Tribune has announced its intention to curtail space devoted to professional baseball, and directing attention to other sports. The Tribune says: "We still admit that professional baseball is a stimulus to boys, but journalism has overfed it with space."

It doesn't seem to be the purpose of members of the W. W. to work themselves, but try to keep others from working. The business district will be as much of a menace to civilization as the bolshevik of Russia.

With higher railroad rates, travel and freight shipments become less. With decreased use of the railroads, the necessity of higher rates is argued. The commission would finally supplant railway lines. It would cause a large volume of decreased rates as a just way to solve the transportation problem and meet the enlarged cost of operation.

Why not hunt out and emphasize things that are encouraging rather than those that are unfavorable? Why not consider conditions from all angles, and be unbiased and impartial in treating causes and contemplating remedies? The burdens of the war cannot be swept away by a stroke of legislative fiat. The only way to win the world with the bulk of supplies and unlimited credit to carry on hostilities for four years, and contribute to the economic depression of the war cannot be overcome by any sort of magic or visionary experiment. The way out lies in the facts with courage, help restore normalcy by breathing hope instead of despair, and by boosting instead of knocking. The paymaster and the values will be more equitable and consistent and times will be more stable and prosperous.

On a man's twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, he may well wonder that a woman had the courage and tenacity to join him in a life partnership. The evidence on which he had based expectations that he would succeed in domestic life is no argument to society, would not be considered convincing in any court in the land. But happily, little proof is required to inspire confidence. If it were not so, there would be an appalling death in matrimonial ventures. A young man's ambitions are great as they should be, and his trusting mind accepts successive vicissitudes and disappointments with admirable bearing and determination of the young man, after a trying course in ups and downs—mostly downs—usually win at least measurable success, and to the surprise of immediate relatives and friends, rather justify what seemed a rashly given confidence on the part of the bride of a quarter of a century before. This beautiful confidence, seeming to overlook the fact that the young man is really a force for achievement, and often defeats the judgment of doubting critics, and really confounds them with a triumph of his own will to society.

The picture of misery and despair of little children, dead and dying, famished and blighted, of a weak, strong people broken and dispirited, of a powerful nation reduced to impotency of cruel, brutal tyrants holding out their hands to the world, is not enough to prove to other countries of law and order, that their own people are not one of the chosen of mankind that an element of evil, and will not let the hungry and the weak suffer, but that which society has adopted for pro-

Fall Fashions Unfold As Prices Reach Low Levels

THE NEW COATS

Madison Chinchilla, a beautiful fabric of soft and durable texture, will be most popular also Bolivias, Rivolais, and kindred cloths.

Colorings are Ensign, Torrent, Malay, Ruchow, Ming, Bedoin, with a strong sentiment for black, especially in the better cloths. All coats are long.

New Frocks are Much in Favor

Canton Crepe, Crepe-backed Satin, Pouet Twill and Tricotine featured the dresses this Fall. Coat dresses are very popular. The use of bizarre trimming-effects makes the variety of wide scope.

With the advent of Fall comes the question of prices. Will they be lower? Yes. To the woman planning to buy, we say now is the time. Stocks are at their best, merchandise is fresh and in season, and prices right. Never were garments more beautiful.

THE NEW SUITS

They are from 36 to 40 inches long, with the exception of a few costumes which are heavily trimmed with bands of fur and are shorter.

Materials favored are Ermine, Evora, Andria, Panvelaine for novelties, with Tricotine and Velours for general wear. Suit Skirts are but slightly longer.

The New Fall Hats for Men

We have just unpacked a big fine line of new fall hats in all the newer shapes. They are smaller shapes chiefly in smooth felts and velours.

The colors for fall are various shades of browns and dark olive with a few tans and dark Oxford greys.

Prices for fall are much lower than last spring and about half of what they were a year ago—the range being $3.00 to $7.00—the latter range being the Stetsons.

Get your new fall hat now and enjoy it all fall. You are bound to need it in a week or two.

Fall caps are here, too, and we are showing some beautiful caps at $2.00 and $2.50.

ess. Society thus is left no course but one for its own protection, and that is to combat the evil with all the force it can command. Other-wise society could not escape witnessing the destruction of itself and the ruin it had developed.

In the world today there is a strong backwash from the great war, that knows no ambition and has no inspiration. Mankind cannot, however, be without some kind of impulse, wherever degradation finds its heavy load in the spoiling of good. Law and order constitute the instruments that oppose the spirit of anarchy, and all who stand for the right are looked upon as the enemy.

No precision marks the plan of these destroyers, although their conception of victory is practical in that it provides complete destruction. That may be accomplished more effectively when adroit chess, rules the plan. It has been well demonstrated in Russia, the ruin of which stands today as an ugly monument to the degeneracy of a nation.

American thought does not admit the possibility of such a ruin here. It were foolish, nevertheless, for America to ignore the presence of the evil that is seeking to destroy it and to recognize that it has the power to meet injury where it occurs.

Portant for the United States is a law exists limiting immigration. Federal agents have established that the leaders of the revolutionary movement were, for the most part, allies. Many of these are Russians, the agents of the bolshevik and the communists. Other moves also are contemplated until a melting pot of anarchism has resulted in the creation of a nation over which it can not survive in America is certain, but that it can be injurious and annoying already has been demonstrated. The government will not let it to grow, and in time, if the proper safeguards are set on American shores, the evil can be completely eradicated. America is too fair for the hands of anarchy to mar her beauty.

The High Freight Rate.

Bridgeport, Neb., News-Blade: Arrived with some very conclusive figures that the present high freight rates are playing havoc with agriculture in Nebraska and the territory. Late of the Nebraska farm bureau federation and a generous representative of other farmer organizations are now in Washington taking part in the freight rate hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission, which started on Monday of this week. Mr. Lite has compiled, it is said, with the aid of the state railway commission and other organizations, the following figures, however, are no doubt those based upon the cost of bushels of transporting a car of corn to the terminal markets. A fair example of what is to be shown in this respect, it is claimed, will be the evidence that it costs more to transport a bushel of corn to the other points than Nebraska crops, requiring the value of 1440 bushels to transport a car to Galveston; 1378 bushels to pay the freight on the 1375 bushels to interior Texas points and 742 bushels in value to pay the freight on a car load to Chicago.

Japanese "Loyalty" Compensated.

Chicago Tribune: Mr. Lloyd George's praise of Japan may be a bit of an official, but associated with it is the renewal of the dependence of Americans will be, indeed, Americans have observed that Japanese "loyalty" seems to have been more than compensated. At Paris also was handed one of the richest prizes in the world, including the lands of the sea held by German north of the equator, including the cable station of Yap, which Mr. Wilson thought he had reserved for the protection of our communications with Asia. The Shantung present was made over the American people, finally withdrawn by the American representative, who was not only not satisfied in his own opinion, but also in the interests of our people and interests.

Woman Suffrage in France. Scranton Republican: It is said that the next battle for woman suffrage will be waged in France. Just how the populace feels about it has not yet been determined. It may never have a chance to vote upon the question, as the decision will be made in parliament. Two-thirds of the members of the chamber of deputies vote suffrage. It is the senate that

It is hoped that municipal suffrage can first be secured, after which the privilege will be extended to election for members of parliament. There seems to be no prospect of objection to woman suffrage in France. The trouble is that the French are so busy in discussing internal politics and international issues that they have no time to devote suffrage. It is the senate that

Just Knacker. National Republican: The demagogic politicians who are crying out that the Harding administration has not returned the country to normalcy would "knock" the receiver of a hopelessly bankrupt corporation, cause he couldn't make a badly wrecked business profitable in a fortnight.

Agriculture Notes

For Better Sires. The United States department of agriculture invites those who can contribute actual facts showing results from using better sires to send such material to the bureau of animal industry. The bureau has under revision a previous compilation of specific facts and figures on benefits following the use of pure-bred sires. The material will be prepared for distribution only in September.

To Destroy Crop Pests. Renewed attention is being paid by the United States department of agriculture to the introduction of so-called friendly insects—parasites which destroy serious crop pests without themselves doing damage to human interests. Two different methods to that end are now in progress.

Thomas R. Chamberlin of the Salt Lake City laboratory for cereal and forage insect investigations, is now en route to the European parasitic laboratory at Helsingborg, Sweden, and will study the insect enemies of the alfalfa weevil for the purpose of collecting and shipping to this country. The introduction of the natural enemies of this serious pest. Prof. H. F. Wickham, of the Idaho State University, is in Mexico on temporary assignment to study the life history of the pest.

English Sparrow a Benefactor. Recent investigations conducted by the United States department of agriculture have shown that the English sparrow is a benefactor to humanity at least in one respect. It is able to kill nematodes parasitic on wheat.

A Home Institution Affords a Feeling of Security

Cozy Rooms Home-like

A sick person is more contented near home, where relatives and friends can bring a cheering influence. To the Wayne Hospital's advantages of modern equipment and able, willing nurses, add the brightening effect produced by frequent calls and remembrances from friends. Save the patient the exhaustion of a tiresome trip to a distant, strange hospital. Give him the benefit of being near home.

L. P. Larson of Winside, returned from a trip to Minnesota.

A "reversible social" was held at the home of Miss Clara Dunsen.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Dearborn went to Chicago to make their home.

J. E. Eaton has started a sheep ranch thirteen miles from O'Neill.

A. A. Welch is building a new house on his farm southwest of here.

Frank M. Northrop will leave soon for Water, Idaho, to make his home.

Pawnee Bill's wild west show will be in Wayne the first of September.

Mrs. Clark Edgerton and daughter Ethel will come to Wayne to reside.

Miss Faye Britton and Miss Catherine Lewis entertained at a "swan" party.

Markets are: Corn, 48c; hogs, $5.50; butter, 12c; eggs, 5c; cattle, $5.50.

Dr. W. A. Thomas, state veterinarian, visited Wayne and stated that this is the garden spot of the state. He has been all over the state and is a good authority.

The county teachers' institute at the teachers' institute, being held this week.

Mrs. C. A. Chase entertained at a party for Miss Wilkie Chase of Stanton.

Mrs. Derby and daughter of Bellwood, are visiting at the W. O. Gambie home.

Miss Etta Beckenbach returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Boner in Colorado.

Evangelical Lutheran church will hold a mission festival at the Dietrich Meyer grove.

The corn crop at Wayne county promises to be as much of a surprise as was the small grain crop.

Miss Etta Culler was honored at a surprise party, which will soon leave to make her home in Dakota City.

Charles Craven returned from a five weeks' trip in the east where he visited Washington, New York and Buffalo.

Prof. Snodgrass came over from Wisner and is now at home in the residence just south of the J. T. Bressler home.

Frank Hoopes, a farmer living northwest of Wakefield, was struck by lightning August 26, 1901, and was instantly killed.

Perry R. Porterfield had 210 acres of corn on their farm northwest of Wayne, which will yield 40 bushels to the acre. There is no better field of corn in the county.

M. J. Coyle, aged 24 years, died from typhoid fever August 24, 1901. He was a telegraph operator and had been employed in Omaha and at Richfield, Miss. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Coyle of this city.

C. A. Chase called a meeting of the republican county convention to draw out representatives from the various precincts chose a committee to select representatives for the state convention. The delegates are: Prof. Frank A. Welch, C. H. Wright, Peter Drummels, Henry Hayes, R. E. Merrill, W. H. Gilderslove, J. R. Manning, E. M. Hooper, W. J. Looney, M. Wilson, and August Wright. Nominations for the county offices made by the republican convention are: Frank E. Brown, for judge; Isaac Isaac, sheriff; Robert Henry, for coronator; W. M. Ginter, for clerk; J. Williams, superintendent of schools; C. H. Bright.

From Ponca Journal, August 29, 1921:

The price of wheat at Ponca ranges from 50 to 52 cents per bushel. The average is about 50 or 55 cents.

An inundation of long legged, lumber longed, lightning rod men struck down into the county.

Corn, standing from fourteen to sixteen feet high, with the ears far up as to be out of the reach of the tallest man is a curiosity. This is the kind of corn that Mr. Smith is raising this season on Judge Knapp's place.

L. C. Green reports that when he came down the Sioux river the other day, the grasshoppers were very thick in the vicinity of Hartland, Mo. They were doing no damage there, except second chewing up garden sassa.

Chas. Hollman, Esq., who until recently filled the office of coronator and express agent at this place to the great satisfaction of our citizens, is about to go into the stock business extensively. He has a fine farm in the Logan valley.

The summer is ended, the harvest is past and the south of the "corn" season is on. It is not necessary to say either, if they don't immediately write a good, newsy letter for the Journal. If you don't know any news manufacturers a list.

On Monday, the genial Bob Scott, Gen. Hollman, and Counselors Rogers and Powers, all of Covington and Hartland, came up to our restaurant. As they were in quite a hurry they didn't come on the lightning auto race express, but two wagons, not turning home Tuesday morning. Come again, gentlemen, and often.

Swine Breeders to Organize. Pleasant Valley. A meeting of the hog men of this section was held here to talk over the proposition of organizing a swine breeders association in this county.

John Kammer was elected temporary chairman and E. N. Powell as temporary secretary. Breeders of the different varieties of swine were present and the sentiment was unanimously in favor of proceeding with the organization. It was voted to hold another meeting August 29, at which time steps will be taken to form a county organization.

Germany Shows Up Armaments. Minneapolis-Tribune. Germany's comeback reveals the great handicap placed on nations that are paying for competitive armaments. If her outward gaze are the sign and seal of a change of heart, since her ruthless sacrifice to the Moloch of war and imperialism, the world may well not only rejoice in her recovery, but take early and effective steps to remove from itself the handicap it has taken from Germany's shoulders.

Edison-Habit Harmless, He Says. Springfield, Mass., Republican: Mr. Edison tells an interviewer that prohibition is "the greatest thing in America," but that tobacco harms nobody unless taken in the form of cigars. He himself is addicted to cigars, and his opinion of cigarette smokers is tolerably well known.

Making One Job of It. Boston Transcript: Many a man keeping bachelor's hall now begins to contemplate the necessity of washing the dishes before the family's return.

Safe Procedure in Dixie. Chicago News: In their fight against rent gougers the New Orleans people have the advantage of a fascinating outdoor climate.

When you drape our star with that of one of the Allies or with the banner of an organization, always place the national colors at onlooker's right.

Before you hats must be taken off, and the flag, and afterwards the flag, and afterwards the flag, and afterwards the flag, and afterwards the flag.

When carried with other flags in a parade, the colors should be placed of honor at the right.

A. H. Phueger Writes From Pennsylvania

A. H. Phueger, who left Wayne county the last of July for Pennsylvania, writes an interesting communication concerning his trip. Excerpts from his letter of August 13 are as follows:

"Our automobile trip was, in general, a most successful one. The motor never worked better. It acted the whole way like a fishy horse.

We left Alhona, Neb., July 28, about 10 a. m. After making a short stop at the H. H. Phueger home we continued to West Point where we spent a few hours visiting with my parents. Then we continued to Newark, Neb., arriving about 7:45 that evening. We spent Friday, July 29, visiting in Newark. The next morning we started in our trip proper. We made stops at Omaha, Des Moines, State Center, Belle Plaine, Clinton, Iowa; Aurora and Danville, Ill.; Indianapolis, Ind.; London, Ohio; Winchester, West Va.; and Chesapeake, Concordia Orphan's Home, Pa.

The country between Omaha and Des Moines over the White Pine highway is very hilly. The hills are not so high as those in the mountains around Winside. The road, however, was in fine shape.

After a heavy rain we started from Des Moines for Ames where we took the Lincoln highway. Another heavy rain fell after we started and continued all day. The highway was gravelled so we continued in spite of the rain. Near State Center the main road was a dirt highway. We spent too much time in eastern Iowa, but it was on account of the rains. It was the first good rain they had had since two weeks before the Fourth.

"We crossed the Mississippi river at Clinton, Iowa, where the river is about the same size as the Missouri river at Omaha. From Fulton, opposite Clinton, to Chicago is a paved road as smooth as the pavement of your city. From Chicago south to Danville, Ill., is another paved road of over 100 miles. From Indianapolis to Chicago is the National highway, and from Chicago to the National highway at Little Washington and found a good highway into Pittsburgh and the Tenn. there to the Conover's Orphan's Home.

"The country through which we passed in eastern Iowa and Illinois had wonderful crops. In Indiana fewer fields of oats were seen and the yield was not so heavy. Pastures and dairy cows were more often seen. The farther east we went the more prominent became the dairy cows. The last day's ride in southeastern Ohio was the most interesting. It was rather a surprise. I had expected to find the country east of Pittsburgh rather hilly, but to find southeastern Ohio flat was a surprise. It was almost mountainous. The newly paved road would wind up hill for a mile or more and then down again with lovely scenery on either side. There were patches of corn on hillsides, hillides and valleys. More often, though, the dairy cow would be grazing far over or far below.

Record Time for Divorce.

O'Neill, Neb., Aug. 23.—It took Judge Robert R. Dickson in district court Monday less than an hour after the filing of the petition to grant a divorce to Mrs. Pearl Jutte of southern Holt county from Walter Jutte, who admitted that he is a misogynist. The couple were married in June. The petition alleged that the female sex was repulsive and repugnant to Walter and he agreed that to him femininity had become a curse. Mrs. Jutte's maiden name, Densberger, was returned to her. The judge scored the attorney for the haste in which the divorce proceeding was decided, but the defendant making a voluntary appearance when the petition was filed, declaring that such action should not be unduly speeded up, although the testimony at the hearing substantiated the allegations. The shortest time required to complete the proceedings, forty-five minutes is not a record however, a number of years ago a divorce having been granted in the Holt county district court within six minutes after the petition was filed.

Fixing Bad Stretch of Road.

Norfolk Daily News: The contract for grading and surfacing the Stuart-Newport-Bassett road, an important connecting link in the state highway, is soon to be let. The division engineer's office announces that this road has long been one of the worst stretches in the state and the improvements will not be made until the next. The Newport-Bassett road carries heavy traffic while that part between Stuart and Newport has been so bad that very little traveling has been done on it.

The Latest Arrivals

A reception is being held here in honor of these latest arrivals. And you are invited. You will find many interesting new styles here to meet you.

Smart Suits

Many of the suits hang unbelted from shoulder to hem, giving a long, graceful line that is becoming to all.

For some women there are semi-fitting strictly tailored types; for others, the box coat.

And for trimming, fur first and foremost; some embroidery and on the more simply tailored models, silk cording and silk embroidery.

Price $25.00 to $55.00

Clever Coats

And in making them up to the minute in style, warmth and service have not been neglected.

Soft woolsens in a great variety of weaves that insure warmth and do away with bulkiness are favorites.

Models vary from plain service coats to those trimmed in rich fur or clever embroidery.

Price $15.00 to $100.00

Woolen Dresses

Prices for woolen dresses are almost one-half of last season's; good serges and tricotine dresses for $15.00 or $20.00 have been something unheard of for the last four years.

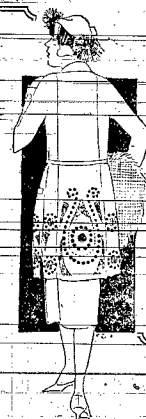

We are showing our first fall dresses with a stock of smartly designed models with a variety of style and trimming.

Price $15.00 to $45.00

We guarantee our clothes to give its wearer satisfaction

White, returning to Winslow Monday evening.

John T. Buttler who was one of the early settlers of this territory, moving in Pasadena, Calif., in 1884, was a guest of William Lesman, northeast of Wayne, over Sunday and Monday, leaving for the west Tuesday morning. Mr. Buttler, with his brother James, common on the site occupied by Wayne in 1878, and selected this ground as a suitable spot for a town. Royal La Bette testified such judgment as unaccounted, contending that no railroad would ever come here and that any improvement in land in this neighborhood would prove a waste of time and money. Mr. Buttler says he and his brother also selected the sites for Cedarvale and Randolph. He has seen expectations of the early days fully realized. When he left here thirty-seven years ago, he was farming on the Lesman northeast of here. He stopped in Wayne on his way home from New York. He says the problem of aridness and uncertainty in the east makes conditions more unfavorable and more difficult to handle there than they are here.

Harry Smith of Winslow was a Wayne visitor Monday.

Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey To Present Score of Entertaining 'New' Features.

The announcement that the famed Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey combined shows are to exhibit at Norfolk, Thursday, September 1, has created no end of interest. It would seem as though practically all the youngsters and grown-ups in this section were planning to attend.

Twice each day for almost two months New York's great Madison Square Garden was packed with those who thronged to see this biggest program in circus history. They saw scores of the jungle's most ferocious beasts, subjugated to such a degree that these beautiful animals leaped and roared on the backs of elephants and horses, jumped through hoops of fire, opened their mouths that sharp-tipped, stony triangles might by their heads and hands, inside them, or leaped from pedestal to pedestal.

And these marvellous dumb actors are all on a tour with the great double circus. The four immense steel arenas in which they perform are set up in the mammoth tent, and, in conjunction, is the

Culled From Herald's Exchanges For Week

Because of a false alarm given in Stanton, Ark., city council of that place is considering dividing the town into wards with a whistle for each so that people can tell in which ward the fire. They also plan to have a whistle to notify the people in case of false alarm.

A corn stalk fourteen feet high is on display at Stanton. It is eight feet to the lowest ear on the stalk. Nathan Chase and family of Stanton were traveling in Germany the fore part of August.

The Village Board of Wausau decided to sink another deep well for the city water works. The necessity of shutting off the water supply at intervals because of lack of water with the old wells has led to this step. Steps are being taken at Wausau to construct a swimming pool at the city park. It is estimated that the cost of a 100,000-gallon pool would be $50,000 for the material alone.

Knox county fair and live stock show will be held at Bloomfield September 12 to 15.

Nels Johnson of Winnsie, has been securing sisters for membership in the United States Grain Growers' Corporation.

Fifty cents which were stolen last week from the Model clothing store of Emerson were found in a shack near the Missouri river close to Sioux City. The discoverer was the man who hid there until the thieves returned. When the suits were being made to take to Sioux City for sale, the hidden man appeared and arrested the robbers. A vigilance committee will doubtless be appointed to hunt further robbers from the stores at Emerson.

The city park at Emerson is being improved. About half of the trees have been cut down and cleared away.

The Grading county teachers' institute will be held three days, September 29, 30 and October 1, at West Point. Schools will be closed for these days and teachers will receive full pay.

Owen Kone of Wisnor, shipped fifteen Shorthorn cattle to Springfield, Ill., to exhibit in the state fair there. He will show them at other fairs before returning to Wisnor.

Miss Nettie Shaw of Laurel, was married August 10, to Mr. Frank R. Garding of Ree Heights, S. D.

"Bapshie" or "bliss" hogs are a new addition to the farm belonging to Mr. Gardner of near Coleridge. The pigs are a bluish color, their noses turn up and they are supposed to be cholera proof. A Boston pig is selling ten groups of about eight each to farmers in each state to trial.

A fire in the A. D. Felber home at Laurel last week burned a couple of rooms quite badly. Mr. Felber had been burning worms in a tree near the house and it is thought a spark set the frame on fire.

John M. Burns of Laurel, who died May 9 in the Samaritan hospital in Sioux City, left $10,000 of his estate for the erection of a memorial hospital to be located in this part of the country and to be one to allow admittance to all whether they mean to pay charges or not. Mr. Burns left but a small portion of his estate to his few heirs. He economized for seventy-five years with the idea of making a worthy bequest.

The three-year-old son of Robert Coyle of Wynot suffered a broken leg when he was kicked by a horse while he was playing in a barn.

Mrs. Christine Anderson of Hartington, has been informed that the body of her son, who was killed in action in France July 15, 1918, has been shipped and will arrive in Hartington next week. Military service will be held for him. He was the first Cedar county soldier to fall in action.

Herman Ruge of Plesco, thinks the livestock future is very promising. Prices of livestock for 1921 he thinks are lower than they will be for several years in the future. Mr. Ruge says there is money in the cattle business now and that there will be more in the next few years.

A Social Tready. An exchange says: It was a town girl—and the same sad story that, alas, has often been told, and checked many a young life which had a beginning in sunshine, surrounded by luxury and the wealth of the world. Her eyes were now wild and staring, her face was flushed and her hands were nervously working. She was a deeply troubled and injured woman, and we hear her saying: "Oh, what are you including the very foundation of my being? Day by day you have tortured me and yet I could not bear to give you up. When we first met how your eyes and gold fish attracted me! When you became my own, how my friends envied me. But your understanding is too small for my large soul. You are opposed to my advancing myself. You have injured my standing in society. If we had never met, I might have walked in peace. Be now—be gone! We part forever." There was a moment's convulsive breathing, a grinding of teeth and a sharp sigh. It was all over. By a supreme effort she had pulled off her new shoes."

Have No Fear for Prunes. Hartington, Neb. Herald: An abundant pickle crop is promised. If the prunes do well the food supply of western colleges and other fashionable boarding houses of the humorist's imagination will be assured.

Business. Sioux City Journal: In spite of the fact that business revival is very slow, there is more confidence shown by all elements connected with trade movements, which may be taken as a good indication that full resumption ultimately will come. The best prospect of the season has come from the buyers themselves. The market has been a little busier, especially those which deal in apparels. The influence of increased buying activity on the manufacturers in the clothing lines is shown by a speeding up of industry. New England and the northwest are the middle districts where most of the clothing factories are situated, are enjoying better times as a result of the acceleration, with unemployment being decreased to some extent. As against the slow movement in the iron and steel plants, the increased activity in the clothing lines shows recognition of the fact that the fall and winter markets will be busier and a belief that general business conditions are to be improved. The clothing manufacturers who are leading the revival movement, probably are aided somewhat by necessity on the part of consumers who already are beginning to make demands on the retailers. It cannot be denied, however, that these manufacturers, and subsequently the wholesalers and retailers are enterprising in a degree that is lacking in some other very important lines. That is due, in all likelihood, to the condition of close proximity of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers to consumers, which has familiarized the producers and handlers with the actual condition of necessity. Capital generally is still hesitant, but is expected to breathe more freely, now that something definite has been indicated for taxation. Repeal of the excess profits and high income tax rates is counted on to encourage heavier investments at the right time. This will affect with a vengeance the real estate market through already have encouraged investments on a small scale. The big expansion movement will come when business revival in general is carried a little further. The wage question is not yet set-led, substantially in the satisfaction of capital and labor. It is seen that the United States Steel corporation has announced its third wage reduction for the year and that the railroad labor board has denied the plea of shop workers for retention of the overtime rates. The reductions indicate that the new level for working conditions has not been reached, but labor cannot be expected to make any concession when the cost of living has advanced in a month more than 2 percent. The increase in the cost of living is not believed to be one that will be maintained, but is considered due to a seasonal fluctuation in market prices governed by the law of supply and demand. Living costs cannot go up logically when wages come down, and adjustments within reason will be demanded. The grain, livestock and money markets for the week-end were either slow or irregular. There was a lull in wheat sales at Chicago. Sioux City cattle sales were slow with the quality put at ordinary and the offerings small as to quantity. A swine recovery was observed. Speculative issues on the New York stock exchange were without support, but, as might have been expected, investment shares were steady, reflecting the confidence of Wall street in the ultimate recovery of the country's prosperity. Business, it can be said, moved along in a hopeful way, but there were no spurts anywhere. Observers everywhere are convinced that the day of the spurt and the boom is gone and that the revival, when it comes will not be feverish, but steady. If that is borne out by events, the country can consider that a firmer foundation has been built by the reconstruction elements. It must be remembered that business is suffering today from the inflation of two years ago, which, linked with general world-wide depression, has created an unpropitious condition. False valuations, large and small, resulting from the same business is on an even keel again, it is believed that the biggest effort will be made in the direction of keeping down inflation. With that done, business will be more dependable because it will become more honest.

You Can't Buy Better Posts

For many years we have bought our posts of the same manufacturer. We have done this because we got better posts from them than we could anywhere else. These posts are strong, smooth and straight, and come in full round, saved halves and sawed quarters.

They run a little larger than common and we believe them to be the best posts obtainable anywhere.

Come in and examine these posts and get our reasonable prices—you can't buy better posts at any price.

We also carry American tees, American steel posts, Red Top steel tee posts and the famous Iowa farm gates.

Firestone Again Reduces Price Extra Size 30x3 1/2 1665 Now $13.95

Firestone first made the low price of $13.95 on the Standard Non-Skid. May 2 - Unusual purchasing power through big volume of business, and the great efficiency of its $7,000,000 Plant No. 2, manufacturing exclusively 30x3 1/2 size, made this possible. Now, the production of the Extra-Size 30x3 1/2 tire has been transferred to Plant No. 2. This permits the price reduction on this tire from $16.65 to $13.95. No such value has ever before been offered tire users. If your dealer hasn't the Extra-Size in stock ask for one. Standard Non-Skid type at the same price. You will still be getting an unusual tire value.

Cords That Don't Blow Out You feel secure on Firestone Cords. Because Firestone Cords don't blow out. Your repair man will tell you he hasn't seen a blowout this past year - 10,000 - 15,000 - and 20,000 miles, and the tires still going strong. See your Firestone dealer today. Name below.

Firestone Cord Tires are being sold at lowest prices in cord tire history! 30x3 1/2 - $13.95, 32x3 1/2 - $16.35, 34x3 1/2 - $18.75

Corn Ears Beyond Reach.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 22—Corn has grown so tall in eastern Nebraska that the ears are so high that the man in some cases as to reach the ears at harvest, says the weekly state and federal crop reports, issued here. Corn conditions ranging from 30 per cent in southwestern Nebraska to 125 per cent in eastern sections are contained in the report.

"Some of the eastern Nebraska farmers who own creek or river valley farms say they have to pay tall men a premium in order to get their corn picked," the report says, "as some of the ears have grown so high that the men in state will find corn suited to low in stature of the corn is rated as low as 30 per cent."

Reins were too late to furnish relief to part of the corn in southwestern Nebraska, according to the summary.

Potato growers who have studied the weekly and monthly crop reports on potatoes are reaping the benefit in the way of doubled prices, the report states. The potato crop stands a good chance of being the best paying crop this year.

"One grower watched the potato situation closely in the official weekly and monthly crop reports and had his crop from 35 acres—50-80-100 more than he was offered earlier conditions," the summary declares.

"The Kentucky commercial potato crop of approximately 650 cars sold for an average of nearly $2 per hundred pounds in spite of the fact that the bulk of the crop was sold before there was an appreciable advance in price."
