Nebraska Corn Crop in Good Condition

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 9.—Nebraska's corn crop in the division territories of the Burlington railroad, with a few exceptions, is in good condition and should make better than an average yield, according to the final report of crop conditions summarized by the railroad's agents, just issued.

The crop in some sections is considerably damaged, the report states, largely late corn. The early corn was nearly out of the way before the extreme hot weather struck it, the report declares.

Weather conditions for two weeks or more previous to Sept. 4, when conditions changed very much for the better, were very trying on the late corn, according to the report, and will no doubt affect the early corn to some extent. Especially is this true in the yield being as bountiful as it would have been under other conditions.

The report for the O'Neill line follows:

Corn fairly good condition, 75 to 90 per cent safe and balance will be Sept. 10 to 15. Exceptions: Waterbury, damaged about 10 per cent; Dixon 20 per cent; Belden, 25 per cent; Randolph, 10 per cent, average yield 80 to 85 bushels; Breslau, 25 per cent of crop, damaged about 15 per cent; Plainview, damaged 5 per cent, and Orchard, 10 per cent.

General Prospects Good

Washington, Sept. 9.—In a statement commenting on Sept. 1 crop conditions, the department of agriculture said:

"The prospects are especially favorable in the northern portions of the corn belt from Vermont and New York through to North Dakota, the growth for silage being generally excellent while that intended for grain is promising full maturity."

"In Minnesota and North Dakota the largest part of the crops seems now to be out of danger of frost."

"In Indiana and Illinois particularly, it is noted that hobbins and barren stalks are numerous. Hot winds and dry weather during August in portions of the plains states have done some damage but the main crop areas of these states have good crops."

"On the other hand, the other great seed crops, oats, is a short crop. Oats are threshing out less than expected, showing a loss of 47,000,000 bushels from last month's forecast, thus partially neutralizing the month's gain in corn. The crop indicated 436,000,000 bushels, less than last year and 343,000,000 bushels less than the five year average."

Home from Trip to Virginia.

Prof. I. H. Britell returned Thursday from a trip to Virginia. He left Mrs. Britell and Miss Mable in West Bend, Wis., where they went with Miss Fannie who teaches there. They will return in another week. The Britell family left Wayne the first of August and traveled 545 miles of the distance to Virginia by river packet. After a visit at St. Louis, they took a boat on the Mississippi river, traveling to the mouth of the Ohio, thence up the Ohio to the mouth of the Tennessee and making a landing at Pittsburgh Landing, near the famous battle ground of Shilo. From here they were driven by automobile to Corinth. They visited at Brisco, Tenn., and then went on to Marion, Va. They spent two weeks here and then spent a short time in the vicinity of Norfolk, Va. On the way home they came through the mining region in Virginia that was suffering from the coal strike. At East Radford they saw the strikers, the government militia and the arms used by the contestants. Before coming to West Bend the Britells stopped at Cincinnati and Chicago.

Wind Does Damage.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 10.—A severe windstorm damaged a large number of buildings, including the farmers' elevator at Avoca, Neb., last night, according to telephone advices from Weeping Water. No one was killed or injured and no estimate of the property damage was available. Near Avoca a number of small buildings were destroyed and some live stock was killed.

A washout on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific following heavy rains at Meadow, Neb., today, resulted in the wreck of a freight train bound for Audubon, Ia. William Fernern and A. G. Booth of Audubon, live stock caretakers, were slightly injured. They were returning from the state fair at Lincoln.

Telegraph and telephone lines to Avoca were out, as they were in other sections of the state, following violent wind storms, accompanied by hail and rain. In Omaha parts of the city were flooded by a torrential downpour.

Telephone poles were leveled in some parts, but no estimate of the total amount of property damage was available.

Wind razed a portion of the baseball stand at the state fair grounds at Lincoln, late yesterday afternoon; a few moments after the crowd had dispersed.

Some crop damage from hail was reported. Much cooler weather prevails over the state.

The Early Days in Two Counties

Miss Mary Ahern arrived home from the west.

From Wayne Herald for September 19, 1901:

H. J. Felber was over from Laurel to spend Sunday.

George Grunemeyer of Randolph was a Wayne visitor.

Sam Davies is slowly recovering from a severe attack of erysipelas.

Phil Kohl went to Lincoln to attend the democratic state convention.

Mrs. J. M. Pile and son, Fred, have been in Omaha taking in the carnival.

Emil Weber and daughter, Gertrude, went to Omaha Tuesday morning.

Miss Wilma Anderson left for Sultan, Wash., where she has a position in the schools.

John Hayes returned to Hartington after a few days' visit with relatives and friends.

R. H. Johnson of Norfolk is running a photograph gallery in a tent south of the Herald office.

F. W. Burdick went to Emerson to meet his little niece, who will live with them for the present.

Judge Hunter united in marriage Henry Stale and Miss Maggie Wrackman, both of Altona.

Sam Barley has purchased a quarter block near the stand pipe and upon which he will soon build a dwelling.

E. B. Young is adding a second story to his residence property in the north part of the city on Nebraska street.

Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Hammond were in Omaha where the former is attending the meeting of the Nebraska and Iowa Veterinary association.

Czolgosz was hung in effigy on Main street Saturday night and the figure remained suspended until the next day when a match was applied.

Mayor Ley has issued a proclamation requesting that the citizens of Wayne and vicinity gather at the opera house this afternoon where appropriate ceremonies will be held as a mark of respect for the memory of the late President McKinley. It is requested that all business houses be closed and general business suspended.

Dr. R. B. Crawford, traveling passenger agent of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, with headquarters at Chicago, was here in the interest of the railroad. The doctor had intended to deliver an address at the fair grounds Friday afternoon on the merits of the southern lands along the route of that line of railroad but the rainy weather prevented.

A feature at the fair was the exhibit of bread baked from Superlative and Snow Flake flour which received awards from Weber Brothers. On Superlative, Mrs. D. L. Strickland received first prize, Mrs. John Sherbahn, second and Mrs. G. W. Crossland, third. On Snow Flake, Mrs. G. W. Crossland received first, Miss Cora Morr, second and Mrs. Simon Foltz, third. There were twenty-four competitors.

C. E. Levellyn, special agent of the free rural delivery has been in the city. He went over three routes petitioned for and established them with a few changes. Carriers have been recommended and it is expected that the routes will be in operation early in November. Route one lies to the northwest of Wayne, route two to the southeast of Wayne and route three to the southwest. A route to the northeast will probably soon be established.

The county fair was a financial success though the displays were small and the weather unsettled. Two base ball games were played between Wayne and Winside, each team winning one game. Band music was furnished by the German band from Hoskins and the Wayne Corn Palace band. Horses were entered in the various races by F. W. Brown, Frank Strahan, Jim Hurst, Nels Anderson, Graves O'Gara and Gaertner.

From Ponca Journal, August 30, 1877:

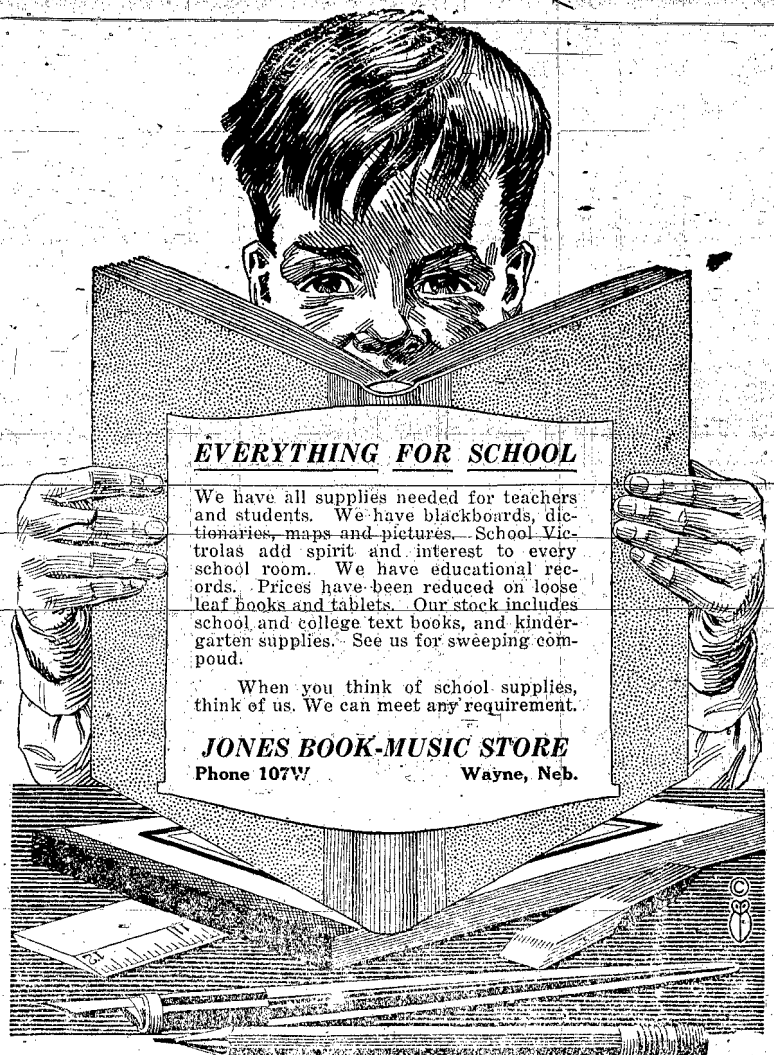

This is a musical town. It contains twenty-six organs and pianos, several fiddles and fifes, one trombone, a big drum, and various other instruments. In addition, it is now proposed to have a band.

The poetical effusion of out Poet Laureate, Mr. Rockwell, will be seen, we are glad to say, in this paper. The next time he wrestles with the muse, it is to be expected he will praise in on a little more lively subject.

The river has washed away the banks so much at Ionia that it is said there is danger of that pleasant little town being soon "among the things that were." This is to be greatly regretted as Ionia was one of the most romantic and home-like places in the county.

From the direction which the railroad is taking, above Newcastle, it looks as though it would strike St. James in Cedar county, or at least that it would go very near that town, in which case it will doubtless draw the county seat from St. Helena, and will become the chief business town of that county.

The eclipse of the moon came off on Thursday night as advertised. Nobody was hurt during the entertainment, which however was of short duration in this vicinity, as the moon got out of the shadow just as it rose in the east. The job was done up so quickly, that it is doubtful whether any one saw it at all.

The accidents of the week are briefly these: One span of horses ran away; one man cut his foot on a reaper and another living near Newcastle and whose name we did not hear, tumbled into a well but got out soaked through, but otherwise unharmed. These are all the variations from the usual routine of life that we have heard of.

On Saturday night a drove of cattle came upon the bridge near Bigley's hotel and managed before they got off of it, to break it down. At least they so demoralized it, that it is very unsafe for a traveler to pass over it, unless he has a proper insurance of his life, limbs and property. The mud sills are all rotten and unfit for use. A number of timbers resting on the mudsills are broken. Hence the bridge is in a very wiggly, teetery and unsafe condition. It will no doubt be repaired immediately. In the meanwhile we would recommend people not to cross it with teams.

The mail arrangements are still terrific. A letter or newspaper going from Ponca to Dailey Branch or Newcastle, will if it goes by mail, arrive in about a week or ten days after it starts. Dailey Branch and Newcastle are each twelve miles distant from Ponca. Admirable roads are between, over which most any kind of a team will make the trip in two or three hours. But to get there by mail a letter goes to Covington, 27 miles by railroad, from thence across the river to Sioux City, then up the Dakota Southern to Burbank, 35 miles, then across to Ionia, then to Newcastle, etc., a distance of some 70 or 80 miles. If we ever have this railroad completed to Newcastle, (of which, however, there is some doubt,) the mail facilities will doubtless be somewhat more agreeable and convenient.

Mr. Bryan's Latest.

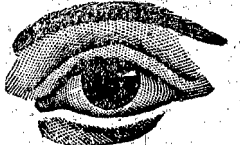

Sioux City Journal: Mr. Bryan is now engaged in battling the demon of evolution, or Darwinism, as he calls it. He is assailing the teaching of the theory of evolution as a sort of a supplement to his regular Chauvaux lecture. He asserts that the colleges and the public schools are substituting evolution for the Christian religion; the leading eastern colleges, he charges, have deliberately torn out of the Bible the first chapter of Genesis, which reveals that man came from God, and the first chapter of Matthew, which establishes the virgin birth of Jesus. Evolution, Mr. Bryan declares, is nothing but a guess, and a poor guess at that. He urges Christian people to see that evolution is not taught in the public schools. It is evident that Mr. Bryan is old fashioned in his religion. But is it not rather late to inaugurate a campaign against evolution? Mr. Bryan will discover that a good many professing Christians do not agree with him. A great many people well founded in their religious beliefs find nothing in the theory of evolution to disturb them. But Mr. Bryan must be doing something, and the politicians and the wets will not object if he chooses to concentrate for a time on an abstract topic like Darwinism.

Newspapers as Educators.

St. Paul Pioneer Press: There is only one way of becoming fully educated in the history that one needs most to know—that of the present and the immediate past. It is to read the news when it is fresh, from a trustworthy and reliable newspaper. Such a paper always makes it clear whether a report is authentic, giving the source of the information, or whether it is a mere rumor, which may or may not be verified later. There is an endless entertainment in careful reading of the events of the city, the state, the nation and the world. Never before have great events occurred in such rapid sequence and never before have they been made public so speedily or with such little error as today. The man or woman who never saw the inside of a high school may obtain a broader mind, a sounder judgment and better ability to understand what is going on, by following the current events, than that of many possessors of bachelor's, master' and doctors' degrees.

The sensational advance in the price of cotton in the south is pointed out as a powerful stimulant to markets for farm products and business and industry generally. It is pointed out that the south will want the things Nebraska has to sell and that with the strong market for cotton, it will have the money with which to buy.

We can easily imagine how an editor's experiences would give him courage to get on the surgeon's table without fear of consequences. As an example, after explaining that he was going away for an operation, the editor of the Winside Tribune said: "If the operation is successful, we'll probably be back in about two weeks; if not, we'll probably be back sooner." His fine spirit and fortitude are a reasonably sure guarantee of quick recovery. We share with his friends in the hope that he will return to his post of duty with health fully and permanently restored.

President Harding has again scored high in the exercise of judgment in making appointments. His choice of Secretary Chas. E. Hughes, Senator Henry C. Lodge, Former Secretary Elihu Root, and Senator Oscar W. Underwood to serve at the forthcoming international conference on the limitation of armaments is as wise as any one could suggest. The four statesmen chosen will be able to compare wits with the best in the world, and will make masterful representation of America for reduction of armaments for which all people are anxious.

With nearly six millions of men out of employment, the buying power of the country is materially reduced. General employment as well as the building up of foreign credits and the stimulation of export business is essential to better markets and greater prosperity. Let workmen consider less the hours and wages, and so far as possible get back into fields of production, helping themselves directly and the return of normalcy indirectly. As a publication states: "Employment means buying power, buying power means consumption, consumption means production, and production in turn means employment. Employment is the starting point in the everlasting circle that makes prosperity."

Popular admiration for (Fatty) Arbuckle's comedy has within a week turned to universal disgust and scorn. Whether proved guilty of a murder charge or not, revelation of his wantonly depraved habits is sufficient to condemn him in the minds of right-thinking people. But the evidence mentioned in support of the claim that he murdered Miss Virginia Rappe seems overwhelming, and as a consequence he has rightly forfeited American respect and appeared American contempt and abhorrence. Because of certain fitness for the screen, Arbuckle arose quickly from cuspidor cleaner in a barroom to a high place as a movie star. He was evidently unable to stand the wealth which his success brought and which only made possible more vicious manifestation of evil from his naturally bad character. Much suddenly acquired money has had a demoralizing effect on some weak movie stars whose disgraceful orgies have deeply offended society. The effect of the fine sentiment and moral lessons often portrayed on the screen is influenced in the popular mind by the character of the star who is performing. If a movie star had any thought of the value of public esteem, he or she would maintain a good reputation by personal character that could not be successfully assailed or questioned.

BEEF ON FOOT AND ON BLOCK.

Concerning the discrepancy between the prices of beef on the hoof and those over the block, the Literary Digest quotes from a number of leading publications. By some of them, the retailer is charged with failure to revise his prices downward in accordance with lowered wholesale prices. One quotation states that wholesale prices for dressed beef are down to within two cents of what they were in 1913.

The president of the National Livestock Exchange is quoted by the Chicago Tribune as saying:

"Although wholesale prices of beef have dropped until forequarters are selling in some places at four cents a pound, retail prices have not come down. With retail prices up, the public is not buying. With that condition existing, the retailer, of course, is not selling and is consequently not buying from the wholesaler, who in turn has restricted his orders from the packers."

The retailer passes the "buck" on to the consumer, who is held responsible by the Denver Rocky Mountain News in this way:

"The retailers of meat deny the charge that they are guilty of profiteering, extortion or unfair business practices, and they pass the buck right down to the meat-eaters, who, they say, have become so fastidious that they won't eat anything but the loin, which is 17 per cent of the pressed carcass. The dressed carcass is only about half of the live weight of the animal, so we have almost 100 per cent of the public demanding 1-2 per cent of the cutter and scorning its other parts."

"The public appears to be freakish in other respects, according to the defendant purveyors of meat. They say that in hot weather buyers ask for steaks and chops. Roasts might as well be thrown out of the window, except for a slightly better demand on Saturdays. Housewives do not care to fire up the oven on hot days. But roasts come with animals besides many other cuts."

"Dressed carcasses of toothsome beef sell at wholesale in Denver from 13 to 15 cents a pound. The local butcher cuts it up and awaits buyers. They come and ask for twice as much loin as for all the rest put together. There isn't enough to go around and that part of the animal has to be priced high enough to make it carry the cuts so many seem unwilling to carry home."

"It doesn't seem to do much good to price these pieces of meat from 6 to 15 cents a pound. They are not wanted. It's chops, hindquarters, or nothing."

Farmer Sets Example.

Mitchell Republican: The farming business is one where no plants are closed down. The farmer is going right ahead, at fully readjusted prices, taking his losses, but still doing business. He goes three-fourths of the way to meet the buyer, in the matter of price, and so he always has a ready market. If every other industry, and those who fix the price of labor, were to follow the example, they would find the unemployment problem had been solved.

Opportunity's Knock a Boost.

Yankton Press and Dakotan: Opportunity knocks but once—and, just like every other knock, properly regarded, it is a boost.

Come in and price the new goods. See for yourself how much cheaper most things are. We shopped around a great deal this fall to get the lowest prices on our winter merchandise and you will be pleased with the reduction you find here.

Your winter coat or suit is a most important purchase. You want to know that you are getting the very best for your money and you would like to make your selection when the assortment is most complete.

We shopped carefully this fall for good winter coats and suits at moderate prices and you are going to be pleased with the garments we have to show you at $25 to $50. These prices are but little over half what they were a year ago.

We have cheaper garments, as low as $15.00, and also a few especially fine ones at $60 to $85 but our big showing is at $25 to $50 and you are almost sure to find what you want among these garments. We would like to have you come now because we are shipping out many choice garments every day for our out of town sales which you will miss seeing if you wait too long.

Are you going to make your new wool dress or are you going to but it ready made? Before you decide come in and see what the new dresses are like. Get an idea of the styles and prices and you will be better able to make up your mind as to whether you should buy ready made or sew. We have a nice stock of wool dresses ready made for you at $15.00 to $35.00, most of them being $25.00 to $29.00. They are the well made, stylish sort of dresses that you feel correctly dressed in and that will give you a lot of service. We fit them without extra charge and take particular pains to help you select a style that becomes and pleases you.

Tricotine and serge are still the best liked materials for fall and winter sewing.

You will be pleased to know that the prices are just a little over half what they were last year on these clothes.

The making of winter dresses for yourself and the girls will seem a much easier task if you will come in and see all the nice trimmings we have for giving the dresses correct style.

Dresses made in jumper style are going to be great favorites with the school girls this fall.

The most popular and least expensive material for these dresses is wool jersey which comes tubular shape like pillow tubing.

A man could almost make a satisfactory jumper dress from this material as all that is necessary is to buy a piece the length of the daughter's dress, finish the arm holes and neck, hem the bottom and add a leather belt.

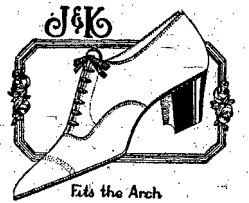

A few colored wooden beads add a touch of trimming at small expense.

Come in and see the practical stylish material which will enable you to get out a dress your girls will like at a very moderate cost. Red wool middie cloth is another material much in favor for these same dresses.

Our traveler's sample blankets are ready for you.

These are blankets which the traveling salesman for a Chicago wholesale house carry in their trunks as samples to show their merchant customers. They get a little roughed up from packing and so the wholesale house sells them to us at a good discount.

The salesman who had these blankets out was certainly a careful fellow as you can hardly notice a blemish on any of his samples. We price them to you at the same discount at which we bought them, which makes them wonderful bargains. You will need to come early to get a best choice as many people who have bought these samples in former years and know what bargains they are have been waiting for them and will be here promptly to get first pick. Blankets are very much cheaper than last year.

The buying of shoes, especially for an entire family, is a problem which has but one satisfactory solution and that is to buy the shoes of some responsible firm who will guarantee you good service out of the shoes. Shoe prices, while they are much lower, have not come down as much as other goods. There is a reason for this. The making of shoes requires a great amount of hand work and wages have not been much reduced in the shoe factories. We do not all know this, however. We think good shoes should be bought as much cheaper as other things are being sold and we look around for a place to buy shoes at what we think the price ought to be. There are manufacturers who are making shoes to meet this demand. They take sheepskin and roll it out and finish it to look like calf and kid skins and put it on sale as "calf finished" or "kid finished" leather. Shoes made of these materials are no good and in the long run are the most expensive shoes you can buy. They look nice at first but soon get spongy, out of shape, skuffed up and worn out.

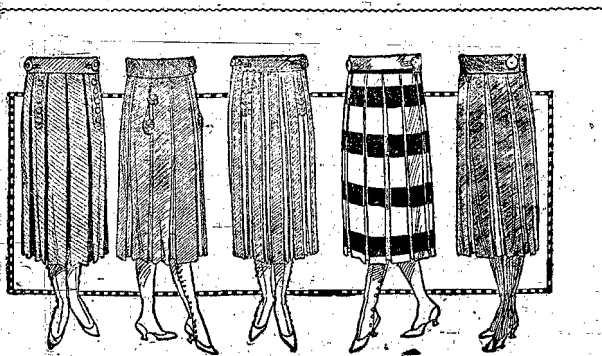

You will find it good economy to leave these shoes alone and buy where you can get shoes made of good leather that is guaranteed good. Prices are much lower now on good shoes. You can get children's sizes at around $3.00 to $4.00, will give real wear, and at $5.00 to $5.75 you can get shoes for the big girls who wear ladies' sizes which have both real wear and a lot of style.

Good looking calf skin oxfords made up in the newest lasts can be had at $5.75 and $6.75 for yourself. The real fine ones of kid made in the best possible manner are $7.50 to $9.85. High shoes for yourself are $5.00 to $9.85.

Men's very best work shoes and dress shoes are on sale here at below the regular price because we are closing out our men's shoe stock entirely as we are going to discontinue handling men's shoes.

We buy our shoes from firms who guarantee them to us for good wear. We give you the same guarantee—every shoe we sell must give service equal to the price you pay.

Our fall stock is now most complete. We can shoe your family satisfactorily at moderate prices.

There is certainly something new in skirt styles. Those pleated models of wide striped prunella cloth are a real innovation that every one seems to admire.

We have some beauties to show you. Also the materials for making them if you prefer it. These striped materials make up very nicely into either plain or pleated styles.

If the pleated style is your choice we will have any material you select pleated for you at cost.

Place this same bar in a dry place for six months; take note, one-third the size has disappeared by evaporation. This deception is being practiced by every maker of bar laundry soap. The question arises, "Why not buy White Soap Chips, ready to use, dry as flint." It's pure soap and will render an appreciative service in the laundry. It costs less, more convenient. Railroads Have Nothing Coming.
New Republic: Mr. McAdoo fully upholds Mr. Garrett's contention that congress intended that the obligations of government, and railroads should be set off against each other, and "only any remaining indebtedness of the carriers to the United States" should be refunded. Any moral obligation to give preferential treatment to the claims of the railroads, must depend on some peculiar circumstances in favor of such claims. In view of the history of the relations between the government and the railroads we are bound to say that such difference does not appear.

Royalty Goes to Work.
Lincoln Journal: One of the pleasant aftermaths of the war is the sight of Grand Duke Nicholas, lately head of the Czar's armies, usefully raising chickens in southern France.

Beggars Are Choosers.
Omaha World-Herald: For having so many starving millions on its hands, the soviet is wonderfully particular how relief shall be given.

Divorce Made Easy.
Sioux Falls Argus-Leader: A paragrapher suggests that, owing to the prevalence and popularity of divorce it might be well to attach to the marriage license and certificate a form of divorce petitions with proper forfeitures, so it could be torn off easily when needed. Why not also have a regular divorce-decree blank attached, and all it will require will be the signature of the judge?

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher.

Evil Report.

I hold that Amos Alkenside is all pure wool and three feet wide. I've dealt with him for many moons and got the worth of my doubloons. He's said me milk and melted tea, and always at a decent price. Men say that Amos must be watched; his nature is a vector is blasted, and he gets a chance, they say, he'll bring his harpoon into play. My neighbors sometimes say, "Gad-zooks, why patronize that prince of crooks?" Perhaps the truth has not been told; who knows what grudges they may hold against this Amos Alkenside, who sells fresh henfruit, plain or fried? Perhaps their hatred is bestowed because he asked for what they owed; for many people's heads get sore when they lose credit at the store. Perhaps they hate this Amos just because he doesn't vote their way. A score of reasons might be found why they rear up when he's around, but while old Amos treats me right I shall not say to him, "Good night." What others say about a cent does not impress me worth a cent, so long as he seems good and straight, and gives full measure, honest weight. Of two men cannot be a judge if he is worth ed by every grudge that trooping gossip may expound, with full heart and empty sound.

The Railway Crossing.

He reached the railway crossing the same time as the train; I saw the engine tossing its axle over the plain; an epithet engrossing was placed above the slain. With buckets and valises the undertakers came, and gathered up the pieces of this poor mortal frame, the while his weeping niece declared it was a shame. He stepped on his train, and tried to beat the train; his speed was surely dizzy, and certainly insane; why be so all-fired busy, when all such haste is vain? He had all week to travel to junktown in the hole, but he must scorch the gravel, poor misguided soul; and now no bugger's salve'll restore this Peter Pole. "Oh, stop and look and listen," the railway signboard said; he saw the wise words glisten, in fresh paint. Just ahead, and he worked every piston, and took the crossing easy. They scamped him from the cars—they raked him from the debris; the public prints had leaders, that showed his course was vain, a warning to all speeders who try to beat the train. Alas, for poor old Peter! Much grief my spirit feels; and as I toward totem, no more he slips and reels to show his lizzie's flecter than anything on wheels.

Hard On Hiram.

Low lies the form of Hiram Horn, -swung out in his honeymoon. Heaving his car around a corner at forty miles an hour. He might have made the curve at twenty, with safety first in view; for he had time to spare, plenty to spare, he knew. Before him stood a mighty howling that shut the street from sight; but madly he went hurtling, and, though sharp to the right. Around the turn a truck was plunging, a truck of ample power, and into it'd he went chugging at forty miles an hour. He made me mad, and for a caper for one possessed of brains, and with a sheet of blotting paper we soaked up his remains. Now other good it was, but Hiram, in his little flier, in his crate is lying, beneath the devious heath. And other nuts will make us shiver as up the office they pass, but Hiram, in his little flier, no more sters on the gas. And fans will still be pinched up speeding, and made to dig up trucks, but Hiram Horn, little flier, is resting in his box. Oh, horns will honk and cut-outs thunder, and cylinders will hit, but poor old Hiram will be no more seen, no more seen of wit.

Old As You Feel.

I know a lot of feebly men whose toll of years is weighty, for all have passed three score and ten, and some are nearly eighty. They pass my cottage every day, on divers errands spinning, and some are dead and all are gray—old gents who've had their inning. They're settled down beside the sea, where life is calm and easy, and here they'll dwell until they see this vale so vain and cheery. But they don't sit upon the sands and shrink and sigh and shiver, but wait, firm and folded hands, the call to cross the river. They're up and coming all the time to eye Old Age a tramping out up the mountains they climb, and in the sea go swimming. In olden times the patriarch sat waiting dissolution, and they were prone to grin remarks concerning restriction. When they'd ached and three score and nine, they felt their graft was ended, and each one then took to his sign, and to the shadows wended. But now the old boy won't say die, or grant that he's foggy; he'll ride an airplane to the sky and fall with Colonel Bogey; he'll send his motor up the pike until the speed scamp sail him; this young old man I greatly like, and with much ardor hail him.

The Story Teller.

James Jarvis Jinks is in his glory when he's relating anecdotes; all things remind him of a story, and men who listen lose their goat, for all the tales he tells are bona, for blue mold on the surface. To be sure, he sees when he's beginning a dreary yarn that Adam knew, that fellow, quit their cheerful grinning, and look morose, distraught and blue—he ought to know that he is sinning by handing out a yarn or two. This Jinks has many kinds of merits, and well might rank with honored males, had he neglected to inherit his passion for bewiskered tales; that graft—the people cannot bear it; all story bora should be in jails. It's strange how bora will keep on boring, when they must see the corner of his eye; and when continues wearing till through the tansom he is fired! The frenzied Jinks is bent on scaring when sawing wood is most desired, and when I get busy talking I mark a heaver heave a sigh, or wipe the loess—that come a-flooding around the corner of his eye; and when know my conduct's shocking, I'm ashamed I ain't would die. Then I reform until, forgetful, I launch upon another spiel, and seeing some poor victim fretful, the currents of my soul engulf; I then proceed, remorseful, sweetful, to kick myself with any sight I see.

Age and Bitterness.

To many men, when they grow old, are prone to sit around and scold, and view things with alarm;

they spend the long hours, heaving sighs, and everything that meets their eyes is void of worth and charm. I too am old and fat, I feel so, though I'd like to raise a spiel of sorrow and gummy; distressed by rheumatism and gout, I'd like to tell the world about a golden yesterday. But when I take my lyre in hand, to celebrate a past long ganned, I feel that I am wrong—the world is still my resort; the fact that makes me tick and sport is that I've lived so long. The world is right side up with care, and old men shouldn't sour their mugs, and say they're getting cogs; it still rolls on around the sun, and girls and boys who have their fun aren't going to the dogs. We all inhabit the fine old guy who views the people going by, and views them with a grin, who joins the laughter of the young, and doesn't sprain a withered lung to prove that mirth's a sin. But if an ancient gent is sore and sits beside his cottage door to prove all things are wrong, he finds he has a lonesome job, for no one cares to hear a sob when he can hear a song.

Benefits of a Vacation.

Stillwater, Okla., Gazette. A vacation may be restful through change rather than in cessation of muscular activity. One addicted to sedentary habits may go to the mountains to revel in the climbing of steep peaks for weeks and return refreshed. One may find as much rest in walks through the woods and along attractive roads and paths as by sitting in a rocking chair and enjoying the shade of a summer resort porch. Fishing and motor sports provide a change for many, while to others the summer vacation finds its full and best meaning in an opportunity to study and read the classics. One thing the vacation is almost sure to provide, and that is plenty of time for sleep and for the recuperation of the jaded faculties. Blessed and fortunate is the man, woman or child who returns from the summer vacation rested, refreshed, rebuilt in muscle and nerve and with renewed readiness for the battle of life, whether the field be the office or shop, in the household duties or in the school room.

THE WAYNE HOSPITAL IS YOUR HOSPITAL

Every patron of the community is a stockholder. The income received in the advantage a home hospital affords its patients.

A patient must be free from all worry and un-easiness, which, introduction into a strange place brings. A patient is most content when the face of the attending nurse is already familiar. Such conditions bring a sense of security that hastens recovery.

Added to this is the advantage of being near friends and relatives who can fill the long hours with cheerful visits.

Wyoming Herds Coming

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 9. Authorization of the interstate commerce commission for the Burlington railroad to put into effect reductions in the rates on live stock from certain parts of Wyoming to enable the raisers to move cattle to other feeding grounds because grasshoppers are eating the grass in certain parts of that state, will undoubtedly throw open many acres of western Nebraska hay and grazing lands to Wyoming herds, in the opinion of agricultural and traffic officials here.

Hay is Not Harvested

Here's why CAMELS are the quality cigarette

BECAUSE we put the utmost quality into this one brand, Camels are as good as it's possible for skill, money and lifelong knowledge of fine tobaccos to make a cigarette.

Nothing is too good for Camels. And bear this in mind! Everything is done to make Camels the best cigarette it's possible to buy. Nothing is done simply for show.

Take the Camel package for instance. It's the most perfect packing science can devise to protect cigarettes and keep them fresh. Heavy paper—secure foil wrapping—revenue stamp to seal the fold and make the package air-tight. But there's nothing flashy about it. You'll find no extra wrappers. No frills or furbelows.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And remember—you must pay their extra cost or get lowered quality.

If you want the smoothest, mellowest, mildest cigarette you can imagine—and one entirely free from cigarettey aftertaste,

It's Camels for you.

To Cut Tax Exemptions.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 12.—The state board of equalization has ordered the state tax commissioner to make an investigation in every county in the state and to list all of the hospitals, schools and other institutions which have been claiming exemption from taxation under the constitutional clause relating to charitable and religious institutions. Commissioner Osborne laid before the board considerable data he had secured which showed that a number of hospitals were claiming exemption which charged a stiff price for attendance; that lodges were holding property used for business purposes; and church property not used for strictly religious purposes.

To Test Governor's Power.

Sunday school meets at 10 a. m. and is followed by a service of worship and preaching. Then follows a picnic lunch. Each family bring its own dinner. If it is impossible to make the trip, the regular services of the church will be held as usual.

A similar meeting was held last spring in the Wayne Baptist church. At that time about seventy-five Baptists from Pilger and Carroll were in attendance. As the church at Overt is to join in the meeting next Sunday, it is expected that a larger number who are making the arrangements that about 150 will make the trip to Pilger.

Terms Certain Laws Vicious.

Tokamah, Neb., Herald: The repeal of the excess profit tax is sure to come. It was the principal cause of the high cost of living. It belongs to the same class of legislation as the Adamson railway wage bill and the cost plus 10 per cent contract plan. These vicious measures are responsible for the demoralization of all labor and material schedules, and sent all prices skyward, regardless of the law of supply and demand.

An Important Invention. J. R. Coyle is the inventor of a battery solution which bids fair to revolutionize the battery industry. His claims for the solution are more or less startling, yet experiments go to prove that it will do all that he claims for it and he believes it will prove to be the missing link in storage batteries.

With this new electrolyte the present method of charging batteries in three days is eliminated. The new electrolyte acts instantly without a line charge.

With batteries that are in a necessary condition all that is necessary is to pour out the old solution, rinse the cells with water, fill them with the Instant Battery Solution and the battery is ready for service with all the snap and vigor of a new battery.

With an old battery that has not been in service for months it may be necessary to crank the car the first time after the new electrolyte when the generator will build it up to full capacity. Batteries known not to take a charge or to hold a charge will take a charge with this solution and give satisfactory work.

Tests have been made, such as running a battery completely down to zero, either by or leaving the switch on overnight and after five or ten minutes with the switch off, if the battery does not turn the starter immediately, it is only necessary to crank the car the first time by hand and the generator will recuperate the battery to full capacity.

The solution is not recommended to give satisfactory service in a car that has a generator, and it cannot be expected to work in a battery that has a dead short. Nothing will. But with the short removed it will charge the cells instantly with no help from any source and make it hold and give service.

Other claims for the solution are that it will get rid of acid in fifteen days without zero when discharged and it eliminates to a negligible degree the sulphation and corrosion of plates. The use of acid water, such and is so proving beneficial instead of detrimental to battery plates.

In the making up of new cells, the solution can be used in the forming and developing of the plates. To fill the grids it is mixed with the powdered form used by manufacturers in order to make the paste. Ordinarily it requires from a week to ten days to develop plates. If there were anything in the solution or in a battery it would show up in developing new plates. Not only has it proved not to injure new plates but it is known to have developed them overnight.

With ordinary electrolyte a new battery that has never had a charge, requires charging and discharging several times, requiring several days before it is developed. To charge a new battery with the new electrolyte it is only necessary to first give the battery a water charge overnight, after which it is filled with the solution and placed in a charging line for four hours in order to get the current started through the plates.

In placing his product on the market, Mr. Coyle does not anticipate a hearty cooperation with manufacturers of batteries for the reason that the new electrolyte will render old and discarded batteries which otherwise would be replaced by new batteries. He is now forming a company to be known as the Magic Electrolyte Company, for the purpose of placing this Instant Battery Solution on the market through the selling of country and state rights and by establishing of stations where rights are unsold. Application for patent has been made both in the United States and Canada. Headquarters will be established at Wayne where Mr. Coyle's aged parents now reside and where they formerly lived for years, attending high school and the Nebraska Normal college in his boyhood days and later serving as county clerk of Wayne county.

The Poultry Industry. Drivers Journal-Stockman: Few of us stop to consider the magnitude of the poultry industry. The annual revenue received from poultry flocks in the United States is greater than all of the gold and silver and wool combined. It amounts to more than $1,000,000,000 annually.

In Iowa-Stockman territory, the poultry industry has such proportions as to be ranked as one of our main sources of income in the farm. Last year the poultry flocks of Iowa furnished products valued at about $120,000,000. The returns from eggs alone in Iowa last year averaged from $200,000 to Turn to Nebraska, Nebraska has approximately 12,000 hens which contributed $50,000,000 in wealth to the state last year. This amount was 75 per cent greater than the returns from the swine industry. Compare it with crop returns and we find that it equaled the value of all the oats, rye, barley and potatoes, combined.

Naturally the poultry industry has its problems and none of these is more important than the elimination of the shucker hen. Happily, studies in recent years have shown the relation between certain physical characters and egg production. This discovery ranks as important as the Babcock test is to the dairy industry. In Iowa 35 per cent of the average farm flocks were found to be culls last year. Every cull is a drag on the profitability of the industry. Culling demonstrations were held in 1,400 of the 1,600 townships of the state last year.

In Nebraska the culling results were startling. Flocks to the number of 1,841 were culled, involving 132,269 hens. Of these, 37.5 per cent, or 72,077, were culled out with only a slight drop taking place in the subsequent egg production. The fact seems almost unbelievable, but strikingly illustrates the chances along this line. It is work that pays dividends.

When you think of prosperity, think of the hen which converts, grit into greenbacks and by utilizing much of the waste material of the farms brings a steady income throughout the year.

Dynamite in Car Wreck. Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 12.—D. L. Ruckel, of Bennett, in an automobile accident in which his car was demolished and he himself badly bruised and cut, uttered a prayer of thanksgiving when he crawled out of the wreck. That was because at the time another car crashed into him he was carrying fifty pounds of dynamite in his automobile—and it didn't explode.

Makes Living From Acre. Omaha, Neb., Sept. 12.—Revenue from eggs and honey off a one-acre "farm" on the outskirts of Omaha, cultivated for twenty years, has brought prosperity to Anthony Johnson. His success is the outgrowth of an experiment on a small city lot when his worldly possessions numbered twenty stands of bees.

Mr. Johnson says he has solved the question of the minimum amount of land upon which a farmer can live and raise a family and at the same time maintain an average standard of living. Economists and experts argue from 5 to 40 acres, Mr. Johnson says. His own opinion is just at the corner-stone of his success on a single acre.

When he started, Mr. Johnson knew little of farming and less of the culture of chickens or bees. Because of this, I passed through the period of bad diseases and other deviations during my experiments," he said. "Finally I was successful and after ten years added chickens to my farm products. Painsstaking experiments gained from bee culture aided in the development of my chickens, although the two specimens are widely separated in their raising."

Knowledge, system and persistent tenacity for exactness in all the details of care, Mr. Johnson regards as the cornerstone of his success on a single acre.

Good, Substantial, Adequate Improvements

That's all a farm needs for housing family, crops, stock and equipment—good, substantial, adequate buildings. An over-improved place is as poor an investment as an under-improved place.

For carrying out such a program, no building material compares with lumber. For enlarging buildings, for adding new units, for the quick and easy erection of a granary, a silo, an implement shed, a fence, etc., fir lumber is unsurpassed as to availability and ease of working and adaptability for all purposes.

Whether your plans be modest or large, we will take pleasure in showing you the quality of our stocks.

Records of one 890-acre farm in Ohio show an annual increase of 3,000 bushels of corn through the use of new seed, better soil and improved methods developed and recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. The farmer has been following the advice of the department for 20 years, and has kept careful records of his yield. For the last 10 years increase averages more than 10 bushels an acre over previous years. Beyond the extra cost of harvesting, the labor and expense in care exceeds the price of the 8,000 bushels is regarded as clear gain.

ceiving office is 69 miles from St. Louis, its 3,000 or more subscribers are located in 19 towns. The plan is that at certain hours each day the subscribers simply "listen in" on the wire as the market reports are read over the telephone. It is also proposed by the company to install a radio-telephone transmitting set to relay the reports by radio-telephone to smaller receiving stations in the surrounding territory.

An Illinois bank located 55 miles from St. Louis has also informed the bureau that it is receiving the market and weather news regularly by radio-telephone. The St. Louis University says that many individuals, banks and other commercial and agricultural agencies are receiving the radio-telephone market reports.

Grading Potatoes in Colorado.
Adoption of United States potato grades in Colorado has increased the amount of the crop marketed on this basis by more than 12,000,000 bushels, according to the August estimate of the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates. The United States Department of Agriculture, and raises to 11 the number of States that have made the United States grades official. Although the use of the federal standards has been optional since the days of the United States Food Administration, they are now used officially for grading 30 per cent of the total crop and unofficially for 30 to 45 per cent more.

Following the lead of other western States, Colorado regularly at last session of the legislature a provision of marketing and division for the inspection of fruits and vegetables in the State of Colorado. The new division started work in July, and hearings were held in producing sections throughout the state for the purpose of establishing practical standards that would be satisfactory to the trade.

These conferences led to the prompt adoption of the United States grades recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture for potatoes, onions, cabbage and cauliflower, and sweetened celery, cucumbers, and fresh tomatoes. State standards were also promulgated for beans, cauliflower, and sacked vegetables.

Apple grades have been prepared also by the Colorado division of marketing, in cooperation with the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates after a series of hearings, and grades for boxed and bulk stock will be announced in the near future. Owing to the late start of the work, the division of marketing will not attempt the inspection of peaches or pears this season.
The New York is receiving enthusiastic support from most of the growers and shippers, who feel that it will do much toward building up the reputation of Colorado products in the markets. Although the service is not yet fully organized, a total of 1,000 cars were inspected during the first month's operation.

Getting Away from Frudery.
New York Mail: In the last few years this country has made great strides toward getting away from prudery. The progress has not been without its harm, but the general result is unquestionably a wholesome one. There are some among us, of course, who would "view with alarm" the slicker-boarder advertisement news from Chidgigo, but this would be with poor judgment on any account, and poorest of all because until our fashion makers utter the decree for women knickerbocker pantaloons there is very little likelihood that it at all commonly impends. The trend of convention, notably in Europe and vicinity here, has begun to swing away from the utility idea.

225,000-BOTTLES SOLD IN NEW YORK

Biggest Thing of Kind Ever Seen in That State Declares Big Wholesaler.

The fact that 225,000 bottles of Tanlac have been sold in the state of New York since its introduction there, less than one year ago, is a big business item that will attract unusual attention throughout the entire East, for nothing like it has ever happened before. It breaks all records.

Mr. George B. Evans, manager of the Gibson-Snow Company, the well-known wholesale druggists, with branches in Albany, Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse, recently announced that the preparation was now selling in their trade territories almost at the phenomenal rate of approximately 500,000 bottles a year. "At the present rate continued," said Mr. Evans, "this state alone will probably require considerably over 750,000 bottles a year. This is a tremendous figure, but I am really conservative in making this statement."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere. $15148

Mississippi Journal:—A high school student, asked who composes is, answered that he is a poet. Any man who marries after he is 60 years old is something of a poet.

Business.

Sioux City Journal: Business conditions claim that it is on the road to recovery and provides evidence to substantiate it. The claim, however, is not an extravagant one, which means that the present condition, while constantly improving, is not yet what it must be with the work of rebuilding finished. As a matter of fact, business still has a long way to go to reach the normalcy which is the mutual objective of all contributing interests. In connection with the material proofs of confidence is seen a gratifying change in the mental attitude of the general public. Confidence is stronger than it has been at any time since the depression began. That will make for a continued good influence on the various elements that are beneficial in the movements of reconstruction.

This confidence of the public no doubt would be much stronger but for the fact that unemployment serves as a check on enthusiasm. The country is faced with the situation of several millions of persons being without employment, which cannot help but be a serious thing. The most pressing need, it is plain to be seen, is not charity but jobs. The more work there is, the more the duty of every employer to go as far as is physically possible in re-arranging work and in employing men. The quicker the approach to normal operation of industry, the sooner unemployment will be decreased to a point where the worry will cease. The building program has already let contracts for eighty-five miles of roads. The total cost of construction will be around $2,000,000. The building program will employ a large number of men, and while such a program ordinarily would mean an increase in the burden of taxation, it is believed that condition to develop that to have idle men in want. In Illinois, fortunately, state public works instituted have done no increase the tax burden for the reason that funds of the commonwealth already on hand are ample to take care of the work. Other states are considering the advisability of inaugurating public works as a means of reducing unemployment, but all should be governed by knowledge of the danger threatening from possible increases in taxation. The public first of all wants to pay less taxes. Labor of course, must be employed, and would not welcome a lead made here.

Cleveland reflects a healthier tone in the first act of industry and an improvement in the financial situation. Mahoning valley steel plants now operating at 40 per cent of their capacity according to a report a fortnight ago. Pig iron production is constantly increasing. August was a good month for the industry. In previous years, during the periods, Kansas City says furniture is selling for cash in encouraging amounts. It generally is considered that future market conditions, confidence in business conditions, for while furniture is a necessity, it is not a thing that finds a ready market when depression exists. The marked improvement in this line is most encouraging.

The railroads are moving the credit side more satisfying way as to the new hauling than at any time in their history. The shortage of rolling stock has been met when needed. In previous years, movement, ship-ment and roads alike were embarrassed by a lack of cars and other equipment for service. The business of the government is handling that an improved system of handling the traffic must have been worked out as the railroads strove for efficiency.

Statements from the federal reserve banks just issued are most optimistic, forecasting an expansion of the money market and a rise in all loans. Loans are increasing in volume over a wide area with interest rates being eased naturally. The farmers are buying more machinery, and their money returns on products distributed. The planters of the South pointed largely on the advance in prices for raw materials. The "straw" crop owing to Liverpool forcing down the prices quoted on the New York exchange, however, will not find the old price level because the yield was too small to permit any such wide margin of fluctuation. In the case of new high prices will be established and maintained.

Live stock and grain prices have changed but little. The live stock says wheat fields strong, with corn prices a little lower and oats selling off and then recovering. New York stocks have held their own in almost without any appreciable discouragement anywhere. Wall street refuses to be excited and seems to be waiting for the further business recovery its resources unimpaired and ready for legitimate investments.

Will Broaden Field.

Chicago News:—One economist wants to know what the automobile industry will do when the "age of saturation" is reached in the market. Probably prices will be so lowered that a new point of saturation will be established.

Prohibition Not to Blame.

Springfield, Mass., Republican:—Smoking, however, London's fashionable women is blamed for increasing fast, with many devotees taking to cigars and pipes. And prohibition cannot be blamed for it.

Don't worry and complain about a bad back. Get rid of it! For weak kidneys, lame and aching backs, your neighbors recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor. Read this statement: "Mrs. Joseph Schmalstieg, Wayne, says: 'I was troubled more or less with a heavy, dull ache through my kidneys, back and loins. I also had terrible headaches and dizzy spells. My kidneys acted too freely and caused annoyance. Doan's went directly to the seat of the trouble. They strengthened my kidneys and drove the pains from my back and head and toned up my system generally. Since then I have used a Doan's occasionally when I have found symptoms of the old trouble returning and they have never failed to bring me the desired relief. I always keep Doan's in the house as we consider them indispensable.'"

Statement given August 4, 1910.

On Aug. 29, 1920, Mrs. Schmalstieg added: "The cure Doan's Kidney Pills gave me a number of years ago has been a lasting one. I still in good health. Doan's is as reliable as when I used them. I gladly confirm my former statement of several years ago."

SCIENCE NOW TESTS BABE RUTH'S HOME RUNS

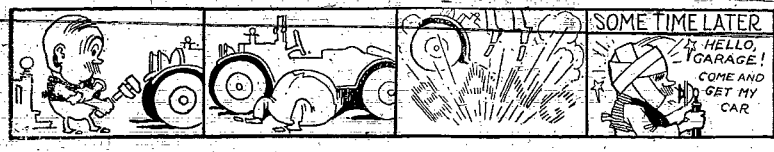

Why and how does Babe Ruth, the great ball player, run so many home runs? With electrical and other special apparatus, the scientists of Popular Science Monthly have been trying to find out. This copyrighted picture, which was printed by special arrangement with Popular Science, shows the Babe swinging with the bat while the device is measuring the force and speed.

The force and speed of Babe Ruth's physical hitting efficiency is 90 per cent compared with the average man's 60. His eyes are 12 per cent faster than the average. His ears function 10 per cent faster. His bat swings at the rate of 110 feet a second. The scientists decided that the Babe would hit the ball even further if he didn't "hold his breath" quite so long—fraction of a second shorter.

Just this desire to test the accuracy and close observation of applicants that led Mr. Edson to frame his famous questionnaire? Impatience, with resulting disinclination to go into details, has been declared the besetting sin of the younger generation. The disposition to "get by" with the least effort is incompatible with accuracy. Yet the lack of accuracy for accuracy, as Mr. Hughes suggests, is a vital defect. No one need expect to keep forever "getting by with it" and make any sort of lasting roadway without the definite knowledge that is the foundation of progress.

Co-Operative Milk Marketing.
Chicago Tribune: Dairy farmers, disaffected with the 2 cents a quart reduction in milk allowed to Chicago consumers by the big milk distributors are planning an independent distributing company to deliver milk here at 10 cents a quart, according to Russell J. Poole, city high cost expert, who has been conferring with them.

We hope the farmers will develop their plan and make it effective. There is too much of a "spread" at present in prices of many food commodities between the source of production and the consumer's table. This spread adds so greatly to the retail cost of food supplies, that while the farmer is getting minimum prices for his produce the consumer can find no corresponding reduction in his food bills. Ask any housewife.

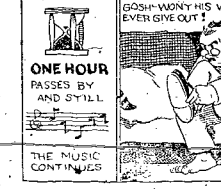

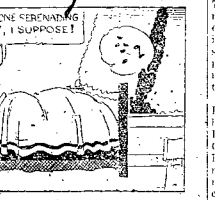

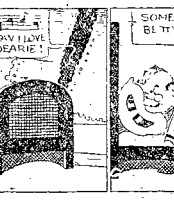

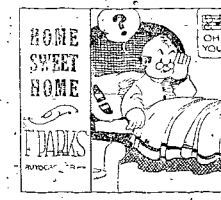

Hard Work Still Necessary.
Kansas City Star: We are learning over what we had forgotten, that hard work is required to produce the things we desire. We are recognizing much more keenly than a year ago the value of a job. We have a lot of lazy tendencies—but the hard master of the school of experience is gradually licking them out of us. The discipline isn't finished yet. But it is well under way.
