A Mystery Cake

Can you name it?

Here is another new Royal Cake, so delicious and appetizing that we have been unable to give it a name that does justice to its unusual qualities. It can be made just right only with Royal Baking Powder. Will you make it and name it?

$500 for the Best Names

For the name selected as best, we will pay $250. For the second, third, fourth, and fifth choice, we will pay $100, $75, $50, and $25 respectively.

Anyone may enter the contest, but only one name from each person will be considered.

How to make it

Use level measurements for all materials

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cups sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 egg and 1/2 milk
- 1/2 cup flour
- 4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Cream shortening. Add sugar and dried orange rind. Add beaten egg yolks. Stir together flour, salt and Royal Baking Powder and add alternately with the milk, beating lightly in one basin egg whites. Divide batter into two parts. To one part add the chocolate. For the other part, alternate dark and light batter into three assorted layer cake pans. Bake in moderate oven 20 minutes.

FILLING AND ICING

- 3 tablespoons melted butter
- 2 tablespoons orange juice
- 1 egg white
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/2 cup cocoa
- 1/2 cup chocolate
- 1/2 cup vanilla

Put butter, sugar, orange juice and egg into bowl. Beat until smooth. Fold in flour, cocoa and milk. Spread this filling on top and sides of cake. While filling is set, sprinkle with unswissened chocolate shaved in thin pieces with three turns (not 4 or more). To finishing icing add 1/4 teaspoon unswissened chocolate which has been melted. Spread this thickly between layers and on sides of cake.

The barn on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Sheehan, five miles north-east of Emerson was completely destroyed by fire, October 14, and Mr. Sheehan was injured by jumping from the burning of the barn building. Mr. Sheehan found that his son had started the fire and thinking the boy was still in the barn went in to get the alarm. Not finding him he was forced to seek exit by jumping from the window, twenty-five feet to the ground. Late in the evening the fire started in the house. The barn was a total loss and the insurance was insufficient. Neighbors erected a temporary barn the day after the fire. Fred Kimball, former president of the Hartington National Bank, died Monday, October 17, at Albuquerque, N. M., death being due to tuberculosis.

Mrs. Wilhelmina Resenbach, passed away at her home in Hartington, October 14, after having lived in Cedar county for forty-two years. At the time of her death she owned the same farm which she and her husband took as a claim in 1872.

The hay on the Smithberger farm southwest of Stanton suffered a loss of seventy-five tons by a fire last Tuesday which was evidently started from the spark from a passing automobile. The loss was covered by insurance.

Stanton high school students have set up a wireless outfit with the assistance of Chas. R. Chinn, of the Wayne State Normal, secretary of the N. N. R. C. The boys are receiving the time daily from Springfield, Mass., weather reports from Wayne.

Elmer Carter who had been in the barber shop business at Ponca for seventeen years has sold out to James Legro.

Albion received some fish stock of bass, perch, sunfish and croppies from the state fish car last week for the streams around there.

The Dixon county Sunday school convention was held in Allen last Tuesday and Wednesday. The meetings were to have been held in Ponca but on account of contagious diseases in that town, Allen entertained the visitors. The ownership of the Commercial hotel at Bloomfield was transferred to the corporation of the American Hotel. The new owner, who has been operating the Bloomfield Tire Shop, sold out to Jacob Peters. The owner, Mr. Peterson, who was driving the car, was going too fast down the hill to make the turn at the bottom. He met another car at the turn and to avoid hitting it, he turned off the grade.

Agriculture Notes

Distribute 1918 Excess Wool Profits. In its work of distributing to growers the 1918 excess wool profits collected from dealers, the United States department of Agriculture during the month of September disbursed $23,045.56 and mailed out 7,721 checks. There still remains on hand for distribution $336,731.93, of which $1,389.49 was collected during the past month. In addition, cases awaiting settlement include the sum of $69,019.41.

War Explosives in Road Work. Trinitrotoluol, one of the most efficient of war-time explosives, has become, by adaptation, one of the most desirable agencies for the peace-time task of road construction, according to reports received from many states by the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture. The use of this powerful explosive is becoming general throughout the Union wherever highways are under construction. Out of the surplus war materials turned over by the war department to the department of agriculture and distributed by the bureau of public roads among the various states, approximately 20,000,000 pounds of T. N. T. has found its way to the road builders' supply houses. This is more than four times as much as the total of powder of all grades distributed by the department among the states.

The quantity of T. N. T. distributed up to September 15, among the states was 19,613,326 pounds. In addition there has been distributed 1,798,988 pounds of blasting powder and 2,781,313 pounds of hand grenade powder. Among other materials of this nature distributed among the states were 6,566 pounds of dynamite, 267,600 pounds of picric acid, 938,409 detonators, 131,674 exploders, 75,968 electric blasting caps, 27,844 sets of fuse, 7,340 yards of detonating cord, and 198 tamper.

New Source of Binder Twine. The cultivation of sisal and manila for binder twine has been promoted to such an extent by the cooperation of the United States department of agriculture with the Philippine bureau of agriculture that these fibres are looked upon as an extensive future source of American supply.

H. T. Edwards, specialist in fibre plant production, recently returned from the Philippines and Java, reports that 75,000 acres were devoted to maguayo and sisal in the archipelago this year, and the yield was approximately 28,178 metric tons of 2,200 pounds. The value was about $1,704,000 in American money.

Philippine maguayo fibre formerly used extensively by American binder twine manufacturers. This fibre, which was cleaned by retting the maguayo leaves in salt water, fell into disfavor when it was learned that binder twine made from the salty fibre was subject to the attack of insects.

The department of agriculture, in cooperation with the Philippine bureau of agriculture, purchased three modern fibre-cleaning machines, with which they demonstrated that maguayo can be cleaned profitably by machines and without the use of salt water. As a result of this cooperative government work, aided by private enterprise, machines have been imported, and machine cleaning of maguayo and sisal fibre in the Philippines islands is now establishing a competitive basis.

While the quantity of binder twine fibre now raised in the Philippines is only a drop in the bucket compared with the American and world demand, the department authorities believe the development of the industry through a future output which will relieve American manufacturers of the present almost absolute dependence on Yucatan, where internal and international conditions have sometimes imperiled the American supply. The department is encouraging the substitution of sisal for the more commonly cultivated maguayo.

As to Cheaper Cuts. Norfolk Daily News: A farmer who got tired of selling his live hogs and cattle to the packers for around 6 cents a pound and paying 25 to 40 cents a pound for the meat from the same animals after the packers had slaughtered and shipped them back to the avenue went into the meat business because it looked like a future proposition to make money that way. It's been in the game for quite a while now, and he's trying to enlighten the world about meat.

He says you can't make a fortune in the meat business, and apologizes for his premature ideas because he hasn't made any money yet, and says it's all the fault of the people who buy meat. He has it figured out now that the meat dealers were right after all—that if people bought cheaper cuts of meat, beef and pork could be sold over the block for around 12 to 20 cents a pound. The dealers have to buy what people take for, and because people ask for the best cuts, the dealers have to buy the best cuts and the boiling beef and cheaper pieces of pork cost more. The dealer who is around 12 cents are left to the packers, who get orders from the dealers to send up loins, chops, sirloins and steaks only. This man says if people got the habit of buying cheaper cuts, the dealer could order a whole carcass instead of fancy cuts, and after a while meat prices would be lower.

When the radiophone or wireless telephone gets into the habit of picking up conversation generally, people will have to edit what they say more carefully.

In conversation in Omaha last week, I. W. V. declared for a two-hour working day, which is excessive considering the time the members have been in the habit of working.

A publication has suggested a universal day of prayer to help restore normalcy and equanimity. This may certainly help. But we would say that more than one day would be needed to make the necessary impression on those who are so heedless.

It is a fact worth considering that people, whether employed for themselves or by others, have not unanimously returned to the former inclination to work. As proof, witness the agility, with which idlers' legs move the other way when approached by the prospect of picking corn at pre-war prices.

We have heard of farmers in this county who, on Governor McKelvey's prodding, have taken the unemployed and exchange board and lodging for churning and odd jobs of work. It is pointed out that idle men refused to help farmers when they needed help and were willing to pay well for it, and that they are not inclined to mood to extend the relief suggested.

People have enough to contend with at this time without becoming the targets for every busy body. If one expects to have his own faults condoned, he should condone the faults of others. No one person's group of persons is responsible for existing conditions and picking flaws and questioning motives, with out constructive criticism or effort, will not furnish a remedy.

Able-bodied men who have not been in the habit of working unless they receive more than their services are worth, will arouse more helpful sympathy later on when the Arctic wind whistles through their coats, than if they respond to the appeals to the farmers' need for coalburners at prevailing prices. The notion that a man will loaf unless he gets winter wages is a gaudy excuse for idleness.

Tomorrow the recall law of the state of North Dakota is to be put to a trial. The Nonpartisan League of that state adopted the law, and now those who are opposed to the law are making every effort to see how it works on its authors and beneficiaries. The effort is directed at a recall of the entire household of the Nonpartisan League. How the creature of the League works in action will soon be known.

While hoping for and expecting the best, people should not be heedless of the worst. They should be ready to what they can to prepare for the possibility of the impending strike. By the end of the week the Herald expects to have enough print paper on hand to last two months, and so in the event of a considerable strike on up this family journal will not be interrupted by account of lack of such supplies. Besides, if the mail is suspended, no news seems so unlikely, the Herald will be delivered to main points by automobile.

In regard to the threatened rail road strike, both sides will be expected to repair their differences and avert the transportation paralysis which is in the interest of the public. It is hoped this may be done, and many believe it will be done. Some freight rate concessions have been made during the past week, but it would seem that uniform conceded rates on all commodities would be more than consistent with earnings and living costs. There is a way to solve this problem, and it may be done if all directly concerned are disposed to be fair.

Recent cable dispatches state that European diplomats feel that if European countries agree to disarm at the Washington conference, the United States ought to cancel European debts or make other substantial concessions as a consideration. Can you hear that? Can you conceive of anything more stupid or ungrateful? If European countries had ten years ago followed a disarmament program similar to the one now proposed by the United States, they would not at this time owe any way debts. If the United States had not been a source of supply during the late war, if it had not contributed men and resources to fight the great struggle, Europe would manifestly be worse off than it is today. Presuming that disarmament is a concession to America, then ought to be paid for or that it would be less a benefit to other countries is infinite. Contemplating this sort of proposition on the part of foreign diplomats leads one to wonder if Europe will be able to approximate the United States' standard of international altruism in another thousand years.

Courtesy is becoming more and more to be stressed as an essential to promotion of success. While courtesy costs nothing it gives a wealth of satisfaction and is an important revenue producer. The Postal Bulletin published under the direction of the postmaster general, calls attention to habits of courtesy that have been manifested in the postal service. Politeness has been evident in the policy of the Wayne postoffice. When the postmaster and his subordinates are being thanked for buying stamps and other things, surprise was mingled with pleasure. It seemed so unnecessary to express gratitude for routine transactions that sometimes come anyway that people at first thought the members of the postoffice force had suddenly acquired religion and were bent on helping it in that way. Periodic visitors to the local office, have brought extra stamp supplies here. If it pays a postoffice to be polite, it will pay any business to be big game management, reflecting the desire to buy well without immediate, extra compensation, is a valuable asset. The number of whom men is as numerous as that of the Hindu god, repellent to patrons, is a damage to service and a blight on business.

Mr. Fordney's Views.
Chicago News Representative Fordney, author of the pigeonholed permanent tariff bill, criticized those American merchants who buy goods from a foreign factor and import foreign labor and import them into the United States instead, as he says, of employing American labor, saying we leave at home and leaving the domestic factories, mills and shops unrunning full time.

Such attacks on American importers do not ill indicate the attitude that it would be difficult to account for them were it not known that Mr. Fordney's economic philosophy is anti-American. His objections, although they are, follow logically from his premises.

Mr. Fordney's chief premise is that practically every dollar paid for goods imported into this country is a dollar unnecessarily withheld from the labor and business of the home market. Accordingly, Mr. Fordney looks at the figures on America's import trade and shudders. There he sees hundreds of millions, or even some billions, deliberately sent away from American labor in industry. Why import at all? Mr. Fordney asks: "Why not produce everything at home?"

Strangely enough when Mr. Fordney airs his peculiar view of foreign trade few, if any, members of congress arise to sound him into the United States exports even more than it imports, and that for several years the balance of trade has been steadily in our favor. He does not seem to know that the United States exports more than it imports, and that for several years the balance of trade has been steadily in our favor. He does not seem to know that the United States exports more than it imports, and that for several years the balance of trade has been steadily in our favor.

Mr. Fordney has yet to learn that there is no buying without selling, or vice versa. Foreign trade is an exchange of goods and services in which the value of the balance is paid in gold. Every importing country employs foreign labor, because, in return, its labor is employed by other countries. It is a matter of exchange. The fact that certain American merchants buy the entire output of certain German or Irish goods does not affect the principle involved.

Mr. Fordney and those who agree with him, should take a short course in elementary economics. Any night school or any university will accommodate them—by correspondence if preferred.

Deadly in Any Event.
Chicago Tribune: Wise men know that there is no whiskey being offered for sale. The best which the buyer gets is new spirits, possibly discovered to deceive his taste although that is difficult. The moonshiner and the bootlegger are poisoners. Their goods may be used alcohol or they may be high wines. They may be deadly indirectly. They may kill the man who drinks or he may kill because he has drunk.

Why the Gloom in Iowa?
Kansas City Times: Gov. Kendall, of Iowa, has a conference of mid-west governors that "we have not yet sounded the ultimate depths of our depression." Since when did Iowa get all that gloom?

Wool Hose
With each pair of ladies' oxford socks this week we will give a pair of nice wool hose
FREE

Canton crepe of silk and wool is the favorite dress material for our line new-wear. $3.00 is our low price on this beautiful material which comes in all the popular colors. A similar cloth of silk and cotton is priced at $1.85. All wool storm serge in brown, navy and maroon priced very special at $1.25. Pretty dress plaids for the little girls at 56c. We have all the trimmings now most popular for making up these dress materials and McCall patterns to guide you in making them up.

We had several shipments of new coats and dresses sent us last week by factories who were closing out their fall stocks. They were priced low and we selected a good assortment of the best styles and returned the balance. They are better values and better styles and priced lower than any of the coats and suits now being offered at reduced prices in special sales.

From New York we just received a lot of the assortment of silk jersey and saten petticoats and bloomers. The prices are very attractive. Skirts with silk taffeta flounces as low as $3.50. Heavy all silk jersey skirts with pretty knife pleated flounces in contrasting colors at $7.75. With taffeta flounces at $4.75, and a bloomer made of a special-light-weight-bloomer cloth almost like silk priced very low at $2.25. These bloomers are made to fit, and that is an unusual thing as most of the bloomers have been a failure in this respect.

When you can get big full size cotton blankets in pretty plaids or plain colors at $3.00, they are a real bargain. Big heavy wool naps, thick and warm, $4.25 and $5. Good size coltons at $1.75 and $2.00. These low prices are only possible because we get these samples at one-third discount.

Red and grey chinchilla, a beautiful material for little folks' coats. Comes in bright red and grey at $3.75. One yard will make a little fellow's coat.

Girls' blue serge dresses at $6.75 are a bargain. They are made in these pretty new styles and would ordinarily sell at $7.50. We bought them last week from a manufacturer who had secured a great bargain in a lot of blue serge dress goods and made it up into these dresses as a special leader.

A new shipment of those fine wool middies we sold at $4.25 and $4.85 have just come. They are of fine flannels in navy, rose, green and jockey red, and come in both children's and ladies' sizes.

Fine kid, high shoes made on broad, comfortable lasts with low or military heels are priced $4.50 and $5.00. Just the shoe for those who want real comfort, good looks and good wear combined at a moderate price.

The Lincoln Shoe, a boy's moderately priced shoe that wears $3.00 for little fellow's sizes. $3.60 for the big boys. Good looking lasts in black or brown calf skin. And boots, the kind that lace up and have straps and buckles around the top. Solid leather that will stand the wear of skates and sleds and snow and water. Note the prices, $3.50, $3.85 and $5.00, according to size wanted.

We have a car of Red River Ohio potatoes on the road from Minnesota. They should be here Monday or Tuesday if the strike does not hold them up. They were personally selected for us by a county agent right on the ground and will be especially good, grading U. S. Gov't. No. 1, buying direct from the growers we got them at a saving in price. A whole car is more than we have room to store in our basement so for two days we are going to sell direct from the car at $1.50 per bushel. Call up and tell us how many you want saved. If you are not pleased with them when you see them you need not take them. Red River potatoes keep; they do not dry rot like western sand hill potatoes. $1.50 is a very low price.

The new underwear is here and the prices are lower than they have been. We have remarked all the underwear carried over from last year carried to the same low prices and you will be sure of the very best values for your money if you buy your underwear here. Good, heavy fleeced union suits for both men and women are again $1.50.

Remember price is not the only thing to consider in buying merchandise. If you don't get good quality with it, price means nothing. To meet the present demand for low priced goods certain manufacturers are making poor quality merchandise that can be sold at cut prices. Examine the goods carefully when you buy cut price merchandise. Lenine's Confession.

Sioux City Journal: It is not a bit surprising that Nicolai Lenine has been driven to confess to the Russian bolsheviks and to the world in general that the soviet system is broken down and that the communistic idea cannot win a political or industrial economy without aid from capital. What is startling is that the world foresees again how Lenine sees now. The only difference has been that the soviet leader had to visit his country in order to have his truth demonstrated.

Speaking at Moscow, Lenine exhorted his followers to restore capitalism as a means of salvaging the country. Thus he recognizes the impotence of the communistic plan which was to centralize all power in the government even at the cost of destroying initiative and incentive.

At least he makes admission that, under present conditions in Russia, the soviet cannot make restoration a fact, working by themselves. He does not let go all holds entirely and plunges himself to the bottom of the pit; it is too clever for that. Instead, he makes the shrewd suggestion that the communists can profit while retaining authority by learning from capital "more practically to perform their tasks." It is a suggestion that the bolsheviks lift their heads by pulling upon capital's bootstraps.

The Moscow speech of Lenine presented a peculiar condition. The soviet admit failure, but hang on the hope of employing capital to do the work of rebuilding Russia's disrupted productivity of land and factory and with the present government retaining all the power possible in order to save its political coup d'etat. It is not from this distance as though Lenine's plan is to kick capital out again when it has served its purpose. That does not provide much promise for Russia's future, for what has happened once might again come to pass with famine debacles running in cycles.

Lenine says: "I say to you: 'Go into business. Work with the capitalists by your side, both Russian and foreign, who will get 100 per cent out of you. Let him get rich, but learn from him, and only then will the true communistic republic be created. It is hard, difficult, wrenching toil, but all of us must do it, for there is no other way out.'"

"The time for drawing political pictures of great aims is now past. We must put theories into practice. We must do much cultural work and do much more of our practical experience in order that our political coup d'etat may be saved."

Lenine evidently counts upon capital's blind acceptance of his plan. He may find that his calculations are in error. It is not likely that capital would be willing to restore Russia's economic position without satisfactory assurances that it will not be destroyed as it was before. Lenine already has learned one thing, although slowly, and perhaps he now may learn another—that honesty is the best policy and that no selfish government can stand.

The Governor's Suggestion.

Sioux City Journal: Gov. McKelvie of Nebraska, proposes that the farmers furnish board and lodging for the unemployed, in return for which the farmers are to receive a "limited amount of work" from the board. "The Omaha World-Herald suggests that city folks be permitted to share in this generosity and that the farmers be not asked to carry more than their part of the load. The suggestions of both the governor and the World-Herald credit to their kindness of heart, but The Journal questions whether the plan would be acceptable to either the unemployed or their proposed hosts. The kind of unemployed who would be well-come as guests would be reluctant to accept the proffered hospitality, and those who would be likely to accept the proffer would care to entertain. Gov. McKelvie means well, but some other solution of the problem will have to be found.

The Battle of the Banquets. New York Tribune: Marshal Foch did not shrink from commanding the armies of the world, but he trembles at the thought of the banquet given to him. Some weeks ago it was reported that he was in gastronomic training for his trip to America, and now comes the story that he quails, not only because of the quality, not of feeling he is adequately prepared.

He is a strong man with a good digestion. But so was Marshal Foch, until he was dined by America. Whenever Foch thinks of his coming trip he is said to sigh and to mutter, "Poor Fochelle!"

The Early Days in Two Counties

From Wayne Herald for October 31, 1901:

H. A. Candor has been appointed station agent at Healdsburg. A ton was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Holtz, Thursday, October 25. J. T. Bressler has received a fine Sheldon pony and his son, John, Mrs. Charles Shultheis has returned from a visit at Three Rivers, Minn.

The Baptist folks have raised the funds and purchased an Eddy organ.

The afternoon branch train has altogether given up the idea of running on time.

Clara Key has just completed a fine tubular well through the 174 feet of G. J. Sandberg.

Wm. Davis of Humphrey has purchased the farm of S. Baker in Chapin, paying $27.20 per acre.

The new house of Miss Zetta Rayburn in the Second ward of the city is rapidly nearing completion.

Miss Laura Adams in the park here at one time, giving Wayne a decidedly metropolitan appearance.

Mrs. Robert Perrin and daughter, Blanche, have left for a few weeks' visit in the western part of the state.

W. H. Root of Sherman has added to his herd, three fine thoroughbred Galloway cattle, two cows and a bull.

Mrs. Herman Herney is in Chicago purchasing the furniture for the handsome new residence on Fifth street.

The recent gain delayed corn husking for a day, but the farmers are again at work and the city seems about deserted.

Mrs. George Axcious, living three miles south of Winnside, dropped dead of heart failure as she was about to get into a buggy.

Mark Jeffrey fell about ten feet from a windmill on the Perry & Parkfield ranch and suffered severe bruises of the back and shoulders.

Al Griffith and Lound of Winnside have purchased three corner sections of land of Eugene Muller, fourteen miles west of Wayne, paying $36 per acre.

Levi Peterson of Lincoln made an address at the opera house bearing on the coming election and urging the republican support of the entire party ticket.

Robert, the nineteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Met Goodyear died October 28. While in Liabo last summer he contracted meningitis, the effects of which never left him.

Mr. J. H. Kato was hostess at five o'clock tea. For entertainment of each lady was asked to make a sentence and use all the letters of the alphabet. Mrs. Donnell received the prize for the best sentence.

Ernie has been interested in serving a two-course menu by Lubbock Hill, Miss Kate and Edna Bush.

From Ponca Journal, November 1, 1895:

On Monday, hogs sold in Sioux City for $3.10.

Yesterday, for a wonder, the wind did not blow, and the sun came out clear and warm, the first time in the week.

As all probability Indian summer has arrived, but the weather is something it won't do to bet on in this country.

At the writing, the vote of this county has not been officially canvassed, so that in two or three instances it is impossible to say who is elected. J. B. Barnes has received a large majority for district judge.

Agassiz Drager was elected commissioner. E. H. Jewell, school superintendent; A. S. Palmer, school superintendent; E. M. Bigbee, county clerk. The vote on treasurer is very close.

The candidates will show more than two or three either way. This is also the case with the vote on county judge. As to these officers, in an official count only, will show who are the successful candidates.

Later. Since writing the above we learn that D. Hurley is elected treasurer and W. C. Smith is elected county judge.

The surveying party under Chief Engineer Nash have run a preliminary line from Ponca up Sixth Creek to Martinsburg and from thence up the Daily valley, and on Tuesday struck the Cedar county line about 15 miles from the river. Their present course will take them through the central part of Cedar. The railroad line about which has been piled at Ponca, is now being removed.

It is reported that when the track is widened, the iron now used will be replaced by heavier rails. We hear that the railroad cut at the summit will be deepened this winter about ten feet. This will show a much more level road and becomes necessary in view of its becoming of standard gauge.

Sudden Affluence. New York Times: Prompted by recent scandals, a movement has been started to "clean up" moving picture shows in quite a new fashion. It is not objectionable films that would be removed, but films of objectionable actors. The fact that some of the heroes of the movies have not been all that they should be in private life appears to have come as a great shock to many devotees of the screen play. From their very reaction against unpleasant disclosures lately made has come the proposal to insist that these actors, for pictures exhibited to millions must be models of all the virtues.

If morals can be reformed in this way, no one will object to the plan. But its promoters should not overlook the root of the evil at which they intend to strike. This is the sudden acquisition of wealth by persons who have neither the mental outlook nor the moral fibre necessary to withstand its seductions.

Thrusting large sums of money into their hands inevitably suggests to them a plunge into luxury and dissipation. The immense vogue of the movies has rapidly created a large number of the newly rich. They are proverbially the class from which luxury originates. This has been noted in thousands of instances, like that of the once notorious "Coal Oil Johnny." The movies have made it worth to the employer and the actor, for pictures exhibited to millions must be models of all the virtues.

What money is for, except it be to be spent in the gratification of barbarian and brutish tastes.

One in Five. Sioux Falls Argus-Leader: There will be pretty general concurrence in the conclusion reached by Secretary of Commerce Hoover that only one in five of the unemployed are in need of assistance to get through the winter. People who have tried to find men to do odd jobs of work find it difficult to secure the desired assistance. Men are particular what kind of work they take and they fix their scale of wages to suit themselves. This is their right, and it cannot be criticised for it. Reserve Bank Board is Criticized Norfolk Daily News: In a letter directed to officers and directors of the federal reserve bank of the Tenth district, located at Kansas City, Mo., Gov. McKelvie's banking committee charges the reserve bank with gross discrimination which is aiding in the stifling of business on the farms and in the cities and towns of Nebraska, and demands more liberal rules and regulations as to the rediscounting of agricultural and livestock paper.

The committee was released for publication today reads as follows: "At a recent conference had by bankers and financiers, with the governor of the state of Nebraska, the Hon. Samuel R. McKelvie, at the call of the governor, were assigned, were appointed as a committee to endeavor to obtain from the management of the federal reserve bank of this district and its branches, more liberal rules and regulations as to the rediscounting of agricultural and live stock paper, and Farm Business offers.

"We recognize that the industries of the state of Nebraska are in no wise speculative. That her resources are the products of the soil; that her principal farm products and livestock have, in the so-called readjustment period, suffered a more rapid decline in value than any other merchandise commodity and for the reason of all her energy being exerted to raise and market food products, which are the basis of all food staples, she is entitled to full consideration to foster and preserve vital an element in the scheme of progress.

"The sale of these products at this time will not produce anything like a return for the cost of labor and investment in raising them up to anything like the interest upon the land investment which is being made in our district, produce no deposits, as it is an responsibility for the farmer and livestock owner to pay the interest on their past indebtedness. It is impossible for them to purchase necessary equipment and implements and, in addition, they are being made to suffer from lack of trade and banks are unable to take care of the demand of commerce by reason of loss in deposits. This serious condition, while only temporary, needs immediate help.

"Loans Fail to Meet Needs.
"We believe that the Tenth federal reserve district is not loaning to the farmer and stock grower of this district and, especially Nebraska, the proportion of the amount of loans made to cotton growers in the southern states. It is unnecessary to call your attention to the fact that Nebraska has cattle valued at approximately $50,000,000, sheep valued at approximately $10,000,000, besides corn, wheat, oats, potatoes, ordinarily of incalculable value but we do this to bring to your attention that Nebraska's resources are as valuable to the welfare of the entire United States as are those of any other state in the union and possibly greater than any other one state. Yet we are charging for credit to carry these commodities through to a period where it is market and possibly greater than any other one state. We are more liberal treatment of agricultural paper; that the rule as applied to manufacturers, merchants and kindred paper be not applied to farmers and livestock growers' paper, namely, that of requiring that such paper be secured by quick assets sufficient to retire the paper but that some credit be extended by reason of the investment in land and the endorsement and guarantee of the member bank. Chattel mortgage paper should not be judged as to the security of the mortgage but the statement of the maker and endorser should be given consideration as an added worth back of the chattel mortgage.

Blames District Bank.
"An examination of the application blanks filed with the various federal reserve banks discloses the fact that the Kansas City federal reserve bank has the most cumbersome, antiquated and technical array of forms and financial statements required in the same manner uselessly injurious and objectionable and are not used in the same manner as by the Kansas City bank. In fact, it occurs to us that the Kansas City bank has been a law unto itself in regard to rules, regulations and forms, that are behind the fact that it receives its orders from Washington, when, as a matter of fact, investigation of the other federal reserve banks shows conditions altogether different.

"While we appreciate the efforts of the government to render assistance to the farming and livestock interest, yet it does not occur to us that with the boasted millions at the command of the federal reserve system and the aid rendered to farmers and livestock growers and the willingness to continue such assistance, the rules as to the making of such paper had been adjusted to meet conditions there would have been no occasion for the War Finance Corporation to function in this regard.

Resent Profiteering Charge.
"We resent the charge of profiteering by Nebraska banks made by Governor Stephens in his recent address to you, who are in a position to know that the statement is without foundation, to refute the charge. On the contrary, we make the statement that the major portion of Nebraska banks will be obliged to pass a dividend for 1921.

"We affirm that had it not been for the necessity of our people subscribing and paying for Liberty bonds in the liberal manner that they did, the banks would have been in a position to meet the situation without any marked hardship, in the time of depression of prices of farm products. The many who are in the face do not indicate the purchase of bonds, are traceable to the urged purchasing of these bonds under a plan by the federal government, and not only giving them all the assistance necessary, but at a rate only slightly in excess of the rate which the bonds bore. Not only was the faith broken with loyal patriotic purchasers, when the amount loaned by the banks was reduced to market value, which was discounting the obligations of the government, absolutely uncalculated for, but the rate of interest was advanced to the highest rate charged for any paper discounted by the bank, thus depriving the member bank of 45 per cent available assistance, which in this district, the Tenth, is amounting to millions of dollars. Again, this policy resulted in the sale of bonds at a marked loss to the banks who desired to sell their customer's assistance and to customers who were compelled to sell their bonds by reason of not being able to obtain assistance from their banks.

"We deplore the policy of the federal reserve bank at Kansas City which encouraged member banks to sell their customer's assistance and to reduce their obligations at the federal reserve bank with the result that the bonds of the government were thereby further discounted, and the value which resulted in an aggravation of the credit situation.

"We therefore, demand in the name of common justice, more liberal treatment of agricultural paper; that the rule as applied to manufacturers, merchants and kindred paper be not applied to farmers and livestock growers' paper, namely, that of requiring that such paper be secured by quick assets sufficient to retire the paper but that some credit be extended by reason of the investment in land and the endorsement and guarantee of the member bank. Demand Far Loans.
"We demand that the ruling value of U. S. Liberty bonds and Victory Notes be now returned to par value and that the rate of interest be reduced to the rate of 4 per cent on any security and can not see any good reason why this rate should not be 4 1/2 per cent.

"We ask a modification of the rule adopted by the Kansas City federal reserve bank which is denominated as 'finance paper,' alleging that the rule, which is now in vogue, is work-a-hedship against the livestock interest and may result in its utter ruin. We contend and stand ready to substantiate by proof that paper which you are rejecting for rediscount for the reason alone that it is 'finance paper,' regardless of the financial standing of the endorser and maker, is being rejected for rediscount from member banks in other districts without any objections whatever.

Want Rate Adjusted.
"We can not conceive of any reason why the discount rates of the Kansas City federal bank should differ from those of the Chicago federal reserve bank and earnestly ask that the discount rate of the Tenth district be at once adjusted to those of the Chicago district and that in the future such discount rates be maintained on an equal with the Chicago district.

"We desire to express our faith in the federal reserve system and in the act as passed by congress and firmly believed that the national congress had in mind that, with the firm foundation of finance as provided by the law, and an intelligent, helpful interpretation of the same by the federal reserve board and the various officers and directors of the regional banks adjusting rules and regulations to meet emergency as they arose, that we most admirably situated to meet any situation which might arise. The financing of a great war has been accomplished and now in the readjustment period let it not be said that by the enforcement of technical rules that the great food producing states of the middle-west have been ruined. Under no circumstances do we advocate the cheapening of the security of the federal reserve bank, but we do think that the rules and regulation governing agricultural and stock raising districts should be different from those covering districts wherein the principal industries are jobbing, manufacturing, shipping and export trade.

"Yours very respectfully,

World Echo its Great One... Philadelphia Public Ledger. How much a man's name comes to be worth, in terms not of dollars but of character, how greatly he counts in his community; the extent to which he is an asset when other men are liabilities to the world they live in—these questions are not for a man himself to decide. In the dust of the ages are rulers whose inflated pompous vanity, like that of a Balazar or an Ozymandias, led them to rise up and tell the world how great they were. The world paid little heed. It chooses for itself the great ones; sets up its own standard; makes its own scale from maximum to minimum. It will not get you anywhere to inform the world of your importance. Do your work and—the world will decide.

Wayne Normal Team Defeated Saturday

The football game between Wayne Normal and Morningside college in Sioux City Saturday was attended by many boosters from Wayne. The defeat of the home team was strong but Wayne might have held the score if the team had not played to open a game in its efforts to push over a touchdown. The following account of the game is taken from the Sioux City Tribune:

Morningside defeated the Wayne Teachers college by a 48 to 0 score Saturday afternoon in one of the most spectacular open field games seen on Base field in several years. Over 30 passes were attempted during the course of the game, most of the being caught. The game made two touchdowns in each quarter after the first.

Morningside's victory was featured by phenomenal playing of Leslie Pritchard at end and Harold Nissen at halfback. Pritchard accounted for no less than 239 yards gain on plays through the line around the end. The entire Morningside team worked well. Rennie and Captain Armour were the stars for Wayne, both players being dangerous ground gainers throughout the game. These two stellar performers also had a pass. Rennie to Armour that was attempted to last but seven times. Wayne was outwitted on the line by nearly 15 pounds to the man, but she had a brilliant series of forward passes which she used frequently. Wayne attempted two passes, completing seven of them for 75 yards. The Teachers made but six first downs during the game, four of these being by the aerial route.

netted but four inches and Morningside was saved by eight inches. Again in the first quarter, Wayne took the ball on Morningside's 34-yard line and by the aid of a 15 yard penalty and a 12 yard forward pass, brought the ball to the Morningside seven yard line, where the Maroons held the visitors for downs.

Morningside relied almost entirely upon the forward pass, flavored with line plunges by Nissen. The Methodists tried a total of twenty passes, and completed twelve of them for 250 yards of ground. Morningside made 22 first downs, most of them by the overhead route.

The lineups and summary: Morningside Position Wayne Pritchard..... R.E. Surber Steele (Capt.)..... R.T. P. Rickabaugh Wagner..... E. E. Peterson Munson..... C..... Austin Perwitz..... L.G..... Thomas Feskin..... L.T..... Prescott Beauvais..... L.R..... Peterson Williams..... Q.B..... Rennie Evans..... R.H..... Don Miller H. Nissen..... L.H..... Jones Harris..... P.B. (Capt) Armour Substitutions: Armstrong for P. Peterson; Meyers for Don Miller; P. Peterson for P. Rickabaugh; Dale Miller for Jones; D. Rickabaugh for Rennie; Muhn for Dale Miller.

Touchdowns—Harold Nissen (4), Williams, Evans, Pritchard (7). Passes completed—Morningside, 12 out of 20; Wayne 5 out of 12. Yards gained by forward passes—Morningside, 250; Wayne, 75. Yards penalized—Morningside, 35; Wayne, 10. Number of first downs—Morningside, 22; Wayne, 6. Referee—Dudley Morningside. Umpire—W. Munn, Nebraska. Headlinesman—W. T. Geisman, Ohio. Time of quarters—15.

Gorney Writes Howard.
In reply to an editorial of inquiry by Edgar Howard in his Columbus Dispatch, E. R. Gorney writes that newspaper the following letter: "Editor Telegram: "My Dear Howard—My attention has just now been called to your personal editorial in the October 7 issue of the Telegram, wherein you ask that I shall make public the real facts and the names of the real manufacturers in connection with the wrecking of the Lion Bonding company. "I fully agree with you that the stockholders are entitled to all the information I possess along these lines, and at an early moment I shall be most willing to give to the stockholders and, if you wish, to the readers of the Telegram, all the facts. I do not know that I shall be able to meet your wishes entirely, but I shall at least tell you frankly, all I know. In fact, I have such a report ready, and wanted to send it to The Telegram for publication, but my attorneys have asked me to withhold it, pending the judicial trial of the unjust charges brought against me.

"I can only say at this time that I feel most keenly the loss of the Lion Bonding company, which should have been, and would have been a great success, a satisfaction and profit to all stockholders, if—but I must obey my attorneys, and will tell the names of the wreckers of the company, I probably made mistakes, but I threw into it every possible ounce of energy in effort to win. I have not forgotten and shall not forget, the personal assistance and sympathy which you and other stockholders have accorded me during all the days of my effort to save the company from spoliation at the hands of persons whose names will be given by me just as soon as the cause in court shall have been adjudicated.

"Sincerely yours,
"E. R. Gorney.

Rader Meetings Are Drawing Big Crowds

The evangelistic campaign being conducted by the Rader party in the opera house is attracting wide-spread attention. Visitors from all the surrounding towns and countryside are coming to Wayne to hear Rev. Luke Rader, of Chicago preach and his talented wife sing the old gospel story.

cause of the wonderful exactness with which all of its prophecies have been fulfilled. He said that God had given prophecy in order to let people know that when what a prophet said about cities and nations came to pass then they could be assured that what he said in regard to hell and everlasting life will also come to pass, and therefore a wise man will heed God's warning and flee from the wrath to come and seek the Lord while He may be found.

Mr. Rader speaks each afternoon except Monday and Saturday at 3 o'clock, and each evening, except Monday, at 7:30. Sunday afternoon, he will speak on the subject "Where Did Sin Come From," and at night on "What Does the Bible Teach About Hell: Is There One? If so, Why?"

Mrs. Luke Rader, one of America's foremost gospel singers, has arranged sacred words to popular airs and her singing of them is very unique and pleasing. Rev. L. O. Bodie of Boone, Ia., is assisting in the music.

The public is cordially invited and all seats are free.

Maddox Murder Trial.—The taking of testimony in the Maddox murder trial was resumed here this morning. W. M. Maddox took the stand in his own behalf. He told about his life from early childhood, how he had been employed in the lead mines of Idaho and was forced to give up his work because of symptoms of consumption. He also told of having married a woman there who later divorced him, and also of the death of his two children. He then came to Pender, where he worked for several farmers, the last being John C. Schmier, whom he shot on June 29, 1921.

Maddox declares he had never held hard feelings toward Schmier and that they had few words until he demanded his wages and Schmier said he was unable to pay him, and also he could hire a lawyer and wouldn't have to pay Maddox a cent. He stated that he knew nothing about his trip to Pender with Schmier on the day of the murder, nor did he remember being taken to Pender nor the trip to Omaha in a car, where he was placed for safe keeping in the Douglas county jail. He insisted that for years he had been subject to pains in his head and had to take medicine continuously.

The defense has had the ground-work to sustain a plea of insanity, and one witness, a brother-in-law of the accused man, testified that Maddox had a brother in the insane hospital, and Maddox testified that at the time he felt as though he was losing his mind. Several farmers in this vicinity for whom Maddox has worked testified as to his previous good character.

Search Ends in Jail. Omaha, Neb., Oct. 24.—Search for a week by Omaha Red Cross officials for Joe Shanley, 31, of New Orleans, La., to tell him his plea for vocational training had been granted, ended when it was learned he was in jail.

Shanley, whose right arm was shattered by a machine gun bullet in the Argonne forest fighting in France, was caught police say, with a substantial amount of opium.

On a concern, Shanley told Police Lieutenant Pazanoski he intended to sell the tires of the car he had taken as he had not received any compensation money since last March and that he was tired of waiting on government "red tape."

Woman Killed by Train. Bartley, Neb., Oct. 24.—An unidentified woman about 34 years old stepped off the station platform here in front of a passenger train and was instantly killed. Witnesses could not tell whether or not her act was intentional. The woman had been put on a freight train at Arapahoe a few days previous. She asserted she cooked a few days at a restaurant there. She appropriated credit on another restaurant freight and was put off here. Just before the accident she ate her supper at a local cafe and told the proprietress that she was going to McCook to visit friends.

Senator Norris Recovered. Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, who collapsed in the senate last summer while discussing agricultural credit legislation, returned much improved in health. The senator, who is chairman of the senate agricultural committee, has been recuperating in the Wisconsin woods.

Much Corn Going Abroad. Drovers Journal Stockholm: Ordinarily only an insignificant volume of corn is exported from this country. The crop is mostly consumed at home, fully 75 per cent of it being used when it is grown and less than 20 per cent of the crop moving into commercial channels.

These are not ordinary times, however. With Europe suffering from starvation, the demand from that quarter for the coarse grains of America is very great and exports of maize are exceeding all former records. The United States has long enjoyed a monopoly on corn growing because of climatic conditions and Europe may learn from the vast quantities of the grain used there at this time something of the utility of this most important cereal.

More Matter of Taste. Pittsburgh Dispatch: The attorney general of Washington has decided that so far as he can discover after a search as complete as he knows how to conduct there is no written law in that state to dispute the functioning of the written law that women may wear whatever kind of clothes suits them. If the women of Washington want to wear trousers, man's size or knickers, there is nothing in the laws to stop them. It is purely a matter of individual taste, not to be questioned by less esthetic males.

Gargues Come First. Pittsburgh Gazette Times: Perhaps the reason there are more garages than houses built is due to not having enough money for a house after the garage is paid for. Imperatives first.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Attending lectures teaches one to listen; some have never learned.

Not So Newsdays:
St. Louis Globe-Democrat: No gentleman nowadays would think of oggling on the hem of a lady's gown and tearing out half a yard of "gathers" at the waist. Such a mistep is unthinkable.

The Psychology of It.
Akron, O., Beacon-Journal: The price of coal wouldn't seem so unreasonable if there was a law against selling it.

nesday, it was realized that he was in a serious condition. His pastor, Rev. P. Bergstrom, was notified and immediately visited him and frequently called at his sickbed and talked and prayed with him. When just a couple of hours before he succumbed to the pastor asked which he would choose, to get well or go home and be with the Lord. He said, "I prefer to go home and be with Christ, but God's will be done."

David was born in Concord, Dixon county, Neb., December 29, 1901, and was the youngest of the very blossom of youth, being at the time of his death, 19 years, 9 months and 22 days. He received the holy baptism in infancy, at the Lutheran church of this place, Rev. J. E. Erlander, then pastor, officiating. He had been brought up in this vicinity with the exception of a few years when the family resided at College Port, Tex. On Oct. 8, 1916, together with a catechumen class of 16 members, after having received Christian instruction, gave his sacred vows to Christ and his church, and was upon his confirmation confirmed to full-communicant privileges and duty in the Lutheran church. He showed himself to be a lover of the house of the Lord in that he was a regular attendant of the services and often partook in the Lord's supper, and proved himself a faithful member of the church. He was held in high respect by all who knew him, as he was of a great Christian character. He leaves to mourn his seemingly early departure, his parents, one sister, Helen, an infant sister having gone before; one grandfather, two uncles, one aunt and many other relatives and friends. The remains were laid to rest in the Lutheran cemetery.

The pastor used as his text in English services, John 14: 1-8 and the Swedish sermon, Jas. 1: 2-8, verse 5. Singing was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Johnson, Mrs. Wynore Wallin and Ivar Anderson with Mrs. Anderson at the piano. David Peterson, Burt Noren, Morris Johnson and Arthur Frederickson acted as pall bearers and the Misses Pritchard, Mrs. E. A. Bergstrom, Myrtle Johnson, Ethel Magnusson and Pearl Goldberg carried the many floral offerings.

Philadelphia Diamond Grid Batteries

The history of the automobile battery is a record of continuous progress. From year to year car owners become more and more exacting in their demands for greater reliability and longer life. In the battery field, the Philadelphia Diamond Grid Battery has long been universally conceded to be the most satisfactory. It has stood the exceptionally long time of eighteen months, and the number of miles have failed to outlive eighteen months is negligible.

But, during the last five years, the Philadelphia Storage Battery company's engineers have been busy developing, testing and making ready for quantity production, a new device called the Phico Slotted Retainer, which added at least one thing to the already long life of the Philadelphia Diamond Grid Battery. During the war, the government absorbed practically the whole output of Philadelphia Slotted Retainer Batteries but with the cancellation of war contracts it has become possible to offer the Phico Retainer in the motorist's public market.

The new Philadelphia Diamond Grid Battery with the Phico Slotted Retainer is guaranteed for two years and bears the same relation to the old battery that the cord-tie bears to the fabric. Both are made in the same plant and largely of the same materials, but on account of the different and more costly structure, one outlasts the other, and also provides greater insurance against interruption of service.

The Philadelphia Diamond Grid Battery without the Phico Slotted Retainer was, and is, a good battery. But the Phico Slotted Retainer Battery with the Phico Retainer is even better. In grueling tests it has outlasted and outperformed the ordinary battery. In actual use it has given service which has demonstrated its supreme practical worth.

In service, the positive plates of any battery furnished by the Winside orchestra. Everybody is welcome.

tended to shed their active material, and the faster this occurred the quicker a battery is worn out. In the Philadelphia Diamond Grid Battery with Phico Slotted Retainer, a machine is placed against the active material on each side of each positive plate. The Retainer is a thin, tough sheet of structure. Although the slits are so numerous that they allow the free passage of acid and current, each slit is so narrow that the Retainer is in effect, a solid wall which holds the active material firmly in place.

Five years ago the proposition of manufacturing Slotted Retainer Batteries placed the largest rubber manufacturers in the United States. Their opinion was that quantity production was impossible because of the great difficulty in making a machine which would last any length of time. Hard rubber is a very difficult substance to cut, and any tool used for this purpose tends to dull or break very quickly. But the engineers of the Philadelphia Storage Battery company refused to be daunted by the opinion. They realized the enormous gain in battery life which the "Slotted Retainer" would make possible, and they determined to build their own machines for manufacturing it.

Within a year they had a machine in operation to produce such a machine. This machine is just about as similar to the perfected machines which are operating today as the original automobiles are to the 1921 model.

But just as in the development of the automobile each model was the stepping stone to a better model until today the perfect automobile is being taken out Slotted Retainers day in and day out, and quantity production is an accomplished fact.

It is a fact that a battery that it was worth it. For the result is a battery that will last longer and give better service than was ever believed possible.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: It will be recalled that the reason for the fire where it places without being chaperoned by pennies.

AN IMPORTANT INVENTION. "J. R. Coyle is the inventor of a battery solution which bids fair to revolutionize the battery industry. His claims for the solution are more or less startling, and he believes it will prove to be the missing link in storage batteries. With this new electrolyte the present method of charging batteries for three days in order to get maximum service is abandoned. The new electrolyte acts instantly without a line charge.

With batteries that are in a serviceable condition all that is necessary is to pour out the old solution, rinse the cells with water, fill them with this Instant Battery Solution and the battery is ready for use with all the reserve power it has. With an old battery that has not been in service for months it may be necessary to crank the car the first time after installing the solution when the generator will build it up to full capacity. Batteries known not to take a charge or hold a charge with ordinary electrolyte will work with this solution and give satisfactory service. Tests have been made such as running a battery completely down with the starter or by passing the switch on over-night and then running ten minutes with the switch off, if the battery does not start immediately, it is only necessary to crank the car the first time by hand and the generator will re-charge the battery to full capacity.

Business.

Sioux City Journal. The reports of business gains throughout the country do not seem to be much affected by the threatened railroad strike, although at first there was a flurry in financial, shipping and trade centers that reflected some uneasiness. Developments that led some thinkers to believe there would be no tying up of the lines of transportation quickly restored confidence and when announcement had been made long none of the impetus had gained in the slow process of improvement. Wheat went of several cents, but the steel and iron from Chicago is that it has recovered practically everything it lost. Stocks at New York, especially railroad stocks, are declining, due to the misgivings felt in Wall street when the strike announcement first was made. The railway shares regained the ground they had, however, as the country was given to understand that the fall weight of the government would be thrown into the balance to prevent a strike.

Early last week business felt the shock of the strike announcement. Dun's insists that there was no conspicuous disturbance anywhere, however, and this is borne out by the facts. A natural result of the strike announcement would have been an acceleration of shipping, and, while this did come, it was not a movement in large volume, and anxiety subsided with the belief that the trouble of a walkout would be averted. Business now can be said to have recovered almost entirely from the first shock, with plans made for steady advancement continuing unchanged.

Actual conditions show enlarged operations in iron and steel manufacturing, a steady progress in the building trades, an improved retail movement, a more fluid condition of rural liquidation, some improvements in foreign commerce and a repetition on the part of bankers that the financial situation is most satisfactory. The iron and steel plants are running at less than half speed, but an improvement in the filling of orders without delay, which is encouraging. The gains made in iron and steel since midsummer have held and real progress should be expected throughout the year. Dry goods are selling more rapidly, much of the buying being reasonable, but with a more encouraging picture coming in the movement of the rural trade. This indicates that the farmers, whose buying power was greatly reduced by the realized returns on their crops and that the buyers' strike is about to end. Wholesalers are for the most part moving slowly, forced to do so by the small orders they receive from the retailers. This condition is somewhat relieved, it is explained, by frequent repetition of orders, showing that the demand for goods continues.

The improvement in domestic trade is not so great as it should be three years after the close of the war, but untoward incidents have held back the program of recovering. Argentina has placed an order with an American manufacturer for railroad equipment to cost $12,000,000. The government of Peru is to ask for a loan of $50,000,000 paying 8 per cent interest. These items are small, but their cumulative influence on trade is large, as was the selling of Brazilian bonds in American markets a short time ago. Reciprocity is made always and is counted on following orders and movements of this kind. American manufacturers, however, recently had brought to their notice the activities of German interests in South America and should bestir themselves in an effort to obtain and maintain a better foothold in the southern republics. It is the consensus of opinion that the low point of business depression has been reached and that the upward swing has actually begun. This is reflected somewhat by an advance in prices on several commodities. Deflation continues in some lines, notably motor cars, price reductions which are announced almost weekly. The cost of living is advanced slightly, but is not expected to go very far before finding the level at which it will stay. Fluctuations were expected and the slight increase has brought little, if any, disappointment.

With the housework during his wife's illness.
Few farmers in this vicinity have finished gathering their corn while others have just started the work. The field is quite satisfactory. The Northside Country club met with Mrs. Clarence Jones on Thursday. Twelve ladies were present and Mrs. Geo. Lion and Mrs. James Hancock were invited guests. Mrs. Peterson had charge of the social-hour and furnished the guests several interesting games—and coffee—in return.

Steals Coal to Sell, Charge.
Fremont, Neb., Oct. 25.—Mark Christensen's embarrasment as a career as a retail dealer in coal was rudely cut short in this city by police who contended that his business methods were altogether too extravagant to "get by."

Christensen's plan was simple enough. Taking a gunny sack, he made trips to coal cars in the railroad yards and then peddled the black diamonds to nearby neighbors, taking whatever price the customer would pay. Having no overhead expense, he was in a fair way to making a fortune until the cops nabbed him.

Governor is Upheld.
Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 25.—The university is a branch of the executive department of the state, and as such, comes within the law of the last legislature giving the governor authority to pass on its budget.

This is the answer of Attorney General Clarence A. Davis, to the original suit brought in the Nebraska supreme court by the university regents to prevent Governor McKelvie from arbitrarily paring off $34,023 from the $780,000 university budget for the quarter ending September 30.

Political Railingdng Expense.
National Republican Government ownership of railways cost the British taxpayers $1,000,000,000. Political railingdng comes much higher on one side of the Atlantic as on the other.

Uncle Johns' Joke

SHOW ME A REAL WOMAN WHO WON'T SAVE MONEY IF HUSBY GIVES HER A CHANCE.

Overreached Himself.
Lincoln Journal. When J. H. Amos was north of the Platte recently he talked with a farmer who a little more than a year ago had several hundred bushels of corn for which he refused an offer of $17.75. He wanted $17.75, but the dealer he couldn't see it. So he put it in the elevator to await a higher price. After awhile he was offered $18.85. Then after a few farmers in this vicinity while he was willing to take $1.85, but the price had slipped to $1.63, and he was still stubborn. Then he set right while the price dropped down and down until it last reached 30 cents. When that quotation came he hitched up his team, pulled the corn back to his farm and began feeding it. "Yet this man isn't particularly cross over his loss," Mr. Amos reports. "He blames nobody but himself. By saying for 2 cents more at different times he subjected himself to a loss of $1.45 a bushel."
