Injured in Cattle Stampede.
The following, account from the Newman-Grove Reporter, of last week refers to Alfred Henry Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Lewis of Wayne:

Last Monday afternoon while driving a shipment of cattle to Newman Grove to be marketed, A. H. Lewis had the misfortune to be caught in their own stampede. He became frightened while passing the grade school building in town. The children were responding to the bell call for school and were running around the building just as the cattle were driven by, scaring the herd and stampeding.

The cattle were western cattle and unused to having people around; consequently when the children began their usual laughing and chatter came around the buildings they were stampeded. In his effort to stop them Pete Lewis was run down and considerably hurt and his hat and coat came around the buildings they were stampeded. In his effort to stop them Pete Lewis was run down and considerably hurt and his hat and coat came around the buildings they were stampeded.

The steer that ran over him ran back to John Ekstrom's place on old town and was roped, but in the melee it killed itself.

Hoping All Things.
—New York Times: With so much confidence that a true world's desire centered upon the shipping conference, it is nevertheless impossible to shut one's ears to discordant voices of doubt and cynicism.

These come from many lands and many sources. Diplomats are habitually pessimistic. They bid us not to expect too much from hampered delegates and selfish governments. There is the suggestion of sinister purposes; the prediction of failure from those who are preparing to gloat over failure. And, as was to be expected, some of the more monopolists of "liberalism" are leading the cry that the conference is certain to end in disappointment. Can you goad things into the hands of the Nazareth of a decaying and dishonest political system? This is now a pose with them in all matters of international importance.

They are opposing the Washington conference. Thus they do what they can to create an atmosphere of depression and despondency as if one were to be offering themselves with the champions of imperialism and of force. As against these devil's advocates, what are the solid reasons for hope as the Washington conference begins its labors? First, the conviction borne in upon those who care in it and the uncounted millions of watchers outside it, that a necessity is laid upon the nations. They must succeed in their endeavors or make the basis of lasting peace stable and to check the waste of the world's wealth on armaments, because the consequences of failure would be too terrible. It is not a question of diplomatic fencing and bargaining over boundaries and spheres of influence and non-aggression and shipping, but of life or death for peoples and governments. In the grave and measured words with which Lord Grey ended his recent speech on the urgent need of a universal and agreed plan for extensive disarmament, the lessons of other wars have been that the people must learn or suffer, but the great teaching of the last war is: "You must teach or you will perish."

The peril to civilization itself if countries go on arming against each other, and do not think themselves together to assure just security, and opportunity to all, is now keenly felt by many who had long been insistent. This accounts for the rallying and organizing of such diverse classes of men in support of the movement to ground needless arms. Big business strikes hands with labor organizations. Races and creeds forget their differences in working for a common end. Religious fervor has been called out in a remarkable degree. The churches have moved solemnly in answer to the president's appeal, but more from their instinctive feeling that humane and secret issues hang upon the final decisions at Washington. These expressions of the people, coming up like the sound of many waters, cannot fail to bring up those in and out of the Washington conference who incline to hope rather than fear.

The Good Citizen
Philadelphia Public Ledger: To be a good citizen is to be a good friend and neighbor. It is to manifest loyalty and integrity in business relations. Good citizenship acts to build up not alone the prosperity of a private concern, but the welfare of commerce and trade in general. The good citizen; singly or corporately, pays his debts. He does not keep others waiting for the money they have earned and therefore own. He has an instinctive horror of borrowing without a definite and understood prospect of repayment. He keeps his appointments. He respects the right of other men to the same participation in answer to the president's appeal, but more from their instinctive feeling that humane and his own trust, minds his own business, is responsible and reliable in his own person, the average level of credit and prestige for the whole community will rise.

Big Tim's Sentence
Chicago Tribune: Judge Landis has imposed sentences on "Big Tim" Murphy and his two aids which ought to have a beneficial effect on kindred spirits. The notion that you can get away with anything is too prevalent, and Mr. Murphy has been so conspicuous an example of the class which holds to this theory that a demonstration of its fallacy in his case was greatly needed. Thanks to a judge without false sentiment, Mr. Murphy will be restrained from his activities for at least five years and six months during which time his influence ought to be considerably depleted and, we hope, his own faith in his methods weakened. The fine of $20,000 should further enforce the novel idea that roughness, tactics and a genial disregard of the law are not safe and profitable.

Congressman Evans Gives Information

Congressman R. E. Evans gives the Herald the following information for publication.

Upon inquiry directed to the secretary of the interstate commerce commission, I received the following information which will be of interest to farmers having grain to sell. I quote from the director's letter those items material.

"This will acknowledge your favor of November 15th 1921 and in regard to rates on grain from certain points to St. Paul, Chicago and Duluth.

"The commission in Docket 12929, rates on grain, grain products and hay, 84 ICC 85, found that the present rates on wheat will be for the future unjust and unreasonable to the extent that they made inordinately include more than one-half of the increase authorized in Ex. Parte 74; that the rates on coarse grain will be for the future unjust and unreasonable to the extent that they exceed rates 10 per cent less than those prescribed as just and reasonable on wheat from and to the same points. No order was entered in this case, but it was suggested that the reductions be made as soon as practicable and not later than November 20, 1921.

"The present rate on corn or wheat from Dakota City to Chicago and Duluth the rates are 37 and 32 1/2 cents per 100 pounds, respectively. Under the commission's decision above noted the new rates from Dakota City to Chicago and Duluth are 32 1/2 cents and 28 1/2 cents, respectively, while the corn rates from Dakota City to Chicago and Duluth should be 29 1/2 and 25 1/2 cents per 100 pounds, respectively.

"The reductions will become effective only upon the publication by the carriers of schedules containing the new rates, and the filing of the same with this commission. I am unable at the present time to say whether or not this will be done so that the reduced rates may become effective on or before November 20, 1921.

I am sending this information valuable to those contemplating selling and that may be of some approximate value to you.

Culled From Herald's Exchanges For Week

When Sheriff George Cain and Deputy Sheriff Melford Lathrop of Dakota county were taking a half holiday Christmas Day, leaving the county prisoners in charge of Andrew Grasso, who is serving a term out of jail, Glenn D. Soss, who had been arrested the first of the week for having a stolen car in his possession, overpowered the guard, locked him in a vault and escaped. He invited the four other prisoners to accompany him but they refused the invitation. Soss was also being held with a companion as deserters from the Great Lakes naval cooking station and Sheriff Cain expected to receive money offered for the capture of deserters and a trip to Chicago to accompany the two men. Soss was recaptured at Walthill and the Thurston county sheriff holds him as a deserter from the navy and refuses to surrender him to Sheriff Cain.

Dr. R. J. McArthur, formerly of Waterbury, but for the past five years located at South Sioux City, was accidentally shot and killed while on a hunting trip, November 14. Dr. McArthur and two companions were hunting on a sandbar in the Missouri river about six miles north of Jackson. When a flock of ducks was sighted the doctor asked the man directly behind him to hand him his gun. Without turning the doctor reached back and seized the barrel of the gun as it exploded. The head of shot struck him in the back of the head, killing him instantly.

Watson Tyson, sr., a Nebraska pioneer, passed away, November 11, at his home in Blair, at the age of 82 years. Mr. Tyson had met with interesting experiences in the early days of western pioneering. He had driven to Denver during the Pike's peak gold rush, with a team of oxen, and at another time he drove as far west as Portland, Ore., with the same team. On his later trip from the coast he brought his family, less than 30 on New York creek near Herman while he prospected in Oregon. Because of Indian disturbances he returned to Nebraska by way of the isthmus of Panama and New York City, traveled most of the way across Iowa by stagecoach and walked from Omaha to New York streets. Soon after this homecoming he settled on a farm near Blair which he left fourteen years ago. Mr. Tyson had been a member of his local school board for thirty consecutive years, a county commissioner and a member of the state house of representatives in 1877.

Newspapers Need Protection. Editor and Publisher: A campaign will have to be undertaken in the near future to establish by federal statute the privileged character of information given to a reporter or editor in line of duty, similar to that accorded by law to communications to physicians, clergymen and lawyers. It will merit and receive the united support of newspaper men and the success will assure to the press the freedom from persecution that is implied, if not called by name, in the nation's fundamental law.

Time No Object. Yankton Press and Dakotan: An Aberdeen undertaker bought a new hearse in Minneapolis and drove it home in record time, 11 hours and 30 minutes driving time. Maybe some folks will consider an express speed hearse desirable. As for your humble servant, when the time comes for him to use a hearse he doesn't give a whoop how slow it goes. Time will be no object.

The twelfth civics class enjoyed a debate by some of the class members Friday. The question for debate was "Resolved That Capital Punishment Should be Abolished in Nebraska." Those on the affirmative were: Vera Okeson, and Clifford Nimrod; on the negative: Ruth Swanson and Harry Swanson. The judges were Ida Lyman, Arthur Sundell and Paul Soderberg. The affirmative won by a two to one decision.
Myrtle Johnson of the sixth grade had the misfortune to fall and break her wrist Saturday and is unable to attend school at present.
A very interesting football game was witnessed at the local gridiron last Friday when the Randolph team played the Wakfield team. At the end of the first half, the score was 2-0 in favor of Wakfield. In the last half Wakfield scored two touchdowns and thus the game ended 16-0, in Wakfield's favor. Touchdowns were made by Robert Ebersole and Harry Imman. All the boys played well and a feature of the game was Martin Ekeberg's blocking of a punt which resulted in a safety. The Thanksgiving game will be with Laurel on the Wakfield gridiron at 3 p. m.
Helen Sar, Hazel Fulton and Rose Henschke have had a grade of 100 per cent in spelling for the last six weeks.
Examinations were given in high school and also in the grades Wednesday.
Rev. R. N. Fagan gave a history talk one day last week to the junior high school.
The third grade has spent the last week in studying the Pilgrims.
Hoemer Henton has been absent on account of illness.
Twenty-four ladies of the town, visited the sixth-grade Friday when a Thanksgiving program was rendered.
Minnie Longue was absent Thursday and Friday from the kindergarten because of illness.
Sarah Jane and Lydia Ann Lyman were absent from school Monday and Tuesday.
The kindergarten has been having a candy contest. Every day that a child did not eat any candy he was given a star. The contest closed

But Masterson.
But Masterson has laid him down to sleep a million years, in many a sunbaked western town the old boys and boys, for he had won the great renown among the pioneers. A thousand tales are told of But, who, in a stormy day, was wont to buy the men that, when they had come to slay; he was so fluent with his gat he had the right of way. A mild and quiet gent he seemed, an ineffable slick, and on the rickety grey he beamed and had no bone to pick; but when the bad man whined and screamed, But piled his shooting stick. His fame was spread from coast to coast, so well he used his gun, and where he waked the wicked host was promptly on the run, and he made not the faintest boast, or about a man for fun. It was a grim and awful time, when valers shot, on sight, and many specialists in crime, for some chap would climb up to the beams of light. The bad men went abroad, still inspired by the thought that he came, to yell and whoop and slay, from ranches, trails and mines; but when men said, "But comes this way," they all backed in their gray-eyes. So all the troughs and gambling shanks by Masterson were tamed; with dead men corded in the parks, and a man named "But" who conducted his remarks with bullets wisely aimed. The old wild times have had their fling, red times of long ago, and now the college girls in clubs sing where herds milled to and fro, and the boys here nod I bring; for But's name is now.

Overworked Blessings.

The greatest boon became a bore when it's not wisely handled; and now my head and heart are sore, for "The Good and Beautiful" is like the tenebrous photograph when captured people and I, and long I lean upon my staff and bless the guys who write it, to hear it send out fine songs of sense and feeling, composed by some accomplished scout, or jazz hands, hunk, that swing like a hot iron. In the strains are most consoling, before the watchman, grim and brusque, his curfew bell is tolling. When our few rings get to be as a security number, and with a pillow, dear my head, invite refreshing slumber. Then all the photographs on earth roll up, and in the night, when lying sleepless in my berth, I hand out language torrid. I hear the swirling swirl, and swirl of jazzy strains, and in the whine of Uncle Juke, who's busy monologuing. I hear the counter-tenor squeak as though his swelling, like a hot iron, in his soprano shriek, and thus it goes, unceasing. And when the hour of midnight's struck, the racket's still going on, and the violin is playing amuck, and leave some victims bleeding? There is a time to dance and preach, remarked the wing apostle, and that's a time to be the apostle of every human throats.

The Happy Ending.

Among the many I am venturing, I like the old things, though they're stale; and I admire the happy ending when I waded through a swarming tale. I know my course needs much defending, since critics at old methods rail. "It ain't Art," they tell me sadly, "the way 'at stories used to come; the villain never turned out badly, the hero wed the vicar's niece, and packed his trunks with gems and gladly went home, morning off to Greece. Art is a thing of pomp and glory, and I'm its booster and its friend; I claim that Art is hunk-dory, my thrubbing content; and yet I do not tell a story that does not have a cheerful end. The methods of the old time masters were good enough to be my guide, and I liked their heroes in disaster until disasters staid their hides; but in the end the smiling pages united them to blooming brides. The houses suffered for a season, till Chapter Twenty-four or five; the claps of guile and crime and treason, they wondered why they were being shut in the end they had no deas on, and they began to bloom and thrive. The villains for a time were winners, all things appear to come their way; and they fed their warts with costly dinners, and drank cold bottles from Cathay; but retribution smothered those sinners, and 'twas burn tree they rode away. The highbrows doubtless I'm offending when I let thoughts like these prevail; and Art, though less in its lending her help, has the nut in it, but I admire the happy ending when I peruse a stirring tale."

Striking.

My nineteen children cry for bread, and I can't even give them hay; I've striven to pay my bills, and I've since I have struck for higher pay. I labored at the posthole mills, with many more dewdropped men, and I was sold; so I went to the mill, and saved some kopecks now and then. There came a man whose lungs were hale, and showed us we were serfs and slaves; so I went to the mill, and saved some kopecks now and then. There came a man whose lungs were hale, and showed us we were serfs and slaves; so I went to the mill, and saved some kopecks now and then. There came a man whose lungs were hale, and showed us we were serfs and slaves; so I went to the mill, and saved some kopecks now and then.

them shout or laugh, I do not see them play or run; the kiddies always got the golf with great campaigns or lost or won. The children do not seem to care for principles, however high; they ask for warmer things to eat, they want more things to play. Their cheeks grow hollow day by day; their eyes look old—as old as mine; their lips are pinched and thin and gray—and yet they do not seem so fine. There is no juicy roast to carve, the larver holds no tempting bait; the little kids will have to starve, for life's "a principle at stake."

Bootleg Booze.

He boozed till he was in a wud where bootleg booze is dear, he looked before, he looked behind, to see no cops were near; then took his drink it made him blue, and he was blind a year. He was a large and strong man, an athlete, trim and steady, built up along the Milo plan, no pistol hitting wrong, and now a sightless also ran, he-toils and gropes along. He really didn't care for drink, he had no costly thirst; but to see a haughty gent his motto "Freedom First," he said, "I'll sip the scarlet ink, though all the states are blue. My fathers sought at Bunker Hill, but I don't want to be free, and no outrageous Volstead bill can come and hoggie me; so mark my curves and watch me swell a bow of gray-eyes." He up took his deadly blitters down, and then fell on the floor, and had a fit, and rent his gown, and his long whiskers tore, and though he hollered through out town, he'll see it never more. The bootleg merchants boost the tomb for the death-rout; they kill the young men in the blood, and do not care a boot; the stuff they sell is liquid doom, distilled from "Dead Sea Fruit," it's made and sold by reckless knaves, this substitute for; yet victims fall ten thousand graves, and hundreds daily die, and then the willow waves, the sexton leaves a sigh.

Signs of Winter.

The trees stand naked in the woods their leaves washed plain by wind, and to the warmer neighborhood the hunking geese are flying. And I must kick my book and yoke and occupations sweater, and dig up piles of rusty wire, and wrestle with a Baxter. The sites are gloomy overhead, with warily clouds encircling, and all the gossamer seers have fled that for my days are nearing. I wish the summer days were back, the sunny days and pleasing, for I must go and bank the shack to keep the shed from freezing. And I must take some liquid glue and spice the roof together, oh, there are many things to do before the winter weather. The frost falls white, the cold whiffs rust, and I am most dejected; for everything reminds my mind of something. I've neglected. "Now, you go forth," air critics, "with haster snow is falling thickly; the cabbageheads will go to waste, unless they're gathered quickly. You haven't brought the popcorn in, the pumpkin vines are withering, and you continue, with a grin, your everlasting liltings." And my thin, my slender roll I've been so long in earning, and buy about a pack of coal to keep the home fires burning. The balmy days are gone and lost, willed the woodland chorus; oh, winter, winter, you're a frost, and you are all before us.

Is This Reversal?

Stillwater, Okla., Gazette: What has happened that reversed the official record is being conferring with the big packers to get them to open retail markets in the larger cities to sell direct to consumers? Doesn't this sound like a plot and sudden reversal of the attitude which "government officials" had from the time immemorial sustained toward the big packers? Somehow, we all had the impression that the big packers were rather satisfied with the way they had their retailing of meats but not in the power of their monopoly? It is not long since, if a big packer had attempted to open retail markets in any city, we should have expected the government to try to stop him.

A WAYNE INTERVIEW

Mrs. Hoshaw Tells Her Experience.

The following brief account of an interview with a Wayne woman nine years ago and her present condition with keen interest by every citizen.

Mrs. Ira Hoshaw, says: "I was confined to my bed for several weeks by a severe attack of kidney grip. Upon recovering I found my kidneys were weak, and I was a great sufferer from sharp, darting pains along the small of my back. There was a lameness through my loins and a terrible, bearing down feeling in my abdomen. My head throbed for hours at a time and I could sleep well at night. My kidneys acted too often and I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. After using these pills seven days the backache was greatly relieved and my kidneys felt stronger. I used Doan's faithfully for about three weeks and all symptoms of kidney trouble disappeared and there hasn't been any recurrence since." (Statement given August 3, 1916.)

Doan's Kidney Pills are the best remedy for a reliable kidney remedy. I used them for three years ago. I never had a kidney remedy before. If my back gets lame I take a few Doan's and am cured.

Best Form of Loud Speaker for Addressing Public Gatherings.

Projecting the Human Voice Four Miles
By R. W. King

What is undoubtably the latest reproduction of the human voice on record was attained during a demonstration of a powerful "loud speaker" recently made in the CATAHUS Mountains.

This loud speaker is designed primarily for addressing very large public gatherings. It is more powerful, but otherwise very similar, to the "loud speaker" which President Harding used in his inaugural address, at which his voice was heard with the greatest ease by a crowd of 125,000 persons, some of whom stood 700 feet from the speaker's stand.

The installation at Napanoch in the Catskills projected the voice 3.8 miles, and a simple computation shows that the distance at which the human voice "loud speaker" the entire population of the United States could be placed without uncomfortable crowding. The demonstration showed that a speaker once talked over a long distance telephone line could be placed in any part of the United States could be placed without uncomfortable crowding. The demonstration showed that a speaker once talked over a long distance telephone line could be placed in any part of the United States could be placed without uncomfortable crowding. CANNOT PRAISE IT HALF ENOUGH... Etienne and Fort Dodge Woman Says Taniac Was Simply a Blessing to Her.

"Taniac certainly has done me a world of good, and the best I can say for it is that what it does," said Mrs. Ellen Conroy, a highly respected resident of 1622 Third Ave. South Fort Dodge, Iowa.

"For three years I suffered with a bad case of stomach trouble, and it seemed that I just couldn't get any relief. I couldn't eat anything without suffering from sour stomach and bloating with gas for hours. My sleep was restless and broken, and I used to lie awake for hours so nervous I couldn't close my eyes."

"One day my son brought home a bottle of Taniac, and it helped me so much that I kept taking it until I finished my seventh bottle and was feeling fine. I can eat almost anything I want now without suffering with my stomach, and I feel better and stronger than I have in a long time. I sleep 'well, too, and this is one of the greatest blessings Taniac has given me. It certainly is a grand medicine."

Taniac is sold by leading druggists everywhere. n2411

The Early Days in Two Counties

From the Wayne Herald for November 23, 1901.

Mrs. E. R. Chase entertained the grandmothers of the city.

Judge Hunter issued a license to wed to Mrs. Emile Pfeif and Gustav Schundt.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Chase will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, November 23.

J. E. Surber and Kate Dineen were united in marriage by County Judge Hunter on November 27.

Rev. Van Dine, former pastor of the Presbyterian church, but now of Hastings, occupied the church pulpit here Sunday.

One of Frank Obata's boys, who lives near Altona, was shot in the foot by a young fellow, who works in that neighborhood.

Rev. W. C. Carroll, has purchased 480 acres of land in Charles Mix county, S. D., to which place he will move in the spring.

Charles Smyth has sold his quarter section of land northwest of the city, receiving just double what he paid for it three years ago.

A. J. Laughlin lost a horse recently, which he found dead in the creek on his place northwest of the city. The animal had gotten into a barbed wire fence, and cut one of its hind legs entirely off near the knee joint.

Tom McGinnis of Wakefield and Mrs. Pat Dixon of this city, left on Thursday evening for O'Neill, from which place they drove forty miles to Lynch, the same night, to attend the following day the funeral of their brother-in-law, Jack Foley.

A. H. Ellis, E. M. Smith, S. B. Chase and C. A. Coe, have returned from their investigation of the Hidden Fortune mine in the Black Hills. Nelson Grimsley has also been up at Lead City. All report that they were favorably impressed with the proposition of subscribing to stock in the gold mine.

From Ponca Journal November 23, 1881:

The late important coal discovery near this place is creating intense excitement not alone here but in Sioux City and elsewhere.

Mr. Edginton, a special reporter for the Chicago Record, was here several days interviewing the coal prospects at this place, and left for Omaha Tuesday morning.

Next week's Sioux City Tribune says: "A gentleman down from Ponca Tuesday reports the finding of a four and a half foot vein of coal, and that he has no opinion as to whether it will not prove much superior to the Ft. Dodge coal, and at this depth it is unquestionably better than any to work the find."

The gentleman who made the foregoing report is very much mistaken. The coal as is introduced by the specimen taken and is far superior to the Fort Dodge coal, and is so pronounced by all who examine it. As to the depth, 580 feet, being so great that it will not pay to open the vein, the gentleman is also greatly in error. It must be remembered that this is the only coal yet discovered in Nebraska.

Nor is there any in southern or eastern Dakota, or in northwestern Iowa. And in all these countries, excepting a few localities along the Missouri river, there is scarcely any wood for fuel. Hence, as a matter of course, there will be a good market for coal. With such a demand for fuel, it will pay to mine the coal at a depth of 580 feet. It is a well known fact that several hundred beds of coal are being profitably worked at a much greater depth in Pennsylvania, where there is no such lack of wood as there is in this country.

There are in that state a number of coal veins not over three feet thick, and two of them are more than 1,000 feet underground. One of the best coal beds in Iowa is at precisely this depth, viz., 580 feet, and yet it is profitably worked. It is also a well known fact that the coal in England with a thickness of only 28 inches is mined at a depth of 1850 feet. It will thus be seen that the 580 feet is not discouraging, and that in view of the immense demand for coal and consequent good prices for it, and considering the location of the coal bed and its excellent quality, it looks as one of the most valuable discoveries ever made in this northwestern country.

Ask the Auto Dealer.

Worshipman Charles G. Gleske, J. Adam Bede, the well known Minnesota humorist, remarks that "One trouble with the world now is that it has more men than it has manure spreaders and wheelbarrows." Verily, Adam said something.

Chicago Butchers Conservative.

Nortfolk, Neb., News: Chicago butchers say they do not see any drop in the retail price of meat in the immediate future, even if carcass prices have gone down to the present level, and the fact they do not see it is pretty good evidence that it isn't there.

Another Dream Shattered.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: Purification of the ballot by the vote of the women, judging by the Hyman case, is a dream that has been shattered. The machine triumph in Philadelphia hasn't begun to materialize, at least, not yet.

Effort to Rid Herds of Diseased Cattle

Norfolk Daily News: Many tubercular cows are being found in the herd of north Nebraska by government and state inspectors, according to a report by Dr. J. C. Myers, state inspector, who announces that many diseased animals are being tagged and sent to Omaha where they are being slaughtered under the surveillance of the government. Farmers everywhere, the state inspector announces, are cooperating with the state and government in order to rid their herds of the diseased cattle. The farmers, he says, are worth-up over their sudden information that the tuberculosis in affected cows is communicable to humans was disclosed in the recent Illinois case where live children were effected with tuberculosis by drinking milk from a tubercular cow. Since the Illinois story was published one of the children died from the disease. Many farmers have been under the impression, the inspector states, that the disease was not communicable to humans and they are now doing their utmost to save their own families from the disease by ridding their herds of diseased animals.

Twelve Cows from Randolph.
Twelve cows were sent in from the Evans farm at Randolph. These cattle came from Illinois and were under suspicion by the state and inspectors were given co-operation from the farmer.
A load of cattle shipped to the O'Connell farm near Laurel recently was examined. Four animals were taken out of Omaha and the government requested further investigation. The state inspector examined twenty-four of these cattle and found eight of them to be tubercular. The owner was highly pleased over the quick action of the authorities and took an active part in weeding the diseased animals out, fearing that the disease might be contracted by his family.

The most serious outbreak of the disease was noted on the White farm near Coleridge where twenty out of fifty-one cattle reacted and were sent away. This herd was suspected by the owner who took a leading part in securing the tests.
Shows Need of Action.
"Twenty-eight tubercular cattle in two herds is quite serious," says Dr. Myers, "and it shows the necessity of precaution. The government is very anxious to stamp out this disease and it is highly objectionable to the farmers who are as anxious as anyone to rid their premises of the diseased animals. This situation is more serious than one can realize owing to the fact that now we are positive that tuberculosis in cattle is communicable to humans. I have always believed this to be so. I knew it was communicable to hogs and chickens, and I always felt it would affect human beings. This sudden realization is making the farmer willing to take action to prevent infection of his family, and he is now very anxious to get rid of affected animals."

When asked what was being done about milk from diseased cattle, the state inspector declared that there is little danger at this time owing to the strict requirement that all cows from which milk is taken and distributed to the public must pass regular tests by licensed veterinarians.
The Illinois case, which attracted so much attention is that of the Robert Kelly family of Paris, Ill., where five children out of seven contracted tuberculosis from one diseased cow. The cow had been condemned and quarantined while it was owned by Kelly's employer, who refused to believe the cow to be affected and removed the quarantine tag and gave the cow to Kelley in payment of a debt. After the cow had been supplying milk to the Kelly family for about a year a 5-year-old daughter of the family complained of being ill and investigation disclosed that she had tuberculosis. Later it developed that all of the seven children were affected who did not drink milk, and the 6-month-old baby, which also had received none of the cow's milk, had the disease. One of the children died recently. The cow was slaughtered and examination disclosed that it was badly infected. Even the cat and a pig, both of which had been drinking the cow's milk, were found to have the disease.

Bloomfield Man Hurt.
Bloomfield, Neb., Nov. 22.—John Grohmann, garage man and a resident of the community for many years, is in a critical condition as the result of an automobile accident.
He was returning to town from a trip into the country and when about three miles north of town, while coming down a hill, the car started to skid. He was unable to check it and the car slipped around sideways, then took a run up the side of a steep bank and toppled over backwards. Grohmann must have struck the windshield as his face and head were so badly cut that slight hopes were entertained at first for his recovery.
The accident happened near the August Scholler home and the injured man's groans and the cries for help were heard by Scholler, who hastened to the scene. Grohmann was taken to the Scholler home and local physicians administered first aid while awaiting the arrival of a surgeon and trained nurse. While his injuries are of a serious nature, it is now thought that he will recover.
Grohmann is about 55 years old and for many years conducted a saloon here. He was a careful driver, never doing any speeding or reckless driving.

Refuse Phone Rate Boost.
Lindsay, Neb., Nov. 11.—Unless telephone companies are choking to death, they will appeal in vain for a raise in rates to the state railway commission. In a decision handed down in the application of the Pawnee City Telephone company, the commission said that the falling prices on supplies and materials ought to take care of most of the revenue troubles and that it would do nothing for this company until after its report for the entire year was available. The company asked for a valuation of $82,000, but the commission while fixing $5,042 as a previous valuation, said it could find no more than $61,000 of value. The present revenues will lack about $40,000 before passing sentence and said among other things, that if he were the jury, he would have found him guilty of shooting with attempt to wound.

First Cold Weather of Season Arrives

The first really cold weather of the season came this week, the mercury dropping to the zero mark Monday night. The change has stimulated the demand for heavier clothing and warmers. A light blanket of snow covers the ground.
Record Breaking Snow.
Helm, Mont., Nov. 21.—More snow fell during the present storm in Montana than in any other November for twenty-five years, according to the records of the local weather bureau. Up to 6 o'clock this morning, the snow fall in Helm since the beginning of the storm at 3:45 p. m. Saturday had reached a depth of thirteen inches. Continued snow and cold is the forecast for Monday and Tuesday. At 6 a. m. today, the temperature is 9 degrees below zero.
The storm extends over the entire northwest.
All passenger trains are delayed in Montana from one to three hours. Rotary plows are being used by lines traversing the state.
Schools Closed at Butte.
Butte, Mont., Nov. 22.—Schools here were closed yesterday for the remainder of the week by order of the superintendent because of difficulty experienced by teachers and pupils in making their way through more than two feet of snow. Drifts in places to several times that depth. After more than forty-eight hours, snow was still falling last night.

Reorganize Banks.
Omaha, Neb., Nov. 22.—Announcement was made at Fremont yesterday afternoon that sufficient capital had been subscribed to reorganize the organization of auction bank by combining the Farmers and Merchants National and the Commercial National banks there with the First National bank of Fremont. The new institution will have a paid up capital of $200,000, a surplus of $150,000 and resources of $3,000,000, it was announced.
The building formerly occupied by the First National bank which recently closed its doors, will open for business next Monday morning, according to the statement.
Husks 127 Bushels in Day.
Wakefield, Neb., Nov. 22.—What is believed to be a new corn husking record in this vicinity was made when Harvey Hass husked 127 bushels in one day.
Shoots Self in Hand.
Wakefield, Neb., Nov. 22.—Accidentally discharging his gun, Le Roy Johnson of this place, was shot through the hand, painfully injuring the fingers.

Religious Should Disarm.
Omaha, Neb., Nov. 21.—"There can be no military disarmament unless it is accompanied by moral disarmament with each nation disarming itself of prejudice, misunderstanding, suspicion and hate," Rabbi Abram Simon of Washington, D. C., told an audience here yesterday at the closing session of the golden anniversary of the Congregation Israel. He said that a lifting of the burden of taxation from the world's shoulders must not be the only result of the Washington conference. "Why should not religions disarm?" he asked. "Would the world not be better if religions called a conference and forgot their prejudices and their hostilities toward one another?"
Rabbi Lee Franklin, of Detroit, was the other principal speaker. "It is a great thing to dream of the unity of all the creeds," he said, "but it is a question as to whether that ever can be brought about until all men come to recognize the very essence of truth which centers in God!"
Minneapolis Journal: Senator Johnson now spends his spare time "viewing with alarm."

1621--Two Pilgrims--1921

The first fall harvest of the Pilgrim fathers, just three centuries ago, typified thrift.

Golden grain and fat turkeys meant more to them then, than bags of gold, as they faced the long New England winters.

Time moved on and our nation prospered. Our definition of harvest has broadened but we are none the less thankful for our stored-up thrift.

Today it is often the growing bank account that we are thankful for. Many folks have had occasion to thank the intelligence which prompted a saving account.

After all, money is the real harvest—the ultimate return on our labors—bringing us the comforts and joys of living.

This bank helps you save—by adding 5 per cent interest. $5.00 a week will mean more than $260 to your account before next Thanksgiving Day.

Grain Men Carry Rate Cut Fight to Harding

President is Urged to Use Influence Forcing Roads to Make Reductions.

ALSO WIRE CONGRESSMEN

The question of compelling the railroads to put into effect November 15 the reduction in freight rates on grain, grain products and hay, ordered recently by the interstate commerce commission, was presented today to congressmen traveling by the Omaha Grain Exchange.

The following telegram was sent to the president:

"Honorable Woodrow W. Harding, president, Washington, D. C.

"The Interstate Commerce Commission in their decision 12929 of the freight rates on grain, grain products and hay in territory west of Chicago in excess of certain stated figures would be considered unreasonable on and after November 15, and suggested that the carriers make reductions effective on five days' notice, but not later than November 20, and if necessary forward order written issue. We now have information carriers will not publish tariffs in accordance with commission's suggestion.

Complaint was made and was predicated upon deplorable financial condition of western grain growers on account of reduction in value of grain, and based on consideration and also reduction in cost of commodities used by carriers in operation. Since decision was made and suggested that they have been further reduced farmers in the west are bankrupt and prices of carriers' materials have advanced. Farmers do not believe the recent threatened railroad strike was averted by the influence of your administration.

Respectfully, we request that you respectfully urge that same influence be used with the interstate commerce to the end that they may have the formal order referred to in their decision making these reductions in freight rates effective on November 20, so that this great agricultural community may at once benefit by the enhanced prices which will be paid for farm products based upon the reduced transportation costs.

Theodore N. Vail Award to Telephone Employee for Exceptional Devotion to Duty Goes to Mrs. Mildred Lothrop of Homer, Nebr.

Out of 231,316 Bell telephone employees in the United States, one of them has been selected to receive a medal and cash award constituting one of the highest honors ever given for noteworthy public service in this country.

This telephone employee is Mrs. Mildred Lothrop, the "Central girl" at Homer, Nebr.

On the night of May 31, 1920, between 2:00 and 2:25 o'clock, Mrs. Lothrop is claimed to have saved the lives of at least 100 persons.

Just flooded the valley of Omaha Creek, which flows through Homer, pending a war of water rushing through the town.

Notified by a telephone subscriber up the valley, Mrs. Lothrop sat at her switchboard, clad only in a thin night dress, warning people in flood.

This is Mrs. Lothrop to receive the highest special medal, the first one of its kind to be awarded.

Nine of the silver medals were awarded, one of them coming to another employee of the Northwest.

of the Northwest Bell Telephone Company—Frank H. Forrest, manager at Dakota City, Neb.

The election of Mrs. Lothrop as the first woman to receive the medal is a first.

MIRACLE PICTURE OF 1921—HARDING SENT BY WIRELESS!

Twenty-four in-... President Harding... Annapolis, the ac-... ready for public... miles away!

It is not a perfect picture, but it is the first time that the picture has been printed in an American newspaper. It was taken by a Frenchman, and it was the first time that a picture of the President was taken by a Frenchman.

The pioneer in photography by wireless is M. Edouard Belin, a Frenchman, and it was he who sent the accompanying picture from Annapolis, Maryland, to Paris, a few weeks ago. He has been experimenting for years with machines for sending photographs by radio waves, and he has recently perfected his apparatus so that he can send pictures by wireless. He brought his machine to America, and when he learned that President Harding was to take a speech to the naval cadets at Annapolis, he connected it with the wireless station there.

Nellor's Cash Store, Laurel, Neb. Sale Starts Friday, November 25, at 9 a. m. Terrific Sacrifice Sale

We must take a tremendous loss. We must reduce our stock. We cannot escape. We are going to do it now, starting Friday at 9:00 a. m. The greatest sacrifice of every day, staple merchandise that has ever taken place in northern Nebraska. STOUR WORTH MUST GO IN TEN DAYS.

A Frank Statement to the People of Northeast Nebraska. We are going to tell you frankly the reason for this Terrific Sacrifice on our part. We find our fall stock is not moving, leaving us overstocked. We simply must sell $10,000 worth of groceries and high class merchandise in ten days. We are going to make a gigantic sacrifice to do it. We realize that to accomplish this in such a quick, big way that there must be no half-hearted cutting of prices. We are going to do it all at once, take this tremendous loss in ten days and sell $10,000 worth of merchandise. We are not going to do it piece-meal, not keep on marking down merchandise and have it drag along for weeks, but instead we Take the Biggest Loss Now. We must crowd our store with customers. We are very much in earnest. We are determined that this is why this will be an ordinary sale—it is a long, long sacrifice. If you have made up your mind not to buy this winter, come to this sale and you will change your mind when you see that you can buy line merchandise at prices lower than most merchants have in any city at whom it will go for judgment. We have given orders that every piece of merchandise in this store must be marked at prices that disregard all cost and loss. We will have new prices of every article—not one will escape the deep slash of the price-cutting knife. All merchandise will be displayed on racks and tables—all removed from cases, so that you may see and choose and secure such values as you never dreamed of getting. We promise you the greatest, the most sensational bargains ever offered on high grade, staple groceries and merchandise. Try to be here Friday. Sale starts at 9:00 a. m. But nothing prevent you from coming one day during the ten.

- GROCERIES: We have a nice stock of staple and fancy groceries and everything in this line goes at a saving to you. We quote for comparison just a few things: Yeast Four, top 10c; Large Pot Toasties, only 15c; Grape Nuts, fresh stock, 19c; No. 14, Pure White, in full syrup, 23c; No. 2, Apricot, in full syrup, 23c; Lard, six boxes for 10c; Pineapple, 10c; Large, six can Herring in tomato sauce, 23c; Good Bulk Cocoa, per pound, 13c.
- NOTIONS: In the little every day needs, we are going to sell you these items at a saving of from 20 cents to 40 cents on the dollar. Just a few prices listed below so that you can figure the saving. Come in and look over the notion offerings: Pins, three papers for only 10c; Buttons, the card, 8c; Wire Hangers, four hangers, 10c; C. M. C. Crochet Cotton, three balls, 27c; J. & P. Cents Crochet Cotton, two balls, 25c; Sleeve Holders, pair, 10c; Sewing Machine Feet, 10c; Old Original Rockford Socks, only 13c.

MONEY TALKS—WE MUST HAVE IT. Raw cotton is rising—$24.50 per bale, having advanced 10c since we started. We are cutting the price on cotton goods—buy and save!

Price Probe Going On Under Authority

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 21.—Prices and profits developed by dealers in agricultural products were the first subjects of investigation taken up here this morning by the board of inquiry ordered by Gov. McKelvie to probe the cost of living necessities to determine if the cause of readjustment are being held up by willful manipulation and to ascertain reasons for what the governor termed "war prices." Testimony of several farmers, a saving contractor who does a small grain business on the side, and a member of a real estate firm was heard at the morning session.

What is a Friend.

Kellogg City, Tex.—What is a friend? I will tell you:—It is a person with whom you dare to be yourself. Your soul can go naked with him. He dares to ask you to put on nothing, only to be what you are. He does not want you to be better or worse. When you are with him, you breathe free. You can show your little vanities and envies and hates and vicious sparks, your meanness and spitefulness, and in opening them up to him they are lost, dissolved in the white ocean of his loyalty.

A Public Servant.

Leslie's Weekly:—It is said of American presidents that the country rarely gets the benefit of their experience once they have quit the nation's helm. Certainly no recent decade saw a held public official, either state or federal, after leaving the White House. Some, however, have still exerted tremendous influence on public opinion. Others have faded into complete silence like the mutinous mate, in the late Col. Roosevelt's off-rod story, whose whisper slipped into the wind with the rattle. "What I want from you now is silence—and a—n little of that!"

A PRAYING COLONEL FOR ALL-AMERICAN

When "Bo" McKelvin, quarterback on the Little Center College team, started his now historic dash around Harvard's left end to a 6 to 0 victory the other Saturday, he was spinning into football's "praying colonel" as they knelt in prayer before every game. They look to Harvard in 1920, their only defeat in four years. He is predicted Moran will go to a bigger school next year. McKelvin became coach at Center. Pictures show McKelvin and his getaway around on week days are open also on Sundays; there is little difference between the Sabbath and any other day. In an age not so far back it was different. Sunday was really an event. We shall probably never return to the simpler way of living, but it would be a great thing for all concerned if we could get back to the old-fashioned Sunday. I am glad that I am an advocate of the blue-laws or anything like that, for the old-fashioned Sunday was not a blue Sunday by any means. It was, to the contrary, a sweet, wholesome occasion, when everybody forgot the cares of the workaday world and turned into a spirit of worship to the Lord and good fellowship among mortals.

China's Real Problem. Springfield, Mass., Republican: It is doubtful whether the present conference can yield any satisfactory and lasting solution of the Chinese question. Perhaps the best that can be hoped for is an arrangement for the temporary continuance of the status quo, with some assurance of a square deal for the nations which have financial interests in China. The American proposal of a 10-year naval holiday logically points to corresponding political truce, and if Great Britain accepts the naval program, it may expect a similar truce in the status quo in China. But the attitude of Japan is another matter, nor can a nation seething like China with unrest be expected to stand still for a decade. Altogether China presents the most difficult of the problems with which the conference has to deal.

Ed. Howe at Home. Lincoln Journalist:—Ed. W. Howe married the Atchinson girl over 10 years ago and moved out to his farm on the Missouri river bluff about three miles south of Atchinson. He has about 100 acres of rather rough land which he cultivates personally, at least as much as is good for his health. He makes it a practice during the summer to work out doors every day. This has kept him as fine as a fiddle physically, although he has always been stout and is now well along in the 60's. Miss Webb, his secretary, who remains in Atchinson and looks after his correspondence and his monthly paper while he winters in Florida, has several major enthusiasms: One is her boss. Another is Atchinson. She loves it in spite of the fact that she votes in social doings for many years.

When Corn Becomes Fuel. St. Paul Pioneer Press: There is a vast store loose somewhere when the farmer finds economic justification in burning corn for fuel. Something wrong is the adjustment of prices and service when corn is so cheap and coal so high that the western farmer hoves his corn into the stove to warm his dwelling. The absence of relativity of price is so startlingly brought out by a recent issue of the Washington Post: The old-fashioned Sunday was one of the charms of our civilization while it lasted. The custom of going to church on Sunday was then in vogue to a great extent; more so than it is today. The old folks really made the day a holy time—all dressed up in their Sunday best!—says the phrase that described it.
