

Courthouse Vault at Center Blown Open

Center, Neb., Nov. 26.—The vault in the Knox county treasurer's office in the courthouse here was blown Wednesday night or early Thursday morning. The vault was not touched and it is believed that the would-be robbers would not have been successful if they had attempted to open it. The safe is supposed to be inviolable proof. About $300 was in the safe.

Entrance to the treasurer's office was gained by forcing the door, the outer door on the vault was opened by pounding off the combination lock and the inner door was then blown open with nitro-glycerine. A flashlight battery was used to set off the explosive, according to evidence left in the room. The wires and the battery were left on the floor. The work is believed to be that of experienced crackers, although any one could have done the work as far as it was carried out.

Bonds Left Untouched.
According to Ed Matthews, county treasurer, about $300 in wire savings stamps and Liberty bonds were either not touched or the crooks did not care to take them. The bonds belonged to Mr. Matthews and his deputy and were in the outer vault, where entrance had been gained, and not in the safe with the county money.

Officials have no suspicion as to who the guilty persons were but an investigation is being made by the sheriff.

The attempted robbery was discovered about 5 o'clock Thursday morning when the courthouse was opened by the sheriff. Matthews and his deputy were in the outer vault, where entrance had been gained, and not in the safe with the county money.

Emerson singers are organizing a community choral society. The plan grows out of the success of the choral which sang at the Armistice day program.

Herman Stoliza, who had lived near Emerson for nearly forty years, died on November 19. He passed away on the home farm, which his parents first came to in 1833.

The Tekamah high school football team is the winner of the pennant of the North-Central Nebraska Athletic association, winning every game and having a season score of 396 with opponents scoring 32 points against the team. Tekamah has its best record in any team in the state for post-season play to establish the state championship.

Mrs. Charlotte Fitch died on November 10 at the home of her daughter Mrs. J. D. Gordon at Craig at the age of 93 years. 1 month and 6 days. Mrs. Fitch is survived by two sons, grandchildren, forty-one great grandchildren, besides her sons and daughters. She lived in Nebraska since 1858.

Mrs. "Maude" Carver, aged 19, housekeeper for George Fisher near Bloomfield, took a dose of poison last Tuesday, being despondent over the treatment of a worthless husband, who had abandoned her and her child. She was saved from death by the timely aid of a physician.

The Piger Commercial club plans to put on a series of entertainments at their monthly meetings, consisting of addresses by out of town speakers and numbers by local members.

Harry Benson won the cup at the Thanksgiving shoot held at the Country club near Laurel on last Tuesday.

Waldo Townsend of Randolph recently shot a wolf near that place. The animal weighed fifty pounds and the hide when stretched out, measured 5 feet 8 1/2 inches, and sold for $6.00.

Judge Bryant of Cedar county, last Tuesday performed a wedding ceremony by telegraph and cable, uniting Lester J. Habens of St. Helena and Maria Hater of Paris, France.

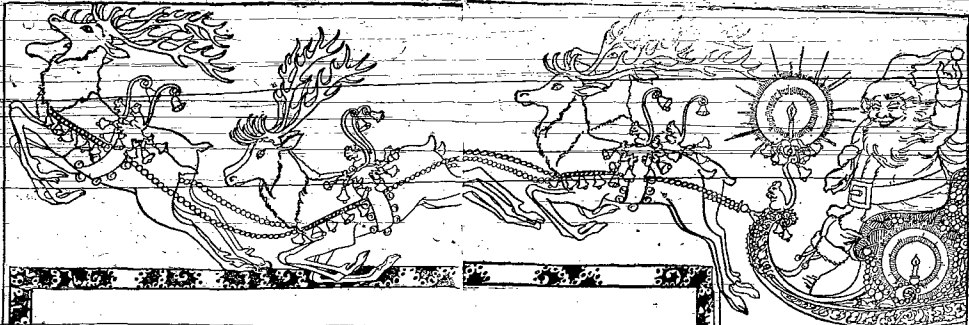

The two had met while the former was serving overseas and reason for the long distance marriage is that a mutual friend can come to this country if she has her passage money, but an unmarried woman may have $200 besides. When the bride returns to her home she will live on a farm at St. Helena.

The farm home of Leonard Pfeil of the Wayne vicinity was completely destroyed by fire last week during the absence of the family. The fire was discovered late in the afternoon by neighbors but they were unable to save the place.

Incidentally happens, the fruits of the fight fell to us as an innocent bystander. At Great Britain's request we paid her all the money we owed her, and then, in addition loaned her the other allies large sums of money being the greatest debtor nation in the world, we passed to being the greatest creditor nation.

Japan Times Point.
Kansas City Times: Japan has tossed the spirit of the American proposals for naval armaments reduction if she views them merely as a basis for bargaining. What Japan ought to consider is not what she loses in naval tonnage under the present proposals, but what she would lose if competitive building continued. Japan is offered 60 percent of the American and British naval strength without further building. But could Japan build fast enough to keep the same relative strength in a race with either?

Markets Reflect Confidence.
Chicago News: "Constitutionally with disarmament talk, steel stocks go down and cotton goes up indicating that the world wants to take off its armor and start up its mills."

Thoughtful to gratify self, but not a cent for worthy charity or helpful effort—except for a gospel that stuns the soul and scours a field of material plenty with the mitered of hell.

Even if "Fatt?" Arubcke is acquitted of the manslaughter charge for which he is now being tried, people will not be convinced that he is really innocent, and it is not likely he will ever be able to restore his original popularity as a screen comedian.

A man who was walking home from work at 10:30 Tuesday night in Norfolk was held up and robbed of $3. The man was holding a gun and using an ugly gun to emphasize his intention. People should be careful not to carry money or other valuables if they happen to have any.

Complaint over paying an income tax last year will probably be changed to complaint over failure to meet enough in income tax this year. Another ground for complaint will be that exemptions for families were not increased last year when, on account of increased earnings, they will not be needed to reduce income obligations.

"What's the Matter With Wayne?" Or is nothing the matter with Wayne? If readers think the town has some general or particular fault, they may wish to send in their diagnoses for publication. We need constructive and helpful criticisms. Point out the town's faults and explain how they may be removed. Let us have your criticisms with names signed.

According to a Washington report, Nebraska is not receiving its share of money provided by the war finance corporation, and the failure is being due to lack of applications on the part of Nebraska farmers who are entitled to loans. Iowa has been granted total loans of $7,000,000 whereas Nebraska has received a total of only $847,775. If Nebraska farmers need the loans, they should not be slow to get them.

Speaking of the death of a leading citizen, the exchange says in the headline that he "Passed Away With out Warning." This is no way to do. If a person is going to pass on he ought to pass the word around in time to let at least a few of his near neighbors and tell them his plans, serving punch and wafers. The thing of slipping away without notice suggests the idea of warning in any number of preliminary fireworks as unfriendly and impolite.

Packing house employees are still considering the advisability of striking as a protest against wage cuts. Consideration of packing house employees is being given to the fact that a strike against high prices exacted for all kinds of meat cuts. Packing house workers ought to persuade themselves to accept downward revision of earnings the same as other people. If excessive wages enter materially into high meat prices, said workers are better advised to get out of the packing industry and their employees ought to take their medicine with the rest of the country and concentrate in restoring equal value.

A proposition is being considered to combine Christmas and New Year giving celebrations and have one holiday in November instead of two. It is pointed out that Armstrong day is better appreciated and more than Thanksgiving day, and therefore would be preferable, giving more time between holidays. Holidays are better appreciated and more heartily observed if they are not too numerous. Many holidays interfere too much with accustomed industry to become burdensome. Raymond observes one thing or another every few days. New Year's day in this country has ceased to be generally observed because it happens too near Christmas. The plan to push Thanksgiving back a few notches and merge it with Armstrong day will likely receive the stamp of general approval.

The Wayne-Grand Island football game over on Thanksgiving day was the exhibition of a kind of mad-ness here; strange to this admission may seem. We had heard so much of the tragedy of the football field that we expected to see a good deal of rough stuff. On the contrary, it was about as mild as automobile racing is more dangerous. In the absence of knowledge of the game, the thing that impressed us most favorably was the fine discipline enforced by the referee—his outstanding vigorous action and determination to win, absolute self-control is maintained. No burst of temper, manifest in any of the arguments or in some other infraction of rules; is permitted. No time is wasted in arguments. If a player yields to the temptation to violate regulations, he is immediately escorted off the field. The effect is wholesome. Energy expressed in football, under strict discipline, might easily be wasted in more harmful and less helpful endeavor.

The Time to Store Corn.
Drovers Journal-Stockman: No more thorough, sympathetic and conscientious student of agriculture conditions in the west has written on the "hogging" problem of wheat to do with the surplus corn this year than Prof. H. J. Walters, formerly of the Kansas Agricultural college. In the Kansas City Weekly Star, he offers some suggestions on the subject which should and doubtless will carry a great deal of weight.

"While the great war was in progress," writes Professor Walters, "it was freely predicted that we should never see cheap corn again. But corn has already touched 'low price levels' that it has not touched before in years. And with more corn in the crib and in the field than is needed this season, wisely disposing of the surplus is a very serious problem.

"At present prices marketing corn through hogs is the best outlet, but unfortunately there are not enough hogs to consume the surplus, and if there were, hog prices would quickly fall to the present price level of corn. Cattle feeders are showing greater confidence in the feeding game, earlier in the season, and feeder cattle are now going to the country in goodly numbers. But the big run of subject cattle at the yards is over and as the feeder buying began late, there may be slightly fewer cattle than usual on feed or in line to be fed.

"Old cattle feeders, it is reported, are buying lumber and building extra corn cribs in which to store some of the surplus grain they raise or can buy. Experienced feeders feel that when corn can be bought at less than cost of production it is a safe bet to buy it in great quantities. They give advice or to make forecasts regarding prices and do not advise anyone either to sell or to hold corn. I seek merely to present facts that may be of service in guiding the farmer in handling his surplus corn wisely.

"Many farmers suffered financially from holding their crops and live stock when the first break in prices came one and one-half years ago, and this experience makes them hesitant to try the experiment again. But the present situation is very different from the one that obtained then. Prices one and one-half years ago were at the peak and we all know that prices have reached bottom. It is true, they may go lower, but the decline cannot be great, and the lower level cannot long be sustained.

"Curtaiment of production always is forced by prices that cause the producer a loss. No one knows how soon a rise in the value of corn will come, but certainly as soon as a short crop is in sight. We may have another bumper corn crop next season, but such is not likely to be the case. At least, not since crop statistics have been gathered, beginning in 1896, we had three big corn crops in a row. The 1920 crop broke all records for volume, the second largest crop ever produced is in sight this season, and we must not forget the 1919 crop which was considerably above the average.

"Thus, we have had three good crop years, including two record crops in a row. The 1920 crop broke all records for volume, the second largest crop ever produced is in sight this season, and we must not forget the 1919 crop which was considerably above the average.

"But aside from the purely speculative feature it is true that in the average year the farmer markets his corn judiciously through well bred live stock, particularly hogs, dairy cattle, sheep, poultry, gets a better price than the man who sells his corn.

It is likewise true that the farmer who feeds his corn in combination with other crops, such as wheat, corn, soy beans, or concentrates like cotton seed and linseed meal, farm mid-dlings, tankage, is the farmer who gets the most out of his corn. It is never enough to be economical when fed exclusively, except in fattening material animals.

Selling corn as a fixed policy is ruinous to the land and to the farmer's pocketbook. Selling it sometimes and feeding it other times requires more insight in judging the market situation than most of us have."

WAYNE HERALD, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1921.

VOL. 35, NO. 24

Wayne To Have New Enterprise in 1922

Devie Hall of Kennard, Neb., has closed a deal with Francis C. Jones for the purchase of two lots in College Hill addition to Wayne, and plans to move here next spring to put up a building for a green-house. He will also build a residence. The green-house will be 25 by 150 feet, and others will be provided as the demand increases. Mr. Hall is experienced in the business and is a citizen. He selected

Wayne in preference to other towns that offered opportunities, on account of educational advantages, a rich county and cultured people.

The greenhouse will supply all kinds of cut flowers and potted plants and lettuce and other things in advance of the season. A daughter, A. son, W. D. Hall, who will also move to Wayne, is an interior decorator, and expects to devote attention to this line of employment. A daughter and a niece will enroll as students of the state normal.

The proposed greenhouse is a very desirable enterprise and will be heartily welcomed by the public here.

Baptist Pastor To Move to Mt. Carroll

Rev. Robert H. Pratt who has been in charge of the Baptist church at this place for two and one-half years, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Baptist church at Mount Carroll, Ill., and expects to begin his work there Jan. 1, next.

It will be of interest to the pastor's friends to know something about the church at Mount Carroll. It is located in a county seat town of about 2,100 inhabitants.

It was organized in 1863 and has been in active work ever since. The church has a membership of about 400. The church building has been recently enlarged. The auditorium will now seat about 450 and is equipped with a fine pipe organ and a grand piano. The music is under the direction of the professor of music in the Francis Shimer school. The equipment for Sunday school purposes is adequate. Each department has a separate assembly room and there are fifteen individual class rooms. An eight-room modern parsonage is located near the church building.

One of the denominational junior colleges, the Francis Shimer school, is located at Mount Carroll. This school for girls is one of the affiliated schools of the University of Chicago, and has been located in this community seventy-one years. It has this year an enrollment of 173 students and a faculty of twenty-one teachers. Its influence is profoundly felt in the town.

Prior to New World Movement drive, the Mount Carroll church was chosen by the denomination as the model demonstration church in a small town to show how the task could be done. The church was assigned a quota of $50,000. The church now desires to put on a community work, to demonstrate to the denomination what an ideal small town church may mean to the life of the community. At the same time, the most influential church in the community, it is the unanimous feeling of the members of the church that it is their place to undertake this task.

Money To Be Loaned To Nebraska Farmers

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 29.—Ten million dollars will be lent within the very near future to the farmers and cattlemen of the state by the bankers and business men of the state through the war finance corporation. If the plans formulated by the Omaha Clearing House association are carried into execution F. H. Davis, president of the association, said yesterday. The plan of the association is to obtain the funds from Nebraska bankers and large business men in underwriting loans made by the war finance corporation. Letters informing bankers of the details of the project were being mailed last night. Bankers and business men will be invited to Omaha to participate in a company to handle the loans. It was announced after a meeting of the members of the association yesterday.

Officers' Reserve To Hold a Convention

The reserve pits of the United States Army will hold a convention in Omaha December 12 and 13 for the purpose of instruction on the organization of the Eighty-fifth Division and the new tables of the reconstitution of the war department. Following are Wayne members of the reserve corps: Captain C. Peterson, Captain E. C. Timmer, Captain C. R. Chinn, Lieutenant E. G. Peterson, Lieutenant J. M. Strahan, Lieutenant W. A. Crossland, Lieutenant H. H. Hinton, and Lieutenant H. F. Wilson, jr.

YOUNGER BROTHERS Coming to Crystal Theatre, Monday, December 5.

An extraordinary picture for children as well as grown-ups. A true story by Cole Younger, of Lees Summit, Mo., that is positively one of the best-acted and best produced in motion picture. Shows the Younger Brothers in their outlaw life, before and after the Northfield bank robbery. Includes the best that is intensely interesting, photography. "The Life of the Younger Brothers" is the only story ever told by Cole Younger of himself, either in book or picture form. It is not a blood and thunder play but absolute realism. The picture is directed by Dr. Wheeler at work with his famous shot gun, the capture near Madella, Minn., the boy guarding the bridge and the boys five years under special guard at the Stillwater Penitentiary, besides hundreds of other scenes. The play takes you from the time of Harry Younger, the boys father's death up to the time they were paroled and Jim's death in St. Paul, Minn. Directed by Dr. Wheeler. Cole Younger's nephew lecture.

Devastated Homes Must Be Restored

Signs of Times—Everyone is Paying More Attention to Home.
For the last few years a great many have hesitated to keep the interior of the house up to the standard of other improvements and have put off buying the everyday comforts and conveniences of the place they spend the greater time of their lives in. There is nothing you get the lasting good of the money spent that you do from furniture. This is especially true if bought from R. B. Judson & Co., Wayne. If you are selecting a gift for anyone in the family or for friends, they are sure to appreciate and enjoy our furniture. Our stock is full of new and right prices. Think this over as the holiday time approaches and come to our store. We welcome visitors. If it's furniture you can supply it, R. B. Judson & Co., Wayne, is fitted. Result of Questionnaire—Chicago, Nov. 29.—Statistics compiled by the college paper at Northwestern university showed that not one girl in Willard hall, the school's main entrance, was a married woman. The best that could be found was only 90 per cent "perfect lady," according to the statistics. The worst of them are only 20 per cent ladylike, judged by the standards of their mothers' day. Someone at the university distributed a "morality questionnaire" in the hall a few days ago. Each girl was asked to answer ten questions about her behavior, the names to be held in strictest secrecy. These are the questions: Have you ever cheated? Have you ever kissed? Have you ever smoked. Have you ever consciously told a lie. Have you ever used liquor? Have you ever danced impropriety? Have you ever worn improper clothes? Were you ever at a "crush party"? How you ever deny anything you would conceal from your parents? No girl in the hall was able to answer all of the questions with "no and one "yes" after eight of the questions. But none of the girls admitted that they had ever done anything that they would conceal from their parents.

High School Basket Ball Starts.

High school basket ball practice began this week with over twelve candidates out for position on the varsity teams and about the same number out for places on the midget team. The opera house will be used for both practices and games. The season's schedule is nearly completed with games arranged for both the varsity and midget teams. Prof. O. W. Crabtree and the high school boys are confident that there is material for winning teams.

It completed its West Virginia will cost over forty million dollars, but if the Hughes plan is adopted by the nation, it will be scrapped.

Wayne Preacher on "The Ideal Husband"

The second of a series of sermons on "The Ideal Husband" was delivered Sunday evening by Rev. Fenton C. Jones of the Presbyterian church, under the title "The Ideal Husband." In the introduction the pastor stated that he was giving to the ideal husband the qualifications which he knew the ideal woman required of him. "An 'ideal husband,'" said the speaker, "must first be a man among men. Above all a woman demands that a perfect man have those lofty ideals and noble purposes which woven into character, will command the respect of his fellowmen and consequently her respect, admiration and love. This takes more than wealth, education, culture, refinement or religious piety. The man must be a man of action, who can do it, and he must be honest."

The perfect husband must be a gentleman, according to Rev. Mr. Jones. He stated that many divorces are caused by the fact that man has not learned to be gentle with woman. The speaker placed kindness of man as the first quality of an ideal home life. "The ideal man must be both gentle and strong."

"Woman demands that same purity in a man that she holds for herself," said Rev. Mr. Jones in denouncing the existing double standard of morals. His advice to the young women present was, "Don't marry a man to reform him. Reform him and then don't marry him." In concluding this part of the sermon, he put an equal emphasis on the man and woman when he said that the man and woman who can keep the man as pure and clean as their ideal husband as outlined by Rev. Mr. Jones is that he be a Christian man. Addressing the young women, he said "Don't give yourself to any man who has not first given himself to God. A man must have as his ideal the character of the Master Man of Nazareth."

In the concluding words of his discourse, Rev. Mr. Jones said that a man would never rise any higher than his estimate of woman.

Bahr Murder Trial Going On At Pierce

Judge A. A. Welch and Reporter W. E. Ellis went to Pierce the first of the week to hold a session of district court, the first and most important case being the trial of Gustav Bahr charged with the murder of Percy Steifel of Nimbura at Pierce on August 12.

The action for murder is explained in a Pierce report in the Norfolk Daily News as follows:

The shooting is supposed to be the outcome of alleged improper relations of Steifel with Bahr's daughter, whose mother is Mrs. Frank Mackie, a half breed Indian who accompanied Bahr to Pierce, was also arrested and will be tried to accomplice in the alleged murder.

Bahr gave himself up after the shooting and entered a plea of guilty to the charge of murder without guilt. The state will be represented by County Attorney M. H. Leamy, D. S. Spillman and H. B. Muffley of Pierce, will defend Bahr and Mackie.

Business

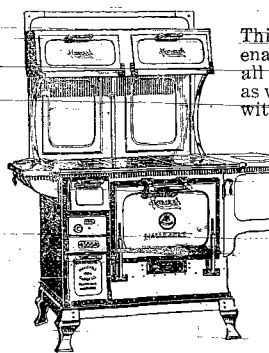

Sioux City Journal: Better confidence in the ultimate business depression is observed as the close of the year approaches. This is reflected from Wall street, where there is a firm undertone in stocks in the better districts, some of which are showing an increase in activity up to 50 per cent in the shoe manufacturing centers, with a promise of greatly increased operations; in holiday trading generally throughout the country and in a favorable showing of American foreign commerce. Grain swung upward at the end of the week with the best price for May wheat since more than a month ago, with corn higher than at any time since October 4 and a better tone was seen in the live stock markets. Foreign exchange is holding steady with it gained as a result of tentative agreement reached by the conferees on limitation of armaments.

A development that may result in a renewed business stimulus is the decision of the interstate commerce commission to investigate the railroad situation with a view to determining whether rate increases can be further reduced. This will affect freight rates and passenger fares, but there is nothing beyond the rate situation that has been ordered to indicate that further relief will be provided. It can be taken, naturally, that the commission have been persuaded to believe that a reduction in rates might be lawfully required of the railroads. Any reduction whatever would be helpful to business generally. The railroads however, can be expected to oppose reductions beyond what they have agreed to make unless they can see some opportunity to lower wages.

Domestic trade has been helped by the holiday demand, which is fairly steady everywhere. Chicago expects December business to far surpass that done in the same month of last

The New Monarch Malleable ...Range...

This range is as good as it is beautiful. All of the nickel is highly polished and has a mirror finish. It is plain and smooth, easy to keep clean, and yet as pretty as anything you ever looked at.

This new MONARCH is enamel lined throughout all the flues to resist rust, as well as being fully lined with asbestos cardboard.

All of the doors on the new range are built with double walls, following out the idea of double doors and storm windows on a house to keep heat in and cold out. This means a great saving in fuel consumption—something worth considering these days. And best of all, the PRICE is reasonable.

Come in and look it over even though you are not in the market. It would make a dandy Christmas present for Friend Wife.

and other middle-west trade centers report encouraging progress. A condition that will be found to make a favorable impression upon industry generally is that of America's foreign trade. It is admitted that it is not what it might be, but when comparisons are made, America is shown to be leading all other producing and selling nations. The race for foreign business at the present time is being won by Americans, exports from this country selling abroad at the ratio of $1.71 to every dollar's worth of goods sent from the United Kingdom. The United States exports for the first nine months of this year were valued at $3,552,307,733, as against Great Britain's showing in the same period of $2,076,000,000. Before the war England was the greatest exporting nation in the world, but it is now apparent that Great Britain will close the calendar year with a trade balance gainst her of approximately $1,200,000,000. The balance in favor of America will be around $2,500,000,000. That shows Yankee businessmen are bustling in the foreign markets and that the bottom has not dropped out of business-abroad-for American producers.

It can be said that optimism prevails here as to the future of business. Leading opinion regards the worst of the depression as now being several months in the past, and they point to the steady increase in activity as proof that the country really is returning to normal. As usual, mid-winter trade may fall off somewhat after the holidays, but there will be a firm undertone in business, which will improve its probability to prepare for an even greater growth in the spring.

Best Bet is Missed.
Iraquois, S. D., Chief: It is now becoming very plain to the average voter that a so-called best was missed when the opportunity to elect one Charles E. Hughes president of these United States was turned down. Hon. Sam Johnson and his state of California have much to answer for.

Harding's Popularity.
New York Times: The fact plain to all political observers is that President Harding remains highly popular, while congress has sunk low in general esteem.

Credible.
Waukomis, Okla., Hornet: After observing the antics of some people the theory that man descended from the monkey doesn't seem so ridiculous.

Agriculture Notes

Substitute With Corn

In view of a serious shortage this year in potatoes, beans, and rice, their starches should be needed to take their place on the table. The United States department of agriculture points out in connection with this situation that there is an abundance of corn, and that not enough of it is being used for human food. Although it may, to a large extent, take the place of the other three products in the diet, corn products are not exact equivalents for potatoes, beans, or rice, but may be used in combination with vegetables to supply a maximum of nourishment at a low price.

There is opportunity, particularly in the northern states for an increased use of such products as honey, eggs and corn meal. Specialists in corn utilization state that one reason corn meal is used more in the southern states than in the north is that it is made only from sound grain properly cured, for, and has a finer flavor which justifies giving it popularity. If those who save corn for grinding at home, or who send it to be milled, would see that it is properly dried and stored in a rat-proof, dry room or crib, the finished product would come into far greater demand as an inexpensive and suitable food to serve as the starch element in a meal.

The potato crop for 1921 is estimated by the department at 15,000,000 bushels less than the average of the five years immediately preceding, according to the November 1 forecast, and 72,000,000 bushels less than the 1920 crop. This year's crop is estimated to be 356,071,000 bushels, the five-year average from 1915 to 1920 was 371,283,000 bushels, and the 1920 crop was 428,368,000 bushels, estimated on December 1, 1920.

To offset this shortage of potatoes there is a surplus of 21,000,000 bushels of sweet potatoes over the five-year average. The sweet potato surplus is unlikely to displace the potato shortage completely in spite of the encouragement by the department of the proper conservation of sweet potatoes, because the transportation charges on watery products are heavy in comparison with grains. The freight transportation costs of rice and beans are fairly comparable with corn, but the rice crop for 1921 is 1,185,000 bushels below the five-year average, and the bean crop is also about 4,000,000 bushels short. Corn is abundant, cheap, nourishing, palatable, and transportable; it offers the best means of meeting these shortages in other crops.

Fewer Animals Killed.
Records kept by the federal meat inspection service provide a reliable index of the trend of meat consumption and exports. The meat in nearly all the larger packing plants is slaughtered under government inspection and all meat exported is certified by inspectors of the bureau of animal industry. United States department of agriculture. The figures for the fiscal year 1921 show a decrease in the total number of animals slaughtered, in the quantity of meats processed and in the quantities of meats and products certified for export. There was a decrease in all species except swine and horses, which show an increase of 117,608 and 246, respectively. The decrease in the total number of animals slaughtered amounted to 4.7 per cent under the preceding year.

The Government maintained inspectors in 822 establishments in 265 cities and towns which compares with 897 establishments in 282 cities and towns in 1920. Inspection was inaugurated at sixty-two plants and withdrawn from sixty-one during the year. It was discontinued at forty-seven of them because of the stopping of slaughtering or of interstate business, at five by request, at five as a result of being re-established under another official establishment, and at four on account of violations of the meat inspection regulations or unsanitary conditions.

During the year the government inspectors examined 22,252,442 animals at packing plants, including cattle, calves, sheep, goats, swine and horses, and 18,874 were condemned. Of the animals slaughtered at these plants, 2,448,532 were cattle, 3,896,207 calves, 12,452,435 sheep, 3,019,866 hogs, 29,927 goats, and 1,385 horses. The horse meat goes to supply a small demand from certain classes of foreigners. Most of the horses are slaughtered in New York, New Jersey, and Ohio.

Dawdling

New York Tribune: In catching another investigation of the United States shipping-board the senate's committee on commerce displays commendable good sense. There has been more than enough of investigation of our maritime affairs this last 60 years, and particularly since 1914. It is about time that congress gave over plowing and harrowing to get on with some real legislative planting. The nation demands a harvest—a harvest of ships free from traffic in the earth's commerce on a leveling competitive basis. Can't the members of congress understand that? But they dawdle. This year so far has passed without the adoption of a single constructive maritime statute. Dawdling is not going to produce an American merchant marine.

Up and On

Farm Info: Come on! Let's dust off the seat of our breeches, take a new look at life and start for the hills of the Best There Is. Haven't you "week around" long enough talking "just how it is"? Now let the other fellow do the talking, while we do the doing.

Farmers Need More Than Credit

Omaha Bee: Prices of all commodities must be brought again into line—until a bushel-of-wheat-or-corn will exchange for as much of all other commodities as it did formerly, there can be no relief to the farmers, however much credit is extended them. And until there is relief for the farmers, there will be no relief for the man who has goods to sell to the farmers. Farm prices must be brought up to the price level, and the sooner this takes place, the sooner will employment and trade resume its natural volume.

Conference is Really Achieving.
New York Herald: There is much cynicism and much pessimism in Washington, no small part of which is the affection of the governorship. But, nevertheless, there is emerging from the conference a better understanding, and it is only through understanding that the moral discernment for which Mr. Brand leads can come. That much at least will have been accomplished, however numerous the questions about which diplomacy and politics are unwilling to reach an agreement.
