have suffered with it and the mother died from it. The funeral was held from the Catholic church and closing services at the cemetery were conducted by the Modern Woodmen of America.

From Ponca Journal January 10, 1922.

The morning the atmosphere looks gloom again. Probably we shall have another cold snap.

Roads are getting much better. The mud having disappeared. Unless the weather changes, this town may soon expect large numbers in with the auto being worn down and for it advances, as we understand there is prospect of.

We hear of but very few indeed, who have been going down into the Black Hills in the spring from this county. We think the citizens show good judgment in thus putting aside the glittering but deceptive Black Hills temptation. Rather than send to the Black Hills it would be much better to migrate to the silver mining country of southern Colorado. It would however, be better still for people to stay at home.

At Sioux City on Thursday of last week, the ferry boat, Undine, while making a trip across the river, was caught by the ice when about half way over and there she remained, and in a short time had a solid field of ice on every side of her. It is said to be a matter of surprise that the exceeding warmth of Capt. Sawyer's remarks on that occasion had not kept the responsible ice sufficiently melted to allow the boat to pass.

Local Correspondence: Last week the old Muddy was in an unsafe condition for crossing, but she is planked over now, and safe enough for teams to cross with a load.

New Year's day went off very pleasantly. Through the day we had shooting and croquet playing. About dark L. T. Hill went with his team to the woods to Mr. Bone's place.

Madame Schumann-Heink has been engaged to sing in Norfolk next May under the auspices of the Norfolk Concert Association. She will be accompanied by one other vocalist and by Frank LaForge, a distinguished composer and pianist.

Warders of Pierce will vote on January 26 for or against bonds for a new school house, which will cost $135,000.

The Pierce Commercial club held a special meeting when she used her money to start a fire in the cook stove.

Thurey Rosen of Wausau, graduate of the Wayne State Normal, has accepted a position on the high school faculty of Wausau.

Oscar Gfaze of Allert, broke one of his legs recently by jumping from his wagon when he lost control of his team on a steep hill.

Robert H. Pomeroy, for many years a resident of Dixon county, died December 19, 1921 in North-western, Calif. Funeral services were held in Ponca Tuesday. Mr. Pomeroy was a Civil war veteran, having taken part in many important battles under Grant and Sherman.

Rev. M. B. Long is the new pastor in the Presbyterian church at Fender. Rev. Long had been pastor of a church in Lincoln for a number of years and did general state work for the church during the last seven years. His family will not come to Fender until spring as Mrs. Long is making a home in Lincoln for a daughter who teaches there.

William Everett has been appointed as night watch and policeman at Fender.

Dean Howard Hanson of Wahoo, who has recently been honored with a three-year scholarship to the American Academy of Music in Rome, Italy, has been honored with a banquet given by the Luther League of the Bethlem Lutheran church of Wahoo. Mr. Hanson is quite well known over the United States as a gifted young composer.

Saunders county will hold a poultry show in Wahoo, January 16.

The Poultry city council has voted to purchase another fire truck which will carry extra ladders, extra hose and extra chemical outfit.

The Goodrich bank, closed in Fairbury, has closed its doors on December 31. A receiver has been appointed. There will be no losses to depositors and other banks are accepting certificates of deposit and checks drawn on the defunct bank.

Hans Guenzel of Colorado had his family with him on Christmas day for the first time in eight years when his wife and four children arrived from Germany. Mr. Guenzel left the old country in the spring of 1914, intending to save money to bring his family to America as soon as possible, but a long sickness used up all the money saved. During the war, Guenzel has been in the army but twice and these times through the American Red Cross. The first letter came on March, 1918, and the second on Armistice day, 1918. Although not near the war zone, Mrs. Guenzel and the children felt the effects of the war in the scarcity of necessities. Food and clothing had to work at hard manual labor in the forests for three years. The children are Hans, aged 14; Elsie, aged 12; Willie, aged 10; and Ernest, aged 8. At the Christmas program in the Coleridge schools Hans played the violin and Elsie the concertina.

Culled From Herald's Exchanges For Week

As a memento of the American Legion, post and other service organizations, a special exchange was presented with a service certificate in the name of the state of Nebraska. Officers for the coming year were elected at Colver, O. P. Peterson, commander; Albert Kuehn, vice-commander; Ferdinand Selo, adjutant; Clayton Drown, financial officer. The dues were reduced from $5.00 to $3.00.

Farmers of Hamilton county have drawn up a petition to be presented to the special session of the state legislature, requesting the abolishment of the offices of assessor, agricultural agent and road commissioner, in an effort to lower the high costs of taxes.

The Commercial club of Aurora, held an extra session recently to discuss the extra session of the legislature to be called by the governor and his proposed bills for the reduction of taxes. The proposed tax on gasoline and the reduction of salaries of state officials received particular attention.

John Haas, one of Laming county's oldest citizens, passed away on December 30 at the age of 88 years. He was born in Germany, coming to this county in 1866 making the ocean voyage in a small sailing craft and coming to Nebraska in an ox-drawn wagon.

The fifteen-cent corn predicted last fall for this winter did not materialize, and the price is now generally lower than which fact is encouraging. More corn is therefore being marketed and the weight and quality are said to be extraordinary.

The third party organization in Nebraska has killed the Nominating Act in this state, according to Representative Harry Johnson of Holdrege, as reported by an Omaha paper. So many of the voters of the party have already justified its existence.

Sometimes the farmer's neighbor and then himself, and jealousy is said to be the cause. Sometimes a woman does the same thing; some reason. Pictures of the victims are usually published, and in viewing them we often wonder if merciful kindness, rather than jealous revenge, is not the prompting motive.

Since reducing freight rates, the railroads have experienced a large increase in traffic. The fact that cars at lower rates would seem more profitable than carting around empty cars at prohibitive rates. By getting prices down the railroads help themselves and also help the public. A still further reduction would give still further stimulus.

Satisfactory results of public sales show that people have money and the inclination to buy the things they need. Many people in the country want to buy, and in the public sale, seller and buyer readily get together. The public auction affords a quick and equitable means of exchange, and is one of the valuable institutions to facilitate the farmer's business.

By Benjamin Franklin's birthday anniversary which will be along on January 17, the remainder of the fact that he was the fifteenth in a family of seventeen children. It is likely the other sixteen children were not born outside of the family neighborhood. Evidently the big family idea of that time gave to the world Benjamin Franklin and immortalized the Franklin name.

In discussing conditions, Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture has pointed out the danger of the unreasonably low markets for farm products, other prices, including freight rates, ought to come down the proportion. It would have been better if, during the reconstruction period, prices could have been kept sixty per cent above the pre-war level. He believes all things entering into the cost of living ought to come down, and that the farmers should be consistently lowered and made to aid rather than retard agricultural recovery.

The proposed state tax on gasoline to decrease land taxes is causing a good many sharp differences of opinion. It is argued on one hand that the gasoline tax will harvest the tourists trooping through the state and make them help pay running expenses. On the other hand, from the pockets of mere joy riders and make them pay more for their fun. On the other hand, it is argued that the consistent landowner would benefit by decreased real estate taxes while contributing nothing to the gasoline tax. It is contended that the farmer would save by the oil tax, and the farm-working farmer would be soaked more by the gasoline tax than he would be relieved by the reduced land tax.

A recent issue of the Goldenrod State Normal paper, was called the "Goldenrod Year." It is devoted to the poet's life and achievements. Of local interest, it should be understood that Dr. J. T. House of the State Normal faculty, has had an important and vital part in spreading knowledge and developing appreciation of the poet's work. Of financial interest is the fact that the Jones Book-Music Store financed and sponsored Dr. House's book dealing with the poet's life and achievements. The distribution of the volume, has fully justified confidence in the enterprise. Thus, the two local influences have imparted their own stamp in the evolutions and triumphs of Nebraska's poet laureate.

An Oregon horse had heard so much about the bumps on Rocky Point, an eight-mile stretch along Klamath lake, that he balked before getting to it and deliberately walked into the lake and drowned. The road was not so bad as he had been led to believe. He was terrorized, having worked himself up to such a high pitch of nervous excitement that he seized forgetfulness in the deep waters of Klamath lake. The prospect of a "bump" is more terrifying than facts warrant. People are often made fearful by imaginary pictures of impending calamity handed out by those who specialize in gloom and despair. Conditions are never so terrible as they are apt to be made to seem at a distance. Application is not so tough and unbearable after all. We are well past Rocky Point, and the experience did not justify all the terrible things said about it.

Mell A. Schmidt who edits the postoffice and Eagle at Dakota City, devotes a column of space in the latter to Postmaster General W. H. Hayes' management of the postal system. Mr. Schmidt is being postmaster during different presidential administrations. He served under the Taft regime, and toward the close, after due analysis of national problems, and following the whisperings of conscience, he joined the democratic party. This readjustment made it possible to retain his services as postmaster at Dakota City during the two Wilson administrations. We judge in reading over Mr. Schmidt's criticisms that he is, charging the postmaster-general with expressing the wish to keep the postal service out of politics, but at the same time calling for practical civil service system in making all postoffice appointments. But if we were in Mr. Schmidt's place we would not write such a long and miscellaneous column on the subject, or worry over possible failure of the civil service to always work. With his experience, it will be easier to change his politics again than to lose sleep over policies followed in the filling of postoffice places. The thing for Mr. Schmidt to do is to postmaster-general with expressing a profound conviction that the republican administration is discharging a wonderful band of statesmanship and integrity in the selection of the late drop a tear to the memory of his late administration, eat breakfast as usual, make a brick and touching an appointment. He is a man with $50,000 a year and not fiddling with civil service policies.

Wayne Business Men Defeat Carroll Team

The basket ball quintet from the Wayne Business Men's Athletic club defeated the Carroll team Tuesday evening with a score of 12-7.

The game which was staged in the Carroll high school gymnasium, was characterized throughout by rough playing. The line-up and summary for the Wayne team follows: Brainard, 4, 6 pts; Ehlers, 1, 2 pts; Galt, 0, 0 pts; Hagg, 0, 0 pts; Hagg, Chace, substituting for Crabtree.

Business Men vs. Wayne H. S.

A large crowd attended the game between the Wayne business men and the high school team on Thursday evening, Jan. 6, at the home of the Wayne team.

The business men started the game determined to avenge the defeat they suffered at the hands of the high school team several nights previous. Thus, owing to the hard-fighting on the part of the business men and the inability of the high school boys to find their usual style of playing, the first half ended with the business men leading 8-4.

The first half was characterized by rough playing, many fouls resulting. From the first shrill of the referee's whistle to the blast of the whistle at the end of the game, all men on the floor were going strong except once in awhile some business man would pause to catch his second wind.

At the top of the whistle starting the final half, the school squad started a brilliant offense that overpowered the business men and their efforts in the last half rewarded them a hard-fought game, winning by the score of 20-12. D. Brainard and Moran started for their respective teams.

Heavy Cattle From Winside Top Market

Drivers Journal-Stackman, Jan 6.—F. H. Carpenter of Winside, was here today with three loads of heavy cattle which sold for $7.50, the top price for the day. There were prime cattle, well finished, with an average weight of 1,408 pounds. Mr. Carpenter took these cattle from here 90 days ago, at which time their average weight was 1,100 pounds. This makes an average gain of 308 pounds or nearly three and one-half pounds per day. Mr. Carpenter is well pleased with the results, these cattle having been real profit-makers after the rather unsatisfactory results from feeding the last few years.

It is seldom, however, according to Mr. Carpenter, that it does not pay to feed cattle, as in his feeding operations of over twenty years he says he has hit it right much more often than he has missed it. It is his intention to take some more feeders from here within a week or two and to have them shipped out ready for May or June market. Mr. Carpenter is one of the most successful feeders who ships to this market and

Already there were six children with them, traveling from Joplin, Mo., to Nebraska, where the father hoped to get steady work. The trip was being made in a covered wagon drawn by horses and though some of the days and nights were severely cold, it had continued on their way for weeks. The latter part of last week they encamped near the Neils Anderson place, north of Wayne, where there the baby was born. The travelers refused the hospitality of resi-

out from the inside, because the sweaty asbestos lies flat against the range body

construction. The outer casing or main range body, then a layer of asbestos—then an inner lining of iron or steel. The outer casing and inner lining are fast against the asbestos. Asbestos is a substance that absorbs moisture from the air. No matter how hot it becomes it will be full of moisture within thirty minutes after it cools.

When you build a fire the heat drives the moisture to the other side of the asbestos onto the cold range body. There it condenses or sweats on the cold iron. Rust begins with the first fire and is fed by this sweating condition every time the range is fired up. The rust is on the inside. You don't know you never suspect it until it rusts through. Then it is too late.

In the Copper-Clad Range the asbestos is clad with a sheet of copper which never rusts. The sweat never gets to the iron body. It can't rust out.

Wayne Quinlet Loses To Midland College

Fremont, Neb., Jan. 6.—Midland college walked over Wayne Normal Thursday night in their cage argument here to the score of 63 to 18.

The visitors were unable to keep up with the local team at any stage of the game. The Midland team is composed of veterans who have played together at least through one season.

Coach Dale has a quintet of green men, none of the players ever working on the Wayne team before. The green material was unable to cope with the more experienced quintet. The Midlanders are out for the college championship and have a good chance of making the other conference teams take notice when the season gets in full swing.

Party in Power Blamed

if a vote were taken today President Harding would not get enough votes in these districts to win an old fashioned "shotgun" Fairmont, Minn., Sentinel.

That may be true, but it signifies nothing. The nation is in the midst of an economic reaction after a period of speculation, inflation, confiscation and unwise extravagance. Always the party in power is held responsible for hard times, and the thinking which constitute the vast majority imagine the only thing necessary to insure prosperity is a change of administration. Newspapers should put people wise to the nonsense of this—Bixby in Lincoln Journal.

This year the government tax on tobacco is expected to yield over one hundred million dollars.

The cigarette sells for a load of oxygen it needs and steals the moral fabric.

For an example to show what habit a cigarette does to the tongue of this poison upon a dog's tongue...

—In another instance a cigarette was in his physician. The physician asked him how many cigarettes he smoked a day.

"Oh, about thirty," was the reply. "The physician then asked, 'How do you don't blame them for your run-down condition?'"

"No, it's caused from hard work," said the smoker.

"We shall see," said the physician, taking a leech in his fingers and placing it upon the young man's arm.

"That's what your impure blood did to the leech," said the physician. "And cigarettes do the same to your leech to start with."

"We shall prove it," said the physician, taking two more leeches to a small pond and laying them out again placed them upon the boy's arm.

"Well if these die, too, I'll cut down smoking from thirty to ten cigarettes a day," and even as he spoke the smallest fell to the foot dead and the larger soon followed.

"See," said the physician, "it is the poison in your blood."

"Well you are right," agreed the patient.

Sinful another time a naval officer exhibited four hundred twelve boys and only fourteen were accepted. The others were not taken because of weak hearts, most cases due to cigarette smoking.

—Charles Keizer, Third. Cigarettes harm the user physically, mentally and morally.

A coach always forbids his team to use cigarettes because he knows that because they would make the player short-winded.

They harm boys in a way that we do not use, like heart rate or blood pressure. The tobacco heart is a disease familiar to physicians.

Reckless buying has given way to thrift. The average man is spending his money only where it will give him full value for the amount spent.

He is watching deterioration of his automobile more carefully, for he is not going to replace it every year or two with a new one.

He is beginning to inquire, more than ever before, into the quality of the gasoline he is buying.

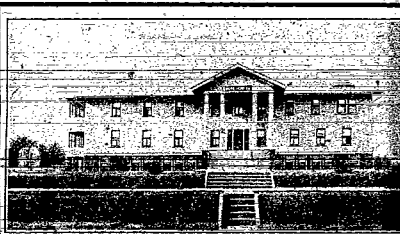

He is watching the kind that will hurt his motor and is demanding the kind that will insure quick starting in cold weather, that will give the maximum of power and mileage.

That will give him the most value in service for his money.

"Maximum Service" products are right in line with this determination on the part of consumers to obtain full value for every dollar spent.

Lower Machine Prices A Factor in a Brighter Outlook for 1922

Most of the readers of this paper know that we have reduced our prices on farm machines for 1922. The lower figures apply on practically our entire line of grain, hay, and corn harvesting machines, plows, tillage implements, seeding machines, etc.

Reductions in prices of farm machines and other articles the farmer buys is one of the many indications pointing to continued improvement in the farmer's situation. The War Finance Corporation is steadily pouring aid from its billion dollar fund into agricultural communities to finance the farmer. Freight rate reductions on stock, grain, hay, etc., now going into effect, will save many millions for the farmers. Land values are now on a sounder basis. For 1922, better labor at lower cost will be available; better marketing conditions are being evolved, and recent tariff legislation also should tend to increase farm product prices.

All these factors indicate that more efficient production by modern methods and improved machines will mean greater profit for the new year. You cannot afford to postpone the purchase of needed machines. Where repairs have been made again and again, beyond the point of serviceability, waste and loss are pretty sure to follow. The present prices will enable you to replace the old with efficient modern machines so that best use may be made of the opportunities that are certain to come to the farming world.

UNCLE WALT The Post Philosopher.

After Christmas. The Christmas season's past and gone, the New Year topos along its course. I sang "The Carol on the Lawn," and caught a cold, and now I hoarse. I have rhinotomies in my head, nasal ailments, those—age-to-state, "I drink huge draughts of poisoned tea the druggists brings me in a crate. The Christmas spirit filled my house, I chortled off all the old songs. I chortled till I couldn't rest, and with the kids played blind man's bluff. I ate too many geese and drank too many ales, and ate too many pies, and now I'm taking pills of nux, and other pills that I despise. I caroled in the ice and snow, as people caroled in the past; I went forth where the wild winds blow and froze my whiskers in the blast. The women bring me chicken broth and flavors from the cistern pump, and say I tried to cut a swath on Christmas evening, like a chump. Perhaps was a chump, my lads, perhaps I was a giddy old fellow, when young folks play the old gray dadd's should sit before the fire and croon—I see it now, here in my den, my joints stiff and unskillful, but when the white tide comes again, I'll be a blooming chump once more.

The Luckless Day.

This morn, stick, there was a tack, on which I placed my thrifty; "such tack," I said, "fills me with dread—this day a lemon will be 'n' floor of my hour, my luck was sour, misfortune drove me dotty; I stubbed my toes and broke my nose against a Bourquet knobby. I took drink of dark blue ink, mistaking it for water, aimed at a fly, and my aunt's eye received the swishing swatter. Oh, all the things and kindred-likes to wish me seemed bad; I fell down stairs and broke some chairs and so forth in high confusion. And, as you may know, a day when all things seem conspiring to make him smart and break his heart and tangle all his hair, such days are rare, and I don't see what you get a gent made of; if he is cheap he'll wall and weep at 'fogies' he's afraid of. But if he's not, he'll say, "will vanish tomorrow's luck, 'I'll bet a buck, will all the 'fandoots' banish." Most days are bright; they treat us right, they're days to be respected, and if one day seems bleak and gray, we should not be dejected. Day after day I quit the hay, my spirit high and soaring, I stub no toes, I break no nose, no sacks are on the floor. All things are good, I knock on wood, and sing in high confusion. The luck is just, I do not bust the sofa or piano.

Age Brings Wisdom.

When you're young I piled my money with my own hands, and when I worked by steam, there was no time I wouldn't take a stand on. I thought I'd lead to every corner of the world, and I'd write words until the birds were scared, and emigrated. I'd criticize the learned and wise, and rate the useful voter, I argued and I roared, though propelled by twin six V-type motor. I knew it all; with splendid the public instructed; I thought this land would soon be canned, unless by me conducted. The people groaned, the people howled to end me and my chatter, and seeing red they wanted my head served upon a platter. And in my walks, quite often, rocks would spoil my Sunday shoes and mad-madness plunkers would leave their zekes and chase me with a cleaver. And wearing licks defaced with bricks the map that had my name on it, and in the village and with instruments would save me. Youth disappears, and passing years bring wisdom to a critter; I had the boys back in their teens, and I send forth no twitler. In need I sit and gently knit, my timeworn thumbs I twiddle, and they who assume and call and dance must pay the guys who fiddle.

Sympathy.

The cold winds roared and flying the down and what about my Aunt Kate remarks: "Some skate is doubtless freezing, dying. Some homeless wight is out tonight, and some slow wight is out tonight, will find him dead and blind, or I'm a timber wiper." The room is warm and my fat burn on cushions soft, and I would give my eyes for an evening's end in snoring and in jesting. For comfort's sake, I sleep and hear the boys back in their teens, and I should I care how many are out there, where things are freezing? But my Aunt Kate, as sad as fate, is murmuring and sighing: "It's no use sit within, when poor last boots are dying. Ah, hear that cry! Some tinklers try for snow, now it's yellow, so let us have great and hearty ohantons calling. My good Aunt Kate, she sits up late, and leaves her feet unattended; she makes me sore, for it's a bore when sympathy is wasted. I'll gladly aid the gent deuced or any one who suffers; but I shan't for man or dame to fake luckless darters.

Amendment to Articles of Incorporation of Farmer's Lumber Company of Hoskins, Nebraska

Know all men by these presents that we, Frank M. Phillips, Charles A. Ohlund and Frank C. Oldenburg, the duly elected, qualified and most seek, to find a mangled man. With windblasted hands, I curbed all wild desires to burst such sacred laws as we knew; and no pedesians were hearsed and their kin, before his labors were complete he wept and tore his hair. And while he let the briny leak, he said, "My job's a front; it's had enough when people seek the speed cops to exhaust, but when we've had a Safety Week, my landmarks all are lost."

Some day, I trust, all swords will rust, and armor cease to rattle;

all wars are vain and men insane when they resort to battle. The dove of peace should never cease covoring round above us, and human life should know no strife and those who hate should love us. The wheels and bears come from their lairs and scrap around like blazes, and hunting foes the bobcat roars along the forest maze. But I, at least, am not a beast, I claim that I am human; I do not care to rip and tear and fust with man or woman. I wear a smile that's free from guile, I treat all gently and kindly, and so no rovs come near me; no rovs ascend from injured friends, but kindly greetings cheer me. If I packed guts and shot-man's hats, I would show my independence, I'd be in jail and there I'd wail for medical attendance. Men, friendly now, would punch my brow, and tear my scalp to ribbons, and break my dome with "Fall of Rome" and other works of Gibbon's. When nations skip without a chip upon each martial shoulder, war's stream of gore will roll no more, and guns will rust and mold.

The Text of a Bloc.

Springfield, Mass., Republican: No bloc can be killed by talk or making faces. There is no stopping one unless its job is taken from it by the old parties. The basis of parties is their usefulness in government; the test of a bloc is the unique work it does for the people, and in how worthwhile a way. If there is a large group of people who cannot get results to suit them through one of the regular parties, a bloc will arise to meet the need. Political science in that case points to this development: Either one of the regular parties will take over the mission of the bloc and swallow it whole, or the bloc will eventually swallow one of the regular parties; if the issue it stands for is sufficiently commanding and permanent.
