

VAIN SEARCH FOR HIS MISSING SON

Richard Ritze of Wayne Vicinity Still Seeks Son, William, Who Left Home Nov. 6.

"WONDER GIRL" INTERVIEW

Father-to-Follow Information-Gained from Girl by Writing Billings Authorities.

Richard Ritze, who lives four miles west of Wayne, is planning to write to the authorities at Billings, Mont., in relation to his son William, who has been missing since November 6.

He is going to do this as a result of his interview with the "wonder girl" in Omaha last week. The girl, who appears to have the power to tell what is in the mind of others, present or not present, told Mr. Ritze that his son was in Montana.

Mr. Ritze has advertised in the city papers for information concerning his son but has found no trace of him. The only word from him was received from Billings, Mont., that he left home. The father was to his father and informed him that the car was in Billings, Mont.

WEATHER SHOWS ALL KINDS OF VARIATIONS

This week opened with a snow storm which lasted all day Sunday.

The fall amounted to about six inches on the level. During Monday afternoon a cold front came in.

On the level pavements and walks, people slid and fell in several places. One fat man who was plumped to do so, employed some words from the scriptures.

Would You

Feed Your Cow Sawdust?

Possibly—you might mix it with bran and get away with it—the cow might eat it.

BUY

After so long a time you would have no cow, for surely this diet would eventually put her where all good cows, (dead cows) go.

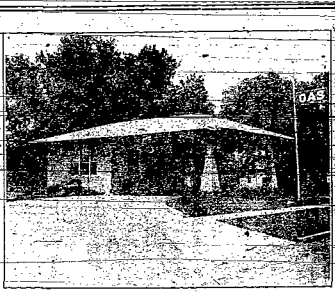

Sounds Ridiculous Doesn't It? "To feed sawdust to the cow," absurd you say—the same principle applies in relation to your automobile engine—oil and gasoline bear the same relationship to your automobile motor, as food does to your cow. Your motor will run on inferior oil and gas, but, like Old Essey, it can't survive the diet long. An automobile engine is just as sensitive and as fat—more expensive than the cow. Yet some people have no choice in the matter of gasoline and oil until it is too late, then it costs a lot of money. Why not eliminate the danger of lubrication troubles by taking a little care in the selection of lubrication oils. Come in and let's talk it over with you—it may be beneficial to both you and us.

Norfolk high school won from Wayne high school in a debate last Thursday afternoon on the state question of "The Open Shop vs. The Closed Shop." The debate was held in the local high school assembly room, and Norfolk won by a two to one decision of the judges. Wayne upheld the affirmative. The negative won the decision over a technically in the statement of the question. This was not a league debate as Norfolk and Wayne are in different districts in the state organization, but the debate was held to help both teams prepare for the regular debating schedule. The debate was followed by discussion and criticism of the judges. Wayne will meet Norfolk at Norfolk within a few weeks, upholding the negative side of the question.

Mrs. Margaret Anderson whose name has appeared in the newspaper, connected with stories of her journey to Washington to interview President Harding about freeing her son from Leavenworth prison, where he was serving federal sentence for desertion, formerly lived around Wayne. Several people recall that Mrs. Anderson lived for many years in a different town.

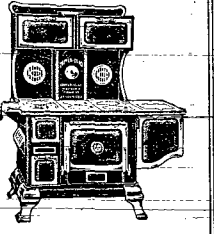

Mrs. Anderson was through here last summer. At that time she showed letters from the governor of Wyoming which showed that she had been there to ask for assistance and that the governor had advised her to go to Leavenworth and be there at the end of son's six months in prison thinking she might have opportunity to keep him from having to finish a one year term. Let us say that Mrs. Anderson was traveling from Wyoming to Leavenworth, according to her story, working for money to pay expenses.

Fire at Albion

Albion, Neb., Jan. 26.—Fire of unknown origin early this morning destroyed the Ruddy building on Main street with a loss estimated at about $8,000. The fire was discovered at about 2:30 in the morning and was then beyond control.

The building was a two-story brick and one of the oldest in the city. It was owned by Michael V. Ruddy, who is now in Lincoln attending the special session as a legislator.

The lower floor of the building was occupied by E. W. Groeger, tailor, and T. A. Price, lawyer. The upper floor was used as a club room by the American Legion. The American Legion's furniture, the tailoring stock and law library were destroyed. Some insurance was carried on the building and by Mr. Groeger.

Many buildings were not damaged. The loss and the amount of insurance carried will not be definitely known until Mr. Ruddy is communicated with.

Course of Paper Money Sure

New York Times: British treasury notes were reduced last year 245,000,000, or about 13 per cent. France has taken up with the proceeds of government bond sales 3,000,000,000 out of the 38,000,000,000 maximum paper issues and at the present rate of retirement would have called in the whole war issue within the next 10 years. But countries such as Poland of Austria, where a huge continuing deficit is being met by new paper money, are approaching a point where their paper currencies will be worth as little as the French assignats in 1797 or the Confederate currency in 1864. Russia long ago reached and passed that point; Germany is on the way to it.

Long Beach Home of Dr. Wightman Ruined

The palatial $50,000 residence of Dr. W. C. Wightman of Long Beach, Calif., formerly of Wayne, was practically burned on January 21 by a spray of crude oil from gushers on Signal Hill, according to a report in the Los Angeles Times. Dr. Wightman's Long Beach home was erected several years ago and in architecture it was a source of pride to the city. The grounds, especially planned and cared for under the direction of a professional landscape architect, were particularly attractive. The home in this exclusive residence district, Signal Hill, were erected prior to the discovery of oil in the immediate vicinity. When the gusher broke forth, the homes were saturated with torrents of oil that ran down upon them. In some directions houses were smeared with the petroleum more than a mile distant. Residences in the district were covered with oil within half an hour and dripped oil from the eaves. It fell so heavily on trees that hoisting became, causing additional losses. The remainder of the report gives a more detailed description of the calamity.

Therwell did not catch fire, as did the other gashers, that have come in on the hill. It might better have been ignited, burning the oil as it flowed. In the opinion of many oil company officials since damage suits, involving millions, more than likely will follow.

It was estimated this afternoon that the well was flowing oil at the rate of about 1000 barrels a day and that gas was escaping from the hole at the rate of 10,000,000 cubic feet a day.

Oil now covers the ground for a distance of 3000 feet to the south

The Early Days in Two Counties

From Wayne Herald, February 6, 1902:
The H. P. D. mail box posts should not be made for here.
A number of Ben-Hurs enjoyed a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. K. Kelley northeast of the city.
A board of health has been appointed by the county commissioners. The members are Dr. J. W. Whitmer, H. Russell and Grand Menard.
The ground hog did not get a glimpse of his shadow but nevertheless the weather has been just about as snug as though his hogshad been seen.
Judge Hunter issued wedding licenses to Wallace Graves and Edna Hagerman, and Edward Hagerman and Carolina Frevert.
The U. P. trains have ceased running over the McO-O road from Norfolk to Sioux City and at the same time the price of corn in this vicinity went down about five cents per bushel. Thus it will be seen that the western market has been a factor in the price of grain and that the U. P. has again been a blessing for the farmers in this section.
R. H. Johansen has completed his ice harvest. The ice from the artificial lake is of the very best quality and it is the first cut we have ever had. The M. & O. tried bargaining to get some of this ice for their trains but Mr. Johansen having only put up about 450 tons deemed it best to save it all for the people of Wayne.

The Norfolk News gives an account of the recent marriage of James Cunningham and Miss Alice Sattor of Wayne county. A license to wed was issued by Judge Hunter of Wayne but the couple went to Norfolk to be married. A minister was visited and when they found the wedding party at Judge Hunter's home they returned to Norfolk and loaded themselves into the bridegroom's conveyance and drove to Hastings, where the ceremonies were performed in the office of the depot agent in time for the minister to take the evening train back to Norfolk.

J. P. Gaertner who is known as the leading furniture dealer in northeast Nebraska, will soon begin the erection of a handsome new two-story brick building. Work on the structure will begin in about a month. The building will be of brick with very heavy side walls, size 25x90 feet, two stories high with basement, while the entire front from the basement to cornice above will be solid plate glass. Mr. Gaertner will devote the first and second floors exclusively to his furniture business while his undertaking establishment will be located in the basement.

The prohibitory liquor law having failed before the legislature, an effort is now being made to have a local option law.

Jackson, which has more than doubled its size during the past year, will, it is said, be twice as large as it now is, before the end of the year.
Messrs. Clark and Ackley went down to the lake in Dakota county, a day or two since, and caught, in one night, 150 bull-heads, some of them weighing a pound and a half.
As will be noticed, Mr. Rockwell, the best dancer in town, has thrust out another poem for this paper. His subject this time is, "The Black Hills," and he seems to object to people going there.
During the storm which occurred on Sunday a curious picture was presented by an immense black cloud, which appeared in the west and took the form of a human head. The resemblance was almost perfect. The nose, mouth and ears and the features of the face, were well defined, and the eyes were large and overhung with black eyebrows.

Teasing Blind Men.
Mitchell Republican: Somebody save us! Not content with the flop they slash about with much of the unbuckled galosh, now mildly is hanging sleigh bells on them. If the flapping of the galoshes of the tramp, of the height of the height of the skirts will not attract attention, then what's the use of sleigh bells? But perhaps they are intended as a warning signal to look the other way.

Extremes Meet in Fashion.
Ohio State Journal: If you saw just the lower half of a fashionable girl when dressed for the street you'd think at first blush that she must have a little South-sea Island blood in her, and if you saw just the upper half you'd imagine she was an Eskimo.

Better Transportation Facilities
Sioux Falls Press: Even if it is true that people go to the devil now more rapidly than formerly, perhaps the explanation lies in the fact that the automobile travels faster than the old one-hoss-shay.

East Plucked Either Way.
Norfolk, Neb., News: While California cold wave storms may reduce the tourist crop somewhat they also provide an excuse for boosting the price of oranges.

No Room for Beveridge.
Springfield, Mass., Republican: The possibility that Senator New of Indiana will succeed Postmaster General Hays now seems lessened by the fact that it would make the way to the senate pretty clear for a distinguished former member. The regulars do not view altogether complacently the prospect of having to swallow Beveridge.

Realism in Literature.
St. Paul Pioneer Press: A Cuban reviewer came out of a duel with an angry author with a six-inch hole in his shoulder. One judges that they are taking up literature in quite a serious way in Cuba.

A four-inch vein of coal is reported to have been found near Butler, Neb. This will make the coal mine near Newcastle jealous.

A noted authority who has made a careful survey, presents a map showing business conditions over the United States, and northern Nebraska is deemed to be one of the few favored spots.

New York and other eastern states which have been overworked and paralyzed by heavy snow storms and blizzards of late, have our profound sympathy. We used to have such weather here.

The strike of packing house employees at Omaha has been called off, and workmen are getting their jobs back as fast as possible. Nothing had been gained by the walkout, and that the only result was loss.

A newspaper headline says congress is "held partly to blame for the theatre disaster" in Washington. It is surely more than the theatre company that is to blame for the charge fall of snow is the thing charged up to the national legislators.

South Sioux City is reported reaching its hands out again to grab the county seat. It is a long way from Dakota City can keep out of the Missouri river which is moving in that direction, the venerable old town should not have its pride of loneliness deepened by being stripped of the county seat.

A. C. Townley, leader of the Non-partisan league, has been released from the Minnesota jail where he spent part of the winter to satisfy the government on account of obnoxious remarks he made during the late war. In or out of jail, Minnesota is not supposed to be an aluring winter resort, and Townley will likely cast the state behind him and spend the balance of the season in other fields.

People who have hogs, cattle, sheep, poultry, eggs, butter, cream and milk to sell are doing well at this time. Those who are depending solely on the sale of corn are unfortunate. The experience of the past year impressed the importance of having more than one thing to sell from farming operations, reflecting the necessity of a safeguard in the way of more than one kind of live stock for the market.

If matching dollars with the federal government in road building were stopped everywhere, no state would lose, and all money for the purpose could as well be furnished by states and counties as by a combination with the United States treasury. If other states are going to keep up the practice, received half of its road funds from the general government, and if Nebraska, for instance, does not do it, it looks as though the state would be left out of the process, contribute to improvements made elsewhere. If we refuse and others accept, we help others without getting our own.

ANTI-CIGARETTE LEAGUE
ASKS 10,000,000 RECRUITS

CHICAGO.—The National Anti-Cigarette League will announce drive to begin next week for 10,000,000 recruits to the president of the league, Dr. D. H. Kress, of Washington, is president of the organization. An educational and law-enforcement campaign is planned.

eral-aid to be cut out everywhere, compelling each state to build and maintain its own highways.

Some one has suggested elimination of domestic science from high schools, and a meeting to enforce economy. It is pointed out that this branch is impractical and unnecessary in view of the possibilities of training and for the subject in the higher state schools. An understanding of what is being accomplished by domestic science in high schools would enable more intelligent determination of its value. In any event, discussion of the question might be worth while.

Pain is often friendly and helpful. The distress of the business depression, incident to readjustment, through which we have passed, is not without important benefits to character. We were living too high, working too little and spending too much. Luxury and ease impaired vitality and usefulness, and finally assault character. We were destined for a fall. The sooner it came, the shorter the changes would have been. It has long delayed, we would have suffered less. The sobering experience has been severe, but the result in burning away the excesses of the past and reviving essential habits of industry will prove salutary to the nation's civilization.

One who seems to be a hypocrite is often so because he is too weak to resist the whisperings of the world and the devil. He is perhaps sincere when he is not, but his religion is and is making a demonstration of piety, but lacks the strength to fully practice his profession when he changes environment and is led into temptation. He is really not a designing hypocrite. He is just a charlatan, feebly adapting himself to his environment. The purpose of a hypocrite is more of a menace. He preaches prohibition, and then takes a drink of liquid chain-lightning. He preaches gambling, and then shows that he is an old hand at poker. He shouts political reform from the housetops, but when he discloses his hand, he is found to be out for leaves and fish. He preaches much about honesty in public places, while he is filled with greed and is itching for the fishpots. Of such are the kindreds of hypocrites we have in mind at this time.

Amusement Madness.
 Sioux City Journal: The title of the book that reaches you by hauls from his pulpit a challenge to the modern Babylonians holding forth in the glitter of Broadway's lights is an old one. Amusement madness comes from what Rev. John Roach Straton calls amusement madness. The preacher has this to say that does these things:

"Broadway's night life has become a huge monstrosity marring the good name of a great civilized city. * * * Broadway has been poisoned until it grows ominous to America. * * *

The modern age is amusement mad, and amusement mad human nature, having exhausted the normal human pleasures, turns, with appetite that must be stimulated, to abnormal pleasures that excite the eyes. That is not too severe in view of the New York Times' portrayal of the night life of the metropolis. It involved that any civilization or any period of barbarism ever witnessed revelry of the type now practiced there. The Times says the night life of the city is a new night life awakes nations in exciting entertainment producing the necessary stimulant in these days of prohibition, for jaded, tired, and weary the outgoing pleasures that are human and normal. As in bygone times, the main interest centers in the dance, for it is the revellers of grotesque substitutes for being more humane. The first two men to meet death in this manner are sentenced to die next April. Their attorney says, to improve their case on the ground that death by lethal gas is "cruel and unusual punishment."

A Flapper.
 Sioux City Journal: Much discussion is heard nowadays as to just what a flapper is. The flapper originally was a young girl who was termed because she was just commencing to see life like a young bird trying his wings for the first time. But this is an age of development, and a flapper now can be of any age if she dresses the part. Things run in cycles, too, and maybe the flapper of the future will have had entered her second childhood.

Depends on the Block.
 Sioux Falls Press: According to political viewpoint, it is important for the government to take a hand in stabilizing farm prices, but it's quite all right for the same government to subsidize our much-petted merchant marine.

Plaster-Cast Politics.
 St. Louis Globe-Democrat: If Pennsylvania will some day agree to go on a strike, Texas may undertake to go republican, but plaster-cast politics are difficult to fracture.

Not a Shrinking Violet.
 Sioux City Journal: The headline writer puts it down that Theodore Roosevelt was a modest man. He was not, however, in the shrinking violet class.

soned as to be ominous to America, for it always has pleased a great many other places to make Graham. Pursuit of excitement that grows from amusement madness, while on a smaller scale and with less display of license, splendor, should have an effect just as destructive when it came to a question of morals and manners. Too much tolerance resulting from too much money may be the cause. If the women who attend the Babylonian dances on Broadway had taken care of their babies at home, and their accents had to go to work early in the morning to make their living they would not find the time for such orgies.

Nebraska's Highway Problem.
 Omaha Bee: Rejection by the legislature of the governor's proposed tax on gasoline will necessitate re-consideration of the measure passed by the house for the reduction of appropriations. If that bill was invited the repeal of the tax levied for the continuation of the road building program. If the improvement of the highways in the state is to continue, provision must be made to raise money to defray the cost. Having rejected the governor's substitute, the house should now accept the responsibility of finding the means of adjourning the program entirely.

No one not entirely blind to conditions will question that the outcome of the vote is due to the political opposition to Governor McKelvie. All the elements that might possibly be arrayed against him were unified for the final vote, and his defeat is a severe blow to the cause of the Democrats, non-partisans and anti-McKevie republicans. Conceding that some of these votes were conscientiously directed by in-surrenderable passion to the bill, it is plain that the controlling factor was that of politics. So far as the governor himself is concerned, the event is small matter. He has announced that he is not a candidate for any office, and expects to retire at the close of his term. He has aimed at his best at poker. His defeat is deplorable is that the interests of a great state can be put into jeopardy through the machinations of a political animal.

If the work of improving the highways is abandoned, the loss will fall on the farmer in the end, for the cost of poor roads is contained in the market. It is a question of time. Should the legislature adjourn without making provision to carry on road building, the effect will be little short of a catastrophe. The people in plain, and the politicians who have defeated the governor are looked to now to show the way out of the middle.

Bugbear of Wall Street.
 Des Moines News: Henry Ford's achievement in outdoing everyone else in the most amazing venture, without reducing wages or creating a monopoly, or asking favors of Wall Street, has made him a creature of sinister import to our financial overlords. They wonder at him, and since he renounced himself during the deflation period in a thrilling way without their help, they fear him. If he fails to get the Muscle Shoals concession, inquisitive in the neighborhood of the Trinity church, New York city, where Wall street intersects Broadway for the cause, he is the greatest outsider in the circle of those who most do congregate at that point. If Wall Street had offered half as good a bargain to the government as Ford offers, the concession would have been signed, sealed and delivered long ago.

Appeals Without Excuse.
 Lincoln Star: A criminal lawyer doesn't need very much of an excuse to appeal for a new trial. The state of Nevada has abolished the appeal, and the result is that the lives of men and being more humane. The first two men to meet death in this manner are sentenced to die next April. Their attorney says, to improve their case on the ground that death by lethal gas is "cruel and unusual punishment."

Ahern's

The New Gingham, Percalés, White Goods and Muslins

Are Here for You

We think you will be greatly pleased with this fine assortment of spring sewing materials. The choice patterns and materials out of several wholesalers' stocks are included in the display.

Now is the time to get first choice of these dainty wash materials which you will need to make up the things you have in mind for yourself and the children.

Devonshire Cloth
 Is the most satisfactory and best looking house dress material to be had. It wears much longer than gingham, can be boiled without losing color and comes in fresh, dainty-looking patterns and colors that you will admire.

Follow Out Smart Style Successfully
 Putting smart style in a dress made at home isn't a matter of just sewing. For style is made in the Pattern by having the Pattern pieces accurate. When pattern pieces are made correctly, printed like those of the New McCall Pattern, you are sure of smart style. Printed instructions on the pieces make it simple to put the garment together.

Make Your "Best" Lingerie
 Why not, instead of having a few pieces of "best" lingerie, copy your favorite styles in other materials—fine muscos, crepe de chine, batiste, long-sleeved-jersey. You can do it so easily with the help of the New McCall Pattern—it's printed. The printing on this Pattern simplifies sewing so that lingerie can be made speedily by the most inexperienced sewer.

New McCall Lingerie Styles
 2363, 2368 and 2327

Ginghams and Tissues
 This will be a season of checked and plaid gingham and tissues for spring and summer frocks. We have prepared for this exceptional demand by putting in almost double our usual stock. You will find everything you need here from a pro on checks to the finest of French gingham and Egyptian tissues.

Light Percalés and Shirtings
 Dozens of dainty patterns in these goods are here suitable for light aprons, porch dresses, men's shirtings and boy's waists. The patterns are out of the ordinary this spring, many of them being copies of the unique figures and colorings shown in the expensive chailies.

Bargains in White Goods and Muslins

We attended the special white goods sale of the Chicago wholesalers two weeks ago and secured many fine bargains in Long Cloths, Nainsooks, Dimities, Organdies, Muslins and Shirtings. We can save you money on these goods.

Would Postpone the Show. If the stage is set for a miner's race instead of ringing up the curtain, says Mr. Hoover, strike. Better postpone the performance.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher.

The Good Worker.

Jim Jimpon's shoeing horses, and he's a skiffle scum, and every one knows the worth of working out. No loafing with his cronies, discussing ancient news, while there are lapping ponies that stand in need of shoes. Some sandle, he says, and some chills! They say their trade is dead; the autos knocked it silly, and laid it in its bed. They go around complaining, they sadly mash their hair and wring their teeth, disdaining all goods but black despair. But Jimpon swings his hammer, and pines his rasp and file, and makes no doubtful claim, but wears a pleasant smile. The outlook may seem gloomy for such a trade as his, but some one brings a hub, and still he keeps his biz. And some one brings a trotter, and some one brings a mule; and Jim, who's not a ratter, brings forth his shoeing tool, and some one brings a pacer, and some one brings a mare; Jim's business is throw my hard earned roubles to a face for smiths who talk despair. There aren't many horses in this here land of ours; they're lying beneath the earth, and other busses' harnes from Henry Ford in quantities. Uncle Sam collects those that's left would make you weep. I walk the floor by night and day, to find new rhymes for rhymeless words; and Uncle Sam will take my pay, and then he'll throw it at the birds. He'll buy himself a sword and gun and build himself a submarine; well, I know how I need the men to pay for John D. for ransoming blithely on his horn, line. He'll hand out money left and right to pay for past and future traffic. He'll run his government in grooves of speed friends should remind him that makes sense voters stand agogues; death awaits in many lands; he never there or improves the cum and spit of dead behind him shows he's brous, methods of the past. In a Hurry.

Well-framed statutes little heed, he hushes all the laws to scorn, still the tailcoat fan goes speaking, the man to pay John D. for ransoming blithely on his horn, line. He'll hand out money left and right to pay for past and future traffic. He'll run his government in grooves of speed friends should remind him that makes sense voters stand agogues; death awaits in many lands; he never there or improves the cum and spit of dead behind him shows he's brous, methods of the past. A Pleasing Atmosphere

Is necessary to quick and proper convalescence. All irritation should be avoided. A patient must feel at home. Such an atmosphere is best created in a home institution, which may possess all the advantages of medical and surgical science and still not be large. In such a hospital the nurses do not have to divide their interest among a large group of patients, but can show the personal interest in each case which is necessary to a speedy recovery. The creation of such an atmosphere is the aim of this institution.

will govern every step. And high priced statement will show them the cotton and wool. I can't do it in better lot. I want my live the live-long day, and coin. I need for gas and oil must go to Sam, to throw away.

The Speeding Year.

It's labeled Nineteen-Twenty-Two, the blessed year of grace, and it will soon be out of view, so swiftly does it race, to join the sad and phantom crew in Time's dark dumping place. So let us waste no useful days, but cinch them as they pass, and saw our wood—and hoe our maize, and cut all kinds of grass, or in our old age we shall raise the future's cheap alas. Our years of usefulness are few, soon fails the strong man's vim, and lethargy attacks the hour, and frolic drops the limb; so mark the days of Twenty-two, and nail them as they skim. How mournful is the pilgrim folk, who for fast chancy weeps. How futile is the busted bore who in the poorhouse sleeps! The year that's gone comes back no more, it's looped for loops for keeps. So let us labor with our hands, and with our heads and feet, in offices or peanut stands, in fields of shredded wheat; and when old age upon us lands we'll find life's winter-sweet. The brave new year is speeding by, its cylinders all lit, it's climbing all the hills, and high, and throwing dust and grit; so grab the bright hours as they fly, the minutes as they flit.

Potter's Field.

Oh, here are rows and rows of graves, the cheapest graves you ever saw; the beds of futile, foolish things, who never saw the light of the law. When they are planted no one sighs, no hymns are sung, no prayers are said, no mourners bend with weeping eyes above the couch of these dead. From workhouse wards and jails they come in wagons dustered all plumes, from every corner of the slum they sleep in haggard countenances. The sextons shoveled in the clay, and from the boneyard their widows, this is the end of those who say that they can surely beat the law. The criminal may think at times that he is not a total loss, and he may plan all sorts of crimes and soon to get the same across; but justice eyes him every day, and always keeps him in her mind; and though he hopes along his way, the law is never far behind. Few criminals live out their days in comfort such as good men know, who walk in sane and goodly ways, observing statutes as they go. Few crooks pass out on beds of ease, with high priced does and nurses near; they render up their final wheeze behind a wall, beneath a pier. In some of their door's seals, with no one near to heave a weep, and then they reach the Potter's field where cheaper grades of dead men sleep.

The Rain Carrier.

Where're I go it starts to rain. For I was loose, the water makes the long parched plain and drowns the human throng. The Kansas drought was once renowned, I went there to be dry, and presto! the state was drowned, and barns went floating by. Old watercourses that had lain for ages dry as dust, became wide rivers of rain, to everyone's disgust. All bottomless was Kansas land, to husbandry's despair; Niagara on every hand, Nyanzas here and there. So to a country then I went where rain is seldom known, whose arid wastes, of wide extent, are drier than a bone. And to be brief, the sunny clime I brought the word of doom, it's raining, raining all the time, and creeks and rivers boom. The big black clouds roll up and melt in rain, and spatter me; I know just how Dad Noah felt when he was out at sea. It's wetter than the lay allows, the streets are full of swimmer-cows; floating cribs and trees. And people weep and wonder why the climate thus has changed, tradition curl themselves and die, and records are deranged. I am the hoodoo, I'm the gent who brought the change across where ever I may pick my tent; the cloudburst do their worst.

Poultry Raising is Discussed by Expert

Dr. Sloan, Journalist, Stockman

"A wide diversity of methods is found in poultry raising," says Dr. Sloan... "Rations are fed varying all the way from those of the most simple to those which are technically complicated..."

Success Depends Upon Poultryman

Mr. Sloan states that the average poultry raiser unless he is a specialist, need not concern himself with the less fundamental and more specialized phases of the business...

One of these fundamentals is good stock

While fairly good results can sometimes be secured from ordinary stock, it must be remembered that with the same care and attention better results will be obtained from good stock...

Selection of Stock

"On the average farm the poultry flock is expected to furnish eggs and poultry for sale," says Mr. Sloan... "For that reason it is usually found that the so-called general purpose breeds, such as the Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds and Orpingtons, which are good layers and good for the table, are best suited to the farm needs..."

The selection of breeding stock is important

"In most farm flocks no trap nesting or pedigree breeding is possible on account of the labor and time involved, but if careful attention is given to the selection of breeders advances may be made..."

Calling the Flock

Referring to the fact that in every flock there will be found a great difference in the productivity or laying ability of the various individuals, Mr. Sloan states that while some hens will prove to be very profitable, others are kept at a loss...

Housing and Feeding

"Suitable housing does not mean expensive housing," says Mr. Sloan... "Presently old sheds and other outbuildings can be easily and cheaply transformed into suitable poultry houses..."

Feeding of the flock

"The principal basis of selection of these breeders should be along the lines of vigor," says Mr. Sloan... "The selection of breeding stock is important in most farm flocks no trap nesting or pedigree breeding is possible on account of the labor and time involved..."

Credit to Equal Suffrage

National Republican: "There has been more to justify the cause of woman suffrage among the thoughtful people of this country in the quiet, unobtrusive, capable congressional record of Miss Robertson, representative of Oklahoma, than in all the blarney-feminism that has engaged in connection with the suffrage cause in a dozen years."

Ohio State Journal: "We see no reason whatsoever why our republicans should not pay the salaries on whist - the money comes in from our foreign jobs and not have it cost the home taxpayers a cent, as we established this great economic principle in our tariff legislation years ago and have got away with it pretty well ever since."

Predicts Corn Prosperity.
 Omaha, Neb., Jan. 21.—Prediction that the central west corn belt of this Nebraska and Iowa are a part, would enjoy great prosperity during the next decade was made by George H. Payne, Omaha realtor speaking before the convention of the Nebraska realtors' association here.

"There is no portion of the United States that has been so prosperous or that will be more prosperous during the next ten years than the corn belt of which the states of Iowa, Nebraska, southern Minnesota, northern Missouri, eastern Illinois and southern Wisconsin comprise the principal portion. Farm lands in the judgment of level headed men will be sold in a very short time on the basis of values of about 1917 and 1918, but don't get the impression that farm lands are going to sell in 1922 at prices people thought they were worth in 1919 and 1920. We have no right to expect it and it is best for us all that they sell not, but as soon as conditions become normal, your farms will sell practically on the basis on which they were in 1916, 1917 and 1918, and in any judgment, there will be a gradual increase from these prices as the country grows and improves."

Senler had charge of the discussion of current events. At 1 o'clock the Wayne State Teachers college over the wireless telephone. Several musical numbers were followed by a talk by Prof. Britton. The club will meet next week with Mrs. C. E. Carhart.

Helping Hand Society.
 The members of the Helping Hand society and their husbands met on Thursday, January 26, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Auker. The hostess served a two-course dinner for about thirty guests. A business meeting followed. The following officers were re-elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Lue Reed; vice president, Mrs. Harry Lessman; secretary, treasurer and reporter, Mrs. Alex Jeffrey. The club voted to send a monthly offering to the Christian Home for the coming year. After the business session, Mrs. Irv Reed took charge of the social hour, consisting of games and music. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Auker and Mrs. LeRoy sang a number of songs which were very much appreciated. The next meeting will be Wednesday, February 8. The husbands are invited. Mrs. Ray Durant will be hostess with Mrs. Harry Lessman as leader of the social hour. A paper on Lincoln will be given by Mrs. James Grier. Mrs. John Grier will furnish music. Roll-call will be answered with incidents from Lincoln's life.

Presbyterian Aid.
 The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid society met in the church parlors Wednesday afternoon. The club had a social meeting. There was a large membership in attendance and several guests. The members turned in the dollars which they had earned during the month for the building fund and told how they were earned. Some of the ladies gave their accounts in rhyme and many interesting reports furnished. Entertainment given. A miscellaneous program was given with Mrs. C. A. Chace in charge. The program was "The Immortal," a reading by Miss Cleo Hermann, accompanied by Miss Catherine Bohart on the piano and Miss Elvies H. Talloy on the violin; vocal solo by Mrs. William Melior; two vocal solos by Miss Fernie Omer, singing "Fading Affection," Miss Blanche Gary, vocal solo Mrs. M. L. Marcy. Following the program, refreshments were served by a committee composed of Mrs. D. J. Cavanaugh, Mrs. J. Williams, Mrs. F. G. Phillip, Mrs. C. A. Chace and Mrs. C. W. Hiscox.

For President and Mrs. Conn.
 The faculty of the Wayne State Teachers college gave a dinner last Thursday evening in honor of President and Mrs. U. S. Conn. A three-course dinner was served in the canteen. Music was furnished by Miss Marjorie Miner at the piano and Miss Gladys Macdo on the violin. The tables were arranged in the shape of a moine cross and at the point of contact stood a bowl of pink roses. Candles in candle holders with pink and green shades were used. A program of toasts followed. The dinner, Prof. J. H. Britton acted as toastmaster. The toasts followed a serious vein and referred to the problem of increasing the effectiveness of higher education. Prof. G. W. Lewis toasted the topic "The Call to Duty." He said that in addition to duty was a call to responsibility. He said that since the question of the value of the present education system had been questioned it was time for reevaluating. Prof. R. Bowen spoke on the topic, "Seekers." He told how the school had passed through the preliminary stage and had become a professional school and that now it was time for it to assume its real place in the educational system of Nebraska.

Trotzky Befriended Us.
 Baltimore Evening News: After having for several years to the denunciations of America by our own parlor bolsheviks, we are gratified to learn that there is at least one professional bolshevik who does not condemn in toto the attitude of the United States toward Russia. Forgive me to what Leon Trotzky, who has changed his affairs in the social hierarchy, says: "We have many enemies, but with America the idea of conflict is absolutely precluded. America is the country really helping us."

This sounds rather different from some of the pronouncements that have come from Russia with regard to America. Quite another tone was adopted when Russia was not invited to take part in the Washington conference, for example. But now that the Moscow government has been invited to the conference of nations at Genoa, the bolshevik outlook upon life seems to have changed considerably. Truly even members with some show of gratitude the aid given by the United States in the famine swept regions. As her period of isolation seems about to come to an end, Russia sees the need of seeking friends even among the "capitalistic" nations. Even as other nations have done before her, she seeks to win the United States over to her side in the coming international league. Trotzky knows that the Russian bread is buttered. But those other nations thought they knew too. Will Russia have any better luck?

Wakefield School Notes.
Rev. B. M. Long, state evangelist, who conducted services at the Presbyterian church last week, addressed the high school Thursday morning. Among other things he told how the Bible affects the heathen people. At

FIGHTING PARSON IS NEW LEGION CHAPLAIN

Rev. Earl A. Blackman of Kansas, newly elected chaplain of the National American Legion carried the title of "fighting parson" when he offered to go to battle with any A. E. F. skipper in France and receive no acceptance. Now he is in Kansas, teaches pugilism to Sunday school pupils and says Blue Laws are bunk.

This great book came into their lives they enjoyed many of their old superstitions. The address was greatly appreciated by the high school.
Rev. R. N. Fagan entertained the high school assembly Friday morning by readings and songs. He gave a scene from "Rip Van Winkle" and also some musical readings by Hans Andersen and others.

An Older Boys' conference will be held at Oakland Friday and Saturday of this week. Although Wakefield is not in that county, the local high school has been invited to send delegates.
Rev. E. G. Knock is conducting the Bible class at present. There are quite a number of students enrolled. The community should feel honored that the Bible is taught in the high school by such learned men. For present readings, I have always believed in the inspiration of the Holy Scriptures, whereby they have become the expression of the word and will of God.
The seniors have selected "And Home Came Ted," as their class play. The characters will be selected in the Bowman home on March 31.

The Wakefield high school basketball boys went to Coleridge last Friday night and won a victory over the home team. The score was 20-11. The line-up for Wakefield was: Fred Collins, Frankman, F. Swanson, G. Orr, E. Beresick, G. Johnson, etc.

The high school girls' basketball team played the girls of the town and some of the faculty members Saturday evening at the skating rink. The game resulted in a victory for the high school girls, 18-3. The same evening the high school's second team played the alumni boys and won, the score being 16-14. Randolph will play here Friday, Feb. 3. Goal games are expected as a double event in a contest.

The "Little Minister" shown at the Casino two nights last week, was a rich treat, and Manager Galley was rewarded by large and pleased audiences.

The one who impersonated "The Little Minister" was so pliant and conscientious and yet so humorous that he proved very interesting. The show danced always moving around and always suspicious, denoting the form rather than the spirit of the church, were presented in capital fashion. The one who impersonated the vicious gypsy, bringing the poor and oppressed, was a charming character. Such a show is a tonic. It is one of many good ones.

Mr. Halladay engaged for a time in selling men's suits. He has since wishes to express appreciation for the patronage which he received.

W. H. Harms, Bloomfield banker, who became well known as a speaker in behalf of the government during the late war, was in Wayne Monday en route to Sioux City. Speaking of the telephone strike at Bloomfield, he said it had been fully won by the strikers. The demand that old rates be restored, has been met, and the service will be resumed next week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Halladay who have located at Laurel, where they are now proprietors of the Variety store, were here the first two weeks packing their household goods and moving them to their new home. Mr. Halladay engaged for a time in selling men's suits. He has since wishes to express appreciation for the patronage which he received.

When a farmer wanted a doctor, he got into his car and drove to town, losing little time by the extra of money. No serious consequences, due to lack of telephone service in calling doctors, were reported. Without telephones, people drop their close social relationships. When neighbors wanted to tell one another things that had happened or that they thought had happened, they had to get up and go together. When a family wanted to order groceries or other supplies, some one had to go to the store which process gave some advantage in the matter of acquaintance and selection. But Mr. Harms says lack of telephones caused a good deal of extra effort on the part of the farmer, and, however, he believes was abundantly justified by the ground over which the battle was waged and won.

To Receive Vocational Training. Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 31.—Widows, mothers, and orphans of men who died in the service during the world war will receive vocational training if congress acts favorably on legislation now being pressed by the American Legion.

At present the next of kin of a soldier who lost his life receives $25 a month from the government. Investigation has shown that hundreds have been thrown on their own resources, having no trade, profession or business experience with which to meet the competition of the business world, and with no aid other than the relatively small compensation payment to keep them going.

A bill sponsored by the Legion, providing a training program to cover the situation passed the senate during the last session but died in the house. Its reversion to congress will be persistently urged by its supporters in the present congress.

In the more than three years which have elapsed since the war, the armistice, no steps have thus far been taken by the government to lend assistance to the dependents of the war dead in fitting themselves to earn a livelihood, the Legion declares.

It is estimated that there are approximately 1,000 military and naval dependents, many of whom are now in distress.

Apraxia Causing War Debt. Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 29.—The Nebraska house, following a brief debate, adopted a resolution memorializing congress to take care of the war debts of European countries to the United States, but to fund them.

The house invited members of the commission which has charge of the building of the new state capital to meet with it Monday afternoon and explain its plans while the capitol reappropriation bill is being considered.

In the senate a bill sponsored by Gov. McKelvie was introduced to permit state banks to obtain loans from the war fund.

The senate adopted a resolution opposing matching dollars with the federal government in future war building programs.

The hope expressed by Gov. McKelvie at the time of his call for the special session, that the members might finish their work the first week was not realized, both houses adjourning until Monday afternoon, with the present, senate and house leaders calling a special day session ahead.

Soulmate quits Garland Baby at Home

Miss Lillian Conrad, the "soul mate" who came between the eccentric young millionaire, Charles Garland, and his wife, is in a private home in Boston, pursuing art rather than love. The Boston League, under whose care she is now, declares she is leading "an upright, pure life," and that she will not go back to Garland until he is legally freed from the bonds of matrimony. Garland said he would sacrifice even his baby for his "soul mate."

New Crockery Prices

I am indeed glad to be able to announce that crockery prices have come down. The cut is about 15 per cent, at least close figuring will enable me to make this cut to my customers in spite of the high freight rates. Prices are as follows:

- Cups and saucers, $1.25
- set of six
- Cups only, 85c
- set of six
- Soup plates, $1.10
- set
- Pie plates, 75c
- set
- Fruits, 60c
- set
- Oat meals, 90c
- set
- Oyster bowls, 18c
- each
- Six inch bowls, 20c
- each
- Seven inch bowls, 35c
- each
- Creamers, 25c
- each

The new crockery is not only lower in price, it is also better quality. If in need of common white wares, look the new goods over, before you buy.

Save the Difference on These Goods

- 11 quart aluminum water pails $1.29
- Matchboxes, holds a shoe box, 15c
- Men's silk knit ties, 50c
- Geyman town yarns, ten shades set, 25c
- ball
- Don't forget the Kant Rip children's garters, 25c
- Ladies' heavy faced, 25c
- SB 100 boys' pants, 8c
- All heavy, (formerly 10c) school tablets, 8c
- Good grade house, 58c
- Dancing wax powder, 45c
- Men's Universal pocket-books, 75c
- Crinkle dish cloths for kitchen and bath, 10c
- Asbestos mats, 10c
- Stocking feet, 10c
- pair
- Simon polishing oil, the best of its kind, 35c

Because of this affiliation I am able to buy standard merchandise cheaper and to offer customers of this store so many unusual bargains.

Especially large assortment of penny goods for school children.

The New Stock Wall Paper is in the Bins.

All the patterns which will be carried in stock at the beginning of the season are in the bins now and all are plainly price-marked. Prices are considerably cheaper from those of last year. At times when economizing is an imperative necessity for almost all of us, this is a gratifying fact. The cheaper patterns range all the way from 12 cents to 25 cents the double roll. With no high freight attached to it, for you this is as cheap as you can buy anywhere.

The better grade of papers for dining and front rooms show more beauty in design and color freshness in style than ever before. I am carrying a larger stock of wall papers than in former years. It comprises all grades from the cheapest to the best, and I am sure that I can satisfy an individual wall paper needs.

An artificial ice pond has been made within the city of Randolph. The pond is lighted by electric lights and is free from danger of falling through because beyond the one's depth. The pond was made by banking up and flooding an old tennis court.

Members of school boards of Cedar county school are to meet in Huntington on February 22.

Finger printing as a method of identification will be instituted by the First National bank of Lincoln. With the installing of this system the bank will protect customers against check raising by guaranteeing each with a $1,000 bond. The bond will also carry the fingerprints of the depositor.

This story is told. When the late General Horace Porter was manager of the Pullman company, an army officer wrote him saying that the Pullman car that had carried him from Jersey City to Long Beach had not been properly cared and dated. General Porter wrote back the letter; also the second, third and fourth. But the fifth was so violent that he dictated the following reply: "Sir—We have run the train off the track, burned the cars, shot the conductor, burned the parties, and discontinued the line. Hoping this will be satisfactory, I remain, etc."

The "Father and Son" week is receiving a good deal of attention. A "Father and Son" banquet will be held at Tekamah February 17, when the principal speech will be given by Gov. S. R. McKelvie. The purpose is to keep father and his male offspring from becoming strangers, to get them closer together in understanding and co-operation.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Randall, parents of Senator C. H. Randall, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary January 20, when relatives and friends gathered to honor the couple at their home in Randolph. Bloomfield business men have signed up for resumption of telephone service at that place, and the Monitor announces that the fight has been won by the town.

Blair-Pilot: One often hears on a cold winter morning, "if we could have some of this weather for those hot July days." A portion of it can be saved by harvesting and storing a supply of ice. On some farms the loss of fruit, vegetables and dairy products every year would almost build an ice house. There are three general types of ice houses: those built entirely above ground, those built partly above and partly below ground, and those of the cave type built entirely below ground. Of these three types the structure built entirely above ground is to be preferred because it can be built more cheaply, insulation and drainage are better and the ice is easier to remove. Blue print plans may be secured from the Engineering Department, Agricultural College, Lincoln, Neb.

James Peters who had been a resident of Stanton for thirty-three years, having served as postmaster there at one time, died Jan. 19 from an attack of pneumonia.

Albion News: The North Dakota state owned flour mill has operated for a considerable time at a loss of about $2,500 a month and this deficit has been met by taxes. When state owned businesses are made to stand on their own feet, pay taxes, and insure and return a fair profit on the investment just as private enterprises must, without access to the state's cash box, then our state might hope to meet public approval.

Will Hear of it Later. Minneapolis Journal: The mine workers in the anthracite field have based about this definition stuff. They are asking a 20 per cent increase in pay.

Editors Fight More, Too. Washington Post: The pen may be mightier than the sword, but mighty few editors get as much pay as major generals.

The Majestic Charcoal Iron Body has stood the test for years and is using the same material today.

It will pay you to look beyond the surface when examining ranges. If you do your verdict will be the Great Majestic.

Mrs. Pile Considers The Social Misfits

Editor of Herald: I am pleased to respond to your invitation to me to give you some of the reasons for my conclusions, after a number of years of work in some of our leading schools for delinquents. I call the inmates "misfits." Why? It is highly important that we realize the fact that there is a brief period previous to the period of delinquency and that the period of adjustment is so far from being the fault of the girl herself that its almost universal existence should make us look upon the delinquent girl with the utmost charity, and the most sympathetic understanding.

The child of 12 or 15 who becomes so socially unfit as to make it necessary for the courts to interfere began "as a misfit." I have taken the records of hundreds of delinquent girls, and I have never yet taken a record of such a girl whose parents came up to the necessary standards of care and common sense. A child never fits into the arms of alcoholic, criminal, feeble-minded, irritable, foolish, ignorant, careless parents, who become the progenitors of our delinquents. The statistics of any state training school for girls will bear out this composite picture of the family background.

The second misfit is the house which the girl is expected to call home. In southern Illinois is a settlement on a mud cabin, or if in a city a few rooms in a cheap apartment house, the moral and physical filth of the surroundings being unspoken.

Again the house is nearly always too small to afford a parlor in which to entertain the ever present "gentleman friend" and the street and the park with all their potential demoralizations are the only places that really seem to fit that inevitable situation.

There is another very material condition that certainly has a very direct bearing on delinquency, and that is the unscrupulous quality of the food that is the sustenance of the average family representing the class from which delinquents are recruited. It is utterly impossible to produce a moral, physical body on an unbalanced ration.

The girls eat as are almost always badly nourished, either excessively fat or considerably under weight with poor musculature, low blood pressure and frequently exaggerated nervous reflexes. We have tried difficulty in getting our girls to eat the right kind of food, so firmly established in our minds that it is generally the delinquent girl is a terrific misfit, and reflects the folly and criminal negligence of the state in regard to marriage regulations, diets, epileptic asylums, tuberculars marry ad libitum. We dare not interfere with their personal liberty; we prefer to take care of their slipping in penitentiaries, asylums, schools for feeble-minded and finally thrust some of them into institutions by the handman's noose, or electric chair.

In the training school our chief difficulties in discipline have been with girls whose heredity makes them inevitably rendered them psychopathic. These cases are now being studied in our great hospitals.

The church has not helped. While I was an assistant in Bedford Hills, N. Y., reformatory, a minister asked for a list of girls "sent to be discharged." Why wait until the girl's nerves are shattered by debauch, their brains pulsing centers of obscurity and their bodies maimed by disease?

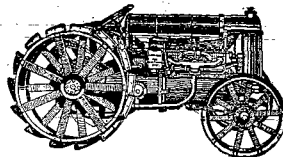

Finally after heredity has done its worst, the physical structure of the house has contributed its quota to national demoralization—the unprepared parents have ragged, abused, or indulged to the danger point, the school has either succeeded in repelling the child or fastened on mental binders, the church has forgotten its mission of going out in the highways and hedges. The recreational facilities of the community have done all in their commercialized power to destroy every ideal a child might instinctively have of the sweetness of home and the obligations of marriage and parenthood. The court steps in, the great adjuster.

The training school then becomes her home. The work being done in these centers is wonderful, but often too late to make the readjustment which is so necessary in the woman who sometime will be the head of a family. One is often disheartened at the magnitude of the work, but when one sees a girl, who has passed of honor later, one feels the effort has not been wholly futile. Ella J. Pile.

Interests are Mutual.

Lincoln Star: As a nation, Canada's wants, needs, resources and manner of thinking is closely allied to the United States, and it is for this reason that she desires direct diplomatic intercourse with the Washington government. World trade affects Canada in precisely the same manner as it affects this country and as for the question of oriental immigration to the American Pacific coast, the menace is greater to the "lady of the snows" than to the United States. The percentage of orientals living on the Canadian Pacific seaboard is much larger than in Washington, Oregon and California.

Give Uncle Sam a Rest.
Lincoln Journal: It seems to be the determination of a fast growing proportion of the American people to be carried to the skies on flattery wings of propaganda attached to the back of our poor Uncle Sam. Unhappily the back of Uncle Sam has only the strength which he has piled up into it. When too many of us win our demand for free rides, the Uncle Sam back breaks. National backs have been broken before. If we would better ask of him only to keep open the opportunity for self help, it is high time that Americans waded for miles, seeing this, were raising the cry, "Climb down off your country's back."

Pay Day Not So Funny.
Sioux Falls Argus-Leader: It has been a great year—of liquidation with the banks of South Dakota. They have come up to the present year with decreased loans and increased borrowings from the federal reserve, which means that during the year our people have been paying off their debts. This will be continued more or less during the present year. Then let us be careful the next time a boom begins to show its head. A boom is a most enjoyable thing while it lasts; but the inevitable day that is not so funny.

Financial Situation Reported Improving

Lincoln Journal: Archer W. Douglas, chairman, committee on business and standards, chamber of commerce of the United States, says: "There are all manner of signs and symptoms which indicate that we have seen the worst of our troubles and are on the way to better things."

Merchandise stocks throughout the country have been materially reduced during the past twelve months and many frozen credits have been thawed out accordingly. Overhead costs have been cut, with a corresponding gain in service and efficiency. Most of the business weeks that all have been cleared away and work being done is almost entirely of constructive nature. There is widespread recognition of the vital necessity of adequate credit to farming interests and it is fast assuming definite shape. What the farmer and the rest of the world are doing is to get out of the factor in his business and the price he often paid for it when it was bad, would make a moving goal and hope.

There are only two periods in business history when prices and volume of virtually all commodities rose for the first six months, with more uniformly in the same direction, upward in eras of great prosperity and downward in those of great depression. Now each line of business is affected almost entirely by the factors peculiar to itself, and this is an almost unending symptom.

that normal conditions in such lines are resuming their natural course. The dwellers in the Fools' Paradise are fast dwindling for the majority of the business world are prepared to accept the inevitable, after the fashion of the philosophy of the new money that "What is to be will be, whether it comes to pass or not."

Each world wide matters as the disarmament conference and the probable settlement of the Irish question have a widespread influence for good that nothing else can match. For they prophesy only too clearly that the hymn of Hate and the insane follies bred by the motto and many frozen credits have been thawed out accordingly. Overhead costs have been cut, with a corresponding gain in service and efficiency. Most of the business weeks that all have been cleared away and work being done is almost entirely of constructive nature. There is widespread recognition of the vital necessity of adequate credit to farming interests and it is fast assuming definite shape. What the farmer and the rest of the world are doing is to get out of the factor in his business and the price he often paid for it when it was bad, would make a moving goal and hope.

Now each line of business is affected almost entirely by the factors peculiar to itself, and this is an almost unending symptom.

farm harvest of five of the largest corn growing states in a resolution directed at greater average of alfalfa - clover and other legumes, thereby soil fertility may be conserved, which interpreted means that such increase will naturally be at the expense of the farmer's income. planting. In corn as in cotton, the farmer holds the game in his own hands as we grow 75 per cent of the Indian corn and feed the world and no other nation is ever likely to disturb that proportion. An advance of 50 cents a bushel for corn would do more to restore business in the grain regions than all other panaceas combined. Prices of farm products need some more potent stimulant than the artificial governmental support which marches up the hill one day and marches down again the next - afraid of its shadow, and taking constant counsel with its fears.

Fortunately, heavy exports of corn, cotton, wheat and meat products furnish the sustaining sentiment. We are not to forget that these large grain shipments abroad are made possible by the elimination for an indefinite period of Russia as the granary of Europe. When that disastrous country comes back, we shall feel the effects of her ancient competition. The fortunes of the growing winter wheat in the west are largely upon needed moisture in the southwest and the west from the Texas Panhandle to Nebraska. At this writing, in such sections as it is too dry the plant is in poor condition to face the wintry blasts.

In constructive ways the department of agriculture more than justifies its existence each year and returns a handsome profit on its investment in the wealth it adds to the farming world. The government, through an eight-pound package of the seed of Sudan grass from far-away Africa has multiplied now into an annual crop of forage of about $10,000,000 and its popularity still increases on the thirsty, wind swept plains of the Great Plains states where less hardy plants wither and die under the scorching heat of some summer days.

Lead, zinc and copper have taken heart because of better demand and some consequent stiffening in price. Activity in oil is growing and recent rains in portions of the south-west are promising the possibility of drilling in more generous fashion. Of all commodities, oil has the least need to take thought for the morrow; for as regards the future, its drilling and election is as sure as that of any mythical saint who never existed. Mathematically stated it has increasing in geometrical ratio to be met by only a possible supply at its present rate of going.

Lumber shipments in December stacked up well and paper mills were fairly busy. Industrial activity in general moves at slow and the new and old prophets of "near" prosperity are having a hard time holding on to their dwindling reputations.

State Socialism. One thing that seems rather queer is that while some folks complain that the army of state and national employees who are growing up do not have the land for one purpose and another, and there is good reason for the complaint, they at the same time favor state or national ownership of railroads, telephones and other things. If this public ownership were actually come to pass it would certainly mean an immense addition to the army of inspectors and other public employees. A good business man demands efficiency from his employees and goes along with as few people as possible. But political management always includes a lot of jobs. It is possible that some of the public ownership advocates will take exception to these statements, but the writer must acknowledge that he is too benighted to draw up a poster on this - O. O. Buck in Harvard Courier.

Mr. Buck has presented one of the unanswerable arguments against state socialism. There is absolutely no way under government ownership to prevent the overloading of payrolls and the payment of salaries out of the corporation's sales. Private enterprise. Another unanswerable argument against state socialism, same thing as government ownership of railroads, telephones and other things. If this public ownership were actually come to pass it would certainly mean an immense addition to the army of inspectors and other public employees. A good business man demands efficiency from his employees and goes along with as few people as possible. But political management always includes a lot of jobs. It is possible that some of the public ownership advocates will take exception to these statements, but the writer must acknowledge that he is too benighted to draw up a poster on this - O. O. Buck in Harvard Courier.

Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy - get Doan's Kidney Pills - the only thing that catches the germ in a disordered condition. United States an "Alto Ran." Chicago Tribune: The Encyclopedia Britannica lists the United States of America as an "alto ran" among the countries of the world in the matter of forest conservation and development. It will be food for thought, perhaps a little chastening to proud Americans to learn that we are far behind Germany, France, Austria, Denmark, Belgium, Switzerland, British India, South Africa, Ceylon, the Malay states, and other countries in the matter of civilization and progress. It is a feature of governmental protection of the present and future of its people and their resources which have been recognized and made operative for more than 1,000 years abroad. The United States has been backward that hundreds of thousands of stand of timber has been destroyed, and we are using up the remainder four times as fast as we are growing new supplies.

THE PLAIN TRUTH

What More Can Wayne People Ask?

When well-known residents and highly-respected people of Wayne make such statements as the following, it must, a very convincing reply:

"Mr. Hogewood, proprietor Wayne Dry Line, Wayne, says: 'My back was often so painful and I could scarcely get up after sitting. My kidneys were in a badly disordered condition. Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in our home and I decided to try them. Doan's relieved me almost immediately and in a short time I was cured. I have since been free from all traces of kidney disorder.'" (Statement given August 4, 1916.)

Initiative. E. W. Gilles in a letter to the Minneapolis Journal: "A man will never get anywhere if he doesn't start. It is the first step that counts. It leads, others follow. Education is necessary to initiative. Educated people are the leaders. 'Do your own thing' is the motto which has done for you, and do it first. This almost insures the courteous conduct of others toward you. 'The early bird catches the worm.' The motto of the world, initiative, 'gets in on the ground floor.' Initiative takes four times as long as it takes to get the hoe by the handle. Initiative gets to the office ahead of the boss, locks the door before the boss is even, gets to the train before he starts, digs the potatoes before they freeze and starts his account with while one has something to start it with.

Business Journal: Necessary adjustments in the business world continue slow and cautious, a marked hesitancy emphasizing the slow recovery of the country after every transaction of any size. This is not because the interests are frightened—but it is the result of the desire to make sensible plans and adopt programs that can be followed through successfully. In other words, industrialists for the most part are leading their way carefully, confident of the inevitable return of normal conditions. But making sure in the meantime that their business affairs are to be few. That is rather an admirable thing to do when one considers the times. When prosperity is here, however, the business world is sprung out by immediate big successes in another direction. Now, however, business is trying to make every dollar count. It is not that there is something in the idea of economy of effort as well as of dollars.

It is a sign that the international trade situation, distressingly affected by the condition of European finances, will steadily improve, was indicated by the gains made by the British pound sterling on Wall Street. The pound is now at the highest mark for years, being quoted at $4.25 1/4. The gain over the highest value of last year is only one-eighth, but it must be remembered that since that time it has fallen below $4.00. The pound is worth around $4.85, so sterling has a long way to go before it reaches par, but the fact that it is struggling upward in this manner is a sign of economic and financial situation is promising to say the least. This may have been reflected by the wide attention given to the pound in the market recently called, although it must be admitted that the best of harmony does not prevail between the contributors to the pound's recovery. The hopeful view, of course, is that time will adjust what is now a rather unharmonious situation will come out of Genoa. One thing is certain: Until something is done at Genoa or elsewhere to effect an understanding of the relations of money and goods, American business cannot go forward as rapidly as its leaders desire. Domestic conditions of importance that indicate better conditions are not so numerous as to require difficulty in recognizing them and their value. One of the most gratifying signs in the view of the plan of the farmers, is a better price for live stock which has been free corn that has been cheap to the farmer. The price of the hoof and the urge now is for the farmer to feed their grain instead of selling it at a loss. The farmers' position in a market at Washington is expected to develop a definite understanding of their needs and of the government's position. It is believed that the government wishes to help the farmer solve their problems, and that it will attempt to do so in a degree through legislation.

Buying and selling depend upon the public mood. The price continues to apply to necessities, with luxuries ignored. Having lessened the less than the price of the goods can buy in larger volume are not doing so. Everybody seems to be waiting for business activity to be carried through the process of reconstruction. Eventually the time will come when the buyers' strike will be a thing of the past. It is not now, when the war and when more people are employed and more wheels of industry are turning bigger and better turnovers will be made all lines of the main thing now is to finish the job of restoring the public's confidence and to do it in a manner that will be convincing.

Placing the Chin Whisker.

Kansas City Star: It has been deemed worthy of notice that no chin whiskers answered the roll call at the national agricultural conference in Washington. This fact was brought out because in the funny papers and in the vaudeville, the farmer always wears a chin whisker. On the same high authority the owner of this particular type of whisker wears boots and says "By-

Almost everybody, except some members of congress, knows that the chin whisker, though a noble institution in the vaudeville types of the American farmer. That certain members of congress still get their information from the funny papers and the vaudeville, is a fact from the kind of speeches they make for farm consumption, but actually these whisker-wearing members of congress have their chin whisker minds anyway. These are the congressmen who want to disband the army and who think that the farmer always wears a chin whisker. They have an other chin whisker idea that the best army officer is a deputy county recorder. Finally, they have an idea that Patrick Henry's liberty or death speech at the high school graduation exercises.

If the agricultural conference succeeded in dispelling some of these chin whisker ideas in congress, that body will be much better fitted to do its job than it is now. There are too many senators and representatives whose present method of talking to the aid of the farmer is to attack the cost of the federal reserve bank buildings being erected in the cities. Senator Harkin made a similar attack on champion the other day. He is a perfect type of the chin whisker mind in congress. Senator Watson of Georgia, is another. They are chin whisker men because they imagine the country is still chin whiskered and can be chin whiskered out of its common sense and political intelligence.

Compens ought to get rid of its chin whisker—unless indeed, it is to be a chin whisker to conceal the absence of a chin.

Father and Son Partnerships.

Drivers Journal-Stockman: Fathers and sons all over the country are in the limelight this week. Get-together meetings, banquets and speeches are all calculated to help carry on the dependence and responsibility to each other. I would indeed be of interest to know how many live stock firms are in the line of such partnerships. It is very reasonable to believe that the firm is a long one and that such partnerships are increasing in numbers yearly.

In many cases the son is a graduate in agriculture and comes back with the farm equipment and knowledge gained in the judging ring and in college halls. He combines this knowledge with the valuable practical knowledge his father has gained at the school of experience. Success of the partnership will be sure if each partner recognizes the value of each other's knowledge and experience. Each work is brought into play.

The value of father and son partnerships to the live-stock industry cannot be overestimated. It is that a herd which has been built up to a creditable standing during many years will be continued by the sons with the idea of a family inheritance constantly in mind. It is an assurance that the fertility of the soil of the old farm will be kept up and not sold in the hands of a stranger. While we are thinking of father and son work, let us remember the deep appreciation we owe to the father and son who have worked together for so long.

Regulating the Fuel Industry.

Omaha Bee: Accompanying the warning from Secretary Hoover that industries depending on coal-fuel face a sharp reduction in the price of fuel, the industry incident to a general strike, down in the mines because of the coal-fuel shortage. It is expected that the code as he submits it possesses recognized elements of fairness and provides a possible solution in a condition that may become intolerable.

The miners have shown that they can interrupt the orderly process of communal life by refusing to dig coal. The operators have shown that they can produce a similar state of affairs by refusing to negotiate with their men. Experience has shown that the Kansas or Colorado industrial court laws do not bring about the uninterrupted operation of industry. This suggests the needs of some further arrangement. Senator Kenyon's code provides for continuous operation of mines under regulation. It grants the right of capital to a reasonable return and the equal right of the worker to decent pay; the right to organize for either workers or men; the right of capital to a reasonable return and the right of men to work without joining a union is also provided; punitive pay for over time beyond the normal work day is included; child labor forbidden, employment of women permitted; collective bargaining established; finally, the code provides a strike or lock-out pending the adjustment of any dispute that may arise.

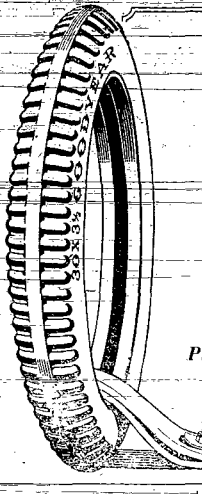

Something of this nature will have to be adopted unless the miners and the operators can reach an adjustment between themselves that will relieve the land of the menace they now hold over it. Neither side is wholly in the right, nor entirely in the wrong, but together they are engaged in a dispute that is publicly unfair and may require public interference to protect public rights.

Suffering Is Discipline.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: Those who cavil at the word "discipline" usually those who are afraid of the open; who shrink away from blows and bruises into some warm and fleecy line of indulgence. They do not realize their environment of terror and languor they declaim against risk. They deny the notion of a ruling power in mortal affairs that is not suffering. But suffering is part of the necessary discipline for us all. If we had no bad times, we never should know how good times are. It is because much of life deals so roughly with us that we find such an exquisite happiness when the more golden hours come. These hours are more than the rest.

Mr. Bryan on Deck.

Omaha Bee: Although his heart went into the grave at San Francisco 18 months ago, Mr. Bryan is again in Washington, and with him a full set of plans and specifications, including the necessary paramours from which to create the superstructure of another "voiced" horse for the democrats. an's favorite occupations between chautauque seasons. As at present contemplated. Both horns of the dilemma are sharp horns, but the soldier point is the sharper. So, by the time spring breaks to melt into summer the soldier's bonus bill will be a fact accomplished.

Miracle Is Necessary.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: The house has passed the bonus bill, and forgotten about it. The Forney bill went through, approving the bonus but overlooking the detail of how the money was to be raised. The administration majority is now setting down to the problem of porting, platform promises and possible means of payment. November's elections are casting their shadows. The soldiers want their money, while the taxpayer wants his money. It is to expect a lowering of taxes. Some how the miracle of eating your cake and still possessing it must be attempted. Both horns of the dilemma are sharp horns, but the soldier point is the sharper. So, by the time spring breaks to melt into summer the soldier's bonus bill will be a fact accomplished.

Two Million Dollars a Day.

Omaha Bee: Experiences during the war accustomed the public to complacently behold the expenditure of such vast sums of money that $2,000,000 is insignificant in comparison. Yet, when it comes to commercial transactions that amount is not inconsiderable, and under some conditions is even respectable. One of the farmer group of lawmakers now assembled at Lincoln, talking of the situation in Nebraska, points out that the agricultural industry of the state is not required to wait for the harvesting of another crop in order to procure sustenance. He finds that from the Omaha market alone more than $2,000,000 a day is being returned to the country for products of the farm. Cattle, hogs, sheep, grain of all kinds, potatoes, butter and eggs, cream and other articles are being sent steadily to the metropolitan centers and being returned to the producer in an endless stream. The estimate is justified, for the published receipts at the stock yards and train terminals disclose that nearly that amount in live stock and grain is coming in. By this should be added the shipments that go to Kansas City, St. Joseph and other markets. It will materially swell the total, showing that a considerable sum of money is daily being realized by the producers of the state—not so much as they might have expected, some of it representing actual loss, yet a flow of currency that is more than sufficient to keep business moving, and in which will eventually rest the recovery all are looking forward to. Something might be said as to the importance of the relation between Omaha and the state in this regard, but the facts are eloquent themselves. Two million dollars a day from the market town to the producers does not require elaboration.

"Cold In the Head"

is an acute attack of Nasal Catarrh. Persons who are subject to frequent "colds in the head" will find that the use of CATARRH MEDICINE will build up the system, cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease. Repeated attacks of Acute Catarrh may lead to Chronic Catarrh. CATARRH MEDICINE is taken internally and acts through the mucous membrane of the system, cleanses the blood and restores the blood to its normal condition. It is a safe and reliable remedy for any case of Catarrh that this CATARRH MEDICINE will cure. F. C. CASEY & Co., Toledo, Ohio.
