

EDWARD OWEN HAS ACCIDENT TUESDAY

Wagon in Which He Was Riding Is Struck by Freight Train at Crossing East of Town.

YOUNG MAN 'JUMPS,' ESCAPES

One Horse Thrown to Ground With Broken Leg, Has to Be Killed - Wagon Is Badly Wrecked.

Edward Owen, son of the late Edward Owen, had a narrow escape from a "crash" when the wagon in which he was riding was struck at the railway crossing just east of town by the west-bound freight train No. 21. The young man jumped in time to save himself. One horse, worth $100, had a leg broken and had to be killed. The wagon was badly wrecked and the young man says he did not see nor hear the train until it was too late to avoid the accident. The rear end of the wagon was hit by the train and it dived into a ditch and jumped the horses down. Young Owen jumped just in time to "escape" being caught in the wagon. The horse was thrown over its head. The train was stopped and the crew gave all possible assistance. Young Owen is saying he did not see the wagon until the train hit it. The young man says a cut through which the railway runs, obstructs the view for both himself and the engineer.

Killing Frosts Hit Southern California

Sam Davies has received a letter from his brother, M. S. Davies, formerly of Wayne, now of Wilmington, Calif., telling among other things about the late frost which has been recent frosts in southern California. He says the lemon crop has been entirely destroyed in some places, and that many of the oranges have been lost. The killing freeze occurred during the time when the crop was in progress. The loss is estimated at $100,000,000. Davies says he is depending on such crops. Growing gardens were frozen. The frost was so severe that the loving excerpt from the letter which the Herald is permitted to reproduce, will be of local interest. "The frost was so severe that Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Jacobs, and had their dinner with a nice visit. In the evening we visited Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Taylor, and had a very nice dinner. The next day we went with them to Santa Monica, Ocean Grove and Venice. Things are a little quiet at the moment. The frost was so severe that it is too cold for bathing. Jacob and Altes are living in Hollywood about eight miles from Los Angeles. They are very well and I called on us as a few days ago. Mr. Gill has bought a home in Los Angeles and is living there now. He expects to leave here next week. He has a very nice home in Los Angeles. He has been settling his affairs in Big Bend, Wash., where he has been living. Both men looked well, though Mr. Taylor is a little older. He is well and expected to go back home before long. "During the last month we have had some cold and wet weather, and we feel it keenly. But we have been comfortable here with a gas stove and a kitchen stove. Between here and the coast, the weather has been blocked for a week with heavy drifts of snow, and hundreds of automobiles have been caught in the drifts, causing many accidents. People seem not prepared for such weather, and consequently many sufferings was caused. "The market here is the best market at Wayne has bought a home here, and the price, $4,500, was very reasonable.

First Court Records of County Examined

A study of the first court records of Wayne county gives some interesting information on the first cases brought into the court, when La Porte was the county seat. Compared with today, there were few cases. A total absence of criminal cases during the first few years shows that if there were any criminal cases, they were probably handled in the village justice court.

The first duty performed by the court seems to be settlement of a probate case in the estate of Oscar Frederick Monson, who died in May, 1870, leaving no will. Almer A. Fletcher was judge of the court at this time.

The first wedding license was issued in Sarah Anne Eays and Liles Sperry on May 8, 1871. Although the official record bears no account of the fact, old settlers remember that the subsequent wedding proved to be an excuse for a great celebration in which all the people of the community had a part.

The first civil suit under the justice jurisdiction was the payment of a note and was filed on April 2, 1872.

The first term case in county court was in April 1873 and was a suit for payment of a note. At that time C. E. Hunter was county judge and J. W. Agler, county sheriff. James Brittain appeared as attorney. No criminal case appears in the county court record until the year 1872, when a young man was charged with setting fire to the barn near the home of a citizen by whom the complaint was furnished. The defendant appeared in court but as there was no one present to appear for the state, the case was dismissed and the prisoner discharged. A month later he was called into court again and pleading guilty was fined five dollars and costs. E. D. Thompson was county judge. Between April, 1874, and December, 1881, only seven term cases were filed in the county court. During the latter month, condemnation cases began for the railroad company which wanted to build a line through the county. The land owners who appeared in these cases were: Geo. T. Harty, Isaac P. Martin, W. F. Bressler, D. C. Patterson, J. W. Jones, J. M. Strahan and E. L. Jones. Of this group, J. T. Bressler is the only one living today. In June, 1886, land was condemned for the Northeastern Nebraska Railroad company, as the company was then called which wanted to build a road through to Knox county and the court again had a busy session.

Schwab's Optimism Counts. Washington Post: It is refusing to meet a captain of industry like Charles M. Schwab, who not only holds optimistic convictions, but is ready to back them up with hard cash. The $25,000,000 which Bethlehem directors have voted lately, more convincingly than all the jeremiads who are going up and down the land deploring a dark future. If there were more capitalists whose vision could pierce the clouds and who had the courage of their convictions a general revival of business in this country would be hastened.

Wakefield Excited Over Oil Discovery

The prospect of finding oil wells and putting up refineries at Wakefield is said to have caused a good deal of excitement there. Last summer when a well for water was being dug at the edge of town, the smell of oil became very apparent. An examination showed that real oil existed. It was suspected that oil had leaked through the return from a nearby lighting plant, but this explanation was soon exploded. One theory advanced was that some old settler had lost his oil burning lantern and that time had buried it.

Another suggestion was that some one had stumbled before the days of adobe walls and spilled a can of oil which found its way into subterranean pocket.

But these notions have all been dissipated by more investigations and analysis. The report states that oil has been discovered in different sections of the low land around Wakefield, and that samples sent to an Oklahoma laboratory have been reported favorably. As additional proof, the soil is pronounced by experts to be the kind in which oil usually abounds.

It now seems likely, according to reports, that oil derricks will be lifting their heads around Wakefield as soon as arrangements can be made. If the development equals expectations, Wakefield will become a lively spot on the Nebraska coast.

Disco, county of which Wakefield is the principal town, has had many rare discoveries during the past half century. Potosi, in the northern part, got into the habit of discovering things early in its history. In the seventies, coal was found. In the same neighborhood what was supposed to be a diamond was picked up, and an organization to go into the river bluffs in quest of a diamond mine was contemplated. Also the bones of a plesiosaur were unearthed and exhibited to an astonished world. Not far from Potosi, the Ionia volcano, covered with lava, and attention by throwing out smoke and flames which kept up until some one came along and dashed a pail of water into it.

Not to be outdone by Potosi, Wakefield has a coal mine of its own. Drilling has been going on for several months, but owing to various interruptions, plenty of fuel from that source will before long find its way to market. In the New, Wakefield takes the front of the stage and offers a discovery that will, if the hopes of sanguine friends come true, add an important contribution to the wealth and fame of Dixon county.

In Dakota territory, in Charles Mix county and along the Missouri river a short distance above Fort Randall, great quantities of a species of fuel have been found, somewhat resembling coal and which burns readily and produces as much heat as soft coal. The Yankton Press says that the Charles Mix county fuel is a shale formation and is saturated with oil which gives it combustible qualities. That which is above Fort Randall is in a layer thirty-five feet thick and resembles black chalk rock, and makes a good fire. This same combustible shale is found in many places along the river. Near Ionia, in this country, there are beds of it. The celebrated Ionia volcano, so-called, was nothing more nor less than a burning bed of this shale. In the bluffs along the river near Ponca, the same shale is found and we are told that between this place and Jackson there are immense quantities of it. But for fuel, when compared with even the poorest kind of wood or coal, it is, according to those in this country who have attempted to burn it, almost worthless.

The moving picture group in Hollywood seems to have a social standard all its own, due to too much money, too much leisure, too much vulgarity, too little intelligence.

It is unfortunate that the moving picture industry can draw men like McCadeo and Hays away from high offices in the United States cabinet. Hays has been doing excellent work as head of the postoffice department, and the government can ill afford to lose him. We wish he were strong enough to resist the pecuniary temptation, and stay with his trust in Washington.

A local citizen explains that the legislature in its session a year ago followed precedent in making appropriations. The amount was excessive and unnecessary, and wishing to reduce the burden of taxation, called the body together again to make all possible curtailment, which was done, effecting a saving of over $2,000,000. Biased critics will overlook this saving, however, and seek out other grounds for complaint.

Ordo Miller, county commissioner, who is a farmer and an optimist, draws a sharp contrast between conditions now and those of a year ago by calling attention to the fact that shippers of live stock are uniformly making profit on everything sold. Mr. Miller points out the results scatters a lot of money which has not already been absorbed by expenses. As a consequence, farmers have reason to feel better, while farmers are reflected in all arteries of trade.

During the past week, people have been sliding in some ways more than ever. The gentle slopes in different parts of town, covered with thick coats of ice, have been taken advantage of by young and old with hands. Others have been sliding without sleds and without any intention in that direction.

Some have had occasion to sit down with more violence than discretion or safety would suggest. But notwithstanding the fact that the roads are not slipping so much in business and finance as they were a few months ago, people have been putting on the brakes, sending the trucks and injecting the iron of regulation into their blood, and they are now going forward more securely and more prosperously.

The great world conference, looking to disarmament, in support of universal peace, came to an end Monday, and the representatives return to their respective countries with assurance that the conference was eminently justified by results, and that it will pass into history as the first long stride toward ridding the world of the horrors of war. In concluding address, President Harding gave expression to these words at the end: "It is so fine, so gratifying, so reassuring, so full of promise, that above the mourning of a world sorrow not yet allayed, above the groans which come of excessive burdens not yet lifted, but to be lightened above the discouragements of a world yet struggling to find itself after surpassing upheaval, there is the note of rejoicing which is not alone ours or yours or of all of us, but comes from the hearts of men of all the world."

The Lincoln Journal has been publishing a series of articles on married life from men and women who have had experience, and the complaints made are not altogether encouraging. Both husband and wife charge indifference and neglect. One man clearly the results of which is not alone ours or yours or of all of us, but comes from the hearts of men of all the world."

The Lincoln Journal has been publishing a series of articles on married life from men and women who have had experience, and the complaints made are not altogether encouraging. Both husband and wife charge indifference and neglect. One man clearly the results of which is not alone ours or yours or of all of us, but comes from the hearts of men of all the world."

But, happily, most men and women appreciate their life-partners for the sympathy and sustaining strength each gives the other in solving problems, surmounting obstacles and achieving desirable ends. Sentible, harmonious and sympathetic minds, aloof from considerations of mere exterior show and gaudy show, will insure enduring content and happiness at home, and make matrimonial ventures the success which they ought to be.

Ahern's

COME AND SEE THE

New Spring Dress Goods Silks, Wash Goods and Tissues

Our new stock was shipped from the east last Friday and we expect to have them on display for you Saturday sure.

We have planned for an especially big season of home sewing and our stock of materials for this purpose is to be the finest and most complete we have ever shown.

This promises to be a great spring season. These practical and dainty materials are to be used for almost every article of wearing apparel from handkerchiefs to underwear.

You will find in our stock patterns and qualities in these materials especially chosen for all the different purposes. Why not have first choice?

-Aherns-

Special bargains in muslins, long cloths, nainsooks, dimities, sheetings, tubings and percales are here for you. We brought them with in Chicago three weeks ago when attending the jobbers' spring opening sales and secured prices much below what are now being asked.

-Aherns-

John Ahern is in Chicago this week buying more spring ready-to-wear. The New York factories whom we buy from have their salesmen and samples at the Chicago hotels this week and he is on hand to select the new garments that have been just brought out. The style questions in ready-to-wear have been answered. What is to be most favored in coats, suits and dresses has been fully decided on. We will have the correct things for you in all these lines. Come and see them—the garments you have seen illustrated in the late magazines and fashion books are here for you to try on.

You can get the best idea of what styles are to be, what will become you, what costs are, by coming in and making a personal examination of the garments for yourself.

From now on until our out-of-town sales commence, you have the privilege of seeing all the coats, suits and dresses we buy for sixty other towns as well as for Wayne. All these garments are shipped here first and opened in our own store.

You can choose from a display many times larger and finer than is shown in much larger towns than our own.

Already the ready-to-wear department is filling up with these new garments. His purchases this week will be arriving daily by express. Come now and get first choice of all these new garments.

The first shipment of new spring oxford has arrived. I attended the shoe style show in Chicago in January and selected our spring footwear from over 400 lines that were shown at that time by shoe factories from all over the country. I had the privilege of attending the retailer's convention at that time and hearing leading shoe retailers from the large cities of the east, south and west give their opinions of what styles would be best in footwear this spring.

You can depend on finding the correct styles in our stock.

Prices are very satisfactory too.

-Aherns-

We have a few pair of good wool nap and cotton blankets we would rather sell very cheap than carry over. If you need another pair of blankets to carry you through the winter you will find them here at a bargain price.

-Aherns-

In our spring buying we are passing up all goods that have been cheaply made to sell at a low price.

There is no economy in these goods for our customers and they only make trouble for us.

Prices on good quality merchandise have come down to where they are within reason and you know it pays to buy and we know it pays to sell cheap. Buy goods, guaranteed and ready to wear that are guaranteed.

You will get your money's worth in wear and style out of anything we sell to you.

-Aherns-

Just for experience and comparison pay a little more for your next sack of flour and get Pillsbury's. There is more bread in it, better cakes, better pie crusts, lighter nice biscuits and never a failure.

Why not have your family enjoy the best when it costs so little more?

We have second grade flour at as low a price as any one's for those who demand the best. If you once try Pillsbury's you will not think of using any other.

We believe that Flour is one of the Best Buys this week, as every indication is that it will advance in price very soon. So we advise you to supply your needs now before the advance comes.

One Minute Laundry Maid Electric Washer

A superb electric washer that completely fills the requirements of any home, for a strictly modern washing machine.

Occupying but small floor space, it is adapted to give excellent results when used with stationary rinse tubs, yet possesses all the up-to-date features of the larger bench type machines.

This particular model of the One Minute line requires no more floor space than a stove leg machine, which makes it very popular with a great many housewives, who do not have the room for the larger machines, but still want a bench type washer.

The famous One Minute Four Position Swinging Reversible Wringer is used, giving four wringing positions and a wide enough sweep to deposit clothes squarely in tub or basket. Lifting of heavy tubs and all unnecessary steps are saved by the use of this wringer. Mounted on a heavy substantial bracket, there is little chance of its sagging or working loose, even after many years of use.

When used in connection with stationary rinse tubs, the folding rack can be utilized for holding the clothes basket and quickly drops down at the end of the bench out of the way, when not in use.

Nowadays when wash day comes, all you've got to do is turn a switch and the One Minute Electric Washer does the rest. It turns out your entire washing done to a queen's taste, thoroughly clean and pure, without a trace of damage to your finest fabrics or sheers, tulle, delicate garments.

Today a woman's devotion to her home is no longer measured by the length of time she spends on her household tasks, but by the speed and efficiency with which she does them. The One Minute washer has reduced the wash day to the wash hour.

We also carry the same machine to be operated by engine power.

UNCLE WALT The Fast Philosopher

The Good Turn.
One day I saw a ditcher, who feebly plied his spade I took him out a pitcher of kickless lemonade. He took it with a grateful look that his hands yet—and he was hot and weary, and longed for something wet. "That drink was most delightful," the steaming Peter Leary said, "my chest was something frightful, and burned up my inside." Long years have passed since Peter poured down that lemonade, and watched me calmly tetter back to my fire-truck shade. The other day while driving my corrugated car, it suddenly stopped, my straining in mud as thick as tar. There I was stuck completely, in glue-like gumbo mud, and I craved the sweetly about the dand-planting luck. Then came a whiskered granger who drove two sorrel mares; "With pull me out, O stranger?" I cried, between my swears. He pulled me from the wallow—his team was strong and smart; I knew what was to follow—a bill to break his tail. For two hours he worked me from mudholes now and then and always they'd appal me, by their demands for yen. He said, "You make me sweat! No money shall be paid! For I'm the Peter Leary who drank your lemonade!" I've often helped a fellow who groaned helplessly, but never again did I see a fellow he wouldn't pay me back.

Choosing Your Laws.
"This law," men say, "forbidding drinks, was put across by looted judges; was put across by warm-hearted bats; the other laws we will obey, but to this one we say, 'Say, say, and also, 'Stuh,' and 'Tah.' We'll lift no chickens from their perch, we'll rob no train, we'll burn no church, we're law-abiding guys; but we will have our furry dogs in every one of all the laws and cops, and all the frantic dogs." Respect for law is a good thing, but not when you don't want, their business never stops, they hear the moral voters say, "This one punk law we won't obey—let us have our furry dogs." The man in high, commanding place pours booze verbatim in his face, and thinks he's being smart; the sergeant and his ermined judge must have their little sip of booze some comfort to impart. The rich man treats his friends to wine that's rich and elegant and fine, and coaxed the waiter to stand and, achis, moaning his tubes, "The law is for down-trodden bums who cannot afford to buy wine." The man in high, commanding place just swipes a bun, or take his neighbor's iron man, keeps booze in his abode; and so respect for law grows more and more a mere word.

Poor Sport.
A fat fellow of mid then it drops, its destiny turning, and friend who late were buying hogs are tired of basement brewing. Last year the hops-and-raises stores all day—and night, were busy, the three Clevely pumped armfuls of hops and their heads were dizzy. And patrons carried home the hops and straightway brewed, producing, producing, producing, until they were all unwell, slop, all threatened their undoing. The home brewed stuff was sometimes pink, and sometimes green, and sometimes blue, and sometimes a good long drink would give a fellow. Home-brewers wearied of their graft when it was fairly good, and for their friends' sakes quite a bit of brewing junk was carted. And now there's no demand for hops—except for proper uses, no more hops in the shops to make illicit juices. Thus one great sport has petered out, for it was vain and hollow, and soon or late, no man makes a fortune out of it. It will follow. Just new smart alacks think it cute to knock the law to pieces, and buy punk gin from some galoot who marks his value. But when they see their neighbors die from drinking poisoned whisky, they'll think it better to go dry and be alive and healthy, and in their hearts that will wonder as dry for a season, but all the lawlessness will end as people think and reason.

Respecting the Law.
The law decreed in olden times that witches should be burned; the courts authorized their mystic crimes, and all the "good" spirits were given a wide berth. I thought for ought to die, all statutes of the kind; he thought the burning of a witch was not a sport and that it was a waste of time. In the book, "my grandire used to sigh, "around us daily we must look, "for witches we may fry." Was there a witch in your town, or a witch in your cat or snake, my grandire traced her to her lair, and tied her to the stake. He said, "The law must be respected, for justice needs to be done, and though I hate to burn a jade, I burn one every week. I doubt if witches really work much evil and mischief, but the law is the law, the kirk, and by the law and press. But it is not for me to say what laws are right or wrong? I've built a house, and I've got my wife and come along." The law he doubted was repeated—long since, as fire and rain; old women now are quiet and old men are in their tracks. And if some arabic dame can on a broadside ride, the people will applaud her game, and point to her with a look of admiration. The law that says will from the volume, take but while it is the nation's word, let's see that it's obeyed.

No Bridegroom.
Wilhelm, in his gloom bedded, wrath upon his noble brow, says he isn't again to be wedded. "My grandire looking for a frau. And a dame in silk or cotton er' will be his bridal pet; he would like to be forgotten, but he would like to be remembered. He would have the world forget him, while he's in the present mood; let us labor to alter him in his search for a frau. He would like to be plotting for the crown he used to wear, with his minions nimbly trotting on dark errands here and there, but he would like to be a king. He would like to be a king, and to chronicle his casting when he goes to pay his tax. Let's no longer make a song of the trivial event; if he fires some servant hoar, so that he may save a cent. Let us cease to get excited if we hear about a dame who admits she'd be delighted to assume his storied name. For a Old William longs for quiet, years ago quiet more than fraus, and he's tired of all the riot correspondents who arouse. All the rumors are so rotten that they make him fuss and fret; if he asks to be forgotten, it's our duty to forget. Let us leave him in the splendor of the forest dark and dense, where he breaks a cheap suspender heaving pickets for a fence.

The Hothead.
We labor at the daily grind, each in his worsted fashion and some continue mild and kind, and some are in a passion. Some workmen cannot fix a chair, or ply a saw or chisel, but they begin to sweat and swear and make the language sizzle. They grumble like a house afire, both in and out of season; they're in a walking state of ire that has no cause or reason. And one such deluge will spoil the ardor of the mate, and kill the pep of those who toil at loom or spinning Jenny. The hothead is a total loss, and none admires his capers; we're not astonished when the boss gives him his walking paper. How different the quiet gent! No stormy wrath delays him; he calmly strives to earn the cent that his employer pays him. He sidesteps noise and fuss and strife, he draws his weekly money and gives a nicker to his wife to make her days more sunny. Whatever the tool that he may ply, a corkscrew or a spanner, he wields it with a beaming eye, in most efficient manner. Then comes the boss, some pleasant day, and says, "J. Reuben Smicker, we add nine boxes to your pay, for you're a dandy worker. Your influence is mighty fine, you do no useless wailing; you keep the others boys in line, and harmony's prevailing!"

Agriculture Notes

Agricultural Courses.
State departments of education desiring to introduce agricultural courses of study into elementary schools are taking advantage of the assistance given by federal and state authorities in the preparation of suitable courses. The office of Agricultural Instruction of the United States department of agriculture, in cooperation with the various state departments of education and state agricultural colleges, has prepared outline courses for Ohio, Wisconsin, Maryland, Virginia, Arkansas and North Carolina, and has a similar course under preparation for Oklahoma. The aim of such courses is to assist the teacher of agriculture in presenting the subject matter to the school pupils. They are used as seasonal guides in connection with bulletins and other material now employed in teaching agriculture in the elementary schools.

Each state manual contemplates a two-year course in agricultural instruction. In each case topics are intended to be seasonal, permitting application and observational study; local, adapted to state and community needs; and individual, encouraging personal work. Home project work is introduced wherever feasible, and it is suggested that the pupil carry one plant and one animal project each year.
Mails for Plant Importation.
Decision to allow the use of the mails in the importation of plants and seeds under special permits, registered in 14-5445-27, has been reached by the federal horticultural board of the United States department of agriculture. Heretofore importations of plants for propagation, except field, vegetable and flower seeds, and importations made by the department, were permitted only by express or freight.
Importations made under special permits necessarily are addressed to the board either at Washington, D. C., or at the Ferry Building, San Francisco, Calif., and pass through the inspection offices of the board at these points, where they are inspected and safeguarded by the agents of the board. In view of this, it was believed to be safe and desirable to extend the privilege of importation through the mails to such shipments.
Permission for using the mails in this way will hereafter be authorized on request, when warranted by the nature and amount of the proposed shipment. The importer will be obliged to provide merely for customs clearance either at Washington or San Francisco, in addition to obtaining the permission of the board.
As hitherto, the use of the mails is not authorized for the commercial or other importation under ordinary permits of plants and seeds provided for in regulations 3 and 15 of the quarantine.
Testing Cattle Successful.
That testing cattle for tuberculosis and the cleaning up of infected herds are having a permanent effect in reducing the extent of the disease is shown conclusively by figures recently collected by the United States department of agriculture from inspectors in charge of the eradication work in various parts of the country. The inspectors were asked to supply figures on the results of three or more tests on badly diseased herds, those that had not less than 10 per cent of reactors on the first test. The first test on more than 58,000 cattle in these bad herds showed that 26 per cent had tuberculosis. Another test six months later on the same herds, from which the reactors had been removed, showed only 6.9 per cent of the disease. By another six months the percentage had gone down to 2.8. A fourth test on more than 25,000 of these cattle showed only 1.8 per cent of tuberculosis.

The reports from which these figures were taken show that under normal conditions herds very badly diseased may be established as relatively free in a short time. They also show that eradication work can be carried on without destroying the cattle industry as is sometimes thought. Erratic results were obtained on a very few of the 1922 herds tested, the list of this class containing less than 100. Out of the 126,668 herds under observation December 31, 1922, these were only a very few that had not shown satisfactory improvement as a result of testing.

Not a Political Move.
Sioux City Journal: The Nebraska legislators has done an unheard of thing, at the instance of Gov. McElroy. It is the opinion of the governor that in the middle of the biennium and reduced the appropriations provided by made by the sum of $2,081,750. It is the opinion of the governor that this economy will permit the reduction of the general fund levy 3 1/3 per cent. It is highly unusual and irregular. No. Gov. McKelvin is said to be a candidate for re-election. It does not appear to have been a political performance on his part. Apparently he really wanted to save the state some money.

Wayne Bankers Find Business on Upgrade

Financial conditions around Wayne have been on the upgrade for several months past, and will continue to improve. This statement finds its backing in the views of local bankers who base their conclusions on the improvement in marketing conditions, the steady exchange of money, the period of saving which followed the period of spending and the influence of the markets in various national financial centers.

"The most important change during the month of January," said D. B. Reed, president of the Citizens National Bank, in an interview, "was the change in the psychology of the public mind. The rise in the price of corn although it appears not to be so material in a matter of dollars and cents, has brought encouragement not only to those having corn to dispose of but to the public in general."

A letter recently received by the Citizens National Bank from an investment company stated that they were now in a position to let out plenty of money in farm loans, but that they had no applicants. Liberty bonds are increasing in market value. The lowest quotation on any issue runs a little over $95 and prices vary from this to above par. Such factors show the steady improvement in financial conditions.

It has been noticeable this season at farm sales that very few notes are given in payment of stock. In a sale, closed recently by the Citizens National Bank where the total receipts from the sale amounted to approximately $1,000, only two notes were given and these were for less than $200. Reports from various sales show that in many cases more than three of the accounts are settled for in cash. In any case indications are that people have the actual money or money at the bank.

Rollie W. Ley of the State Bank of Wayne, also emphasized the change in atmosphere as far as exchange of money, banking and marketing are concerned. He said that the improvement in the financial standing of the farmers had been reflected on the sales by merchants of the community and in turn had strengthened the banks. "The volume of goods sold," stated Mr. Ley, "will be equal to the volume sold last year, though not in dollars and cents since goods are not selling at such high prices."

Mr. Ley affirmed that the man who was in a good prosperous business could borrow money now at easier rates of interest. "Everything is on the upgrade. In fact, everything is much better than last year or two years ago. Now is the time to make money. During the last few months the best return a farmer has been getting for his corn is from marketable stock. The farmer who has been living on his produce, saving money and incurring few debts, is well established financially. The farmers who have summarized his view of improved business conditions.

"Prices are getting better." This was the opinion of the interview with H. F. Wilson, president of the First National Bank. The improvement seems to be most evident in the matter of farm sales, which are bringing higher prices than at the beginning of the season.

The three Wayne banks reported no great increase in deposits. They paying payments took money out of town but this decrease will be only temporary as the returns from farm sales will swell the accounts and bring things to a level.

The fact that Wayne people were able to pay $55,000 on payment assessments in districts 3, 4 and 5 and that many property owners paid the assessments in full speaks well of the soundness of Wayne business.

Deserted Wife Now Separated From Baby

The infant daughter of Mrs. Ross Jones who was taken from Wayne county to the state hospital at Norfolk last February, is to be taken to the children's home at Lincoln as the mother is growing worse. The baby is six months old and the hospital authorities fear that if the baby and mother together in hopes that the mother would recover her normal mind.

It will be remembered that Ross Jones living in Wayne county in Wakefield village, deserted his wife and five small children on Feb. 9 of last year. Two letters were received from Mr. Jones following his desertion. One to his wife stated that he was "going to hell," and the other came to the Wakefield of Wakefield, on whose farm Mr. Jones had lived for ten years. The latter letter stated that he was in charge of a large estate and that he was in it Mr. Jones promised to find work and send money to aid his family and meet outstanding obligations. Since then Mr. Jones has not been heard from.

Wayne county authorities took charge of Mrs. Jones and the children. Mrs. Jones was adjudged insane and taken to the state hospital. The children were taken care of by a kind woman who had no other babies were raised for them. At present the two girls, Florence and Inez are at the Christian Home in Council Bluffs. Florence is being educated at expense in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Art Lyman. The oldest child, Herbert, was given a home by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jones, who is the youngest of the family, became a member of the household of County Sheriff Lewis. All the children are very obedient and bright and capable.

The following account of Mrs. Jones' condition is taken from the Norfolk Daily News:

Mrs. Bessie Jones of Wakefield, Neb., was brought to the state hospital here on Feb. 11, 1921. On August she gave birth to a beautiful daughter whom she named "Meoma." State hospital authorities have been giving special attention to the baby in hopes that the mother would recover her normal mind, but the mother has grown worse, and now the baby will be taken to the children's home at Lincoln. Applicants to adopt the baby have called at the hospital but the authorities could not guarantee that the child would be of normal mind, and thus, Meoma, becomes a state charge.

Dr. Charlton, head of the state institution, says that these are only of the most pathetic cases coming to attention. Mrs. Jones is 29 years old and was deserted by her husband. Her mind then became unbalanced. Her four children are being cared for by friends and neighbors. The husband has not been found, the hospital authorities say.

Neville Not in Race.
North Platte, Neb., Feb. 3. (Special.) Neville, chairman of the state democratic committee and former governor, has not filed a fee with the county treasurer of Lincoln county as a candidate for governor in the July primary and neither has he indicated that he was contemplating such a thing. S. E. Souders, county treasurer, announced Neville's spinning circulation throughout the state that Mr. Neville had filed a fee were unfounded so far as he was concerned, the treasurer stated.

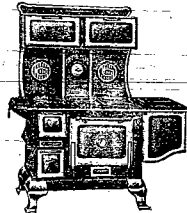

Why Not Keep Cities Clean?
Lincoln Star: The Omaha police department is going to clean up Omaha. Why don't police departments keep cities clean? It seems to be as with housekeeping, despite the best efforts to keep clean, a special spring cleaning seems to be an annual necessity.

Chicago News: Senatorial bodies everywhere view with alarm and as a revolutionary movement aimed at the very foundations of America's free institutions the Texas proposal to abolish the state senate and resort to the unicameral legislative method.

Lincoln Star: Mary Garden hopes to let her own company's deficit down to $500,000 this year, she says. That's pretty good, inasmuch as Mary has never held a government job and is inexperienced in running up deficits.

Has your range started to rust out?

If It Has, Guard Against Rust in the Future by Buying a Copper-Clad

Moisture is the great enemy of iron and steel. Unless protected from dampness any kind of sheet iron and every kind of steel will rust.

Range bodies—with one exception—rust out from the inside because the sweaty asbestos lining is laid flat against the outer wall. With one exception the walls of all ranges are of three-ply construction. They have an inner wall, a layer of asbestos, then the outer wall.

Every time a fire is built in the range, the asbestos sweats and the moisture is forced against the outer wall. If it is only a matter of a few years before the wall is rusted through. Then the range must be scrapped.

The One Exception Is the Copper-Clad

In the Copper-Clad range the outside wall is protected by pure sheet copper. This copper is placed between all asbestos and the range outer wall. When the asbestos sweats in a Copper-Clad the moisture gathers on the Copper—and copper cannot rust.

The Copper-Clad will never rust out. Come in. We will show you that asbestos sweats.

Motor cars owners who will listen to sound advice from the experienced often save themselves much worry and a great deal of cash.

Principle: The idea is one should have a new car every season or two is an extravagance born in the fertile brain of some motor salesman.

If you have a good car that has stood the test of many thousand miles—then you have ONE good reason for keeping that car.

An overhauling during the winter months—cylinders rebored if needed—new piston rings—valves ground—ignition tuned—carbon removed—all oil cases cleaned and refilled—then when spring breaks, the old engine will be humming as of yore and you'll be all ready for another summer of pleasure.

Home Talent Play

The Legion and Auxiliary members of the Lyons Post No. 165 gave an excellent home talent play Wednesday and Saturday evenings at the Thomas G. Jones garage. The four-act comedy-drama, "The Brookdale Farm," will be given again at Beiden Saturday evening under the auspices of the Legion at that place. The play was well received here to see the play Saturday evening and were very much pleased with it. An eight-piece orchestra, under the leadership of W. H. Jones, gave fine support to the evening's entertainment. The proceeds will help pay for the deficit of the Lyons course that is being put on by the Legion boys.

Advice for the Farmer

To the Editor of the World Herald: It seems to me that the time for the farmer politician and agitator to reap his harvest. Farm bureaus, U. S. Grain Growers and what are now being called "farm clubs" are telling the farmer to stick up on the methods of handling grain by the Chicago Board of Trade and the spending of money by the farm bureau. The farmer should be for himself. Keep your money in your pocket until you are sure what is best for you. High salaried men will talk to you until you are as long as your tongue to pay the bills. So be sure you will get your money's worth when you sign the dotted line. R. T. TAYLOR, Jewell, Neb. 1/28/22

Committee Named to Study Tax Question

Lincoln, Feb. 4.—Acting upon a resolution adopted by the state convention of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation, President J. N. Norton of the federation has named a committee to make a study of the entire tax question in Nebraska, as well as the matter of public expenditures.

The committee is composed of H. L. Keefe of Walthill, chairman; C. Y. Thompson of West Point, H. C. Filley of the State Agricultural college, John P. Davis of Geneva, and F. M. Dewese of the farm bureau legal department at Lincoln. This committee, according to farm bureau officials, will take the matter of taxation politically unbiassed and with the determination of making a thorough study of the question and then to make recommendations to the next legislature.

In a statement announcing the appointment of this committee, the Nebraska farm bureau office says: "We do not believe that a better balanced committee to study tax questions and the question of the public expenditures can be gathered together in Nebraska. It was the desire of President Norton to pick a committee of men with views and interests broad enough that the questions can be studied from man unbiased and non-political standpoint."

H. L. Keefe, chairman, is a farmer and lawyer. He was a member of the constitutional convention and was closely identified with tax questions, both at the convention

Governor Expresses Himself on Session

Lincoln Journal.—I am delighted with the work of the special session, said Governor McKelvie Friday. The reduction in appropriations was $2,051,735.65, while the cost of the session was only a little more than $15,000. This will enable the state board of equalization to reduce the general fund appropriation for this year by 1.5 per cent. "While the session in itself is ample to justify the session, the results rendered to the people will be far greater for the well given encouragement to every other unit of government in the state to follow a similar course of retrenchment."

"The ability of the legislature to meet in special session and, in nine days' time, accomplish such a remarkable readjustment and reduction to just one thing—that is the executive budget, which fixes responsibility and centralizes control over expenditures. There is no precedent in this plan of administration was inaugurated in the civil administrative code the soundest principles of business management of the public business were at once observed. Following this illustration of the efficacy of such an administrative plan, we have a right to expect that the desultory and recurring agitation against the will in the future sessions, very little popular encouragement."

"The almost unanimous action of the legislature in reappropriating the capitol building fund—that was the first of the last legislative session to be taken as a thorough endorsement of the progress that has been made with this project up to the present time, and will enable the legislative commission to proceed with this work with sufficient energy to have the project well under way before the end of the session."

Special Session of Legislature Closes

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 2.—The special session of the legislature adjourned at 4:34 p. m. today after three branches had approved the conference report on house roll 1, the reduction of appropriations. A total reduction of $2,051,735 in appropriations made by the regular session of the legislature was approved by the special session of the Nebraska legislature as a result of this measure.

The appropriation of $750,000 for the increase of $100,000 in agricultural extension work by the University of Nebraska is slashed $25,000 in the conference report as is the appropriation for the state superintendent's office is reduced $2,000 on maintenance, besides the $45,000 cut on state aid to schools recommended by the conference. Other items in the budget reduction bill remain as passed by the house, the chairman declared.

Condemnation proceedings against the Union Pacific railroad in Nebraska for the purpose of condemning rights of way necessary for state and federal roads and other property will be brought by the state through the attorney general under resolutions passed by the house and senate of the legislature today. The action revolves around a controversy of counties condemning right of way for road purposes.

Wrecked Warden's Car. Lincoln, Feb. 4.—Joe Close and Lyle E. Johnson, who were taken, shopped out for a test ride in Warden Penton's car at 8:30 p. m. Thursday. They drove west of three miles and on the return when approximately one-half mile west of the prison; they plunged into a ditch. The car was wrecked and the driver a lump on the head but his companion was not injured. Close is night driver for the warden. He reported to the office Friday morning that the garage had been burglarized during the night and the Ford car stolen. The warden called State Sheriff Frank Cook, Deputy Karl Schmitt with him to the garage. The latter saved the garage one look and then declared that the burglary had been made by one possessed of a key. Close had the two year sentence. Martin was convicted in Dixon county of receiving stolen property and sentenced to one to seven years. The warden said that the two men were taken from the two men from an under hinge which could not have been taken without first removing the lock. These three were found inside the garage and the evidence against Close and Martin appeared conclusive. Under rigid questioning, Close weakened and made a full confession.

"The two trustees had been working on the car and after they had finished decided to give it a trial run. Although not permitted to leave the grounds at such hour of night, the took a spin westward. The car skidded on the romp homeward and went smashing into a ditch. One wheel was broken and the new top and body badly shattered.

"The trustees trudged back to prison and on their way decided to fix up the burglary evidence instead of jimmying off the door fastening; they removed the lock, unscrewed their screws and returned the lock to its place. Then they went to bed. The case looked good for them on the surface but was flimsy beneath that surface.

"Close was sent up from Chase county for auto-stealing. He has B. Rice, J. M. Roberts and Arthur served several months of a one to and losing side. The argument against reducing the planting of corn was based on the ground that Nebraska farm is too valuable to allow it to go unplanted at any time. While diversified farming was recommended wherever that is possible, as much corn should be planted this year as ever before, it was contended. Farmers were advised to acquaint themselves with better marketing of livestock rather than the marketing of grain, the Nebraska delegates declaring that corn should be raised primarily because it is needed on the farm to fatten livestock.

"Don't raise corn with the idea of marketing it," one debater said. "Raise it with the intention of feeding it to livestock. The result will be better land, less worry about grain markets and more food for the world's consumption."

Following the debate members of the club put on a burlesque show of Waverly neighborhood life, in which several prominent people were characterized by costume.

At 8 o'clock next Friday evening Prof. Gaines of the University extension bureau will address the club on cooperation among farmers and on questions pertaining to farm bureau work.

Culled From Herald's Exchanges For Week

The morning passenger from Crofton left the track Thursday of last week. The train had just passed the station at Crofton and was crossing a much traveled road crossing the engine was lifted from the rails where the ice and snow had become clogged between the engine and the crossing plank. The baggage car and the passenger coach also cleared the main track. Only two passengers were aboard and attention was kept in any way. The north-bound passenger turned around from Wakefield and went to Emerson for the engine crew. Section men were called from points on the line and after working most of the day they were able to get the train back on track.

Seven thoroughbred Duroc Jersey sows were stolen recently from Nels K. Nelson at Newman Grove. The thieves were discovered and arrested. They had driven the sows from the Nelson yard one night and were seen near the farm of a farm wagon which they had left about half a mile distant. The next day they sold the hogs at Madison. Bloodhounds failed to find the thieves as they were used too late but a wagon had been seen in town late and the owner was arrested on suspicion. He turned over the sows and gave the name of his partner.

Herman Quaslet of Newman Grove was severely cut when he ran his car off of a bridge into a deep ditch during a blinding snow-storm Sunday of last week.

Pierce citizens have voted bonds for a new school building. The election carried by a vote of 304 to 25.

Just H. Story of Pierce has been appointed clerk of Pierce county. Burney Gould of Plainview, has been chosen deputy.

The six-man jury of Aurora has appointed the district court to compel the Public Service company of that city to comply with ordinance which the company was permitted to exceed the ordinance during the war. At the beginning of this year the council requested the light company to give new rate lists, effect had, the company did not seem to comply with the order.

Wausa Gazette: The electric current was off again last Saturday afternoon from about 1:30 to 3 o'clock. It put our motors on the blink and as we had a rush job on had to pump the oil by hand. The engineer Gropper was to give a machine at the Empress and was also on against it. The trouble showed a heavy glow in the engine room. The men had to locate the trouble, finding the line broken near Bloomfield. They went into Bloomfield and sent a telegram to Crofton to get off the current while the repair was made. This was done at about 11 o'clock in the forenoon. As the current continued the men were obliged to drive to Wausa, call the office at Crofton from here and in less than half a minute the order was obeyed. The men thus had to drive back to Bloomfield, make the necessary repairs and then drove to Hartington to where place they were headed again calling Crofton from that point to turn on the juice. Thus we find that Wausa, Bloomfield and Hartington were without current about four hours just because there were no telephone connections from Bloomfield.

Laurel Advocate: Miss Anna M. Children of the Public Health Service of Cedar county, has issued the following with regard to scarlet fever, which is showing up all over the county and which it is of all kinds: "Scarlet fever is a very contagious disease. It is easy to catch but not easy to cure. No child has it in his family physician. It is not in any reason other children should have it. Do not let well children be near the sick child. A child that has scarlet fever suddenly feels usually restless and out of sorts. He usually feels chilly, has a sore throat, and may vomit. A fine red rash appears first on the neck and chest, and spreads over most of the body. If you find these signs, keep your child away from other people. Be sure to call your family physician. The heart, kidneys and ears are often severely affected by scarlet fever. Children who have had scarlet fever should not return to school without the permission of your doctor. Children whose skin is peeling after scarlet fever must not go to school. To keep your children well you must help to keep other people's children well."

Business.
Sioux City Journal: Favorable signs that Europe will be able to add to its financial affairs and assume its place as a producer and purchaser are increasing day by day. In spite of the fact that American exports to Europe fell off in 1921 from $2,000,000,000 over 1920, it can be seen that the recovery of foreign exchange, which is gradual but will change the balance of figures as conditions get back to normal. The British pound sterling is climbing in value. It shows the strength in financial circles also is a foreign exchange unit, and it is well that it is leading the upward movement. For the stanchness of Great Britain's financial resources, the New York bond market at 84.31%, the highest figure sterling has enjoyed since August of 1919.

At home, business affairs are a little better situation. The railroads report that they are receiving heavier offers of freight, which means that better rates are producing business. Further easement of rate conditions, which may be brought about by additional operating cost reductions, reasonably could be expected to stimulate shipments even more. The railroads will get out of their difficulties in time, but must make the most of every opportunity to get after business in an aggressive manner.

Competition in the steel trade is increasing up. Small orders are more frequent in the Pittsburgh district, and some of the independent companies are "working" operations. The leather business is vastly improved, the trade picking up steadily, according to Chicago reports, which say it is much better than it was a year ago. Capital at more attractive rates is being supplied for industrial enterprises, and bank reserves are now higher than at any time since the United States entered the war. Unemployment is no worse than it was a month ago; the department of labor declaring in a statement that it has been decreased one-half in the last four months. Living expenses are not increasing, some indexes are lower quotations, but not so low as to suggest instability of markets. A little better optimism prevails in the agricultural sections, due more to the confidence of farmers in the strength and wisdom of the agricultural bloc in the senate and to the belief that the farm conference at Washington may help the situation, than to material benefits already obtained. Beyond a doubt the darkest days of depression are behind the American people, and that fact is something on which to base plans for the future.
