Wayne Bee Apiaries Promise Good Season

Within a few months the bee colonies of E. Carhart and J. L. Roe will begin the production of another season's supply of honey to meet the growing demand for this food. These Wayne honey producers have great faith in the continuance and increase of the bee industry in this vicinity as evidenced under the highest standards. Though the business is practically in its infancy, Mr. Carhart and Mr. Roe who have taken a serious interest in bee culture for several years, produced between 30,000 and 40,000 pounds of extracted honey during the last season. The greater bulk of the output was disposed of through wholesale dealers. Private shipments were sent out from Wayne to many Nebraska points and to Iowa towns. School consumers patronized the industry.

The two men, in partnership, have 137 colonies, which are located on two Wayne county farms, that of Will Bessman, northeast of Wayne and the old Perry ranch, north of Wayne. Mr. Roe has an apiary of thirty-seven colonies on the farm of Mrs. Will Gamble, south of town and Mr. Carhart has two privately owned apiaries of 211 colonies. They are located on the Hyatt farm southeast of Wayne and on the S. E. Auker place, east of the Wayne County club. During the producing months the owners visit the hives at least once a week. The extracting plant, which both men use, is on the C. E. Carhart residence property in the west part of the city.

During the winter months some of the hives are kept out-of-doors and others are packed away in cellars. The hives which are left in the open during the dormant season are shielded from the cold with tar paper, straw and leaves or are packed in wooden cases, stuffed with planer shavings and covered with chaff. The hives are packed in October or November according to the weather conditions. The boxes have small north openings which permit the bees to escape when spring comes and they become warm enough to fly. The cellar-stored bees are kept in doors from November to April.

Automobile Licenses Bring County Money

So far this year 1,975 automobile licenses have been issued from the office of the county treasurer, with possible other licenses to be issued soon to owners whose cars are in winter storage. Licenses for new cars which will be issued during the year will probably bring the total up to the number for the past few years.

From a comparison of the number of licenses issued this year with the record of the past two years, it is found that just a year ago, 1,600 licenses had been issued, as compared with the 1,975 of this year. The total of 1,921 was approximately 3,000. The total for 1920 was 2,050. Taking the government's census of the county for 1920, which was placed at 11,000, it is estimated that there are approximately 100,000 automobiles in Wayne county for approximately every four persons the last two years.

The county receives an average of $13 for each license issued. This makes a total of approximately $25,675 received so far this year. The state of Nebraska takes three and one-half per cent of this total for the support of the Lincoln office. The remainder is used in maintaining the highways of the county and is divided as follows: Seventy-five per cent to the county state highway fund for general maintenance and twenty-five per cent to the county road drugging fund.

School Men's Meeting Is Decided Success

The second annual meeting of the School Men's club of North Platte, Nebraska, was held at the Wayne State Teachers' college on Friday, February 10. Over fifty schoolmasters were guests of the school for the day. Two sessions were held, one in the afternoon in the auditorium and the other in the evening, in the banquet hall.

In the absence of the president of the club, Supt. O. H. Binson of Oakland, Supt. W. Smith of Wakefield presided over the first session. Supt. R. A. Bixler of Emerson and Supt. H. H. Reimund of Tekamah gave the principal addresses, discussing the present economy program of the schools. The need of a budget system was urged and the sentiment of the company was that some changes were possible. However, in the interest of efficiency, it was deemed unwise to cut salaries until the cost of living had been further reduced. Discussion revealed the fact that contrary to opinion, there is no general movement toward reduction of salaries. The school boards which that appeared in state papers a few days since, declaring for a maximum salary of $70 per month for rural schools, was authoritatively stated not to represent the sentiment of the people or of the school boards of that vicinity.

At the banqueting hour, the men gathered in the canteen, where, after the dinner, a series of toasts were responded to with Supt. J. L. Bessman of North Platte as toastmaster. Dean H. H. Hahn of the State Teachers college, discussed improvement made during the past year in the district supervision. Supt. E. Shively of Wausa, told many amusing incidents in the lives of some of the club members. Supt. R. W. Shively of Wausa, discussed the spiritual rewards of the profession of teaching. Supt. H. H. Reimund urged cooperation with the State Teachers' Association in establishing the office of secretary on a permanent basis. President U. S. Conn said that some of the best schools are a failure and said that if such be the case, the situation is due to lack of a sense of responsibility on the part of the public, not only for the schools but for all the institutions of society. "When people demand better schools, we shall have them."

The schoolmen voted to hold the district declamation contest in Wayne about the first of April. The state department of the Normal for the excellent meal served and the management of the school entertainment. The general feeling among the club members was that a decidedly successful meeting had been held.

Wayne Quintets Win Two Contests Friday

The Wayne high school basket ball team won two games at the opera house on Friday evening, February 10, the Midgets defeating the Norwalks by a score of 23-14 and the first Wayne team defeating Bloomfield high school.

The Midgets won their third victory from the training and practice score of 23-14. The first half resulted in a run-away with the score 20-4 in favor of the Midgets. At the end of the first half the boys were working in excellent form and during this half, each member was able to connect with at least one basket. In the second half the county school squad made a courageous attempt to even up the score. Although not successful in this, they were at least able to hold the Midgets to a minimum of baskets. The five-man defense of the Midgets was hard to enter and compelled Lackey, training school star, to try long baskets. There was much rivalry throughout the game and the enthusiasm sometimes gave way to roughness. This game ended with the Midgets leading, 23-11. This is their eighth straight victory. The following was the line-up during the game: Finn and Kroger, A. Olson and Sund, C. Reed and Stamm, g.

The final game of the evening was between Bloomfield and Wayne. Bloomfield has a team with a good reputation in this part of the state, having lost only one game, previous to the defeat of Friday night. Both teams were going strong throughout the game and the see-sawing of the lead held the attention of a large audience. This Wayne boys had recently slacked its pace. Wayne took the lead with two field goals but Bloomfield was hot on the heels and the first half ended with Bloomfield leading 13-12. Wayne missed many short shots, while Bloomfield, unable to penetrate Wayne's five-man defense, was compelled to attempt long shots. Although Wayne outplayed the visitors in the last half, the boys were unable to make their shots with the count. At one time they were six points in the lead but Bloomfield tied. Anderson and Baimon were their mainstays. When the final whistle blew the locals had captured one of the best games seen in Wayne this season, by a score of 25-21. The following lineup played throughout the game: Peterson and Brainard, A. Sund, J. Rippin and Will, A. Choice of the individual star of the game would be difficult but Sund led

Mr. Harding's Self Effacement. Washington dispatch to the Philadelphia Public Ledger: President Harding's invincible modesty made a deep impression upon the conference, especially our foreign visitors. They saw him there but twice—when he opened it—and when he closed it. His self effacement was an incessant theme of comment among the "statement from abroad." In the countries they come from the presentation of the United States is held to be a national authority the power wielded by any king or emperor, and some of them rather looked for a corresponding parade of it. They found Mr. Harding the most unpretentious of men and admired the smooth running of the conference machinery to the president's systematic non-interference with his designated engineer in chief.

 of 17. For a short time he was employed on trains as a telegraph operator, but was promoted to printer in Illinois and Wisconsin for a number of years. It was in 1881 that he came to Nebraska, and his first job was as a printer in Omaha. For a brief time he was stationed at the old now extinct town of Covington, across the river from Sioux City. He came to Wayne, Neb., in 1887, and had been in the railway agency here from that time until his death with the exception of a few months spent at Omaha where he was sent as train dispatcher in 1887. He did not like this work and wanted to return to Wayne, and the company granted his wishes as soon as possible.

Abraham Lincoln whose birthday anniversary came Sunday radiated to many hearts. People are encouraged and uplifted by contemplating his life. People like to think of the things he stood for and accomplished.

Miners want to maintain wages, while consumers are suffering from high prices. People are threatening to strike on April 1. This blow will be aimed at the operators, though it will, if delivered, strike the public.

There would be fewer towns if early closing could have had the advantage. People are encouraged to deliver automobiles and good roads. Towns were considered feasible ten or twelve miles apart, and in the early days hauling produce over five or six miles to market was deemed a feat. Now a journey of twenty or more miles over good roads is not considered a hardship.

It is said that stock swindling cases involving a total of $140,000,000, have swamped the federal courts. The attorney general makes the cheerful announcement that he will take one judge, working twelve months a year, 1,000,000 cases a month up. He is expected here will have learned enough about wild and injudicious stock investments to steer clear of them in the future and not add to the burdens of the courts.

Wayne's opportunity for growth and development is being taken advantage of. Wayne's banks have been a tower of strength to the town during the late depression. Local business houses have been alert and active. Ten miles of paving have helped materially in extending the trade territory. The town is coming out of the distressing reconstruction period in good shape, and it has the resources to go forward triumphantly. The coming year should be one of unexampled growth.

There promises to be partisan opposition to the treaty which resulted from the late disarmament conference. Such political interests always seek to block a forward step. But the people are not so much interested in party politics as they are interested in progress toward national peace. The new treaty may not be an absolute guarantee of permanent peace, but it is an important step in that direction. It is appreciated, appreciating the senselessness of war, will welcome it as such.

It is reported that Towley, chief belhopper of the Non-Resistant League, expects to soon pitch his tent in Nebraska. He will find that many of his erstwhile satellites, who have been absorbed by the so-called progress party. Whether he will join hands with the new party or work independently, seeking favor and support from those individually sympathetic to his influence in all parties, is not explained. But we think he will be in harmony with the professions of the new party. But if he cannot dominate the party and be the central figure in its evolutions, he will likely

Program - and basket social.
 Feb. 22, at 8 p. m., at school district 146, six miles southwest of Wayne. Everyone cordially invited. Ladies are requested to bring baskets. Anna M. Mueller, teacher.

Mr. Moran was married to Marcelle R. Coyle, Sept. 8, 1885. To the union nine children were born, seven of whom are living. They are: Mrs. A. C. Lantz of Kearney, Mrs. E. J. Hunter of Wayne, Frank Moran of Sioux City, Leona Moran of Thomas, Nebraska, William Moran of Norfolk, and Bonnie Moran of Wayne. Two daughters, Florence and Mildred, died in infancy. The mother of the youngest girl was a severe blow, but the father suffered in silence, unreleased in his duty to those about him, but with the mother's urging, he was reconciled with his wife and her two precious ones who had gone before. Mr. Moran's mother, Mrs. Lily, who made her home with her son, died in the time, passed away here in 1915.

Public Service.
 Mr. Moran came to Wayne soon after the town was organized and he performed an important part in its building and development. All through the succeeding years, he worked toward the betterment and improvement and welfare, jealously, anxiously and helpfully. For twenty years he was a member of the board of trustees of the school, and his parents of the district was manifestly opposed to his mind. One who served with him relates an incident to show the ideal of public duty: He was one of three appointed to inspect a condition which had been reported unsatisfactory in the old district school building. Inspection revealed until he was asked for his opinion. He said, the condition was not as he would not tolerate in his own district. He therefore was appointed to a committee to report on the public school. A remedy followed. That was his idea of duty.

Mr. Moran was a member of the fire department as a member of the city council, and was mayor from 1895 to 1896. His advice was sound and his leadership was ideal. In his dedication of the new depot in Wayne, in December, 1913, he was the principal speaker, and a glimpse of his character was shown to the people through the public to assist by exercise of due care in keeping the property neat and clean.

Mr. Moran was a consistent member of St. Mary's church, member of the Knights of Columbus, of the A. O. U. W., and of the M. W. A. He was a member of the railway order, and of the Order of the Eastern Star. He was a member of the Wayne employees association, and was a leader in the Safety First organization. One who lived near him for thirty years says he was an ideal neighbor. Unselfish helpfulness was emphasized. He reflected fine culture in his home, was a real companion to those who were his friends, and a genial and cordial host. His friendship could be depended on. His word was sufficient proof of what he would do.

Mr. Moran served without ostentation, without grandstanding. He possessed those stalwart virtues that are the basis of all good citizenship. He should be an inspiration to others. He will be remembered with esteem, and the sorrowing family to whom the sympathy of the community is extended, may find comfort in contemplating a life record of highest excellence.

 Spring Style News of Interest to Women

John returned from his eastern buying trip Saturday. The most admired of his purchases are 80 beautiful silk dresses of taffeta, crepe and satin. Everyone who has seen them has been enthusiastic about them and several have already been sold. These dresses were bought for our out of town sales but as these do not commence for a couple of weeks we have the privilege of showing and fitting these garments here until that time.

If you have any idea of buying a silk dress for dance, party or party affairs, you will be highly interested in this fine display. They are the choice styles from several of the best eastern lines. There are styles, colors, materials, and trimmings to suit almost every taste, and best of all, no two are alike. Come now and choose an exclusive style dress for this splendid occasion. If you do not want to take it until March or April we will lay the dress you choose away for you until then. We would like to have every one of our customers who has a new dress in mind to see this unusual collection and make their choice before the garments are sent away for out of town sales.

What of Ready to Wear Styles for spring? Will suits be good? If so, what will they be like? Are the suit jackets to be favored in the same old-fashioned, boxy styles? How long will they be? What of capes? Are they to replace coats, as they did two years ago, or are they just for special occasions? Will coats be long or short length? Will coat materials be tweeds, sport cloths or dressy fabrics? What colors will prevail? How about dresses? Are taffeta silks or crepe silks considered best? What about sleeve lengths and styles? What trimmings are most favored on the dresses? These and many other questions which you are now considering relative to spring styles, have been carefully studied by us for the past three months. As we buy garments to sell in sixty other towns besides our own it is necessary that we find the right answer to these questions ourselves before we start buying on such a scale. We have made two trips to the eastern markets to get into the latest styles and have the opportunity to see what styles were most generally selected by buyers for the ready to wear stores in several of the western states.

We feel sure we have figured out correctly the style problems in ready to wear for the coming season. You can see our answers for all these questions and select over the hundreds of garments that are coming into the store by almost every express.

You can depend on us to have the correct styles for you, and if you come now you can choose your coat or suit from a wonderful selection of all the garments which will be taken out later on for our out of town sales, are now here.

want them—making up the becoming colored gingham and using the prettier styles that are now in the New McCall Pattern "44" original.

"Printing" on a pattern simplifies dressmaking so that even an inexperienced sewer could make up New McCall Pattern 2578, and have the prettiest of the dress pictured above.

Many women always plan to have the bulk of their spring wardrobe done out of the way by the time the "out-of-door" days of March rush upon them.

The twenty-eight days of February are good days in which to whirl the machine and finish many of the things you have in mind for your own and the children's wear.

We have had the new materials you require for this sewing season early, and they are now ready for your selection.

The gingham, muslin, voiles, silks, foulards, tulle, lingerie cloths, etc. are now here in more and better variety than they will be later on. Come now and get the first choice of the materials for your February sewing.

Especially attractive prices prevail on muslins, longcloths, nainsooks, sheetings and white goods which we bought below regular prices at the Chicago buying sales in January.

Our first shipment of Silks, Foulards, Voiles, Organzas and Fine Tissues came in this week. An hour or two spent in looking them over will give you a much better idea of their beauty, fineness and style than we could give you in several columns.

You will enjoy seeing the new fabrics which have come to replace figured voiles of which we have surely had a plenty in the past three years.

You will admire the new patterns in foulards; the dainty weaves and colorings in tissues; the gayly colored organzas and richly woven crepes.

And you'll find planning your spring sewing a much pleasanter task after you have seen these goods and have an idea of what you can get in materials to carry out your style plans.

Our dress goods and silks are La Porte Mills Products, well known among dry goods lines for their excellence in dye, weave and finish, and especially esteemed for their superiority in styles.

We consider it quite an attraction for our store to have the sale of these unusual fabrics.

Convention in Chicago in January.

Shoe retailers from almost every state in the union and also from Canada were present, and in general meetings the question of what shoe styles would prevail this season were discussed at length. On some style ideas there was a pretty general agreement and we have guided our spring buying by these ideas as follows:

Oxfords, especially brown, and strap slippers in heavy leathers (most of them $15) for early spring wear.

Black oxfords, mostly in kid, and a few in leather, and lighter slippers in strap styles will prevail, and these will be mostly black. Patent leather, too, is popular in these styles.

Hot weather of July and August will usher in white footwear in the greatest variety it has ever been shown. What is known as "sport styles" in white goods will have great popularity.

Heels continue low and medium heights on street and every-day footwear, and a lower type of Louis of staped heel on dress footwear.

There is an effort being made to revive grey as a popular footwear color. If it is successful we will have for you.

Patent leather promises to be popular until July at least.

If you place your footwear purchases along these lines you are sure to be in correct style.

Our first shipments are now in and ready for your selection.

The strap slippers have the straps attached in entirely new fashion and they are certainly very dressy and attractive looking. We have had a few of them sent out early for dancing use and expect them next week.

I am going to Chicago next week to buy Waists, Skirts, Dresses, Curtain Sets, Fancy Goods, Neckwear, Ribbons, Hosiery, Underwear and a few other lines of spring merchandise. On this trip I will meet the salesmen for the New York and Philadelphia houses from whom we buy many of these lines.

Abraham Lincoln whose birthday anniversary came Sunday, radiated so many high ideals that people are engaged and uplifted by remembering his life. People like to think of the things he stood for and accomplished.

Miners want to maintain wages, while consumers are suffering from extravagant fuel prices. The miners are fighting to strike. Against this blow will be aimed at the operators, though it will, if delivered, strike the public.

There would be fewer towns if only cities were allowed the advantages of telephones, rural mail delivery, and paved roads. Towns were considered feasible ten or twelve miles apart, and in the early days hauling produce over five or six miles to market was common. Now a journey of twenty or more miles over good roads is not considered a hardship.

It is said that stock swindlers, who have swamped the federal courts, have stolen a grand total of $140,000,000. The attorney general makes the slightest announcement that they would take one judge, working twelve months a year, 1,000,000 tons to clean up the docket. It is estimated that they have stolen about wild and injudicious stock investments to steer clear of them in the future and not add to the burden of the courts.

Wayne's opportunity for growth and increased business this year is being met. Local business houses have been alert and active. Ten miles of paving have helped materially in extending the trade territory. The town is coming out of the distressing reconstruction period in good shape, and it has the resources to go forward triumphantly. The coming year should be one of unexampled growth.

There promises to be partisan opposition to the treaty which resulted from the late disarmament conference. Sufficient political interests always seek to block forward step. But the people are not so much interested in party politics as they are interested in progress toward universal peace. The new treaty may not be an absolute guarantee of permanent peace, but it is an important step in that direction, and the masses appreciating the righteousness of war, will welcome it as such.

It is reported that Tomphey, chief helmsman of the Nebraska League, expects to soon pitch his tent in Nebraska. He will find that many of his erstwhile satellites have been absorbed by the so-called progressive party. Whether he will join hands with the new party or work independently, seeking favor and support from those individuals susceptible to his influence in all parties, is not explained. But we think he will be in harmony with the professions of the new party. But if he cannot dominate the party and be the central figure in its evolutions, he will likely hold aloof and try to reanimate the Nonpartisan League and maintain its identity.

People frequently fall in trying to keep their singular and plural pronouns straight. For instance, the basketball team "is" or "was" in accordance with the mental picture drawn by a writer. If he thinks of the team as a group, he uses "is" or "was"; if he thinks of "were." Some people use singulars and plurals with utmost carelessness, apparently seeking rather to treat the subject impartially than to employ them correctly. As leading scholars disagree on exactly the right usage, the rest of us may be expected to occasionally mislead.

of 17. For a short time he was employed on trains. As a telegraph operator, he held positions at points in Illinois and Wisconsin for many years. It was in 1881 that he came to Nebraska, and his first job was at Oakland. Afterwards for a brief time he was stationed at the old, now extinct town of Covington, across the river from Sioux City. He came to Wayne in August, 1883, and he had been the railway agent here from that time until his death with the exception of a few months spent at Omaha where he was sent as train dispatcher in 1887. He did not like this work and wanted to return to Wayne, and the company granted his wishes as soon as possible.

Mr. Moran was married to Marcela K. Coyle, Sept. 8, 1885. To the union nine children were born, seven, with the father, surviving at all times: Mrs. A. C. Lanz of Kearney, Mrs. E. J. Hunter of Wayne, Francis Moran of Sioux City, Lew, Thomas Moran of Lincoln, William Moran of Norfolk, and Bonnie Moran of Wayne. Two daughters, Florence and Mildred, died in the infancy of their children. The girls was a severe blow, but the father suffered in silence, unreleased in his duty to those about him, but looking forward to a happy reunion with precious ones that had gone before. Mr. Moran's mother, Mrs. Lily, and his father, came with her son much of the time passed away here in 1915.

Public Service.
Mr. Moran came to Wayne soon after the town was founded and he was engaged in an important part in its building and development. All through the succeeding years, from the town's primitive struggling to its present position of advancement and welfare, jealously, anxiously and helpfully. For twenty years he was a member of the school board and an active member of the parents of the district was manifestly uppermost in his mind. One who served with him relates an incident to show the nature of his duty: He was one of three appointed to inspect a condition which had been reported unsanitary in the old ward school building. The committee would be asked for his opinion. He said, the condition was one he would not tolerate in his own home and therefore he would be permitting it to continue in the public school. "A remedy followed. That was his idea of duty."

Mr. Moran served on different times as a member of the city council, and was mayor from 1895 to 1896. His advice was sound and his leadership was safe. At the dedication of the new city hall, December, 1913, he was the principal speaker, and a glimpse of his character was seen in his plea with other public men to exercise the duty of due care in keeping the property neat and clean.

Mr. Moran was a consistent member of St. Mary's church, a member of the Knights of Columbus, of the A. O. U. W. and of the M. W. A. He was a member of the railway orator O. R. T. of the Western Employees association, and was a leader in the Safety First organization.

One who lived near him for thirty years says he had sympathy and help. Unselfish helpfulness was emphasized. He reflected fine culture in his home, was a real companion to members of his family, and had a genial and cordial host. His friendship could be depended on. His word was sufficient proof of what he would do.

Mr. Moran served without ostentation, without grandstanding. He possessed those stalwart virtues that yield value without seeking to excite or be in competition to others. He gave a large debt to his influence and effort. His exemplary integrity, faithfulness, loyalty and industry should be an inspiration to others. He will be remembered with esteem, and the sorrowing family to whom the sympathy of the community is extended, may find comfort in contemplating a life-record of highest excellence.

Spring Style News of Interest to Women

John returned from his eastern buying trip Saturday. The most admired of his purchases are 80 beautiful silk dresses of taffeta, crepe and satin. Everyone who has seen them has been enthusiastic about them and several have already been sold. These dresses were bought for our out of town sales but as these do not commence for a couple of weeks we have the privilege of showing and rolling these garments here until that time.

If you have any idea of buying a silk dress for dance, party or best spring wear, you will be greatly interested in our display.

They are the choice styles from several of the best eastern lines. There are styles, colors, materials and trimmings to suit almost every taste and best of all, two are alike. Come now and choose an exclusive style dress from this splendid assortment. If you do not want to make it until March or April we will lay the dress you choose away for you until then. We would like to have every one of our customers who has a new dress in mind to see this unusual collection and make their choice before the garments are sent away for out of town sales.

What's Ready-to-Wear Styles for spring? Will suits be long? If so, what will they be like? Are the suit jackets to be favored in fitted, semi-fitted or box styles? How long are the skirts? What of capes? Are they to replace coats, as they did two years ago, or are they just for special occasions? Will coats be long or box length? Will coat materials be tweeds, sport cloths or dressy fabrics? What colors will prevail? How about dresses? Are taffeta silks or crepe silks considered best? What about sleeve lengths and styles? What trimmings are most favored on the dresses? These and many other questions which you are now considering relative to spring styles, have been carefully studied by us for the past three months. As we buy garments to sell in sixty other towns besides our own it is necessary that we find the right answer to these questions ourselves before we start buying on such a scale. We have made two trips to the eastern markets to get information on these style questions. John Ahern, who travels west for a leading Cleveland coat and suit house, has had opportunity to see what styles were most generally selected by buyers for the ready to wear stores in several of the western states.

We feel sure we have figured out correctly the style problems in ready to wear for the coming season. You can see our answers if you will come now and look over the hundreds of garments that are coming into the store by almost every express.

You can depend on us to have the correct styles for you, and if you come now you can choose your coat or suit from a wonderful selection as all the garments which will be taken out later on for our out of town sales, are now here.

want them—making up the becoming colored gingham and using the prettier styles that are now in the New McCall Pattern "rice printed". "Printing" on a pattern simplifies dressmaking so that even an inexperienced sewer could make up New McCall Pattern 2579, and have the prettiness of the dress shown in the picture above.

Many women always plan to have the best of their spring sewing done and out of the way by the time the "out-of-door" days of March run upon them.

The twenty-eight days of February are good days in which to whirl the machine and finish many of the things you have in mind for your own and the children's wear.

We have had the new materials you require for this spring sewing exped early, and they are now ready for your selection.

The gingham, tissues, voiles, silks, foulards, sheetings, lingerie cloths, etc. are now here in more and better variety than they will be later on. Come now and get first choice of the materials for your February sewing.

Especially attractive prices prevail on muslins, longcloths, nainsooks, sheetings and white goods which we bought below regular price at the Chicago opening sales in January.

Our first shipment of Silks, Foulards, Voiles, Organs and Fine Tissues came in this week. An hour or two spent in looking them over will give you a much better idea of their beauty, fineness and style than we could give you in several columns.

You will enjoy seeing the new fabrics which have come to replace figured voiles of which we have surely had a plenty in the past three years.

You will admire the new patterns in foulards; the dainty weaves and colorings in tissues; the gayly colored organdies and richly woven crepes.

And you'll find planning your spring sewing a much pleasanter task after you have seen these goods and have an idea of what you can get in materials to carry out your style plans.

Our dress goods and silks are La Porte Mills Products; we know among dry goods lines for their excellence in dye, weave and finish, and especially esteemed for their superiority in style.

We consider it quite an attraction for our store to have the sale of these unusual fabrics.

Are you wondering what to buy in the way of spring footwear? Of course, style is a big attraction in ladies' shoes and will continue to be because skirts are no longer so long and the shoes are so neat and attractive when it is left thus conspicuous.

You will be interested in the following style information on footwear for the coming season which I got at the National Shoe

Convention in Chicago in January.

Shoe retailers from almost every state in the union and also from Canada were present, and in general meetings the question of what shoe styles would prevail this season were discussed at length. On some style ideas there was a pretty general agreement and we have guided our spring buying by these ideas as follows:

Oxfords, especially brown, and strap slippers in heavy leathers (most brown also) for early spring wear.

Black oxfords, mostly in kid, and a few patents will hold second place.

Later on, 4p May and June, lighter slippers in strap styles will prevail, and these will be mostly black. Patent leather, too, is popular in these styles.

High quarters of July and August will usher in the footwear in the greatest variety it has ever been shown. What is known as sport styles in white goods will have great popularity.

Heels continue low and medium heights on street and every-day footwear, and a lower type of Louis or shaped heel on dress footwear.

There is an effort being made to revive grey as a popular footwear color. If it is successful we will have it for you.

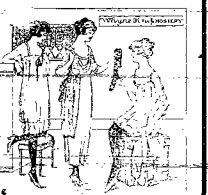

Patent leather promises to be popular until July at least.

If you place your footwear purchases along these lines you are sure to be in correct style.

The new brown oxfords are cut on new lasts and trimmed in new ways that will distinguish them from the fall and winter styles.

The first shipments are now in and ready for your selection.

The strap slippers have the straps attached in entirely new fashion and they are certainly very dressy and attractive looking. We have had a few of them sent out early for dancing use and expect them next week.

Local Author Has New Book on Market

Prof. O. R. Bowen, member of the faculty of the State Teachers' college, is the author of a new school textbook, "The Government of Nebraska," which is now in the printer's hands, and which will be ready for the market March 1. The work is being published by the enterprising local firm of F. H. Jones & Son.

Fixing over the state constitution a few years ago created a demand for a new school textbook, and it has been amply met in the volume carefully prepared by Mr. Bowen. So many changes have been made in the constitution and laws of the state that textbooks hitherto in use have become obsolete. It is understood Mr. Bowen will have the first issue of the book in the market in the state, and sales will naturally follow in quick succession. Mr. Bowen and his publishers, F. H. Jones & Son, are to be congratulated.

Business

Sioux City market. Business generally has changed but lately recently, although factors that are bound to contribute to improvement are gaining strength day by day. The influence of these agencies will make itself felt sooner or later, for it is quite impossible for commodities to command both a high price and a stronger demand without affecting in turn the buying attitude of those who sell. It requires time, of course, for the present market conditions when profit returns are safely disposed of on the right side of the ledger they exert a powerful influence on trade.

Sioux City is now furnishing some splendid examples of improvement in the live stock markets. Prices are higher and the demand is strong, owing to scarcity both at home and abroad. Hogs were near the $10 mark last Friday and offerings were accepted without hesitation. It is definitely to be remarked that the hog market is quick everywhere throughout the country, due, it is explained, to European demand that recently has increased. Hogs, it is shown here, have advanced $7 within less than three months in spite of the fact that the general impression that they would decline. As this is a gain of approximately 50 per cent, the latter profit of nearly $200,000 now goes to swell the pocketbooks of feeders tributary to Sioux City, who, within five days, disposed of hogs at a sale price of close to $11,000,000. Another feature attending the improvement in the hog market is the higher price for the farmers' corn when sold on the hoof. It is estimated that the present price for hogs, corn fed to them for fattening is bringing more

Protected Linings

You know the disadvantage and expense of "burnt out" linings. Note the air space back of Majestic linings, which adds about 100 per cent to their life. Then, too, Majestic linings are so much heavier than cheap range linings that it is ridiculous to compare them. If possible, weigh them and see for yourself.

Come in early this week—look the great Majestic over carefully. Take advantage of the present exceptionally low price—get the complete set of cooking ware free.

It is certainly decidedly profitable to buy your cooking range now. At the Great Majestic range demonstration at W. A. Hiscox's this week, a fine complete set of cooking ware is being given away free to every person who buys a Great Majestic range. The ranges themselves, you will be interested to know, are being sold at very attractive prices. 1511.

A fire in the night team's workshop about 11 o'clock Wednesday evening of last week, caused slight damage. The alarm was turned in from the New York company, and the firemen were called out. The fire began in some old papers belonging to Sam Davies and it was extinguished before any damage was done, except to one wall of the building. The cause of the blaze was unknown. The building belongs to the H. A. Preston company.

Those who are attending the Great Majestic range demonstration at W. A. Hiscox's this week are particularly impressed with the beauty of this range. The finish on the doors and splashed backs of the ranges is exciting admiration. The lustrous finish of the cooking top easily is retained—they are burnished deep lasting blue that never requires blacking. It is easy to see that these ranges are very easy to keep spotless and span. Though these ranges are being sold at a very attractive price, every purchaser of a Great Majestic range is given a beautiful, substantial and complete set of cooking ware, absolutely free, during the demonstration. 1511.

The Early Days in Two Counties

From the Wayne Herald for February 20, 1902:

Unquestionably there were many more valentines sent through the Wayne postoffice this year than ever before.

Charles Burbank has decided to open a meat market at Hoaksin where he will also engage in the stock buying business.

The Citizens Bank of Wayne has organized a bank at Fairfax, S. D., with Gilbert French as president, and W. E. Tucker as cashier.

James Elliott, who had been in the employ of Wm. Pfeinstock for a number of years, has sold his residence here and will soon move to Oklahoma.

Dr. J. J. Williams is raising the quarantines south and southwest of Wayne as fast as it is possible to fence as the smaller rodents there are about all past the danger point.

Among those who attended the opera, "Chaperon," at Sioux City were: Messrs. McManes, B. E. Swan and F. G. Philoe, Misses Clara Philoe, Nettie Craven and Maude Brittain.

W. S. Ebersole of Wakefield, has been in Wayne looking for recruits for the Third regiment band? He is one of Dixon county's enthusiastic male quartet singers that have taken a prominent part in political campaigns for the last ten years. He is also the most eloquent tariff discussor who ever pounded a desk.

Prof. Snodgrass has put in a small wireless telegraphy machine at the high school, which upon trial worked perfectly from room to room.

The Majestic range exhibition at E. P. Olmstead's the past week, resulted in the sale of twenty ranges, which indicates that ranges are in demand and that the old fashioned cook stove must go.

A silver medal contest was given under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. Those appearing in the young ladies' contest were: Ethel Edgerton, Maude Grothe, Mable Young and Grace True. The medal was awarded to Miss Ethel Edgerton who spoke, "Swore Off."

The children who competed for the prize were: Hazel Norton, Raymond Duerig, Marie and Gladys Donnell, Florence Love and Elnora Young.

Marie Donnell won the prize on the recitation, "Not Fit to Be Kissed." Special music was furnished by a trio composed of Edna Bush, Edith Stinson and Daisy Gamble. A. R. Davis in a few well chosen words presented the medals to the winners.

From Ponca Journal, Feb. 9, 1882: "By the great satisfaction of all good people, the news has come that Guitau, the despicable miscreant who murdered President Garfield has been convicted. The trial of Guitau was commenced in the criminal court at Washington about ten weeks ago, before Judge Cox. The proof was so convincing that the president, when the chapter of Guitau's former life was opened, it was found that he had always been the vilest of dogs.

To assume that a man who has spent years at one trade is better able to do that one thing than some one who does several different things.

Therefore:

We think we are better qualified to take measurements for clothes; to get you a perfect fit, than the average man who has other duties along with the measuring business.

Our measure-to-order work is done by a master tailor who has made clothing himself for many years. He knows how to fit a garment and not only that but we guarantee it to fit. So why not eliminate the chance of a misfit and have the work done right.

UNCLE WALT
The Poet Philosopher.

Neighbors.

When Fitzjack's auto ran me down, and spoiled my Sunday hat, and centered Smith and Jones and Brown, and bore me to my list, and made from all over town around my bedside sat. They deftly fanned my fevered brow, and fed me wieners' sauce, and borrowed milk from someone's cow, to stay my rising thirst; when I recall their kindness, now the salt tears from me burst. We meet our neighbors by the way, and criticize them all; we don't approve of yonder Jay, because he is too tall; another's whiskers look like hay, and to his midriff fall. One's feet are splayed, and Smith is ankles and his knees? And Greg got a group of bones in hand, and down arroyed. Brown talks in harsh and nasal tones that keep our nerves all a-frazzle. Their pants are patched on knee and shin, and ankles are a-squash as fat, and legs; and our legs and ears, and spoil a heaved a woe. I wonder why this priceless hat, our neighbors show that they are dears, and doubly dears, at that. They gather round the martyr's bed and feed him chick-soup; and they alay his feet and dread that he may loop the loop, and if at last they find he's dead, they plant him with a whoop.

Poor Human Nature.

It's human nature, I suppose, to comfort find in others' woes. When rheumatic, with tireless vim, assails my rubbering dog thereon, and raising Ned from dark till dawn, I'm cheered by hurring news from my legs. No there I murmur and repine; he has a fierce dose than mine. This Greg's a good and loyal fellow, and I am sure me favor without end; and gladly, gaily, I'd respond; Then why do I rejoice to know that Greg can duplicate my woe, and show a surplus of disease in both his ankles and his knees? And Greg confessed to me, one time, that he had done a hundred crimes. He had lumbago in his back, and sat conneres explaining in his shack, consuming and pills and other dope, all shown of confidence and hope. His grief obliged him till he knew I had him; he bago and the flu; two fell diseases in my frame, and ready to give up the game. The tilters braced him for while; he gave three cheers and a heaved a woe. I wonder why this priceless hat, our neighbors show that they are dears, and doubly dears, at that. They gather round to spare. Our human nature's a surprise, and hard to parse and analyze.

Vitamines.

Another great and helpful fad enchains the sons of men; eat cocklebur if you feel bad, and you'll be well again. For bugs are full of vitamins—whatever they may be—and from all symptoms and all signs of ill they'll set you free. Cocklebur victuals are the stuff, it's clear, that sends us to the tomb, that fits us for the shroud and-bier, while in our mouthful bloom; Roggs best is but a deadly snare, and pies are like a gin; shun the accustomed bill of fare, for death's concealed therein. Raw grub is full of vitamins, and that's why cattle grow, and why the horses hump their spines, kick up their heels and go. Most men languish now, and sport to keep them at their toil, but when they've eaten cocklebur they fairly paw the soil. I fed my aunt some cocklebur to see what it would do; there never was such smoke at her's, as round the house she flew. I wonder that our fathers started on this old earth so long, for all their customs were deposed, and their theories wrong. They never heard of vitamins, and yet, wrong-headed men, they never would take in their signs till three score years and ten.

This Vale of Tears.

There is no country here below that can't produce some brand of woe. I've traveled all the world around to find some hollow in the ground where one could dig a rutline, and cry aloud, "This is my country's life!" I've lived where it is always spring and birds are ever on the wing, and I would not recognize no time to die. I pitched my tent beside the sea and watched the billows wild and free, and thought that I had found a place designed to soothe the human race. And then I saw a fog-bank creep from out the reaches of the deep; the fog was gray and dank and cold as clammy as the graveyard mold; it soaked into my bones and thews, and filled my organs and my shoes, and rheumatism climbed my frame and broke my neck and left me lame. I built myself a little shack upon a mountain's rocky back; and there the air was pure and sweet, the view was fine and broad. But there large rats their council held, and all night long the bobcats yelled, and nameless varmints roared their denials; and the wind from China blew. If one's inclined to tear his hair, he'll gather lemons everywhere; he'll find no place beneath the sun where grief and sorrow do not run. Contentment like a thimble, tree, will grow wherever you may be, if you don't rake around to find some sorrows to disturb your mind.

The Misfits.

In my tall-looking chair I sit, and think about the humor they have seldom 'tis a man will fit just right in his appointed place! I see the failures drifting by, the men who've fought their fight and lost, they view their records with a sigh, and know the future is a frost. You fail ure tinkers at the law, and finds the statistics are a bore; why did he such a lesson draw? He's built to run corner store. Oh, he'd be happy selling quarts of vinegar, all fleeced with foam; but he is doomed to talk of torts and leases till the cows come home. He'd wrap salt codfish in a poke, and weight out prunes with glee and vim; then why did fate spring such a joke, and make a lawyer out of him? And yonder grocer, selling saw and pickled figs and potted steers—he has a talent for the law, he make try next time, to learn. In dreams he argues in a court, and hears astonished people say, "Dan Webster seems a fitborn sport compared with this fellow's talk; he hates to labor in a store, and sell old cheese and marmalade, and so he makes his patrons sore, and every day he loses trade. Why did he go to law, if all men might do the things they most desire, if every author had a pen, and every poet had a lyre?"

In Its Place.

I like to hear a great inspired push language through his face; of eloquence I don't grow tired—on in its proper place; I like to sit in grid ease in some well-lighted hall and hear a new Demosthenes make straw men wilt and fall. But when I go to buy a goose at Johnson's Poultry Store, it jars me if a clerk turns loose a loud impassioned roar. He may be right, this much I feel—in buying up his howl but in to hear there to hear his spiel; I'm there to buy a fowl. I hire a man to build a fence, and he declaims all day; his arguments are a waste of time, and range from grave to grave. He's paid affairs of state, he knows their ins and outs, he seems to have his legs straight, and how by horse by spouts. But he is hired to build a fence, and though he sheds new light upon the whiteness of the whence, I don't care for his words, and his orators around, they're keen to show their curves, they fill the air with scrident sound that gets upon our nerves. When a bank is being met, in alleys or in parks, there's sure to be some tiresome beat who'd make a few remarks. I'm fond of eloquence, I say, and much any boy; I'm glad to list to William or J. H. Cicero. But there's a time for sounding brass and tinkling tambourines, and there's a time for moving grass and threshing stines; less beans.

This offering does not differ from the many great offerings made from the Wagner herd in the past. It is an offering of the richest of good breeding. The Wagner sales are always attractive but never more so than at this time when the feature is the sows bred to Peter Paul. He is on top of the hog world and his name is a household word. All these sows will sell to one of the breed's greatest prospects and you will have a litter that will come up to your expectations. See Peter Paul February 17. And Now Let's All Pull Together For a Bigger and Better Nebraska

Sensing a NEW NOTE in the air of Nebraska, The Omaha Bee about two weeks ago sent Paul Greer, The Bee expert in farm economics, to cover the state and report his findings through staff articles in The Omaha Bee.

The Greer series constituted perhaps the greatest newspaper series in the history of the state. Greer found conditions better than even the most optimistic had thought them to be. The Nebraska farmer with characteristic courage and industry had already hewed his way to better times, UNTIL ONLY THE SHELL REMAINED TO BE BROKEN THROUGH. Greer, through The Bee series—cracked the shell and awoke Nebraska to a realization of the prosperity that is at hand.

Such great newspapers as The Chicago Tribune, New York Times and Boston Transcript reproduced many of the Greer series simultaneously with The Omaha Bee, and did much to set Nebraska right with the world.

Only the Calamity Propagandist remains now to be overcome—he who for political or other purposes is willing to depress business, the prices of farm products, and even land values themselves. But even the Calamity Propagandist cannot long survive returning prosperity in Nebraska.

For Nebraskans—it's just a question of "pulling together." Let each employer pull with his employes and each employe with his employer. Let the seller keep faith with the buyer, and let the buyer not "lay down" on the seller. Let each member pull with his organization and each organization with its rival organizations.

Let's do all of this "with malice toward none and charity for all"—FOR A BIGGER AND BETTER NEBRASKA AND for an ARMISTICE of the CONSEQUENCES of the World War.

Agriculture Notes

1921 Road Projects.

Eleven thousand nine hundred and thirty miles of Federal roads were constructed under the joint supervision of the federal government and the states during 1921, according to reports of the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture. Federal money amounting to $94,057,089 was allotted to these roads, the total cost of which was $231,963,882. In this mileage there is included 8,895 miles in projects wholly completed and the equivalent of 3,335 miles of work done on projects which are not wholly completed. Every state shared in the benefits of this work.

The projects under way during the year amounted to 31,222 miles which was about one-half of all the road work carried on in the United States during the year. A fair idea of the magnitude of the road work done under the supervision of the department of agriculture last year may be gained when it is understood that the total mileage is considerably more than enough to encircle the earth, that it is equal to more than 10 per cent of all the improved roads previously existing in the United States, and that it is equal to nearly 3 per cent of the entire road system of France. At this rate we would be able to build the equivalent of France's road system in twelve years.

Watermelons and Seeds.
In its studies of the control of watermelon diseases the United States department of agriculture has found that there are numerous uses for watermelons outside of their consumption as a popular fruit. Housewives have long been familiar with pickles and preserve made from watermelon rind. In China and other oriental countries watermelon seeds are used as a table delicacy. Seeds in this country not only ship seed for this purpose, but also find a market for their product in the Chinese districts of New York and San Francisco. This liking for the seed is evidently not restricted to the Orient, for some years ago, a well known explorer reported that African tribes that sharpened the teeth in order to better strip the hulls from watermelon seeds. With a recent year a firm in Alabama has undertaken to manufacture vinegar from the juice, and from Russia come reports that during the past few years of hardship concentrated watermelon juice has been used in place of sugar to sweeten coffee.

The production of watermelon seed is an industry by itself. In a single county in Florida approximately 7,000 acres of watermelons are grown annually for seed purposes. This one section supplies a great portion of the watermelon seed planted in the United States, and on occasion also ships to foreign planters. In recent years shipments of seed for planting have been made to Tarsus, Asia Minor, to China, and other far distant points.
During past years profits in our southern watermelon industry have been severely cut, due to the effect of several destructive diseases. Anthrax, a fungous disease of the foliage and fruit means reduced yield and pock-marked melons that rot in the field and in the freight car. Stem-rot is a trouble that occurs in transit only, and originates with infection of the melon by a causal organism at the cut stem. Anthracnose is controlled by spraying the vines; stem-rot by practice of field sanitation and stem treatment. Plans are being made by the department of agriculture to assist growers, distributors, and carriers in the proper application of disease-control measures, during the coming season.

To Fight Prohibition

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 14.—Opposition to an anti-prohibition campaign in Nebraska is about to be undertaken by the National Association Opposed to Prohibition, according to Sidney G. Legg, its field secretary, who is in Omaha.

"We will organize a branch of our association in Nebraska," said Mr. Legg, "and will participate actively in the congressional primary and election. We propose—in fact we will demand—that every candidate for congress make known his position on this issue. We believe that public opinion has now reached the point where it will support our views."

The association, Mr. Legg declared, is not in favor of the restoration of the saloon. It favors 2 to 4 percent bears and 12 per cent vinous liquors.

University Girls Don't Smoke

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 14.—Cigarette smoking is not prevalent among University of Nebraska coeds. Miss Amanda Hennepfer, dean of women, said last evening, "It does not exist at all, unless by stealth so far as I know." Miss Hennepfer continued, "and if it should, drastic steps will be taken to stop it. The girls here not only among the faculty, but among the students themselves is that smoking by girl students is absolutely and to be condoned."

Miss Hennepfer said at the meeting yesterday with chaperones of the different sorority houses the question came up and the chaperones pledged their efforts to prevent smoking.

Wheat Prices Take Big Jump Monday

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Wheat prices jumped as much as 6 1/2 cents a bushel today at the opening of the Board of Trade. The reason was a sensational advance in Liverpool and other foreign market centers, while United States Exchanges were closed during yesterday's holiday. May delivery, the most active trading option here, opened at $1.37 to $1.39 1/2 as against $1.33 to $1.33 1/2 at the finish on Saturday.

Dealing in Chicago took on large proportions as soon as the market opened. The prevailing view seemed to be that the extraordinary rise in morning in an uncomfortable position and it was the attempt to extricate themselves without further losses that forced prices here sharply upward. When demand from this source had been nearly satisfied, the market reacted sharply.

Speculators who had sold wheat on the assumption that a normal yield of winter wheat in this country was to be expected found themselves this morning in an uncomfortable position and it was the attempt to extricate themselves without further losses that forced prices here sharply upward. When demand from this source had been nearly satisfied, the market reacted sharply.

A good deal of the selling on the initial stages in the wheat market here was said to come from interests that had bought at Winnipeg yesterday while the advance there was in its early stages.

Fire-Destroya Crowell Elevator.

The only remains of the big elevator of the Crowell Grain company, located north of the depot, are smoldering ashes and a few blackened timbers. The total destruction of the elevator with 15,000 bushels of grain occurred early last Thursday morning. The estimated loss from the building is $20,000. Insurance representatives have been in Wakefield this week and the claims will soon be adjusted. The company will probably erect a new elevator on the same spot.

The blaze which wrecked the elevator was discovered at 11 o'clock last night when Adam Mader, night watchman, when flames burst through the top of the building as if an explosion had occurred. The Wakefield firemen responded to the alarm but the company does not possess enough hose to reach the elevator which was situated top tier from a water hydrant. The Emerson department was summoned as the firemen wanted to make all effort to save the adjoining buildings of the company. Fortunately the wind was blowing in such a direction that by covering the wooden roofs of the adjacent buildings with snow, their destruction was avoided. Adam Mader, one of the Emerson company, advised it was found that the couplings used with their hose would not fit onto the Wakefield hydrant. When this was ascertained a loss of more time in sending for the Wayne firemen who speedily responded with extra hose which was used in saving nearby coal storage buildings. The blaze of the fire was so great that the country for miles around and the immediate Wakefield vicinity was made as bright as day.

The Majestic Stoves sold in this county twenty years ago are still in use, and giving good satisfaction. Figured by the length of service, the cost per year is indeed very little.

MURDERED MOVIE DIRECTOR HAD DAUGHTER

The murder of William Desmond Taylor, director at Famous Players-Lasky movie studios, at his home in Hollywood, Calif., brought to light a hidden chapter in his life. He had been married in 1901 and was the father of a 12-year-old daughter who now lives with her divorced mother in New York. The shooting of Taylor has brought many prominent movie stars into the limelight. Pictures are of Taylor, the wife who divorced him and who is now Mrs. E. L. Robbins, and his daughter.
