E. Anderson, statistician for the bureau of markets and crop estimates.

The present wheat condition, 80 per cent which is 13 per cent below last year and 5 per cent below the ten-year average, forecasts a production of 61,100,000 bushels. The bulk of the crop has not yet progressed than one would ordinarily expect under the dry, unfavorable autumn and winter weather, and further improvement is possible under favorable condition.

Abandonment is Expected.
The present condition of the wheat crop in the western third of the state is generally very satisfactory but west of here and particularly in south central Nebraska, the crop is starting out with the disadvantage of being late and in a weakened condition and with little reserve soil moisture. The chance for the crop to recover depends largely upon such weather conditions as will favor tillering and give the thinned stands an advance start in the spring. In the western wheat counties in western Nebraska were still short of moisture and the condition is not promising. An estimate of the abandonment will be made next month.

The condition of the crop is 85 per cent as compared to 88 per cent last December and the average of 91 per cent for this date. A possible production of 1,228,000 bushels is forecasted by this condition. The final estimate last year was 1,714,000 bushels.

Breed Sows Increase.
The number of brood sows has increased 10 per cent over the previous year. The state census placed at 724,000 head as compared to 667,000 last year. The present crop reserves and the relative prices of corn and wheat during the winter winter seems to have given considerable stimulus to swine production. Reports on the litters to date vary from seven to twelve, to highly satisfactory results.

The farm labor supply is 102 per cent as compared to last year and 108 per cent as compared to the normal supply. The present labor demand is 91 per cent as compared to last year and 91 per cent as compared to the normal demand.

Correspondence toward the elimination of hired farm labor as far as practical. The relation of farm-labor supply to the demand is 82 per cent as compared to 114 per cent last year and 74 per cent two years ago.

Estimates for the United States for this winter: Winter wheat condition, 78.4 per cent as compared to 79 per cent last December, 91 per cent a year ago and the ten year average of 84.8 per cent. The present condition forecasts a crop of 572,974,000 bushels as compared to the final estimate last year of 567,022,000 bushels. The reduction of yield is 89 per cent and the indicated crop 69,873,000 bushels as compared to 57,818,000 bushels the final estimate last year.

No Ground for Stories.
Lincoln, Neb., April 12.—Leader Mondell denounces broadcasters of stories of friction between the house and the president. There is the utmost harmony between the two branches of the government. They disagree over the bonus bill, it is true, and the house has kicked a hole in the president's revenue bill, and it refused to pass the kind of debt refunding measure he wanted, and it gave him 65,000 fewer soldiers for the army than he asked for. But otherwise all is harmony.

permitting an English lady to walk a tight wire stretched over the falls. The general manager of the Ontario Safety League comments on the mayor's ruling, while John L. Soules of Wayne, writes a letter of protest, and it is published in a Niagara Falls newspaper. Wayne's John, who is the only survivor to swim Niagara, feels that the mayor's action is an infringement on personal liberty, and wishes to see the Niagara Safety League intimates that the Wayne man is going a long way from home to regulate public policies, and thinks he would stick to his own state anyway. On the other hand, Soules, having triumphed over the Niagara falls a sort of prior and superior right which when the mayor must respect.

April Report From Bureau of Markets

Lincoln, Neb., April 10.—A winter wheat condition of 80 per cent which is below the average for this date, a yield condition of 85 per cent, a substantial increase in number of brood sows and the farm labor supply generally exceeding the demand for the leading statements of the April crop report released today by Leo Stuhr, secretary of the Nebraska department of agriculture, and E. Anderson, statistician for the bureau of markets and crop estimates.

The present wheat condition, 80 per cent which is 13 per cent below last year and 5 per cent below the ten-year average, forecasts a production of 61,100,000 bushels. No Ground for Stories.
Lincoln, Neb., April 12.—Leader Mondell denounces broadcasters of stories of friction between the house and the president. There is the utmost harmony between the two branches of the government. They disagree over the bonus bill, it is true, and the house has kicked a hole in the president's revenue bill, and it refused to pass the kind of debt refunding measure he wanted, and it gave him 65,000 fewer soldiers for the army than he asked for. But otherwise all is harmony.

Why You Should Use a National Vacuum Washer?
Because: It washes much quicker; does it much cleaner and with a great deal less work to the operator.
Why Does It Wash Quicker?
Because: The rapid action of the dasher driving the hot water and suds through the soiled clothes forces the dirt out. The agitation of the hot water makes the dirt respond immediately. Two to six minutes will remove the dirt from any fabric that can be cleaned with soap and water.

One advantage in using the radio, phone, it is not necessary to send a crew of men out to repair wires after a storm.

Since the weather this week has not been auspicious for general cleaning up of premises, we assume that the city health department authorities to extend the clean-up business another week.

President Harding's summary dismissal of a bunch of employes in the bureau of printing and engraving has caused a storm of criticism, but the action is defended on the basis of efficiency and economy, and the public will endorse his course.

The Kansas City Star was a little skeptical about the story of the Patagonian pleistocene when the first report was that it had been 75,000, 100,000 years ago. Since the report has been modified to read that the monster lived only 25,000,000 years ago, the Star is inclined to believe it.

The world war cost not only the direct personal sacrifices of soldiers and sailors and many billions in money and the loss and ruin of many millions of people far back from the firing line. Many nervous systems were wrecked. All were exposed to a high nervous tension which has frequently caused abnormal thinking and abnormal actions. Pre-war balance is gradually coming back and with it more sane and more consistent conduct.

The revelation at Pilger which has been charged with aiding the delinquency of children, is as amazing as it is revolting. The superintendent was so high in the regard of the public as to be selected as an increased salary. It seems under a covering of tranquility, fires of corruption, and a burning, and a prosecution follow, while the board and populace gasp in astonishment and righteous horror. The school is not a fountain of knowledge, but it must be an exemplar of highest standards of morals and ethics. When instructors fail by precept or example to include the principles for character development, society is seriously menaced. The Pilger case stands as a warning to all those who would have their children protected and strengthened in rectitude and integrity rather than led astray and imperilled by suggestions and sins of depravity.

It appears that Laurel has a Ford, and Henry, it seems that Mr. Ford has a grocery store at Laurel, and that he has written the Omaha Trade Exhibit, published in the name of merchandising, a letter of protest against those who are not regularly in business in Laurel, but who sell potatoes there. He makes similar objections to people who are not in business in a lot of places or apples or other fruit to sell. The Trade Exhibit makes a few suggestions. It advises local dealers bring in a crop of potatoes and sell them in competition with all comers. It also suggests advertising as an effective means of reaching the consumer. It is to be assumed, however, that Mr. Ford is a regular and consistent user of newspaper space to push business and meet competition. It should be noted that the Trade Exhibit sagely advises merchants to meet all kinds of competition by attracting the attention and winning the patronage of the consuming public, evidently not believing in the idea of opening to close to buyers and prevent purchases. People are in no mood to be restricted in a choice of buying opportunities. A dealer who commodities as well as any one else, and legal barriers cannot be employed to take the place of individual initiative and intelligent and persistent advertising.

Business.
Sioux City Journal: The steady improvement in business conditions continues, in spite of the various strikes now in progress, and, it is noted, would be more marked had it for the labor troubles. The textile strike alone is now declared to have ended last month's export-toll, which also was affected by the picketing house employes' strike earlier in the season. So far, the coal miners' walkout has not affected business directly, but is bound to do so later, as it is long drawn-out. Millions of dollars worth of export business has been lost because of the strikes and at a time when government officials were urging aggressive campaigns abroad. The department of commerce, with more than 600 representatives at work in the field, is making almost daily surveys of the foreign markets for the benefit of exporters and urging increased activity in selling.

The coal miners' strike at Pittsburg that various steel companies there are now operating at 35 per cent capacity is a development of the week. The United States Steel corporation and many independent companies are responsible for the announcement. Some of their departments are operating on full time with full forces. Fuel supplies are declared to be ample, so there is little danger of the coal miners' strike affecting the output of these basic industries which are contributing to the upturn by supplying materials to railroads and building operations.

In the middle west there have been developments indicating improvement. Some sections report the biggest wholesale and jobbing trade of the year, with dry goods and notions moving well and general merchandise showing some improvement over that of a year ago. The prices of agricultural products, notably live stock, are holding their own, good figures for top hogs and lambs encouraging the farmers of the rich corn belt states hardest hit by the deep quotations of last fall. Grain also is selling at good prices, with the usual fluctuations and considerable movement.

The price of wheat has been beat down on heavy transactions of a size and a volume to encourage the financial interests, and, subsequently, the rest of the country. The heavy transactions have topped 1,000,000 shares for nearly a week. Bonds are buoyantly active, many of the offerings being those of foreign governments, which may be taken as an encouragement that it indicates heroic efforts abroad to reestablish financial strength that has been ruined in increased trading. Railroad stocks continue to follow the upward trend. Government bonds, particularly Liberties, are in demand with still higher records set.

Business is now waiting to see what congress will do with the tariff. Schedules, of course, will affect all industries in all lines, and until more information is available, certain plans cannot be made. Employment figures as announced officially at Washington are taken as a further indication of improvement generally. Dan's believes the movement toward might be even more rapid but for the more effect of the realization that inflation is dangerous, wherefore a slow but sure readjustment is taking place.

It Had To Be.
Philadelphia Public Ledger—Lacking the proper supervision to stop it, this strike had to be. There are too many mines, but no man wants to close his mine. There are more than 200,000 miners who have no other way to get out of the mines. Wages are too high, but labor resents operators, and dealers the adamant West Virginia is a coal field in a mining state and organized mines are business headed toward the nonunion fields.

As the time property has gone with the rest of western, leaving the coal business with foundations undermined and shaking, but unionism is fighting for its high wages. The complete unionism and a forced job for everybody and is willing to pass the bill along to the coal buyer. Capital's and labor's nature is to insist on the same thing, but to stand of resting together and shaping new foundations to meet new conditions.

The strike is bigger than the coal industry, for it is a part of the major struggle in the war-hastened push toward labor domination of the American industry and the reaction of capital toward the open shop. Unionism will try for a knockout this time, not because the leaders are tired now, but because the man with the pick-axe up and demanded and made the terms for it and because the operator thinks it better to fight now than in 1924.

As industry is organized this is one strike that had to be. This is the first time of this nature and when an Armageddon comes along twice break, while agreements go ever-board, and about all investigating commissions now do is to allow along and perch with owl-like gravity on the markets.

Pilger School Head Gets Into Trouble

Norfolk, Neb., April 7.—Superintendent Green, of the Pilger public schools, was taken to the county jail at Stanton Thursday afternoon by Sheriff Bill East, after the school board had charged him with the alleged conduct of Supt. Green. When crowds began to gather on the streets the sheriff decided it would be safer to take Green to the county jail. It was announced by County Attorney Cowan Friday morning that no formal charges had been placed against Green but that he was held for further investigation. The Pilger school board voted to dismiss him.

Mr. Green is a prominent school man and was recently reflected to his position in Pilger at an increased salary. He is married and has a family. He collapsed when arrested and has been in a state bordering on hysteria since, according to the county attorney.

Lincoln, Neb., April 10.—Formal complaints against Hing-Green, former superintendent of Pilger schools, on the charge of debauching five male students and depriving their morals, have been drawn up by Asst. Atty. Gen. Dyer and sent to County Attorney W. P. F. Cowan at Stanton, at the latter's request. The complaints are to be filed in the county court before Judge Louis Derr, it was stated.

A later report states that Green pleaded not guilty to the charges and on a bond of $5,000, pending for his home.

Market News.
Cattle.—Receipts of cattle at Omaha and elsewhere last week were considered lighter than the previous week and the corresponding week a year ago. Shippers furnished some competition on the better grades but generally speaking the demand was somewhat better than last week. Choice steers sold for $8 and better. Choice finished steers reached a top of $8.25 Wednesday. The bulk of beef steers sold at a range of $7 to $7.75. Choice cows reached $6.25. Good grades sold around $6.00 and medium grades around $5.50. Good stockers and feeders ranged at $4 to $7.50.

Hogs.—The moderate supply of hogs at Omaha cleared at prices 15c to 10c higher than the previous week's rates. Medium and light hogs cleared the middle of the week at $9.20 to $10.10. Stronger weight butchers of good and choice quality sold this week at $9.70 to $22.00. Packing grades were 25c higher, the bulk selling at $8.00 to $9.00.

Wheat.—Markets were unsettled and prices lower. Declines were largely on liquidation influenced by lack of buying. Visible supply, 35,897,000 bushels, a decrease of 1,248,000 bushels from the previous week. May wheat was down 3c; Kansas City, 4 1/2 cts.

Corn.—Visible supply, 45,889,000 bushels, a drop of 2,307,000 bushels. Cash demand was slow and country offerings light.

Potatoes.—The potato movement continued to be brisk and was 50 per cent heavier than for the same week a year ago. The total shipments for the season to April 4 were 292,000 bushels. The same season's shipments to the same date by 28,374 cars and is more than 4,000 cars above the entire movement last season. New potatoes from Florida filled 168 cars compared with 150 cars for the same period last year. Supplies were liberal and markets active with few price changes. Northern packed Boston Whites cleared to $1.50 to $1.65 on the Chicago carload market. Kansas City truck sales carload weight, Minnesota sacked Red-fitters, party grade, $1.50.

Poultry.—The usual heavy seasonal trade in eggs kept markets well supplied and considerable quantity went into storage. Prices remained about steady. Fresh graded firsts were offered in New York City at 20c. Canadian firsts were firsts at 35c. Local prices: Per case, $6 to $6.50; per dozen, 19c. The liberal receipts of poultry sold at prices steady with the previous week. Springs, 20c; hens, (light) 20c; heavy 22c; old roosters, 12c; salad 17c.

Butter markets were weak and trading was on an uncertain basis. For the week, prices were 2 to 3 1/2 cents, local prices 20 cents to 25 cents.

Social.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Dersch were surprised on Sunday evening by the members of the ladies club northwest of town, who with the gentlemen of that neighborhood, motored to the Dersch home, south of Wakefield. Mr. and Mrs. Dersch were presented with a rag, in honor of their recent marriage.

Wennerberg Chorus Pleases.
The Wennerberg chorus of Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill., gave a sacred concert at the Salem Lutheran church last Saturday evening. This chorus, consisting of twenty male voices, has appeared in Wakefield at several previous occasions and needed no introduction as to the high standard of music that would appear on its program. It was generally appreciated by many who had heard the chorus at several other occasions, that the program this year was heavier and more majestic. The chorus was well balanced and blended into a most beautiful harmony. The chorus sang with precision and musical verve. The director, Dr. O. H. Bestrom, evidenced a keen interest in the chorus and was able to infuse this spirit into the chorus, wherefore the various selections by the chorus were rendered in a very effective manner. The selection, "The Builders," gave evidence of fine technique. The chorus was assisted by Miss Gerda Schwan, pianist; Ralph Gatzert, cornetist; and Mrs. A. R. Wallin, piano accompanist. Miss Seedorf has a very clear, sweet voice. Her tones are full and well sustained.

Her selections were rendered in a pleasing manner and were well received. Ralph Ostrom, the thirteen-year-old boy cornetist, pleased the audience. He plays soft, clear tones. He has the possibilities of becoming one of the world's greatest cornet artists.

Mrs. A. R. Wallin, the piano accompanist, deserves much credit for the very able manner in which she assisted both the chorus and the soloists. The chorus is to be congratulated for being successful in obtaining such highly efficient talent for its concert tour.

Believers.

Philadelphian Public Ledger: Belief in us is the first incentive in the last. Every other stimulus sooner or later may grow weak and fall. Not so with confidence. He who helps a friend helps him most of all by trust in him. He who betrays a friendship does so most sadly when Shong, the villain, Marvin Samuelson, the first reported. It is a natural tendency in each of us to idealize if not to idolize. We cannot help it; we were born so. Mankind worships a hero, as all the world is said to love a lover. When that hero is a false idol, the heroism of war or spine of straw, or feet of clay—great is the fall, as of a demigod to something less than a man.

See Cause For Gloom.
New York Globe: An archeologist who is of a philosophic turn of mind, must become very gloomy as he contemplates the highly organized civilizations of ancient times and reflects on the trifling advance, measured in human terms of the past few thousand years.

Why the $10.90 USCO is better than just a $10.00 tire

On November 10, 1921, the 30 x 3 1/2 "Usco" was marked to sell for $10.90.

This odd and closely figured price was the lowest quotation ever made on any tire of known standards.

A genuine pioneering step by the makers of U. S. Tires.

Now comes a lot of different $10.90 tires being rushed into the market. "Special" tires. "New" trends.

Unfamiliar to look at—with perhaps an atmosphere of having been made to meet the price.

But the "Usco" still occupies a place by itself. A good old standby on millions of cars for years. Better than it ever was.

Still putting the emphasis on honest quality, even if it does sell for only ten dollars and ninety cents.

The $10.90 tire with the record of a proven product.

The tire that people still buy for the dignity of its quality regardless of the low amount they pay.

Minerva Club.
The Minerva club met Monday, April 10, at the home of Mrs. O. W. Crabtree. The annual business meeting of the club was held and the following officers were elected: Mrs. J. J. Miner, president; Mrs. B. H. McEachen, vice-president; Mrs. W. E. Beaman, secretary; Mrs. Henry Ley, treasurer. Mrs. E. J. Hancock was chosen leader of the year. The club is divided into two sides and each member was asked to answer questions in her turn as well as questions as would come from an educational quiz of fifty facts. Mrs. Miner and Mrs. Lackey, each representing a side, won high prize, a ringbread man. Mrs. L. M. Over, Miss J. G. W. Lewis and Mrs. O. W. Crabtree accompanied by Mrs. Beaman, entertained the club with three charming vocal trios, entitled, respectively, "Winkin', Blinkin' and Nod," "Rockin' Time" and "Johnny Brown." Mrs. Day had a quartet of the club. The hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Blackford of Superior, Wis., and Miss Elizabeth Kellemyer, served refreshments.

Agriculture Notes

To Supply Feeder Shoats.
The possibility of economically producing feeder hogs in the south for supplying the corn belt with the extra hogs needed for consuming the corn crop will be investigated by the United States department of agriculture in co-operation with some of the southern states. This spring, work on the problem was begun at McNeill, Miss, sixty miles north of New Orleans. The Mississippi experiment station will assist in the work. The idea is to test out the growing and marketing of hogs at a weight of about 100 pounds, using both the lard and bacon types.

The growing of feeder hogs is an industry which should be developed, as the corn belt is in need of more shoats than are usually produced there. Similar experiments to those being made in the country are being later in the northwest and the southwest.

For Live Stock Production.
The well-attended conference on livestock production consistently followed from year to year are the outstanding needs of the live-stock industry. The conference specialists in animal husbandry and marketing extension workers held at Chicago, March 2 to 4. Economy of production being made in the country, the most important factor over which farmers have control. Producing live stock of the best quality at the lowest cost is the main emphasis. Particular emphasis was placed on economy of production rather than increased production as the key to a successful live-stock business.

Among the controlling factors in economical live-stock production, in the judgment of the conference, were selection of animals, choosing of rations, and good practices in care and management. Delegates to the conference included United States department of agriculture specialists and animal husbandman and extension workers of agricultural colleges in the central-west.

Edgar C. Snyder, formerly of Omaha, now of the District of Columbia, has been appointed United States marshal for the District of Columbia. He came to Washington to succeed to Senator Thurston. Mr. Snyder has been a correspondent for the Omaha Bee for many years.

Congressman Evans is now engaged in conference on the District of Columbia appropriation bill. Phillip Kohl, Nebraska state senator, from Wayne, Neb., is spending several days in Washington. He called upon Congressman Evans while in the city.

The German government has been offered a loan equivalent to $63,700,000 with which to purchase foodstuffs. The German government has been able to accept the offer because of the failure to get the consignment of manufactured goods to deliver manufactured goods in payment while the reparations are in arrears.

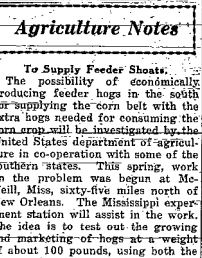

Form of City Government.
Lincoln Journal: Our own Nebraska town of Kearney has done the well nigh unprecedented thing of returning from commission government to the old council-man form. Dissatisfaction with the common type of municipal government with its jumbling of legislative and administrative functions has been enough. There are fundamental defects in that system which insure its ultimate abandonment, everywhere. But the cities are tired of the mongrel form of commission government generally go forward, not back. They resort as they do to the council-man form of government. In this system they secure the legislative body, with its public district, of municipal government, which they miss in the ordinary commission government. They secure, too, the administrative responsibility which is lacking in the commission form. Kearney's reversion to a council-man charter appears to have been due primarily to keen dissatisfaction with the commission form. Questions of form of city government do not seem to have been paramount.

Better Poultry for Nebraska.
Drovers Journal-Stockman: It is said that the hens of France, Holland and Belgium contributed the money which built the Orient railroad from Kansas City to the gulf. To explain this statement it may be restated that the money which went into the railroad was very largely from the farm homes of France, Belgium and Holland.

This fact reminds one that Nebraska should push its poultry business. According to the report of the poultry department of the college of agriculture, there were 262 secreted farm flocks in the state at the end of January. This number should be increased rapidly. Nothing pays better than a well-selected, carefully matched flock of pure bred fowls. Such flocks mean ready money and good food for the table.

The extension service of the state university deserves credit for a vigorous campaign for better poultry. The service should receive every possible support. Money spent in such propaganda will bear the highest possible rate of interest.

Cleveous Oversight.
Sioux Falls Press: Strange things are happening in this day and age, but we have not yet been told of the state where an automobile driver can collect damages if a pedestrian rub punctures his tire?

The eradication of pocket gophers is very difficult unless all the farms in a district are cleaned up in one campaign. A district two to three miles long is selected by the county agent, and farmers in this district are invited to a farmer-organizing party. A full attendance is usually secured. The morning session is given to a demonstration in cutting the bait and applying the poison. Sufficient bait is prepared to supply the entire county the day. In the afternoon, the party is divided into pairs, one person carrying the bait and placing it in the runway leading to the gopher hole. The county agent or specialist spends some time with each pair, giving instructions. All the infected area represented by the farmers attending the party is covered and poison is applied. In many cases several days are needed to complete the work, but all members of the party invariably stay with the job until it is finished.

In Furnas county the work has been confined to the alfalfa fields in the valley lands along three important streams, the Republican river and the Beaver and Sappa creeks. All last summer the farmers were constantly reminded of the importance of the work, and excellent results were obtained from the community field parties in the fall. In the campaign 2,500 acres were covered. Figuring the advantage to the farmers in being rid of pocket gophers at half a ton of alfalfa per acre, this area would mean 1,250 tons, or $10,000, saved.

Would Be Great Field.

Inventor of Telephone Sees Radio Future

Wireless days for commercial telephony have arrived. The radio-thing has been taken from the "playing" class. Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone, has received the same public recognition. The Bell Company announced the opening of a million-dollar radio-broadcasting station at New York. Similar plans are to be built in other cities throughout the country. Services may be had for any purpose except advertising, say officials. The next anniversary of Bell was taken at Atlantic City. With him is his daughter, Mrs. Gilbert Grantor.

Victims of Shooting Reported Recovering

Randolph Times, April 6: The double shooting that so thrilled Randolph will result in no loss of life if it is not hoped, as latest reports point that way. Mrs. Mrsny, at St. Vincent hospital in Sioux City, continues to improve. The bullet taken from the back of her neck has been for the better; but now the bullet under her shoulder is causing her trouble and this will be removed by surgeons. The other bullet will not be tampered with at present unless changes in her condition can be traced to them.

Mr. Mrsny is still in Randolph, and at present is under the care of S. C. Fox, who has orders to keep visitors out of the room and the door locked. These orders were issued by the doctor and Sheriff McFadden. Mrsny's condition is thought to be such that he can be taken to Hastings soon and have a hearing or be placed in direct care of the sheriff. It was thought he might be taken over this week if the road were fit. What charges will be filed by the county attorney has not been made known here, but it is known that Mrs. Mrsny's relatives are looking after her. The coffee business is still closed.

P. Dempsey, one of the prosperous farmers of Powder creek valley, has received from friends in Detroit a specimen of the celebrated Lord Hopeton oats, which were introduced into that country about forty years ago. The Hopeton oats are planted in situ and yield from 120 to 150 bushels to the acre.

On Friday of last week, J. D. Smith and T. J. Welby of the Courier, J. Staley and several other citizens went up the river as far as Mr. Bartzky's place to see some cedars and other evergreen trees to transplant. They obtained some very nice ones. During their afternoon travels through forests, over bluffs, scaling precipices and wading streams, they had an experience which was not wholly devoid of interest and adventure. In one place they met four deer which proceeded to scud away in a very lively manner. The party would have shot one or more of them had they got away too rapidly, and besides the explorers had not brought their guns. Hence the deer escaped. On ascending a bluff, the party found near the summit a small prairie dog town. Some forty or fifty of these remarkable animals had taken up abode there, and their inebriable companions, rattlesnakes and coyotes, rendered the locality more lively than agreeable to the party. About a half mile beyond that place, in a charming little grove, an immense bee tree was discovered. It is a hollow, unbranched tree, about four feet and one-half in diameter, and filled, as near as could be determined, with bees and honey. As the party had nothing but their shot and spades, (which they had brought to dig up cedars,) they could not cut the tree down. A short distance beyond they found in the creek which separated the grove from the bluffs on the west, an old beaver dam. They saw no beavers, but in the stream great numbers of fish, many of them being cat fish of a very large size. On the bluff beyond they saw and shot a large-billed woodpecker, and found several interesting trees. About half a mile from this place they struck the river, near which they met a large flock of wild geese, which, being turned out last fall and running in freedom through the woods all winter, are now quite as savage as necessary. The doves, which they finally concluded to retreat, their movements being accelerated by a large bull, which, with head down and tail up, swept majestically along, kicking the atmosphere by a sonorous and not unamusing voice.

At the river the party took to their boats, with their trees, and were conveyed swiftly towards home, meeting nothing farther on their way worthy of mention, except a large garfish which they saw a short distance above the point near the Bigley ravine, and which they estimated weighed not less than seventy-five pounds. Near Ponca landing they were also entertained by the music of a large flock of muskrats, whose exceedingly long and blood-thirsty bills would have struck terror to anybody not residents of this country. But all perils and annoyances by war as well as by land having been passed through triumphantly by our travelers, they arrived home in safety, yet pensive and hungry, tired, but glad they went.

Could they have foreseen their afternoon experiences, they would have provided themselves with guns, axes, and fishing apparatus, and would then have bagged deer, honey and fish in large quantities. However, they brought back a stylish lot of trees, the which, with what they saw, and the pure and healthy exercise they had, amply repaid them for their trouble.

Railroads Forget Consumers.

New York World: The trouble with the railroads is the trouble with quite too many business enterprises besides the railroads. They forget the consumer. They will not see, what is to Mr. Ford the first great truth to learn, that in the consumer's interest lies their own largest interest. Then they lose sight of what they are in business for. It is anything but service to anybody except themselves. The railroads were built and they operated to enrich the promoters, and consumers of transportation might be damned. Then they were run for the stock market and crowded to the verge of bankruptcy. And next they fell into the hands of the bankers to produce great fortunes in commissions on debt issues and reorganizations, where they now are. And the public comes into the reckoning just as before.

Fangs of Censorship.

Los Angeles Times: From a comparison of the official and informal regulations laid down by various picture censorship boards established in various sections of the country it is computed that there are thirty-five different scenes of dramatic strength that would be barred from public view. Under some of the censorships not one of the biblical pictures now being filmed or shown could be exhibited in certain cities or states. If the day should ever come when each community had a censorship of its own, there is not a picture now on the screen that would be able to get by them all. Producers would have to cut out drama and confine themselves to scenes.

Sioux City Journal: Right away now effusions of spring poets may be expected; they are as natural as the making of the bird, the growing of the grass and the bursting of the buds.

"They Don't Answer"

Sometimes you may call a telephone number and do not get an answer, although you are positive that the called person is at home.

In such a case the person you called may have been in the kitchen, down in the basement or out in the yard, too far away from the bell to hear it—or too busy to answer it promptly.

In most cases business telephones are answered promptly, but the length of time of answers from residence telephones varies greatly.

Answering the telephonic promptly is one of the little things that will help build up a better grade of telephone service for everyone.

NEVER FAILS TO BUILD ME UP, SHE SAYS

"Nothing on Earth Gives Me Strength And Energy Like Tanlac" Declares Lincoln Woman.

"Tanlac is my standby. I always keep it in the house and whenever I feel myself running down a little I take a few doses and it always builds me up again," said Mrs. Barbara Galagher, 1000 Plum St., Lincoln, Neb.

"I first began taking Tanlac several years ago for rheumatism. At that time I had a severe attack both of muscular and inflammatory rheumatism."

"Tanlac restored me to health and I have never had an attack of rheumatism since and my general health has been excellent. However, at times I feel a little exhausted and tired and I find that nothing builds me up and gives me strength and energy like Tanlac."

"Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere." al31fad

UNCLE WALT

The Post-Philosopher

Hollywood.
I made a trip to Hollywood, where movie actors dwell; for quite a while I'd understood the town resembled hell, that nothing flourished which was good, and all along the bell "Oh, nothing there is good or nice!" To this I had been wiser; I looked to see all sorts of vice, as widely advertised as if it were a common one or twice I wouldn't be surprised. But nothing happened while I stayed, to jar my sanity. The instant vans were on parade, no hophand-pinned my roll—the dealers—sold—pink—lemonade—none sold the Dumon Bowl. Each dweller seemed to have some work to occupy his dome; there was no idleness to lick the gent who writes this poem; on Sundays people went to visit—just as we do here—And pretty girls and men polite I greeted everywhere—no vicious—orgies were in sight, to fill me with desire; no wild carousals in the night disturbed the balmy air. Oh, Hollywood had her crimes, which no one will deny, and many actors have to their consciences—yet they pulled off dice games for the dimes, no pealers being nigh. But here in Pruneville, do we not have deeds of darkness? What no one ever slugged or shot? Does no one make home brew? Does white robed virtue always trot along the road with you?

My Neighbor.
My neighbor keeps me in the hotel although he is a kindly soul who would not hurt a flea; he done me no general trick, and yet the more I know the more I like him. He wears a suit and noble hats and costly boots, he dresses like a king; and shall I tell my neighbor abing in splendor with his cigars and his hand that, by jing! My neighbor buys a new sedan that makes mine seem an also-ran, a rusty thing and frayed; and shall my neighbor ride in his new white car—my neighbor's car—the first that Henry made? My neighbor's wife is just as bad; she gives around our little girl, a new hat on her head; my wife then murmurs through her tears, "I've had my 'punk' old lid for years—I would that I were dead!" I know just how the woman feels, and so I dig up sundry wheels, a helmet she must buy; we cannot see our neighbors' pleasure in pump and state and circumstance, and not make money. My neighbor has an ample yard and can afford to walk abroad with diamonds on his hand, and I have but the worst enough to buy the show, the scampous, and the spuds. But I'm a dead game sport, I wot; like other sportsmen I must trot with those who make things whiz; and so my neighbor keeps me broke; I try to leave a trail of smoke as suspicious as his.

Outsailed.
When Ananias was on deck he sprung his falsehoods day by day; he strove to make the truth a wreck, succeeding, in a modest way. He did his best, and if his best was cheap, compared with modern curves, we should not fault him with a jest, denying praise that he deserves. We should not greet with ribald jeers the liars of an age gone by; we should not scorn the sinners who first discovered how to lie. There were no oil stocks to be sold when Ananias blazed the way; there were no salted mines where gold was shown to commoners every day. There were no offices in sight, no candidates the apas desired; there were no burning hulks in water, in praise of books that made men tired. Financial wizards didn't sell blue-sky-to-bombs-unknown-to-fame, and there was no chance to buy a falsehood worthy of the name. There were no yearly almanacs in which to boast some wooden pills; men knew not how to dodge a tax, or sidestep merchant's monthly bills. The world was then a simple place where people toiled and paid their debts, and it is likely no divorce of Ananias missed some boy, he bravely warred against the truth, with tireless if misguided zest, and his efforts were in vain, he tried to do his best.

Pills.
I take pink pills to cure my ills, my gout and flu and tetter; I swallow ten, and now and then I swallow five. I'm feeling better. I read the boasts of these pills, he claims, cure germs and dimes with quickness most surprising. His ads appear throughout the land in every moral daily; his pills will cure the rich and poor he tells us, proudly, gayly. The village doc is prone to knock his pills, he sees no taking; "these healing gobs who advertise," he says "are always faking. Oh, come to me, my friend," says he, "when you are sick and jaded; I'll feed you pills of nux and squills that have the 'foot pills faded.'" But old Doc Yost he gets the most of all the coin 'I'm earning," he takes his stand, throughout the land, he keeps his lantern burning. In every sheet I chance to meet his pills are recommended; day after day he hails them as "My pills are truly splendid. My pills are made of junk and jade, of barks and birds—and simples, they'll cure your tarth and laves scarr, they'll banish boils and pimples." Physicians read this Old Doc Yost who keeps on advertising, and still he trills about his pills, whose sales are most surprising.

The Pump.
I celebrate the cistern pump in all my circles, glowing; how brilliant—his waters being, when it has had a priming; I work the handle down and up, and watch the gushing fluid, and glad if a gallon from the cup, as quaffed—the old time Druid. "They say that base and evil men are selling bootleg brandy; in nasty joint and would be they keep the poison handy. And customers to them—and will the stuff from frowzy fagings, then to the bonveyor on the hill they would be they keep the poison handy. For brass is made of deadly things, of powdered roads and henna, of warthog tusks and serpent stings, and chophouse pies and gams. So I start seek no alloy dump-for drinks made by a vandial; no journey to the cistern pump and blithely ply the handle.

The Procession.
The roads are black with motor cars, they're whizzing all the day; and some are gliding like snails, and some are dingy gray; some drivers smoke their fine cigars, and some are smoking hay. I watch the long procession pass; it never has an end; by day and night men press the gas, more speed and pep to lend, and from the horns of tin or brass the wailing horns send. How many cars, I ask my aunt, would leave the big parade, how many fans would gallivant, if all their debts were paid? A million cars that chug and pant from this little scene would fade. If it were by the law decreed that men who lodge their bills were not allowed in cars to speed along the valley hills, the traffic would be light, in deed, and void of present thrills. For men will burn oil, John De's juice, though credit fall apart; they owe the butcher for a goose, the baker for a tart; and yet they're scorching like the deuce, each in his own way, but for the most part should be done when all our debts are paid, our creditors should be their men, the bills should be destroyed. Then my let our wagons run, the ghosts of conscience laid.

FEEL ALL USED UP?
Lots of Wayne People Do.
Does your back ache constantly? Do you have sharp twinges when stooping or lifting? Feel all used up—as if you could just go no farther? Why not look to your kidneys? Why not use Doan's Kidney Pills. Wayne people have to do so. Ask your neighbor! Mrs. J. I. Soules, Wayne, says: "A cold settled on my kidneys and put them in a badly disordered condition. The muscles of my back were stiff and my kidneys were sore and weak. I could hardly get around at times. Many times it was impossible to get a night's rest, on account of the worn out and miserable condition of my back. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills. After using Doan's bought at the Wayne Drug company I was much better in every way. I have not had to use Doan's for some time."

Should Hire a Chauffeur.
Kansas City Star: Young Mr. Dodge, of Detroit, is again in trouble with his motor car. It seems as though it would almost pay him to hire somebody who knows how to drive that car.
