

Artificial Teeth

By new methods of taking impressions, much better fitting artificial teeth can be made, than has been possible by older methods.

If you have teeth that are more than five years old, you should have a new set, as they not only become ill fitting, but loaded with disease germs that are a menace to health.

Father Flanagan, three and one-half years ago opened his home for homeless boys. Every boy is entitled from birth to love, care, and a guiding hand. Any boy of any race, of any color, of any creed, has the right to be brought to Father Flanagan's Boys' Home and receive them in abundance. The human race has been off on a detour, I believe that I voice the sentiment of this entire community when I say that we want an immediate restoration of the industrial activity of this nation. Let us all get back to work once more—one people, one nation under one flag. Wars and race jealousies and class wars, strikes and lockouts and boycotts—let us get back to work once more. Let us all get back to work once more. That will be a panacea. A cure for all for many of the ills that we are suffering today.

Candidate Invites Fusion.
Lincoln, Neb., May 8.—A petition signed by sixty registered voters at Hastings yesterday was received by the secretary of state, requesting that the name of P. O'Gara, democratic candidate for congressman from the Third district, also be placed on the progressive ticket. It is the first indication of fusion filed at the state house. A receipt for filing fee, placing Mr. O'Gara on the progressive ticket, accompanied by the petition, Mr. O'Gara already has filed as a democratic candidate from the Third district.

One may wear a straw hat next week without fear of being shot. The sun begins to heat the difference between introducing straw hats and cucumbers ahead of the season is that the offense of the former is apparent and the offense of the latter is invisible and punishes only the offender.

Prevarication, incrimination, suspicion and distrust have become a serious habit with some people who are not accustomed to the essentials of truth and integrity. Careless thinking and careless talking, imputing wrong motives and discrediting good intentions, impair confidence and retard higher growth. This unwholesome condition is no doubt due in a large measure to the severe strain during and following the world war. People who have fallen into the habit should put on the brakes and make a determined effort to reform, clearing away distrust with confidence and putting fear under the heel of courage.

Nat Sunday will be Mother's day when church services will usually be devoted to consideration and exaltation of motherhood. People are reminded to show special marks of appreciation of their mothers. Mother love is probably the greatest force for good in the world. A man never knows how low he can sink until he does not extend a helping hand. It buys and sustains people in all kinds of perplexities and troubles. Living or departed mothers have left an impress of love that gives courage and hope, smoothening many rough places and inspiring high ideals and noble efforts. Mothers are designed to enlighten appreciation of mother and thereby make people better and more desirable members of society.

The graduating season is here again. Some are finishing the eighth grade, others high school, others state normal and others state universities. Others are about ready to be graduated from the world and slide into heaven playing a harp and joy-riding on the tail of a comet. However, a more important occasion, whether signaling completion of the eighth grade or acquisition of the A. B. degree, is a source of high satisfaction and sanguine hope. Modern commencement exercises are a good deal of an improvement over the old style. It used to be the custom for each member of a graduating class to prepare an oration, read it and then deliver it as the final performance. This annual punishment was usually submitted to, as a duty, by a large, springing audience. Old subjects like "The Alps Like Italy," were so used to being whipped around the oratorical arena each year that they suffered without a murmur of complaint. Commencement exercises are now more merciful. One trained speaker does all the talking. The speaker does not imply thought with some sage advice, getting before people think he ought to be dropped through a trap door.

The Geneva Signal voices a general sentiment in protesting against the policy of the government in sending out each year free seeds for distribution. We understand appropriation for the purpose has been greatly reduced, though it is believed to have been increased slightly. The Signal says: "The Signal has been concluded to say 'never again' when anybody offers it free government garden-seeds for distribution at its own expense. Most of the people who come to The Signal office after the seeds, cuss congress for wasting money in the purchase of the seeds and the demand for the seed is so very light that it seems doubtful if even The Signal's small supply can be sold out. And then it is unfair to the local seed retailer who buys fresh seeds to sell and stands behind the quality of his goods to the general public. It is an offer to give away seeds of unknown origin, unknown purity and unknown quality value."

A very pronounced feeling exists that Wayne ought to have an active association of business men, and it is suggested that the business men be called in the near future to effect such an organization. Cooperative efforts of business men are frequent in the city and it is the best interests of the city, and an association, working in harmony for one purpose, is the only effective way to handle business. We would suggest that the people who are engaged in business here, hold a meeting and form an association. Wayne has stood well the stress of the reconstruction period. It has many distinct advantages, far increased trade and business. It is the result of the cooperative effort of a business men's association. The city may realize much by each man padding his own pocket. They would realize much more by getting together and boosting together.

Cattle Shipments Heavy.
Daily Drivers Journalist man: At the rate cattle are being rushed to the Omaha market these days it begins to look as though some and possibly all of the May cattle receipts records would be broken before the month is out.

One May receipt that for a single week's receipts, was smashed last week. Public reports of cattle were received in six days. The previous high mark for a similar period during the month of October was 24,400 head, established the week ending May 14, 1918.

It was also in 1918 that the existing May record for a full month's receipts was broken. The 1918-19 head, and it already begins to look very much as though that mark would be exceeded this year. The 1918-19 head of what was week's receipts for the first ten days of May receipts have been over 60,000 head, while the previous high mark for the same period was 50,299 head, established in 1918.

Judging by past performance, it is not to be expected that receipts will keep on this pace the rest of the month, but in view of the way the "dope" has been upset so far this year it would take a brave prophet to attempt to predict what will happen.

Sheep and lamb receipts are also doing the unprecedented this month. The total arrivals here for the first ten days of May of nearly 72,000 head being the heaviest on record for that period with the exception of a year ago, when all previous records were broken.

Bishop Lawrence

Lincoln Tribune: Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts is evidently a victim of careless or incomplete reporting. A few words presumably taken from one of his recent speeches put him in the attitude of ridiculing prohibition. A more complete statement of his attitude is made in the Springfield Republican, which quotes him as arguing that "if you value law and order as a principle, if you believe in the maintenance of the American form of government of a stable society, make the eighteenth amendment effective as much as any other law part of the American constitution." The bishop, as revealed in his address and in a later summary of his position is as follows:

"I have never known a temperate moderate drinkers the long curve is always downward and never upward; and that where industrial success and the fact of the same combine in a conclusion there is but one result for the American people, the benefit of total abstinence, and upon this the American people have acted in the prohibition amendment. "The nation which has stopped drinking is the nation which has thrown off one of the heaviest weights in the race for industrial leadership. "While this or that group of citizens may feel that they could have done better with local prohibition, state prohibition, these citizens had their chance in license days and did not take it. The awful waste of life and money by the liquor moralization continued until millions of people over the country faced the subject with deep conviction and created a public sentiment which resulted in the constitutional amendment."

Farming Conditions Reported in State

Lincoln, Neb., May 10.—A general review of farming conditions in Nebraska based on sectional reports of correspondents of state and federal bureaus of market and crop estimates reveals abundance of rain in north, northeast and northwest districts, drought in west and center districts, conditions generally favorable in southeast, east and northwest districts, and generally unfavorable in southern counties. Another outstanding feature of the general review of conditions is a heavy loss in pigs throughout the state, cholera being in some sections being the cause.

Northwest district—Box Butte: Some pigs lost, 25 per cent pig-dying. Cherry: Plenty of rain, everything fine; abundance of feed and pasture; supply of cattle low. Decker: Plenty of moisture; feed for stock; soil in good condition; no loss in wheat but increase in acreage on new seed; alfalfa promises a big yield.

North district—Blaine: Plenty of moisture, heavy loss of winter wheat. Boonville: Pigs not doing well; loss of pigs. Similar conditions in nearby counties.

Northeast district—Blawie: Fine crop preceding in fine shape for Blaine. Rain needed in Burt county. Madison, Knox and Cedar counties in need of rains. Plenty of moisture in Dixon county. Cholera has caused heavy loss in pigs in all of these counties.

West district—The eye is reported poor in Atchison county. Cheyenne county has resseeded from 30 to 50 per cent of winter wheat.

Drouth and wireworms damaged winter wheat in Kimball county, of which much was abandoned, while the grasshoppers' inroads have seriously affected the alfalfa-crop in Morrill, Scott and Bluff counties which is in good condition. Dry conditions prevailing in nearly all of these counties, now or recently have been discouraging.

Central district—Drouth in Buffalo county accompanies a heavy loss in pigs. Bailey and Oata are doing poorly. Five Hoved: The cholera is generally prevalent in this section.

Southwest district—The crops are late in Hitchcock and elsewhere. Otherwise crops are generally fine. Good rains in the nick of time, and this wheat doing well, good catch crop and dead-dog well. Characterized counties in this region. Hog-cholera has taken heavy toll in Red Willow, Keith and nearby counties. The fruit crop is generally counted on as being good.

East district—Oats and fine in Hamilton and neighboring counties. Cholera is present in Colfax and among hog companies it is in Merick. Saunders county wheat weak. It is promising, and wheat is fine in Kearney county. Generally regarded. General farming conditions in this section are not such as to make farmers enthusiastic.

South district—Gage county reports wheat in good condition, crop ground ready for hating, pastures good, oats doing well, good catch crop. Oats are fine in Adams, though what losses there are serious. Winter wheat is almost a failure in Kearney county. This winter wheat is improving in Phelps where hog cholera is worrying swine breeders. Subsoil moisture is a minus quantity in Webster.

Southeast district—Clay county reports some wheat losses, and many thin stands. Weather is favorable in Clay. This section reports the presence of the Hessian fly. Conditions are generally favorable here, however. Gage county reports wheat in good condition and alfalfa planted under. Nemaha county reports wheat better. Richardson, Osage, and Holt and Johnson counties report wheat in fine condition. The farming conditions are generally fine.

Fast Train Kills Child.
Fremont, Neb., May 9.—The young son of Mr. ... who lived two miles from Rogers, was instantly killed when he wandered away from the home to the railroad tracks, where he was run over into three pieces by Union Pacific passenger train No. 16. The mother discovered the boy's presence on the tracks while the wheels of the engine pass over the body.

The infant had been playing in the cattle yard with a little brother who was also playing with him, and working nearby. Just learning to walk, the babe toddled away unnoticed. Mrs. French suddenly discovered the absence of the child and was almost stricken to see it playing about the railroad tracks a short distance away. The mother was about seventy-five feet away when the child was killed. She is in a serious condition.

Too Liberal in Making Loans.

Lincoln, Neb., May 10.—Upon his return to Lincoln from a long absence, his department, took charge of the American State Bank, Secretary J. E. Hart said that the deposit liabilities of the bank had amounted to $290,000 and a large draft on the state guarantee fund is anticipated. According to Secretary Hart the failure of the bank had led to the first liberality in the making of loans. The bank was forced to close when depositors became alarmed and started withdrawals.

A cattle man who recently committed suicide is signatory to $20,000 worth of paper in the failed bank. When the bank closed, the amount amounted to $28,000, while deposits totaled $200,000.

That Missing Link.

The daily press has much to say about the missing link today. I don't believe such bunk; it wouldn't have been a better chance that we descend from elephants, because we own a trunk.

If you should feel that you come down from Baboonville or Monkeyland, please count me out at once. And now right here you take a tip, I claim no near relationship with any such dunces.

Of apes we have so many brands. In tropic climes, in foreign lands; But none of their compare. With man in all his size and grace of mind—brains that leave the monkey behind. And buty nude of hair.

In future time methinks I see When men with better brains than we—Exploite this Darwin stuff. Then they will say of us out loud, Their minds were surely in a doubt To stand for all that blarf.

Some human beings, I declare, Might bear resemblance to the bear. They act so much alike. Bears have no tails to fight the flies And on their hind legs they arise. And with their front ones strike.

We miss this one link very much. In this long chain there's many such. It seems to me, by Jenks.

They all are gone from you and me As they are always sure to be. Except the two and links. O. A. Ramsay, Neola, Ia.

Next Pennsylvania.

Slack City Journalist: Public interest in the pre-primary campaign in Pennsylvania, which now is drawing to a close, is fully equal to that in the Indiana campaign which ended last week. Pennsylvania will vote next Tuesday, the 16th inst. While two nominations for United States senator are to be made, to fill vacancies caused by the death of Senators Penrose and Knox, chief interest centers in the republican nomination for governor. For the nomination two candidates are in the running: George E. Alter, present attorney general, representing the republican organization, and Governor Pinchot, who is making his contest as an anti-organization republican. Mr. Pinchot is putting up a stiff fight. It even may be said with truth that the fight is exciting. He is attacking vigorously, with all the energy of his Roosevelt political antecedents. Mr. Pinchot, who is remembered, was chief forester in the administration of President Roosevelt and was one of Mr. Roosevelt's personal advisers and intimates. There were a lot of blue-moose republicans in Pennsylvania; and they remain loyal to the memory of their former chief. It is confidently expected that Mr. Pinchot will command the support of these republicans. It is reported also that there is some discussion among the organization republicans by which Mr. Pinchot will profit.

The campaign in Pennsylvania, it covers county reports that the state issues wholly. No question of the approval or disapproval of the Harding administration seems to be in the mind of the voters. It will be interesting to observe how the republicans of Pennsylvania vote when the blue-moose republicans vote. Pennsylvania has been accustomed for many years to leaders like Quigg and Penrose. The death of Penrose's new boss has arisen to succeed to his authority. Well informed political observers in Pennsylvania are confident that Mr. Pinchot will be the winner in next Tuesday's primary.

Norfolk Woman is To Run For Legislature.
Norfolk promises to have a woman as a candidate for the legislature, according to the following report from the Daily News of that place: Mrs. F. W. Whitney, republican committee woman in the Third congressional district and member of the state republican executive committee, may file for the republican nomination as representative from the Fifteenth district which takes in Norfolk, Vinton and Warrenville precincts.

Mrs. Whitney admitted Wednesday that she had been thinking seriously of filing this year, and that she had been urged by a number of republican leaders to file. She said that she would make up her mind sometime this week.

Mrs. Whitney has been prominent in republican politics for several years. She is the daughter of the late Isaac Rowen, who was a state judge, once attorney general for Nebraska and a member of the constitutional convention of 1876. She believes the woman should be in the Nebraska legislature.

Insurance Inviting Carelessness.
St. Louis Post-Dispatch: To insure the pay roll is a necessary and legitimate precaution against loss, but when insurance invites carelessness in the handling of large sums it becomes a burden to society and a boon to outlaws.

Mrs. Whitney admitted Wednesday that she had been thinking seriously of filing this year, and that she had been urged by a number of republican leaders to file. She said that she would make up her mind sometime this week.

The Indian Vote.
Frederick William Vele's Washington dispatch to the Philadelphia Public Ledger: In 1920 the nation by its landslide vote indicated its determination to be rid of the democratic party. The Indiana vote is interpreted by many republican leaders as demonstrating that the country not only intends to remain rid of the democratic party, but to be rid of non-progressive forces within the republican party. The Indiana voice—and prospectively the voice of Pennsylvania—in the judgment of such authorities—is the voice of the republican party.

It is described as a clarion call to arms for action in that direction. If the Beveridge win in the middle West is followed by a Pinchot win in the east, the prediction is ventured there will be a "band wagon" movement all along the republican line. Every sign of such leadership that Mr. Harding has given, produced prompt and gratifying reactions throughout the country. His stand against the bonus raid was a case in point. His insistence upon an adequate naval personnel in the teeth of bitter republican congressional opposition, was another.

It is probably not be easy for the country to envisage Warren G. Harding as the leader of a vigorous progressive upheaval within the ranks of the republican party, yet Senator New undertook because that, dwindling and flailing, among other reasons.

Indianapolis dispatch to the Philadelphia Public Ledger: "United we stand, divided we fall—and we will not fall," dictated the Indiana republican nominee as I sat with him in the library of his home on Washington boulevard. He was sending a message to Gov. Warren T. McCray, an acknowledgment of the latter's congratulatory message and promise of whole hearted support. The Hoopier governor was with Senator New in the light, but one of the first to climb the Beveridge bandwagon.

"And that goes for everybody," said Mr. Beveridge as his secretary brought in another sheaf of telegrams, conspicuous among them a message from Gifford Pinchot, former bill moss leader and now a candidate for the republican gubernatorial honors in Pennsylvania. "I am the choice of the republican voters of Indiana," said Mr. Beveridge. "I am a republican, and being necessarily has forced many a man against all cliques, combinations, blocs or anything of the sort—in some quarters there has been a tendency of filing this year for the reputation of the Harding administration."

interpretation) possibly can be placed upon Tuesday's vote.

"It is now republican versus democratic and line for everybody to forget the primary and clear the decks for November," said Mr. Beveridge as he stressed his invitation for all republicans to get behind him.

Costs Government to Save. Kansas City Star: It now develops that it is going to cost $70,000,000 to scrap the naval vessels condemned under the Washington treaty. It seems that even economy saves money when it involves any function of government.

The high school play entitled

Group of Buildings at Wayne Teachers' College.

"Deacon Dubbs," presented Friday evening was very well attended. The parts were well taken and much credit is due those who trained the young people. Even Williams as Deacon Dubbs, was continually bringing down the house with his wit. He did excellent work. Robert Waring took the part of Amos Coleman, gentleman, with ease, and was very good. Everett Ellis showed talent in playing the difficult part of the villain of the play. No one could have undertaken the role of Major McNutt with greater success than Edwin McDowell. The part of Deacon Dubbs was the most amusing feature of the play.

Miss Edna Winderger, the girls presented their respective parts delightfully, and touching. Lucile Sundahl, spinner, was good and her costuming was effective. Ruth Miller was delightful as the joyous, laughing Trislie. Cecil Robbins played the part of the city belle with charm. The success of the whole play.

ventories was decreased from $18,828, Jan. 1, 1921, to $14,350, Jan. 1, 1922.

A Healthy Business Condition Reported

Lincoln, Neb., May 8.—Two hundred and thirty cooperative enterprises in Nebraska, employing a total of 637 persons at an average salary annually of $1,428 last year did business aggregating $39,882,512 or an average volume of $180,612 per company, according to figures compiled from the third annual survey of organization, condition and business methods of cooperative companies in Nebraska, made by the state department of agriculture.

Total paid up capital of $7,018,911 or an average of $17,042 per company is shown in the survey, while the stock was held by 33,743 individuals, or 134 stockholders per company. Four of the distinctive cooperative features—patronage dividend, fixed rate on capital stock and a limit on share ownership and voting power—are found in 173 of these organizations.

Managers employed. A total of 237 managers, receiving an average salary of $1,740, is shown in the list of 637 employees of these organizations, and 203 of the employees, or 33 per cent, owned stock in the companies.

A sum of $23,320 was expended during the year for advertising, the records disclosed. Ninety-one per cent of the companies owned their own buildings.

The survey covered 122 elevators, fifty-nine stores, five creameries, two lumber yards, forty-one combination companies and one telephone company. Fifty-seven per cent of the organizations started business by buying a firm already established.

Indebtedness is reduced. The 230 companies during the year borrowed $688,270 and paid off $917,399 in outstanding notes, thereby reducing their total indebtedness by $234,129, according to the survey.

Sixty-nine companies lost $83,884 by bad debts. Other features shown by the survey are:

That the payment of outstanding obligations was made possible by reducing the average amount of stock held as shown by inventories.

That sixty-one companies sold on a strictly cash basis.

That the average amount of inventories was decreased from $18,828, Jan. 1, 1921, to $14,350, Jan. 1, 1922.

That fifty-four companies average three turn-overs during the year. Records of the department show that prior to 1913 there were forty cooperative companies in business. Since that year, the numbers have increased steadily until there are 645 at the present time.

Legislature Increases Help. Cooperative enterprises received their first recognition by the legislature in 1913, which removed many of the legal restraints. The following years saw a rapid growth in the number of companies, and further by removing such companies from the corporation class and re-classified them as partnerships.

The new constitution adopted September 1, 1920, removed the last constitutional restriction by allowing cooperative companies to adopt the principle of one man and one vote.

Business. — Sioux City Journal. The average producer of goods, the surplus of which must go to foreign countries in order that he may be successful in business, will not welcome the export news for March, which shows a falling off of some $20,000,000 as compared with the same month last year.

Now, then, as against this figure the report has it that the imports from Europe increased in March by about $10,000,000. This sales of goods to Europe, however, are finding better markets here. The condition, however, is nothing to worry about. For the present it may be considered as the same way a market fluctuation with this difference—Europe is making a heroic effort to increase its sales abroad and to cut down its purchases. That is a business move necessary for the economic reconstruction of the countries still suffering from the shock of the war. It really is a good business move for this country in that it will enable the Europeans to re-establish themselves in trade when they can buy more heavily than they are also to sell in greater quantities.

Additional export and import figures are not so reassuring. Trade with South America has fallen off appreciably without the same reason for apathy on either side as exists with Europe. Exports to South America were just a little more than one-half what they were in March, 1921, being quoted at $171,000,000, as against $339,000,000 in the same month in value. North America's purchases of South American goods for last March aggregated $24,000,000, as against $39,000,000 in the same month last year. It is suspected that foreign trade influences are at work in South America to build up commerce there. It has been known for a long time that the Germans were very energetic in the various South American republics, both in buying and in selling. The United States could not hope to do anything but divide foreign trade with others, but this is a bad time to let the market go by default.

The American farmer need have no cause for worry over the declining exports to Europe, or nothing to do with his products. Indeed, Europe is a splendid market for food-stuffs, buying heavily of the grains, food animals and other necessities that come only from the agricultural states. Not only is Europe now a good customer for the American farmer, but because of the idle lands in Russia, the patronage will be continued for some time to come.

April records in some respects are more cheering than those of March. The business failures for that month were 28 per cent under the figure for January. Meanwhile, bigger and stronger enterprises are being built up. This may be called the merger era. Combinations of powerful interests are made frequently. This is true of steel and iron, shipping, of motors, of minerals, and some talk is heard of railroad mergers on a grander scale than hitherto attempted. Some of the mergers will not go through, but many others will. The thought of the big business men seems to be for a centralization of authority and control, thus producing a greater economy and efficiency through reduced overhead costs.

Various incidents of the week contribute to a more optimistic business tone. A cheering thing is the continued upward climb of the British pound sterling. It is now back to or beyond $4.41. Par is somewhere around $4.87. The pound has made a consistent recovery, which emphasizes the solvency of British government interests.

The Wall street activity continues without stop. The stock market is still strong and sales are steady. Steel prices are expected to advance somewhat, but without creating concern or industrial strikes.

The coal strike goes on without damaging business perceptibly, the demand for fuel falling off amazingly at the labor movement progress. A lively interest in it is seen, due, perhaps, to the coal strike. Prices of some petroleum products have risen, notably gasoline, although the reserve stock is now at a higher figure than ever known in the history of the industry.

The Loafer. The world was not made and is not sustained by loafers and idlers. The world has no use for the loafer. Life presents no opportunities to him, holds no positions open for him, offers him no rewards. The idler does not count. The world is filled with idlers, some of them having nothing, and some of them having much, but whether they be poor or rich, they are parasites, sustained by the toil of those who labor. In a world of busy men and women, in a world in which there is so much to do, so much that needs to be done, the loafer is to be pitied, if indeed he is not to be despised. There is no place for him for the man or the woman compelled to labor, however hard the task may be. Fly should be reserved for those who do not labor—the loafers and the idlers. The loafer no more than encumbers the earth. He is worthless as a workman, a cumulation of trash; he is the barnacle on the ship; he is the fifth wheel which is dead weight carried on the back of the team. The loafer has no practical intents and purposes; the loafer is as one dead.

Men can be forgiven much if they have the will to improve. Willingness to do honest labor compensates for many shortcomings, and often it excuses vice. For the loafer, the idler, there are no compensa-

Spider Causes Paralysis. Hastings, Neb., May 6.—Complete paralysis of the left side, with loss of speech, has resulted to Frank Turner, a business man of the town of Harvard, Neb., from the bite of an insect, supposed to be a spider, sustained while Mr. Turner was in the Harvard cemetery during a burial service.

"Bringing in the Sheaves." Omaha, Neb., May 6.—Two masked men who told their victims they once were in a church choir, sang the hymn which includes the words, "We will come rejoicing, bringing in the sheaves," as they held up and robbed nine persons, including a number of women, in a drug store here last night. They escaped with $800 amounting to more than $300.

The Herrick Refrigerator, Waterloo, Iowa

Economy Test

The real test of economy in a refrigerator is the saving of food and ice. You can buy a refrigerator for less than the price of a Herrick, but you will make up the difference many times over in food spoilage and bigger ice bills.

Therefore, figure on the up-keep as well as on the first cost when buying your refrigerator. And remember that the most inexpensive refrigerator—the really biggest bargain—is the one which costs you the least in the "long run."

That the Herrick is the refrigerator which measures up to these requirements is not merely a matter of guesswork nor claims. It's a fact that's backed by every proof to which a refrigerator can be subjected.

The death of Mrs. Kistine Lovisa Stenberg, oldest citizen of Oakland, happened on April 30. She was aged 92 years, 9 months and 25 days.

The city of Oakland, Neb., is putting in its first bit of paving this year but before it is finished, city men are asking for more paving. Several petitions have been presented to the council.

Randolph Times-Enterprise: W. H. Stageman and his men drove 161 head of cattle the past week to the ranch a mile and a half east of Center, where they will be taken care of by Paul Buel, formerly of Magnet, who is in charge. The head of cattle were sixteen pure bred Friesian Angus cows, the balance being grade Shorthorn steers that averaged around 700 pounds and were about 2 years old. The trip from Randolph to Center was by easy stages and consumed three days. Mr. Stageman's ranch comprises 530 acres and is well adapted to cattle raising.

Fairbury News: The first game of baseball here was held on the private land under a new law, has been established four miles from Fairbury by the state game and fish division, under authority of the agriculture department. It is a tract of 100 acres along the Blue river, owned by R. D. Kowalski, and containing a considerable amount of timber. This action was taken in response to a request from the Women's club of Fairbury, which has shown a good deal of interest in the question of protecting animal and bird life.

Earl Johnson, 2-year-old boy, of Aurora, was seriously injured Monday afternoon of last week when he was struck in the forehead with a discus which slipped from the hand of one of the throwers at a field meet. A deep gash was cut in his forehead and the skull fractured. A re-opening operation was performed.

Boy Scouts of Burt county held scout-pioneer field meet at Oakland, April 29, in which the Tokamat scouts took first honors. Events included in the meet were: A tug-of-war, a competitive military drill, a first race and a competitive semaphore signaling. In this event a sealed message was handed to a boy chosen from each group. With semaphore flags this message was wig-wagged to another boy 200 yards away. The message was received, written down, and relayed by each troop's swiftest runners to the judges' stand.

The list of grade teachers in the Hartington schools includes: Miss Mabel Sparks of Wayne in the fourth grade, Miss Eva Hughes of Randolph for the kindergarten and Miss Clara Colwell of Ponca for the second grade. Miss Hughes has attended both the high school and college in Wayne, and Miss Colwell taught in Wakefield the past year.

Cedar County News: Deep sea diving will be the newest start on the Meridian highway bridge, when work is resumed on pier No. 7. Because the box for that pier settled when the river went out this spring, the air pipe lines are now submerged, and in order to get at them and connect them up, a diver will have to get on the job. A complete diving suit has been received at the bridge office at Yankton, and is attracting quite a bit of interest. The equipment consists of the rubber, suit, lead shoes and belt, helmet and air tubing. The shoes weigh about twenty-five pounds apiece and it is thought that a man will be able to take a nice little promenade on the bottom of the "Big Muddy" in the outfit.

Keeping the Peace.—Washington Star: "Don't you think the men around her put in too much time playing poker?" said the new arrival at Cripple Creek.

Husbands Are Warned.—Lincoln Star: Many a man who has taught his wife how to drive the car with the sad result he had to pay another one if he ever wanted it for his own use will be a trifle cautious about showing his better half how to tune in with the radio outfit.

Public Is Invited to Hospital Friday

The observance of National Hospital day at the Wayne hospital tomorrow with a special invitation to visitors brings added interest to the incidents surrounding the beginning and growth of that institution.

During the year of 1915, the subject of organizing for the establishment of a city hospital in Wayne was introduced by Dr. S. J. Lutgen and a number of enterprising citizens. The object was to give the city and surrounding community better service. Hospital matters were planned for, were being operated with success in cities the size and even smaller than Wayne, and their success, coupled with the actual need for a local hospital, encouraged the movement here.

In the spring of 1916, Dr. Lutgen, prominent surgeon, took charge as a hospital. Few medical patients could be accepted because of lack of room but 500 major operations and numerous minor operations were performed during the three years that the Wayne hospital was located in the building across from the present location.

So great became the demand for a hospital which could accommodate medical as well as surgical patients, that in 1917, the construction of the present spacious and beautiful hospital was undertaken. The new building was formally opened on Thanksgiving day of 1919. Since that time, a nurses' training school, a surgical, medical and maternity cases have been received.

In 1921, through special effort on the part of a number of the hospital force, a nurses' training school was established with the cooperation of local doctors and the Wayne State Normal.

The motto selected for the Wayne hospital was "Service to Humanity." With the present hospital with its many equipment and facilities more easily attained Records assert that the founding of the institution was necessarily arduous. Development has not reached its limit and each year improvements and additions are made that increase the efficiency of the service.

Details of Accident At Randolph Lately

Randolph Times: Last Thursday afternoon, just as the Times was ready for the press, the accident to the bridge over the river was ready to give but a brief account of it. It happened during the Wayne-Randolph field meet on the local grounds and after a number of events had been completed. In the shotgun the crowd was pressing close to the space allowed for the event in order to see the shot. The crowd was so close that the shot cannot always be controlled and in this case the swerving of the throw just a little to one side to get with the crowd was the cause of the accident.

Flu saw the shot coming and realizing the danger and ran from it, holding her head down slightly by doing so she avoided the full force of the blow. She says she could have been out of the way entirely had she not been there to see the shot with her free movement and restricted the space in which she could dodge the incoming ball of iron.

The missile struck her directly of ear, a glancing blow, and cut a gash one inch and a half long and to the bone. A curious feature was that the shot hit a bone above the level of the scalp and against the bone of the head. She was rendered unconscious, and onlookers feared she had been killed. She was taken to her father's office and he at once gave surgical attention.

At the time she was doing nothing and it is hoped no serious effect will develop. A blood clot has formed but this is gradually being absorbed, although it may yet cause trouble. She suffered much pain, headache, dizziness and nausea, these gradually growing less as her condition improved. She is a popular little lady, and there is universal thankfulness that her life is spared.

Court Holds That No Statute is Violated

Norfolk Daily News, May 6: Rube Green, formerly in charge of the schools at Pilger, Neb., was discharged by Judge Welch in district court at Stanton, where he was charged with immoral conduct by the state in connection with complaints made by parents of school boys at Pilger.

The defense filed a demurrer to the case and after a hearing the court held that the charges filed against Green by the state did not constitute a crime under the laws of the state and the defendant was promptly discharged.

County Attorney Cowan was assisted by A. B. Olsen in prosecuting Green. The former school superintendent was represented in court by D. C. Chase and George A. Eberly.

This concludes a chapter in the Pilger school history which has caused great distress among the members of the board of trustees at Pilger where Green was dismissed immediately after his arrest by the Stanton county sheriff, who some time ago was notified by telephone that fears were expressed of mob Fair Advertising Rates.

Omaha Trade Exhibit: Some time last summer an inquiry was addressed to Trade Exhibit asking for a fair rate of charge for country newspaper advertising space. At that time a short article on this topic was published and that brought a letter from the secretary of the Nebraska Press association who sent in a schedule of rates that were adjudged to be fair by a special committee of the National Editorial association. This matter was brought up again at the recent convention of the Federation of Nebraska Retailers and the schedule as published by Trade Exhibit was then referred to.

Since a good many of the advertising merchants present at the meeting had forgotten the schedule, and since the same inquiry has been addressed to Trade Exhibit more recently, the list of rates as published last summer is given herewith:

THE opening of the State League game for the Elk Horns or Norfolk baseball team, will be played on the home diamond with Lincoln, Friday, May 12. Games will also be played between these two teams on Saturday and Sunday.

This is the first season since 1911 that the state baseball league has been in action. The members of the league are: Lincoln, Beatrice, Hastings, Grand Island, Fairbury and Norfolk. The season opens May 12 and closes Labor day. The season will be divided in two halves, the winner of each half, playing the winner of the other half, in a post season game for possession of the state league pennant. Each team will play 120 games for the season, half of these on the home diamond.

Record-breaking crowds are expected for the opening day, and all Norfolk is prepared to welcome visitors to the city. Addition to the bleachers at the ball park will be erected if the steady season attendance at the games warrant the move. The directors of the Norfolk team are making plans to transport the team by automobiles or truck if possible.

On their trip. The Indians still hold the place in awe and will never go near it, it is sacred to them. Some years ago farmers in that section attempted to sink shafts for coal, believing that the heat was produced by burning of coal beds. At a depth of ten yards the heat became so intense that the whole was abandoned. Reports today say that all the settlers in the immediate neighborhood are preparing to sever the long connection between Ionia and Pelee. Geologists have said the smoke is caused by water from the Missouri river seeping into the limestone rock formation of the mountain, but the people are fearful of an eruption."

From Panca Journal May 30, 1880:

The Nebraska weather bulletin announces that last winter was the driest April since 1800.

An incipient strike among the men working at the cut was gently nipped in the bud on Tuesday, by the discharge from further service of the would-be strikers.

On Monday, in company with Secretary Sollenbros and Postmaster Reynolds, we had a pleasant expedition into the southeastern part of the county to Middle creek. We stumped at noon with the pioneer of that region, Mr. Demy, who, with his hospitable family, seemed to take pleasure in providing an excellent dinner for three hungry travelers. Mr. Demy has a large and beautiful farm. It is located in Middle creek valley, and here also will be a railroad junction. The new town, Demy's Junction, was started within the past two weeks, and is already a place of much business. It has a store, a grocery, a hotel, a blacksmith shop, lumber yard, several boarding houses, a meat market, saloon, etc. The buildings thus far are temporary structures, but they will soon give way to something more substantial. The work on the railroad at this place is being pushed forward rapidly and ere many weeks the iron horse will be crossing through on its way from Omaha to Sioux City. Demy's Junction before the end of the year will contain 1,000 inhabitants and backed as it is by a fertile country, will have a permanent and prosperous future.

Boys' and Girls' Club Work.

Daily News Journal-Stockton: a few months ago Harry Knok of Nehawka, Neb., came to the South Omaha markets with load of Hampshire hogs. Nothing strange about that, you say. No, not at first thought, but Harry is a Nebraska boy and this was the first load he ever brought to market.

That is not all for Harry who was on a free trip to the international fair, fall. Nebraska's pig club members raised a pig club. From the Iowa fair he started his row has a fine herd.

There was a time when club work was looked upon by some folks as being a sort of afad create-to keep boys and girls out of mischief, or to get free trips to fairs or other prizes which were offered for the season's endeavors. Time has changed these ideas and nothing is more evident in Nebraska or Iowa or any other state where club work is conducted than the fact that the boys' and girls' clubs have a permanent value and are developing the real virile farm leaders of tomorrow.

The 1932 environments for boys' and girls' clubs are underway and from Maine on the north to Texas on the south, farm boys and girls are enlisting in the great club work which in past years has numbered more than 200,000 and whose products of the farm and the kitchen and the sewing room run up into millions of dollars in value.

We must not try to measure the results of this club work in 1932 in terms of individual benefits to the boys or girls alone, valuable as that will be. We must remember that hundreds of thousands of communities are watching the efforts of these youthful workers and that community progress and community betterment are closely linked with club work.

The Journal-Stockman, keenly interested in this boys' and girls' club movement, hopes that "no reports will stand in the way of a son or daughter who wishes to join a club. To encourage such a step should be the only logic of a parent. It will mean a keener interest on the part of that boy or girl in the farm and the farm home."

Never before could you get so much tire worth for $10.90

AR-OWNERS who bought a 30x3 1/2 "Usaco" for $10.90 last Fall have discovered this by now—

Nobody before ever got so much tire value in the neighborhood of ten dollars.

They never had to question the quality—with the makers of U. S. Royal Cord behind it.

They couldn't help admiring the price—spontaneously made to meet the new economy times.

A tire that would be high value at more than $10.90.

At $10.90 it is unapproached.
