Diplomas Presented To Graduating Class

Twenty high school seniors, fourteen girls and six boys, received their diplomas of graduation from the Wayne high school at the close of the commencement exercises held at the Methodist church last Thursday evening. The diplomas were presented by A. R. Davis, in behalf of the board of education. In a few well chosen words he revealed the interest of the community in the graduates, Mr. Davis urged the members of the class to make good use of the advantages which a high school education brought.

Following the presentation of the diplomas, Capt. H. W. Shirey, veterinarian, that Miss Henrietta Frost had the honor of being vice-electroton of the class. Supt. Shirey also expressed his interest in the graduates and his supervision of the class, under the group forewent with an abundance of wishes for the success of each one.

The commencement exercises and graduates gathered for the graduating exercises. The class marched into the auditorium of the church for the program, presided over by Mrs. James Miller, and was seated on the platform to the right of the speaker, Prof. M. E. Graber of Mount Pleasant.

The subject of the commencement address was "The New Student in His Relation to World Affairs." In his introduction, Prof. Graber traced the development of primitive man from the narrow existence, when his environment was something separate, to the time when man began to philosophize and theorize on the life of the universe and thus bring order out of chaos.

Prof. Graber stated that in ancient times education was highly specialized with only a few men acquiring an education and the general mass of people living in ignorance. In summary he said, "The progress of the world has been a progressive but it lacked accomplishments and contributions of the intellectual supremacy which it holds by Prof. Graber he showed how, as the generations passed, knowledge was handed down from generation to generation and enabled the world to make wonderful progress in the passing decades. He emphasized that the present generation did not reach the position of intellectual supremacy which we hold by the aid of the contributions of the past which always play a significant and fundamental part in growth. In concluding the division of his address, Prof. Graber said that each mind builds on the accomplishments of other minds."

The night school classes of Wayne high school, as well as ancient scientists, though they did not begin with insignificant beginnings.

The speaker next outlined the characteristics of the present age. He called it an age of pronounced scientific development and advancement, an age of electrical phenomena and age of marvellous industrial activity.

Prof. Graber showed the trend of modern education by first briefly tracing the growth of education from the founding of the first public schools. He mentioned the early school of classic learning which lost its prominence when the experiment of a new method of education began and later crystallized into the laboratory method of instruction "Today," he said, "the modern education is scientific education. Today a man or woman is not educated until he or she is prepared to make a living in some special way."

By showing the skill needed in developing the natural intelligence of the child, Prof. Graber made the statement that no education was more honorable or more dominating than that of the teaching profession.

In discussing the present educational system, the speaker censured the cut and dried methods of procedure as incapable of bringing about a satisfactory educational system. He decried the illiteracy in the country, the neglect of the physical, moral and religious sides of education.

The speaker addressed his concluding remarks to the graduates. He reminded them that they were living in a day which is making strenuous demands on young people. His concluding advice was divided into three parts: That they should realize the importance of a sound body, that they must be impressed with the fact that there is no excellency to be obtained without the strenuous effort which they went forth into the field of action, their preparation would only prove adequate if they were guided by the expression of the natural self.

loads would make a single train fourteen miles long or 38 average trainloads of heavy freight cars each. The freight charges alone approximate $247,000.

If all these trucks were placed in service at one time they would be capable of moving the twelve million-bale cotton crop of the entire United States, the usual average haul, in twenty working days. The mileage to accomplish this task would amount to ten million miles, a distance equal to four hundred times around the earth at the equator.

In giving out these figures the sales department indicated that the satisfactory growth in truck business was partly due, at least, to the free inspection service which has been in force at the '23 company branch houses for over two years.

Librarian's Yearly Report Shows Growth

A decided improvement is shown this year in each phase of the city librarian's report for the year ending May 1, 1922. Growth in the circulation of books is the most pronounced of the increases.

The circulation of volumes for the year amounted to 15,176. This is an increase of 935 volumes over the preceding year and of 3,060 volumes over the year ending May, 1920. Of the books loaned from the library, 3,476 were loaned to adults and 1,701 to children. A greater increase is shown in the number of adult readers than in the number of child readers. This year's report shows that 1,650 magazines were loaned, an increase of over one hundred over the preceding year.

A Capitalist Outrage.
Chicago Tribune: Lenine's inclination to hit the United States, as he goes out of his way to do in his reply to the Ganna demands, is quite understandable. He sees, as indicated by the policy responsible for all the woes which lately have fallen upon the Russian people. To get out from under when one has made a mess of it is quite human, and in this case Lenine could not help picking the United States as the chief offender. The United States is the leading example of nations afflicted with a foolish devotion to capitalism and individualism. To this offense it adds the even greater guilt of prosperity. Lenine cannot forgive the American people who insist on making capitalism a success, who insist on making it work in the teeth of all Lenine's theories, so that its people are fed and clothed, are solvent and as happy as humans manage to be in this imperfect world. While bolshevism and Lenine are presiding over a starving and bankrupt nation, it is unforseeable for capitalist nations to thrive in defiance of the true doctrine.

E Pluribus Plus.

The rainfall of this week is putting the ground in good shape for growing crops. The soil is becoming dry and people are growing somewhat uneasy and apprehensive.

But Wayne county has seldom failed to have sufficient moisture, and the quality and quantity of its harvests have never proved very disappointing. The agriculture of this section of Nebraska can usually be depended on.

Congressman Moses Kinikaid who threatened to retire at the end of his present term as representative of the Sixth Nebraska district, changed his mind over-night and announced his intention to fight in the next congressional election. Kinikaid will have served twenty years at the expiration of his present term.

One must either work or play. It is a standard business axiom to get along well. One can't be a Napoleon of finance merely because he feels that way.

One criticism which seems just in regard to the state's management of schools, is its failure to provide for the mounting number of students. It would seem that ample, modern dormitories are of equal importance to latest school buildings and equipment.

study the need of due-housing quarters and turn some of its cash in that direction.

"Altruism is fine to talk about, but it is put into practice, its promptness to liberally donate is inquired into, with doubt and suspicion. The Golden Rule—doing unto, instead of doing, people—is pointed to as the correct standard of conduct, but the one who attempts to follow it is liable to have his motives questioned. People are so used to selfish considerations as to today may be come the practical standard of tomorrow.

WE ARE PUBLISHING ON PAGE TWO of the second section of today's Herald two rather sharp criticisms of the present situation of the state. The field meet held on the grounds of the State Teachers College here. How much basis for adverse comment, we really do not know. From lack of evidence to the contrary, we will grant that we were unwittingly remiss in duty to a large group of fine young people who came here either to participate in the meet or watch its events.

The neglect charged is manifestly due to lack of understanding, lack of organization effort. Unfortunately Wayne's Commercial club had not been functioning lately. If it had been, all these things which cooperation would have been secretary of wishes to the secretary. If the town had realized its responsibility, we feel confident its people would have shown more of the old-time and proverbial spirit of enthusiasm and generosity.

As to closing business houses for this meet or any other public gathering, we think there is no reasonable or justifiable demand for doing so. Wayne closed its avenues of trade for every worthy public event, they would be closed half the time.

Whether a teachers' convention, athletic meet, baseball game or a horse race, the business districts should be kept open to accommodate groups who are not interested in the particular thing going on.

Accusing many of the criticism as appropos, though believing its ground has been due more to unintentional oversight than to cold neglect, as charged, which would be Wayne, we trust to duty, responds more generously and wholeheartedly than any town we ever knew. Wayne's entertainment facilities—teachers' conventions, editors' meetings, women's clubs, and tennis, golf and basketball games, and on each occasion the town's hospitality was as plentiful, if not more so, than any other town in the state.

We mention this cordially record to show that neglect of due attention to guests is not a chronic habit here. Any failure to hear the call of the late meet may be justly attributed to faulty hearing rather than to faulty hearts. While heretofore the fault may have been due to not overlooking the good things we have done and will do, and give us a chance to make amends for any intentional delinquencies in the past.

Soden-Wylie.
Miss Wylie, daughter of Winside and Miss Lucille Payne, were married here Sunday morning in the Methodist parsonage by Rev. William Kiburn.

Time to Talk Col.
Waterbury, Conn., Republican. There is altogether too much talk about the wet and dry issue in the coming congressional election and not enough about the cold and warm issue precipitated by the coal strike.

Apparently.
Lincoln Journal: The brick manufacturers of the east did not look for much of a building boom this year because of the decline in demand, and as a result are penalizing the public for their own shortsightedness by putting up the lines of business in the same in all districts, apparently.

Hard to Stay with Two Wives.
Sioux Falls Press: Valentine held out fairly well as a matinee idol so long as he had only one wife. With two on his hands, through marrying the second one, he became a poor effective on the first, he's about due to drop to the classification in the drama, formerly known as "first walking gen."

Prof. Chas. H. Bright Awarded A. B. Today

Prof. Charles H. Bright, now of the faculty at the Chadron State Teachers College, but for many years associated with the local institution of higher education; as student and teacher, was awarded the degree of Bachelor of Arts, as a part of the graduating exercises at the Wayne State Teachers College this morning.

Twenty-eight years ago Charles H. Bright came to Wayne, Nebraska, from a rented farm in Hall county, seeking an education in the old Nebraska Normal College, on the same hill that is now crowned with the magnificent buildings of the present state institution. Here he fought his way up, completing his course in the school, teaching in the nearby town of Winside, winning the honor of the county superintendent, becoming member of the faculty of the Chadron State Teachers College.

Finger Prints On Car Are Identified

Butte, Neb., May 24.—No surprise was shown in official circles here of the report that Hans Nielson, state fingerprint expert, had identified bloody finger prints as being those of the man in which Simons and Frank Paul, the murdered Spencer automobile dealer, were driving, as those of Simons. This information, however, had not been confirmed by Mr. Nielson before he left for Norfolk Wednesday morning.

Nothing out here as to what the finger print expert found on the bloody hammer which was wrapped in a tarpaulin. This hammer, it was stated, was found near the automobile, but had been borrowed by Simons from a Spencer man. Simons had admitted that he noticed blood on the automobile, but had not noticed the left Paul several miles out in the country with a bootlegger. He denied knowledge as to how the blood came to be there.

Mr. Nielson was expected to stop in Norfolk Wednesday noon for a conference with Chief of Police Pizer who arrested Simons after he left Fairfax, S. D.

It is indicated here that the trial of Simons for "premeditated murder" of Frank Paul will be speedy. It is expected to start here tomorrow. Nielson expects to leave Butte Friday or Saturday for Norfolk.

Sheriff Wants Simmons

Lincoln, Neb., May 24.—State Sheriff Myers has received messages from the county sheriffs of Hooker and Grant counties, asking him to claim on Walter E. Simmons, alleged Boyd county murderer, should he be released. Simmons is in the state penitentiary for refusing to testify in the trial of a lynching by a mob near in Boyd county following the killing of a garage owner at Spencer. Sheriff Dutton of Hooker county, in his message said:

"Simmons gave two worthless checks. He borrowed a man's horse and saddle without returning them. He is also wanted at Kearney. A telegram from Hans Nielson, state fingerprint expert, who is assisting Nat. Peters, shot on the spot with the murder, says he has positively identified bloody finger prints on the automobile, in which Simmons and Paul, the murdered man, were driving, as those of Simmons.

Had Record at Hyannis.
Hyannis, Neb., May 24.—Walter Peterson, here on the state penitentiary in connection with the murder of Frank Paul, auto dealer of Spencer, Neb., lived the first. Although he was living in Grant county on the ranch of Leslie Moran, there he is said to have won the heart of a school teacher and to have been paid $125 by her money.

When he left he took a horse, traps and saddle, belonging to Moran. He had made a payment on the horse, Moran says. During his sojourn here, Simons was accused of killing one of Dan Egan's steers, and also was said to have been implicated in a bootlegging deal.

Why It Pays to Feed Butter Milk

When corn alone is fed, authentic experiments show that only about 20 per cent of protein, or flesh producing elements, are retained, 23 per cent from whey. By adding Semi-Solid Butter-Milk to the corn ration the amount of protein retained is increased to 62 per cent.

Semi-Solid Butter Milk is today solving the feeding problems for hogs and poultry men. The essential food elements have been retained and 75 per cent of the water removed.

—One hundred sixty-five Wayne county farmers are using Semi-Solid and fully 20 per cent have come for their second barrel the past week. That's the final argument. When good, successful farmers repeat on their first purchase, come with the message, "My pigs are doing fine," "I am thoroughly satisfied with Semi-Solid." "My pigs quit dying after the third days' feeding," "I am satisfied I will mature my hogs four months ahead of my neighbors who do not use Butter Milk." Semi-Solid is a good investment for the farmer. We are offering a service that means thousands of dollars to Wayne county hog and poultry raisers. You should get your portion this year. Phone your order today. 35 cents per hundred. It's the dairy in the yellow barrel.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher.

I thought one time I was succeeding in loving Miriam Jones, and then she had me pinched for speeding. Pop Anson says I was doing it wrong. My heart is full of loving kindness, with impulsive high and strong, but neighbors in their willful blindness, all get themselves in wrong.

A Good World.

Oh, everything is bully in this gay world of ours, and all my paths are fully begrimed with flowers. It's true I have the measles, the shingles and a wen, and hobcabs, but my wife has killed my old gray hair, but illness or lack can't make me sprinkle tears, or heard out vulgar curses that might offend your ears. Cold winds no longer hound us, the sky is bright and blue and spring is all around us, and balmy winds come through. The day is bright and smiling, and the sun is shining, who stands around reviling a world so good and fine. It's true my teeth are achin'.

Old Captain Jones is poor, white hair, and wrinkles, who stands here; it's true my spotted beard has foot and mold disease—but oh, that scented zephyr, that fragrant normal breeze! It comes from lands of spices, from islands in the sea, and in a brace of trices, it brings relief to me. This good old world is a grand one, in which we play our game, and have around and well so, is all the blue prints claim. Sometimes the skies are cloudy, and wind, chaunt and rain, is making itself so good, and look like fourteen cents; but take things all together, the world is bright and fair, and each I question whether it's education, or what.

Being a Bore.

It isn't hard to be a bore, if you take my way. There is one way to make your neighbors sure, and spoil man's life, and only in the most liberal place of mind. Perhaps you have an old tin car, an antiquated one, it's then that you sound its praise near and far, and brag how good it is. Up heeding mindless it tears, without a change of gears; it hasn't cost you for repairs a buck in fourteen years. Your friends all know your old tin bus, they see it every day; they know it isn't worth a cuss, no matter what you say. And they have cars that really make a splash for grace and style, and they all wish for Peter's sake, you'd let them brag with you. The auto makes the whole outdoors the playground of the mob; it also makes a crowd of horses where'er its pistons throb. And there are ninety other ways to bore your writing friends; new systems of ways meet your gaze, when some old system ends. Sir Oracle is still a bore, wherever he may roam, the man who talks as though all lore were packed within his dome. To talk the sideboards off of men is not a wholesome plan; a flash of silence now and then is good for any man.

The Secret Sorrow.

As Bassett To James Beeswax Jing, my task will soon be closed; he would not smile or dance or sing, as optimists proposed. So men have said he was a rogue—because he heaved no smiles, but roared and groined from his couch, and groined in many styles. But ere he left these scenes of strife, he said to me, "Old scout, my relatives have spoiled my life, and put me down and out. Oh, I have uncles by the score, who ate all I could earn, and I have nieces twenty or more, and I have aunts and aunts. My wife has cousins by the ton, and countless nieces too, and they would eat up all the mon that for my toil I earn. They just dropped in three times a week, when I was alone on the board, with gleaming fangs they came my way, on foot or in a ford. And I'd have fired each hungry bore, but my wife would not permit; the more that flattered to our door, the happier was she. I broke my springs and stripped my gears providing seats and towels and soap, through long and weary years I fed a hungry host. And people thought me full of guile because my face was grim; I couldn't see a grand and smile, or sing a hosanna hymn. He breathed a few despairing pants, then his tired form was still; and forty conscientious aunts cried, "Did he make a will?"

The Ruined Life.

Proceed to tell of Abner LeGrand, who in a padded cell, I knew him in his younger years, when he was blithe and gay, and joyous as a voice of steers he carried on his way. In paths obscure he plucked along, and gained a small reward, and life was all a grand sweet song without a minor chord. At last by chance he conquered fame, and great was his renown, and all the snooty artists came—from every part of town. They spotted his when he sat to eat his shroded hair, but they shot his hat, they shot his feet, but snaphot him stand against. He was caught in a trap or sneeze, but snaphot first went on sneeze, snapped the spavins on his knees, the snaphot in his hair. He couldn't ride the stairs; he got his every act, and most of them setting back, he felt his brain contract. The snaphot fires so stirred his wrath he tore his beard and went; they got his every thing from the setting back, he felt his brain contract. The snaphot fires so stirred his wrath he tore his beard and went; they got his every thing from the setting back, he felt his brain contract. The snaphot fires so stirred his wrath he tore his beard and went; they got his every thing from the setting back, he felt his brain contract.

Recognizers.

Omaha Bee: The science of taking care of sick business concerns has not pace with that of curing the ills of human beings. Twice within a month a high federal court has set aside the university under which local corporations were being managed, has voided the acts of those in charge and has turned affairs over to other managers. A note filed on or about the 15th of last month are multiplied and the whole situation is little short of chaotic. In particular, the University of Omaha, which has been the scene of many of our most serious business failures, has been the scene of a similar situation. The expense of litigation amounts correspondingly. In the case of receiverships, the cost of receiving the cost of receiving the receipts. Moses was the original law giver. The Teeth and Health

People with missing teeth are only part of what they should be. A farmer would not cut a field of wheat with a machine with missing or defective teeth. A miller would not continue to run his mill with a defective roller.

You cannot grind food in the mouth with defective or missing teeth. The miller and the farmer lose money. You lose health. Which is more important?

Never Has to Go To Bed From Attacks of Indigestion, Bilio-ness and Headaches Any More—Gives Tanlac Full Credit.

It is nothing less than wonderful the way Tanlac built me up and I shall have a good word to say for it as long as I live," said Mrs. Berna Morris, 225 North Walnut St., Wichita, Kas.

Actually, when I began taking this medicine I was so weak I could hardly drag myself around the house. I had stomach trouble for a had from it. My liver was out of order and I suffered from periodic bilious attacks which would keep me in bed for days at a time. Sometimes I had such awful blinding headaches I would almost go insane.

Since taking Tanlac I am entirely free from all my troubles. I never have a spell of indigestion now or a bilious attack or headache. I am just in the best of health in every way.

Tanlac is sold by all good drug-gists.

Wayne states that four hundred pure bred bulls are to be distributed to western Canada soon by the federal government as a part of its general campaign to replace scrub animals with "blooded" herds. The animals have been purchased by the chief of the live stock branch of the department of agriculture at auction held recently in the prairie provinces. These animals were a part of the government campaign in distributing the pure bred animals. The government advances each of the recipient animals one year of payment. Such action may not be necessary right now in any part of this country, but the fact will be forced home on the cattle feeders of the corn belt that the recent disastrous years in the range country have seriously depleted the number of steers available for the feed lot during winter.

Rather "Free" Vers. Bishy in Lincoln Journal: In these days of fall and meaningless free verse it is refreshing to come upon a little flash of gold turned in the old manner, one of those sparkling bits of artistry it is always possible for a real artist to fashion with the tools the older masters used, but which the modern pretenders decried as outworn. Here, for instance, is a specimen from The Chicago Tribune, a libid parody of Whittier's "Barefoot Boy," but with a whimsical twist in its tail that makes it rich in its own right:

To Miss Fitzgibbon: Blessings on thee, little dame—Barefoot girl with knees the same. With thy rolled down siltan hood; And thy short, transparent clothes; With thy red lips, reddened more, Smear'd with lipstick from the store.

When they make up on thy face, And they bobbed hair's jaunty grace, From my heart I give thee joy—Glad that I was born a boy.

That last line is scarcely human, so lyrically, just as you please, says the Philadelpia Record.

Board of Equalization. Notice is hereby given that the board of county commissioners, the county assessor, and the county clerk will sit as a board of equalization on the 18th day of May, A. D. 1922.

To High School Graduates. To those holding high school diplomas who wish "to find themselves," and to find a profession which is most flattering in its opportunities, and its possibilities, I wish to ask them to consider the study of Osteopathy. There are eight recognized colleges of osteopathy which are giving such thorough courses of study that their graduates may take and pass examinations before medical boards throughout the land, the course covering four years in nine months each.

There are many medical doctors in New York City as there are osteopathic physicians in the world, and the world is crying for more osteopaths. The advantages and opportunities offered by this new profession are unsurpassed, and any one who wishes a profession where they may make themselves happy by curing others who otherwise could not be, should investigate this new science and profession.

One hoping to make the greatest success in any vocation or profession must have certain qualifications and certainly a vision and an ideal. The rewards now being enjoyed by osteopathic physicians and surgeons in this world, and which needs more graduates as badly as suffering humanity needs relief, such as we are giving in a limitless field. Parents, relatives, friends or other interested are requested to send us names of any worthy ones who might be interested in this field. Address:

DR. HARRY W. GAMBLE, Mo. Valley, Ia.

Bear in mind that your lands, lots, and improvements are all reassessed this year.

All that are assessed are especially urged to call and inspect the books relative to their assessment, as they will materially aid us in avoiding any errors.

The board will continue in session for not less than three (3) days, and all complaints or protests must be made at this time.

Witness my hand and seal, this 28th day of May, A. D. 1922. (Seal) Chas. W. Reynolds, County Clerk.

New Leadership Arising

If such a movement develops, leadership for it is already being provided. Mr. Pinchot as governor of Pennsylvania, assuming that such will be his destiny, will sharply challenge the attention of the country and easily be one of the most salient public figures of the day.

Firestone CORD TIRES

The section at the right was cut from a new Cord of the same size. Careful measurements show that only 1/3 of the tread of the tire on the Yellow Cab has been worn away after this long, grueling test. The carcass is intact after more than 11,000,000 revolutions.

Firestone Cords have averaged over 10,000 miles on Chicago Yellow Cabs (2,000 cabs all Firestone equipped). In thousands of instances, they have given from 15,000 to 30,000 miles.

Look at the tread—scientifically angled against acid, massive and heavy in the center where the wear comes, tapered at the edges to make steering easy and to protect the carcass against destructive hinging action of high tread edges. The carcass is air bag expanded to insure uniform tension and parading of every individual cord. It is double "gum dipped" to make sure that each cord is thoroughly insulated with rubber.

This is the reason why Firestone Cords unfailingly deliver extraordinary mileage. It explains the unanimous demand of thoughtful tire buyers for these values. The local Firestone dealer will continue to provide the personal service that makes Firestone tire comfort and economy complete.

Congressman Evans on Farm Legislation

Congressman R. E. Evans was in Wayne Monday of this week, and in an interview with a Herald representative he set out the activities of congress which were of importance to the agriculturist of the country. Mr. Evans declared that the Sixty-seventh congress has done for agriculture more than has ever been accomplished in the same time by any congress or by any six preceding congresses.

Mr. Evans enumerated the more important legislative acts. "The Sixty-seventh congress," he said, "has provided the emergency tariff which protects agriculture and has extended the tariff benefits personally to the various products as amply provided for. It has passed the packer control bill which transferred to the federal land banks $20,000,000 in excess of what that organization formerly controlled, thus relieving the financial stringency of 1921.

"The present congress," which brought millions of dollars into Nebraska and distributed them through such financial agencies as it has passed the bill which gives the agricultural interests a representative on the federal reserve board.

"Other acts of general appropriation have brought relief. Included in these is the budget act which will result in an administrative saving of $125,000,000. From 1919 when the appropriations were counted by tens of billions, there has been a reduction, until now the appropriations are within four or five hundred million. When it is taken into consideration that the interest on the war debt is $275,000,000 per annum, it is evident that the care of disabled soldiers and other expenses chargeable directly to the war will reach a total of nearly one-half billion, there remains for government administration less than two billion. In 1916, the expenses of the government were over one billion. Taking into consideration the increase in cost of material and labor, the expansion of the various federal departments, the increased work in collecting and dispersion of amounts of money, the reduction in the budget is one of which any party should be proud.

"Agriculture has other interests which the republican party has cared for. The reenactment of the protective tariff benefits personally business, in turn insuring additional markets for American farm products. The question of free tolls through the Panama canal is being agitated but free toll is decidedly unfair and injurious to the interest of the people in the inland portion of the United States."

Congressman Evans told of the proposed bill for cooperative marketing. "This bill will aid the farmer in receiving a just and proper price for his products, a price in harmony with that which he pays for manufactured products," Mr. Evans stated. "But the farm bureau, the farmer union and other organizations were cooperating in support of such an act."

"Proposed legislation which will be of most vital importance to the people of this territory will have to do with transportation, permanent tariff, truth in fabric, long-time agricultural credit and increase in indemnity in amount of loans in federal farm land banks. These matters are at this time before various house committees.

"The effect of the measures already passed," said Mr. Evans, "is reflected in the improved condition of the country. The country has started on the upward trend in less time than was supposed possible in view of the great problem of rehabilitating a country, placed in a deplorable condition by rapid deflation, following a great war, accompanied by extravagance. The administrative forces of the government, like the legislative forces, are hastening to cure evils, many of which were caused by waste."

In speaking of the so-called farm bloc, Mr. Evans stated that the term referred to no group of men pledged to vote as the majority directed, but applied to a group, which, with an equal number of legislators, legislators and supported worth-while measures.

Brother of Randolph Woman is a Suicide

Harlan, Ia., May 22.—Four dead here—two out—daughter—Valdemon would be spirited away by his wife, from whom he had agreed to separate, caused the double tragedy when Hale Miller shot and killed the child and himself.

According to the terms of the separation agreement, the daughter, who was an only child, was to go to a sister of Miller's, Laura Ross, living at Randolph, Neb., and the parents were to have equal opportunity of seeing her. Miller became suspicious that his wife was planning to hide the girl and prevent his seeing her. It is said that Miller understood to put out his woes and to acquit himself of the act he was about to commit by writing the following pitiful note:

"It is my hope that you can stand. I sure have been a failure."
"It seems I have no friends, but I have one real friend and she is going with me. I will never have to go through what we have."
"I will take the blame for her passing, but I cannot leave her here knowing what I do. If she will end a hell on earth for me and lots of others."

"Now to all my friends who helped me during this trouble—I humbly forgive me for this deed. Now I will say goodbye to all and especially to one little friend I do love, but she does not know I am here."
"Since you know who I mean, do not believe everything you hear. I have been framed. So goodbye forever—your brother, Hale Miller."

The person, Vince, referred to in the note is a Harlan woman who has sympathized with Miller in his domestic trouble. The identity of "Ruth" has not been determined. The double tragedy occurred at the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Downs, both of whom sided with him. Miller was about 20 years of age, and had been a rural mail carrier.

Drowned in the Blue River.

The Randolph Times offered this criticism:

"Among several northeast Nebraska towns there is dissatisfaction with the plan of having Wayne the permanent location of the Northeast Nebraska High School. Field meet from Bloomfield comes protest, while Wayne, and other places, including Randolph, are of the opinion that a change should be made. The chief faults found are that Wayne is a town secondarily interested, that its business houses have never closed a door for the event, nor the businessmen or community club, but up a dollar behind silver cups or medals, and that the Wayne people don't even take the trouble to patronize the event. Outside patrons are depended on to provide the funds for all prizes and expense. If the meet is worth anything to a town the sentiment seems to prevail that the town should take some little interest in it.

"It is further pointed out that the rough, splintered and rusty covered stands with which the Wayneites were equipped this year amounted to an insult to the guests who came to Wayne. It implied that they were a lot of people who were out of their wits and it didn't matter."

"We hear it rumored by persons from other towns that a district should be formed of the northeast corner of the state, say Knox, Cedar, Dixon and Dakota counties, with Pierce included, and form an athletic association among the high schools and hold an annual meet, the place of the meet to be changed each year. Bloomfield, Hartington, Wausa, Allen, Pierce, Plainview, Wakefield, Randolph, Coleridge, Laurel and other towns could care for such an event and these towns have been furnishing a large percent of the athletes. In this year's meet not a Wayne high school man was entered. A plan to have the Community club of these towns take hold of the matter and have some of the old time affairs when the towns quit business and turned out to see the boys' work."

Business.

St. Louis, Mo., June 1.—The meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States at Washington having brought together a large number of business representatives, has developed some interesting things regarding the world's economic conditions. Practically all the delegates are of one mind on the subject of the economic relationship of the United States to the rest of the world, especially Europe. They agree that American prosperity is linked with European prosperity, that neither can rise until the other has risen, and that the world cannot exist alone. A common view at the chamber of commerce meeting was that the return to normal business conditions in Europe is the United States is impossible without a restoration of political, commercial, and industrial conditions in Europe. That more rest is needed in the world, and that the United States should not participate in any of the European conferences. The Journal has believed, and still believes, it was a wise decision, and with the rest, can now say when the Geneva meeting has ended without definite decision being reached, to look what happened. Perhaps it would be better to say: Look what did not happen.

It has been inferred from official announcements having to do with shaping the country's foreign policy that the Washington government would be making haste to reach a lending part in some kind of economic or financial conference in the effort to straighten things out in Europe. Now, if it is true that European problems of economy and finance are submerged in a drift of political character, the feat of participating in the same American could participate in dealing with them might be possible. Assuredly, America should not meddle with European political problems. Ordinarily, this government would not be invited to do so, perhaps it would not be permitted that privilege. It is, however, no ordinary time, and since the decision of the eastern and western hemispheres are commercially dependent upon the relationships existing between the two, an altogether new situation is created. America seems to be on the verge of some kind of participation in European affairs. The government may be waiting for further removal of political aspects before going into help reach an understanding on other important questions.

At the chamber of commerce last week J. R. Howard, head of the American farm bureau federation, expressed the belief that no American has a more vital interest in Europe's recovery than the farmer, because he has no other fields to which he can turn in disposing of his surplus. This is true, and yet Europe seems distant to those who raise the corn, the wheat, the food animals and other farm products that go to feed the millions on the other side of the Atlantic. Therefore the farmers of this country are bound to be interested in seeing Europe's economic equilibrium restored. It means as much, or more, to them as it means to the banker, the merchant and the manufacturer.

Arthur Balfour, of Sheffield, England, told the chamber that European depression has very had been very rapid. Doubtless he based his conclusion on the condition with which Europe had to deal. Business there is not so good as it is here, due to the fact that the Europeans cannot produce as much of their necessities as the Americans—they have lost the power to buy, and have depreciated in value, that they have not been able to adjust themselves to new conditions, and that they have not been energetic enough to do all they could have done. A resumption of the four years that will have passed next November since the armistice was signed is sure to create the impression that reconstruction everywhere has been slow. That impression may be due more to the fact that the war is sure to have left the havoc actually wrought by the war is not complete than to anything else. According to Mr. Balfour, Europe has recovered its work of reconstruction, although Americans may believe that she has barely started.

The Quitters.
Sinix City Journal: William Allen White, allude to the 10,000 people who took their own lives last year in the United States as having voluntarily got up and walked out. Leaving their wives and children, this serving the great tragic drama of life that unfolds daily, together with its accompanying comedy. Mr. White conceives that these 10,000 quitters are not so good as it is here, due to the fact that the Europeans cannot produce as much of their necessities as the Americans—they have lost the power to buy, and have depreciated in value, that they have not been able to adjust themselves to new conditions, and that they have not been energetic enough to do all they could have done. A resumption of the four years that will have passed next November since the armistice was signed is sure to create the impression that reconstruction everywhere has been slow. The cure for his disease is to be found in cultivation of self forgetfulness, in contemplation of the great panorama which history is unfolding before us day by day, forever beckoning with its tomorrow and luring us with big events just around the corner from today. It is this amazing panorama that impels in man desire to live that gives them yearning for long life in order that they may witness what is to come.
