CHAUTAUQUA GIVES PROGRAM OF MERIT

Prominent Lecturers Give Survey of World Conditions From Personal Experience

HIGH CLASS ARTISTS APPEAR

Children of Junior Chautauque Present the Pageant, "The Pied Piper of Hamelin."

The Wayne chautauqua session, which closed last evening, brought to Wayne some of the best talent which has been heard here. The programs of each day ranked equal in merit as to the musical entertainment and the lecturers. The lectures were of wide scope and interest and could be easily distinguished, were not tiring to the audience, and were a means of summer recreation or for the entertainment of the friends of villages who sincerely wished to deliver their specific message to the people, in the hopes that the world might be made better. All the musicians who appeared on the program were high class and were equal to the best which have ever appeared in Wayne.

Fesch's original Alpine Yodelers, a company composed of two men and three women, gave a musical program of nature songs and songs of the chautauqua. This group of musicians sang the songs of the Alpine people and played various Alpine music instruments. The leader, a young lad of the company, who was able to impersonate with the use of her lips and mouth, the sound of the violin, guitar, gave some interesting numbers.

Sunday's program, "The Chautauqua," was given by Charles Norman Granville, concert baritone, who was the subject of the musical program on Sunday. He was assisted by Miss Mason, pianist, and Miss Olson, fifteen year old violinist. Both the young artists sang individual numbers on the program. Mr. Granville's work was particularly pleasing because of his clear articulation and his interpretation of the numbers which he chose to sing. The ballad numbers were especially well received.

Talbot's Girls Lectured. Raymond B. Tolbert of Niagara Falls, N. Y., lectured Sunday afternoon and evening. The subject of his address was "The Simplicity of Real Greatness." He stated that the emphasis was being put on the wrong thing today; that most of the things that are placed too high, two of the things in the youth of today which he deplored were: the growing materialism and the desire for riches is needed, and the fact that young women do not know the rudiments of housekeeping. He said that chivalry for women was a thing of the past and womanly modesty on the part of the girls of today will be needed in lifting this land to superlative status of which it is capable. He emphasized the need of business integrity, self dependence, conscientious conviction, willingness to serve others, and reverence for the law.

The speaker gave a digest of his study of the 400 men of all ages, whose names had become immortal. He gave proof by actual instances of the advantages that the majority of these immortal great began life poor and ended it as poor, that most of these great men were not born with money and to depend on the work of their own hands to make a living.

Dr. Henry Stoddard Curtis of Oberlin, O., national authority on pedagogy, was the speaker at the chapel of the Wayne State Teachers College, Friday morning, July 14, as a part of the entertainment course. Dr. Curtis has been associated for years with the playground association of America, holding the office of secretary and vice president. He has written a number of books, has played and a number of magazine articles. At the time of the war he was a Y. M. C. A. physical director and instructor at the A. E. F. university at Beaune France. Besides the main address Friday morning, Dr. Curtis has given several classes today and tomorrow.

Report on Randolph Crops. Help is being given to the first rounds out from fields of early oats the past week-end, cutting of early oats being in earnest here yesterday. The crop of oats in hand, and only a fair crop is expected.

Corn has never looked better, and although it has been getting behind, the rains of a week, is not suffering from dryness. Potatoes have developed much, but produce a good yield. The crop which has been harvested has yielded well, but it is short of straw. Death of Infant Child. CITY COUNCIL MAKES ANNUAL APPROPRIATION Amount Found Necessary to Run City is Considerably Decreased.

At the regular meeting of the city council on Tuesday evening an ordinance was passed which set the annual appropriation for the city at $72,900, the lowest since 1915, before the city pavement was laid. This sum is $14,400 below last year's appropriation of $87,300.

The largest cut comes in the appropriations from the light and water utility for operating, maintaining and extending the electric light plant and water works. In the former fund a decrease was made from $35,000 to $22,000. This was made possible by the $13,000, $10,000 call for less expenditure for new equipment and because there is a large supply of electric power available from the appropriation from the water fund was decreased from $11,600 to $9,500.

An increase was made in two appropriations, that for the establishment and maintenance of a musical and amusement organization and that for the maintenance of the city library. The former was increased from $600 in 1921 to $700 and the latter from $2,000 to $2,500.

Appropriations for the following funds remained the same: Sewer, city park, streets and sidewalks, fire department and municipal highways.

At the same meeting, Mayor William M. Orr appointed Mrs. Winifred Main, as a member of the city library board to succeed Mrs. E. W. Husa, who resigned.

The council voted to purchase the sprinkling wagon from W. H. Hogwood for a sum of $300.

It was also voted that city coal was let to Bert Graham.

ANOTHER CIVIL WAR VETERAN-PASSES AWAY

A. J. Ferguson, Thirty-seven Years a Wayne Resident, Dies Suddenly.

Andrew J. Ferguson, Civil War veteran and for thirty-seven years a resident of this city, passed away at 11:30 o'clock Sunday morning at 730 E. 54th p. m., aged 78 years, 8 months and 20 days. Funeral services were held at the Presbyterian Church Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and interment was made in Greenwood cemetery. Mr. Ferguson was a veteran Mason of Wayne lodge number 129, having joined the Masonic order in Iowa in 1869. During his residence here he was an influential member of Cass Post of the G. A. R. and for a time was its commander. Since about 1890, he had served continuously on the board of aldermen of the local Presbyterian church of which he was a member. Mr. Ferguson's active life was spent as a farmer, but while a resident of Wayne, he was engaged in the real estate and loan-brokerage business, retiring about a year ago. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, after returning from a winter sojourn in California, had gone to their old home in Urbana, Ia., to attend a family reunion and had just recently returned to Wayne. He was a well known man in this community and at all times was a highly respected citizen and devout Christian.

Mr. Ferguson was born in Boone county, Indiana, October 17, 1843. In 1861 at the age of eighteen years, he enlisted in the 1st Iowa Cavalry Company, K. Fortieth Regiment of the Iowa Infantry until the close of the war in 1865. In 1866 he was united in marriage to Mrs. Eliza Dornest of Oelwein, Ia., his first wife. They had made a home on a farm near Urbana, Iowa. They moved from Urbana to Vinton, Ia., where they resided until 1885, when they came to Wayne.

Mr. Ferguson is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eliza Dornest of Oelwein, Ia.; his half-brothers, Madison Ferguson of Kirksville, Mo., Calvin Ferguson and James Ferguson of Urbana, Ia.; and his daughter, Mrs. J. C. Spenser of Marion, Ia., and his granddaughters, Mrs. J. C. Spenser of Marion, Ia., and Mrs. J. C. Spenser of Marion, Ia.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wheeler and Mrs. Waller are nieces of the late Mr. Ferguson.

Miss White Explains Remarks on Fourth

Miss Charlotte M. White who has a keen sense of humor, and who was warmly greeted by the ladies of the company, who was able to impersonate with the use of her lips and mouth, the sound of the violin, guitar, gave some interesting numbers.

On the platform with Miss White, was among others, the young woman who was asked and smooth as a skating rink. The wind was blowing and she was standing on a platform. She explained that she had a lover who was killed in the war, but that after the conflict was over and while the smoke was clearing away, she was invited to meet him at the City of Washington and witness a review of returned troops. She refused. Each wrote a final letter containing snarrel, and she never saw him again. She has even forgotten his name.

Miss White's soul was deeply touched by the events of the late war. She said that she had seen the sacrifices made by the boys who went away to fight for world democracy. She says her love for the boys in uniform has not faded since when they asked her to take part in the late independence day celebration.

Corn Devastated By Hail Near Lincoln

Lincoln, Neb., July 12.—Sixteen sections of farm land totaling more than 10,000 acres of farm crops were devastated by a hail storm Monday night that extended from about three miles west of Davenport to Greenwood, Neb., a distance of about 30 miles.

The only possible salvage from the storm will be a part of the fall wheat crop which was in the shock and is estimated that 25 per cent of that is lost. J. M. Hanson of the Farmers State Bank of Davenport, said that the hail was estimated to be 25 cents but it will run into thousands of dollars, possibly a half million.

At Greenwood, Neb., it was estimated that fifty per cent of the crop of the storm suffered a complete destruction of the corn crop. The corn will be plowed under and fall wheat is expected to be planted. Olaf Olsen, two miles west of Greenwood, lost 500 acres of corn. It was literally beaten into the ground.

Burke's Hurling Wins Game at Bloomfield

Wayne baseball fans believe that they convinced Bloomfield Sunday that the Fourth of July victory here was not wholly due to the work of the umpire, for with the same team Wayne easily defeated Bloomfield on its own field with a score of 9-0.

Burke pitched for Wayne and never was in trouble, striking out fourteen men and allowing only one scratch single. His teammates attacked him wonderful support, and at the end of the game he was victorious, especially that of McDonald and Cough. With a three-base hit and a single, Kelley of Wayne featured the hitting.

Former Wayne Man Praises California

Bert Brown, who moved to Porterville, Calif., from Wayne nine years ago, writes the Herald an endorsement of his judgment in "looking for the Pacific coast, and incloses an extract from the San Francisco Chronicle which bears an article descriptive of California from the pen of a Brooklyn Eagle writer whose sentiments are approved by the former Wayneite.

The Herald will quote three paragraphs from the article as follows: "All the best and the best are by no means segregated. Morality and immorality are not controlled by geographic lines, notwithstanding that California may say so to the contrary. Beauty and ugliness hiberate together. Culture and crudity are often on the same side of the fence. So in California these extremes, paradoxes and contrasts are found everywhere, yet when one attempts to draw a line, as many do, that line "by and large" as the English say—is generally the one separating what is generally known as northern and southern California.

"Southern California is a little bit of man-made paradise with a big bit of the "no man's land" of barrenness and desolation surrounding it. Northern California is a big bit of God made paradise with few vestiges of "no man's land" to hem it in. "The plains of the south are desert wastes, the home of sagebrush, mesquite, chaparral, cactus and soap weed—save where man has conquered nature. The plains of the north are wooded lands, heavily timbered with stately trees, grassy fields, singing birds and native wild flowers everywhere."

In the absence of a county fair next fall, it would be a wise and beneficial enterprise for Wayne to put on a fall festival of some sort. It could be arranged as a trade carnival, introducing the new season, combining business with a number of worth-while street attractions.

One thing we liked about Rev. F. M. Druiner as chautauqua manager was the "know" which he had in making talking and not empty with needless reiterations the major portion of the time allotted to stated attractions. Chautauqua managers are apt to be too loquacious and longwinded. The brevity of Mr. Druiner made a favorable bit.

Phillip P. Kohl of Wayne, is a candidate for the democratic nomination for state treasurer, and we would suggest to those who expect to vote the democratic primary ballot that they bear him in mind and vote for him. It would be a pleasing expression of friendly interest in a home man for a state office if every democrat in the county would give him a boost on primary day.

Everything looks dark and gloomy to some people if their baseball team does not play a winning game. A few at Bloomfield feel that way, as reflected by the Monitor. To these ballless few, the sun, though repulsed, does not seem to shine brightly if their ball team loses to an opponent as it did to Wage. Wage does not seem sweet, and loses its saltiness, and everything and everybody is awry. We would suggest that it would be an important contribution to unity and good feeling to let the Bloomfield team win.

W. L. Gaston, candidate for secretary of state, has reason to look to Wayne county for an overwhelming vote on primary day, and let us not disappoint him. He was a good citizen of Wayne, constructive, generous, always helpful, always loyal. He has made an excellent deputy, and he will give him the chief's place.

We understand that the county superintendents of the state speak in highest terms of the administration of Superintendent John M. Matzen on account of his understanding of the problems of the rural schools and his successful experience in mastering such problems. Rural communities like Matzen's way of handling their schools, and they are likely to remember him generously on primary day.

The popularity of the late Congressman Moses P. Kinkead in the sixth district which he represented in Washington for twenty years, was attested at last Sunday by a throng of people from all parts of the district and from all walks of life met the funeral train which conveyed his body to his home. Congressman Kinkead had entrenched himself in the hearts of his constituents, and his death has been a source of profound regret.

Young people who are yearning for something new and exciting for diversion, should understand that pleasures have been multiplied a good many times over during the past thirty years. Appreciation is sharpened by contrast. Young people thirty and forty years ago were content with a rule, jeans and calico. They paid no attention to fashion. Their luxuries were usually restricted to ice cream on the Fourth and candy at Christmas time. They had no automobiles, no moving pictures, no phonographs, no chautauquas, no radio sets, no parks equipped for play, no golf grounds, no supervised football or basketball. They attended literary societies, Sunday school picnics, swam in a murky creek and rested on such play and recreation as cost nothing. Opportunities for pleasure today need only be contrasted with those afforded former generations to be appreciated.

The labor problem was analyzed at considerable length by Dr. Andrew M. Brodie of Washington, D. C. at the Food Conference Tuesday evening, and cooperation was offered as the only solution. It is likely in the audience could be found people who would sympathize wholeheartedly with the labor unions, giving all blame to capital. It is just as probable there were those who, blind to the rights of employees, would fasten all responsibility on the unions. Either takes a one-sided view, either would unjustly crush the other and rob the country of essentials to industrial development and general prosperity. Those who are tolerant and appreciate the value of both to society undoubtedly take the correct view. As pointed out by Dr. Brodie, both labor and capital are necessary, and neither could get along without the other. He pointed out that capital had no right to close a factory or other employing institution and thus force people into idleness. He also insisted that a man had a right to quit his job, but that he had no right to persuade others to quit. He said ten per cent of the people belonged to capital and labor unions, and that this fraction of the population scored the ninety per cent. But he added that the two contending elements were slowly coming to understand the need of harmonious cooperation. The only solution of the problem, as he believed.

Harding's Neighborhood Talk.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: The "labor bloc" wants high wages and short hours; the "farm bloc" wants a gross of things for the farmer; the "tariff bloc" wants a tariff as high as a hawk's nest, and the "radical bloc" wants everything changed. Selfishness, mostly, wrapped in arguments and clouds of steaming words about justice and human rights. When an old neighbor returns from wrestling with organized greed and increased selfishness, we understand and agree with him as he tells of it. It was so that the president talked it over with his neighbors and like-minded people everywhere. It was not a great speech as speeches go, but it did not ledge the fundamentals. It might have been even more frank if the world had not been standing around eavesdropping at wireless towers and the ends of wires and cables.

Europe Greet's Former Pres. Taft

Former President Taft made no flamboyant announcement of his trip to Europe this summer, still he is being received with enthusiasm and interest at every center visited. In London he was honored at state affairs and dinners in a way befitting his ability. The fact that he is now chief Justice of the United States impresses Europe. The tour is developing into triumphal trip, not unlike that tendered other presidents on visits there. Picture shows Mr. and Mrs. Taft arriving in France. It also shows how the former president has lost in weight.

Swept By Storm.

Chicago, July 11.—Merging waters started sweeping over today from the effects of hail, rain and wind storms, which swept over Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas yesterday, causing damage and some loss of life.

In sections of these states where the precipitation was not excessive reports said crops were benefited. In some places, the rain breaking excessive drought.

A flood burst at Kansas City late last night flooded the streets and sent automobiles away from the curbing and overburdened storm sewers. Lighting systems in Kansas City and similarly were severely benefited.

Unofficial records placed the precipitation at two inches in ten minutes. The storm ended a forty-three-day drought in Chicago and vicinity, but only slight damage resulted from the high wind which accompanied the downpour.

Omaha, Neb., July 11.—Three persons killed, at least two others so seriously injured that their recovery is doubtful, and property damage that may reach these millions dollars was the toll of storms and a tornado that swept parts of South Dakota and Nebraska, Saturday night, Sunday and Monday.

With the reopening of communication lines into the effected territory today, details of the widespread damage became known here.

Reports to the Associated Press and local newspapers brought out the following details:

Three million dollars damage done by Saturday's night toro and cloud burst in Gregory and Charles Mix counties, South Dakota, and Knox county, Neb., $1,000,000 damage in Gregory county, Nebraska.

Thousands of heads of livestock killed.

The town of St. Charles, S. D., with a population of 200, virtually blown off the map.

Hundreds of buildings destroyed.

The known dead of the Saturday tornado is one. Howard Hopewell, killed by a falling wall at St. Charles. Two more names were added, however, as a result of a second tornado which struck near Sarsaparilla, Neb., last night.

Tom Rose, 35, a farmer was killed when the barn on his farm was wrecked and Sam Wineham, 12, was drowned when thrown from a wagon going over into a water filled ditch, pinning the boy underneath. His mother was with him in the wagon at the time.

Several persons were reported injured near Creighton, Neb.

No hopes are entertained for the recovery of two others, physicians here report.

Six men who were in the room at the time of the accident were seriously burned. The names of the four still living are: Louis Smrz, Joe Balsak, Willford Madore and Joseph Masyska.

Fire at Crofton.

Crofton, Neb., July 12.—A frame building on Main street and contents were badly damaged by fire early Monday morning. The building was occupied by the John Grey, implement dealer, and the People's Cash store, a Sioux City firm, managed by Hugh Gallagher.

The fire had gained considerable headway when discovered, but fortunately for the first time in history the water supply was good and the flames were soon extinguished after heavily-damaging the building and stock carried by both concerns.

The loss was partly covered by insurance.

Kitchen Stove Explodes.

Gordon, Neb., July 12.—Mrs. McClellan and two children, living 46 miles south of Gordon, were seriously injured when a kitchen stove that Mrs. McClellan was using to start a fire in the kitchen stove exploded.

The mother and one child were brought to Gordon, where their injuries were dressed. Although badly burned, it is believed they will recover.

Political Trimming is Curse.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 12.—Political trimming is the great bane of American public life today. It accounts for the shifty inefficiency of congress, for the lack of real leadership in either house. When will men in public life learn that the people love and admire a leader with moral courage, even though he makes mistakes, and that the trimmer is despised and rejected, as soon as his lack of moral courage is discerned?

Kansas City Times: American tourist are flocking to Germany where they can get 400 marks for a dollar. That shows how far Americans will go when a mark down sale is advertised.

To Avoid Appearance of Evil. Sioux Falls Press: It has come to a stage where a man cannot take a trip to Europe without being under the suspicion of journeying forth for a drink. For this reason, and others, we are going to confine our own vacation-trip to the United States this year.

Market Your Hogs Earlier at Higher Prices

Semi-Solid cream and maintains health which is a strong resistance against disease. Semi-Solid Buttermilk is milk in its highest feeding value form—cheapest to use because it's all nutriment and 100 per cent digestible. It's "The Dairy in the Yellow Barrel"—real buttermilk with 75 per cent moisture removed and its use will increase your hog and poultry profits.

Pound for pound Semi-Solid is guaranteed to equal or excel any other milk by-product in feeding value.

Since April 11 we have sold and distributed to Wayne county farmers five full car loads Semi-Solid. This is an item that repeats—will shorten the feeding period and create more profits in the hog and poultry industry. The Change in Boys.

New York World: William Allen White made the discovery that there are things in the psychology of the modern boy of which he is ignorant. His disillusion came with the flaying of his ribs for a Fourth of July parade of boys with dogs at Emporia, Kan., with a prize to reward the youngster who had the largest number of canine pets in line. To the surprise of the distinguished editor and philosopher not a boy with even one dog turned out. Times change and boys change with them. The trouble with many writers who pose as authorities on juvenile character is that in creating a fictional type of boy who they are apt to lose sight of the variations which occur in youthful interests from generation to generation. They populate their Boyvilles with boys of traditional juvenile attributes who yet are not to modern form. Boys of the present day have so many new interests that dog-fighting, visiting the old swimming hole and even fraternizing with dogs have declined in the relative scale of importance.

Yankton Press and Dakotas: Of course, if it is really necessary for Uncle Sam to sell booze, he might supplement his maritime liquor business with a bar in every postoffice.

Worse Than Disease. Minnesota Journal: Revolution, revolution—it is in the air and on every tongue. At best, it is a desecrating cure, and usually it proves worse than the disease. We ought not to tolerate it. There are no evils here so great as to invoke violence, save in the minds of such as confuse strengthened by the fact that much of his information was gained from life-formers in the Illinois penitentiary, who would have had reason for not telling the truth, and from the first-hand experience which he secured during his years on the Chicago municipal court bench.

Program by Artist.

Miss Mary Bryan Powers, lyric soprano of Chicago, who is soon to entertain a concert, was the chief attraction on the Tuesday afternoon musical program. With equal power she sang classical and familiar songs. She closed her evening program with a pleasing rendition of "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." Mrs. Laura Forbes Tompkins was the reader of the company. Particular praise was accorded her for the presentation of "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" in the afternoon and "The Campfire" in several musical readings. She also played several piano selections.

Lectures by Dr. Brodie.

Dr. Andrew J. Brodie, who has made an extensive study of labor and industrial conditions and who has traveled widely, lectured both at home and evening on Tuesday. In his first lecture, "The Morning Cometh," he presented a significant survey of world conditions. He said that the United States, though deficient in many ways, was the natural leader of the world at this time and that all peace-conferences would fallacy until Uncle Sam took a part in them. He praised Ex-president Wilson's high ideals but stated that he was not a practical politician. Dr. Brodie criticized the present educational system and the attitude of teachers, who have two prayers, one for Friday night and the other for payday. He said that divorce often grew out of friction in the home and that to avoid this, the husband should treat his wife as he did when they were first married and that the wife should keep up her appearance. Dr. Brodie said that people possessing both visions and working powers were kind and people that were not were not.

Dr. Brodie's evening lecture was a survey of labor and industrial conditions. His topic was, "Natural Law in the Labor World." He made the statement that two-thirds of the cause of the late world war was the labor problem and if ever there was a greater in American, it was foretold, it will be between capital and labor. "No government can settle the labor trouble, the sink and file of the people must do it," he said. Brodie. The speaker traced the growth of the division of capital and labor into two distinct groups and then followed with a summary of the good and bad things in both capital and labor. He concluded with his solution of the problem. Dr. Brodie has investigated hundreds of labor strikes for the government and the facts which he offered his audience were based on his observation. He said that capital is necessary for without it paper money would be worthless as it is in Russia today, that there would be no automobiles, no electric lights, no telephones, no news of the world each day for only one cent. The wrong thing about capital is that the boss ignores money from his money. Brodie declared that capital is ready to pay a good day's wages for a good day's work. He showed that three per cent of the people of this nation controlled ninety per cent of the capital while seven per cent of the people held the vast majority of the labor. He showed how the remaining ninety per cent was made to suffer because of the war between capital and labor. Dr. Brodie made the statement that strikes never will be settled anything and never will be that strikers have never made material gain. "They are the chief principle of the thing," stated Dr. Brodie, "but they should be looking out for the interest." The solution which he offered was that of cooperation, through compromise. He said employers needed to pay not only a living wage, but a living wage which would be enough to let them love their tasks, a thing which they will do if it isn't just an arduous task which must be done in order to live.

Closing Programs.

Three young ladies, known as the Schubert Concert Party, gave a program of music, readings and sketches at the afternoon and evening pretidues Wednesday. The main part of each session was the series of character studies by Zellner. By a series of rapid changes he portrayed the characters of the present time and men of past note in the United States. One Wayne lady who had seen and heard the play, Mrs. C. B. Grant, complimented him upon his excellent portrayal and impersonation of these men.

Closing Programs.

The children of the junior chauntiqua under the direction of Mrs. Frank Carleton, the Mutual-Relief Junior superintendent, presented the program of the evening at the Hamilton as the opening part of the evening program. The speaking papers were as follows: King-Bernard-Pollard on crutches, Nell Pollard; one of the mothers, Kathryn Lou Davis. There were two groups of dancers, the young and old and the young and old. Several small children in brown and gray costumes took the parts of the rats. All the children were appropriately dressed in their parts. Rev. P. M. Druliner, pastor of the Methodist church at Carroll, who is spending a month with the chauntiqua company, and Mrs. M. Druliner, who is spending a month with the chauntiqua company, were the guests of honor.

He withdrew from the race for reelection because of the condition of his health, but later he reconsidered and won again as usual. Several weeks ago he let it be known that he would not be a candidate again, but a few days later it was announced that he had reconsidered and would run. His doctors made it plain, however, that he did not hope to live through another campaign, and his withdrawal was then made final.

Unexpired Term Remains Unfilled.

The unexpired term of Congressman Kinkaid cannot be filled except by election. The governor has no power to appoint, and as he refused to call a special election in Congressman Reavis' district to fill a vacancy it is said he will do the same in the Sixth district. This means that the office will be filled at the regular general election in November and that successor so chosen will take his seat next March. In the first district there are candidates for the unexpired term and they are to be nominated at the primary election July 28 and elected at the regular election in November, and will be permitted to take their seats as soon as the law permits the state canvassing board to issue a certificate of election, which may be sometime in December.

Family Reunion Sunday.

Twenty-eight relatives gathered at the A. P. Gosard home last Sunday for a family reunion. The guests included Mrs. Gosard's three daughters and their families as follows: Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McCormack and children of Hastings; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hancock and daughter, Miss Irma; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Clark and family of Carroll; Mr. and Mrs. George Rice, Mrs. Craddock Morris, and family of Carroll.

Private Campfire.

Members of the Firiwohe campfire met Saturday with their plans for a private campfire on the shore of Crystal Lake, beginning July 20. Mrs. E. O. Gardner will chaperon the girls at the lake. The campfire members will camp at the chauntiqua tent Tuesday and Wednesday and will also camp at the state normal next Monday to help defray expenses of the outing.

For Mr. Knoll.

Mrs. John Knoll entertained Sunday evening at a surprise party for her husband, who is teaching at the university. Visiting and music furnished pleasant diversion, and Mrs. Knoll served ice cream and cake. Those who were present were Mrs. J. R. Tefft and family, Miss Anna Frederickson of Sioux City, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wacker and family, Frank Kruker of Winfield, and Paul Knoll.

Congressman Kinkaid Dies in Washington

Washington, July 6.—Representative Moses P. Kinkaid, republican of Nebraska, died in a hospital here today of heart trouble. He had been ill a week.

Kinkaid was chairman of the house irrigation committee which had been holding hearings on the great Boulder Canyon dam project. Kinkaid's body will be taken to O'Neill, Neb., tomorrow. Nebraskans in the national capital were shocked and saddened to learn of Kinkaid's sudden death at 9 a. m. He had been taking special treatments at Garfield hospital here and it was thought he was improving. A special congressional committee will have charge of the funeral arrangements. Congressman Kinkaid, who represented the Sixth Nebraska district, served practically twenty years in the house, having been first elected in 1902. His present term would have expired March 4, 1923.

Was Born in 1854.

Kinkaid had been prominent in the political affairs of northern and northwestern Nebraska. He was born in West Virginia on January 24, 1854. In 1881 he came to Nebraska. He was a lawyer by profession and a graduate of the department of the University of Michigan. In 1883 he was elected to the state senate and was made chairman of the committee on agriculture of that body. For three terms he served as district judge. His home was in O'Neill, Holt county. He was the party candidate for congress in 1896, but went down with the remainder of the ticket in the Bryan wave.

Kinkaid was widely known as the author of the Kinkaid homestead law which permitted the taking of 640 acres in grazing sections. This resulted in a great expansion of dry farming in the west. Mr. Kinkaid was also interested in irrigation and had secured many valuable amendments to the law which greatly advantaged western Nebraska. His district was largely devoted to cattle raising and farming under irrigation and dry farming and in these matters he specialized.

Mr. Kinkaid had never married, and although he had not yet reached seventy at the time of his death he had persistently refused to print in the congressional directory biographies the date of his birth. He was known as a great student and conservative man, to retain so tight a hold on his district that nobody could detach it. He was a very resourceful politician, and defeated every democrat opposed to him, and was the best timber in that district was brought forward to defeat him.

Mr. Kinkaid has suffered from ill health for years. Back in 1912

he withdrew from the race for reelection because of the condition of his health, but later he reconsidered and won again as usual. Several weeks ago he let it be known that he would not be a candidate again, but a few days later it was announced that he had reconsidered and would run. His doctors made it plain, however, that he did not hope to live through another campaign, and his withdrawal was then made final.

Unexpired Term Remains Unfilled.

The unexpired term of Congressman Kinkaid cannot be filled except by election. The governor has no power to appoint, and as he refused to call a special election in Congressman Reavis' district to fill a vacancy it is said he will do the same in the Sixth district. This means that the office will be filled at the regular general election in November and that successor so chosen will take his seat next March. In the first district there are candidates for the unexpired term and they are to be nominated at the primary election July 28 and elected at the regular election in November, and will be permitted to take their seats as soon as the law permits the state canvassing board to issue a certificate of election, which may be sometime in December.

There is no provision for nominating candidates for the vacancy of this kind at a primary election, but it is to be done in the first district because of former precedents.

If electors insist upon the right to hold a special election regardless of the probable refusal of the governor or to call one, nominations for the unexpired or short term can be made under a provision of law which says party committees or party conventions shall nominate for vacancies.

Peace Through Friendship.

Dr. Frank Crane: The ultimate solution of the industrial problem is going to be found in the idea of friendship. So long as industrialists and laborers regard each other as enemies, and regard their interests as essentially opposed, there can be no peace. Only when they learn how to get together, and each work for the other's interests, and only as they learn to be fair—under equitable conditions will the solution come.

No Trouble at All.

Louisville Courier-Journal: An irate critic of bathing suits of the period asserts that nowadays it is often necessary to look twice before determining whether the young thing in a suit like men wear is a girl. No inconvenience whatever. Every one glances twice.

Letting Business Die.

Lincoln Star: A man who gave as his reason for not advertising the fact that everybody knows where his place of business is, inspires a Missourian newspaper editor to give everybody knows where the cemetery is, too.

Work Must Have Been Tonic.

Minneapolis Journal: President Harding shook his coat and wrote an editorial for the Marion Star. He has been seen good getting into real work, after fiddling around in Washington so long.

In These Joyous Days.

Los Angeles Times: Further pledge of national prosperity is indicated by the huckleberry crop in Michigan. It is the largest crop ever known. The thing that made Milwaukee famous may be forgotten in this joyous announcement.

I AM delighted with Gifford Woodcock's victory in Pennsylvania.

It indicates a general trend toward progressive ideas. In this connection, however, it is necessary to bear in mind that there have been no more considerable on progressive policies.

For example, a very large part of the 1912 progressive platform has already become the law of the land, thus woman suffrage is a specific incident.

Essay Contest Opens To Pupils of County

School pupils of Wayne county are to have an equal chance with all pupils of the country to compete for the American Legion National scholarship prizes, which will be awarded to the winners of the essay contest on the subject, "How the American Legion Can Best Serve the Nation."

There is open to Wayne county grade or high school pupils between the ages of 12 and 18 the chance to win the cash prizes of $750, $500 and $150, which will be used only towards scholarships in colleges designated by the winners. This contest is national in scope and the cash prizes may be awarded any place in the country. Besides these prizes, silver and bronze medals will be awarded in each state to the pupils winning first and second prizes.

Essays must be received at the office of County Superintendent Pearl E. Howell not later than midnight of August 15, 1922. The three judges, whose names will be announced later, will select the winning essay in the county. This essay will be sent to the state judges, who will choose the three best essays from the winning essays in Nebraska counties, and forward them to the National American Director of the American Legion at Indianapolis. The national winners of the cash scholarship prizes will be announced in October. The winning essay of Wayne county will be published in the Herald, if the national rules of the contest permit it.

The rules of the contest are as follows: All girls and boys between the ages of 12 and 18, inclusive, are eligible to enter this contest; only one essay to enter this contest; only one essay to be used and a margin of one inch must be allowed on either side of the paper; after the essay is completed, the paper should be neatly folded, not rolled; spelling, punctuation and neatness will be considered in judging the winner; age will also be given full consideration.

At the end of each essay, the following pledge must be written: "I hereby pledge my word of honor that I have written this essay myself. I am _____ years old." The name of the contestant, the town and date must follow.

The American Legion is promoting this contest in the belief that in so doing it is helping to fulfill two of its many duties, namely, the promotion of interest in patriotism among the younger generation and the fostering of education. Since no provision was made this year in the National Legion budget for prizes and other expenses incident to such a contest, National Commander Hanford MacNider has given $2,000 to be used for these purposes. It is his hope that means will be found at the next convention for national headquarters to carry on this work and make the essay a permanent annual affair.

Eighty-four districts in the county, involving 2,383 pupils are entitled to a share of this money. People Invited to Write Editorials

How many times has the newspaper reader thought: "Why, but the paper would say something about that! If I owned it, you bet I'd printing something."

Well, here is where the reader is to have a chance.

The Wayne Herald is going to give a prize of $10.00 for the best editorial written by one of its readers. It will give $10.00 as a second prize, and $4.00 as a third prize.

In addition, the three best editorials will be entered in a contest for a grand prize of $10.00, to be given by the Omaha Bee for the best editorial submitted by a Nebraska newspaper reader who is not himself a newspaper employer. The Rules:

The Herald will give a prize of $10.00 for the best editorial submitted by one of its readers who is not engaged in newspaper work; a second prize of $4.00; a third prize of $4.00. The prize winning editorials will be entered in the state wide contest conducted by The Omaha Bee for a first prize of $100.00, a second prize of $25.00, third prize of $25.

Editorials may be submitted upon subjects within the following classes:

Sioux City Journal: The general condition of business in this country is good, but there are situations both here and abroad that make for more or less uneasiness at this particular time. It is necessary, therefore, if it were possible to unload the domestic industrial burden, resulting from unrest and to escape the international financial anxiety that comes from increased chaos in European business in the United States would readjust itself without much delay or difficulty. The work of reconstruction has been carried far to now. As a matter of fact, business is better right now than the majority of people realize. It is only the traveler who has covered much territory and observed improved conditions, or the economy student and expert that senses the full import of the progress made.

Examples of that advancement are at hand. The building program is the biggest in the history of the country. Unemployment does not exist except in a few instances where idle men are separated by circumstances such as distance and family responsibilities from vacant jobs. Manufacturing in many districts, is running to normal capacity. Basic industries such as iron and steel, are operating up to 75 per cent of normal. The markets are holding steady. Crops are doing well on the average. Prices of live stock and grain are such as to guarantee reasonable profits to the producers. There is no lack of money in the country for the expansion of legitimate business. The people are paying their bills. The merchants are selling goods. Business is in a good, healthy condition and could be expected to increase its strength day by day if given the kind of opportunity it ought to have.

Industrial unrest, however, is a menace. It makes no difference who is right and who is wrong in the miners and railroads' controversies with their employers, the results are perilous to the uninterrupted progress of business reconstruction. Factories cannot continue operation, giving employment to hundreds of thousands of workers and producing goods needed in the markets, unless they get coal. Fuel is absolutely indispensable and the stocks are being depleted to the danger point. Meanwhile the miners' strike is apparently no closer to a settlement. Something simply must be done immediately or there will be a break in the business recovery. Who knows that that break would not be more disastrous than the process of deflation was two years ago? Then the whole work would have to be done over again. The long hill would have to be climbed once more. That is not a pleasant thing to contemplate. It is better to maintain a continuous patient to go through another illness.

Then there is the strike of the railroad shompen, which already has created a disturbance in service. The likelihood of the strike spreading to other unions is believed to be strong. A general railroad strike may not come, and even if it did, it is believed a way would be found to keep trains running, at least enough to haul food supplies and other necessities of life. A few trains in operation, however, would not get the great volume of goods to the markets, and when goods do not get to market they pile up where they are made. That amounts in effect to overproduction, and overproduction results in partial or total cessation of work. So the railroad strike brings an amount of worry to the business world that it would rather not have. The economic situation abroad is not such as to inspire American commercial interests with a growing hope. The condition in Germany is worse than here. A financial collapse is expected there, and the rest of Europe is promptly alarmed. The fluctuating of the market to new low record also affected the pound sterling and the franc, and the slowing down of German industry and commerce, has also disturbed other European countries. This country would feel the reaction somewhat later, perhaps than would England, France, Italy and other European states, but it would feel it nevertheless. All of which, considering the situation abroad, might suggest to the American people that if they controlled their own affairs to better advantage they would be able to stand the shock of European recession when it came. Business on its own account is nothing to worry about. It is making a good recovery and would go steadily on to normal if permitted to follow, without interruption, its natural program.

Congressman Evans Makes Good Record

Accomplished Results on Important Committees.

At the coming primaries to be held July 18, nomination of Congressman Evans is to be made from the Third Nebraska district. Congressman Evans is a candidate to succeed himself and it is perfectly proper that his record be briefly spread before the people of the district, that they may have a little more knowledge of his activities during the time he has represented this district in the national congress.

He has held, and is now holding, numerous positions of responsibility that have come to him by reason of his faithfulness to his work and his good judgment in handling his assignments. In the Sixty-sixth congress Evans was assigned to the following committees: War claims, roads and labor. During the first session of this congress he was chosen chairman of a sub-committee of the war claims committee. He was likewise appointed as a member of the committee to which was referred the amendment of the rules of the work on this committee that suggested his appointment to the committee on appropriations of the Sixty-fifth congress. He was one of two out of seventy applicants having but one term in congress to their credit to secure a place on the appropriation committee.

The committee on war claims presented no claim during the Sixty-sixth congress and he was on the calendar that did not receive the approval of the house.

During the Sixty-sixth congress he prepared before the committee on agriculture favoring the resolution introduced by Hon. L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, requesting the calling of a conference to consider the needs of agriculture and such a conference was subsequently called by the president and led to the appointment of the joint commission on agriculture from the work of which such valuable information has come and needed legislation passed.

Although not a member of the committee on agriculture Congressman Evans took part and assisted in the investigations conducted with reference to "future trading" and "wheat cartels" and which, as to the former, he having introduced a bill covering that subject.

When the controversy was on between the federal reserve board and the Kansas City branch bank on the one hand, and the state bankers of Nebraska on the other, he took a leading part with other members of the delegation in behalf of the state banks until they could get upon a basis where they were able to care for themselves. The work of those of the delegation who took part in this controversy materially aided in easing up drastic regulations attempted to be imposed upon the state banks.

Congressman Evans prepared and sent to each ex-service man, within the district who addresses him as available, a letter advising him of his rights as to property, compensation, bonus, travel, pay, insurance, etc., and calling attention to the necessity of busy and prompt action for what was coming to them. In this way he helped many who were deserving, and who otherwise might never have received their due.

He has at all times in both Sixty-sixth and Sixty-seventh congresses voted for economical expenditures of government funds. He voted against guaranteeing a standard per cent to the railroads after their return to the owners.

In the special session of the Sixty-seventh congress he was one of the leaders in carrying through the motion to "recede and concur" in the senate amendment 122 to the revenue bill. This was the amendment which secured the reduction in surtaxes on smaller incomes and higher rates on larger incomes. This action alone has received such commendation as ought to insure his return to the Sixty-eighth congress. The amendment was fought by most of the members of the committee of ways and means and it was the first time during the Sixty-sixth and Sixty-seventh congresses that Fordney and Longworth had been defeated on a vote in the house.

At the time of the attack Mr. Evans was assigned to the committee on appropriations in the Sixty-seventh congress. The importance of this assignment is apparent when it is remembered that by reason of its amendment of the rules of the house this committee now has charge of all appropriations. Prior to this change and the appropriations for the army, the navy, the postoffice and postroads, the indian affairs, the diplomatic consular service and other important appropriations were presented by their respective committees. He was assigned to the sub-committee having charge of appropriations for the department of state and the department of justice; also to the sub-committee having charge of appropriations for the District of Columbia. In the latter committee he was also made one of the conferees or managers on the conference between the house and senate to secure such position. It was while working on this conference committee that it fell to his lot to revise the entire fiscal system of the District of Columbia which work was performed in such manner as to meet with the approval of the house and the only one saving to the federal government of hundreds of thousands of dollars per year. To him was left very largely the provisions of the house and senate to provide for an additional water supply for the District of Columbia and both house and senate have accepted his suggestion. The estimate has already been reduced over $700,000 from the original and still greater reductions are expected. It was for work done in this committee that Hon. Ben Johnson, democratic member of the committee on the floor of the house, commended him highly. The appropriation bills, their passage through the house and the conference on the district bill occupied his time from December 12, 1921 until May 19, 1922, the latter beginning at 10 to 10:30 a. m. and continuing until 5 to 6:30 p. m. Notwithstanding these hours his office has at no time been promptly cared of all matters coming from this committee. Matters concerning pensioners or ex-service men have received special attention.

Congressman Evans has introduced bills for the following purposes: To regulate future trading in food commodities and furnish to all alike, exact and accurate information as to supply and demand, crop conditions, and markets of the same; to increase the inheritance tax charge on estates over $1,000,000; to eliminate as an element of value in the valuation of railroads the present purchase price of the right-of-way; to fix a tariff on agricultural products. The intent of the last bill was carried out in the emergency tariff.

Congressman Evans is opposed to free tolls on the Panama canal; he is opposed to centralization of power in the federal government with respect to all other things which the state, or county, or city, or district, or village, can do; he favors getting back to normal conditions as rapidly as is consistent with safety to the country's interests; he is opposed to the cancellation of the foreign debts or any part thereof, but is always actively engaged in progressive and constructive legislation.

It is clear that our present congressman's record is admirable in every respect and that the people of this district should vote for his candidacy at the primaries that he may be elected this fall for another term.

NASH LEADS THE WORLD IN MOTOR CAR VALUE

NASH A Record-Breaking Six Months

The GREATER NASH SIX

Our books just closed for the first six months of 1922 show that our volume of passenger car business ran far beyond that of the largest previous half-year in Nash history.

And the figures for the final three months of the six reveal a gain over the above the best previous quarter of 30 per cent.

Only a car of exceptional value could possibly have inspired such a pronounced and positive preference on the part of purchasers.

The new Nash line includes models with four and six cylinder motors; open and closed bodies; two, three, four, five, and seven passenger capacity; a price range from $965 to $2,390, f. o. b. factory.

Nash cars driven from Omaha, will be put on the floor to be shown to prospective buyers. They will not be used for demonstration which means that a buyer will not receive a car which has been driven since its arrival here. One car only is used for demonstrating purposes.

We Handle Both the Nash Four and the Nash Six

"DO IT NOW"
 is the Keynote of Success—
 When the eyes ache, burn or water, when type blurs or the head aches, the need of glasses is indicated. Don't wait to get them until the damage becomes greater. Do it now! Almost daily we have patients call up on us with aggravated cases of eye trouble, requiring strong glasses, and with a portion of vision forever lost. Had they called upon us when their eyes first demanded aid, we could have saved them a lifetime of eye trouble.
 We cannot restore lost vision, but we can save it; therefore
 do it now.

He says the climate apporportioned to Billings and vicinity is not the cold and forbidding sort usually associated with Montana in the minds of outside speculators. He says the mercury does not drop so low there as it does here, and that it is not really uncomfortable winter lasts only two or three weeks.

C. E. Carhart Gives Demonstration.
 C. E. Carhart, president of the State Bee Keepers' association, went to Newman Grove a short time ago and gave a demonstration on the care of bees before a group of farmers of Madison county. He was called there by the state farm agent of the county. The Newman Grove Reporter makes the following comment on the meeting:
 "C. E. Carhart of Wayne, president of the State Bee Keepers' association, put on a bee demonstration at the Adolph Bredehoff farm last Tuesday. Mr. Carhart first went through some of the most important things to remember cells, drone cells, and queen cells. Practically every phase of bee work was covered from building up weak colonies to the care of the queen. It was kept busy answering a series of rapid-fire questions all during the demonstration. Special emphasis was placed on the care of the queen. Plentiful of room must be provided in the hives and regular inspection made of each hive during the season. The bees and their hives are in proper shape. This necessitates knowing what to look for. It is the opinion of those present that they would be able to handle their hives in much better shape after hearing and seeing Mr. Carhart in action."

Clothes and Comfort.
 Fitchburg, Mass., Sentinel: Edison, the inventor, says the chief reason he can work eighteen hours a day without getting "run down" is because he keeps his body healthy by never wearing tight fitting clothes. Edison wears baggy suits and loose collars. He never wears tight shoes, a belt or anything that would interfere with the circulation of blood through his arteries. In other words, he doesn't saw crossgrain on nature. Maybe nature intended the human animal to wear clothes, maybe not. Anyway she certainly never intended us to wear garments that fit like the casing of a sausage. In winter time, on streets of cities that have snow and ice, women wear sweaters, sweaters wearing silk stockings and shirt-waists with V-necks out so low they expose the throat to the cold weather and icy wind. A man with a high starched collar and woolen muffler around his neck marvels that the flimsy dressed happens fall to die of pneumonia. The reason is simple: The flapper dresses loosely, allowing her blood to circulate freely enough to keep her warm.

No Danger of Woman Bloc.
 Washington Post: The attempt to form a woman bloc in politics will fail—The last person a woman will want to rule her is a woman.

Mr. Cole and Longevity.
 Sioux City Journal: The recent visit of Cornelius Cole, formerly a United States senator from California, to Washington, has revealed to the American public an interesting personality. By many Americans Mr. Cole had been forgotten and to others he was unknown. He will celebrate his 100th birthday anniversary in September. It was in the early 60s that he represented his state in the senate. The newspapers have been making much of Mr. Cole. He is described as having the appearance of a man of 75. His face is sun-browned and unlined, and he is active and robust. It was to be expected that the newspaper reporters should be interested in his formula for longevity. To them he said that his only formula was common sense. He has tried not to be a fool, he has not indulged in excess and extremes. He arises "pretty early," and he seldom overeats. He believes that an old person should not over-emphasize rest, but should exercise his body. The most important rule to follow is "Don't worry." Choose the middle of the road, have faith in the word of nature, always. "Nothing else," Mr. Cole concludes, "is more "efficiency" in the re-arranging something over which you have little process of life." Doubtless Mr. Cole's comfort. It seems to be true that those who live to great age were born with a predisposition to long life. That is no reason, however, why everyone should not adopt Mr. Cole's formula of common sense in his manner of living, for in that direction lie to observe nature's laws, and act off in comparative youth, while others who violate every rule of health live beyond the scriptural "threescore and years and ten." Length of years is not he desires to achieve great age.

Apparently No Homey Girls.
Harrison, Neb., Herald: According to the newspapers, most all the pretty young girls must be committing suicide. Every girl that we have ever read about who was found dead in a neck with an empty strychnine bottle in her hand was—pretty, and one is led to wonder what the cause of it is. Are the girls in the city all pretty or are the pretty girls the only ones who commit suicide? What about the homey ones?

Old Expression Doomed.
St. Paul Pioneer Press: The new conference habit will doubtless prove the death of the old expression "after all is said and done." Because nowadays it never is.

The Country in Summer.
Drovers Journal-Stockman: "The green-fitted corn means an summer," said James Russell Lowell the first time he ever saw an Illinois corn field rippling into waves of shimmering green against the great horizon line. The expression has become a classic since that day with all who love the country.

And there is something wrong with the man who does not love the country. The city is an industrial and social necessity; the country is a boon, an essential part of the grand scheme of things that makes the burdens of life heavy and the pace too fast. Happy is he who can know the Nebraska country in the first of July, when the hum of the harvester responds over a thousand fields. Whether in the grain belt of eastern and central Nebraska or riding over the enormous swells of the great plains beyond the junction of the Platte rivers, every summer day in this state is a joy and an inspiration to him whose work is not denuded to the primal call of life. Sunrise on the great plains and sunset with its daily miracle of beauty, the twilight during which the distant rim of blue hills fades perceptibly into the azure of matchless night skies, the silence, the peace, the perfect refreshment of mind and body awaken almost forgotten (racial memories of the time when the world was young and man, unannihilated by the curse of care, lived as joyously as did the first pair in Paradise.

The city is humanity's business center, its vast social and intellectual clearing house; but the country, especially the Nebraska country in summer, makes a man think that eternal physical life might be a blessing instead of a misfortune, that is, if it could be spent where cool winds ripple through the grass and night comes as a benediction after the wholesome weariness of the day.

Not Worth Discussing.
National Republican: The theory that "income tax is the devil's way" is really not so entertained by anyone whose opinion is worth anything, and so discussion of the charge is a waste of time.

Cost of Preparing Land for Corn Crop

Drovers Journal-Stockman: How much does it cost to prepare and put in a crop of corn on the average corn belt farm? Figures along this line would probably show considerable variance because of the different methods which are utilized in this work. Some farmers make use of the first, instead of the surface planter. Some use the disk and the harrow more than others. Many farmers operate to make a considerable range in such costs, no doubt, if figures could be secured on the subject.

Agricultural Class Makes Study. The boys of the Missouri Valley High school farm crops class have just finished summarizing the cost of preparing and putting in the spring corn crop, the farms studied being for the most part the boys' own home farms. The records have been kept on fifteen farms, covering 806 acres or an average of 59.6 acres per farm. The lowest average on any farm was ten acres and the highest was 120.

In making a survey of the general methods which were used in putting in the corn, it was found that 417 acres of this land was plowed. A little more than half of this acreage was plowed this spring. Six hundred and thirteen acres were listed and 282 acres were surface planted—approximately 67 per cent for the former method and 33 per cent for the latter. The disk was used quite extensively on all the farms, but only nine of the farms made use of the harrow. The average rate of seeding was one bushel of corn to seven acres and 81 per cent of the seed ranged from $1 to $2 per bushel.

It was found that on the fifteen farms studied, it took an average of 5.19 man hours and 17.5 horse hours to put in an acre of corn. Allowing 20¢ per hour for the man labor and 10¢ per hour for the horse labor, it was found that the average cost per acre was $3.42. The cost per acre on the different farms ranged from $1.43 to $6.75. If the records obtained on the fifteen farms of this region be taken as an average elsewhere, it would seem that the corn acreage per farm is reduced this year as compared with preceding years. In 1919, twenty-two farms averaged sixty-four acres per farm; in 1921, twenty-one farms averaged fifty-five acres; in 1921, twenty-five farms averaged seventy-three acres, while this year the fifteen farms averaged only 59.6 acres per farm.

Last fall this same class kept records on 965 acres of corn from sixteen farms on the cost of husking corn. They found that it cost on an average, 5.6 cents per bushel, or about $1.48 per acre. The boys will want to try to tabulate the cost of cultivating the 806 acres mentioned above.

THE new Studebaker
Four-Passenger Speedster is mounted on the Big-Six chassis with the same dependable 60 horse-power motor that made enthusiasts of thousands of owners during the most critical buying period in history.

Every item of its complete equipment and finished detail suggests ultra style and riding comfort.

The front seat is tilted at the correct angle for comfortable riding. An upholstered armrest divides the tonneau into two individual seats which provide the comfort of an overstuffed armchair.

The touring trunk at the rear, with tray and suitcase compartments, is easy of access, because the two spare disc wheels are mounted on each front fender.

These disc wheels, complete with cord tires and tubes, are furnished without extra cost.

This latest Studebaker creation reflects Studebaker's seventy-year-old reputation for building fine vehicles.

In addition there is a handsome set of nickel-plated bumpers front and rear, a courtesy light on the driver's side, a built-in, third-power transmission lock which is operated by the same key that locks the ignition switch and tool compartment in the left front door. As you all know Wayne county is a farming and stock raising district, laws that help the farmer and stock raiser will directly or indirectly help every other interest in the district. This is the policy I have always followed when in the legislature, and if re-elected I want it distinctly understood that I am going to represent to the best of my ability, the farmer, the stock raiser and the business man of this county and that I do not want the support of any monopolistic corporation or combine.

And just a word to the ladies: I feel sure that if you will look up my past record when in the legislature on woman suffrage and measures that you have asked for I feel sure you will give me your hearty support.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher.

Evening Meditations.

Often in the quiet gloaming by my cottage door I sit from my tangled whiskers—combing chin-chubs; sand-burs, dust and grit. And I see the people chasing to some silly maddening, all diverse mad-house—seeing, on their errands vain—they go. Where the garish lights are burning in a long parade they tramp no one's reading, no one's leaning, but hush! is the evening lamp. In my youth I read the pages writ by men of mighty domes, for there were no movie stages calling children from their homes. When the evening chores were finished, I sat in our humble cot, and with pleasure undiminished read Bill Shakespeare, Pope and Scott. And my head is all ways ringing, as the day of toil expires, with the music of their singing, with the echo of their lyrics. And I soothe myself with verses as beneath my vine I rest, while the boys, in speedster harness, rush to see some Chaplinfest. Times have changed, and oft I wonder if with change we wick or sink, with the evening lamp gleaming under, and the poets on the blank. In their cars of tin and steel folks are going to the show; no one spends a night with Byron, as I used to long ago.

Feeling Away Time.

That my taste needs some correctives I admit with streaming eyes, for with yards of cheap detectives I waste hours that I should prize. I should read the volumes doleful writ by men of bulging domes, but I follow, pale and breathless, the exploits of Sherlock Holmes. While my wiser neighbor traces Einstein's theory to its source, I, with Clety of Forty Faces, mix with sinners vile and coarse. I pass up the stately dictation of philosophers and seers, and the tithers steuts of fiction are my comrades through the years. And my aunts, with eyes accusing, tell me how I'm wasting time, but I find the sleuths amusing, and they're surely not a crime. I have found it doesn't matter what my fellow likes to do; some one's bound to rise and splutter burning language over you. If I liked the works of Bacon my favee aunts would rise and say: "By your reason—you're forsaken, since you read that stuff all day!" So, ignoring the objectives of the good and wise and true, I commune with punk detectives who've just found a hopeful clue.

The Sufferers.

Jim Beeswax has a grievous corn upon his snow-white toe, and all day long his beard is torn, he tends it in his woe. And when I pause beside his gate to pass the time o' day, he falls against the bitter fate that tortures him this way. He speaks not of the lovely moon, of flowers that scent the gale, but gives the facts about his corn, to every last detail. He does not note the languid wide, the waving fields of grain, but tells of plasters he has tried, which failed to ease the pain. John Dorking is a cheery old gent who lives next door to me; his form by rheumatism is bent, till it's a sight to see. All kinds of pain and fancy aches along his limbs cover, and with the fragrant another, and dreams he wakes, he smiles from ear to ear. He likes to talk of pleasant things, of birds and buds and bees, and of the fragrant another, and of Yonder pepper trees. He speaks of moonlight on the lakes, of streams by sunshine kissed, and when I ask about his corn, he says they don't exist. I dodge Jim Beeswax when I can, sidestep him every day, to visit with this breezy man who laughs his ribs away.

Borrowing.

I need a scythe to trim my beard, but can't afford to buy it, so my wife calls a neighbor for another, and chance to spy it. I will not to the neighbors go to borrow this or yepher; I'd rather let my whiskers grow until in the next another, the borrower is lacking friends, and weary town may lodge him, and wherby his way he wears, while moral people dodge him. I use the best of all cats and howlers and sabers, revolving churns and Sunday hats, from my afflicted neighbors. And though I and my kind have different manners frank and pleasing, the atmosphere soon grew so cold I felt that I was freezing. Men couldn't get my attention, he says they don't exist. "The gent is silly, who borrows everything on earth nor fears a welcome chilly." Man can't be happy when he's shamed by his friends forsaken, and so I organized a fund to buy my beans and bacon. I ceased to ask my worried friends to lend me shirts and mittens. I bought my wig and Grogan beads, my grinders and my kittens. One rule of life I have today, I'll have the same tomorrow; I'd rather do without my boy, than go around and borrow.

Too Active.

"My wife is too blamed energetic," admitted Biran Dingbat West. "She admitted I am a sight pathetic because I did fail my hands at rest. With mop and broom and feather-duster she gallops on her course insane, and when I'd sleep I cannot trust her a decent silence to maintain. She'd always scrubbing door or casement, or packing chairs from room to room, or hanging washings in the basement, till she has my soul with gloom. She fills the house with sound and fury, she makes existence a distress; and yet there is no judge or jury who would not call her a success. She slaughters wild, and she's a winner at making comforts for the beds, and if you want a well-cooked dinner she'll surely there, or non-sense treads. Of all the virtues she's of the owner, and I should speak of her with pride; my neighbors say I pulled no bones when she thought. And yet I often dream of Daisy, another girl I might have wed; a rowdy maid, so all-fired busy she wouldn't even come near me. With such a wife a man might idle through long and slumbrous afternoons, but she was taken to the bridge. She's a success—she prunes. Because she's lazy he keeps knocking, and grief and care have made him gaunt; and thus we see that life is changing, even do not get the wives we want."

Untimely Talk.

Sometimes, returning from the mart, my life is full of care, with problems grave that treat my heart, and ache and foster there. For silence then my spirit pants; it is the balm that heals; and I'd be glad if all my aunts would cut out foolish words. But they've a dozen tales to tell to make me stand aghast; of piffing mishaps that befell since I was with them last. They see the ghastly specter of grief upon my pallid brow, but they won't make their stories brief, or any rest allow. The gossip of the neighborhood I hear in my back street. Mrs. Bank and Mrs. Stood scrappled with their fingernails; the Smiths were driven from their flat, my Aunt Fanning frocks, because their son, Airende cat, which was against the rules; old Gaffer Twinkle beat his wife; with snags—jussy—snags—because she used to pocket-knives to pry out rusty tacks. I'm jaded and distraught, and I have problems in my mind that will not let me rest. And all the females of my house, my aunts and nieces, are chirping round like startled grouse, and I have the heart of a broken wheelman, who wins the daily bread, to his bleak dwelling gone, his aunts should merely soak his head, and let him have repose.

A New Tread—a Lower Price Reliable Goodyear Quality

Here is a new Goodyear Cord Tire—a big, sturdy, long-wearing tire—that sells at a price lower than you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown value. It has a different tread from the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread Cord—a new tread with a deep, clean-cut, cog-like pattern—and it sells for from 20 to 25% less. It has in it the same high-grade long-staple cotton, the same Goodyear patented group-ply construction, the same liberally oversize dimensions. When you buy the 4 1/2-inch size, for example, you get a tire whose actual measurement is nearly 5 inches. Don't confuse this Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord with other popular-price cords which sell at the same price or for slightly more. In many cases, these other cords are made of inferior materials, with short-staple cotton as a foundation. Get the tire that is good enough to carry the Goodyear name—that is built to safeguard the world-wide Goodyear reputation. All of the Goodyear Service Station Dealers listed here have the Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord, as well as the famous All-Weather Tread Cord, ready for you now.

Charles Reynolds, Fred Fisher of Wayne, and A. P. Childs of Carroll, went to Columbus to attend the congressional convention.
From Ponca Journal July 30, 1879:
The neighboring town of Elk Point was visited on Wednesday evening of last week by a tornado which struck that place up in a manner more lively than pleasant. Two or three houses were blown down, and great damage was done to trees, fences and crops.

During the storm which visited this section on Wednesday night of last week, the house on Mr. Russett's place in Silver Creek was blown about six feet. Considerable wheat and corn was injured by the gale. Several sections of Mr. Rockwell's fence on South Creek, were blown down.
To say that the weather is merely hot, is not expressing the fact as fully as it should be. It is not only hot, but everything for the past week has been in a state of roasting, blistering, excoriating and infernal red heat. On Sunday morning at 6 o'clock the thermometer indicated 95 degrees. Still, hot as it is and has been, everybody has felt well, especially on or about the Fourth.
The railroad will give excursion rates on Monday, July 14. This is the day when Cooper, Bailey & Co.'s London circus will make a lively town of Sioux City. The fare from all points along the line for round trip to Sioux City and return, will be the same as usual rates one way, and not one and one-fifth rates as is printed on the posters. This will make the tickets from Ponca, $1.30; Jackson, 70c; Dakota City, 25c. At these figures a big crowd from this country will interview the circus.
The county commissioners have been ascertaining the financial standing of the county. They find that the delinquent tax on the general fund, including 1878, amounts to $10,346.74; sinking fund, delinquent on $2,119.30; bridge fund, as above, $3,499.81; total, $16,765.85. Out of this, take the indebtedness of the county, including outstanding warrants and audited accounts, as furnished by the county clerk, $10,000.00, leaving a balance in favor of the county, after its debts are paid, of $6,765.85.
