

ERRORS ARE MANY ON PRIMARY DAY

Names Are Written in to Fill Minor Offices Without Regard to Party Affiliation.

NUMEROUS TIES REPORTED Seventeen in Deer Creek Tie for Delegate to the Republican County Convention.

It is doubtful if the blunders of voters in the recent election can be fastened in entire upon either the voters or the candidates, for there were blunders and complications here and there, especially in the choice of committeemen, committeewomen, and delegates to the county convention. Candidates had filed for these offices on the Wayne democratic tickets, so choice for such offices was generally by the voters in the form of initials. The list in some precincts of the nominees cannot be made at this time.

A few of the blunders may be enumerated. Martin Ring, democrat, was elected delegate to the republican county convention from the second ward. It is doubtful if this could have been avoided if the electors had informed themselves prior to the election of the fact that Martin Ring had been elected to the office of committeeman from his ward. P. M. Corbin and Dr. T. B. Heckert tied for honors in the Second ward as republican nominees for delegates to the county convention, the former being candidate at that time for the democratic nomination for commissioner from the First district. The last man of the second ward chose Mrs. C. A. Orr as republican nominee, the whereas she was a "regular" of the Third ward. The name of Clara Reynolds, who had filed as democrat for the office of county clerk, was written in by voters in various blanks on the progressive county ticket. The name of Leslie Ellis, clerk of the district court, was also used in vain on the progressive ticket as candidate for county clerk.

Some Rip Van Winkle in Chapin precinct cast a vote for C. S. Beebe, democrat of Wayne county, but wrote W. K. Wakefield, Democrat of Lincoln county, for the office of county clerk. It has been inferred that if this had been a presidential election, such a vote would have voted for Andrew Jackson.

A few other difficulties with which the election board must contend can be listed. In the precinct of George H. Lambert, W. Roe was nominated for county clerk on the progressive ticket and Hans Tietgen for sheriff on the same ticket, but the election board agreed to adhere to the statute which provides that a candidate for the nomination on the ticket on which he has filed, cannot become the candidate of another party. A Roger in Chapin precinct called for a prohibition ballot, but it was returned to the ballot box unmarked in this precinct. In the precinct of Lambert W. Roe was nominated for county clerk on the progressive ticket and Hans Tietgen for sheriff on the same ticket, but the election board agreed to adhere to the statute which provides that a candidate for the nomination on the ticket on which he has filed, cannot become the candidate of another party.

City Now Has Sixty Day Supply of Coal

Forethought on the part of the city council has put the coal supply of the city on a firm basis. It is a condition that there is as yet no fear of a shut-down for part time as many places and cities are facing. At present there is a steady supply of coal on hand; 250 cars, carrying approximately 200 tons, or a thirty-day supply, are on the way and three more cars of coal are expected. The city is financially able to pay for the freight of the coal on arrival and it is necessary and for the coal itself within the city.

Log its receipt. Some towns are said to be unable to do this and are for the most part threatened with coal shortages. The railroad strike is more threatening than the coal miners' strike in relation to the receipt of labor is following by the effect of freight shipments and in such case perishable shipments receive preference. This reason coal supplies are often left standing and are sometimes confiscated.

Why Cook Over a Hot Range?

Cooking no longer necessitates a hot range, a hot kitchen, or a perspiring cook. The Hotpoint Hughes Electric Range is hot only at the point where the actual cooking is taking place. There is no open flame to give out heat and to imperil the cook or every passing draft—no after-clearing of soot from cooking utensils—no fumes—no discoloring of walls.

The Hotpoint Hughes stores the heat at the point of application. We want you to test for yourself the new comfort and the new facility with which meals can be prepared in the Hotpoint way. We want you to appreciate how much the new way of cooking and its uniformly perfect results can mean to you.

Farm Husbands.
Minden Courier: It is interesting to note that in a recent contest conducted by a farm paper in Ohio, 94 per cent of the farm husbands were considered by the farmer as a good husband. The answers to the question: "Do farmers make good husbands?" came from cities and towns as well as the rural districts, and all were written by women and girls. The majority of the 94 per cent argued that farm life is most desirable because it gives the wife a chance to earn while still serving as queen of a household. She is a partner in business with her husband, and as such is in closer touch with him than the city wife, who is acquainted only with her home, just as her husband knows nothing of affairs outside his office. Many of the number gave as a reason for preferring to become farm wives the fact that the children are raised where out-door play is plentiful, and that the parents tend the tendency to criminal ways which in turn lead to divorce and despoiled homes. "Give the rural sections good roads," wrote one of the women respondents, "it will be hard to find enough women to keep house for all the men who want to live in cities. With good roads the children don't 'eat' get to school; marketing you can be advanced to a point where there need be no excuse for any farmer losing money; the farm family could easily get to town or city for amusement; the members might desire, and still have the manifold blessings which come from living close up to the heart of America, and which everyone will agree that with ninety-four out of every 100 women writing like that it was not hard to understand why the farm husband's side won out.

A Diseased Industry.
Chicago News: In their communication to President Harding regarding his proposal that the returned work under the old conditions and meantime subject their grievances to arbitration by a national commission, the striking mine workers declare that coal production is a "diseased industry." It is a term as fitting as it is expressive.

The president has sought through the proposed commission to diagnose the condition of this ailing industry and thus discover the required remedy. The mine workers reject his plan as a bid to sort to divide to them. The mine workers, they assert, "represent the human factor in the coal industry and human consideration should like prevail over all others." So it should. But the mine workers characteristically ignore a greater human factor than themselves and their families—the American people as a whole.

There are other tasks besides mining in which capable mine workers can find employment if they choose to do so. Indeed, many striking miners are now engaged in farming or in some other profitable work. But the greater human factor that the striking miners do not choose to recognize, the factor that the presdent represents, is compelled to have coal. This striking mine workers decline to permit it to have except on the mine workers' terms. The president is trying both to open the mines and to prepare the way for the cure of the "diseased industry." The strikers will not accept his plan. "No compromise" is their motto. They say that, having been on strike for fifteen weeks, "they cannot now lightly forego the fruits of their struggle."

The union of coal mining industry are great and must be remedied. But the refusal of the striking mine workers to cooperate with the president of the United States in tidying over a grave emergency, while working for reform of the abuses of which they complain constitute a challenge to the whole people, whose needs are made secondary to the mine workers' demands. It is a challenge that will have to be met by the mining of adequate supplies of coal in the public's interest.

Cleveland Set Example.
Cleveland Bee—Mr. Harding may find inspiration in the act of Grover Cleveland. He may raise the mine in the name of the people, and comply with the constitutional provisions regarding the process of law. It is more certain, he will have popular support in such a course.

Too much of public welfare is jeopardized by the continuance of the strike to longer allow obstinate groups of men, bent on accomplishing purposes and aims of their own, to menace the nation with a shortage of fuel in face of an approaching winter.

One Leadership Undisputed.

For a certain kind of crime the trouble of southern California seems to stand alone. He persistence in that field must be conceded.

The one who patronage amounts to at least, is likely to be the biggest kicker.

Scientists announce the discovery of two new suns. The one who has been using is sufficient, however, as we have felt of late.

A report in the literary digest states that the mosquitoes and jiggers of the country have voted unanimously in favor of maintaining the short hair.

The late, lamented Illinois tragedy makes one wonder if striking coal miners could get into a sufficiently cordial frame of mind to consider compromise and amicable settlement.

Returrence of primary nominations revives discussion of the feasibility of the plan. The primary gives people more direct voice in naming candidates, and if it is not more desirable than the old convention system, it may be repealed by its creators—the people.

Some people want jobs but can't get them; others who would work, but are not interested in the work; some who have jobs, abuse them and deserve an indefinite vacation. A better understanding between employer and employee would seem due.

The one who believes advertisements are not read, is turned to advantage, is a survivor of the archaic and is so far behind the times that there is no hope that he will ever catch up. One must first do something people need or want, and then let it be known. Advertised, it will sell.

We have sometimes approached dangerously near danger by death. But like the horse-in-a-pipe, we always manage to escape.

Triumph last week it began to look as though Aquarius had gone on a prolonged strike, but since then he has been working hard in the fields and pastures have been wonderfully refreshed.

It is noteworthy that the groups of students attending the summer session of the State Teachers College, now drawing to a close, have been uniformly well turned to an exceptional rate of becoming dignified and earnest students has been a source of gratification. The students will be an occasion of much regret.

It is encouraging to note that the city council is prospecting with promise of success, for a new and improved water supply. The present source is said to be wearing out, and it is feared that the water supply is not so abundantly pure enough, but it does not always gratify thirst as it should. People will welcome a change and will have no difficulty in returning need to it.

Direct selfishness is too much the dominant influence in the city. Self-seeking is frequently permitted to prevent community considerations which would ultimately bring larger individual benefits. Like most towns, Wayne needs to develop practical cooperation. The time is ripe for united action to secure an extension of the water supply. Wayne is already a busy town, but it may be made more so through the adoption of an aggressive, co-operative policy.

Beggars who float into town may or may not be deserving of charity. Some are worthy of help, and some are simply unworthy or not. Some may be in need and deserving of help. Others may be better off than those who are said to be in need. They are just to all if a stranger seeking contributions were required to show a certificate of merit from a local official or the city council.

One does not like to be worked by a man who looks good and then have him sliding the other eye.

It may be safely assumed that blame for the coal strike does not rest wholly on either side to the dispute. Both are at fault, and neither seems anxious for settlement notwithstanding the peril of the American people. A prolonged coal famine would cripple the coal industry and hamper transportation.

In meeting the emergency and answering popular needs, the president of the State Teachers College has made a fine record in his department of requirements. More sharp teeth in administration orders would help. No one class should be allowed to upstage another and business and requirements. There should be a way to force settlement with guarantee of fairness in all concerned. In Kansas the state court is proving an example worth considering. It acts in behalf of both sides, and its course is supported by adequate laws.

The nomination of Chas. H. Randall of Randolph for governor is gratifying to north Nebraska people who have long been about time to be permitted to furnish the chief officer of the state. Mr. Randall is a pioneer citizen of Randolph. He is praised most by those who have known him longest and best.

We have never heard anything but good words for him. North Nebraska is fortunate in being able to present a man of such fine character and sound mental attainments. We predict that our country will do its full share in securing his election.

From Ponca Journal July 31, 1917. A letter mailed at Fort Buford, D. T., on the 12th inst., from J. F. Higgins to his father, gives an interesting account of his journey on the steamer C. K. Peck. Mr. Higgins is one of the company who started about five weeks ago to go to Fort Peck agency, where he has been appointed to be station agent for Major Porter.

In his letter he states that the boat arrived at Fort Pierre on the 3rd of July, and while unloading a large amount of freight, the passengers took occasion to look over the town and country around it. The buildings were mostly one story, and the houses were very small. Yet, small as they are, a large business is done there. During the past two months, fifteen new frame buildings have been erected. This is destined to be in a very short time, the leading town on the Missouri above Sioux City. At Fort Pierre an immense amount of traffic is carried on in the freight line. Seventy-five heavily loaded wagons per day, for the Black Hills, is the usual amount.

Leaving Fort Pierre the boat on the 4th came to the Indian village of the Cheyenne agency. There they saw fifty or sixty tepees, and a large number of Indians. The boat next arrived at Fort Sully, which is a high bluff located on a bluff. The next stopping place was Cheyenne agency, where there a salute of 100 guns was fired in honor of the 4th of July. In consideration of it being Independence Day a wonderful dinner was served on the boat. Thus, with an ever changing supply of fuel and good victuals, the passengers meandered on their way. Above Cheyenne agency the country for a long way appears to be uninhabited.

On the 6th, a little episode occurred on board the boat. The steward had some words with one of his men, and struck him with a stick, and then shot him in the arm, breaking the bone. This caused quite an excitement for a short time, but in this part of the world shooting is not so serious an offense as in the states. On this day the boat arrived at Medicine Rock, where in formation was received from the agency that the Peck had been cleaned out by Indians, and several whites killed.

On Monday, the 7th, the boat arrived at Standard Agency, where some good horses and plenty of soldiers are seen. About seventy-five tepees are located here, hence the red man abounds in all his glory. In the afternoon they passed Fort Rice, which is now abandoned. The next day they came to Fort Lincoln, which is four miles from Bismarck. It is situated on a bluff, and is a large and extensive fortification. Bismarck is nearly as large as Sioux City, and is a lively and busy place. On the 10th, they came to the steamers Batchelor and Red Cloud, which were coming down loaded with furs. In the bluff, as they passed along the towed steeps and banks of coal. This called out much enthusiasm on the part of Prof. Perigoze, whose explorations in such matters are well known in this country. The next day, the 10th, they passed Fort Berthold, and also the mouth of the Little Missouri. The bluffs in this region are very steep and high. At night when the boat tied up, the Indians gathered around and whooped up things lively until morning. They are evidently a very different class of citizens in the world.

July 11, saw plenty of beaver, also plenty of Indians going off on a hunt. Along this part of the river, bluffs grow more exalted—300 feet high is not too much, —are in all manner of shapes, and are wonderful to look at. On the 12th, the boat arrived at Fort Buford. They expected to get to Fort Peck on the 15th, when they would find Major Porter.

Farmer Cumnis Suidica. Allen News: Hans Kay—a young farmer about 35 years of age, was notified, by hanging at his home about eleven miles southeast of Allen, sometime Tuesday night of Wednesday morning.

Allen News: Kay, who went to Emerson Tuesday afternoon for some repairs for his binder and appeared perfectly natural in his actions. He returned in the evening with a friend, and after speaking with his wife a few minutes in the house, went out doors presumably to do some chores. Mrs. Kay returned, and when she returned was in the house soon as usual. She did not waken until about 7 o'clock Wednesday morning, and was surprised that she had slept so late as had been a very early riser and usually woke the family.

She dressed and went to the kitchen to prepare breakfast, and upon looking out the pantry door which faces south in a direct line with the barn door, she was horrified to see her husband hanging from the rafters of the doorway. Neighbors were immediately notified and an Emerson doctor, but the body was lifeless when found.

Attorney Kingsbury, Deputy Sheriff Nelson and Dr. J. M. O'Connell of Ponca, drove to the home Wednesday afternoon to attend to the necessary legal matters.

The deceased leaves his sorrowing wife and two sons to mourn him. Mr. Kay's financial condition is in no wise crippled, nor had he been worrying about financial affairs, so that the cause for his sudden death to leave his family in a mystery.

Farmer Cumnis Suidica. Allen News: Hans Kay—a young farmer about 35 years of age, was notified, by hanging at his home about eleven miles southeast of Allen, sometime Tuesday night of Wednesday morning.

Allen News: Kay, who went to Emerson Tuesday afternoon for some repairs for his binder and appeared perfectly natural in his actions. He returned in the evening with a friend, and after speaking with his wife a few minutes in the house, went out doors presumably to do some chores.

Mrs. Kay returned, and when she returned was in the house soon as usual. She did not waken until about 7 o'clock Wednesday morning, and was surprised that she had slept so late as had been a very early riser and usually woke the family.

She dressed and went to the kitchen to prepare breakfast, and upon looking out the pantry door which faces south in a direct line with the barn door, she was horrified to see her husband hanging from the rafters of the doorway.

Neighbors were immediately notified and an Emerson doctor, but the body was lifeless when found.

Attorney Kingsbury, Deputy Sheriff Nelson and Dr. J. M. O'Connell of Ponca, drove to the home Wednesday afternoon to attend to the necessary legal matters.

The deceased leaves his sorrowing wife and two sons to mourn him. Mr. Kay's financial condition is in no wise crippled, nor had he been worrying about financial affairs, so that the cause for his sudden death to leave his family in a mystery.

Discounting the "Discount" in Advance

You don't have to be a shrewd bargainer to get the bottom price on the new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord. Instead of listing it at a high price, to enable the dealer to attract you with a so-called "long discount," we list it as low as we profitably can. You can see from the figures below that its advertised price is lower than the net price you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown value. We believe the average man would rather buy tires on this frank and open basis, and assure himself a product of recognized worth. The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord is made of high-grade long-staple cotton, and it embodies the patented Goodyear method of group-ply construction. In design, materials and manufacture it is a representative Goodyear product, built to safeguard the world-wide Goodyear reputation. It has a different tread from the famous All-Weather Tread Cord—no deep, clean-cut, cog-like pattern—and it sells for from 20% to 25% less. You can get the new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord now, as well as the famous All-Weather Tread Cord, from any of the Goodyear Service Station Dealers listed here.

Table with 4 columns: Tire size, Price per tire, Price per tire, Price per tire. Includes sizes like 30 x 3 1/2 Clincher, 32 x 4 Straight Side, etc.

Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord Tires are also made in 6, 7, and 8 inch sizes for trucks.

Revolution Not Impending. Omaha Bee: The Bee is not convinced that a revolution impending our government has successfully met and withstood more serious assaults than those now threatening. Debs sounded his call to arms thirty-eight years ago, and finished in Woodstock jail. His present proclamation may have the effect of determining the full weakness of the red movement. It will not serve the cause of honest labor organizations, nor materially aid in setting aright any of the things now in disorder.

Would Bring the Millennium. Lincoln Journal: Senator Cummins is not above revising his views of the railroad legislation of which he is the author. His law guarantees the railroad a "living" freight rate on their capital. He announces a willingness now to make them guarantee to their laborers a "living wage." All that should seem to be needed further is to guarantee the rest of us a "living" freight rate and the transportation millennium is at hand.

whom it is a pleasure to converse, recently returned from a gathering of ministers in another part of the state. "What I was told," he said, "by a minister from another church asked me if I had a Sunday night problem. He was referring doubtless to something which is noted in so many cases—the small congregations at Sunday night services. My reply to him was that we had no such problem in Ithaca. And we do not here. Our Sunday evening services are well attended. In spite of the summer season and the busy times of the farmers? It is practically always 'topsy-turvy' full."

Getting the Rural Viewpoint.
"I was born in a city of 350,000 people. Naturally you know at once that I had little knowledge of rural problems and had the big city viewpoint rather than the viewpoint of the rural folk. After I became a minister, I was impressed by the fact that folks seemed to think it was always necessary when talking with a minister to talk about things religious. I would come into a gathering of men who were talking about crops or live stock and when I would arrive those who did remain (for the crowd would seem to scatter pretty well) would begin to talk about other things, particularly about church affairs if they were at all familiar with church activities. It seemed rather queer to me. I was sitting there wondering why a minister might not talk about things on the farm and be just as interested in such topics as the farmer or the business man. That thought has grown and has been responsible for the fact that I am trying to make this church serve the community in every way possible."

The Greater Percentage of the Ithaca church over which Rev. Kellow presides are living on farms. Practically all of the young people are from the farms. Rev. Kellow conceived the idea of having meetings in the church to discuss farm problems. These meetings are held once a month and usually last all day, starting about November and ending usually in March. These meetings are well attended for the church draws from a radius of about four miles. Sometimes speakers from outside are asked to come. Men from the University of Nebraska give talks from time to time on poultry raising, dairying, crops and soils, marketing. All of these talks are appreciated of course, but Rev. Kellow also feels that it is worth while to insist on the fact that...

John Jones and family have an abiding interest in the coming meeting when they know that Jim Smith will tell of his cattle feeding practices or Fred Brown tells all about his experience with sweet clover or Mrs. Gregg tells how she makes her poultry flock pay dividends on the time and investment. And soon John Jones is wondering if in his farming operations he has not found something that might be of value if told to other folks in the community. Soon he is on the program.

"Sometimes we have competition in our programs between different school districts," said Rev. Kellow. "Competition always arouses greater interest. Our church has profited greatly by showing interest in community affairs. Our membership has increased. The young people's society has about 75 members and the average attendance runs from 60 to 70 every Sunday night in the year. In our community meetings we take up for discussion the things that are of most interest in the community, such as modern farm buildings, pure bred cattle, more and better poultry, more and better dairy cows, hog, sheep, tuberculosis-eradicator and various other such topics."

Our time at the parsonage was limited but it had been mighty well spent. Somehow the feeling came that there was more truth than poetry in the rhyme,
"Somebody said that it couldn't be done,
But lie with a twinkle replied,
That maybe it couldn't but somehow he felt
He would not give up till he tried,
So he buckled right up with a trace of a grin,
If he had fear of failure, he hid it;
Somebody had said that it couldn't be done,
It couldn't be done, but he did it."

Church Fills Place In Community Life

Drivers Journal-Stockman: In these days when we hear so many say that the church is losing its grip and that it has no real appeal to the young people, it is gratifying to find churches right here in Nebraska which are performing a real service in this respect. A community center long ago we published a story relative to the work of Rev. E. A. Smith of Dodge county, who is the pastor of the Purple Cane community church. This church, because of the fact that it has allied itself with the varied agricultural interests of the community, serves as a community center and the story of its endeavors has spread to points outside of the state.

A Saunders County Church. A few days ago it was the privilege of the writer to visit the pastor of a church in Saunders county—a pastor who believes that the measure of a church's influence is not determined by the number of sermons preached each year or by the number of persons attending "church" but that a real church links itself in a vital fashion with the interests of the community in which it is located. The pastor was Rev. A. E. Kellow of the Methodist church of Ithaca.

Rev. Kellow, one of those whole-souled, athletic, virile fellows, with Crops-through South Dakota and Nebraska look exceptionally good. Following the Nebraska Highway No. 22 from across the river at Yankton as far as Wakefield, showed some of the best crops. Farm stations are located along the road and several working gangs were occupied in keeping the road in tip-top shape.

The towns of 800 to 1200 population, Wakefield, Coleridge, Laurel, Hartington are the bright progressive towns. Most of them are paved with Omaha gravel and lined with asphalt. There is no good road building gravel in Nebraska and asking like our state gravel highway was seen on the trip.

Business. Sioux City Journal: The country's plans for business expansion are hindered in a degree by the developments in the coal and the railroad situations, which have created an uncertainty in industrial life that cannot be overlooked. Industry is not sure at the moment whether it is to have fuel in sufficient quantities to make production meet the demands of the market. There is a strong demand for goods, in fact it is increasing steadily, but a forced curtailment of manufacturing over an extended period would be sure to develop a shortage, especially in some lines. Neither is industry certain that goods when manufactured will be transported in a manner satisfactory to the trade. One class of railroad workers already has struck with the result that freight schedules have been changed by curtailment of runs. Others may follow unless agencies at work on a strike settlement are successful in settling the differences between the carriers and their men. Expansion of the strike itself would mean an inevitable curbing of transportation that would directly injure business. The government has said that trains must run. If all trains needed cannot be operated in the event of a more extensive strike, preference will be given to those carrying the most coal, and freight transportation will be seriously interfered with.

Another feature of the two strikes that is most embarrassing to business is the confusion sure to result when the miners and the railroad workers return. The country's greatest immediate need is transportation at this time.

who wish to borrow and it is not difficult to obtain. The Journal has observed that so many have marked the business reconstruction at any time, but recognizes now that, if industrial interest were quieted, the advancement would be close to it. The country is in splendid shape to move rapidly, except that industrial adjustments first have got to be made.

Poem by Uncle John

"THE UNEMPLOYED"

Each day abounds in mystery to tax the thoughtful mind, and add its bit of history in lore of human kind. Each problem up for solving demands a potent skill, and keeps the wheels revolving in life's perpetual mill.

To me, the unsolved question is ever as before; dumbfounded with its suggestion—bewilders more and more. I grope amid its fastness, and tremble at its depth, I marvel at its vastness—no soul can put it down!

The question I refer to, is of the "unemployed." . . . The one's job is dear to—but seldom is enjoyed. . . . They cry aloud to Vulcan, and Agricola's King—they crave to strike a welter which never seems to rattle!

My soul is wrapped in wonder—It is, so help me Mike! I have to work like thunder, I ain't got time to strike! The ardent prayer for leisure is ever on my mind. . . I'd pour out all my treasure, for a Job I couldn't find!

ATTENTION TO DETAIL

When a feller pays attention to the commonest-of-things, there's a powerful sight of comfort in the happiness it brings. If we overlook the details in the rush of gettin' there, we may face the grim necessity of bringin' up the rear.

In the thousen' little ventures that a feller undertakes, it may be plantin' flowers, or it may be killin' snakes. Our hand may grasp the saber, or the handle of the plow—but we don't accomplish anything—without a feller's eye!

The man that borries money at a triflin' rate per cent, may dissipate his wages till he don't know how they went. . . but the keercful money lender, as he figures the amount, might illuminate the spender, on the little things that count.

I reckon there is women that's disposed to keepin' house. . . They'd entertain the elephant an' squall about the mouse. They love the little red ant, while they love a dog, by jings, but that's the way with women—they aspire to greater things!

Goodrich announces new tire prices
—lowest cost mileage ever known

Effective July 20th, Goodrich establishes a revised price list that is a base line of tire value. It gives the motorist the buying advantage of knowing that whatever size tire he selects is of the same quality—the Goodrich one-quality standard. It gives him the longest mileage, the most satisfactory service and the highest quality his money can buy. Results will prove that it is impossible to buy tire mileage at lower cost.

Think of being able to buy Silvertown Cords at such prices as these:

SIZE	BASE LINE PRICE	SIZE	BASE LINE PRICE
30 x 3 1/2 Cl.	$13.50	34 x 4 S. B.	$30.85
31 x 3.85 Cl.	15.95	32 x 4 1/2 S. B.	37.70
30 x 3 1/2 S. B.	15.95	33 x 4 1/2 S. B.	38.55
32 x 3 1/2 S. B.	22.95	34 x 4 1/2 S. B.	39.50
31 x 4 S. B.	26.45	35 x 4 1/2 S. B.	40.70
32 x 4 S. B.	29.15	33 x 5 S. B.	46.95
33 x 4 S. B.	30.05	35 x 5 S. B.	49.30

No extra charge for service tax. This tax is paid by Goodrich.

New base line prices are also effective on Goodrich Fabric Tires

SIZE	BASE LINE PRICE	SIZE	BASE LINE PRICE
30 x 3—55"	$9.65	32 x 4 S. B. Safety	$21.20
30 x 3 1/2—55"	10.65	33 x 4 S. B. Safety	22.35
32 x 3 1/2 S. B. Safety	16.30	34 x 4 S. B. Safety	22.85

No extra charge for service tax. This tax is paid by Goodrich.

This revised price list affords the motorist as definite a guide to tire prices as Goodrich Tires are the definite standard of tire quality.
