Nebraskan Relates Experiences Abroad

(Randolph Times.)

"People who imagine they are disappointed with this country should go to Europe, and they would be glad to swim back," says Ben Simon of Lincoln, speaking of the trip from which he has just returned.

"I was glad to get home and glad to be an American citizen. Every day that I was in Germany, I saw demonstrations by the working people, and the air is so full of revolution that my brother told me I had better leave while I could. Far things might start, happening any time so that I couldn't. The people talk continually of war, and I confidently expect it in the near future. Things are so bad that a revolution seems inevitable."

Mr. Simon left America April 20, and landed in Cherbourg, May 1. He visited in France, Germany and Austria, and spent a week seeing the sights in London. His headquarters for most of the time were at Darmstadt at the home of his mother, ninety years old, whom he had not seen for twenty years. He returned to London Wednesday.

"Things are fast going from bad to worse in Germany," Mr. Simon says. "Money is depreciating at a dizzy rate, and prices going up at the same time. Storekeepers do not care whether they sell anything or not, for they cannot replace their stocks. Many stores have empty shelves, and hundreds are closing their doors. The factories are still running at capacity, and will do so as long as they can get raw materials, but these are already beginning to run short. Thousands of people are out of work, and many who work are scarcely able to live. I talked with a railroad conductor as I traveled from Germany into Austria, and he told me that though he was paid 120,000 kronen a month, he couldn't buy a new shirt—could hardly buy bread for his family, in fact. When I left Vienna, kronen were 20,000 for a dollar, and I paid 1,700 kronen for a shave. I saw a man who had been in the German army and another at her side, begging, and I gave her 1,000 kronen, but what was that, being 100 kronen a loaf."

"When I reached Darmstadt, marks were 300 for $1, and when I returned they were 100, while prices of all kinds of merchandise had advanced at least 500 per cent.

"France is in bad shape, too, but not so bad as Germany, and France is saddling daily her standing army, already bigger than it was before the war. I visited the battle fields, and I know that France should have an indemnity, but if she wipes Germany off the map to get it, as she seems determined to do, not only France, but this country will suffer. Germany was always one of our best customers, and we need her trade and she needs ours."

"Americans in Europe—and there are thousands of them—live well, and many of them see the bright aspects of conditions. They are willing to pay whatever is asked, and their money is welcome, although less so as foodstuffs are consumed, and increasingly hard to get. Germany is fast getting to a state where everybody is very rich or miserably poor, and that is bound to mean trouble. Most of the people expect the country ultimately to become a republic in spite of the many who would welcome the return of the empire and even the return of the Hohenzollerns. This last would be the worst thing that could happen to the country.

"The more I think about Germany the more thankful I am to be an American, living in America."

Damage by Hail.

Randolph Times: W. H. Root of Smoles, brought to this office last Friday a few sample stalks of hulled corn from the fields of his son, Marvin Root. The stalks show plainly the vast damage the hail did. The husk on the parts formed ears of corn was perforated by the hail, the stalks hit so hard that rot had appeared and leaves entirely rotted. Still there will be some corn," Mr. Root says, but a light yield.

On the W. S. Gilman land, farmed by Arthur Robbins, and joining the Root farm, the damage estimated by Mr. Gilman's agent to be 75 per cent on half of the corn acreage and 40 per cent in the other half, and the agent will not rest his reliance on this basis. Other places in the vicinity had similar losses.

Transportation and Prices. Daily Drivers Journal-Stockman. Faculty distribution is one of the causes of the inequality of prices for agricultural products. The late Lord Bryce points this out more than forty-five years ago and suggests as a remedy north and south railroads. Lord Bryce also mentioned the scarcity of population in the United States as another cause. The distinguished Englishman was right in both his contentions.

Other causes operate to bring down farm product prices, but these two causes will be almost paramount until the United States is settled thickly enough to provide short hauls for sectional surpluses of food products. In densely populated countries it has long been known that such prices never fluctuate as violently as they do in a country like the United States, which, despite its 110,000,000 people, is only one-fourteenth as thickly populated as Belgium.

Transportation is also one of the chief factors in determining the purchasing power of money. England and Scotland are not much larger than the average large American state, yet more than one hundred years ago, when money was localized because of lack of rapid transit, the purchasing power of the pound was out of all proportion to the cost of production of food stuff and the daily living expense. Quick transportation of food surpluses to points where they are needed and quick exchange of all products will do more to stabilize prices than all of the agitation in the world.

Beemer Man Tops Market. Daily Drivers Journal-Stockman. The top of today's cattle market, $10.50, was the price received by W. P. Keller of Beemer, for eleven head of very fine Shorthorn steers that averaged 1,189 pounds. He also had ten Whiteface heifers that averaged 941 pounds, and brought $9.00.

"The steers were all of my own raising," said Mr. Keller, "and had been on feed only since March 1, but of course they were in very good shape before I put them into the feed lot. The heifers were some that I bought here last fall, and they have done satisfactorily."

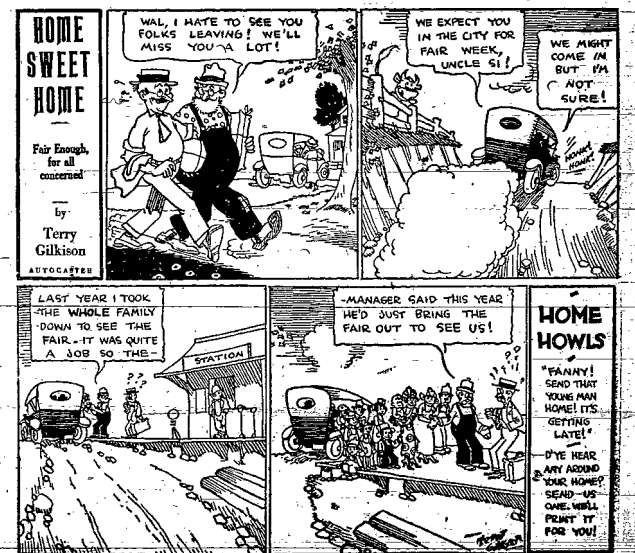

"Early corn in our district is already made," Mr. Keller declared,

"and regardless of the weather from now on a bumper crop is assured. There is some of the later corn which needs another rain, and a shower or two now will be of general benefit."

"The strike has made our shipping conditions very uncertain. I have been trying for two weeks to get a car, and when I heard yesterday forenoon that I could get a car, I decided to drive my cattle to even-if it was the hottest day we have had. They stood the four-mile drive very well, and as it happens I have made a little money by not shipping until now. Cattle as a general thing are pretty well cleaned up in my district."

If the corn crop turns out as well as promised under the influence of intense heat and an occasional shower, we shall not have raised potatoes, suffered and shriveled in vain.

One makes acknowledgment of advancing years when he feels like putting his hand on the shoulder of a young man and addressing him with sage advice.

The Literary Digest's poll of women in regard to prohibition shows a considerable majority against the Volstead law as it now stands. The greatest number favor modification of the law. A minority favor absolute repeal.

Too few working days rather than too little per diem seems to be the basis for most complaint among coal miners. They want to put in more hours and this can be done during a month or year. In ordinary times over-production outs down working days. There would be more coal consumed if prices were down where they belong. Then there would be need of greater production and more working days. Either there should be increased consumption or a decrease in the number of miners. Employment for miners should not be restricted to so few days each week that living compensation cannot be earned. This condition should not be difficult to remedy.

A communication in an exchange touching the duties of wives, reminds us of the extremists men have gone sometimes in serving their families. We have heard of men who, in trying to provide comfort, luxury, appearance and social standing for their wives, were finally led, in the impossibility of the struggle, to steal. Then, caught, they were convicted and sent to the penitentiary. Though infinitely foolish to thus imperil liberty and reputation, a man deserves, under such circumstances, the unremitting sympathy and support of his wife—who is indirectly responsible. She should share the sacrifice. If when she sees the prison doors closed behind him, she seeks the divorce court and spins ruin in the man who yielded to temptation, she deserves utmost contempt.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.
Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, attacked the president's message on the ground that it would compel people to work notwithstanding conditions imposed. It is a narrow and unwise deduction. The president does not indicate a desire to force any one to work. No one expects such a prohibition of law. The message of the president proposes to outlaw combinations against work and production. A combination which not only quits work, but prevents others from working, doing everything possible to hinder essential industries and often incite to intimidation and violence, is the thing aimed at by the president.

One may withdraw his trade from another without objection, but he cannot legally persuade others to do so without being guilty of a crime. An organized effort to injure the business of any one is a crime under the statutes of every state. A business combination in restraint of trade is also a crime with a stiff penalty attached.

Why not also make a combination of labor unions against industry a crime? We have a federal labor board. It is required to gather facts and find out a fair basis of settling industrial disputes, but it has no power to enforce its findings. This lack of authority is a weakness which the president points out and which Gompers knows, as everybody knows, degrades the effectiveness of the body's efforts. The president realizes that there should be laws to restrict combinations of industrial workers as there are laws to prevent organizations of labor unions in restraint of trade.

It is manifestly not the intention of the president to force either labor unions or employing capital, but to exact from both a fair and equitable adjustment of differences and to prevent combinations in restraint of the interest of the dependent public.

PLATFORM-MAKERS.
People who create the platform for the late democratic state convention, show fine intelligence and average consistency in the ordinary affairs of life, but in the task of deploring and promising, they kick over usual habits of thinking and assume grounds and make statements that would bring analysis and that could not be sustained.

The average platform maker usually pays no unnecessary attention to facts. Suggest consistency to him and he would think it was some new kind of drink permitted under the Volstead act. And the democrats at Omaha were extraordinarily wild in their shouting and logic, burning red fire, beating tom toms, and engaging in a carnival of flamboyant generalities and thinly disguised innuendoes. For instance, the platform decries, among other things, the extravagance of the present administration and pledges drastic retrenchment and economy. This pretense is made more gauzy and absurd by the orgy of spending indulged by the Wilson administration and the legacy of debts handed over by that administration.

It is to be regretted that platform framers cannot be as frank and consistent as they are in the everyday walks of life. Less narrow partisanship, less befogging of facts, more candor in regarding public conditions and more honesty in coming as old-time politicians yield the reins to new blood.

VOL. 36, NO. 8

Week's Report From Bureau of Markets

August 21, 1922.
Cattle—The beef steer market has been fairly active—the past week. Prices are 25 to 50¢ higher than week ago, largely because of the heavy gain. Cows and heifers are steady. Good grades of steers and feeders steady, others 25¢ lower.

Hogs—A light shipper demand and dull packer trade have depressed prices somewhat this week. Feeders hogs have declined 40 to 60¢, lights and mediums off most. Stock pigs 50¢ lower; packing sows, 35 to 40¢ lower.

Sheep—The market has displayed a stronger tone this week with demand active. Killing classes are 25 to 50¢ higher than week ago. Feeders steady with supply liberal and demand active. Ewes steady.

Wheat—The wheat market trended sharply downward early this week due to the foreign political situation and a lack of buying pressure. Some strength shown on Thursday due to increased foreign demand. September wheat closed 4¢ lower than week ago. Experts have been fair. Visible supply wheat 20,000,000 as compared with 32,514,000 last year. Chicago cash No. 2 hard closed Friday at $1.04.

Corn—Corn weakened early in the week in sympathy with wheat but recovered early due to unfavorable weather conditions in the corn belts. A sharp drop on Friday. Export prices have been good, cash corn $1 to 3 1/2¢ above September, which reached a new low on Monday. Chicago cash corn closed Friday at 62 7/8¢.

Potatoes—Potato shipments have been heavier than last week. Supplies have been liberal in all markets and demand limited. Markets generally weaker. Homegrown stocks continue supplying markets. New Jersey Colibers No. 1 brought $1.25 to $1.65 per cwt. in eastern markets. Kansas and Nebraska early Ohio brought 90¢ to $1.15 in mid-western markets and 86¢ to $1.08 T. O. B.

Eggs—Receipts of eggs at the four principal markets about steady with last week. Stocks in storage declining somewhat. Prices firm to 1¢ higher than week ago. Local price 16¢.

Poultry—Receipts of dressed poultry at the four principal markets increased over last week. Storage stocks 8,225,000 lbs. over a year ago. Local prices: Live poultry, hens, light, 16¢; heavy, 18¢; springs, 10¢; roosters, 10¢.

Dairy—Dairies have been heavier than last week but with trading quiet active the markets are firmer than week ago. Production beginning to show seasonal decrease. Extras sold Thursday in Chicago at 23.45 to 31.45.

First National Bank Begins a New Year

The fact that the First National Bank of Wayne is entering its thirty-eighth year at this time is worthy of note. Thirty-seven years ago this worthy institution was evolved from the Logan Valley Bank, pioneer bank of Wayne county. It has become, step by step, a powerful financial concern whose interests and those of the community have been closely allied and interwoven. It has been prominently identified with the growth of the town, and has seen and helped a small settlement develop into a sturdy and flourishing trade center. It has been built up brick by brick and conservatively founded that when clouds have gathered over the financial horizon, it has been able to render yeoman's service to the community. And its progressive spirit entitles it to a liberal share of credit for public and private growth and enterprise.

And the First National has not reached the same of-sets usefulness. Stronger than ever, with increased progress at its command, it will be able to serve bigger and better. A review of the past and contemplation of the present materially reassures and brightens the prospect. —a2411

Col. Roosevelt's Vocabulary.
Ohio State Journal: Senator Lodge says he knew Col. Roosevelt intimately for thirty years and never heard him say damn or anything of the kind and we guess that if a progressive man could go around with Cabot for thirty years and never see a word like under any circumstances whatsoever.

Who Said It?
Sioux Falls Argus Leader: It is said that Senator Reed will be a "formidable" candidate for the presidency in 1924. Formidable to whom or to which?

Tomorrow Begins Our Thirty-Eighth Year of Service

The First National Bank of Wayne, Nebraska, was established on August 25, 1886, when the Logan Valley Bank, at that time the oldest bank in the county, received a national bank charter. Tomorrow's anniversary commemorates thirty-seven years of service to the people of this community. It means that as a national bank we have had years of experience in dealing with banking and financial problems and have passed through periods of national depression with unimpaired strength, recognized as an important asset to the community, and truly a source of great satisfaction to those behind the institution. It is pleasing to note that with the experience of accumulated years, we have grown in capacity to serve. Each year has seen deposits mount and business transactions increase, and thus, wisely conservative and enterprisingly progressive, the future appears reassuring and the invitation to new patrons holds a compelling warmth of meaning.

We are here to serve you, help solve your business and financial problems and share your burdens. Strengthened and fortified by experiences of the past, we will be able to do better than ever; be more of an aid to our friends, more of a financial dynamo to the community.

Get acquainted with us and turn our service to your advantage.
