COUNTY TEACHERS HAVE RICH TREASURY

Lectures by Leading Educators at the Institute for the "New Areas"—Lively and Informative

COUNTY TEACHERS ATTEND INSTITUTE AT LANE

The Wayne county teachers institute was held in the high school building Friday and Saturday last week. The enrollment was one of the largest in the history of the institute. A Friday morning, Miss Pearl Sewell county superintendent of schools, was the able conductor of the institute. A total of 127 teachers attended, making a 100 per cent attendance for the teachers of both the rural and city schools of the county.

Opening exercises, including an assembly singing in charge of Miss E. Thomas of the Wayne city schools, followed the enrollment. Miss MacEwen, superintendent, is receiving a telegram Thursday evening bearing the news that Miss Mae E. Scribner of Boston, Minn. is taking leave from that city to fill in Iowa and Nebraska, would not be present on account of sudden illness. Miss Scribner's place was taken by Dr. H. W. Seacock, superintendent of the Wayne State Teachers College, and on Saturday by Miss Georgia Cline of Omaha. The latter is the first instructor in the history of the first address of the institute was delivered to the general session by Dr. W. E. Seacock, director of the university of Nebraska and professor of history and principles of education on the subject, "Reorganization in Education." Dr. Seacock stated that if the 600,000 teachers in the United States were placed side by side, they would form a line two hundred miles in length. One teacher in every two hundred miles line of the 600,000 teachers, he would travel thirty-five miles before reaching a teacher twenty years of age. The average of the two hundred mile line of the 600,000 teachers, he would travel thirty-five miles before reaching a teacher twenty years of age. The average of the two hundred mile line of the 600,000 teachers, he would travel thirty-five miles before reaching a teacher twenty years of age.

The manual training department made new screens for the windows of the domestic science room and also made some progress on the woodwork. The art department are now working on the larger pieces of furniture as cedar chests and library tables. The music department are now singing before the teachers' institute last Friday afternoon.

On Saturday morning eight boys and four girls of the third grade, gave some pleasing numbers. Miss Muriel Thomas had charge of the evening. The girls' club will have their next meeting on Tuesday evening after school.

The sixth and seventh grade pupils have finished some very pretty baskets. This is the first project of the art class to be completed.

The first of the organized Monday evening. The juniors chose Miss Glennie Bacon as sponsor; Melvin Olson, president; Helen Loomis, secretary; and Nina Barnett, treasurer. There are twenty-two juniors. The sophomores have elected the following: President, Ray Flett; Allen Stamm, vice-president; Marion Miller, secretary and Thelma Peterson, treasurer. The sophomores number twenty-eight. Joe Nichols has been elected president of the freshman class; Fred Bartels, vice-president; Miriam Prescott, treasurer; and Elizabeth Kalleney, secretary.

Range Happy

Happy—what a word—what a world of meaning. A contented woman, proud of her work, proud of her cooking machine.

All machinery is designed to lighten labor, to enable you to do more and do it better. Then cooking machines are no exception and the Copper-Clad cooking machine is The World's Greatest Range. Holding heat like a thermostat, a woman knows exactly what she can depend on. She knows that she is saving fuel.

She appreciates a Copper-Clad most when it comes to cleaning it. With no hinges, catches and latches, with no ornaments or corners, with no rivets or bolt heads on the nickel, the Copper-Clad cleans like a dish and is a woman's delight. Then, why shouldn't a proud owner of a Copper-Clad be Range Happy? Because the Copper-Clad is The World's Greatest Range.

Service Above Profits.
The Drexler in Forbes Magazine. The business world is going to yield more happiness to those who are engaged in conducting business when more business men develop the true scientific attitude of mind. Once upon a time an investigator used to try to keep the results of his studies to himself so that he personally might profit by them. Nowadays research specialists give freely to the world what ever they have discovered. It is a waste of time to hoard a placed service to humanity above personal profit. Some may consider it too idealistic to be carried through in the world of business, but the curious thing is that the business men who are practicing this high idealism are making greater profits than they ever could by using a more selfish system.

From the Land of Non-Partisan League

(Miss Elizabeth Mines, until recently a member of the staff of the Wayne Herald, now employed as teacher in a consolidated school at Donnybrook, N. D., gives Herald readers the result of her initial observations and conclusions).
Editor Wayne Herald:

The village of Donnybrook, N. D., is located in a valley, supposedly an ancient river bed, and is almost surrounded by hills, which sometimes is relieved by wooded valleys or coulees. The residents of the region report that this autumn has been unusually warm. The first of October evidence when I first arrived, but for the past week summer has returned. We know that we are much nearer the land of the midnight sun than Nebraska and Iowa for darkness does not come until after 8 o'clock.

The village life seems to be remarkably progressive for a community of less than three hundred people. This may be due to the fact that all the members of the town council or board are women. The town marshal is the only man in authority. Electric light service is maintained from dusk each evening until midnight by means of municipal water plant. Four wells located in different parts of the town furnish the water supply for the household by the ancient hand pump and bucket method.

The stores seem unusually large for a town of this size and the merchants seem free from business worry. Prices are about the same as in Wayne and all lines of merchandise display a good range of selection. The school building, constructed of gray stone and stucco, is the most imposing structure in the village. A consolidation of several districts took place two years ago when this new building was erected in memory of the soldier dead of Donnybrook. The school children of Aurelia, a village three miles from here, attend this school. Six busses and a few private conveyances bring the children to the school. Even in this comparatively cold climate the people seem to favor consolidation although they admit that taxes are higher. They feel that better equipment and more efficient instruction are worthwhile results.

The majority of the entire community centers in the school, for the only other means of public recreation are a once-a-week movie house and a twice-a-month dance hall. The teachers of the school are planning a series of community entertainments, whose foremost purpose is the providing of wholesome recreation and not the making of money.

Since the failure of two state banks here two years ago, Donnybrook people have done the business at Minot, the county seat, or at Aurelia. This month two national banks have opened and relieved the financial situation. The non-partisan league is held responsible for the bank failures and I have heard nothing but regret and apologies for the work of that organization. Of course the community had its share of radicals and I have been told of one who has a scrambled-egg remembrance of a missionary jaunt into Northgate Nebraska.

The aim of the farmer here seems to be to raise enough to feed and clothe his family. He can expect no more at the present time. Most of the land is high wheat. Some corn is raised but only for use as fodder. Fall plowing is seldom done here. I think this may be due to the absence of manure. The soil here has not reined since we have been here and the village weather chronicles say it will not rain until spring.

En route to Donnybrook, the pretty spots lay at Minot. This little city of 10,000 seems to be recovering from the financial depression. One merchant with whom I talked said that business was better than it had been for years. Two of us girls had difficulty in securing money on Iowa and Nebraska bank checks. We understood that most of the banks charge a rate of exchange on all banks outside of the city, and will never honor the checks of those who have not been properly identified. By personally talking to the manager of the largest department store of the city we were able to cash our checks.

A visit to the first fair ever held in Ward county gave an insight into the agriculture of the district and what was learned there by observation has been corroborated by talks with farm boys who attend school in Donnybrook. At the fair grounds there were three newly constructed buildings, a stock pavilion, a stadium, and a large two-story exhibit building. The domestic and agriculture exhibits were not unusual. The farm products were not on a par with those of northeast Nebraska, due perhaps to the short growing season.

There were only a few exhibits at the stock pavilion. The absence of Shorthorn cattle and the presence of Guernsey cattle revealed the stock situation in this vicinity. There was only one exhibit of hog—Duroc Jerseys—and when the owner found out that I was from the land of corn and red hogs, I was made welcome. The herd here on display was of Sensation breeding and had been secured from Ed. Kern at Stanton. This North Dakota hog owner told me that few farmers were interested in pure bred hogs but that there were more stock pigs in the county than there had ever been. Since coming to Donnybrook I have found that a few farmers have been interested in stock cattle or pigs, devoting entire interest to what raising—Elizabeth Mines.

Farmers' Union Is For Budget System

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 2.—The blue-ribbon committee of the democratic politicians on the code and on taxation, is slowly but surely witting. The big reason is that the democratic propose nothing in a constructive way. This year's substantial reduction in state taxes is taking much of the wind from the democratic sails.

Apparently the best that democratic politicians and propagandists can do is to try to confuse the voter. The democratic state committee has been caught fathering false figures which would indicate that state taxes constitute approximately one-half of the whole. This is done by combining the state tax and the county tax and presenting the total as going entirely to the state.

The republican state central committee has just issued a pamphlet on the code. It contains more than thirty questions and answers—every conceivable bit of information that the voter may desire on the subject. The code is given much favorable comment in the report of the committee of the Farmers' Union composed of Charles A. McLeod, J. O. Shroyer, James Auten, H. C. Elwood and A. L. Ullstrom. Here is some of the favorable comment contained in the conclusions:

"It has reorganized the old system and gathered the scattered activities to function in a business-like manner. After careful investigation and consideration, we demand retention of the budget system under any plan that might prevail for the reasonable that it stands for prevention of deficiencies and misapplication of the various department funds, and that it presents reliable estimates for legislative action."

While Nebraska state taxes have taken a big tumble this year with the promise of further reduction, Colorado taxpayers will pay higher taxes in the history of that state in 1923. In this regard the Denver Post says: "To raise the money necessary to conduct the state government and the state institutions and provide means for highway construction, the state board of equalization will be compelled to fix a levy of not less than 4.66 mills for 1922 as compared with 4.35 mills for 1921."

Rainmaker C. W. Bryan complains in his speeches of taxes on a quarter section of Lancaster county land owned by him. He says that his taxes have increased from almost nothing to $400 and claims that the only way to reduce taxes is to reduce the size of the government. The actual figures show that the rainmaker is exaggerating again: His taxes for

DEPENDABILITY COUNTS IN 1922

To the Music Loving Public

You have heard about some of the sales of Player-Pianos we have made recently and maybe you have wondered what people want with Player-Pianos.

Other people just like yourself are hungry for music—good piano music. But they have no one at home who can play. They see and hear ordinary Player-Pianos and it is natural that they lose interest. Then they read about the Gulbransen in the Saturday Evening Post or Literary Digest or some other magazine (Gulbransen's are advertised all over the world) and when they finally hear one they are amazed. Few people realize that through the medium of the Gulbransen Player they, not necessarily knowing anything about music, can within a week's time play the Gulbransen artistically. They can play classics, songs, popular fox-trots or any other kind of music properly.

The Gulbransen company is not satisfied to have their players just sold but they want people to enjoy their instruments to the fullest possible extent. Therefore, they ship a set of special rolls along to show people how to play. We are also very particular that every customer of ours learns how to play properly. You could do it. It is easy to learn how to accent Melody Notes, and play accompaniments on the Gulbransen.

If you were to decide to have one, you would naturally want the best. We have a beautiful White House Model here to show you. We'll be glad to have you stop in when you are passing the store next time. It is really an interesting instrument.

Very sincerely yours,

Foreign Advertising Representatives: THE AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION
Some people lie when the truth would serve their purpose better.

One often wishes for the other fellow's job, believing it is easier and more profitable. Close inquiry, however, usually reveals one's mistake. Every success has been paid for by some one in long hours and earnest effort.

Mrs. Z. H. Felton who has been prominent in Georgia politics for over a half century, and who is 88 years old, has been appointed by the governor of that state as United States senator to succeed the late Thomas E. Watson. The appointment will encourage young and ambitious office seekers to believe that one is never too old to win.

Candidates have begun their campaign in earnest, and issues will be discussed pro and con during the next few weeks. The politicians will try to convince voters that the budget system is economical and business-like, while democrats will present a change, hoping that any proposed change will appeal to voters and win majority approval. Speakers for each side of the political issue will appear in Wayne during the next few weeks to impart information and enlighten interest. The Hitchcock-Bryan-Howard combination for expediency still continues and promises to hold together until the polls close Nov. 7.

Settlement of the different industrial troubles is regarded by many as assurance of stimulated prosperity along all lines. One publication points out that "restoration of peace in these essential industries means more to the general prosperity of the country than anything that has happened since the termination of the world war." The Secretary of Commerce Hoover observes that "we will probably not be on such a high plane of business during the next six months as they would have been had the coal and railroad strikes not taken place, but we will undoubtedly be on a much higher plane than that of last year."

While vegetable and fruit peddling should be given free rein in a town like Wayne, thus frequently furnishing a local market for products of neighboring farms, proving advantageous to producer and consumer alike, it is believed merchant peddling from house to house offering no advantage to purchasers, ought to be discouraged by an increased municipal tax. We know of one town that fixes a tax of $100 per month on merchant peddlers. The local merchant pays taxes from year to year, and he is here all the time to answer complaints and make good any possible errors. It is an advantage to deal with him rather than with a peddler who is here to day and gone tomorrow. And it is only fair to him to give him a chance to compete with the house-to-house canvassers.

A writer in the current American Magazine says in all his experience as an official look after and rid eastern cities of alms-seekers, he never found a professional beggar who was deserving. He says he helped many mendicants into worthy jobs, but that invariably they drifted back into begging. He pointed out that professional beggars were often better off financially than the people from whom they sought aid. The writer indicates that beggars who become expert in different ways of getting up to the sympathetic heart, have merely adopted begging as easier and more profitable than work. The magazine article tends to make one think before bestowing gifts on a stranger who comes along with a plea for charity.

Pay Last Tribute to Mrs. Gilderleeve

Relatives and scores of friends of the late Mrs. L. C. Gilderleeve gathered at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon to attest their esteem for this noble woman whose death on Thursday of last week came as a shock to the community. Beautiful floral offerings also showed the high regard in which she was held. Following is a sketch of Mrs. Gilderleeve's life as furnished by Dr. Grant Shick who had charge of the service Sunday:

Lyle Reynolds Gilderleeve was born July 1, 1868, in Elkad, Iowa and died in Wayne, Nebraska, Sept. 28, 1922. Her girlhood days were spent in Iowa, and it was there that she received her education and began her career as a teacher. In March, 1886, she came with her parents to Wayne, where she has since resided to the community. Her husband, L. C. Gilderleeve, which took place at Emerson, Neb., Nov. 7, 1888.

There are left to mourn her a husband who for the thirty-four years of married life has been a helpmate in the raising of the sons, Harry and Donald. The eldest child, Hazel, her father, two brothers, James E. and Raymond J., and a sister, Mary Elizabeth, have passed into the realm of the unseen and eternal. Besides the immediate family she leaves one grandson, Harry Dale, Jr., her mother, Mrs. J. Reynolds, four sisters, Mrs. C. S. Beebe of Wakefield, Mrs. A. E. Gilderleeve, Mrs. H. B. Craven, Mrs. R. W. Ley, all of Wayne, and the brothers, C. W. Mohr, of Wayne, Denis Reynolds of Kearney, and Clyde Reynolds of Kansas City, who with other relatives and friends paid their last tribute of love to this great and good woman.

In early life she took a stand for all that was high and noble. For many years she had been a faithful member of the Methodist church and no doubt no person in Wayne has done more towards building up the Sunday school than she. For twenty-five years she had charge of the primary department. She loved the children and they loved her. No task was too great if they were to be benefited. It was with a breaking heart she gave up this work last spring because compelled to do so on account of failing health. Her words were those of the Master, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not; for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

She was also a member of the Ladies' Aid society, the Woman's Home and Pure Ministry societies, being a charter member of the latter. She was welcomed to the fuller life and her life will always be an inspiration to those who knew and loved her.

The following verses by Lula B. Dawson were read at the funeral service as fitting words for the late Mrs. Gilderleeve:

God called her home.
With a smile and a lingering clasp of the hand,
She smiled that home of eternal peace
And found the promised land.
Her work is done, and the angels smiled
As they bore her spirit away,
For they saw the precious soul
That they had gained.
To dwell in their kingdom for aye.
God called her home,
We will not grieve, for He needed her more than we;
But the vacant place she has left in our hearts
Will last through eternity.
Her beautiful life, full of kindly deeds,
Like a benediction will rest;
We felt we were one step nearer to God
When she read from the Book she loved best.
We do not ask why she should go—
God thought her race was run—
So well humbly bow our heads and pray
"Dear Lord, Thy will be done."

Ahern's Store News

Have You Ever Used the New McCall Pattern?

The one brought out this year with instructions printed in words on each piece? They have simplified the sewing problem greatly. They are so clear you cannot make a mistake. A heavy blue line guides you as you cut. You do not wonder about seam allowance or any other detail—simply follow the blue line. You cannot waste material. You see exactly how to lay the pattern on your goods. Words printed on the pattern pieces tell you exactly what to do. You do not have to consult a study chart or sewing guide. You read as you cut. It is really a pattern without a puzzle. We carry all these patterns right in stock. We fill mail orders by return mail. And we have a splendid stock of dress materials and trimmings on hand for carrying out all the latest McCall style ideas.

Sample Blankets

Have you bought your sample blankets yet? They are going fast—especially the nicer ones. Folks who have bought these sample blankets in former years are always the first to come and make their selection. They know from experience what exceptional values these samples are. They are bigger, better blankets than usual and priced one-third less because they are slightly soiled from being carried in traveling salesmen's trunks.

New Coats and Dresses

We expect a lot of new coats and dresses by express Thursday. If you have not yet found one that you like come in and try on these new garments before they are sent away for our out-to-town sales next week.

We can show you the very latest styles from the best eastern factories and we will save you considerable on the price of any garment you select. There are hundreds of coats and dresses here to choose from. You can depend on a splendid collection if you come at

Middy Blouses

Middy blouses are most satisfactory and economical wearing apparel for the school girl. Fine ones of nice all-wool flannel correctly cut and silk trimmed may be had here at $4.25 for the 6 to 12 year sizes, and $4.75 for the young ladies' and ladies' sizes. These are the "Commodore" make so extensively advertised in the leading magazines.

Out Size Shoes

If you wear an extra wide or extra size in any way, oxford or high shoe, come now and we can fit you in good looking styles. There is a man in New York state who makes nothing but shoes in extra sizes. He has specialized in this business for years and his outside showing are the best looking, wearing and sitting to be had. We carry them in all sizes up to 9 1/2 EEE.

New Shoe Styles

The eastern shoe factories have been sending us style sheets showing many new ideas in fall and winter footwear. You will be surprised to know that over three-fourths of these styles are strap slippers and tongue pumps. Evidently we can expect slipp styles

New Draperies

We are now prepared to show you a new assortment of curtain nets, cretonnes and draperies. There are some handsome new materials in real silk for side drapes which you can buy now at a very moderate price. We can help you plan how to make up your curtains and drapes in the latest style.

Nail File Hosiery

Testing silk hose with a nail file to prove they are "sue proof" is all bunk. You can pull a smooth nail file over any pair of silk hose you own and not leave a mark, but "Jacob's ladders and rans" will come in them very easily if they are not properly cared for. A good many of the so-called "nail file" silk hose are seamless and will not fit snug to the ankle. On others the silk does not extend high enough to prevent the cotton tops from showing below the short skirts now worn. We have never seen a pair that was as good value as you can buy in any one of your department stores. For about $1.25 silk stockings we have them for you—with seams backed and 22-inch silk leg.

this time. All wool dresses at $12.50 to $35.00, a few very fine ones at $42.50 to $50.00. All wool coats in great variety at $15.00 to $40.00. Handsome fur collared coats at $25.00 to $60.00. Children's coats at $3.75 to $16.00. Come this week while the variety is greatest.

Bring Us Apples

Bring us in a few bushels of good, sound apples. If they are good will pay $1.00 bushel in trade. Call us up before you come.

Notice is hereby given that on Tuesday, the 7th day of November, 1922, at the usual voting places in each precinct of Wayne county, Nebraska, an election will be held for the election of the following officers:

- One United States Senator.
- One Governor.
- One Lieutenant Governor.
- One Secretary of State.
- One Auditor of Public Accounts.
- One State Treasurer.
- One Attorney General.
- One Commissioner of Public Lands and Buildings.
- One Railway Commissioner.
- One State Superintendent of Public Instruction.
- One Regent of the State University from the Third District.
- One Commissioner from the Third Congressional District.
- One State Senator from the Eleventh Senatorial District.
- One State Representative from the Forty-fifth Representative District.
- One County Clerk.
- One County Treasurer.
- One County Sheriff.
- One County Assessor.
- One County Surveyor.
- One County Superintendent of Public Instruction.
- One County Commissioner for the First Commissioner District.
- One County Commissioner for the Third Commissioner District.
- One Deputy Assessor for each Precinct.
- One Justice of the Peace for each Precinct.
- One Road Overseer for each Road.

District of the County.

One Police Magistrate for the City of Wayne.
At the same time and places of holding the said election, there will be submitted for adoption or rejection under the referendum, as provided by the constitution, House Bill No. 82, House Roll No. 193, House Roll No. 617, and Senate File No. 315, said bills having been passed by the Council and Governor of the legislature of the State of Nebraska for 1921.
Which election will be open at 8 o'clock in the morning and will continue open until 8 o'clock in the evening of the same day.

Chance for the Anti-Saloon League.
Washington Star: "The Turkish abstinance from intoxicants cannot be regarded as having worked an improvement in character. Introduction of the wood alcohol habit into the Ottoman empire might be a benefit to the world in general."
Harding Picks Right Man.
New York World: In Judge Edwin B. Parker, of Houston, Texas, and one County Attorney, Harding has made an admirable selection of the American member of the German American war claims commission. Judge Parker is a democrat, not the 'nor Justice Day, of the sup-

Court, republican, as referee of the commission, will be affected by political consideration. In war work both during and following the great conflict Judge Parker did excellent service. His acceptance of the new duty will insure a fair and prompt decision upon a question of great moment and urgency.

Goody, Grain Gamblers.
Capper's Weekly: The Capper-Tincher anti-grain gambling bill has been signed by the president and is now a law. It will become effective November 1. The law denies the use of the mails, express, telegraphs and telephones to the grain gamblers. It doesn't molest legitimate grain dealers. Of course the grain gamblers are gnashing their teeth and threatening to "test the law." But the threats of the law are not distributed. The courts upheld a similar law against the Louisiana lottery. As a menace to the country the Louisiana lottery was a game of marbles compared to the grain gamblers.

No Distilleries Here, Either.
Kansas City Star: Nobody ever has heard of any munition factories in Turkey. Where did Kemal get his gun?

GENERAL JACK AT 62

Just four years from the day he launched his now famous drive of the American troops against the Germans in France, Gen. Pershing observed his 62nd birthday at a rose-covered desk in Washington, September 14th.

Business.

Sioux City Journal: The acceleration of business expansion and development in the last few months has been swifter than was expected, and it extends to all lines. Manufacturing has increased in volume, encouraged by the receipt of more abundant fuel, which provided the necessary fuel, and easement of transportation difficulties, which made shipping possible with few restrictions. It is claimed now by observers in various sections of the country that employment is the highest of the whole year. That can't mean that one thing is better. More jobs for workers means more money in circulation, means buying of merchandise in larger volume, and one thing is a distinct aid to business in general.

The railroads of the country, which have adjusted their affairs with strikers by one means or another, are attracting attention by the way they are reconstructing themselves. They have gone at the thing in the right way. It is not the right way for the lumber business. The idle cars are piled up. Goods are being jammed onto the transport being Using Semi-Solid?

Two hundred Wayne county farmers are using Semi-Solid Butter. Why? Because it grows hogs in shorter period; it creates and maintains health. If you own fall pigs it's doubly important that you use Semi-Solid. The use of Semi-Solid will trouble your egg production. A barrel of Semi-Solid on every farm, that's the goal. Fifty pounds free with a barrel.

but steady. War talk continues to affect the wheat market. Live stock prices are holding good. Money steady in all markets, with bank clearings showing increases over wide areas. The claim of officials of the government and industrial leaders that property is coming in here in fact is now perceptible to all.

Card of Thanks.
I wish to thank the neighbors and friends for their kindness and loans/offering during the illness and death of my husband, Mrs. William Baumgardner.

May Be Saving for Posterity.

coal shipments. Also, equipment is undergoing a thorough overhauling in order to stand the strain of the heavier load produced by accumulation of delayed orders and increased industrial production. The larger roads at this time have in their carloads approximately 375,000 shopenwood in price lists, excepting in equipment in the best of repair. That is a little better than 80 per cent of normal, according to the railroad executives, and the news creates interest only because of the proof it brings of the rapid readjustment in a recent labor crisis.

The steel companies are all sold up. Rail orders from the big roads have increased to a record for the year within the last week, the gain being about $400 tons for the period. This is forcing an expansion of operations on the part of the steel companies, but so far no change has been announced in price lists, excepting in angle bars, which have gone higher in the Chicago district. Considerable talk of steel mergers is heard with out the actual development noted.

Building activity keeps up, with the lumber industry one of the quickest now engaged in rehabilitating business. There has been no cessation in construction even in the strike period on the railroads, and lumber with transportation assumed has not quickened appreciably. The lumber prices are believed to have reached their peak.

The western lumber companies are doing an enormous business, shipments to the eastern coast having kept up all summer and fall. The Mexican government recently placed an order for 10,000,000 feet of yellow pine and hardwoods for rehabilitation of railroad equipment, so that American producers will be called upon to fill orders for export in addition to supplying the domestic market.

Crop conditions are good. The estimate on the front of crops runs around $6,000,000,000. Frost hurt maturing grains but little, and there is no indication that prices for agricultural products are going to be anything

You Can Get Back Your Grip On Health

UNCLE WALT The Feet Philosopher.

Surgery.

Hope for the millions of unfortunate men and women who are victims of stomach trouble is afforded by Frank Smock, 1338 Ave. A. East, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Mr. Smock was a victim of stomach trouble in its worst form but was completely restored to health by taking Tanlac.

He says:

"Ever since I had malarial fever twenty years ago, my stomach has been troubling me and often I suffered agony from sourness and bloating. My improvement since taking Tanlac is almost beyond belief. I eat anything I want, never have the least pain, and I feel like a six-year-old."

Undigested food ferments in the stomach and soon the entire system is filled with poisons. Tanlac was designed to restore the stomach to a healthy condition and build up the whole body. Millions everywhere have acclaimed its wonderful power. Get a bottle today.

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

"Though I'm in a fierce condition, with rheumatism, sciatica, I don't seek the learned physician in his highly ornate den. In the dear dead days now vanished to the doctor I would fly, and my diverse ills were banished on the twinkling of an eye. He'd indulge in harmless banter, making me forget my ills, then he'd hand me a decanter of his compound of fine scullin. This was long ago, my masters, when man wore a liver pad, in the days of porous plasters, or the saw-biscuits—John-Bow-wow—of the same; ostracised the good old pill is, carving is the only game. I was sick with Texas fever, and the doctor said, "My Jim, your one hope is in the cleaver—let me rend you limb from limb." If there is an ill I catch it, every ailment I endure; and the doctor says, "The hatched is the only certain cure." "Drugs are but a useless fizzle," says the healer, with disdain; "with my backswag and my chisel I will rid the world of pain. Long research has taught us better than to dope away your life; I will cure your numps or letter with my axe and drawing-knife." And the surgeons still pursue me, as they follow other Hicks, asking for a chance to hew me and to pile me up in ricks.

Speculation.

Sometimes I murmur and repine, and all my life seems had and sore, for every time I buy a mine it fizzles out in half an hour. Oh, some grow rich by digging gold or tin or pewter from the earth, and all the stocks and shares they hold are things of an increasing worth. But when I buy up mining shares production in a minute stops; the mine has joined the other snarers, the bottom from the venture drops. All round me wealthy men reside, they made their bundles out of oil; in pomp and gaudy they ride, they needn't buckle down to toil. I've heard them as they talked and chafed, their fortunes never knew a hitch; it seems to be an easy graft to deal in oil and so get rich. But when that sort of thing I'd try, and buy a well with hard-earned yeh, in half a day that well goes dry, and I am busted once again. Some grievous lessons I have learned, but yet too long a lesson sticks; throughout my pilgrimage I've yearned to blow myself for gilded bricks. Some day, I think, a brick will prove to be of pure and yellow goll; as down the poorhouse road I move, this fatuous belief I hold. Some day my wells will turn out grease, and I'll have diamonds on my hat; some day my swans will all be geese, my goat will be a Maltese cat.

Helping Out.

Old Dad Spindle's years are eighty, and he toiled toward his shack, with a bundle large and mighty nearly ruining his back. He could see his vigor dwindle as he labored up the road, so I said, "Oh, Gaffer Spindle, let me pack your heavy load." So I heaved it to my shoulder and it weighed a ton, and I felt a cycle older when the grievous task was done. But it gives me satisfaction if it evening he can say, "I have pulled a 100% weight in the progress of the day." When the showman sun is sinking and the hues of daytime fade, by my banyan sit I think of the old totem, I have played. I am prone to costly blunders, dizzy breaks I daily pull, my Aunt Sophronia wonders why my eyes are red and my nose is green; myself reeling, for the way I've muffed the ball, but enjoy some harmless smiling when Dad Spindle I recall, explain, "makes in the worm that sluggards lose." Through all the younger years of mine, the course prescribed was fairly run, and I was sound as the day long and a-comeing with it. And now that I am growing old, my sorrel whiskers streaked with gray, the ingrown-habit-keeper has left me, I am up at break of day. And when the clocks are striking nine, and darkness veils the windswep lea, I say, "That downy count of mine, up near the roof, looks good to me." When I consult the village vet, who doctors me for long years yet—you do not heed the leech's skill. It wonderfol how bitter you sleep beneath the burden of your years; while other graybeards lose their grin, you're husky as a yoke of steers!" The wise old maxims of our dads in modern days, don't always thrive but still some bright precursors—hade-retive-ol-nine-and-nine-and-five.

Early Rising.

My rude forefathers used to say, "If you expect to grow and thrive, and you'll get up at half past five." In daylight hours you'll strive and strain, and in the night you'll calmly snooze; the early bird," they would explain, "takes in the worm that sluggards lose." Through all the younger years of mine, the course prescribed was fairly run, and I was sound as the day long and a-comeing with it. And now that I am growing old, my sorrel whiskers streaked with gray, the ingrown-habit-keeper has left me, I am up at break of day. And when the clocks are striking nine, and darkness veils the windswep lea, I say, "That downy count of mine, up near the roof, looks good to me." When I consult the village vet, who doctors me for long years yet—you do not heed the leech's skill. It wonderfol how bitter you sleep beneath the burden of your years; while other graybeards lose their grin, you're husky as a yoke of steers!" The wise old maxims of our dads in modern days, don't always thrive but still some bright precursors—hade-retive-ol-nine-and-nine-and-five.

The Package.

I know not when my leg may break, entailing anguish sharp; I know not when my back may ache, nor yet my hair. Today I wear my buoyant tread, I dance around the floor; I cut a dash, I'm round the head, I know not what's in store. This world is full of gins and snarers, our health and joy to mar; I may fall down a flight of stairs, or fail to dodge a car. A sandbag from an airship high may land upon my dome, while weeping peelers hear me cry. "I'm proud word, I'm proud name." Tomorrow, if I'm still alive, I may be racked with pain, while skillful taxidermists strive to give relief in pain. I know not what day may bring to this poor life of mine; so fondly to this thought I cling—I have a wad in brine. If I must cease to part my lyre and whang out helpful tunes, I will not face a famine dire, I still can buy my prunes. And if perchance the sexton plants my tomb tomorrow, my weeping and wailing shall not be in vain. And so it will be proper pride I tell myself at times, "Whatever trouble may betide, I have some pickled time." No evil anticlimax, but if the luck should turn, I have about a hundred weight of pennies in the churn.

The Farmer.

The farmer has more kinds of grief than any man I know; if he has pleasure, it is brief, and long-drawn is his woe. My Uncle Hiram tills the soil, he hustles day by day, and half the time his earnest toil is labor thrown away. This year he had a field of corn that grew to wondrous size, and he surveyed it every morn with gladness in his eyes. The rains arrived in timely showers, the sunshine followed them, the corn stalks grew through daylight hours, by night they grew again. My Uncle Hiram's spirits soared, he watched the corn grow green and bushy, and he said, "I can afford a haircut and a shave. The way that field is looking now, the harvest will be fat; I'll lift the straw from the cow, and buy my wife a hat." He thought of many things he'd do when all that corn was sheaved, when it was run the sheaf through, and the market was tracked. Then came a hot wind from the south, that turned bright green to gray; the corn, as in a furnace mouth, layred up and burned away. My Uncle Hiram viewed the wreck, crop gone, beyond recall; two briny tears ran down his neck, he sighed, and that was all. Oh, oftentimes this sort of crime the husbandmen must view; but for lament he has no time—he has his chores to do.

It would be a dramatic reversal of what seemed to be accomplished fact. It would rub the wrong way all European and American preconceptions, and would be a crime against history.
But Europe is dealing now with a strange phenomenon. The "Sick Man" of the 19th century was sentenced to death. He did not die. He was born again in heroic effort. It is therefore a disturbing moral as well as a physical problem with which the patchers-up of the Sevres treaty now have to wrestle. The Turk is regenerated. But is he to come back into postwar Europe—a good place to let him come back into?

Dairy Cattle at University.
Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 30.—Records made in the past few months in state butterfat tests by pure bred cows of the agricultural college of the state university, have placed a number of the herd high among the dairy animals of the west, officials of the college say. Almost a hundred head of dairy cattle comprise the herd at the institution. About fifty of these are milk at all times.

During the first six months of the year 1922 forty-eight cows produced 270,415 pounds of butterfat and 1,934 pounds of milk, a daily average per cow of 31.1 of milk and 3.1 pounds of butterfat.

The college Holstein herd is headed by Count Ormsby Segis Pontiac, a son of King Segis Pontiac Comet and a daughter of Sir Peterzie Ormsby Mercedes, the two greatest sires of the breed and by King Segis Gerben Ormsby Lincoln, a grandson of the famous King Segis and Katy Gerben.

La Verna Lincoln, another animal of the college, has just completed a 305-day record on 3,726 pounds of milk and 704 pounds of butterfat, which will place her in the first rank in Nebraska for that period. Varsity record for a cow is 3,726 pounds of milk and 704 pounds of butterfat.

Quality Lincoln is making another record. Katy Gerben, the grand old animal of the Nebraska-Holstein herd, is soon to break a year's record for a 19-year-old cow.

The Jersey herd headed by a new sire, Sultan Telvo, who is the youngest silver-sided sire being according to the college instructors. He has sired eleven register of merit daughters, three of whom have exceptional records.

County Teachers Have Rich Treat

high school and grade teachers on "The Social Functions of a Teacher." The afternoon program began at 1:30 o'clock with music in charge of Miss Muriel E. Thomas. The principal's address on "Americanization through Education," followed. He stressed two of the greatest needs in the education of our children, Americanization by teachers are cooperation and social vision, and advised the liberal use of what the philosophers of the ages termed reason, wisdom, grace, faith and virtue.

The next few numbers on the program were rendered by Miss Ferné and Miss Frances Oman. In various solos and duets, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Clyde Oman, as pianist. The musical numbers were well received and the ladies responded to several encores.

Dr. Sealoek then addressed the teachers on the subject, "Judging the Efficiency of a Teacher." The main points by which he judged efficiency of instruction were a dominating purpose in the assignment, thought provoking questions by the teacher, intelligent attention of the pupils, ability to distinguish the relevant and the unimportant, and to leave the unimportant to think and to express themselves well without using the text book phraseology. The efficiency of a teacher and proportion of the teacher and class activity in the recitation.

Dr. Sternheim next addressed the general session on the subject, "The Educative Value of Literature in the treatment of the use teachers can make of our glorious heritage of literature to inspire pupils in the classroom." He stressed the importance of his also urged an intensive study of the problems of today by teachers and an attempt to interest pupils in the daily problems of the world. Dr. Sealoek next addressed the high school session on the subject "Supervision of Study" and Dr. Sternheim stressed the relation of the following things that mark a successful teacher:

1. Habits of industry.
 2. Resourcefulness.
 3. Self-reliance.
 4. Economy of time.
 5. Social responsibility.
 6. Initiative, judgment, strength.
 7. Training.
 8. Desire to learn.
 9. Information.
- This list, formulated by the high school teachers' conference, is significant in that it places information last. At his "commencement" at the high school graduates should have a large amount of information, but what is far more important, he should have acquired the ability to get more information.
- Dr. Sealoek addressed the high school and grade teachers on the subject, "The Socialized Recitation" and Prof. Bradford dealt with "The Problems of the Rural Teacher" in the rural section.
- At 6:30 o'clock the music was in charge of Miss Thomas who occupied the time until 8:30. Some of her pupils from the grades of the Wayne city schools appeared and showed that little folks like to sing and show results, even thus early in the school year.
- Prof. Bradford then gave his closing address "Picked up Along the Way." He said that he would be able to say anything and still not be guilty of departing from his main theme, as his subject was so elastic. He said a teacher must make good human objects. She must put the spirit of success in a child's mind. Failure leads to failure.

At 9 o'clock Dr. Sealoek addressed the general session on "The Project Method, an Evaluation." From the viewpoint of the subject, it was very excellent work as an accompanist for Prof. Bradford, and also in all the musical periods in charge of Miss LaReche.

At 10 o'clock Prof. Bradford spoke on "The Old and New in Education." Prof. Bradford's experience as a city superintendent and his present position as a principal in the city of Chicago, led to great practical value to his address. He emphasized that the teacher of the past was often a boss, and that the teacher of today should be a real leader, one who dominates without seeming to do so. He advised emphasizing the good points in the character of the pupil, and to put the light pedal on the failures. It is better even to beat a boy's body than to beat his spirit by sarcasm or ridicule. He urged on the teachers to be a boy lover. She must have personal acquaintance with the child, and the human touch.

Miss Georgia Cline of Omaha addressed the primary section, giving the method of the primary section and with the cooperation of the primary section, worked out his subject, "The Art of Teaching in the Primary School." He showed that the child that out of 100 pupils in the first grade, only twelve finished high school in 1919. He stressed the importance of today's school in the high schools. The junior high school is the most valuable help as to bridge the gap between elementary

CHIROPRACTIC

One Woman Against Husband and Three Physicians

"The first doctor said I had ovarian trouble and advised an operation. The second said it was rheumatism. The third said heart trouble and that the sciatic nerve was affected. The fourth said I had tumors and advised an immediate operation as necessary if I was to live much longer. My husband advised the operation, but I objected and tried the chiropractor. I am glad that I did.
I began to improve at once. Within three weeks
I thought I was well, but continued. I would advise all to try chiropractic."

It's only one of thousands of such testimonials on file at our National Chiropractic Research Bureau.

Where there is chronic disease of pelvic organs it is hard to judge without a spinal analysis, just what organs are involved.
By a spinal analysis the chiropractor discovers what spinal bones are displaced, and just what group of spinal nerves is involved.
He then makes a nerve tracing and thus definitely locates along the line of tender nerves, just where the disease is active. By chiropractic spinal adjustments the spinal bones are realigned and the nerves are freed of pressure. The result is health.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine
Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. It is a sign of a weak system, and the use of an Ointment which Quickly Relieves by local application, and the Internal Medicine, a Tonic, which assists in improving the General Health. Sold by druggists for over 60 years. E. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Piano Tuners Looking Up.
Omaha Beer: Among others anxiously awaiting the end of jazz music are the piano tuners, who say that their business has suffered because the "swave-off" piano is the better jazz comes from it. The cowbell, puticeman's whistle, automobile siren, bones and dildans have indeed out the piano in the minority.

Not to Consumer.
Washington, Post: Washington reports that eggs this fall are to be cheap and plentiful. Some "arm-chair authority" on hens, probably.
