West Point Defeats Wayne Team Friday

Wayne met the heavy West Point eleven on the Normal field last Friday and held the visitors to a 13-7 victory for West Point. This contest was the most desperately fought of any that has taken place here this season. Before the end of the first half the Wayne team had out-pointed their opponents in ground gaining strategy. The players displayed their wares in a way that has not been duplicated so far this year. Although Wayne lost the game, they gained the distinction of being the first team to have crossed West Point's goal line this year. The fans who witnessed this game went home satisfied that there is a great abundance of real football material in the team of Wayne high.

Brainard won the loss and decided to defend the south goal. Sund kicked off forty-five yards to West Point, who returned the ball for ten yards. After West Point had obtained the ball, Reed recovered a West Point fumble. Brainard, on the fourth down, kicked a well-placed punt to the end of the field. West Point immediately gained, and Wayne was also compelled to punt again. After West Point had gained fifteen yards, Sund recovered West Point's second fumble. Following Brainard's gain of five yards through the line, a pass to Peterson netted twenty yards. Wayne lost the ball on the second down, and after three incomplete passes, Milder attempted a field goal, but West Point penalized five yards on the play. West Point recovered Wayne's fumble, and marched down the field for forty-five yards before they were stopped, but punted to Reed as the quarter ended. In the second quarter, after good gains by Reed and Milder, West Point recovered Wayne's fumble and gained fifteen yards on the following play—West Point's second fumble. In the second quarter, after good gains by Reed and Milder, West Point recovered Wayne's fumble and gained fifteen yards on the following play—West Point's second fumble. In the second quarter, after good gains by Reed and Milder, West Point recovered Wayne's fumble and gained fifteen yards on the following play—West Point's second fumble.

Sund kicked off and a West Point man finally fell on the ball. E. Smith went in for Hufford. West Point carried the ball straight down the field for another touchdown, although every yard was well-earned. West Point missed the try-for-point. West Point kicked and recovered the ball when Sund fumbled. West Point took the ball over, Reed and Milder gained ten yards and passes to Peterson and Brainard each netted fifteen yards. Pass to Milder gained several yards as the quarter ended.

Wayne's ball on twenty-three-yard line. Reed made Wayne's yardage on a line plunge and a short pass. Milder and Brainard added seven yards more, but lost the ball on downs and another chance for a touchdown was lost. West Point punted forty yards to Brainard, intercepted a Wayne pass, but were unable to punt. Hufford went in for Smith. West Point again punted, made gains totaling thirty-five yards, and soon after a substitution, Hufford for Milder for Willis, the final whistle ceased further playing. West Point made thirteen first downs as compared to Wayne's four.

Wayne plays a return game with Laurel at the Normal gridiron Friday, Nov. 3. Wayne defeated Laurel at Laurel last week.

Wayne Seconds Defeat Bloomfield. The Wayne seconds, not content with trimming Randolph last week, played Saturday with the Bloomfield seconds at Bloomfield and won by score of 62-0. Bloomfield, although out-weighted about ten pounds to a man, were outclassed from start to finish, making only three first downs during the game.

Bloomfield kicked-off and on the first play Lackey left-end, made fifty yards on an end run. This seemed to decide the game. On the fourth down Lackey made a neat drop kick from the twenty-five-yard line exactly two and one-half minutes after the start of the game. From this time on Wayne scored at will.

Touchdowns made were: Two by Olson, three by Tim, two by Smith and one each by Mabbott and Hansen. Lackey kicked two drops and booted the ball across twice for points after touchdowns. Wayne's passing game worked well, two touchdowns resulting from this mode of attack, while many yards were gained by it. The thriller of the game came in the final minute of play when the two teams dramatized the scene of Elizabeth's coronation. Wayne's end, featuring as Eliza, picked up a punt blocked by Anderson and ran seventy-five yards for a touchdown with the clock five Bloomfield-outfit-tying alone behind. The seconds have two games with the Norfolk reserves, one being a preliminary to the Wayne-Laurel contest next Friday.

Sister of Mrs. Ley Passes Away Oct. 14

Mrs. Alona B. Boylan, sister of Mrs. Henry Ley of Wayne, passed away at her home in Lakin, Kas., Oct. 14. Mrs. Boylan had visited in Wayne and will be remembered by many here. The following obituary is taken from the Lakin Independent: Castella Florence Walter was born Sept. 3, 1851, at Miami, Ind., and died October 14, 1922, at Lakin, Kas. On October 13, 1869, she was united in marriage with Alona B. Boylan, at St. Lawrence, Scott county, Minnesota. Three children, Hannah Laura who died at the early age of three years, Lenora "Victoria" and Andrew Bradley, all of Lakin, were born to this union. Mr. Boylan died in Lakin, Sept. 8, 1918, and of the immediate family, she leaves to mourn her passing, one son, one daughter, two sisters, one brother, three grandsons, and one granddaughter. Mrs. Boylan came to Lakin with her husband in 1915, where she shared the lot of the early settlers and ministered largely to the needs of the entire community. Mrs. Boylan was heavily educated, having attended the public schools of Minnesota, a girls' seminary at Belle Plais and later the Missouri academy at Abbeville. Her interest in educational matters was attested to by the fact that with money she earned and saved, she bought and equipped a school building, building and personally assisted in establishing the first school in Lakin. Mrs. Boylan's interest in religious matters is shown by the fact that she opened her home for the first religious service ever held in Lakin, an itinerant minister preaching from the text, "Believe in God, Believe also in Me." It was in her parsonage home that the first Sabbath school held in Lakin was also organized and it was in the dining room of the Boylan home that the first Catholic service was conducted by a Catholic priest from Dodge City, who said mass at 4 o'clock in the morning, his congregation being made up of railroad men then laying steel for the Santa Fe.

Mrs. Boylan in childhood united with the Episcopal church and later in life became identified with the Presbyterian church. Toward the close of her life she became interested in Christian Science. About twenty-one years ago Mrs. Boylan's eyesight began to fail and for the past twelve years she has been totally blind, yet she remained cheerful and sought to be a useful citizen to the close of her life.

Her father was a practicing physician and from him she learned a great deal about the care of the sick, whose knowledge enabled her to minister in many ways to the needs of the early settlers of Kearney county in the days when the nearest physician lived at Dodge City.

Mrs. Boylan lived a useful and eventful life. She served her city and generation. Her's was the spirit of the pioneer and the empire builder.

It was her lot to help make this western desert to blossom as the rose. Her death is mourned by a host of friends, but her memory lives on in the minds and hearts of those to whom she has ministered.

Mr. Brookhart's Address. Dubuque Telegraph-Herald: Smith W. Brookhart, being a man of discontent to Dubuque Wednesday night. With discontent prevalent among the people he evidently finds it profitable to pierce it. "Undoubtedly injustice and evils exist. That they exist to the extent Mr. Brookhart declares is exceedingly doubtful. His picture of present-day wealth conspiring darkly to exploit the proletariat is decidedly overdrawn. Wherever Mr. Brookhart speaks he plays the same record, and his record is played on many a machine besides his own. It is played by Gov. Blain of Wisconsin; Senator La Follette; Lynn A.razier of North Dakota; A. C. Cownley, Victor Berger and many another. Mr. Brookhart denies he is a socialist, that he has ever read a socialist book or atunded a socialist lecture. If that is true then socialists are like poets, born, not made. The propositions laid down by Mr. Brookhart, carried out, their logical conclusion and applied to all problems in statecraft, would lead to a socialism and nothing else.

A Call for Patience. Alex Miller in the Cedar Rapids Republican: Of course, there are drunks under the Volstead act. Did you ever hear of the ten commandments, or of the Sermon on the Mount? The ten commandments say that shalt not commit adultery, but we believe there are adulterers now and then. We believe there are forgers and counterfeiters. Yet we do not repeal the laws against those crimes, do we? Why not be fair about it and patient and wait? Every new law takes time to work out. A lot of folks are fooling with hootch but the time is coming when they will either kill themselves off, or get tired of the foolishness. The old folks will drink their heads off and they will be a good riddance. Even now, there are lots of boys in Iowa who never saw a saloon. That is worth something. It is peculiar that we all expect more from a law prohibiting saloons than from any other. Habits of a lifetime, habits and customs of using booze are to be changed at a moment's warning and then, we act impatiently. It will work out, and it will work out for the good of our country.

Foreign Advertising Representatives THE AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

From Sister Wecker's little column in last week's Norfolk Press one of the many truths we have expressed in favor of Congressman R. E. Evans, we judge she is not friendly to his candidacy for reelection. We feel if she understood the situation and his record as well as she thinks she does, she would lift her voice in his behalf.

Omaha's policy is not to arrest people who, while visiting the town, vary from parking rules. Omaha authorities put tags on visiting automobiles, but not tags giving warning. The tags approving of the driver's judgment in parking, extend a welcome and invite him to come back. The Omaha policy is designed to warm friendship and stimulate trade.

It takes a trip to Europe to make one quite finding fault with this country. Every traveler abroad has his sense of appreciation of America engendered and quickened by his experience, and he is not slow to express astonishment that any one would feel dissatisfied here or trouble to make due reparation. There is simply better than can be found elsewhere.

With his experience in congress, his close identification with and interest in farming communities, no one could better represent this purely farming Third district than Congressman R. E. Evans. As a member of the farm bloc, he supported farming interests at every step in the road. His record of farm progress in Wayne county should swing into his column with an unprecedented majority.

It is unfortunate that boys and young men feel they must injure property in order to properly manifest their hilarity on Halloween night. In Wayne, police officers detected a number of youths in acts of violence and will likely call on the courts to make due reparation. There are plenty of opportunities for harmless fun without pulling off some stunt that means a burden of trouble and expense for others. It would seem that those who are known should be compelled to repair any damage of which they can be proved guilty.

By consulting the record, people will find that the bulk of the appropriations of the last legislature contributed to permanent improvements or to expenses that will not arise again. Another legislature will not face the demand for money that the last one met. Among the big appropriations are included the following: Bonds for soldiers' relief, $2,000,000; new state capital, $2,022,573.74; road building, $5,718,601.47; state university, $6,659,716.90; charitable and penal institutions, $7,882,750; normal schools, $2,393,263.77. Appropriations for educational work.

will be found prompted by need for new buildings, grounds and equipment.

C. H. Randall is reported gaining strength over the state in his candidacy for the governorship, and Wayne county should be a worthy neighbor by rolling up a huge majority for him. An opportunity for this part of the state to win the governorship should be turned to advantage. And Mr. Randall's record supports the belief that he will make an executive of the highest order.

County superintendents of the state are said to be generally in favor of John M. Atkinson's candidacy for reelection to the state superintendency on the ground that he has made a special study of educational schools and has been prompt and successful in helping solve their problems. It is pointed out that he has wasted no money in the administration of his office, and that he is surrounded by an efficient corps of assistants. The office is non-political, and should not be overlooked in the balloting next Tuesday. Atkinson's record should receive the cordial endorsement it deserves.

Unwelcome boxelder bugs disappear under the influence of moisture or cool weather. The lifting of the bug nuisance is a relief guaranteed to those who have been troubled by the elements. On an autumn day, these bugs come from somewhere and show no fear of selecting places to congregate. They are so quiet in obtruding themselves that they are there before one knows it. They do not fly, but crawl slowly carrying one's whiskers or lumbering over one's backbone which, like the continental divide, is inspected with the interest of a weather reporter. They may be found loafing in the shade of one's ear or trudging along the highway leading from one ear to the other. They don't bite nor sting nor do they seem to drink vanilla extract, but they have less sense than anything created up to date and seem to have no desire in life except to be around and get in the way.

Often a man without college training accomplishes more in his chosen groove than one with superior schooling, and this fact is sometimes a source of wonder. The man without a diploma may be a diplomat, a task with a determination to win in spite of his disadvantage, and then he does win. He is determined to make up in earnest, unflagging toil what he lacks in schooling. The graduate of a high institution of learning is likely to lean on his diploma and make little or no progress on account of the mistaken belief that his college parchment will carry him to triumph. With his scholarship, coupled with applied energy and a determination to succeed, he gains success than the one who plugs along without educational advantage. The way to success is not tinkling to rest in one's laurels. It invites hard work and exercise of sound sense. But it is made easier by preliminary training such as one may get in schools and colleges.

Rainfall is General.

Norfolk News, Nov. 1.—Rain which penetrated deep into the ground and doing an inestimable amount of good to the fall-grown grains, was general all over north Nebraska and telephone reports early Wednesday morning indicated that it extended as far south and east as Omaha. Partly cloudy weather was reported around the state, and the area of the Rosebud country of South Dakota Wednesday morning. Country roads are very slippery again, but farmers registered jubilation over the moisture.

Duck hunters were out early Wednesday morning figuring that cold weather would follow the storm and bring the flight of northern ducks to this vicinity. The chicken shooting season closed Tuesday and game wardens are getting cooperation from sportsmen who say hunting has been much better since the protection of birds has been carried on by the state.

Egg Laying Records Broken.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 31.—Two world's records for egg laying have just been broken in a 120-day contest conducted by the western Washington experiment station of the Washington State College, it is announced here by W. A. Linklater, superintendent of the station. The contest resulted in a White Leghorn pullet owned by H. M. Wood of Wood, Wash., laying 365 eggs with a day to go before the year expired.

A Leghorn pullet owned by the experiment station also best the world's record of 324 eggs set last year by a California hen by laying 330 eggs.

Plan State Marketing Body.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 1.—The executive committee of the Nebraska Farm Bureau federation authorized its secretary, H. D. Lute, to make an investigation and survey of conditions throughout the state with the end in view of establishing a state marketing association for eggs and poultry. Believing that a more careful marketing of poultry and eggs will mean the saving of thousands of dollars to the members of the Farm Bureau, an earnest and thorough effort will be made to bring about the establishing such a marketing organization.

Try Swift, Certain Punishment.

Portland Oregonian: It is error to suppose that human nature in the mass is more vicious than it was a few years ago, and to assume that the more plausible assumption that crime is less expensive in its consequences than it formerly was. Criminals ought automatically to result from the consequent lightening of the task now facing the overburdened police.

A Listless Campaign.

New York World: Both the democratic and the republican managers are making the usual partisan claims about the significance of the registration figures, and both are faking. Neither side knows whether the registration figures favor the democrats or the republicans, and neither side can know except by making a careful comparison, election district by election district, throughout the entire registration area of the state. What the returns show plainly enough, however, is a lack of enthusiasm on the part of the voters. They are listless and apathetic.

Lock 'Em Up.

Baltimore Evening Sun: The trouble with the "constructive program" for saving our girls, which was outlined last night at the Young Women's Christian association by Dr. Valeria Parker, is that it doesn't go half far enough. All Dr. Parker would do to save the girls from the men is to have a stricter notion of ture censorship, supervision of dance halls, more lights in the parks, chaplains on all getting parties in automobiles, community centers and clubhouses and hotels exclusively for women. This is not nearly enough. Dr. Parker is not a sufficiently radical reformer. The real way to keep men away from girls would be to divide the country into two halves, with a fortified wall 50 feet high between the sexes. Until the reformers are willing to go this far we have a fear that they are not wholehearted in their intentions. You can't do these things by halves.

Kansas City Star: Now Turkey demands reparations from Greece. There's one maxim of war they never forget in Europe, and that is that the loser pays.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Whiskey and automobiles are assessed lower in Louisville this year. Used in conjunction, they are just as expensive as crime ever were.

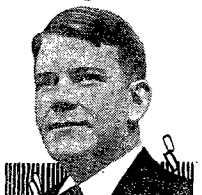

What's a Meal Between Friends. Chicago News: Soviet propagandists in the United States might well curb their enthusiasm until sovietism in Russia manages to provide at least one square meal a day for all Russians.

Hazing at Annapolis.

New York Tribune: Hazing is cowardly. It violates sporting ethics, because it is violence collective intimidation and denies fair play and a fair fight. The boy who indulges in it is not thereby qualifying himself to be an officer and a gentleman. The hazer is essentially a bully and a sneak—not the material out of which to build an officers' corps for either the navy or army. Moreover, he is a poor sample of the modern American college boy. In nearly all the colleges and universities hazing has been unceremoniously dropped. Does the Annapolis student body want to lose caste and class by hounding freshmen? Poor old stuff! Even the movies would not fall for it. Must an upper class man at the naval academy, be a real upper class man, also to be college hick?

Essay Wins Trip to Washington

Stanley Newcomb, 14 years old, of San Diego, Calif., is the boy who wrote an essay on "How I Can Make Highways More Safe," winning over 40,000 competitors. He gets a gold watch and a trip to Washington, from the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

Proposed Change in State Primary Law

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 31.—Whether the state primary law shall change the state primary law so that national political committeemen and delegates to the national nominating conventions of the various parties can be selected by party conventions instead of by direct primary vote, is one of the outstanding questions to be decided at the general election next week.

R. Howell, of Omaha, republican candidate for the United States senate and present national committeeman from Nebraska, says that this question is more important than his election or the election of a governor or of a congressman. He is opposed to changing the present law. In his opinion, expressed during the present campaign, there is an effort on foot in the United States to attack the primary system.

which, if successful, would have a detrimental effect on the farm bloc in congress, of which he is in favor. The proposed change was enacted into law at the last session of the state legislature—at Lincoln, but its operation was stopped through the filing of a petition to submit it to a vote of the people at next Tuesday's election. It provides for the selection of party committees, congressional district, state and national, conventions by caucuses instead of at primary elections.

A further provision against party conventions in nominating aspirants for nomination, and permits the selection of national party committees by state conventions.

It was Mr. Howell who presented to the secretary of state some time ago the requisite number of signatures of voters to a petition to have a referendum vote on the proposed change, although he was by no means the only candidate opposing it, as the democratic state platform itself voiced opposition to it, as well as to three other laws, which will be voted on by referendum at the same time. These three other laws are an anti-picketing measure, proposed by organized labor; a statute providing for registration of voters, and another which provides that if a state bank may be chartered it must be shown that its establishment will be for public convenience, advantage and necessity. Like the proposed primary law change, these three laws were passed at the last session of the Nebraska legislature, in 1921.

No Need for Law.
Arguing in favor of the anti-picketing law, the Nebraska Manufacturers' association, through its president, A. R. Kinney, declared that the act would prevent a peaceful persuasion. What the law would do, he said, would be to prevent strikers from forcing their views on "unwilling listeners, or to use the words of the law, "to persist in talking to a person against his will * * * or to menaces, threats, coercion, intimidation or frighten * * * such a person for the purpose of causing him to quit his employment."
Demanding the law, which would prohibit picketing or loitering about the place of business or residence of the proprietor "for the purpose of interfering with the employment of any person therein, or with any lawful business," C. A. Sorenson of Lincoln, declared there is no need for the law. The bill providing for the law was so poorly drawn, he argued, that "it can be construed to prevent peaceful parades and meetings of the bill providing for the law who are in dispute with their employers over wages or working conditions, and that if allowed to go into effect it would "aggravate and inflame the situation now existing between labor and capital."

The proposed law would provide a fine of $10 to $100 or six days' imprisonment, or both, for violations.

Copper Box in the Cornerstone Opened

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 31.—Opening of the copper receptacle in the cornerstone of the Nebraska state house here today disclosed an interesting collection of relics, varying from copies of Nebraska newspapers to the opening of the box, which was laid away by Masonic officers of 1884, was not without its humorous incident. In the present case it was the finding of the relic of time table No. 56, Burlington and Missouri River Railroad company, in Nebraska, 1884.

The contents of the box will be preserved to be re-placed in the cornerstone of the new state house, to be laid on Armistice day, November 11. The contents of the box follow:

Last proceedings of the grand lodge A. F. & A. M., Royal Arch Masons and Knights Templar; copy of Nebraska constitution, adopted 1875; copy of the constitution of the United States, autographs of state officers and cabinet members, message of Gov. Albin Vance, 1882; inaugural address of Gov. James W. Dawes, 1883; roll of names of Gov. Dawes and cabinet members; list of Nebraska National guard; stereotype plate with names of state officers and employees included therein; legislative journals, 1883; roster of old soldiers and sailors of Nebraska, 1884; time table Burlington and Missouri River railway; copies of Daily State Journal, Daily State Democrat, Daily Evening News, State Anzeiger, Nebraska Farmer; Nebraska Cynosure, Nebraska Capitol; Omaha Republican; Omaha Bee; Omaha Herald; annual catalogue of the State Journal company; crop report of Nebraska, 1884, by D. H. Wheeler, state statistical agent; set of United States coins of 1884, the gift of Byron Reed of Omaha.

The list was certified to by E. P. Roggen, then secretary of state.
For University Regent.
Frank S. Perkins, publisher of the Fremont Herald, who visited Wayne recently, is a candidate for regent of the state university on the non-political ticket. Following his nomination last July, state bank papers carried this story of his activities:
"Frank S. Perkins of Fremont, is publisher of the Fremont Herald, and is interested in the printing business. He was born in 1886 and has lived practically all his life in Nebraska, having attended the graded and high schools of Omaha.

"In 1911, Mr. Perkins entered the state university, after spending six years in the mechanical and business and of his father's newspaper plant in Fremont. While in the university, he was active in student affairs, being business manager of the Daily Nebraskan. He was a member of Sigma Chi, Innocents and Sigmas Delta Chi, a journalistic fraternity.

"During the World war Mr. Perkins spent twenty-three months in the service, attending at first officers' training camp at Fort Snelling, Minn., while at Camp Dodge. In addition to his regular military duties, he was detailed as officer in charge of the 'Camp Dodger,' the official newspaper of the 58th division.

"In Fremont, Mr. Perkins is identified with the business life of the city, being a director of the chamber of commerce and secretary of the Rotary club. At present he is state finance officer of the American Legion, serving in that capacity since the establishment of the Nebraska department.

"Mr. Perkins states that he filed for the office of regent of the state university at the request of the executive committee of the alumni association of that institution."
Congressman Evans.
Fremont Tribune: Robert E. Evans will go before the voters in November with one of the finest records back of him ever achieved by any congressional representative from this district. He has served honestly and well and deserves the endorsement which only a large plurality of his constituents can give him. Oakland Independent: Congressman Evans is a man one does not have to apologize for. He dodges no issues—issues—never—never—is a conscientious and capable public servant, thorough-going in what he undertakes. Among his colleagues in Washington he is one of the most valuable men, one that should be returned to congress.

Hartington Herald: While Congressman Robert E. Evans is a man who does no grandstanding at Washington or self-advertising at home, it is generally conceded that he is one of the most industrious, efficient and conscientious representatives this district has ever had. The people of the district have confidence in him and he will be returned by a greatly increased majority.

Penalty or Indifference.
Gov. Miller of New York: The truth is that people receive just as good government as they are entitled to. They receive the sort of government that they are willing to support. But make no mistake about this: If the great mass of the people who have no interest in government except to have good government are indifferent, they may be certain that those who have special interests to serve, those who have axes to grind and those who have favors to ask will not be similarly indifferent.

City By-Product of Country.
Minneapolis Tribune: There has been of late an encouraging growth of interest among farmers in higher grades of farm animals of all kinds, but there is still a long way to go and many obstacles to overcome. Farm financial conditions have been discouraging for several years. To effect a betterment of his lot, the farmer needs a credit system more suited to his peculiar requirements. He needs the assistance of a credit capital in the cities and towns to help finance improvements in his method of doing business, particularly as to the quality of his herds and flocks. Better farming in the northwest may be primarily the business of the farmer, but in a very real and practical way it is the proper business of the cities, which are nothing more or less than the producers of by-products of the country.

Our Society of Nations.
New York Tribune: The calling of a Central American conference in Washington illustrates the sort of international cooperation which President Harding and Secretary Hughes have at present most in mind. The five republics are invited to revive those provisions of the semi-federated treaties of 1907 also signed in Washington—which experience have shown to be of value in maintaining peace and helpful relations among them. Disarmament and plans for arbitrating international disputes are included in the conference agenda. Here is a practical venture in international association.

All the powers concerned belong to one family—a family recognized as such for a century. It came into existence with the Spanish-American revolution and the promulgation of the Monroe doctrine. It practically covers the western world—a world on which some of the European statesmen most interested in the league of nations now want to confer a kind of regional autonomy within the larger circle.

Knox May Change to Commissioner Form

Bloomfield, Neb., Oct. 30.—A hard fight on the question of changing from the supervisor to the commissioner form of county government in Knox county which will be voted on at the coming election, is now being waged between those who favor the change, and those who wish to retain the present system.

Opponents of the supervisor system claim that counties under the commissioner system are run at a far less expense and to prove this claim call attention to the fact that when compared to other counties in this section of Nebraska where the commissioner plan is in force, Knox county taxpayers are paying more than double. Wayne county residents pay $2.70 on each $1,000 worth of property; Pierce county taxpayers pay $2.60 and Knox county residents are taxed an even $3.60. They also point to the fact that the same prevails all over the state—commissioner counties operating at much less expense than where the supervisor system prevails.

Those who favor the present system insist that but very little change would be effected by the change, not enough in fact, to warrant the discontinuance of the township organization. They claim that by voting for the commissioner plan the voter will vote away his right to vote his own taxes and the right of home rule generally. Also that the county as large as Knox where each commissioner would have about 380 sections to supervise the mileage would eat up all that would be saved on salaries.

The fight against the change is apparently being conducted from Wauss and letters sent out from that place appeared in most of the county papers this week. Local men who are numbered with those fighting to make the change expect to do some tall talking between now and election day. It is thought that the vote on the proposition will be close.

Evans in Madison County. Norfolk Daily News, Oct. 28.—Congressman Robert E. Evans of the Third Nebraska district was given a very friendly and cordial reception all over Madison county Friday while being piloted about by various republican candidates.

In Madison, Battle Creek, Newman Grove, Meadow Grove and Tilden, good sized crowds turned out to hear the congressman's address, and also to listen to Charles Randall of Newman Grove, tell them what he is going to do on the state railway commission if the people elect him on Nov. 7.

Randall was the crowd-pleaser for the republicans in practically every town they visited. The Newman Grove candidate started his talks by taking off his coat, vest and his collar much to the amusement of the crowds which seemed to make quite a hero of Randall.

They appeared to be of the opinion that Randall means what he says when he threatens to "clean up the Nebraska state railway commission," if he is elected.

Congressman Evans will find it impossible to return here for another meeting before election day. He expects, however, to be out campaigning over the district, many meetings having been arranged for him by his friends.

Discussions with the candidates following this tour indicate that the republicans are optimistic over Madison county and declare that the general feeling exists that the "republican" has done nothing as yet to earn any disfavor from the voters."

Needs Much More. Springfield, Mass., Republican Mr. McAdoo, when asked at Minneapolis if he is a candidate for the democratic nomination for president, said: "If I say I am not a candidate no one will believe me. If I say I am, they will wonder why I am in such a hurry." He knows the first principles of the game of politics, but more than first principles are needed to make him president.

Archaeologists Make Discovery. Chicago News. Archaeologists after profound study have determined that the Indian mounds in Illinois were built by Indians.

Taxpayers Are Learning. Sioux Falls Argus Leader: If the cities and towns and school districts as the state has to cut them as deeply as the state had cut them in the past two years, we should have no tax issue. The cheering thing about this is that the taxpayer knows it now and from now on the pressure for lower taxes will be exerted on those who have it in their power to bring relief to the taxpayer.

Lincoln Journal: Secretary Mellon makes it clear to Congressman Frear that the stock dividend of the Standard Oil company doesn't mean an escape from the income tax law. It leaves still intact, however, the congressman's view that income tax returns should be public. And it leaves still standing the notion that we may have been in too great a hurry to repeal the excess profits tax.

Maddened by Liquor Shoots Best Friend

Fremont, Neb., Oct. 28.—Charged with shooting and seriously wounding his best friend, William Jergen, 40, during a drunken orgy at North Bend Thursday, Andrew Johnson, 64, is in the county jail here. The only witnesses to the shooting was James Herbert, 70, a third member of the alleged wild party. He was also taken into custody. Johnson is nearly overcome with grief over the affair since he has sobered up in the Dodge county jail.

According to the story told to the police, Herbert and Jergen had been digging potatoes all day. About 4:30 Johnson drove to the place where they were working and took them to his home in his car. Arriving at Johnson's home, which is in the extreme west part of North Bend, Johnson handed Jergen the key to unlock the barn in which he kept his car. Jergen had some difficulty in getting the door open which first aroused the wrath of Johnson, who got out of the car and opened the door himself.

After the three men had put the car away and had been in the house for a short time Jergen was sent to the barn for a bottle of whisky. What he did with it was from the house is not known, but he returned without having fulfilled his mission. This again aroused Johnson, who is alleged to have made a remark about the worth of Johnson. Johnson, according to the story told to the sheriff, was considerably "soaked up" at this time. He ordered Jergen from his house, and Jergen started to leave when he was called back. A few more drinks and another dispute arose when Johnson was alleged to have gone into another room in the house and returned with a six shooter, firing one bullet which took effect in the body of Jergen.

Hartington Boy is Guilty But Insane

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Eugene Bryant, son of Judge Wilbur C. Bryant of Hartington, Neb., was found guilty by a jury tonight on charges of sending letters demanding money to Mrs. A. H. Showell, wife of a wealthy candy manufacturer here.

While finding Bryant guilty, the jury expressed the belief that Bryant was insane. The verdict carries with it a commitment to an asylum. Bryant's counsel intimated that no appeal from the verdict would be taken.

Bryant was arrested last summer after Mrs. Showell had received over 200 letters, some demanding money, and others being of a salacious nature. Bryant pleaded insanity at the trial.

Randall is Victim of False Reports

Norfolk Daily News, Oct. 28: With less than a dozen days before election there has emerged what is declared by various political questioners to be a most desperate effort on the part of certain people friendly to Charles W. Bryan to defeat Charles H. Randall of Randolph, Neb., for the governorship of Nebraska. For several weeks persistent rumors and reports have been circulated by his opponents that "Randall votes against parochial schools" and that "Randall has promised jobs to present republican office holders in Lincoln."

Parochial School Issue False Both of these reports are declared to be malicious and circulated in an attempt to inject unfair questions into the campaign with the hope of defeating Randall. The facts as outlined by Mr. Randall and his friends are that Mr. Randall at no time opposes parochial schools. He also denies that he is pledged to any employee of the state and has no promises to appoint any one.

In a statement made in Norfolk recently, Mr. Randall is quoted as follows: "An effort is being made to inject

Gulbransen Player-Pianos

WE HAVE just received some new circulars from the Gulbransen people to hand out to prospective purchasers of player-pianos and thought perhaps you would be interested in looking one over.

The most noticeable feature of the Gulbransen when one sits down to play for the first time is the ease of operation. The pedals go down very easily and very few strokes per minute are required. A baby could make the Gulbransen play. A baby did it and that is what gave the Gulbransen company the idea for its famous trademark.

In playing the Gulbransen you do with your feet what you would do with your fingers in hand playing; and you do with your hands what you would do with your feet in playing the straight piano. Your feet cause the notes to play softly, louder or forcibly at your will. You operate the sustaining pedal by a lever below the keys. There are no buttons or extra complicated devices to produce various effects. The Gulbransen is simple to operate and you can make it sound just like someone playing by hand.

We'd like to have you see a Gulbransen, especially the White House Model, in order that you may know something about the progress that is being made in the musical instrument world.

Call in and let us show you this wonderful instrument.

the parochial school question into this campaign. No matter how others feel about parochial schools, I am not opposed to them. I feel that the people of this state should have a perfect right to educate their own children in the manner they deem best. It is the parents' right and interference from outside is absolutely wrong. I have never been opposed to parochial schools."

Advice as to Marriage Wanted. Portland Oregonian: Advice about marriage is waste of space. If she cannot cook and wash, don't take her, says one. If she does not have a child in two years, divorce her, says another. Very good when we become a nation of sheep dippers and stock breeders; but the boy and girl who see themselves in each other's eyes will unite, if they never eat and wash, and the per cent of philoprogenitiveness will remain about the same.

Not Advertised. Yankton Press and Dakotan: Contrary to an impression that might be given by recent news, there are a lot of people in this country living perfectly respectable lives with their own husbands and wives.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher.

With Dusters.
The "Gentlemen with Dusters," they still enjoy a boom, whereas cobweb clusters they ply the sawed-off broom. These moralists, all nameless, are writing books to prove that everything is shameless, without modern statesmen move. Our statesmen and our rulers have neither hearts nor brains; they should be in the coolers and loaded down with chains. The gentlemen with dusters provide no helpful cure, they're rusted or poor adjusters of evils we endure. They point out Götts and Vardala, who in high places stand, they dig up muddy scandals to horrify the land; but they are masked while prodding the erring, sinful ones, and so it's only wadding emerging from their guns. Methinks the gent sardines who dies a bitter end, his heaps revellings drabble upon his fellow men; should tell just what his name is, when he completes his task, and then, whatever his game is, he wears no piker's mask. Then, when his facts he musters, he's of a human size; but gentlemen with dusters are rabbits in disguise.

Melancholy.
I'm full of weariness tonight, in vain I strive to shed a grin; the moon, that once was shining bright, looks like a planet made of tin. I have two boils upon my neck, and two more threaten to arrive, and so I sadly cry, "By heck, and wonder why I am alive. I hear the laughter of the young, a sound I loved in days of yore, but now it keeps my nerves unstrung, and makes my head exceedingly sore. I read the works of Sunny Jim, that used to soothe my savage breast, but now I'd read him limb from limb, and throw the fragments east and west. My aunts tune up their lyres and lutes, for music once possessed its joys, but now I don't my hat and boots and leave the house to dodge the nose. The night wind has a wailing sound, it sighs and whimpers by my shack; my poultice weighs a half a pound, and keeps on sliding down my back. It is in vain my brow to deck with wreaths of Laurel, fairly worn; for I've two boils upon my neck, and dusters aren't worth ten cents a ton.

Secret of Health.

"Oh, gaffer, why are you so hale?" the children say to me; while other men are wan and pale, you're as fat as you can get. You sit here by the county jail, from common ailments free. "Ods bodikins, my little lad," I say, "my life is spent in pulling down the useful scads, in quiet and content; I do not follow up the fads that dippy men invent. I eat whatever seemeth good, a roast or a cutlet, through all my years. I have withstood the cranks who'd diet me; and if I will I'll eat elm wood, washed down with senna tea. Whatever fadists may indorse as being fine and wise I sidesteer, like a mottled horse that in the roadway shies, and I have never felt remorse because I do not follow fads. I do not read the helpful books that fad-physicians write; I do not pass up skillful cooks to eat the Cow's Delight; I do not bathe in frozen brooks or boil my feet all night. Each day they bone me once or twice to give their schemes a chance, and still I scorn the dink and genuis bowl-filled, and here I sit and put up with ice in pomp and circumstance."

Idle Rich.

My lot is cast where millionaires are thick as they can be, and grouchily as so many bears, they sit beside the sea; and every moment one sweats in the mountain at hard to tree. Oh, every moment some one sighs, and wishes he were dead, for he is tired of swatting flies, of eating daily bread; he's tired of swapping futile lies concerning days long sped. These rich men never happen in play, so that the long hours through when in their prime each busy day showed some one they could do; some other rich men they might say were ever more in view. They never learned in all their days the use of useless things, like arguing with idle jays of cabbage and kings, or finding out, in fifty ways, the joy that loafing brings. They never learned to play vain tricks that do not bring in kate, to make for houses out of bricks, or read an Old Sleuth tale; and so they file their weary kicks, and say that life is stale. Oh, parents, teach your doom to plumb; you have a bully time, and do not let them break away that they may nail a dime, or haply, when they're old and gray, they'll say that life's a crime.

Independant.

Oh, my feet are bruised by gravel, I have walked until I'm lean, but I'd rather walk than travel in a mortgage of limousine. Dealers come to sell me autos with their tires out, but I don't skid, but I show them sundry mottoes I have pasted in my lid. "What a lonesome world is this," is the one I can't forget as along the road I trundle, striving to keep out of debt. On the plain and by the river still I plot on acing bands; better that than tool a fiver that is mortgaged to the wheels. Thoughts of creditors don't grind me as I journey through the land, and when I weiner go behind me and my cuds in my hand. In this world of debt and pleasure I'm a delegate apart, for I think man's greatest treasure is an independent heart; it is great if one is able to remark in trumpet tones, and be guilty of no fable.

Suitable Work.

How happy is the man whose task has all the charm he'd dare to ask! I speak in stately manner, while my shoes drip honest sweat. I walk beside the river, so I journey up the hill, and I will not own a flivver till I'm fixed to foot the bill.

Our word for it!

You'll never know how delicious Corn Flakes can be till you eat Kellogg's

Positively—the most joyously good any-time-cereal any man or woman or child ever put in their mouths! Such a flavor, such crispness! Such big sunny-brown Corn Flakes! How you'll relish a generous bowl-filled-most-to-overflowing; and a pitcher of milk or cream! Never was such a set-out! Never did you get such a universal vote as there'll be for Kellogg's Corn Flakes! Big folks and little folks will say "Kellogg's, please, mother!" Leave it to their tastes — because they love it! Prove out all we say!

Far, Kellogg's Corn Flakes are a revolution in cereal; a revolution in all-time crispness! Kellogg's are never tough or leathery or hard to eat! Insist upon KELLOGG'S—the original Corn Flakes—the kind in the RED and GREEN package!

Must Diversify Farming.

Daily Drivers—Cultural-Stockman: One of the most encouraging signs of the times is the interest that progressive business men and statesmen are taking in the rehabilitation of agriculture and in endeavoring to help the farmer and improve the farmer's position. They are studying the farmer's problem.

In a recent address Governor McCray of Indiana analyzed the position of the exclusive grain farmer and not only painful but well-nigh hopeless. The grain farmer is wasting his capital and labor while earning less per hour than common laborers in the city. He must learn his system of farming or quit business.

Fortunately, the average grain farmer is in a position to change his system of farming and in changing his methods to improve his farm his income his profits. Governor McCray points the way in characteristic fashion when he says:

"Agriculture now prostrate, will perish under such conditions. Fortunately, however, the farmer who feeds his grain into well improved live stock is faring much better than the man who dumps all of his grain to the warehouse. Present prices for cattle and hogs make that business very remunerative. American packers have opened a spot cash market for every meat animal shipped to any public stock yard. Their policy has enabled the farmer to market profitably in the form of hogs and cattle grain which would have overwhelmingly depressed agriculture had it been thrown on the market in its original form."

Dr. Lyman Abbott.
New York Times: One of the greatest and most wise leaders of Americans, Dr. Lyman Abbott, had the fire, fearlessness and vision of a prophet. He did not put much emphasis upon creeds, but put his strength and writing dwell on the essentials of a Christian life. Though blown upon by every wind of doctrine, he was not blown about by it. He main-

Rev. B. M. Bridges Gives Facts in His Case

It is doubtful if there has ever been a medicine endorsed by so many ministers of the gospel as has Tanlac. Indeed, there is scarcely a faith, creed or denomination in all the land in which one, or more, of the elements has not publicly expressed their indebtedness to the Premier Preparation for the benefits they have derived from its use.

One of the latest to speak out in this connection is Rev. B. M. Bridges, a widely known and beloved Baptist preacher residing at Mooresboro, N. C., whose statement follows:

"Tanlac has given me a good appetite, toned up my system and renewed my strength in such a gratifying way that I am glad to recommend it to anyone who is in a run-down condition. For ten years past I have had such a severe case of indigestion that I could not find anything to eat. First I tried cod liver oil. Finally I became very nervous and could get but very little sleep or rest.

It seems that I took nearly everything trying to get myself in shape, but nothing helped me until I ran across Tanlac. My nerves are so much better now that my sleep is sound and refreshing. I enjoy my meals and have also gained weight. I can say from experience that Tanlac is a splendid medicine and tonic for anyone afflicted with indigestion. Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. n21

Miss Mamie Elliott was killed instantly on Nov. 1, 1922, when the buggy in which she and her sister, Miss Alice, were returning to their home in Wakefield, N. C., was struck at the railroad crossing a mile west of Winside. It is thought the horses became unmanageable and ran on the track in front of an approaching train. Miss Alice Elliott was unconscious for a couple of days.

Oldest Republican.

O'Neill, Neb. Oct. 26.—David Hite, of O'Neill, aged 92 years, is the oldest continuous republican in the United States, he believes. Mr. Hite, who was born in Licking county, O., July 15, 1830, assisted in the organization of the republican party and attended as a delegate from Ohio in its first national convention when Gen. Winfield Scott was nominated. He has been voting the republican ticket straight since the organization of the party and has never missed an election. He expects to continue to vote the ticket straight for many years to come.

Mr. Hite came to Nebraska more than 30 years ago and settled first in Cass county. He is a great great grandfather and is hale and hearty, both physically and mentally. He now is residing with his daughter, Mrs. Flora B. Lewis, of O'Neill.

Recalling his first vote as a republican, at Dayton, O., Mr. Hite says that at that election there were only four republican ballots, including his own, cast in the precinct. Four years later the republican strength had increased to more than twenty-five in the precinct. The republicans were called "barn burners" in those days, he says.

If there is any republican in the United States who has a more consistent record as a republican voter than Mr. Hite he wants to hear from him.

Believes Feeding Will be Less.

Daily Drivers Journal-Stockman: "A great many cattle have already gone on feed in the Beemer district and the recent advance in corn prices is making farmers a little cautious about loading up too heavily with stock," said Clarence Galbraith, who was in from that section Thursday.

Mr. Galbraith, however, plans on keeping his feed very busy. Yesterday he marketed the last load of his summer fed cattle, receiving $11.05 for them, which, with the excellent gain they made, gives him a nice profit on the deal and before leaving for home he purchased two more cars of medium weight feeders.

"Our corn is very good," Mr. Galbraith stated, "but there has been little of it for sale and prices have advanced rapidly. Old corn has sold recently at 57 and 58 cents, and feeders are bidding up to 55 cents for new corn, though none of it has been sold that I know of. A little more fall rains and there will be plenty of corn available."

The Time Element.

Sloux Falls Argus-Leader: New York complains about the number of deaths from wood alcohol. The only difference, however, between the old system and the new is that now one gets results a little quicker. Before the Volstead law was passed the process was a little slower.

Greater Than His Critics.

Yankton Press and Dakotan: In spite of the mistakes he has made, and they have been many without a doubt, Lloyd George is the chief of the British government, has definitely established himself as one of the big men of the present day. He demonstrated this fully during the trying days of the world war, and whatever his critics may say of him, it is doubtful if many of them could have done as well as he.

Ex-Kaiser is Generous.

Springfield, Mass., Republican: It is obliging of William II to say, "America, in so far as it is now possible to judge events, did not contribute toward bringing on the world war." Some Americans have been less lenient, holding that the United States was responsible through not having in 1914 an army big enough to impose peace on Europe.

An Economic Irritation.

Providence Journal: The arrival of another English cargo of soft coal in the harbor, with the possibility of its smothering effect on prices, augurs the wish that the British Isles were plentifully supplied with anterite also. Our dependence on eastern Pennsylvania for hard coal is one of our chief economic irritations.

Governor McKelvie Talks on Code Law

Governor S. R. McKelvie who is taking an active part in the present political campaign in behalf of the code-law and other state issues from a republican standpoint, is scheduled for a speech in Wayne this morning. No one has a clearer understanding of the working of the code law, and no one is better able to explain it to the satisfaction of the public than the governor.

The following report of his speech recently at York, Neb., reported by a staff correspondent of the Lincoln Journal, will be enlightening:

Has old-fashioned wind-jamming become obsolete in Nebraska politics. One would think so after spending a few days with some of the republican speakers who are now going over the state giving an account of their stewardship. Take the case of Governor McKelvie, who spoke here last night in the opera house before an audience of nearly 400 people. The meeting was opened by Congressman M. O. McLaughlin who made a plain and straightforward statement of what the republican party has done at Washington since it came into power a year ago last March. It was a simple, straightforward recital of the record, and it seemed to make a strong impression upon the congressman's fellow townsmen.

Then Governor McKelvie appeared with a set of charts outlining the salient facts connected with the civil and administrative code which has been made such an issue in this state, by some of the speakers representing the opposition. Governor McKelvie met their challenge with complete frankness. He first displayed a chart showing the original constitutional officers who after 1875 had entire charge of the state government. As public business grew it became necessary to add other departments. The legislature being prohibited by the constitution from making new executive officers the device was resorted to of creating boards or secretaries who would be appointed by some of the constitutional officers and perform certain duties under their nominal direction. Virtually all of the original state officers in the course of time found themselves saddled with the responsibility of looking after some of the boards which up to six years ago had reached thirty-six in number. This chart showing the lines of authority running from the different executive offices to the different boards could be seen by the audience to create a wonderful jungle in which all administrative authority was lost, and nearly all power of effecting economies had vanished.

When John H. Morehead was governor he ooked over this maze of conflicting authority and declared in a message to the legislature that it was time for simplification. A start was made by combining the food and drug board with the oil inspection under Arthur Mullen. When Keith Neville became governor he saw the point in exactly the same way and recommended what amounts to the present code. Not until Mr. McKelvie was made governor, however, was any comprehensive change made. Under his administration five of these boards and secretaries were grouped under six general heads, each appointed by the governor and confirmed by the legislature. The department heads appointed all of the subordinate and were held responsible for their work and conduct. The second chart shows an extremely simple arrangement of the state government as compared with the first. One line of authority goes down from the governor to each secretary and one line from each secretary to his assistants.

Governor McKelvie showed that when he went into office there were 125 jobs in the state government which the executive was expected to fill in person. Thousands of applicants for these positions presented themselves in person or by letter. To answer each application, a job the newly elected governor felt he must perform, cost an enormous amount of time and incidentally an entire year's salary before this series of acknowledgments was made. To the charge that the governor filled up with machinery by this system, the speaker answered by pointing out that originally he had 125 appointments, most of which he could make without consulting anybody. Under the new plan he had only six, and these must be confirmed by the senate and house. He also answered the charge that the code system is responsible for high taxes by pointing out that to repeal the code would not result in "doing away with a single job" in the state government, except those held by the six secretaries. All of the other offices had been created long before the code was thought of. The speaker classified state officers already in existence and provided six secretaries to see that the employees are kept at work and are not idling or interfering with each other's efforts.

Out of the code, the governor said, and nothing is left but the salaries of the secretaries. That would mean 331,000 of 1 per cent on each man's taxes—not enough to buy a stick of gum. He pointed out that the code has cut down the budget and the power of the governor to systematize and balance state expenditures vanished. It was this system of the budget law that enabled the governor to revise the appropriations made by the legislature of 1921 and effect a saving of two million dollars in state expenses by holding the special election in the winter of 1922. State taxes were reduced one-third because the code system gives control over expenses, but the old days were wholly uncontrollable.

Down to Particulars.

All of these facts are presented by the governor in a direct and pleasing fashion. He discusses every phase of his record with frankness and meets his critics with good humor. After showing the impossibility of making any reductions worth while by repealing the code law he brings forward other sheets of his questions dealing specifically with the question of taxation. He has circles showing the distribution of the tax dollar and making it clear that only 19 cents of each dollar goes to the state, under the state. All of the rest goes for local purposes. Forty-two cents out of each dollar for rural and village schools, 20 cents for city schools, 16 cents for cities and villages, 3 cents for the township and 19 cents for the state. That means 19 cents of each dollar of taxes under the control of the state legislature and 81 cents under local control. How, the governor asked, is it possible for any candidate for governor to propose a larger reduction in taxes than the entire state taxes amount to? Will he cut out the state government entirely and abandon the state? A speaker of the code means wiping out only six secretaries. The code did not create new departments, but merely grouped them. The injurers, tax eaters and other busbodies so liberally established long ago, and not by the code law. "You did not see them," the governor declared, "but you do see them now, because they are at work."

From His Item collected from each tax dollar in 1921, 6 cents went to education, 3 cents for roads, 3 cents for state institutions, 2 cents for relief of ex-soldiers, 3 cents for the new capitol and 3 cents for the general state government. Taking an average farm in Lancaster county the governor showed that taxes have indeed greatly increased in recent years. A quarter section which paid $69.95 in 1917 paid $227.73 in 1921 and will pay $292 in 1922, the value in the last two years being exactly the same. Where was the increase? The amount collected by the state increased from $19,377 in 1917 to $18,844 in 1918, to $53,221 in 1919, to $171,551 in 1920, to $120,411 in 1921, to $153,564 in 1922. This made it clear that the great increase in this farm was in the school tax, which cannot be reached by the governor, the code or the budget law. The governor analyzed each item in the increase collected by the state. Out of the additional amount levied in 1922 as compared with 1921, $4.01 goes to the soldiers, $25.4 to the university, $6.25 to the normal schools, $102 to charitable and penal institutions, 54 cents to aid of weak schools, 32 cents for the eradication of animal diseases, and $2.10 to all other state activities.

Incidentally, this farm belongs to the democratic candidate for governor. Governor McKelvie asked pointedly what one of the items of increase made by the school tax was cut out if the owner could have his way.

The attention given by the York audience to the exposition by the governor was flattering. While the speaker was at times earnest, he indulged in no oratorical flourishes. He told the story in simple language and drove each point home with figures and diagrams. Judging from the evident effect on the hearers, it is safe to say that if wind-jamming is a lost art, so much the better for public intelligence and public behavior.

Former Congressman Discusses Politics

Norfolk Daily News, Oct. 30.—Farmers would never make up the loss of the tariff bill, Charles H. Sloan, Geneva, Neb., former congressman from the Fourth Nebraska district, told a good sized crowd of men and women who gathered on Norfolk avenue to hear him discuss the tariff bill. Mr. Sloan was introduced by William C. Traub, republican candidate for county attorney.

"I accept the challenge of William Jennings Bryan that the paramount issue in this campaign is the republican tariff," Mr. Sloan stated. "He declared that for the good of the nation, people should remain stalwart republicans and stand back of the administration which is endeavoring to protect the products of the producers."

"Difference in Farm Protection." He defined the republican tariff as a piece of major legislation largely different from the Underwood tariff because it places a strong protective duty on farm products of Nebraska and the northwest, while the Underwood tariff left the farm products on the free list.

The second important difference between the Underwood and republican tariff is that there is a greater rate of duty generally on things that may be classed as luxuries, like the report of $40,000,000 as silks, satins, fine underwear, china ware, etc. These differences existed in former republican and democratic tariff matters, he declared. The speaker stressed these two principal major differences between the democratic and republican tariffs. The working of these two tariffs, he said is evidenced, first on the revenue side. The Underwood tariff law during the first four years of its operation compared with the four years of the republican tariff showed a loss for the democratic revenue law averaging $30,000,000 per year, one-half of which was due to the agriculture and woolen schedules.

Losses on Farm Schedules. "From the general agriculture schedule in that time, the revenue dropped from $34,000,000 to $16,000,000," Mr. Sloan said, "wool loss was $22,000,000 per year, making a total loss of over $40,000,000 per year on these farm products."

"During the eight years of the Underwood tariff law we imported 40,000,000 bushels of corn, mostly from Argentina, without receiving one dollar of revenue therefrom. In the first year of the Underwood law we imported 12,500,000 bushels of corn to our eastern ports, the importation of corn in the history of the republic up to that time. Before the war Argentina was shipping corn to our eastern ports, the shipping expense being five cents per 100 while the average rate from Nebraska to the eastern seaboard to Chicago is twenty cents per 100 bushels. The duty on corn at fifteen cents at that time would just make even chances for the farmer of Madison county with the owner of the cheaper corn lands of South America.

Effect of Corn Tariff. Mr. Sloan directed his attention to the farmers in the audience and declared that under the republican tariff, and a short corn crop, the farmer of Nebraska would be largely benefited. He stated that he was a member of the committee in the house which investigated graded grain which brought about the grading of corn in all grain exchanges. While the hearings were being held, Mr. Sloan questioned men from thirty grain exchanges and asked them what difference there would be if the United States had a fifteen-cent tariff and every man agreed that the usual monthly tariff law went into effect on which a duty of thirty-five cents on wheat (the permanent law is thirty cents) the average difference in price at Winnipeg and Minneapolis was seventeen cents. The last available quotation showed a spread of thirteen cents.

POLITICAL ADVERTISING He Wants Them to Know

EDGAR HOWARD of Columbus

Here is one candidate for congress who wants all the people of the Third Congressional District to know just how he stands on all public questions. He has issued the following statement:

"I favor the repeal of all tariff laws upon any article controlled by a trust.

"I favor enforcement of all laws, including enforcement of the spirit of the 18th amendment to the constitution of the United States.

"I favor immediate repeal of the infamous Koch-Cummins railroad law, which has proved the most damaging legislation ever enacted to discredit agriculture and enrich the syndicates which own the American railroads.

"I believe the power to declare war belongs to the people. No declaration of war is except in case of invasion by a foreign foe should ever be made by congress until after the people shall have declared in favor of war by referendum vote.

"I favor collection of debts owing by foreign governments to the United States as rapidly as such debts can be collected by any legitimate means.

"I favor government ownership and operation of all coal mines and railroads, to the end that people may be guarded against coal famine and exorbitant transportation charges.

"I favor immediate payment of the just claims of all soldiers who served under our flag during the world war. In order to raise revenue for the payment of this just compensation without the issue of new bonds, I will advocate the re-enactment of the excess profits tax law, by placing the greater burden of taxes for this purpose upon those best able to bear it.

"I favor reducing the standing army to the lowest possible number necessary for the recruiting and drilling of an army of citizen soldiers in time of need. I favor the immediate recall of all American soldiers from foreign soil in times of peace.

"I favor the immediate nationalizing of all Lincoln and Mercantile highways, making paved roadways from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from Canada to the Gulf, maintained by the federal government, providing the people of the grain states through which the highways run, opportunity to transport their produce to market at reasonable rates, thus lifting at least a part of the excessive burden of extortionate railroad freight charges.

EDGAR HOWARD.

It is the request of Edgar Howard that any citizen shall feel free to ask questions at any of the candidate's public meetings. The people of any congressional district have a right to know EXACTLY how any candidate for congress stands on all public questions which may come before the congress in which he may be a member. The Congressional Committee urges acceptance of Mr. Howard's plan that answers to all public questions which may be put to him at any public meeting. We know he is not tongue-tied and we want the people to know that if he shall be elected he will represent the sentiment of the people of this Third District, and not the sentiment of the railroad trusts and the tariff barons, and his speeches in congress will be in the language of New York or New Jersey.

A candidate for congress who is one of us—always has been one of us—and will work for the good of all of us.

Don't forget to vote for EDGAR HOWARD YOUR candidate for Congress next Tuesday.

Business. The upward trend in business activity would be more marked, observers generally agree, if the problem of transportation had not been presented by various conditions, among them the strike of last summer which seriously weakened equipment.

One instance of a transportation failure is reported from Seattle. Lumber is being piled up in millions of feet and held there just because there are not enough railroad cars to ship it east where it has been sold and is badly needed in the building program now at full swing. Seattle complains that cars for commodity shipping are falling off in deliveries on the tracks at the rate of 300 to 400 a week, and while the complaint comes from a big shipping center in the northwest, this represents just one section that is suffering a transportation embargo.

As an indication that the railroads are making a heroic effort to solve the shipping problem and work out a plan that will handle the enormous output of goods, the statistics of the bureau of labor cites that the biggest increase in employment has been noted in car building and repairing. The lines also have led in the purchase of steel, most of which is for truckage. It was the hope some time ago that the roads would recover from the shipping rush by the middle of November, but recent developments tend to indicate that nothing of the kind can be accomplished before the holidays, if then.

The most amazing industrial development is furnished by the motor car manufacturers, who have shown an increase in output totaling more than 25 per cent. The manufacturers of the standard makes are constantly expanding their plants, increasing their pay rolls, and, in many cases, reducing the prices of their products. Motor cars as a rule are cheaper now than at any time known, and as a result of the reduced prices hundreds of thousands are being sold in a country that already has more than 1,400,000 auto-tor vehicles of one kind or another. A wheat shortage of some 225,000,000 bushels in European countries influences traders to predict a higher price in the American market, with the figure going to $1.25. The price now is somewhat lower than it has been but demand is brisk and week-end activity was featured by free buying. Exporters are buying steadily for European shipment.

Lethargy in the retail mercantile business is noted by Bradstreet's, with the slowness attributed to the continuance of warm weather over a wide area. Winter clothing has not moved rapidly, although jobbing and wholesale business has been brisk in anticipation of the sure demand later.

Vote For ROBERT E. EVANS For Re-election to Congress

In four years there has been no public criticism of his record. He has voted right on every question affecting this district. He is identified with the farm bloc. He supported the Sweet bill for the relief of disabled soldiers. He strongly supported the soldiers' bonus at every step. He is in favor of strict enforcement of the Volstead Act. He voted to reduce normal income taxes from six to four per cent, thereby saving more than twenty million dollars to the ordinary taxpayer. He supported the emergency tariff, which aided Nebraska farmers. He advocated and voted for acts increasing powers of War Finance Corporation and Federal Farm Loan Board, thereby releasing millions for the relief of western farmers. Judge Evans is in a position to make his influence felt in the next congress as no new man can do.

Archie W. Stephens

Carroll, Neb.

Democratic Candidate

For Sheriff Wayne County

He is a native of Wayne county and has spent his past life on the farm; and to raise a crop he has found by experience you have to keep it free from destructive weeds, and the best way is to go to the root after them. He feels the same way about the office of sheriff, and to do this we must have LAW ENFORCEMENT.

If elected, he pledges himself, as your servant, to faithfully perform the duties of the office. He has never asked the public for anything before, but on November 7, 1922, he asks your support. It will be appreciated.

Motto: Be Sure You are Right, Then Go Ahead.

That much has been done in recent years toward building and maintaining the state highways and other roads leading from town-to-town, is a fact no one will deny, inter-town travel and the farmer fortunate to live near one of these highways receiving the only benefit.

In our zeal for building inter-town roads, have we not forgotten the farm-to-market roads? Oh no, the farmer does not expect to have every section line built to highway standards; he is perfectly willing to take the hills, if he only could get to the other side of that mudhole that we find on the low places on so many of our by-roads during the wet seasons. The quickest and cheapest way to fill many of these places is with the elevator grader and dump wagons. It is the equipment used almost exclusively by the large construction gangs for this purpose. Wayne county has for a number of years owned an elevator grader and seven or eight dump wagons. This outfit represents quite a sum of money, but has been used very little and is at present doing time rusting out. Why not put it to work on some of these mudholes and wear it out?

Ever mindful of the state and inter-town roads, let us not forget the farm-to-market road. In some counties during prolonged dry spells, such as the one we have just experienced, when there is little to be done on the highways for the patrolmen, they are employed on the by-ways. Why could this not be done in Wayne county, and thus save considerable money?

In conclusion I would urge all red blooded American citizens to study the issues before them; in the present campaign, local, state and national; then on next Tuesday go to the polls and vote as your conscience dictates for the best of your country. After election keep in touch with your officials, they are your servants; make known your wants to them that they may better serve you.

I am for tax reduction as much as possible and if elected will be found working for the interest of the tax payers of the county.

Former Congressman Discusses Politics

that is not the fact. The facts are that the duties on the products which compete with all products in Nebraska are all countries in the world except in England, are uniformly higher than in the United States."

"The speaker showed the various duties on the various countries and then asked:

"Are duty rates of America the highest in the world? No, England collects 50 per cent on its duty rates than the United States."

"Shoes on Free List

"The Bryans have been attacking the tariff vigorously," said Mr. Sloan. "Some stories even go so far as to say that the shoes and farm machinery will be exempt from tariff duties and machinery are on the free list in the republican tariff."

The speaker declared that people are being misled to believe that other countries want American grain and farm products. He declared that people should look up the tariffs of other nations to see how they are protecting their own products.

Here are some of the duties charged in other countries by Mr. Sloan:

France—Cattle 2.2 per pound; sheep 3 1/2 cents per pound; wheat 14 cents per bushel; oats 14 cents per bushel; barley 75 cents per bushel, rye, 30 cents per bushel; corn 30 cents per bushel.

Germany—Corn 28 cents per bushel; wheat 36 cents; oats 16 cents; rye 5 cents per pound; barley 4 cents per pound.

Similar figures were read to show that the republicans were consulting the duty figures of other countries in their effort to protect farmers.

Discusses War Loan

"The Greatest Frozen Security in the World," is the way Mr. Sloan referred to the $10,000,000,000 loan to the allies during the war by the H. E. Sloan of Winside, the democratic administration. Mr. Sloan declared that if criticism must be made, the republican party should be given consideration for the fact that when it assumed guardianship of the United States the democrats left the biggest bill to be collected by anyone in the world and with absolute no security. The speaker declared that when Treasurer McAdoo first announced the intention of making the first loan he (Mr. Sloan) forced the word "will" into the measure which called for the making of the loan. This word "will" he said means that the United States wanted good negotiable bonds and security for its money. All other loans were made with the word "may" in the measures and Sloan fought McAdoo who claimed that war pressure made it impossible for him to attend to the necessary details. No bonds were ever collected and when Sloan asked McAdoo if it was being done with purpose eventually of making it possible to cancel all debts to the allies McAdoo replied: "No patriotic citizens would suggest such a thing."

"While I was fighting for this security, I had a man in a Law Office named Morgan and he got good security from England, and our government got nothing."

The speaker made a direct attack

over darkness when in fact the sun is shining and the sunshine is not of the Bryan making. He denied the statement by William Jennings Bryan that all his reforms have been carried out in Nebraska. He stated the only reform Bryan could boast of was the reform of the Nebraska senator whom the Bryans once called bad and now call good.

Mr. Sloan refers to Charles W. Bryan who, he declares, is crowing over darkness when in fact the sun is shining and the sunshine is not of the Bryan making. He denied the statement by William Jennings Bryan that all his reforms have been carried out in Nebraska. He stated the only reform Bryan could boast of was the reform of the Nebraska senator whom the Bryans once called bad and now call good.

On Election Day, November 7th, you will be handed a separate ballot containing four laws referred to you for your vote.

The most important one is the "RIGHT TO WORK" or "ANTI-PICKETING" LAW, appearing second on the ballot.

BALLOT TITLE - "This act prohibits any interference with any existing contract..."

For the Measure, YES

Vote YES AT No. 312

For the Measure, NO

No. 312 YES

This law has nothing to do with the other three referred laws and should have separate consideration on its own merits regardless of your views on the other three laws.

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

Editorial from Nebraska Signal, (Omaha, Neb.)

"All the anti-picketing bills attempt to do is to make it unlawful for strikers to picket in any way the man who is unwilling to work."

"One thing is absolutely sure. No laboring man, no farmer, no retired farmer, no merchant, can escape paying a share of the cost of every strike that takes place in this country."

"One of the worst evils connected with any strike is picketing. The Nebraska law against picketing should be sustained by the voters next November and put into effect."

Editorial from Beatrice Express, (Beatrice, Neb.)

"Whatever may be said of other laws enacted by the last legislature against which the referendum has been invoked, the Anti-Picketing Act should stand."

Look for "No. 312" on ballot and put there, if you believe in this law.

Editorial from Omaha Mid-West, (Omaha, Neb.)

"The union man who owns, edits and publishes the Omaha little newspaper can see nothing in that bill that is objectionable to any union man who prides his good citizenship."

"This Anti-Picketing bill does not interfere in any way with union men who believe in education, in every-day industry, in rights and in fair play. It will however, curb the irresponsible agitators within the ranks of unionism who thrive on disorder and feed on industrial disturbance."

Editorial from Norfolk Daily Herald, (Norfolk, Neb.)

"Every one deplores disorder and terrorism in strikes. Most instances of disorder can be traced to picketing. This law will rest to prevent disorder."

Editorial from Lincoln Daily Star, (Lincoln, Neb.)

"Somebody stole all the home-grown tobacco belonging to Wm. Brueckner Thursday night."
