Potato Prices May Go Up Says Report

Scottsbluff, Neb., Nov. 4.—Potatoes may not be so plentiful in the spring and the price may be considerably higher, according to the opinion of M. E. Adams, a prominent potato grower of this city. Owing to the present low prices, lack of care is a very evident cause of the losses resulting from such losses are rapidly reducing the supply. A considerable percentage of small stock, much damage from grub, stem-rot, frost damage to large quantities piled everywhere, and heating in the pits are some of the factors that are reducing the supply according to Mr. Adams, in his recent report to the government crop service. Past experiences with large crops and low prices, he says, have resulted in large losses as a natural sequence of lack of care when the prices do not justify, and it is not an exception that this year the reverse was true. Large consuming states were short, the main producing states had a good crop of commercial potatoes. The favorable prices prompted unusual care and as a result, the shipments exceeded those of previous years of large crops. This led many persons who were not familiar with the situation to believe the crop had been underestimated, which was not the case, according to Mr. Adams' communication to the crop reporting service of the United States department of agriculture follows: "I just want to say a word in regard to my opinion on the spud production. The several states which produce commercial potatoes are showing up the same in Nebraska, with lots of small stock, with lots of grubs, and worst yet, the stem-rot. Where will our commercial stuff be after a winter in storage? There are spuds piled up in pits everywhere. The frost took its toll. Some pota-

Sorrow for Young Wife Causes Suicide

Brunkick, Neb., Nov. 7.—Grief for his young wife, who died three weeks ago, is believed to have caused Henry Workman, a young farmer living six and a half miles southeast of Brunkick, to take his own life Sunday evening, by swallowing poison. He was found dead in bed Monday morning. Mr. Workman had been married a little over a year, when his wife died, leaving a baby. Sunday morning he attended mass and then drove to Creighton, where he spent the day in the cemetery at the grave of his wife. He returned home about 10 p. m., at a little past midnight. It is believed that he took the poison in a piece of pie, evidence of which was found nearby. No poison was found in the house, but empty bottles that had contained poison were found in an outhouse. No inquest was held as county authorities were certain that he had committed suicide, the condition of the body being such as that caused by a poison. Mr. Workman was of the Catholic faith and on a table nearby was found a crucifix with a lighted candle nearby and in his hands were clutched his rosary.

Vivian Players Here in "Peg O' My Heart"

"Peg O' My Heart," a comedy drama, was presented by the Vivian Players at the Wayne State Teachers College auditorium last evening to a good-sized audience. This was one of the numbers of the lecture course at the school. The play, "Her Own Money," and the number was so well received that it was held for two nights. The play last evening was presented with skill and held the interest of the audience. In the story "Peg" is a little Irish girl living in New York with her widowed father. At the death of her grandfather in England she goes to live with her aunt, Mrs. Chichester, in order to receive an education. The Chichesters are snobbish in the extreme and little Peg's reception is far from cordial. All of them manage to make life miserable for her until she meets "Jerry," Sir Gerald Adair, a young baronet who is at once captivated by the quaint little Irish girl. How peg finally saves the family honor and wins the heart and hand of Jerry is to make up the three acts of the most refreshing comedy that has been seen in years.

of justification. The receipt of a gift may neither excuse nor justify the giver. One is likely to favor before his wife or her husband's relatives before marriage, and then this prejudice is increased by the feeling to the other extremity of ill will and aversion. It's all wrong. Mothers-in-law are one of the best friends of the family in their own way. Sometimes a mother-in-law does not exercise the best of sense, but she is usually interested and seeks to be helpful. Instead of the reward she deserves, she is often made to understand that she is in the way. Her criticisms are never equitable, but her concern is spurned as unwarranted interference. People often kick those who aid them, but usually the critic is not advised to be so. The sting of ingratitude is felt more as benefactors are forgotten and further favors are needed. That is largely the way of the world up to date, and to say the least it is a mighty poor way.

Electin Results Over United States

Public spirit and efficiency of the county clerk, with the cooperation of extra "counting" boys, and the convenience of the location, enabled people to receive, as usual, complete returns from the county within a short time after the polls had been thrown open.

With election over, people will now turn attention to other things. The campaign lasted long enough to give people all the political excitement they could reasonably handle, but all are no doubt glad to forget issues and candidates and give consideration to other affairs.

Never in the history of Nebraska politics were there so few stragglers as on Tuesday of the late election.

Wayne High School Wins Two More Games

Wayne high school football team met and defeated the Laurel eleven on the Normal field last Friday by a score of 33 to 6. Although a soft gridiron somewhat slowed up playing, the Wayne team started out strong and never slackened during the game. This is the second defeat this season that Laurel has suffered at the hands of Wayne.

Sund kicked off to Laurel, who made a return of 15 yards. After two plays netting 8 yards and an incomplete pass, Laurel punted to Will, who returned 15 yards. Reed made 7 yards through the pile, and Milner made the yardage after an incomplete pass. Will carried the ball over the Laurel goal line, and Reed carried it across on a line smash 6 minutes after the start of play. Milner dropped-kicked for 27 yards, and Reed returned the kick 40 yards, and the ball was brought out to Laurel's 20 yard line. Brainard intercepted a Laurel pass and gained 15 yards. On two more plays, Brainard carried the ball across for Wayne's second touchdown. Milner again making the yardage, Reed kicked 45 yards and Laurel returned the ball 10 yards. Wayne blocked Laurel's punt but Laurel recovered it. Laurel made 5 yards through line as the quarter ended.

Laurel rallied in the second quarter, but after making nearly 20 yards on straight football, Sund intercepted the Laurel pass. Brainard punted on fourth down, and Laurel also intercepted a Laurel pass and gained 15 yards. On two more plays, Reed carried a Laurel dropkick and recovered by Milner. Peterson made 5 yards through the line, Brainard kicked to yard over right end, a pass to Reed netted 8 yards, and Brainard made another touchdown on a 33 yard pass. Reed kicked 20 yards and Brainard returned the ball 9 yards. There were no gains for Laurel as the first half ended, Wayne leading 20-0.

Sund kicked off 40 yards and Laurel returned for 8 yards. Laurel made yardage on two plays. Brainard intercepted a Laurel pass and ran 10 yards before he was downed. A pass to Peterson and line smashes by Milner, Will, and Reed brought the ball within 10 yards of Laurel's goal line. Will made a touchdown on the next play. No goal was made. Sund kicked 60 yards; Laurel made 15 yards on several plays, and Wayne was handed penalties of 5 and 15 yards as the quarter ended.

In the fourth quarter Laurel punted, and Reed recovered the ball being brought out to the 20 yard line. Laurel recovered a Wayne fumble and after making an end run netting 10 yards, they scored their touchdown on the game, but missed the try-for-point. Wayne kicked to Milner, who ran a back yard. Reed made a yardage on the line; a pass to Milner netted 10 yards; Reed made 16 yards on 10 plays. Brainard made 10 yards around left end, and Will made a run around right end for the fifth touchdown. Milner dropped-kicked for 27 yards, and Reed returned the goal and Laurel returned 15 yards. Laurel's offense netted them 40 yards, but Reed recovered the Laurel fumble on the 30 yard line, and the whistle ended the game, the final score being 33-6.

Wayne loses a valuable player in the person of a player who was injured by the remaining games this season on account of his injured ankle, this accident occurring in the last half of the game.

Wayne's game will probably be the first down as compared to 10 for Laurel. Wayne plays Ponce at Ponce next Friday, and will run up the record against the players who they meet this eleven.

Second Defeat Norfolk Reserves.
The Wayne high school football team triumphed the Reserve team from Norfolk, 19-6, in the preliminary to the Wayne-Laurel game Friday. It was a very interesting contest, but although Wayne outclassed their opponents, Norfolk put up a great scrap and the return game at Norfolk Saturday night ought to be a hard fought contest.

In the first quarter Lackey for Wayne kicked off, but Norfolk was the first to punt. On the next play Wayne swept down the field and Quarterback Olson made Wayne's first touchdown. Attempt for try-for-point failed.

On the next play the ball saw-sawed back and forth the remainder of the quarter.

Norfolk punted, and good runs by Pince and Lackey carried the ball Norfolk's 10 yard line, but Wayne lost the ball and Norfolk punted. After a 5 yard pass to Mabbot, Lackey punted to Reed on his own 20 yard line. Norfolk again punted, but Lackey recovered the ball and ended with Wayne headed for other touchdown.

Lackey kicked 40 yards to Norfolk, who returned 15 yards. Reed failed to make their yards, and Lackey raced 85 yards around right end for a touchdown. Lackey kicked 50 yards to Norfolk, who returned it into play on Norfolk's 20 yard line. An exchange of punts ended the quarter.

On a Wayne fumble, a Norfolk player ran 45 yards for Norfolk's only touchdown of the game. Norfolk missed try-for-point. After Wayne recovered the fumble, Lackey punted, but Wayne recovered the Norfolk fumble. Following good plays by Pince, Lackey, and Lackey, Finn made Wayne's last touchdown.

too low but it has been made low purposely in order that it may be safe within constitutional limitation. The advocates of a higher percentage content of alcohol would not make liquor intoxicating, but if it would not impart a harder "kick" to liquor why do they contend for it so earnestly? It is the "kick" that is given by those who seek authority to put more alcohol into liquor that is permitted to be manufactured and sold. It is not intoxicating, what is it? If the stimulation and exhilaration that are imparted by liquor containing a strong alcoholic content have a way of their own, what are they? The commission proposed by Senator Spencer is not necessary. In due time the supreme court will decide what is and what is not intoxicating liquor, and its decision will be final.

Tax Dodging.
Philadelphia Public Ledger. According to the statement of the internal revenue collector for this district, there must be about as many persons dodging taxes as there are dodging automobiles. The combined evasion of the "income tax stalkers" of the nation is estimated at about $1,000,000,000. Certainly that is a large sum of money.

The Line of Garibaldians.
New York Tribune: Italian revolutionaries have a way of their own. They move forward eagerly and openheartedly. They are not sulky and haughty nor rancorous. They are usually conventional and decorously nonexplosive—Latin or, in a pinch, Latin-American. Nowadays at least they break few bones and leave few corpses on the battlefield. Garibaldi led "the thousands" from Genoa to Marsala, and within a few months he had overthrown the kingdom of the Two Sicilies. He won battle against great numerical odds because he and his red shirts fought for something which fired the imaginations even of their opponents. Mussolini, his imitator, 60 years later, merely served notice of the intention of the fascisti to take over the Italian government, and the king fell on the blink without a messenger's neck, while the Fascist cabinet hurriedly vacated office to make way for the newcomers. Even Hitler's revolutions have gained something in expedition and smoothness since the day of Garibaldi and Francesco II of Naples.

Wayne Banks will be Closed on Armistice Day, Nov. 11

when the peril and terror of war ceased and peace was declared.

A hazy Autumn sun will never gladden a November Eleventh, but that citizens of this nation will pause to give honor to American arms which brought an end to a great world war.

Four years ago next Saturday a great wave of joy swept around the world as the word Peace was shouted from hilltops and echoed through valleys.

Thousands of homes saddened by losses that could never be replaced, rejoiced, too, that others might have back their loved ones and home, love, peace, security.

It is the hope of these Wayne Banks that peace may be permanent, as it has been and will be their purpose to help in steady and sustaining the financial ship during the trying reconstruction period which is now happily crystallizing into an era of more stability and encouragement.

Wayne Banks pause for Armistice Day in memory of those who engaged in the great world struggle and in memory of the peace and hope which the day brought.

Business.
Sioux City Journal: The railroad situation continues to dominate business conditions. Wall street is expecting the October returns to show a greater gain than at any time this year, and the rest of the country is hoping that more cars will be put in service to haul goods. The west is sending more cars east than are coming back to it. That complaint is made from Seattle to Los Angeles, but the railroads continue to report car shortages for the simple reason that they can do nothing else. The east also makes its demand for cars and it is seen that lack of them in the mining regions is forcing a decrease in the production of coal.

According to the summary of general business conditions issued by the federal reserve board there was a "shortage" in coal cars of 40,000 which developed in the month of October. There was a shortage in box cars of 71,000. In addition to the lessening in coal production, lumber is tied up in the northwest, and steel and iron shipments are delayed in the Pennsylvania, Ohio and Chicago districts. Gradually this situation will be relieved by the railroads themselves with an going at the task of moving the country's goods with what equipment they have ready for operations. Rail shares have received considerable attention in the New York stock market because of heavy orders placed for rails, cars and locomotives. As a consequence, Baldwin and American locomotives, American car, Pullman, General Electric and Railway springs stocks have been pushed up in the market quotations. Investments are under the logical control of visible indications of business activity.

The coming congressional elections, many of which are at issue, have not caused a ripple in the business world, notwithstanding that it has taken a quick interest in the campaigns conducted. The general belief that a republican majority will continue to prevail in both houses of congress is responsible for the feeling that the policies of the administration will be carried out according to plans already outlined. The announcement a few days ago that there would be no attempt to increase the tax burden could be expected to have a perceptible effect on general business.

Live stock dealing has been greatly increased, quick sales being made of all food animals in every packing center. Grains are in good condition with the usual fluctuations occurring. A coffee shortage is threatened, and this indicates that there will be a livelier trade from South America, notably Brazil, for the rest of the fall and winter. As South American trade possibilities are opening up more and more as developments of neighborly friendliness between the United States and the smaller republics are seen. The South Americans are far friendlier in their attitude toward the United States than for many years. Secretary Hughes visit to Rio De Janeiro, while considered one of diplomacy, may be destined to have its trade reaction as time goes on and the smaller relations between the United States and South America increase.

Funeral of Former Resident Held Here

The funeral of Mrs. Matilda Myers, aged 72 years, who was one of the early settlers of Wayne, and who passed away at her home in Lincoln on Tuesday last week, took place from Beckenbauer's undertaking parlors last Friday and burial followed in Greenwood cemetery. The services were in charge of Rev. E. M. Ovington of the Baptist church.

Mrs. Myers was a native of Sweden, coming to America with her parents at the age of 3 years. She came to Wayne as a bride in July, 1882. Her husband had come here in 1881 when the town was started. Mrs. Myers was a member of the local Acme Club, and was prominently identified with the church and social activities of the town. She was a member of the Baptist church at Lincoln. Mrs. Myers' husband passed away thirty-one years ago. She moved in Lincoln in 1903. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. A. Wash, who with her husband, Dr. Webb, attended the funeral and burial. The deceased will be remembered with esteem.

W. L. Gaston Resigns To Go To California

Word from W. L. Gaston who is retiring as deputy secretary of state, says he is leaving Lincoln to accept the pastorate of a Baptist church at Redley, Calif. Mr. Gaston was a candidate in the July primaries for the republican nomination for secretary of state, but was defeated, owing to the regret of his many Wayne friends. He was pastor of the Wayne Baptist church a number of years ago, moving from here to Bow where he had previously lived. He was appointed secretary of state about four years ago, and then located in Lincoln. He was not only a forceful church worker, but he was secretary of the commercial club and was actively identified with all civic improvements. He is an important asset to any community, and Wayne people will wish him and his family prosperity and content in the land beyond the Sierras.

His conclusions are an interesting commentary on the general impression that this class of news predominates. Prof. Adams answers the popular remark that "the newspapers are too

The Gulbransen

We want you to become real interested in the Gulbransen. President Harding, Thos. A. Edison, Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone, all took a great deal of pleasure recently in hearing the instrument, named after the home of our President and Mrs. Harding, the "White House" Model Gulbransen. It would be perfectly natural for you to take a like interest.

These notables all had the idea that a piano had to be played by hand to sound musical. They never before this realized that they, president of the United States, automobile manufacturer, electrical wizard, tire producer, could themselves be artists. They just had the time of their lives playing that Gulbransen.

They sang to the accompaniment of the Gulbransen. If you were entertaining guests and they wanted to sing, but their voices would not reach the key that the song was written in, you could just turn a little knob and lower the key. It plays the same piece in any of seven different keys.

You ought to investigate this thing. Winter evenings will be pretty long, you know, and you could just as well as not enjoy them ever so much. Come in and see the Gulbransen anyway. It's no trouble to show you about it.

Seeking The Sacred Bundle of Pawnees

Columbus, Neb., Nov. 4.—Capt. L. H. North, veteran Indian scout, will leave here today for Kansas City, where he will join George Bird Grinnell, of New York, noted author of Indian books and boys' stories, for a trip to the Pawnee reservation in Oklahoma on a mission the like of which was probably never before undertaken by white men. Their purpose is to induce, if possible, Old Chief White Eagle to entrust to the care of Mr. Grinnell the "sacred bundle" of the Pawnees, with the promise that it will be placed in a branch of the Smithsonian institution for preservation through the ages.

In the days when they roamed the Nebraska prairies and for generations back Pawnee families were wont to adopt some material thing as their family token of good luck. It might be a bird, or a reptile, or a tooth of any of a dozen other things. Whatever was chosen, it was wrapped in a package, which thereupon became a "sacred bundle," to be preserved as a sort of heirloom. Similar to the family practice in this respect, was that of a secret society among the Pawnee braves. The society, too, had its "sacred bundle" which Mr. North says, probably contains the crude tools or instruments used in its ritual. It is this bundle which Mr. Grinnell hopes to induce Chief White Eagle to part with.

"Chief White Eagle is the official keeper of the sacred bundles," Mr. North says. "How long it has been in his custody I do not know, but I have known him sixty years. He is nearing 100 years in age now, is the last of the old line of Pawnee chiefs, and so far as I know, the last living member of their secret society. Mr. Grinnell, like myself, has been a student of the Pawnees for many years and he has taken great interest in preserving records of their legends, traditions and customs. It is his fear that when old White Eagle dies the sacred bundle will become lost. He appreciates its historic value and therefore desires to insure its preservation."

Mr. Grinnell sought and secured Captain North's consent to accompany him on the visit to the reservation at the former's expense, because the veteran Columbus scout speaks the Pawnee tongue and enjoys the friendship and confidence of Chief White Eagle to a greater extent than any other white man now living. They expect to spend about two weeks on the reservation.

full of crime," by showing that the newspapers "carry" less news about crime than any of six other classes of material. Measured in inches and feet, crime news was found to hold a comparatively insignificant place in the columns and ranks after, in their order, business and finance, sports, foreign affairs, education, government and politics and labor. The belief that the so-called "police news" gets the most space, however, does exist.

Prof. Adams explains this fact by pointing out that crime has a more direct human interest, reaching more persons than any other class of events. Why is crime news of human interest? Because it betrays human passions and human psychology. And why are people interested in loves, ambitions, greeds, revenges, charities, jealousies, fears—in short, the emotions—of others? Psychology may have an answer for this question and perhaps histology, physiology and pathology can be summed moned to help out, but if a perfectly satisfactory one exists, we do not know of it. For that matter, why gossip, and why literature?

"What four bottles of Tanlac did for me was a most pleasant surprise for today I have a single trace of my old troubles. I will always thank the day I got this wonderful medicine."

We certainly can see no object to be gained and the expense will increase the taxes from $1,000 to $1,500 per cent. in a populous county containing 25,000 or 30,000 inhabitants there is no doubt but the supervisor system is preferable, but one are fearful that in this county of no more than 3,500, it will be deemed a very costly and useless luxury.

Do you know that in the past several years Herefords dominated the class known as "short-head specials" at the 1921 International Live Stock show, Chicago.

In this class carloads of steers are fed for the purpose of determining and demonstrating the best and most economical method of feeding cattle. During the season which is about 110 days, accurate records are kept and in making awards the following points are considered: Quality and finish 50 per cent, gains 25 per cent, economy of gains 25 per cent.

Repeating last year's record Herefords won every prize in the 1922 show.

It is significant that Herefords always carry away the awards in this class, as it represents the manner in which the majority of cattle are fed for the market. It shows that Herefords are in a class by themselves when economy of production and profits are considered.

Why not use a Hereford bull and show you the correct type. Visitors welcome.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Old Bill's Memoirs. Old Wilhelm's story of his reign proves what I've always said, that he alone was safe and sane, and sound in heart and head. All other men were born in vain, mere scraps of gingerbread.

On useful labor he was bent throughout his long career, his mighty intellect was lent to studies he held dear, he did not give a punctured cent for varnish atmosphere.

He wished to attend German schools and see the clowns grow, to watch the farmers, with their tools, go forth to reap and sow.

He did not care for brass or iron, filled in his breast with wisdom, then, his majesty's surprise, when he broke out one day some insolent and meddling guys had shooed World Peace away, they pitted war while Wilhelm's eyes were fixed on fields of hay.

He had a pencil in his hand, and he was writing down what he figured, while this land produce when harvest comes? And up there came an army hand with martial fires and drums.

And Wilhelm leaped against a fence and wept; the greatest blow since he was weaned—Mars labored while he slept! The war trembled and careened while he 'mid daisies slept! Designing men of many heads, were plotting in cahoots and cartilage drilled blood-thirsty hands to emulate the brute, while Wilhelm's white and saintly hands were toying with a flute!

Guaranteed. I bought a hen from Reuben Wren, he said that it would lay an egg a day. I took his word that this old bird would soothe and comfort me, with golden fruit that I could shoot into my face with glass.

My neighbor's hens, in coops and pens, were laying all the time, and justly proud, they cackled loud—each egg was worth a dime. But my old fow! put up no howl, announcing eggs new-born; it leaped around and clawed the ground and ate a ton of corn.

Nine weeks later I was out and at last I called on Mr. Wren: "The fowl I bought," I said, "is dead, 'tis but a broken hen. Oh, other birds, including owls, will play the laying games, but my old bird is never stirred by sane or lofty aim. She eats my corn, this bird within, till she's become a bore, and if I'd bill an egg in oil I buy it at the store. It was agreed, you guar-say person, and on that fateful day some bird will write a verse on Tompstone right away. I fear when Dempsey whacks him with luff and crack, 'twill merely prove the maxim that business does not come back. I'd like to see Jess flourish like powder green-paw tree, but faint the lines I remember. They're sickly things to see. When to the ring I've motored I'll root for him all day, but while I'd boost a dotard, I would not bet that way.

What's the Use?

I read the books the boys produce, and call my names "What's the Use?" No doubt there are in modern towns all kinds of sapheads, boobies and clowns who do not know a nobler play or profession than on a bale of hay. I drag them from their humble nook and holdly place them in a book, and say, "These (thimbres represent our country) to the box-wool boys!"

These freaks, as drawn by gifted pen, are portraits of our fellow men, they're all as much pigs as peas, and they're all as much asses as donkeys. No doubt there are such lawdy skates, poor fish and mental feather-weights; but why in novels turn them into a mystery. "What's the Use?"

The pessimists these days are wrong, bright lads whose witters are unwiring, why should they write such grocery comes, and waste their pen on forehead poems? When graveyard take their pens in hand to prove that all they see has little worth, and all things would be waned, that culture's perished from the earth and paint a future black as pitch, they doubtless have the goat or itch. But who should I write waste their pen to show the world is on the blink, that man is but an ape or goose? I rise to ask you, what's the use?

The Wise Aunt.

My Aunt Jane is passing wise, and her husband's love she sends, for she feeds him up with pies ere she lectures him or scolds. As a cook she's hard to break, gorgeously her husband fans; it's a privilege to eat anything but jellies or preserves. If she thinks it right to say things unpleasant to the ear, she won't speak while Uncle Jay is as hungry as a star.

For all her wisdom, she's a drowsy of warning and advice, but when they are full of pies they will listen one or twice. She'll never be a hostess on any day on the party of error tread, throwing household peace away, jawing men who should be fed. When my Uncle Jay has placed his feet on a stool, Aunt Jane, serene and chaste, tells him of a hat she saw. For that hat she makes a bid, saying, low, so high, and low, she'll worm me. You can bill bluish to put it on—You can buy yourself cigars, you can play your billiard game, while you scrounge out buttons every fibre in my frame.

Filled with pastry, Uncle Jay, heaves a wide, forgiving smile: "Go and buy that hat today—America's the best that hat today—I would see my wife that hat today—I would see my wife in style."

Married Children.

Sioux City Journal: A candidate for congress has been found in Connecticut who believes that, to use his own words, "domestic happiness, love of home and family, the health of the coming generation are far more important than the tariff and the rest of the world's affairs of this campaign." Then the candidate, Archibald McNeill, Jr., goes on to say that it is not so important that he be elected to congress, but if he should be sent to congress he means to introduce a measure providing a national uniform marriage and divorce law. He also emphasizes that the women of Connecticut ought to "get behind legislation of this kind vigorously."

McNeill's attitude on the matter of marriage and divorce legislation stands out as glaring errors in the national life of America. The most important thing is that there are thousands of married children in this country, which at once may be considered as a direct contribution to the grist of the divorce mill. In the United States it is shown that there are 13,000 girls 15 years old who are married, 50,000 who are 16; 1,600 boys married at 15; and 3,000 husbands who are 16 years old. In seventeen states there is no marriage age for marriage. Tennessee states the legal marriage age for girls is 12, and for boys 14. In nineteen states there is no restriction of marriage of the feeble mind. In thirty-five states there is no prohibition of interracial marriages. In one state there are fourteen groups on which divorce may be obtained, and in another there are eleven. In New Hampshire, Tennessee and Maryland girls of 14 are permitted legally to marry without obtaining the consent of their parents. Mrs. McNeill says:

"The hedge-podge of existing laws the result of this laxity and lack of uniformity has resulted in more misery, unhappiness and divorce than any other one cause in the domestic relationship. Women have wonderful opportunity to do good in politics. By concerted effort, by organization, by unity of purpose they can bring politics and legislation to a higher plane than ever before."

It would appear that Mr. McNeill has something to say in regard to political campaign, in the public prints, in the halls of congress and in that most important place of all, the home. Married children in divorce are mistakes that reproach society. Not only that, but what Mr.

McNeill calls the "hedge-podge of existing laws" brings distress, unhappiness, instability. It creates social disorder and it is an imposition on the very persons who ought to be protected in order that their useful talents may be preserved and employed to some advantage later in life. No doubt the time will come when legislation of the kind on which Mr. McNeill has built his platform will be seriously considered in this country. He believes the time already has come, and makes a direct appeal to that class of American voters who are likely to become interested and active in support of such a movement, the women themselves.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Advice of This Wayne Woman is of Certain Value.

Many a woman's back has many aches and pains.

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills are so effective.

Many Wayne women know this. Read what one has to say about it.

Mrs. John Barnes, says: "I was troubled with disordered kidneys from a child. All these years I had backaches and at times my kidneys didn't act right. This kept me in a run down condition. This trouble had been neglected in my younger days, thinking I would outgrow it, but at last when I was old enough to realize that something had to be done, I used Doan's Kidney Pills. It was not long before I was better in every way. Several boxes of Doan's cured me and I haven't been bothered in a number of years."

A Unanimous Opinion.

Philadelphian Inquirer: Both factors in our present strikes will probably now be willing to agree on another point, which is that they are not worth what they cost. And the public will back them up in that opinion.

Women's Common Sense.

Pittsburgh Dispatch: "The woman who instructed spellbinders to her sex 'when you have nothing more to say sit down' should be hired to coach a lot of men orators."

Compare flavor and crispness! KELLOGG'S against any Corn Flakes you ever ate!

Takes the rough edges off hopping out of the covers those snappy mornings just thinking about that lovely bowl of Kellogg's Corn Flakes waiting down-stairs!

Instantly you like Kellogg's, not only because of appealing flavor, but because Kellogg's are not "leathery!" Kellogg's are a delight to eat, as the little folks as well as the big ones will tell you! And Kellogg's ought to be best—they're the original Corn Flakes! You have only to make comparison to quickly realize how perfect they are!

KELLOGG'S Corn Flakes for tomorrow morning's spread! They get the day started right! Insist upon KELLOGG'S Corn Flakes in the RED and GREEN packages—the kind that are not leathery!

Reduction in Rates.
Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 6.—A substantial reduction in railroad rates on mixed live stock shipments is shortly to be made, according to an announcement today by the state railway commission. A law enacted at the 1921 session of the Nebraska legislature made lowering of rates obligatory on mixed carload shipments. The law has never been in force because it was tied up by injunctions and by interstate commerce commission orders. When the docket was cleared of these restraining orders the state commission told the railroads they must obey the provisions of the law. This, according to the announcement today, they have agreed to do.
