More Cattle Bought Than Corn Can Feed
Drovers Journal Stockman: "There is more stock on feed in my section this year than farmers have corn for, and I expect to see grain shipped in here before spring," says J. A. Eckerman, prominent Emerson stockman who is here this week to buy feeding cattle. "The hot dry weather in July and August forced our corn to maturity," he explains. "The yield will not average more than 40 bushels per acre but it is so thoroughly dried out that it will shrink to 20 in the cribb than usual."
Up to now Mr. Eckerman had not put a single steer into his feed lot, and he came here to buy about 50 head. He always takes the best quality steers it is possible to get, and usually feeds the weighty cattle. This year he intends to take out both light and heavy steers, but wants to get them as fleshy as possible, as he says the corn flesh in his section makes it advisable for stockmen to buy as much steers on their cattle as they can.

Howell's Plurality Ruins Nearly 72,000
Omaha, Neb., Nov. 20.—Seventy-four of the state's ninety-official counties have reported their official returns on the recent election the figures with the unofficial count from the remainder of the state, giving R. B. Howell, successful candidate for the United States senate, 229,568 compared with 148,612 for G. M. Hitchcock, his democratic opponent, plurality of 81,956.
The Rev. J. L. Beebe of Omaha, progressive senatorial candidate, received 18,347 votes according to official returns from seventy-one counties and unofficial reports from seventeen others, with five counties unreported. Provided he maintained his average of 229 votes to the county, he received approximately 1,100 in the counties not listed, making his total for the entire state about 20,447.
Seventy-four counties have mailed in official returns on the gubernatorial race between Charles Randall, republican, and Charles W. Bryan, democrat, which with the balance of the state unofficially reported, give Randall 165,018, and Bryan 213,659, a plurality of 50,575. Harry Parmenter, the progressive gubernatorial candidate, received 12,332 with sixty-eight counties officially reported, and the remainder except ten which failed to report his vote.—His average per county for those reporting was 148 votes which, if maintained, would give him 1,480 more or a grand total for the entire of 13,812.

Business.
Sioux City Journal: The middle and far west sections of the country, which have suffered extensively from the crop shortage of the past several weeks, are to be supplied with shipping facilities at once, according to plans announced by exporters—the car shortage—is now the intention to divert cars, irrespective of ownership, to western terminals for loading purposes. This is expected to relieve congestion in grain and lumber shipments and against which the owners have been protesting since the beginning of the autumn rail season. The many cars have been going east and staying there. Now these will roll back in a distribution process similar to rationing as the route are eager to supply as many cars as possible to the various congested districts, although they realize they have not enough on hand to handle all the shipments waiting. The Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Burlington and Milwaukee lines are to receive 10,000 cars daily from the east and put them into service at once.
From distant points come reports of business activity that show a general upward trend. Throughout the east there is much construction work and in the south highways are providing thousands of road builders with jobs. There is activity in steel production, though it has been cut down somewhat by the car shortage. Textile industries are expanding and the shoe factories of New England are producing at or near capacity. Few or no coal miners are idle. Westward there is activity. San Francisco has had a recovery. The increase of general business for October. Shipping, bank clearings, building permits and postoffice receipts there have been the biggest the past month ever known. Bank clearings increased in October to $687,000,000—$47,000,000 greater than in September.

There is virtually no unemployment in this country anywhere, according to government officials, who insist that the only idleness now prevailing is voluntary. All the metropolitan industrial centers have immense payrolls. From September 30 to November 15 more than 1,000,000 men are employed in excess of 500 workers each added 52,000 employees to their lists. When it is remembered that a large number of contracts which constantly been increasing the size of their employment lists since the peak of unemployment was reached last December, such increases as reported are bound to indicate better business over a wide area and in varied lines. Another thing that is attracting attention is the wave of spending that is sweeping over the country. Not a vestige of the buyers' strike is left. Persons of all classes are buying what they need and want, although bank savings are mounting in a way to show that thrift has not been forgotten. Interest rates are being graded to correspond, which opens the way for cheaper money for business ventures. Wall street is offering and selling foreign bonds. Trading stocks are moving normally. Demand for grain toward the end of the week were stronger than for some time.

NORTHWEST WAKENFIELD

patent in July, 1922. Mr. Champlin has given the instrument or machine the name, Champlin Perfection Hay Sweep. The perfection part of this sweep is that when the sweep is drawn up to the stacker the driver releases a spring or clutch and the forward stops; but the horses move forward enough so that the hay is pulled forward—about four feet—also, making it much easier and quicker to back up and get away for another load. The machine is not on the market as yet, but Mr. Champlin has been using one on his farm the past year. A Sioux City firm has offered Mr. Champlin a good royalty, which will probably be accepted if the firm can finance for the manufacturing of the same. Mr. Champlin is confident he has a good patent—a sweep that will sell fast, as every implement dealer and farmer who sees it demonstrated is interested at once.

Grand Reopening of The Wayne Variety Store

Our Ambitions Realized

I have the utmost faith in Wayne and vicinity and it has long been my desire to serve this community with the best of equipment, in my desire to serve this community with the best of equipment, merchandise and prices. My C. M. establishment in a buying arrangement was enjoyed by the largest chain stores. I recently secured the services of a store engineer and for some weeks alterations have been in progress according to his suggestions and new fixtures are being installed now. The store was closed the last two days, but on Friday morning I will open the old store with a new equipment.

Saturday, Nov. 25
At 9 a. m.

I will celebrate the reopening of my store. These specials have been chosen with the thought in mind that

Value is the True Test of Cheapness

Ready For You

Come and see what has been accomplished, see the new fixtures, the new store arrangement. It is the same as the arrangements in the popular priced city stores which make shopping easy, convenient and a pleasure. I do not hesitate in saying that you will find a store which in equipment, goods and prices, will match any Variety Store in Nebraska, and to which the people of Wayne and vicinity can point with pride. Combined with this reopening is the annual holiday display of toys and gift goods. The assortment is greater and the prices lower than in many years. Take advantage of the many special prices this store offers during opening days. I want all my customers to see the new equipment and display whether they come to buy or to look.

problems and lighten the burdens of over-taxed individuals. One will not be too far from the truth if he says that the return law over in winter, sympathetic, constructive, buoyant and helpful.

The weather has a hard time trying to please everybody. Some dealers lose while others gain by reason of unseasonable elements. When the return law over in winter, the demand for heavy goods is not up to expectations. When the elements rip down from the north and bring frost, the gasoline dispenser and others look around in sober doubt. The dealer in heavy merchandise does not overly in arranging the atmosphere, the elements in order to sell goods, but he has prepared for winter, not summer, and if Old Boreas takes a live-hand in arranging the atmosphere, it will not seem this to suppress feeling of satisfaction. But the man who is picking corn or looking after live stock will pray for a continuance of mild weather. It is fortunate that supervision of the weather is not left to a vote of the people.
If it were, there would be an awful conflict of opinions.

NEWBERRY.
Lincoln Journal: To escape being thrown out, Newberry gets out. This ends a significant chapter of American-political history.

Verdicts of public opinion cannot be won by the attitude of the resignations. No doubt other members of the United States senate have paid as much to get their seats as Newberry and his friends paid to win Newberry's seat. Newberry's guilt, if there was guilt, was not exceptional. It merely happened that his case came into prominence and became a national scandal. Ten thousand of us break the speed law.
When the one is caught he must pay the penalty, notwithstanding the public opinion that he goes unscathed.
The resignation of Newberry, hard as it is upon the individual most concerned, is a victory for national political morality. It results from a steady pressure of public opinion which refused to be swayed by decisions of courts and senators or even by the attitude of the res-ignee himself. This is one of the most remarkable instances on record of the effects of persistent, focused public opinion.

The rebuke in this case goes to a quarter not hitherto much noticed.
The fortune spent to elect Newberry was spent in violation of the law.
It then stood. It was excessive on its face, law or no law. But to these offenses Newberry's supporters added the offense of a false pretense.
They tried to patent patriotism in the name of their candidate. They were trying to save their country from Henry Ford, who they said was its enemy. To that end they violated their country's laws.

That was a political game much practiced during the war and immediately after. The game was to damn as disloyalists anybody who happened to stand in your way, and in the name of love of country to do whatever the circumstances seemed to require in love of ourself. It was on that pretense Newberry's campaign was Newberry himself may have been largely innocent. He is himself doubtless as deserving of sympathy as reputation. His resignation removes the less fit sequel to an election, based jointly on money and upon false pretense.

WHAT OF THE FUTURE.
The progress made in inventions during the past twenty-five years makes one wonder what will be accomplished during the next quarter of a century. During two-to-three years, telephones and automobiles have come into general use. Phonog-raphs have been perfected. Type setting and typesetting machines have supplanted hand composition.
Moving pictures—wonderfully ingenuous photographic creations—have afforded a new source of education and entertainment. The airplane is fast becoming practical. Now the radiophone is developing so fast that one marvels at its achievements and wonders what will be its limitations.
Many wonderful inventions have given convenience and ease and have afforded a new source of education and entertainment.

But what of the future? What new things will be accomplished?
What moving pictures talk? Won't airplanes become common means and wonders what will be its limitations.

From Ponca Journal Nov. 28, 1902:
Probably no event in the natural course of human life will attract a larger or more enthusiastic crowd than a first-class dog fight or an exciting horse race. This characteristic feature of our American people, will account for the immense concourse which turned out on Saturday last to witness the trial of speed between Carry's black stallion and J. B. Brown's sorrel gelding, it being a sequel to the race of a week previous, in which the black horse was the winner.

The stakes for this race were $50 a side, main bet, and an unusual amount of side betting; the black being the favorite by odds.

At the first start-off, the sorrel bolted, turned, made a detour of the surrounding country, and started for Sioux City at a galloping gait, but was eventually corralled and brought back to the mill bridge and brought back. (Tremmendous excitement and awful yelling among the spectators.)

Start second was more successful. The sorrell being held down by three or four strong men till the word to go was given, when he was turned loose, the black taking the lead. After divers and gundry furious lunges which resulted in nearly unhorsing the rider, the sorrell slid over into the black's track and "took after" him, his rider sitting a la Comanche, and clawing desperately at length. A claim of "four" was raised by the owners of the black, and the judges refusing to decide, the stakes were withheld for future disposition. Side bets, however, were mostly given in favor of the sorrel as the "four" claimed was too obscure and indisputable for the average mind to grasp.
And thus ended the Derby in Ponca.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher.

Book Reviewers.—The book reviewers of these days—the ones most widely known—hand out the savage, brutal phrase that makes an author scream. They jump upon a tawdry book with frenzied shriek and curse, and if the author were a croak they couldn't treat him worse. They fume and fuss and rant and rail in anger and disdain; they come to write a scathing tale that "is to rob a train. And yet, while critics raise their din, the cheap boys hit the spot; I hold it is no downright sin to write some tomfoxy. Where one admires the searching yarn dissecting human souls, a thousand read "The Hunted Man" and kindred rignarols. And shall the eager thousand burn the books they most enjoy, because some critic, pale and stern, that hog-wash may annoy? And shall the man who earns his bread by writing red blood drops be crushed by what some critic said, and say farewell to hope? Why should the savage critic cook the lowbrim Mike or Pete? A man may write a sinner's book; and still be good as wheat.

when I read of snow and sleet that grip the land elsewhere, I sadly sigh. So help me, Pete, I wish I might be there! I'd like to feel the tingling breeze against my ovalike nose, to wade in snowdrifts to my knees, and freeze my ears and toes! To breathe again the fresh ozone I'd give a good-sized check; I'd like to drive a bob-tailed roan, with sleighbells on his neck." And will I know that people caught in all that snow and time are crying, angry and distraught, "Oh, for a milder climate! There is no sense in living here, amid these drifting snows, where, if one doesn't freeze an ear, he's sure to freeze a nose." "This distance, as the poet said, that doth enchain the view; before our-sated eyes are spread all bonns that ever grew. And still we cast our gaze away to things beyond our reach; "If we could have those things we say, "this life would be a peach!"

The Headache.
The headache saves a many hours of boredom and distress; with it we shield our divers bowmen from long drawn weariness. When from my window I look out, to note the sign of rain, I see approach a windy agent who gives my soul a pain. Then to our servant maid I say, "Oh, Janet Rose McGinn, I hope you feel the fierce today, so let no callers in." My aunt attends a lecture course; she'll sit for hours on end, and listen to some speaker who is a distasteful act. Anon she says to me, "Odds pie, will thou not come with me?" "I have a headache," I reply, "and must do business here." When I am asked to fix a chair, to hoop, or dig or sweep, I summon headaches from the air, or from the vasty deep. No doubt my neighbors think the best that thus infest my head are hollow mockeries and fakes, but nothing have they said. For they have headaches too, at times, pressing them from foes, and from the tawdry talk-smith crimes our bankrupt culture knows. The headache is the greatest gift to mortals—and their wives—by kindly gods designed to lift some shadow from our lives.

Red Blood.
The red blood fiction of these times is much concerned with doom; for passing souls the churchbell chimed, and graveyards have a boom; the heroes, steeped in gory crimes, are agents of the tomb. The cowboy still infests the scene and piles his smoking gun, and his big eyes are long been green, his tribal race is run, and henyevans burn gasoline where once he had his gun. And in the north the killers wade through snow, day after day, and dig a pathway with a spade to people they would shy; and many venerable debts are paid in blood, the good old way. In murder ships the weapons pound, fired by a pirate crook, and able seaman reel and drop, all ready for the work; this is the schoolboys are allowed; I ask no wispy-washy fare for growing girls and boys; a tactful murderer here and there the best of his kind.

when there's bloodshed everywhere, it wears and annoys. And kids are prone to say "Gadzooks! We find it hard to get down, and I think the blood, he-men books, by authors of renown, that blood should flow in crimson brooks, so we'll shoot up the town!" I have three bullets in my shanks, and seven rusty nails, the outcome of exultant pranks by boys who read such tales, and I am numbered by the cranks for filing kicks and wails.

to have your car put in condition for winter driving. We suggest that you have the following things attended to:

- See that oil and grease are not too heavy.
- That generator, starter and battery are in good shape.
- That motor starts easily when cold.
- That radiator and connections do not leak.
- That radiator has plenty of alcohol or is covered to prevent freezing.

It is a well known fact among dealers and service men that more injury is done to these different units through lack of care during winter driving than from any other cause.

Bring your car in and let us attend to these things before more serious injury is done through neglect.

Realizing the importance of these things, it is our aim to render the best service obtainable along these lines.

Hughes is On Job Every Day and Feels Fine

"Since taking Tanlac I am on the job every day, have gained several pounds and feel better than I have in years," declared David L. Hughes, 2602 S. 11th St., St. Louis, Mo., employe of the American Refrigerator Transit Co.

"I suffered from stomach trouble two years and got so I could hardly eat a thing but what it felt like a lump of lead in my stomach. Gas bothered me until I was in misery for an hour. I had terrible headaches, awful pains across the small of my back and was so run down I could hardly drag around.

"Tanlac helped me from the very start and now I have such a good appetite that such a little of it can eat just anything and nothing hurts me a particle. I am only too glad to pass along the good word about Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. n2311

It is our wish that your Thanksgiving may be filled with joy and plenty, and that it may continue throughout the coming year. NORTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY
