The Insanity of Hatred.
(Sioux City Journal.)
I can never get over an astonishment at the silliness of human hatred for anything but its own stupidity. If hatred were not so dangerous, we could laugh it away. But it is the chronic insanity of the world.

—Forstand Reyher in the Atlantic Monthly.
Mr. Reyher had been at Oberammergau at Christmas time. He had seen and heard the best of things with the Christus of the Passion play. And even in Oberammergau, the place of sacred traditions, he had found the minds and hearts of all the peoples of Europe. In the midst of his conversation with Anton Lang, who three times has been chosen to be the sole Christ, he was startled, but perhaps not greatly surprised, to hear from his lips the words heard everywhere nowadays in Germany: "France will not be satisfied until she has crushed us altogether." Turning at once to Lang, Mr. Reyher inquired: "Do you expect any French to come to Oberammergau this summer?" To which Lang replied: "—Well, we hope not. If they come, we must take care of them, but we hope no French will come. There is too much hate against France. The stories our people have told us of French cruelties and other things make me hope no French will come to Oberammergau."

Mr. Reyher confesses that he was disappointed and disappointed. He had expected to discover a different atmosphere in Oberammergau, where the tradition of the man who preached forgiveness has been kept vividly alive for 300 years, with an ideal. He had gone in search of Christ himself, but he had encountered hatred—common human hatred—hatred and intolerance. Alas, the infirmity of our race is even when dedicated to a noble ideal.

If anything ails the world today, it is hatred. And the fear that is worse than silliness and stupidity, it is insanity, as Mr. Reyher affirms. Hatred is the most futile, the most destructive thing. Hatred is poison of the most deadly kind. Hatred is the monster that now has the peoples of Europe and Asia in its grasp. Perilized by it, every man's hand is raised against his neighbor, either in defense or aggression.

There must be an abatement of hatred before the world can hope to recover from its ills. How is hatred to be driven out from the heart of man? How is man to be cured of the chronic insanity that threatens to devastate a world already made desolate? The perfect antidote for hatred is love, but by what legendary main is love to be substituted for hatred in the lives of men? Forgiveness has been preached in the world for more than 2,000 years, and still how hot the fires of hatred burn.

If men would cease to hate and fear each other, what a vastly different place this world would be. If men loved one another as now they hate and distrust one another, it would be the dawn of the millennium.

Love, and the forgiveness that springs from love, is the solution of the problem. Love is the cure for the world's chronic insanity. Love as revealed by the Son of Man must be learned by men before the world can hope to be established in righteousness and peace.

Dryns Have Lost Nothing.
Portland, Oregonian. The so-called triumph of wet candidates and wet measures does in fact represent an organized movement against prohibition. A campaign is under way to repeal the federal prohibitory and prohibition laws.

It is not only that it will complicate and effect many a candidate and man an issue for a long time to come. But the drys are of the kind who do not surrender. They have lost nothing which they heretofore definitely held and on the contrary have made gains where they were heretofore Does It Tire You to Run a Sewing Machine?

You should have a FREE sewing machine if it does

The Free has seven sets of ball bearings whereas all other makes have one set. Could you sell a boy a bicycle that wasn't fully equipped with ball bearings? Ask any boy. Would you buy an automobile that wasn't equipped with ball or roller bearings? Then why purchase a sewing machine that takes all the strength you have to run it? There is no other machine that will compare with a Free for light running. This is only one of the advantages the Free has over all others. There are twenty-eight other reasons where the Free excels. Don't let some smooth-tongued sewing machine peddler sell you until you have seen the Free—then you won't want his machine.

Remember, we will put a Free out on trial against any other make of machine—then you be the judge.

Mobilizing the Radicals.

Springfield, Mass., Republican: The significance of the call by Senator La Follette and Representative Huddleston, of Alabama, for a national conference of radical leaders of all parties and groups at Washington on December 1 and 2, cannot be lost to the politically minded people of the country. This is the first serious move to found a new party. Senator La Follette personally thinks somewhat of the idea of a new party; that is an evolutionary process. He prefers for the present to call it an "effort, to mobilize the progressive forces" both inside and outside of congress. If he can do the mobilizing, a new party will take care of itself. No one can be surprised and no one is surprised. The elections extracted the last element of surprise from the situation. The elections encouraged the radicals enormously.

Achus of the stomach by indigestion is paid for in suffering, weakened energy, decreased production and shortened life. The stomach should be treated with most consideration.

Great difference in ages of parties to a marriage contract often results in gain. As a woman being "old man's darling and a young man's slave," there is not much question but that the average girl would risk the latter. And we do not mean a matrimonial alliance would be the most permanent.

Reports from commercial agencies and the effort of capital to find investment in farm loans at a low rate of interest offer conclusive proof of present credit and resumed prosperity. In fact, it looks as though we were entering an era of stimulated values second only to the period following the World War.

Contemplating the precocious youth who wished to aid his elders in ascertaining the fullness of the gasoline tank of an automobile here today, we were led to wonder if Elijah would have gone up in an automobile of fire instead of a chariot of fire if automobiles had been made and in use in his time.

Prof. John P. Tierman of South Dakota, who has been arrested at frequent intervals for several months, says his mind was not so good as it was when he immediately following a divorce, he married another woman. This woman he discarded within twenty-four hours after the ceremony and sought reconciliation with his first wife who was involved in a sensational court proceeding, egged on and aggravated by her husband who is undoubtedly a brute, to say the least. That his mind has been running with broken sparkles, there is no doubt. What he says about his mental anatomy being out of control will be accepted without corroboration proof.

Envy is a disagreeable feeling and it is usually unrequited. If one envies another's possessions, he should be willing to suffer the sacrifices made to earn such possessions. He should be willing to go through the long and tedious grind necessary to acquire much. He should be willing to accept the possible humiliations, possible declining age and other infirmities or burdens incident to large accomplishment.

The supreme court removes any doubt as to an open season for assailing teachers by confirming the action of the lower court in sending a man to the penitentiary for a term of years for abusing a Wayne county teacher who was employed as superintendent of the schools at that time last year. The action is notice to people that they cannot, with impunity, march into a school room and assault a teacher because of some disagreement over rules or because of the animosity of some student who is impervious to both learning and discipline.

Georges Clemenceau, former French premier, who is in this country seeking to enliven friendly relations between France and the United States, offers much criticism that is not warranted and does not set well with Americans. He says we left before the job was finished. The United States' participation in the war was prompted by the highest motives. This country sent its men and money into the conflict without expecting anything in return excepting the accomplishment of an ideal. The war overcame Clemenceau's dominion. The peace came out with a giant burden of debt. We cannot see that we can be justly reproached for not having an everlasting debt of gratitude to this country for its huge sacrifice in support of world democracy.

THANKSGIVING.

The true spirit of Thanksgiving depends on the state of mind. While one may find plenty of reason for thankfulness on every hand, another will close the windows of his soul and brood over ill fortune and human depravity and feel ungrateful and unhappy.

The Pilgrims were not rich in gold nor did they have the comforts and conveniences of modern society. They simply found the religious freedom for which they had long yearned, and they were glad. They lifted their voices in profound thanksgiving, and the appropriate custom has been perpetuated. We wish the Pilgrims sought and infinitely more.

Thanksgiving is reflected in good feeling, unselfish considerations, in acts of charity and kindness. Every one has abundant reason for thanksgiving. Every one will feel the thrill of thankfulness if he is in harmony with society, obedient to nature's laws and in accord with Divine Providence.

New Books Received At The City Library

A number of new books have been received at the City Library and are ready for the public. They may be secured after Thursday. The library will be closed all day Thanksgiving. "The Flower of Fortune" by Emily and Alden Kline is a book for boys and girls who like stories of the Dutch-English days of old New York shortly after the English came to America. The hero's story was left at an early age with a fortune which young folks will be interested in knowing how she managed.

"When a Man Marries" or "Seven Days" by Mary Roberts Reinhart is the story of a young artist whose wife divorces him. The artist's aunt who has been in jail to support the family, pays him a visit to see the wife whom she does not know. Peculiar situations arise which complicate the story.

"Rabbit" by Sinclair Lewis, the author of "Main Street," is a story of a man, his family and his one great friendship. "In it are our selves, our homes, our cities and people we know best." It is a picture of American life of today.

"The Story of My Life" by Helen Keller is an excellent book. Her life is a life of inspiration for others and her tireless teacher and companion, Anne Mansfield Sullivan, is an interesting character.

"What Beane of Mr. Desmond," by C. Nina Hoyle, is a story of the disappearance of a young man who encounters thrills and surprises that will interest readers.

"The Philosophy of Faith and Fear" or "The Mind in Health and Disease" by William S. Sadler, M. D., tells of how in the high pressure of life, the mind is affected by the body and vice versa. Many persons he declares are in the bondage of doubt and fear and worry. This book reveals how these nervousness may relieve themselves of this bondage.

"Nocturne" is a book by Frank Swinnerton with an introduction by H. G. Wells. It is a story of a man's life and his characters are true to life and the story moves with dash and spirit.

"The Top Shop," a story of the life of Abraham Lincoln by Marguerita Gerry, should interest especially readers who delight in the best of biographies.

George W. Ogden has written "The Bondman" which is a story of Joe Newbolt who was bound out by his family circumstances to work for a narrow minded miserly, tyrannical farmer and capitalist. Joe was honorable and just and learned life's lessons as Lincoln did. He met tragedy when he was sold into slavery and circumstances are against him. He proves his innocence and leaves the story an honorable triumph highly esteemed.

"Pleasant Gold" by Rex Beach deals with chance, is pulsating with the lure and the drive and combat of men's battles against nature and each other. The story is full of humor, romance and suspense.

"Chatterbox Circus" by Laurence Francis is a book of animal stories for small children.

"Carnac's Folly" by Gilbert Parker is a "pure gold" Canadian romance and is a realistic picture. The hero is a son of a fortune making whose career is almost wrecked by strange folly.

"Black Cesar's Clan" by Albert Dwyer tells in a novel telling of the life of Claire Standish and her brother who lived on a Florida farm in apparent prosperity and happiness. The turning point to the home, the mocking bird's call and other interesting mysteries make excitement in the story.

Suzanna was a peon girl, poor and futureless when the Dons and grandsons of conquistadors were supreme. "The Mind in the Making" by James Robinson, is a discussion of the relation of intelligence to social reform. The findings presented are the work of a student in research who is interested in the future and who has devoted his time to the rise and fall of ideas, beliefs and opinions.

"The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" by Mark Twain, is a famous book that has already gained the name of telling the adventures of the most popular American boy. The life of picturesque Missouri valley as well as the true-life occurrences are told in the most interesting manner.

Anniversary of Old Witchcraft Church

Editor of the Herald: A document has already come to me that set me musing on some aspects of history and human nature that seem rather interesting. The document is the historical address delivered by Rev. A. V. House of Danvers, Mass., on the occasion of the 250th anniversary of the founding of the First Congregational church in Danvers.

At the date of the beginning of this venerable institution, Danvers was a part of Salem, and it was in this city, twenty years after incorporation, that the persecutions for witchcraft were begun, and before the excitement had subsided, twenty innocent and honorable men of blameless character and noble lives had perished. Two and a half centuries constitute a long period as the usual view of men, but so long is the memory of the disgrace that some stain still attaches to the old "First Church," in which the bloody persecutions were carried on.

The matter was not really local, but in witchcraft being widespread and the Massachusetts general court conducting the same trials.

Now cause the item in the story that most impressed me. It is that the excitement had its beginning in the play of children and was fomented by people who were enemies in a bitter church quarrel.

In other words, consciously or unconsciously, charges were made, in order to "get even." The church was torn into pieces and it was not until years later that healing came.

Mr. Editor, has human nature changed greatly? To be sure, science has banished belief in witchcraft, but how far has it banished weird beliefs concerning "evil" post-war hysterics?

It's a Good Idea to "Be Sure You're Right"

When you buy a watch you want more than a shiny case. You want to know the "insides" are right. You select the time piece with a national reputation for quality. You invest your money because of your confidence in the name.

It's a good idea to buy your clothes that way. You can get attractive colors and patterns at any price. But, it's the "insides" of your suit or coat—the way they're tailored that really counts.

You can be sure you're right when you get the label in your coat that says—

PHILOSOPHY for 1922

HALF of us don't begin to think before we're thirty-five. We just think we think. When we get to forty we start to think, but we don't know it. We have a right to expect twenty-three years of life before we're thirty-five. We can live toward sixteen years and get to fifty-five, but the bell will ring if it don't ring before. Fancy a fellow having thirteen years to live taking time faint thinking. He steps half the time that cuts him down to air and a half year. Chop out holidays, Sundays, time for three a day and he's just got time to start what he has to get to. Turn to think of it, some of us had better quit picking on the other fellow and get busy.

In summer events, calm as still, we used to hear the whippoorwill send forth his plaintive note; we heard the twitter of the frog—the haying of the old cow-dawg—the grunting of the shot. . . . But now, alas! The modern way commences when we hit that day. . . . We hear the distant groans from Thimbletoe—the frenzied shrieks from bell L. We gather in the maddest of the devilish sort of every grade—broadcasted through the air. . . . We tune our dings up at night, and ketch the hymns of hate 'n' spite, that's let off—everywhere! Hunt's Buttermilk Will Fight For You? Each No. 2 can sold is a little soldier that goes in battle against many of the common human ailments. The natural formation of lactic acid in buttermilk does wonders for the humans. Build up your system, increase your vitality and weight, you will be less susceptible to colds and common ailments. Don't allow your system to be a hotbed for developing disease germs—make your body strong and able to resist them. Why should a young man of 30 years old, in apparent good health, and good constitution; catch cold; then develop into pneumonia and die? Simply a lack of proper resistance—vitality. Hunt's little soldier will fight for you two weeks for 25 cents—that's the price of a can. Excels pills, powders, and prescriptions. Buttermilk has virtues possessed by no other food on earth.

Basket Store Prices. Four pounds shelled popcorn, it pops 25c. Fancy Peaberry coffee, 3 lbs. for $1.00. Dettar Milk, large size, 1/2 gal. for 25c. Pure bulk sorghum, 100 lbs. $1.00. Another Big Lot Gold Dust Flour. 300 sacks for month—that's our quote. At the present increase in flour business we will soon increase to 500 sacks. That's the result of selling flour under an absolute money back guarantee. If you have flour troubles try Gold Dust.

We Start a Saving Account for the Little Folks. We have the little red banks, the bright new pennies which A. J. Folger & Co., the big coffee concern has sent for the little folks. Mr. Folger insists that this store place one pound of Folger's Golden Gate coffee in every home, especially where there are small children from 4 to 10 years of age. Ten bright new pennies will be placed in each little red bank which will be given absolutely free with each pound of Golden Gate coffee. As for high quality Golden Gate Coffee is excelled by none. This store has sold thousands of pounds of the past 15 years. This is the beginning of a campaign that will make Golden Gate Coffee the biggest seller in Wayne and vicinity. Don't think because you have no small children you will not be interested. This little red bank with ten pennies given to some child will afford you genuine simon-pure pleasure, the kind that keeps your heart warm and makes you feel life is worth living. 500 pounds Golden Gate Coffee just arrived today on sale at the regular price of 50 cents per pound. The banks are ready and pennies too.

Lisak with his dogs was hunting coyotes on the Niobrara river bottoms when the deer was flushed. He succeeded in running it before it could be injured by the dogs and is now holding it at his ranch until he can find out from the authorities what to do with it. Lisak is loath to release the animal for fear it might be killed by dogs or hunters. The herd of fifteen antelope seen by ranchmen in southern Holt and Jackson counties last fall and winter and which are supposed to have come from the Black Hills, again has been seen this fall, according to ranchmen, who say that it has been increased by several head.

From Ponca Journal December 5, 1872:

This is a winter month, and yet it is as pleasant as September.

The wind on Tuesday and Wednesday blew out of the north, and in clouds, and rendered out-door life very dirty and disagreeable.

The price of wheat is marketed dull. Very little wheat is marketed there. The price at that place last week was 40c and 42c per bushel.

The special term of district court held at the clerk's office on last Thursday evening only lasted about an hour. It was Judge Valentine's last term among us in a judicial capacity.

The young man who ran away from Sheldon, Iowa, a few days since with two young women, arrived in this town this week with one of them, the other having been taken back home by her father, who found the runaway at St. Helena. The young man and the remaining daughter came here and were married by Judge Knapp, and went away happy.

About a year ago a subscription was circulated in Ponca to procure money to purchase the instruments for a brass band. Our citizens subscribed liberally as they always do, and the instruments arrived in due time. Big straws, horns and little crooked ones; lead horns and hind horns; great fat tubas and little emaciated cornets; polished brass drums and snoring snare-drums; tinkling cymbals and sounding brass; in fact the whole paraphernalia for a first-rate band. Then the instruments were strung and ready for a time the time progressed merrily, and Poncaites began to think of the future time when they should sit on their own potato vines and drink flower and listen to the sweet notes of "Yum, yum, yum" and "Hug Me to Death, Darling," discoursed by their own silver cornet. The time passed on. The members of the band began to get lukewarm in their interest. This one's lips were chapped and that one was winibroken; one had to go see his girl, and another got mad and "guessed he wouldn't play any more." New members were taken in, and it finally came to pass that nearly every young man and boy in town had been a member of the band and had slung his gub over a horn and banged out his eyes blowing it. Then the end came. "The thing went to pieces like the famous "one hoss shay." It incontinently petered out, mizzled, busted up. The horns lie around in out of the way places, much to the delight of the spiders who find snug winter quarters therein, and this is all we know about the great Ponca Silver Cornet Band. May it rest in peace.

ing farms with bones; but when he writes so punk a tale, it fills me with anger, and I send word by wire and mail that I will not be there.

Eternal Vigilance.

For years my rusty eye I've driven through dingle, dell and dale, and no disaster have I given to female or to male, and undertakers have not driven by following my trail. Since the beginning I've been schooling myself to sleepless care; and "Safety First" is still the ruling that guides me everywhere; an infant's lapse, a moment's feeling, and grief may be my share. I want to hear no idle spilling from people in my way; I won't be bedazzled while I'm wheeling along the rustic lane, I watch the highway and the feeling that I am safe and sane, the railway crossing, and no stopping my mule on an astral day, and from the front seat I go hopping to scan the right of way, and if no locomotive's popping, I drive on, blithe and gay. "Oh, let her go," my friends beseech me, "hit up a decent gait!" From seats behind the wheel, they reach me, but have no force or weight; I read the death lines, and they teach me that speed is charged with fate. Thus far I've sidestepped woe and sorrow, my record's truly good; the habits vain some drivers borrow I have so far withstood; but who knows what may chance tomorrow? And so I knock on wood.

Good Teeth.

Oh, children, you are gleaming faces, such as I used to wear, and you will sidestep future pains by giving them due care. Once I could eat the toughest steak with business know-how and not a shining tooth would budge, or be pushed out of true. The railway doughnut I could gnaw, and not a tooth would seneer; my jaw was like a crosscut saw that shears through everything. I did not give my teeth the care that they deserved, my dears, and the dentist looked clean I spend my winty years. The dentist struggles vainly to cheer me, in his coop; he's made a mess of it, his assistance, which I chew my soul. And I can eat a pa of mush if it's not boiled too hard, but waiters to me no more rush with beefsteaks by the yard. My hand-made teeth work to and fro, and sitther up and down; they're always hurting as I go around the headless town. And when I'd sing a snort note, or nerve a statewide smile, the blamed things slide down my throat and strangle me a while. In spite of the my "spit" "spit" "spit", though I strive to grin, my mouth is full of concrete snags attached to plates of tin. So, children, guard your teeth, and keep them shining, for you never see your miser's hoard nor your wreath your gladness can restore.

Giving.

If any man is in a pickle, and comes to me for aid, I'll gladly hand him out a nickel, and feed him marmalade, and look around for any chances to give away a blank; would improve the circumstances of all men out of luck. Is there a wid-or-widow, or a lone, or a sullen sky? I call on her and in her keeping I leave a wholesome pie. Is there a crippled man bewailing his long lot, or a pedon pining for his chosen one? You see me sailing, to stoke him with a dime. I like to look for the afflicted and then relieve their groans for good and evil, and I'll give my money, but when men say to me, "Oh, brother, be wise and circumspect! You ought to give to which one's better, just as we sinner, direct," I straightaway draw my purs-strings closer, and say, "Ods whisker-ine!" I need my coin to pay the grocer for rice and string beans, and let me alone, and I besurew me, will help folks while I live, but when you bring blue-prints in me, and tell me what to do, I look up my nose, and purse and farder, my face shows love and giun, I lose at once all zeal and ardor, a tightwad I become.

Painful History.

You would forget unpleasant things, and so would other men, so don't dig up old smartis and stings, with idle tongue or pen; he is no loyal friend who brings remembrance back again. Since I was pinched for hitting up some fifty miles or more, I must each day with sorrow sup; that topic makes me sore; my friends still pass the bitter can, and make me sweat and frown, and I must have a stretch in jail, my neighbor cries, at dawn, when I get forth with hose and pail to moisten down the lawn; yet he may know I'll get stable, let point forever gone. And when is tolled the evening bell, and I sit down to rest, I hear the passing veler yell, "This is the day, my friend, this day, this day of living is a race is certainly no jest." They mean no harm; I realize, they think their humor fine; and they fill with wit and wit, and this aching breast of mine, and force up to my weary eyes the waves of scalding fire. Would forget the spray days I spent in durance vile, but harmless, well-intentioned jays combine to stir my bile; my Berserk ire they daily raise, and do it with a smile.

The Day of Revolt!

Revolt is in the air; young authors everywhere are breaking all the rules, defying all the schools; traditions must give way, and all things old and gray must fall—triumphantly! I will show you what the text of the bard we most admire played on discordant lyre; the man we thought a great bard chronicled small beer; the wreath of old words and words, which cents a ton. The era of revolt!

The brisk and haughty colt appears to proudly trot around the pasture, and, at age-worm-Dobbin-flee, or tries to climb some trees. The young colt's neck is arched, his tail is deftly swished, the old plugs bear him neigh to get the right of way. But this is nothing new; since first young roosters crew and old ones slunk away to hide among the hay; revolt has freed Youth's heart and said to Agre, "Depart!" And Youth decrees today, old things must pass away; and still some hopeless sot reads poor old Walter Scott; some numbing graybeard turns to books of Bobbie Burns; and now and then one meets a book who's fond of Keats. It's sad that this is so; all time worn things should go.

Fatal Auto-Accident.
Tekamah, Neb., Nov. 28.—Spearhead, a 1921 Buick sedan, owned by the late E. W. Vinsomhaler, crashed into a fence, Elviss Vinsomhaler, son of Judge Vinsomhaler of Omaha, Neb., was instantly killed.
Miss Helen Hoagland, daughter of a prominent Omaha lumberman, suffered severe injuries. Her face and scalp were lacerated and she was thrown from her seat. Her cheek bone was broken and her left arm fractured.
Two other occupants of the car, Mrs. and Mrs. William Latta, remained in Tekamah residents escaped injury.
The victim of the accident were being entertained in the Latta home as week-end guests. Saturday night they attended a dance at Herman, Neb. The party was returning from the dance when the accident occurred.
At a turn in the highway between Herman and Tekamah the car crashed into a fence and all of the passengers pierced the windshield and impaled Vinsomhaler. He died instantly.
Latta and Vinsomhaler were killed and the injured woman were taken to Tekamah hospital. Vinsomhaler will be taken to Omaha today for burial.
Storing Potatoes.
Drivers Journal-Stockman: "We had one week of bad weather, and at one time there were ten inches of snow on the hills. All gone now and there is plenty of grass for cattle to graze on," said John P. Klug of Hardin, Colo., who was here Monday on his way to the state fair.
While Mr. King is located in what is becoming almost a farming country, he still runs his cattle on a range basis. He is planning an irrigation project that will water about 10,000 acres of land, however, and as soon as he gets it completed will sell the land in lots of 10 to 20 acres.
That section raises a good many beans and potatoes, an abundance of some wheat and a few favorable years quite a little corn matures. This year corn was poor, and grain will have to be shipped in to fatten the sheep and cattle that are confined in the best districts. Yields of both beans and potatoes were heavy, but the big potato crop is more of a liability than an asset so far.

"Present prospects are that most of our potatoes will be carried off the winter in cellars, in hopes of a better market next spring, as present prices leave nothing for the grower. This means a great deal of work as potatoes in storage require almost as much care to keep them from spoiling or freezing as a bunch of live stock, but so long as we have them raised and dug we may as well go the limit."
Lincoln Too Old for Presidency.
Raleigh Journal: Gov. Elect Raitson of Indiana, now prominent as a possible candidate for president, will be 65 years old on December 1. He was 67 on assuming the presidency in 1913, and of the first term. The democrats would doubtless seek a younger man, and one who hasn't been so intimate a friend of Tom Taggart.

Four big railroads, the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul are today talking merger. This is not a mere contemplation. We should hope for its consummation. It is just making one big apple out of four smaller ones. It's improving the fruit on our national economic and industrial tree.
If you want to see a line of old railroad cars just look at any passing freight train. A magnificent picture of a monumental mis-use, a moving panorama of an inefficient and waste of a lot of little crab roads.
On that passing freight train you will see cars marked New York, Central, Southern Pacific, Boston and Maine, Denver & Rio Grande, Southern Great Northern, Lackawanna, Illinois Central, Washburn, Nevada East coast, New York Life, Texas and Florida and so on to the caboose.
Every one of those cars is distributed back to the four corners of the continent and they get on their own little siding. Petty, little crab roads, belonging to an ancient transportation time.
The United States mail pouch is a mail pouch anywhere from Maine to Arizona. Any railroad car should be used for our national economic and industrial tree.
The more they merge the better and when we get one big merger of all railroads, the next step will be for the government to take them over, run them as the government and spend it in running the business of the profession, thereby reducing the tax burden upon the people.
Railroads like apples, get better as they get bigger. It's a great and grand grafting game just like grafting up the trees for the finer product. We are going ahead, each day nearer to a more perfect product.

THE MARRIAGE PROBLEM
The world seems determined to do its best to destroy the family. The foundation of the home is being wrecked by the automobile, the motion picture house, the dance hall, the night club, the amusement, and every other method of diverting the family from the sobriety of the home and wreck the domestic foundation.
Perhaps the most important problem before the public today is the marriage problem.
The more shrewd speculators at the foundation of the home is being wrecked by the automobile, the motion picture house, the dance hall, the night club, the amusement, and every other method of diverting the family from the sobriety of the home and wreck the domestic foundation.
Many a couple agrees before marriage to avoid the domestic responsibilities and live a life of freedom from care and domestic duty. Such an agreement is tantamount to prearranged murder.
The blindest page of American history is the divorce page. To divorce a couple in every five marriages is a crime against society, home and God.
Many divorces are sought by women because their husbands are cruel, or they fail to support them and they have deserted them.
Any man who deliberately practices cruelty against his wife and

Week's Report From Bureau of Markets

Cattle—Market compared with week ago: Beef steers generally steady, the week steady, spots stronger on carcasses; bulls strong; veals 50c to $1.50 lower; stockers and feeders generally steady.

Hogs—Hogs on the downward trend, greatest decrease being on packing sows which are 60c to 75c lower than last week. Butchers decreased 40 to 50c, the greatest decrease being on the poorer grades. Stock pigs 50c lower.

Sheep—Sheep market compared with week ago: Lambs and yearlings 25 to 50c lower. Fed clipped off most. Shags 75c to $2.00 lower. Feeders weak to 25c lower.

Wheat—Wheat market firm most of the week on improved milling and export demand, buying by scattered interests and president's address to congress advocating measures to help farmers, but closed lower on account of outside speculative interest falling off. Profit taking largely responsible for setbacks with some local selling on belief that reduction in breadstuffs available supply increased 6,329,000 bushels for the week and is 194,329,000 bushels against 192,728,000 bushels last year. Foreign demand continues fairly good and sterling exchange highest on present movement. Chicago December wheat 1 3/8 higher than week ago.

Corn—Chicago December corn decreased from week ago. Visible corn 9,982,000 bushels compared to 17,950,000 bushels last year. Factors affecting the corn market this week were pressure from commission houses, continued profit taking with support confined to decline, good corn demand, particularly old corn, with moderate sales made to seaboard by local handlers.

Potatoes—Eastern potatoes slightly weaker in markets and at shipping points. Northern round whites 15c in Chicago, firm at shipping points. The season's potato movement from the eighteen principal late shipping states was nearly 17,000 cars less than for last season to date. In North Dakota some stock was reported frozen in the ground. Much of the crop in Montana has been stored in pits. In western Nebraska the market has been steady with light haulings and light wire inquiry mostly for seed stock. Demand and movement light.

Dairy—Butter markets have continued very firm despite some nervous undertone. Current arrivals barely enough to supply current demand, but traders have operated cautiously at the high price level, many buyers turning to storage if suitable quality can be found. Latest reports indicate further decrease in production.

Eggs—Receipts of eggs at the four principal markets decreased 8,000 cases from week ago. Stocks in storage 2,344,000 cases compared to 1,683,000 cases last year. Local price 42c.

Poultry—Receipts of poultry at the four principal markets increased 766,000 lbs. over week ago. Stocks in storage 26,285,000 lbs. compared to 31,712,000 lbs. at year's end. Local prices: Hens, (4 lbs. and over) 15c, (under 4 lbs.) 13c; Leghorn hens,

American Education Week December 3-9

American Education Week will be held December 3 to 9, 1922, under the auspices of the American Legion and the National Education Association with the cooperation of the U. S. bureau of education. Many other organizations, educational, religious, fraternal and civic, will cooperate in its observance which will be nationwide and it is hoped that Nebraska will be in the forefront.

The main purpose of the week are to inform the public of the accomplishments and needs of the public schools and to secure the support of the public in meeting these needs. No service has suffered more from unintelligent criticism than the schools. The average citizen does not read educational literature or accounts of teachers' meetings or visit schools to learn what they are doing. He has a conception of school only as he knew it in his own school days. American Education Week should give the taxpayer who furnishes the funds for the public schools first-hand knowledge of the service for which they pay. Education cannot afford to neglect the opportunity to advertise its aims and purposes.

It is the duty of all the friends of education to think seriously and work hard on the problems of keeping the idea of public education before all the people.

The superintendent of schools, the school principal or the teacher in each community is expected to take the initiative in organizing and in making and carrying out the program for the week by getting in touch with the local head of the American Legion and of the local government, with the presidents of the commercial clubs, Women's clubs, churches, farmers' unions, labor unions, Rotary, Kiwanis, Lion and other civic organizations, and formulate plans that will reach every individual in the community at least once.

The presidents of our universities, colleges and normal schools should encourage students to hold special patriotic meetings at which there will be emphasis on the importance of education in democracy. The convocation hours of the week might be devoted to a discussion of education in general and the needs of their own institution.

Hon. Jno. J. Tigert, U. S. commissioner of education, advises that the general news weekly films will carry the message of American Education Week to the country. It is suggested that in addition to receiving the advantage of these pictures relating to education in general, school officials induce motion picture exhibitors in their communities to utilize any material that may be obtainable in the form of slides showing local educational conditions and needs.

The following topics are suggested for use in the schools: Monday, American citizenship; Tuesday, patriotism; Wednesday, school and teacher; Thursday, literacy; Friday, equality of opportunity; Saturday, day, physical education.

The U. S. bureau of education will send upon request a pamphlet on "American Education Week" that contains valuable material and a detailed program for the week. Helpful material may also be found in the course of study under civics, his-

Lack of Funds Stops Testing of Cattle

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 27.—On account of lack of funds Secretary Roy Sühr of the Nebraska department of agriculture announced Saturday that the intensive cooperative work of the state and government in the eradication of tuberculosis in cattle will cease. Ten to twelve state employes and probably as many federal employes engaged in this work will be released.

The work has been known as area work because an entire county had been used as the field of cooperation. The work must cease until the legislature provides funds. The legislature will meet Jan. 2 and some action is expected soon thereafter.

The fees of the agricultural department for this work have been exhausted but the testing of cattle used for dairy purposes will continue because that is compulsory. Secretary Sühr will set aside enough of his funds for the administration of the activities under his control. The state veterinarians' divisions under Secretary Sühr will be deprived of several employes but enough will be retained to perform duties not connected with eradication of tuberculosis.

Mr. Sühr said twenty-one counties where area work has been done will be affected. The counties mentioned by him are: Adams, Buffalo, Butler, Clay, Dodge, Douglas, Gage, Hall, Hamilton, Lancaster, Madison, Nance, Otoe, Platte, Polk, Sarpy, Saunders, Thayer, Wayne and Webster.

In October alone 18,872 cattle were tested in these counties. Of that number 318 reacted and four were suspicious.

There is no money available now for indemnity of reactors. Some counties have asked that the work be continued and express a desire to waive indemnity for cattle found afflicted with tuberculosis. They are willing to waive indemnity for cattle if the testing of cattle can be continued, but Mr. Sühr does not believe this can be done.

Hog Cholera Breaks Out Near Randolph

Randolph, Neb., Nov. 27.—After a subsistence of several weeks, the hog cholera epidemic is breaking out in this locality again in startling proportions. One farmer about five miles southeast of here has lost 100 hogs in the last week with the plague and other farmers of this vicinity are reporting whole herds to be sick.

Two car loads of hogs owned by Albert Snooks and his sons have been taken with the disease and will probably be a total loss, according to a veterinary's statement. It was thought for a time that the plague had spent itself but the new outbreak is becoming a matter of much concern to farmers throughout this locality.

SECRET OF EXCESSIVE WATER BILLS

The above illustration of water waste in Sioux City published in the Sioux City Journal, and loaned by the city to the Herald, emphasizes the similar loss in Wayne and every city having a waterworks system. The following explanation in the journal will apply with some variations to the city of Wayne.

"What causes excessive water bills?" This is the question of the average water consumer.

"Waste waters in many instances," declares the city water department. Faulty water faucets in Sioux City homes and business places are responsible for a large portion of the 10 per cent water waste which takes place each year. The illustrations reveal three types of such faucets.

The picture to the left shows what is called a "dripping" faucet, which will waste under an average pressure of 60 pounds to the square inch, a total of 15 gallons each month, and 2,700 gallons in six months.

The second picture shows an opening of 1-32 of an inch. This will consume 264 gallons of water each day, 7,920 gallons each month, and 47,520 gallons in six months. When added to the minimum amount allowed consumers with bath and toilet would amount to 71,500 gallons. If paid for at the regular rate would cost the consumer $17.30, or an excess of $11.90.

The faucet in the third picture shows a consumption of 943 gallons each day, 28,800 gallons each month, or 169,800 gallons in six months, which would cost the consumer $34.47.

Excess water bills are what the consumers kick about, and for which they blame the water meters. The water department advises that meters be tested to ascertain if there is a leak which might cause water loss.

According to estimates prepared by Supt. Phil Carlin of the city waterworks department, Sioux City consumers paid approximately $20,780 in excess water bills in 1921. During the year 2,024,000,000 gallons of water passed through the water meters at a total cost of $181,801.21 for operation and maintenance. The department collected from the sale of water a total of $297,900.

Dollar Corn Looked For. Norfolk Daily News: The price of corn is soaring as the last of the grain is coming out of the fields in north Nebraska. At a recent sale in this county farmers bid as high as 80 cents a bushel for corn.

One farmer who has nearly 5,000 bushels of corn on hand, including nearly all of his last year's crop, says he will not sell until the dollar price is reached. Feeders are starting to pay 65 and 68 cents a bushel for corn in some parts of this territory.

Walla-hay has jumped to around $18 per ton and some dairymen who are forced to buy hay and corn are putting on an increased price for their milk and cream.

Travelers who have returned to Norfolk from a trip over north Nebraska, and southern South Dakota, declare that there is a great amount of corn on the farms. Much of the corn is piled on the outside because no room for it has been found in the bins at home or in the elevators in towns where difficulty has been found in securing grain cars.

Farmers who are feeding hogs continue to state that it is still profitable to feed the high priced corn rather than sell it. Feeding cattle are more numerous on farms in this county than has been the case in several years. One farmer estimates that there are two feeders for every acre of corn in the county.

Seek Parents of Boy. Stanton, Neb., Nov. 28.—Stanton county authorities here this morning are endeavoring to locate the parent or other persons who may be interested in a 13-year-old boy, who, it is believed, ran away from home and who is being held here. He was taken from a freight train about 6:30 yesterday afternoon at Pilger by the marshal of that place.

The boy gave his name as Gilbert Campbell and his age as 12 years. He weighs ninety pounds, has dark hair and dark eyes and wore a corduroy, knee pants suit, a soldier's overseas cap, brown stockings and black shoes. He also had on a mackinac coat with blue checks in it and a pair of leather mittens. The little finger on his right hand is off at the middle joint.

The boy says that he came to this part of the state from Huron, S. D., that a man whom he did not know, brought him here and placed him on a farm near Stanton, but he could not tell on whose farm. However, his story was very disconnected and from other details, the authorities believe that he boarded the train west of Norfolk.

He was found in an empty coal car on east-bound freight train No. 36.

He is being detained here in care of the Stanton county sheriff until his parents or guardians claim him.
