Javelin "Wild Parties"
Sioux City Journal. There is no doubt about it, American fathers and mothers in some sections of the country have opened the red and spoiled the children. Chicago and Greenwich Village are notable examples of the fact that youngsters of those communities have not been taken to the woodshed frequently enough, that their education via the single course has been sadly neglected. In lieu of spankings and padding, it is observed that police officers at Greenwich Village placed certain hildred boys and girls under arrest, while at Chicago a high school principal gave participants in a "wild party" a lecture and suspended them from instruction. It is a severe treatment, perhaps, for boys and girls of good families to be arrested like ordinary criminals. It is serious indeed, when other boys and girls who have good homes and splendid opportunities for the best development to be lectured and suspended from school. In both cases the punishment probably was not sufficiently severe. With some persons—even notoriety is welcome. The woodshed would have been a better place to take the children who indulged in the escapades.

Wets the country over might as well take heed that liquor—or, at least, intoxicating drinks—were employed in each case of boisterous hilarity. Officials, too, police, mayors, sheriffs, United States marshals, governors, prohibition enforcement officers, all should recognize the pressing need for absolute execution of the laws as they stand. Nebraska, with its prohibition indulgence of the character reported from Greenwich Village and Chicago, the violation of the prohibition laws in reaching into the home in a dangerous way. Children in their teens old enough to sense the attraction of bacchanalian indulgence ought to be protected from the perils of their own irresponsibility. Parents of boys and girls could help law enforcement by keeping many watchful eyes on their offspring, and—by letting them know of the potent persuasion a common woodshed may hold.

paper man who located at Niobrara in the early seventies, and who attended the editors' meeting at Norfolk last Friday, was in Wayne Saturday, guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Mitchell. Mrs. Mitchell's grandfather was in Niobrara, and she learned the newspaper business in Mr. Fry's office. During the early days Mr. Fry entertained great hope for Niobrara with its wonderful waterpower, but his efforts lacked the support needed to bring full fruition. After an absence of several years spent at points in Colorado and South Dakota, he returned eighteen months ago to Niobrara where he had set his heart, never to be torn away. He has invited northeast Nebraska editors to hold their summer meeting at Niobrara, and he has promised them a pleasant outing. Many editors favor meeting the pioneer publisher on his own ground for recreation, joining with him in an understanding and appreciation of Niobrara's resources and beauty spots. Mr. Fry is 72 years old, but looks and acts younger than many at 60.

Return to Normalcy In State's Livestock

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 25: A return to normalcy in livestock production and values is indicated by the livestock report given out by A. E. Anderson of the division of crop and livestock estimates and the Nebraska department of agriculture. The low ebb in both value and numbers has passed, according to Mr. Anderson, and the total value of all livestock is $255,000,000 compared to $195,878,000 a year ago. Total numbers of all livestock increased from 8,228,000 head to 9,250,000 at present. Meat animals and dairy cows take the lead. The text of the report follows:

"A total of 576,000 milk cows are reported as compared to 555,000 last year and 517,000 in 1920. The heavy drop in farm prices seems to have stimulated dairying. The drop in prices of dairy cattle from $83 per head in 1920 to $62 per head in 1921 and $53 in 1922, attracted farmers who had difficulty in making expenses and the price is now advancing, being $57 per head at present. The total value of milk cows is $22,490,000 against $22,309,000 a year ago.

Other grades increased. "Other cattle" increased from 2,477,000 head a year ago to 2,700,000 at present, an increase of 9 per cent. The low point was reached in 1921 with 2,452,000 other cattle on hand, and 2,437,000 in 1920. The marked increase at present is partly due to the larger number in the feed lots, many of which were shipped into the state. However, breeding stock has also increased. Pasture and range counties show a gain from this source and also from restocking from in-shipment last spring. Present total value is $25,860,000 compared to $27,870,000 a year ago. Average values increased from $27.40 a year ago to $31.89 at present. The average value was $33.10 in 1921 and $44.90 in 1920.

The increase in sheep numbers headed a year ago to 733,000 at present due to increased feeding. Nebraska ranks high as a sheep feeding state, but it is a relatively unimportant sheep breeding state. The census gave the state 673,000 in 1920. Total value is placed at $5,037,000 compared to $3,093,000 last year. Both total value and average value show greater increases than other kinds of livestock; the latter being $17.70 in 1920, $5.00 in 1921, $6.20 in 1922 and $8.10 at present. Recent feeding estimates reveal that Nebraska feeds approximately twenty-five per cent of the total number on feed in the eleven crop belt states.

Pig Crop Also Increases. "The importance of the hog as a mortgage lifter was not overlooked last spring when thousands of farmers increased the pig crop 21 per cent and now have on hand a total of 4,232,000 hogs as compared to 3,580,000 a year ago. The present number, while near the record, has been slightly exceeded three times during the past decade, the highest being 4,267,000 hogs in 1912. Total value is placed at $50,784,000 compared to $36,800,000 a year ago. In value per head the average was $20.90 in 1920, $13.50 in 1921, $10 a year ago and $12 at the present time.

Horses Show Decrease. "Horses have decreased in number. The present estimate is 301,000 head as compared to 310,000 head a year ago and 961,000 in 1920. Total value of horses is $52,258,000 against $50,550,000 last year. Average values have been as follows: 1923, $58; 1922, $58; 1921, $71; 1920, $77. While the price trend is slightly up, the estimate is insufficient to multiply production. "The estimate of mules is 114,000 head. A year ago the estimate was 5,200 head and 100,000 in 1920. The total value is $7,038,000 last year, $7,840,000. Average value changed from $106 in 1920 to $89 in 1921 and $70 for 1922 and $72 at present. "Numbers and values of livestock for the United States are as follows: The first figure relates to 1922 and the second to 1923. Horses, 19,059,000 and 18,853,000 head; average value, $70.48 and $69.75; total value, $1,343,067,000 and $1,314,997,000. Mules, 5,469,000 and 5,505,000 head; average value $88.25; total value, $482,517,000 and $472,745,000. Milk cows, 24,082,000 and 24,262,000 head; average value $93.83; total value, $2,271,460,000 and $1,241,726,000. Other cattle, 41,550,000 and 41,923,000 head; average value, $23.78 and $25.67; total value, $988,059,000 and $1,076,163,000. Sheep, 36,327,000 and 37,293,000 head; average value, $4.30 and $7.50; total value, $174,370,000 and $279,068,000. Swine, 57,334,000 and 63,424,000 head; average value, $10.06 and $11.46; total value, $581,810,000 and $726,839,000. New York Not Representative. Louisville Courier-Journal. The editor of Vanity Fair finds that New York society is rip-roaring and rowdy, the women half nude and every body half stoned. Too bad, but it's only America's "midway." The rest of the exposition of our civilization is more wholesome.

Strong Blast from Idaho. Boston Transcript: For the sake of its population, Idaho does pretty well in the debates in the senate.

Good Plumbing

can be done only by a man who has really learned the trade. We employ such a man at all times. Expensive fixtures are of little advantage if improperly installed. In order to have a real job it is necessary that your soil pipes and water pipes be properly graded, of proper sizes, all joints and connections properly caulked, your lead connections properly wiped. There are dozen of places on every job where it is necessary for the plumber to be a real mechanic if your job is going to be one that will not give you trouble later on—after the job is all paid for. If we do your work you will get a job that can be depended upon at all times to give you complete satisfaction.

It has been suggested that after the highways ought to be cleared of snow by use of teams and drags. This is said to be done successfully, facilitating travel and increasing freedom from muddy roads.

Especially young people often sacrifice comfort in order to uphold a whim or a look. We once knew a young man who wore his hat in the foolish belief that it would injure his looks, froze one of his ears. Young people often regard that an appearance of style is quite as pleasing as inadequate attire fashionably placed.

A little girl was ground under the wheels of a street car in Sioux City this week. She was sliding on ice ahead of the car when it was in front of a moving car. We have automobiles that are equally as dangerous. Children who are using the paved slopes for coasting, should be cautioned to look out for automobiles. We don't want any tragedies.

In contrast with the uproar to practicing economy in running the public schools, a member of the Nebraska legislature has introduced a bill to buy the little academy at Franklin and convert it into a normal school. It is to be presumed that the legislature is wise enough and consistent enough to look well after the normal schools the state already has, rather than adding unnecessary to the number.

We wish people would bear in mind that the postal laws are very strict in regard to prohibiting advertisements of lotteries or reports of lotteries from being sent through the mails. Newspapers are not allowed to publish such things. We have caught and prevented the publication of several lottery reports of late.
 An editor is liable to get through the censor of the federal court for violating postal laws, and no editor who hopes to survive society, wants to be thus devoured.

Some one has introduced a bill in the state legislature making provision for counties to own and operate hospitals. This suggests that the purchase of the Wayne Hospital by this county may be a feasible way to convert a necessary institution to more general public use. The county could afford to buy the hospital, and the cost would be so distributed that no one would feel it. We do a good deal to promote care and development of live stock. We believe the county would be justified in owning a hospital for the relief of afflicted humanity.

We heard an editor at the pres-meeting in Norfolk of what we are in the business for. What we can make out of it, which we would say is not true as a rule. If a man engages in a business, or any other line of endeavor for mere sordid gain, he will actually receive material reward than the one whose purpose is first to serve
 and benefit society. The average successful business man occupies high ground. Whether the editorial must be an engrossing in depicting high social and business standards, or whether a man's attention and effort are centered on enriching pure bred herds or increasing the production of land, he is in the business for what he can put into it rather than what he can take out of it. He sees with the idea of the good he may do society, and with the harvest is consistently included simple financial remuneration. If he gives service that is demanded and that is constructive and helpful, he does not need to worry about the sustaining pay.

 Every report from abroad tells the same story of light regard for moral standards in Europe. Lack of morals shows feeble home ties, undermining the unity and sanctity of the home.
 Governments are organized and perpetuated on a foundation of love for home, and it would seem that indifference to sound morals, said to prevail generally in Europe, is an attack on the home, on orderly and progressive government, on the fundamental of civilization. European nations are being broken up and their moral standards if they would bring order out of chaos, and build wholesome government on a sound and enduring foundation. Like smaller groups, nations are weakened by lack of moral fiber.

Death has claimed a number of Wayne county pioneers of late. The passing of the first settlers reminds one of the disadvantages they suffered in taming the country and making it habitable. They drew on their own resourcefulness to provide meagre means of comfort. They had no conveniences and no luxuries. But there were no disparities in wealth.
 All started with about the same capital stock which was nothing or near nothing. The comparatively few settlers developed individual characteristics. When they visited one another there was no possible ground for envy. All had equally little. They were rugged, buoyant and hopeful. They were sincere and loyal. They would travel six-mile-overs-rough-roads in a lan-ceer wagon in the time of crawling wheels to visit a fellow pioneer, and would return to their humble habitations with enlivened spirit. They did not pamper themselves. They could not. Hard experiences ground into the pioneer blood an element of courage that has made for better citizenship. The pioneer who is now passing, has lived to see wonderful changes. He only hopes that accumulated luxuries and instrumentalities of age will not weaken the superstructure reared on a foundation that was fashioned in the crucible of early privations and hard knocks.

Pointers

Most any man can be popular by liking everybody else.

 him has his drawbacks.

 ter ain't what she used to be.

A wise man never turns up his ing.

What is nicer than seeing two grouchies meet and enjoy a miserable time?

Nice thing about winter is it is

Business.
 Sioux City Journal: As January comes to a close it can be said that the first month of the new year was a period of lively business activity.
 It actually exceeded all expectations in the department of sales, and this obtained throughout the country. Trade was better in practically all lines than the most optimistic observers predicted. After the holidays as a rule, there is a slack period. There was one this year, but the point to be made is that it was not so noticeable. The pendulum of trade is up a vigorous swinging. Things were accomplished that might have been postponed till a later date.
 The most apparent cause of this excellent condition was the working of a natural law, which operates in business with the same effectiveness as in physics. Business had gained such a momentum before the first of the year that it was carried strongly into January by its own weight and speed. The holiday activity is almost remarkable when one considers general world conditions in commerce—the final push needed to give business a most welcome encouragement in the new year opened. Another thing, which has contributed in greater or lesser degree, according to the locality, to the continual upswing of business success, has been an unusually mild winter. Excess temperature over an enormous area has made it possible for outside activity to continue. That resulted in carrying forward the nation's building plans.
 Absence of inclement weather has helped exterior work. That, of course, exerted an influence on many allied trades interested in the production and sale of building materials. It also has helped to give thousands of men employment which kept money in circulation and thus increased the buying power.
 Business conditions generally have held steady to strong right from the beginning of winter.
 Price levels are somewhat higher than they were. This is not noticeable in wholesale, but in retail quotations. Retailers have stimulated trade by narrowing their margins and holding prices down where possible. The profits have come as the result of the volume of turnover. Production costs are now on a high basis in most lines, due to advanced costs of raw materials and a strong wage demand. Producers insist there is a labor shortage for particular work, and blame this condition for restriction in production.
 Anyone, however, would know this is much better than unemployment.
 Even a shortage of goods under strong demand may be less distressing than economic suffering as it falls on human beings who want

We believe the county would be justified in owning a hospital for the relief of afflicted humanity.

We heard an editor at the press meeting in Norfolk say: "Of course we are in the business. The newspaper can make out of it," which we would say is not true as a rule. If a man is engaged in newspapering or any other line of endeavor for mere sordid gain, he will actually receive less material reward than the one whose purpose is first to serve and benefit society. The average successful business man occupies high ground. Whether the editorial mind is engrossed in developing high social and business standards, or whether a man's attention and effort are centered on enriching pure bred hedges or increasing the production of large scale of the business for what can be put into it rather than what he can take out of it. He sows with the idea of the good he may do society, and with the harvest is consistently included ample financial remuneration. If he gives service that is demanded and that is constructive and helpful, he does not need to worry about the sustaining pay.

Every report from abroad tells the same story of light regard for moral standards in Europe. Lack of morals shows feeble home ties, undermining the unity and sanctity of the home. Governments are organized and perpetuated on a foundation of love for home, and it would seem that indifference to sound morals, said to prevail generally in Europe, is an attack on the home, on orderly and progressive government, on the fundamental of civilization. European nations need to strengthen and uplift moral standards if they would bring order out of chaos and build wholesome government on a sound and enduring foundation. Like smaller groups, nations are weakened by lack of moral fiber.

Death has claimed a number of Wayne county pioneers of late. The passing of these settlers reminds one of the disadvantages they suffered in taming this country and making it habitable. They drew on their own resources to provide meagre means of comfort. They had no conveniences and no luxuries. But there were no disparities in wealth. All started with what they had and the capital stock which was nothing or near nothing. The comparatively few settlers developed cordial friendships. When a visitor came to a place there was no possible ground for envy. All had equally little. They were rugged, buoyant and hopeful. They were sincere and loyal. They would travel ten miles over rough roads in a lumber wagon to the tune of creaking wheels to visit a fellow pioneer, and would return to their humble abodes with enlivened spirit. They did not pamper themselves. They couldn't. Hard experiences ground into the pioneer blood an element of courage that has made for better citizenship. The pioneer who is now passing, has lived to see wonderful things. He only hopes that accumulated luxuries and instrumentalities of ease will not weaken the superstructure reared on a foundation that was fashioned in the crucible of early privations and hard knocks.

Business.
 Sioux City Journal: As January comes to a close it can be said that the first month of the new year was a period of lively business activity. It actually exceeded all expectations, and this obtained throughout the country. Trade was better in practically all lines than the most optimistic observers predicted. After the holidays as a rule, there is a slack period. There was no such year, but the point to be made is that it was not so noticeable. The pendulum of trade kept up a vigorous swinging. Things were accomplished that might have been postponed till a later date. The most apparent cause of this excellent condition was the working of a neutral law, which operates in business with the same effectiveness as in physics. Business had gained such a momentum before the first of the year that it was carried strongly into January by its own weight and speed. The holiday activity—most remarkable when one considers general world conditions in commerce—was the final push needed to give business a most welcome encouragement as the new year opened. Another thing, which has contributed in greater or lesser degree, according to the locality, to the continual upswing of business success, has been an unusually mild winter. Excess temperature over an enormous area has made it possible for outside activity to continue. That resulted in carrying forward the nation's building plans. Absence of inclement weather has helped exterior work. That, of course, exerted an influence on many allied trades interested in the production and sale of building materials. It also has helped to give thousands of men employment, which kept money in circulation and thus increased the buying power. Business conditions generally have held steady to strong right from the beginning of winter. Price levels are somewhat higher than they were. That is more noticeable in wholesale than in retail trade. Retailers, however, by a related trade by narrowing their margins and holding prices down where possible. The profits have come as the result of the volume of turnover. Production costs are now on a high basis in most lines, due to advanced costs of raw materials and a strong wage demand. Producers insist there is a labor shortage for particular work, and blame this condition for restriction in production. Anyone, however, would know this is much better than unemployment. Even a shortage of goods under strong demand may be less distressing than economic suffering as it falls on homes—homes which want known. A large part of it may be done on long time credit, as, for example, the prospective shipments of supplies to the German people who are in need. The economic and political situations in Europe continue to affect financial centers here, although trade for the most part has been brisk in spite of discouraging cable reports. On the whole, it is well established that the American people are able to see the promise of a more complete business recovery with every passing month.

We've Learned One Lesson. Portland Oregonian: When they fight the next war, the nations of Europe will have to worry along without loans from Uncle Sam. We surely have learned our lesson by this time.

Bill to Abolish the Code is Introduced Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 26.—Following a caucus last night of house democrats, announcement was made that a bill having the favor of Governor Bryan abolishing the present code system of government will be introduced today as a minority measure. According to the announcement the bill proposes to substitute an executive council for the existing system.

Representative Mears of Wayne, led the fight in behalf of the code and the battle waged warm for a few minutes. Party lines were closely drawn in the balloting.

Democratic opponents of the code are pointing out that it will require sixty votes, or two-thirds, to set aside Governor Bryan's budget recommendations which are said to virtually nullify code activities while they seemed to be able to muster but fifty-six votes. This indicates there will be a lively fight not only on the code itself but also on the appropriations necessary to render it effective.

A wide variety of subjects entered the proceedings of the state senate yesterday but the question of county agents predominated. The Wilson bill, designed to give county boards a greater degree of latitude in the appropriation of funds to carry on the work of county agents, furnished inspiration for an hour's debate which ended fruit-

Mrs. George Baines who lived northwest of Wayne, died Jan. 29, 1923, in Omaha. Funeral services were held at the Wayne Presbyterian church.

Ran Frazier died Jan. 30, 1923, in Omaha. Funeral services were conducted in Wayne by the Modern Woodmen of America. Mr. Frazier was one of the early settlers in Wayne county, being a prominent stock raiser.

John L. Mayer of Stanton, committed suicide Jan. 28, 1923, at the state legislature was found asphyxiated Feb. 4, 1923 at his room in a Lincoln hotel. Mr. Mayer who had suffered the loss of his right arm some time before, is thought to have turned the gas on and been unable to light it. He fell exhausted and when the porter went to call him in the morning he could not be revived. Mr. Mayer was the son of C. C. Mayer of Stanton.

From Ponca Journal, Feb. 5, 1923.
Last Sunday the thermometer in the fan, indicated 60 degrees above zero.

When Prof. Wernimont bored for coal a few years ago, he found four small veins of coal in a distance of nine feet.

Omaha and St. Louis now hold communication, with each other by means of a telephone. This is the greatest distance that the telephone has yet been successfully made to work.

The Elk Point newspapers, the Courier and Tribune, are having a day and night fight and the Editor Sun has also joined in the melee. If they all speak the truth in what they say of each other, they are a tough lot.

Complaint is made that a large number of large boys are in the habit of crawling into the windows of the school houses when locked and remaining around the windows scribbling in books, marking on the walls and doing other acts of mischief. The school board has its eyes on the boys and is determined to put a stop to this kind of thing.

Every Day Cow Feels Better

EMILE COUPE, the Nancy, France, proponent of the curative power of emulsification, is probably more prominent in the public eye just now than any other individual. "Every day, in every way, I feel better and better"—thousands are saying it. M. Coupe is in this country lecturing morning and is cordially welcomed. The contest in the Epworth League is going fine. Get in on one side or the other if you are eligible. "The Christian should have three great passions; a passion for thoroughness in whatever he undertakes; a passion for power to discriminate from wrong, passion for unselfish service," declares Dr. Arlo Ayers Brown of Ghattanooga university.

No Censurers Are Needed. Omaha World-Herald: A bill for the censorship of motion pictures again before the legislature, and it is to be hoped that, like prior similar measures in Nebraska, will meet with merited defeat. Its purpose is to provide for a new board of three, each to draw a $3,000 salary, with power to appoint clerks, inspectors, etc., all at the public expense, to decide what pictures Nebraska people may and may not be permitted to see. It means a piling up of expense, not only to serve no useful purpose, but to impose upon the state a vicious and indefensible theory of government.

Obituary.
(By the Pastor.)

Mrs. Anna Bengtson Pearson died Saturday, Jan. 27, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Fredrickson 4 miles south and one-quarter mile east of Concord, after nearly six years of sickness and suffering. She was a native of Sweden, born September 5, 1849, and was thus 73 years, 4 months and 22 days of age.

Her birthplace was "Concord," in the parish of Esters, near the city of Malmo, where she received the holy baptism and religious instruction from childhood and was confirmed in the Lutheran church of Concord, Ill., where she was married to Nels D. Pearson of Paxton, Ill., who died Sept. 4, 1919. In 1883, the couple moved to a farm near Sibley, Ill., where the family lived until in the spring of 1906 when they came to Nebraska, settling on the purchased farm four miles south of Concord.

In 1910, Mr. and Mrs. Pearson moved from farming and moved into Concord. After her husband's death, 1919, she has had her home with her two daughters, who have given her the best of care during her years of active life.

She has been a faithful and active member of the Lutheran church of Paxton and Sibley, Ill., and of the Concordia Lutheran church of Concord, having been a Sunday school teacher for twenty-two years. She was also a member of the Ladies' Aid and Home and Foreign Mission societies, giving hearty support to God's Kingdom. Nearly six years ago she suffered a stroke of apoplexy and since then has been unable to care for herself. She was a devoted Christian, bearing her pain with patience. She was loved and respected by all who knew her. She leaves behind to mourn her departure, two sons and two daughters: Axel, of Potter, Neb.; Bilger, Mrs. Axel Fredrickson and Mrs. Ernest Peterson, sons-in-law; Axel Fredrickson and Ernest Peterson; daughters-in-law, Mrs. Bilger Pearson and Axel Pearson; eight grandchildren; two nephews, Bilger N. Pearson and Oscar Pearson, all of this place except Mrs. Axel Pearson, one brother-in-law, Ole Dahlgren of Wakefield, and one brother and three sisters in Sweden, and many other relatives and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held Monday at 12:30 p. m. from the home and at 2 o'clock from the Concordia Lutheran church. The pastor spoke from Phil. 1:23. Miss May Pearson and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Johnson furnished music and singing. Flower carriers were: Misses Phoebe Peterson, Dora Peterson, Olga Anderson, Ellen Gundersen, Florence Petersen and Inez Wallis. All bearers were: G. O. Johnson, Nels Anderson, Fred Peterson, Christ Peterson, Edward Fredrickson and Aug. Foberg. Interment took place at Concord cemetery.

out on his run, and by looking at the two—no-weld—assess that he is 66 years old—or is it young? Mr. Blakely has been in railroad employment forty-seven years—forty years at that time a passenger conductor on the Union Pacific. On February 20 he is to go on the retired list. He has the choice run of the road and has been voted unofficially the most popular conductor on the Union Pacific. "Early in life," he says, "I found that kindness and good fellowship paid the best dividends, and I invested all I had in that stock." Mr. Blakely declares that although his years may convict him of being old, he is not old otherwise. It is a pleasure to commend the loyalty of these men—the spirit of fidelity that has held them to their tasks for a period of nearly fifty years. It is not chance that they have met neither accident nor reproval during their long terms of service. If they have proven more efficient than others, it is because of their superior fidelity. They are to be accounted successful men. Not all of the successful men in the railroad service are to be found in the higher executive offices, but they may also be discovered in the engine cabs, along the right of way, in the shops and in the other departments. The successful locomotive engineer or conductor is entitled to respect and honor equally with the successful railroad president. A railroad is more than the rails, the rolling stock, the shops, and the other physical equipment. More important than all these is the human element—the men who operate the trains, who guard the right-of-way, who keep the equipment in order. If we could think more of the railroad in terms of the human element we would see the problem much more clearly than we do at present.

The backbone of the railroad service is the man of fidelity like "Bill" Naismith and Arthur Blakely. Without men of that kind, successful railroad operation would be impossible.

Masked Violence.
Chicago Tribune: Night riding is uncivilized and no self-respecting community will tolerate the assumption by self-appointed private individuals of the right to discipline others without authority or form of law. Secret societies are numerous in this country and most of them have some form of regalia for their own ceremonies. That is legitimate.

But masks and disguises, which conceal the person and invite irresponsible action, should not be permitted in public.

An Optimist.
Lincoln Journal: Former Justice John H. Clarke predicts that America will be in the league of nations before the end of 1924. It takes an optimist just now to have faith that in Europe at least, there will be any solvent nations to make up a league by the end of 1924.

Will Add to Gavety of Nation.
Portland Oregonian: Mr. Ford will be a great contributor to the hilarity of the nation by, running on two tickets, if there be truth in alleged reports to that effect; but running on all four will be better. There is a financial paradise in the vista.

Mrs. F. P. Jones Declares She Feels 15 Years Younger Since Tanlac Completely Overcame Indigestion.

"Before I began taking Tanlac a half hour at cleaning house would take more than a whole day's work now," is the statement of Mrs. F. P. Jones, 2008 Halsted St., Chicago Heights, Ill.

"I have answered lots of questions lately about what it is that has made me look so healthy and happy and full of energy, and it always gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Tanlac.

"My troubles were indigestion, extreme nervousness, poor appetite and countless headaches. I was so tired and worn out I often had to sit down and rest while about my household affairs.

"My daughter took Tanlac and praised it so highly that I began taking it, too, and after the first bottle I felt more active than I had in four years. Three bottles made such a difference in me that my friends stopped me on the streets and said I looked like fifteen years younger, and I certainly do feel that way, too."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists.

Over thirty-five million bottles sold.

Special Sale on Traveling Bags

Many customers have asked repeatedly when there would be another sale of traveling bags. It took considerable dickering with the manufacturer and slicing of profit to enable me to offer these goods at the old special price because they sell considerably higher now. Besides, there is no question, that the bags I have now are better than the old ones. They are made of absolutely waterproof cloth and finished to look exactly like leather. The lining is heavier, the handle is leather on each corner is brass studs. You really must see this bag to appreciate its value. Traveling bags have supplanted the old style suit cases and here is a chance to get one just as good looking and nearly as well wearing as a high priced leather bag. Price Saturday only $1.29

45 Head

Mostly bred to Liberator Giant, a real show and breeding boar. This boar has in his pedigree some of the best sires of the Poland China breed, that were noted for their vigor and ruggedness.

Our sow herd represents some of the best blood lines of the breed. They are the big, strong, heavy boned, good body kind.

At the Stanton county fair and the Norfolk district show, we showed Liberator Giant and stuff sired by him. Won six first, one second and two third premiums. This was done without anything being fitted for show.

If you want a real litter, buy a sow bred to Liberator Giant.

Send for Catalog.
