Market-Topping Feeders.

C. F. Robbenbach of Wayne, added his name to the list of market-topping cattle feeders of his state, when he sold an offering of heavy steers at the Chicago stock yards for the highest price paid there on March 26. There were thirty-six head in the offering, averaging 137 pounds each. They were Herefords, the breed which has brought many honors to the state through their performance on the Chicago market and in the great international show held there annually.

Mr. Robbenbach's shipment sold at $10.10 a hundred-weight and stood alone in its class the nearest transaction in cattle of similar weight being closed at a figure much lower. A New York-based book the two leads. They will be slaughtered for fancy city and hotel trade in that metropolis. An indication of the preference at the Chicago market for Hereford cattle from Nebraska is shown by the fact that the bulk of heavy finished steers on the same day sold at a range of $6.00 to $9.75 a hundred weight. Many Nebraskans have recently topped the Chicago market with "Whitefaces."

AN UNWISE BILL.

A bill now before the senate proposes to admit to state normal schools high school graduates only.

A recent survey of the teaching force of Nebraska showed that there are five hundred new teachers in the state whose education is not above the fourth grade.

At last summer session there entered in the normal schools four thousand teachers.

One bill before the legislature now proposes to appropriate a million and a half of the taxpayers' money to support the four state normal schools.

Equality of the sexes. A questionnaire sent out to Nebraska editors, the Omaha Bee published a symposium in its Monday's edition touching this question.

By telephone we asked one man of usually clear analysis, what he thought of the original proposition.

It is a fact that women, granted equal rights with men, are coming more and more to show initiative as achievements in all lines of endeavor.

The two sexes, employing their varied talents somewhat differently, are equally indispensable forces in the advancement of the progress of civilization.

Advance Bill to Pay Lieutenant Governor

Lincoln, Neb., March 30.—The judicial committee of the state senate rejected and placed on general file the bill by Cooper of Douglas county which has for its purpose the paying of the lieutenant governor when that official is acting governor, or the same salary received by the governor himself. The senate committee set for passage the bill covering motor trucks, after making changes in the original draft. The Port Crook-Belleuve boulevard paving bill was given a favorable recommendation.

The lower house, after for the third time refusing to select a sitting committee of the bill, managed to expedite legislation by providing that while in committee of the whole during discussion of bill, no member shall engage in any motion. There was vigorous objection, but a motion to table motion was lost and debate hereafter will be curtailed.

Bryan Budget is Cut.
 The general maintenance and salary appropriation bills were reported out of the house. There is a reduction of $20,000 from the budget submitted by Governor Bryan. Bills appropriating $20,400 to buy additional lands for the hospital for the deaf-mute children and $50,000 to provide additional quarters for dependent children were advanced to third reading.

Purchase Now Good Business.
 Arguments advanced in favor of the Norfolk bill were that it was good business to look into the future and if the land were not purchased at this time, it would have to be later, when the price would be higher. The contention in favor of the new home for dependent children was that present facilities at Lincoln are inadequate.

Party lines were wiped out in the vote. Fully as many republicans repudiated the recommendations of the former governor as there were democrats who repudiated recommendations of Governor Bryan.

Banking Bill Passed.
 The banking bill, H. R. 272, as rewritten by the senate committee, passed the upper chamber by a unanimous vote. It now goes to the house where its backers claim it will have Friends surprised Mrs. Tower one afternoon as a farewell for her. The words presented to her were "good-bye with a salad soup." Mrs. Tower moves to Laurel.

 Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bright went to Winfield to spend the week with Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Morrow. Mrs. Bright went from there to Schuyler to visit and from there planned to go to Columbus to attend the teachers' meeting.

At the city election this week the new officers chosen were: Mayor, James B. Hester; treasurer, H. B. Ringland; clerk, A. R. Davis; members of the school board, D. C. Main and J. P. Neely, and councilmen, J. P. Gartner, D. S. McVicker and Lambert Roe.

From Ponca Journal, April 14, 1881:
 After this week it can no longer be said, when your neighbor wants to borrow your buggy, "I would like to let you have it, but it's lent."
 We are as much isolated from the outside world as though we were in-state prison. No train for a week, and no mail nor prospect of any.

All communication with the outside world is cut off, so that were the day of judgment to come, we should not know it for a week afterwards.
 In the unfortunate region which the ruthless Missouri has invaded, the sufferings of the poor here are so terrible, and a large portion have been rendered bankrupt.

If this country has such fearful winters in the future, the future stock business will fall into a decline. To keep cattle during the past winter has cost nearly as much as they are worth.
 Writers on agriculture are discussing the question, "How deep shall we sow?" in this country, considering the drifts, the temptation to sow at present would be about ten feet or thereabouts.

When all sources of news are blocked to try and write for a newspaper is about as consistent a proceeding as it was to ask the Jews, while being carried into captivity, to bring their harps and sing. Sorry a number of them had a word to say. Neither have we.

Gives Away a Husband.
 Beatrice, Neb., March 30: H. I. Gore was arrested here on a charge of bigamy, filed at Republic City, Kan. His surplus wife is to be taken to York, Neb. reformatory. Gore first allowed the gift of Gore by his first wife to the second Mrs. Gore.
 According to the story, the real Mrs. Gore and the second wife became friends in the state reformatory, where both were inmates. Mrs. Gore being unable to marry a number of times, she was unable to secretary, and endeavored to show her appreciation by presenting a check for $5000 without the formality of a divorce. The other woman, after securing her parole from the reformatory, came to Beatrice, which she had never married at Belleville, Kan., and returned here to live.

 Probation officers, investigating, brought to light the presentation of the husband to the other woman and arrests followed. Gore asked Iowa officers to permit him to plead guilty to bigamy rather than be loaned to Kansas.

BIG CONTEST CORN GROWERS

The Sioux City Tribune Announces a "Bigger" Better "Corn Contest" With $5,000 in Cash Prizes—Ending in Grand Corn Show at Sioux City Auditorium.

The Sioux City Tribune announces in this issue of the Herald a remarkable corn contest, known as the "Tribune Better Corn Contest," which is certain to prove not only of interest but also of genuine constructive value to the corn growers. The Tribune offers $5,000 in cash prizes up to all its readers in Iowa, South and Nebraska, which amount is greater than any ever offered at any corn show in the world.

The thought of the Tribune in inaugurating this contest is to try and be helpful in at least some small measure in promoting the growth of better corn and rewarding some of its raisers. The welfare of our territory is so fundamentally dependent upon "corn" that anything that we can do to better this crop is of benefit to all of us.

The Tribune has secured John Solderer, famous corn judge and holder of the record of producing Iowa's best bushel of corn, to act as superintendent of judging and each exhibit. Mr. Solderer will select two other well known men from each of the states of Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska.

The Tribune has secured the auditing in Sioux City Adeline J. Billiter, Judging and announcing of winners will be held there December 5, culminating in a "Grand Corn Show" to which everyone is invited.
 Arrangements have also been made by the Tribune to have an interesting series of articles appear on its farm page each week in the Saturday Tribune. The articles will be prepared and published to coincide with the various phases of the crop growth.

The Tribune has published an interesting pamphlet called "The Golden Ear" and it is free for anyone writing in for it.
 We believe that the Tribune is doing something that deserves the commendation of all and we trust our readers will read its page announcement in this issue for full particulars. 5t12d

"Tribune Better Corn Contest"

"The Golden Ear"

In Nature's Golden Corn Lies the Wealth of the Northwest

$5000 in Gold

Open to Everyone in Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska

The Purpose of the Contest

The Tribune realizing that the prosperity of the Middle West and in turn the prosperity of the entire nation largely depending upon our middle west, inaugurates this contest in the hope that it may, at least in some small measure, prove helpful to all.

Corn and Hogs (for hogs are but "corn on the hoof") are of such outstanding importance to the people of this territory and the people of Sioux City, "The Business Capital of the Northwest," that all should be interested in the raising of "Better Corn."

The interests of all are mutual and we either prosper or suffer together. Let's get together and all of us try to do "BETTER."

How to Win the Prizes

First read on this page the "DETAILS OF THE CONTEST"—"THE JUDGING OF THE CONTEST" and the section headed "FOR MORE PARTICULARS"—or better still, Cut Them Out and Save Them.

This Contest is not technical or difficult; corn is being raised anyway, so why not be in the Contest—it costs you nothing—and you may win that $500 for the "Biggest Ear."

Everyone is Eligible

Everybody in Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska (see "BIGGEST EAR" for Minnesota) is eligible for this contest, town or farm.

Simply comply with the easy conditions—one and all have an equal opportunity to win the prizes. And remember even though you do not win one of the many prizes you will enjoy being represented in Sioux City's Corn Show next December. No Corn Show has ever commanded a purse of this size before.

Details of the Contest

Every paid subscriber to The Tribune is eligible and the only requirement is that he advise The Tribune of his intention to enter the contest not later than December 2; however, why not do it NOW? This may be done by the coupon on this page, by letter, or postal card.

It is not the thought of The Tribune to make this contest too technical—every corn grower should enter.

As the middle west raises "BETTER CORN," so do all of us, and the nation at large, prosper. Let's try! If not a reader order Tribune today.

GENTLEMEN:
Please send me your booklet entitled "The Golden Ear," which I shall be glad to read.

Helpful Articles

All of us know that the way to raise "BETTER CORN" is to start with the selection of the seed corn, and then to watch each stage of development.

To aid in doing this a series of articles will appear each Saturday in The Tribune on its farm page, known as "FARM LIFE WHERE THE TALL CORN GROWS."

The first of these articles will start next Saturday. It will tell about selecting your seed corn.

As the crop advances there will be articles covering each particular stage.

These articles will be practical. The writers of them will be corn authorities in our agricultural colleges and "dirt farmers" of recognized standing as corn growers.

They should prove interesting, helpful and profitable. Watch The Tribune's Saturday "FARM PAGE."

The Grand "Corn Show"

At the Auditorium, day and evening, December 5th, when the judging and announcing of winners will be made, there will be an exhibit of "CORN" that will rival any National Corn Show—because when it comes to raising "CORN" we cannot be beat.

Let every "CORN" grower come in that day; meet each other; talk "CORN" together; and ALL will benefit.

Every Sioux Cityan invites you; remember, Sioux City is "THE BUSINESS CAPITAL OF THE NORTHWEST"—and its people realize and appreciate that its welfare and growth is mainly dependent upon you.

Let's all enter whole heartedly into the "Tribune Better Corn Contest," so that not only will all prosper MORE through raising "BETTER CORN" but also gain a BETTER UNDERSTANDING of our own and our neighbor's problems and mutually and helpfully work together to "BUILD BETTER" the wonderful territory Nature has bestowed upon us.

The Judging of the Contest

John Sundberg will be superintendent of judges and exhibits.

Mr. Sundberg is known to every corn grower as a famous corn judge, including judging at the National Corn Show, and is holder of the record of producing Iowa's best bushel of corn. He is enthusiastic over "THE TRIBUNE BETTER CORN CONTEST" and is freely giving his time and knowledge. Mr. Sundberg will also select two well known corn authorities from each of the states of Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska to make up the board of judges.

All Judging Will be Done by Comparison Only.

The Tribune has secured the Auditorium for December 5 at which place and time all judging and announcing of winners will be made. All exhibits from contestants must be in the hands of the judges not later than noon December 4.

These exhibits may be sent at any time to The Sioux City Tribune or brought to John Sundberg in person the day preceding the Corn Show.

After the CORN SHOW all exhibits will be sent to the agricultural colleges of Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska, excepting 400 ears to be used by The Tribune for advertising purposes.

CONSOLIDATED WITH THE WAYNE REPUBLICAN

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1923.

VOL. 36, NO. 39.

The Hottentot.

The famous story of a horse will be presented by the Junior class of the Wayne college, Thursday evening, April 12, at 8 o'clock in the auditorium, under the direction of Mrs. Minnie V. Wittmeyer.

The story of the play centers around Sam Harrington, who had an aversion for horses. Sam had accepted a week-end invitation to the home of the Gilford's. The Gilford's home Sam learned, was more like a stable than a home. The Hottentot was in the Gilford stables. Somehow Sam was mounted on the Hot- tentot and he found that he had jumped the high garden wall with the spikes on it as easily as if he had been sitting in a rocker. No one saw him so in the back, no one except Swift, the butler. Swift was sympathetic. He saw how things were. Swift applied liniment and bandages and offered sympathy. When Sam met Peggy he found himself in love. Sam had never known a girl like Peggy. She was very lovely. Through her faith in him Sam found his courage returning and he resolved to ride, to wear Peggy's colors in the steeple chase and win. Did he win the race? Did he win his sweetheart? Come and see.

The play is of entertaining quality and holds the interest at all times. At no place does it drag. The success which seems likely to come to the play will be due as much to the remarkably strong cast and the high quality of the acting as to the number of good lines and the fast-moving series of incidents.

Henry Lay in his excellent humorous impersonation of Sam Harrington, realizes all the possibilities of a very attractive role. The work of Anna B. Evans as Peggy, deepens the exceedingly favorable impression made by her in preceding plays. Paul M. Crossland as Swift, does excellent work with a character part and adds to the humor of the play as a competent butler. Dorothy Wilcox is full of grace as Mrs. Chadwick, and shows a delightful ease and the role is played throughout with intelligent appreciation. Bon Moran as Larry, shows himself capable of playing an exacting emotional role with intense realism but without exaggeration and with a quite remarkable power of restraint. Philip Ripkabaugh brings ease, naturalness and smooth, competent acting to the part of Ollie Gilford. Marion Heald as Mrs. Ollie Gilford, his wife, gives a finished impersonation and deserves a word of praise. John M. Ahern, young, eager, vivacious, an ardent lover of the sport, gives distinct individuality to the part of Alex Fairfax. Harold W. Preston as Reggie Townsend, gives the finished performance we expect from a captain. His part is smooth and well played. George LaRue as Perkins, is a capital bedroom and Myrtle Anderson as Celie, is a vivacious maid.

The play is well produced and the speed with which it moves reveals capable stage management.

Home Economics Research.
Important research work bearing directly or indirectly upon home economics has been carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture for many years and the results have been widely disseminated through department publications. The extent and value of similar work done by State agricultural experiment stations is not so fully realized. A classified list of the projects carried on by the experiment stations at the present time contains 84 titles under the head of "foods and nutrition" reported from 24 stations. These include food preservation, milling and baking, and other projects. There are also 75 other projects which have an important bearing on or application to some phase of home economics.

The research work of the department and the experiment stations has contributed largely to our exact knowledge of the composition, digestibility, and nutritive value of foods and food materials of all kinds, the food habits of different classes of people and the food requirements of people of different ages and occupations. Investigations of such staple food materials as wheat and corn, milk, meat, milk and milk products have been especially thorough and complete.
The functions of vitamins in nutrition, the conditions that control their proportion in foods, and their stability under different processes of preservation are receiving a large amount of attention. Knowledge of the efficiency of different proteins and of the function of the mineral constituents of foods has been greatly enlarged and clarified.
Other research work has included studies of the conditions of food disposal, the sanitation of food homes; household arrangement, equipment, and work; various phases of marketing, cost and standards of living in the farm; and certain problems of rural sociology.

The True Story.
London Mail: "So this is the famous 'Love's Leap'! Can you tell me its true story?"
Native—Oh ain't it, sure, zur, but Ol' Mother's old right hand is a-calling on this spot, an' I s'gure you yell an' jumped off."

Rob's Ticket Agent.
Grand Island, Neb., March 29: While Night Ticket Agent Black, of the Burlington railroad, was alone last night there appeared at the window a lone man, face covered with a blue bandanna, who forced Black to open the office door and market $24 in the cash drawer. The bandit wanted to know where "all those bills" were. Black's reply that they were in the safe and the day man had the combination was accepted. A much larger sum was saved. Police believe the bandit or bandits were the same as one operating at York. Only one was visible here, however.

Dr. Wylie's expression is commended to those who mention the press only to deride it.

The fact that the past few years have been unusually mild in most parts of the United States has led to considerable discussion as to whether this portion of the earth is undergoing a general change of climate.

The weather bureau, United States Department of Agriculture, has furnished what disproves this idea. Periods have occurred in the past and will occur again, when for a few years the weather has seemed or will seem to be noticeably warmer or colder than the average.

While there are well-recognized alternations in climatic conditions, as of wet and dry, hot and cold, etc., little is known with regard to definite laws of sequence of weather conditions, especially those which are within ordinary historic times there is practically no evidence that there has been a definite and progressive change in the climate in one direction or the other, but rather that the same sort of alternations are now succeeding each other indefinitely, as in earlier historical times.

It is to be noted that the amount of change, if any, is too small and the extent of territory involved too indefinite to be of economic value. Until definite knowledge is available concerning the law of sequence of weather conditions, and possible periodic cycles affecting the weather, any quantitative established, scientific long-range forecasting is impracticable.

Need of County Rest Room. How many people are benefited by a county rest room? It is worth while to establish and maintain such a room out of local funds.

County gales were held in this rest room both last year and this year. Many people who have no opportunity to earn money, and in particular young women and girls out of high school, make excellent things, but have no market for them.

Stressing Athletics. Lincoln Journal: Prof. J. G. W. Lewis of Wayne, who has been spending the year in working for his doctor's degree, in Chicago university, finds a strong undercurrent of opposition to the overstraining of athletes among the educators of the country.

It is to be noted that the amount of change, if any, is too small and the extent of territory involved too indefinite to be of economic value. Until definite knowledge is available concerning the law of sequence of weather conditions, and possible periodic cycles affecting the weather, any quantitative established, scientific long-range forecasting is impracticable.

Factory production is lively, with wage advances noted in the motor car and steel centers. The increased prices for motor cars are heard variously without verification from any of the manufacturers.

Live stock has recovered most of its losses, killers being in heavy demand and moving freely. The grain markets have been slower than usual with a narrow margin for operators.

The Press and the Church. Sioux City Journal: The following expression by Rev. Dr. D. W. Wiley, secretary of the Presbyterian board of church erection, is so unusual that it is quoted verbatim: "The press of the present hour is a mighty influence for good. I believe it is an ally of the church. It distributes intelligence, carries the words of teachers, lectures, preachers, into thousands of homes and brings the ends of the earth together. Many able editors are preaching powerful sermons. The press is a great detective agency, a terror to evil doers and makes culprits, big and little, tremble. It is assisting the church in building up the kingdom of God."

Dr. Wylie does not mistake the influence, the achievement and the purpose of the press. The press aims to be and do all that Dr. Wylie says it is and does. The press is the object of much hostile criticism, and in large part such criticism is superficial and unintelligent. The press is not without its shortcomings, but it is, notwithstanding, one of the wonders of the modern world. It wields a power of the most powerful instrumentalities known, namely, publicity, and that is its strength as well as its weakness.

The press and the church are not allies, they should be. No sound reason for antagonism between the press and the church exists, though the press frequently is hated by the pulpit. The church should recognize its opportunity and establish friendly relations with the press, in order that it may be in position to command the influence and the services of the press when occasion arises.

Working together as allies, the press and the church become a powerful force for the betterment of the world. Both the press and the church have their particular fields of labor and influence, but in many matters their objects are the same.

Dr. Wylie's expression is commended to those who mention the press only to deride it.
