GREATER WAYNE CLUB ARRANGES FOR SIGNS

Strange Traveling Herbabouts are to be Reminded of Wayne

Strangers who travel within fifty miles of Wayne, will soon be reminded of this city by some conspicuous signs that will be erected. At a meeting of the Greater Wayne club Monday evening, 110 signs were reported ready, and accordingly committees were appointed to see that they are put up. Another hundred signs were ordered. These signs will be maintained by the club.

It is also proposed to erect a big sign at each of four entrances to the town, and have other signs put up to direct strangers to Brasser's park. Signs placed at town entrances will announce the dates of the county fair. For paying for signs a total of $255 was raised by popular subscription Monday.

It was announced at the meeting that tourists already have been stopping at the park, a number from as far away as California.

A resolution was passed to cooperate with the Kiwanis club in an effort to persuade the railroad company to build a new station at the park, and the right of way west of the station.

Senior Class Play "A Full House"

(Is a House Full of Laughs)

The comedy "A Full House," full of a particular vivacity, will be presented by the seniors on at the College Auditorium under the direction of Mimmie V. Wittmeyer.

Thesday Evening, May 22

The play is the newest and funniest of all comedies written by Fred Jackson, the well known story writer, and is backed by the prestige of an impressive New York success and the promise of unlimited fun presented in the most attractive form.

The story is of a reckless and wealthy youth who writes ardent love letters, an attorney brother-in-law who steals the letters and then gets his hand bag mixed up with the grip of a burglar who has just stolen a valuable necklace from the mother of the indiscreet youth, and the efforts of the crook to recover his plunder. There are incidents in the play in which the swiftness of the action never halts for an instant. Not only are the situations screamingly funny but the lines themselves hold a fund of humor at all times.

The Play is Presented in a Most Professional Manner by the Following Cast:

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|------------------|
| Parks, an English servant..... | Douglas Hansen |
| Sussie, from Sioux City..... | Ellen Sohler |
| Dorothy Briggs..... | Dorothy Briggs |
| Daphne Charters, Ottily's sister..... | Hazel Thary |
| Ottily Howell, a bride..... | Margaret Jipp |
| Nicholas King, a stranger..... | Donald Frisbie |
| Ned Pembroke, an only son..... | Otto Eetting |
| George Howeh, a bridegroom..... | Robin Miller |
| Doungitry, a police sergeant..... | Louis Comely |
| Jim Momey, a policeman..... | Myron Myers |
| Clancy, a policeman..... | Julius Simsen |
| Mrs. Fleming, a landlady..... | Helen MacPherson |
| Vera Vernon, a show girl..... | Bessie Bacon |
| Mrs. Pembroke, from Boston..... | Ruth Ringland |

The fortunate choice of a good comedy, together with this talented cast will make the evening of the senior class play an evening very well spent indeed.

On Omaha Market.

John Grimm, of Wayne, was on the stock on the market on May 7 with a load of stock in which were a head of very well finished horeford Hereford steers that sold at $9.50 a hundredweight, the day's top price. Six of the steers averaging 1301 were of his own raising and feeding, while the other nine were raised and fed by his brother-in-law, Will Lutt, and averaged 1298 pounds a head. They had made rapid and substantial gains on feed as Herefords usually do.

Farmers around Wayne are away behind with their work, according to John Grimm, secretary of the Hereford party, mainly for three weeks, but there is lots of plowing to do yet," he said. "Farmers in Wayne county still have on many many heavy steers in their feed lots."

On Sioux City Market.

Two loads of prime cattle from Hoskins, established a new top price for steers on the Sioux City cattle market April 30, when they sold at $37.5 a hundredweight. This was the highest price paid on that day for nearly three months for cattle in that class. J. C. Hall offered to head of Herefords bred in the sandhills of western Nebraska. They averaged 1435 pounds a head. Fred Chapman sold 18 branded Panhandle Hereford steers averaging 1268 pounds each. Both loads sold at $37.5 a hundredweight price.

Dixiey—To drive a motor car in Minnesota one must have a license, but to secure which requires an examination as to one's competency. At a session in Fairmont the other day the applicant was asked what the best thing he would say to the other driver in case of a collision? "I'd tell him it wasn't my fault," said the applicant. The permit was granted.

The Age of Discretion.

San Francisco Chronicle.—The age of discretion is that at which man begins to suspect that not all the nuts are in one party.

Sioux City Journal.—Senator Johnson will not talk in Paris concerning what he saw in the Ruhr, but he may be depended upon to tell us all about it when he gets home. If the senator from California can solve the Ruhr problem, nobody can.

Dr. J. T. House Named For Hall of Fame

The Omaha Bee is publishing from day to day its nominations for "Nebraska's Hall of Fame," and in its issue of May 15, appeared Dr. J. T. House of the Wayne Teachers College. The write-up following the nomination and picture will be of general local interest, and its reproduction hereafter.

"Julius Temple House, head of the department of English in the State Teachers College at Wayne, was born in Glenwood, Ia., educated in Doane college, the University of Nebraska and the University of Chicago, receiving the doctorate from the latter institution. Absorbed in his work as teacher, Mr. House had written little save an occasional article for newspaper or magazine until recently, when he became the more or less official commentator concerning the genius of John G. Neihardt.

"This work of literary criticism came to Mr. House rather than being sought, an interesting situation that arose in the following manner: Through a reviewer to the poet, the teacher was using the western eye in his class-room and, in his regular work, had prepared elaborate notes on poems. Later Neihardt saw the notes and, at his suggestion, they were published by the Macmillan company. Thereafter Neihardt heard there named Mr. House as one who knew his writings especially well and the conception of the preparation of Mr. House's volume concerning the poet was born, resulting in the publication three years ago of 'John G. Neihardt—Man and Poet—the work, receiving favorable comment in the press both of this country and of England.

"On the organization of the Neihardt club of literary people on both sides of the Atlantic, which has grown to be a large organization, Mr. House naturally became its executive officer, and the editor of its bulletin. In line with the work thus far accomplished, the club has in view the organization of 'The Plains-Curve association,' with the purpose of encouraging the spread of knowledge of what many believe to be the most significant movement of literature and artistic creation in the world today, namely, that of the mid-west. Mr. House declares he can ask no more alluring task than to help to interpret the meaning of this dramatic movement.

Applicants Wanted For Training Camp

Omaha, Nebraska, May 16, 1923.—Vigorous efforts are now being made to secure applicants by all state, county and local committees, in charge of the procurement campaign for the 1923 citizens military training camp. It is desired to enroll candidates and complete the quota for the state of Nebraska at as early a date as possible.

Young men between the ages of 17 and 24 years who desire to apply for admission to the training camp should do so at once. Local and county committees will gladly furnish information regarding applications and physical examinations. If the name and address of the local chairman are not known, anyone desiring information may secure it by writing to O. E. Engler, 215 City National Bank, Omaha.

Dixon

By Mrs. K. D. Long In the Medial Declamatory contest held in Dixon Saturday night, May 12 under the auspices of the Dixon, W. C. T. U., Miss Grace Davidson, age 10, daughter of Andrew Davidson, won first place with "Ranzus," last "Smoke." Miss Thelma Marie, 9 year old daughter of John Mantz, won second place with "The Message of the Bell."

Winners of the essay contest held last month were announced, and the cash prizes awarded. The subject: "The Evil Effects of Alcohol and Tobacco Upon the Human Body." There were two classes, over 12 years, and under 12 years. In the first class, Miss Marjorie Long of the Dixon, ninth grade won first prize, third and fourth prizes went to Herman Krebs, Miss Amanda Schuttig and Raymond Reising, respectively, all pupils of the Clark Center consolidated.

In the class under 12, Elmer Gledesquist, 10 years, first; Miss Verliane Reed, 11, won third, from Levan Grove school; Francis Long, 11 years, second, and Lucella French, 11 years, fourth prize, from Dixon Intermediate school. Mrs. Dave Taylor, Misses Edna Smith and Margaret Palmer, of Concord were the judges of the essay contest.

Misses Mildred Wright and Alberta Enders of Clark Center, Miss Eva Wigg of Plainview, Miss Alice Miner of Logan Grove, and Miss Edna Fisher of Dixon, were the teachers who gave enthusiastic support. Miss Wigg's pupils gave music numbers also for the medal contest program. Prof. S. X. Cross of the Wayne Normal will deliver the commencement address in Dixon Thursday night, May 17. Mr. Cross is an uncle of Prof. L. N. Clark, the present principal at Dixon, but who will teach in Beemer the coming year. Prof. Hanson, a 1923 senior, has been engaged to teach in Dixon as principal next year. The snow that fell quite generally last week did not reach this section, though ice formed here and there. Thickness on water; fruit trees and all gardens seemed to escape injury, however.

Business

Sioux City Journal: Any sensible worker, skilled or unskilled, might be expected to agree that high wages and the privilege of job selection make for him a perfect condition of employment. The truth of that has been strongly reflected during the last several months by an almost total lack of labor troubles. Few periods in American industrial history have been so free from strikes as the first half of the present year. All workers want good wages and when they are able to choose what they shall do in winning livelihoods the tasks become congenial and labor remains good humored and efficient. These findings also may be assets of considerable value to employers, especially those astute enough to figure out that the satisfied worker may be depended upon as a good producer of results.

But that fable of the goose that laid the golden egg comes strongly to mind as one observes that is happening throughout the country right now with respect to building. Braggs' said: "In industry, while the pace still is fast there are evidences in the report of postponements of new work announced, as well as in the decline of building expenditures in April from the peak totals of March, that costs of labor or materials have been pushed too high." New York City, besides occupying a position of pre-eminence in the financial field, also possesses a strong industrial base. New York somehow takes the lead in declines and advances and the rest of the country follows accordingly. Mark, then, the figures on building in the New York district and for the middle Atlantic section generally. New York city proper showed a decline in building activity for April as compared with March of 57 per cent. More than $15,000,000 worth of building operations in New York alone has been postponed until a more favorable time on account of high labor and material costs. The rest of the country is beginning to react to this influence, although so far the decline has been slight—in 1923 the total expenditures for building construction have decreased 64 per cent. Figures for May are expected to show a decline much more impressive.

False conclusions for the most part reached because of insufficient information—may have it that the decline has come as a result of the country catching up with building demands. That is not true at all. Announcements made soon after the first of the year showed the need of more construction for 1923 than will be accomplished now. Following the announcements, the predictions were supported by actual plans and immediate operations. The work itself could not keep up with the trend of the statements that the year had vast possibilities for the building trades. But a mistake was made—not only by labor but by producers of materials. Prices were advanced rapidly. This added greatly to the already high building costs, and, while some plans cannot be altered just because the necessity is great, the expense of building in other cases proved prohibitive and the decline is the inevitable result.

How like a boom the whole thing has been! Unheard-of wages—plastered in some eastern districts—demanded and received as much as $20 a day—and stiff prices for materials, and the supply simply had to burst. There is yet time for the situation to be met and averted. If builders, meaning those who finally pay the bills, can be shown that the structures they want will not cost more than they would be worth on any basis of reasonable valuation, they will be willing to resume. It all depends upon the building trades and manufacturers of materials whether the life of the goose that lays the golden eggs is to be saved. And her head is dangerously close to the block.

Wakefield News

Miss Dorothy Hise of the Herald staff, is editor of this department and will visit Wakefield every Tuesday. Any news contributions to this column from our country will be gladly received. She is also authorized to receive new or renewal subscriptions.

John Leonard Passes Away in Sioux City

John A. Leonard, who had been a resident of Wakefield since 1879, passed away Saturday evening at 10 o'clock in a hospital in Sioux City, Iowa. He had been in poor health for some months and an operation from which he did not rally. The body was brought to Wakefield Sunday and a service was conducted Tuesday afternoon at the Leonard home at 1 o'clock and at the Swedish Mission church at 2 o'clock. Rev. H. G. Nelson was in charge of the service. Interment was made in the Wakefield cemetery.

Subjects will have to take them at some other place. Some plans are being made for a trust between the Allen and Wakefield high schools for Friday, May 25. If plans materialize this will be held in Wakefield. Seniors of the high school, championed by Miss Edna Sundahl, drove to Sioux City Wednesday last week for their "sneak" day. They visited places of interest about the city and had picnic luncheon in Stone park. Edna Hanson is back in the primary room, securing an absence due to an abscess on one of her ears. Intelligence series are being worked out for students of the grades.

Celebrate Fortieth Church Anniversary

The program for the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the Salem Lutheran church of Wakefield, will be held from Thursday, May 24, to Sunday, May 27. Many from out-of-town plan to be here for the reunion and all of the former pastors of the church, who are living, have promised to be present. They will be one of the biggest events in the history of the church. The program is arranged as follows: Thursday, May 24, 8 p. m. Historic Program (Swedish) Hymn—Congregation. Scripture Lesson and Prayer—Rev. J. A. Carlsson. Anthem, "Praise the Lord"—Anthem. Historic Sketch—Rev. E. G. Knock. Address, "Forty Years of Sowing and Reaping in God's Kingdom." High School Girls Appear in Opera

"In India," the opera presented Monday evening in the auditorium by girls of the choral club of the Wakefield high school, was attended by a good-sized audience considering the weather. Miss Ingeborg Clark of Wayne directed the production and received credit for the successful presentation. Receipts from admissions amounted to $70 which sum will be used by the choral club in their summer tour. Miss Mildred Wilhelm, who took Miss Marie Berneman's place as accompanist because of the latter's illness, merits mention for her able assistance. Between acts little Miss Frances Pahl and Elva Jones sang a group of duets which delighted the audience. The most charming scene in which Alice Ebersole starred was a scene especially enjoyed. All of the girls took part in the well-acted production showed ability and skill.

Gum-Dipped Cords Gaining New Fame for Service

194% Sales Increase in Last Six Months Shows Trend Toward Firestone

The public has emphatically spoken. The popular preference in all territories is unmistakably the Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord. A standard of service has been set by these famous tires without parallel in the past. It has brought a sales increase of 194% for the past six months over the same period of a year ago—the greatest gain in all Firestone history. The Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord is the mighty achievement which has enabled Firestone to break the tremendous record of past Firestone success. The tire buying public has been aroused to the

Remember the Maine

When the battleship Maine was sunk in Havana harbor in 1898, the citizens of Vernal, Utah, painted "Remember the Maine" on the face of a four-foot high sandstone cliff nine miles north of town. Today, the black letters, five feet high, are more distinct than ever. The paint protected surface of the rock has withstood the ravages of which we witness while the surrounding unprotected sandstone is wearing away. Paint will save any stone. We will take every precaution to preserve the painting of your home?

Isolation. New York Tribune. The United States is not and never has been a "hermit nation." No American statesman of commanding prominence have been "isolationists." To be a nation to think so—Isolation is a heritage as American ideals are absolutely fanciful. They are the creation of gifted mountebanks or scoundrels on who never was, like William E. Borah and Hiram Johnson.

The Stylish Shoes are at Ahern's

An almost endless number of shoe styles have been brought out for this spring. Many of them were intended only for the woman who can have slippers to match every gown and every occasion. Many others were experiments that no one liked and they are now adorning the bargain counters. A few of them were suitable for the woman who wants a stylish shoe that will look well with most any of her dressy apparel on most any occasion. In our buying we have selected these last named styles and here you can be sure of finding low shoe styles that are both up-to-date and useful.

The younger set will find serviceable slippers in the latest flap-ber styles—the older more conservative dresser will find styles less extreme but just as up-to-date that will give them good service. New styles every week.

Frank Wilson planned a surprise party for Mr. Wilson, Monday night, it being his birthday. The guests enjoyed "500." Mrs. Wilson served the refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Mittelstadt were called to Norfolk Monday by the death of Miss Helen Cahart, a daughter of Dr. Littrell's sister who died there following an operation for appendicitis. The funeral will be today (Thursday).

Rev. E. N. Littrell enjoyed his Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. B. M. McIntyre complimentary to Mrs. V. B. Dewey, who with her husband and son will leave for the west the latter part of the week. They have not decided where they will locate.

Winside high school boys went to Wayne last Wednesday to play ball with the high school team at Wayne.

The following riders accompanied them: Dr. Littrell, Mrs. V. B. Dewey, Ruby Schneider, Ida Overman, Marie Pryor, Dorothy Rev, Eulalie Lewis, Sarah Swanson, Mabel Lewis, Gilbert Prince, Lloyd Kilstrom, Waldon Brugger and Allen Book. The Winside crowd enjoyed a picnic supper in the Wayne park and later attended the Savidge show. They were "chaperoned" by Miss Cecile Chambers.

Mrs. Leonard Needham, formerly of Winside, was called from Long Beach, Calif., last week. Her mother, Mrs. C. Decker, of Seward, City fell and broke her hip. Mrs. Melke is 85 years old, making the accident doubly serious. Mr. Needham is expected some time this week.

Hoskins ball team and a large crowd of rooters came Sunday to play Winside on the local diamond. It was Winside's last game and a large crowd was present to watch them win the game. It is a good beginning and hope it may continue. The score was 20 to 0.

Floyd Tidrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Tidrick, is still in the hospital in Omaha with inflammatory rheumatism and tonsil poisoning. His sister, Mrs. C. E. Benschoff, went to be with him during an operation for removing his tonsils. He was unable to have the operation last week. Mrs. Benschoff is still in Omaha.

Mrs. Dora Dysart, librarian, is caring for the library again after a five months' vacation with her daughter, Mrs. Russel Williams in Omaha. Mrs. Williams returned with her mother and is a guest at the Dysart home this week. Miss Edith Carter had charge of the library during Mrs. Dysart's absence.

The Colerick club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Clarence Witt. Nine members responded to roll call. The drill in parliamentary law was led by Mr. Harold Newby. The club was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Fred Bright, served a two-course luncheon. The next meeting will be in accordance with Mrs. V. B. Siman and Mrs. L. W. Needham as hostesses.

Rev. and Mrs. E. N. Littrell chaperoned a meeting Friday evening at the church basement Friday evening. On account of the rain storm only eight members were present. The evening was spent at the piano and in a general good time singing. Ice cream and wafers were served. The club members are planning a week's picnic between the 20th and 25th and a public school and opening of the summer school at the Wayne Normal.

John Brugger was pleasantly surprised Saturday night when about fifty friends came to his home to remind him that his birthday had arrived. The most enjoyable feature of the evening was the music, piano, violin, cornet and trombone. Those on the musical program were: Eddie, Waldon and Norbert Brugger, Howard and Edna, daughter of Ollie Smith. Cards and dancing were also enjoyed. The luncheon was planned and served by Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Meloy and Mrs. Brugger. Three birthday cakes were prepared for Mr. Brugger, Mrs. Wallace Caldwell and Frank Melick, all being the same date.

The Conquest of Fear.

This fine book by Basil King will be reviewed at the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning at 10:30. Almost everyone is afraid of something. The author tells us how to overcome fear. Every Christian should get the secret. Come Sunday morning, stay to Sunday school at 11:30, then come back for Christian Endeavor at 7 p. m. and we'll all go together to the college for the baccalaureate service.—Rev. Foster C. Jones, Pastor.

English Lutheran Church.
(Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, Pastor.)
May 16: Sunday school 10 a. m. Worship with sermon. There will be no young people's meeting next Sunday evening for all will be attending the baccalaureate service at the college.

Third day will be observed in the Sunday school next Sunday. Every school will bring at least one pound of white bread. Any size No. 10 to 100 will be acceptable. The bread is sent to India where the native ones are made. This industry is carried on by the missionaries to furnish the poor women of India a means of making a living. No one derives a profit from the bread industry but it is purely a missionary activity. Some of this bread is now on display and for sale at the parsonage.

"Come to our class, tomorrow." John "We're trying to build up a big class," said a man as he met a friend on the street. But John didn't come. The outsider asked him about the ambition of a class member to roll up a big attendance. He isn't interested in that. John's interest will be aroused only when the class member can prove to him that he is missing something worth while, when he doesn't take advantage of every man's Bible class offer. Every man's Bible class offers a hearty welcome, good fellowship, helpful teaching and an opportunity for every man to take part in lively discussion.

It is doubtful if there is a school in the Donnybrook size any place west of us as high type of dramatic productions as does this school. The realism with which a fifteen year old girl can portray a scene in the life of an older woman's life is pitiful, for she has lived next to death, everyday tragedy, and she presents it as she has sensed it in real life.

Five Articles Tell of Visit to Herald

The papers written by students of the ninth grade in the training school at the Wayne State Normal, after a visit to the Herald office, have been judged and the five best were worked up by the Johnnie Marion Ahern, Margaret Ahern, Esther Taylor and Henry Gulliver. "The Making of a Newspaper" is the subject of the discussion. Miss Marion Bertrand and Miss Ruth Kingland, seniors at the school, are teaching the two English classes.

By E. Taylor
 The Wayne Herald is one of the best country weeklies in the United States.

The news is secured in the following ways: There are about ten reporters throughout the county from the towns and rural districts. They send the news in either by letter or telephone. The local news is obtained by two reporters and it contains news of the court house, ministers, depot, clubs and the like. A reporter from each town sends his news by mail, usually by telephone. Each reporter writes his own news stories.

In setting the type a machine named Linotype is used. Linotype means line-of-type. It makes one line at a time. In making the type metal is placed in a large iron bowl on the machine. The metal has been made in shape by being melted in a large kettle and then being poured into molds. The lead is not clean because when they dip the lead into the molten metal, it leaves the slugs dirty with ink. When melted the ink comes to the top. A long dipper is used to skim this dross off. Then they dip the lead into lead pigs' molds to harden. These lead pigs are then ready for the Linotype. The matrices, small metal pieces which are done up in a tray, make the raised type on the slugs of type when the hot metal is put against them. When the line is made the matrix is done up together by hand and then put in the "make-up".

The printing that has just been typed is put on paper of a uniform size and proof-read. The editors do the proof-reading. If a time, word or letter is misplaced or is in the wrong order, it has to be removed and a whole new line made of the same and put in.

The pictures are made by the casting machine. The plates, each boards with impressions of the pictures, are obtained from two different companies each each month. They are put on the casting machine and hot lead poured on them. The lead raised, making the cuts for the pictures.

The job printing and advertisements are partly made by hand. When the type is made for every thing, it is put into a "form" or frame the size of the paper in the order it is to be printed. This is called the "make-up", and the paper is now ready for the press. On the press the inked roller runs over the "make-up" and, another roller carries the paper over the "make-up" the paper is printed. The paper is then coming from the press are carried through the folding machine. It takes them, folds them in two, cutting the paper into sheets. By this machine they are folded as we see them.

The papers are then made ready for mailing. A mailing machine is used with a roll of paper which is paste and over which the narrow roll of paper with subscribers' names must pass. When the machine is pressed, the subscriber's name is cut off and put on the paper. The newspaper staff includes five adults and a boy. Three men and the boy are employed in the mechanical part of the copy and in brief get things ready before they go to the Linotype.

To obtain new subscribers a man or woman, purposely employed for this work, goes out about the first of June and travels over the county. The booking system is simple. The day book, ledger, and expense book are well-kept and adequate to the needs of the establishment.

By Henry Gulliver
 In the making of a newspaper the news must be secured first. This is done by about ten reporters over the county who usually report the news in writing. There are also two local reporters who secure news from the office at the Normal, a senior at the high school, about thirty clubs and organizations, and several persons about town.

The news stories are written by the reporter who secures the news. The story as it is written then goes to the Linotype machine. It is called this because it makes one line of type at a time. Bars of lead, each weighing three pounds, are put in a machine not to be moved by electricity. On the Linotype there is a key-board arranged about the same as on the typewriter. When the keys for the letters are touched a thin piece of metal an inch long and three-fourths of an inch wide drops down into a rack. This piece of metal is called a matrix. Between each word a wedge-shaped piece of metal called a "space band" is dropped into the rack.

By means of these words are separated and the margins made straight. When the rack is full the letters are let down against some of the lead hardens very quickly and the line of words printed on this lead or slug drops out. As more of these come they are in the order in which they were typed. After a column of these is made it is printed and printed on paper for proof-reading. If any mistakes have been made, such as misspelled words or the forgetting of a spaceband a whole new slug is made.

To prepare the advertisements for printing cuts for five cuts are used. The mats are placed on the casting machine and lead is poured over them. This makes the picture of the press, or whatever it is, stand out. These are called the cuts. After the proof of all the paper has been read, it is put in a form and sent to the press. All of the instruments are machines in the Herald office are run by electricity, as is the press. The ink is put in a trough in which the rollers turn. As a system of rollers the ink is transferred to the type. The paper is then rolled onto the type and taken off. One sheet is taken over the press and printed on one side at each time. As the paper comes off the press the second time it is put through the folder. Here the sheets of four pages on each side are cut and trimmed besides being folded. The labeling is done by a machine also.

A simple method of bookkeeping is used but it is systematic and adequate to the needs. The old-fashioned system for new subscribers is not used any longer but a man or woman is sent over the county during the summer months to solicit new subscribers.

By Aletha Johnson
 The Herald is one of the best weekly papers published. It is an up-to-date paper and I think there is hardly a state into which it does not go. When Mr. Huse first went into business there were four pages of home-print-and now the paper has sixteen to thirty-two home printed pages. Mr. Huse has taken great pains with the business and has made a great success of it.

"Nearly all of the local news is obtained by calling, although Mr. Huse meets the train. There are about twelve reporters in all, ten of whom are stationed in different parts of the county and two who work in the office and go to two of the nearby towns for news. Miss Huse who is one of them in the office goes to Carroll on Mondays and to Wakefield on Tuesdays. There is one reporter for each club, organization, school, church and court-house. Outside news is generally mailed but it is printed if something of importance occurs. Each reporter writes his own story, taking the who, what, how, when and why in the first paragraph. By putting the five 'w's' just mentioned in the first paragraph it saves time for the reader and the reporter does not have to read more than this if he wants to know only the main facts.

Type is made and set by the Linotype. Matrices are small pieces of brass each with a letter impressed on its edge. These are placed in a magazine, each in its place. The Linotype has a keyboard like that of a typewriter. When a key is pressed it causes a matrix to drop into a channel. They then fall onto a traveling belt and are carried to the assembler where it takes its place in line. The matrices are passed over head when a bar rises and carries the matrices to the distributor. By being released at a proper point they find their way to the magazine tubes. When they come out of the machine they are blocks of lead and if they are not the right length they are saved in two by an electric saw. They are then arranged in columns on a board just as one sheet of the newspaper would be.

In casting type the mats are ordered with the pictures impressed in them. This card is set between two iron plates in a machine and hot lead poured over them. When the lead has cooled the cuts which are made, are tacked on wooden blocks to make them the same height as the type.

The press is run by one man who puts the paper into the rollers. The type moves back and forth and is linked by rollers. As the type moves it touches the paper and prints four pages at once.

The papers are folded after they have been printed on the second side. The folding machine is set very close to the press and the papers, after they have been printed on both sides, run right into the folder, which folds them as fast as they come out of the press.

The papers are now ready for mailing. A subscription list is put on a hand machine. The rollers are turned by the thumb making the subscription list run over a roller covered with paste. When the rollers are at the end of the line the machine is pressed down and a knife cuts off one page at a time.

People who advertise have their names entered in the book which shows the number of inches and the cost of the space. The amount is then transferred to the ledger.

There are three men and one boy who work in the mechanical department. They run all the machinery. In the summer time one person is sent over the county to solicit subscriptions. He also gets new subscribers.

The Herald office also does a great deal of job printing. It prints stationery, bills, calling cards, ice cards and the like.

Advertising is a good way of getting the type known and it is easy to sell. The advertisements are planned on paper before they are made up with type.

The editorials are written by Mr. Huse. He selects topics which he thinks will interest the people. An editorial is usually an opinion of the writer and it tries to bring the interest of the people. A news story is different in that it is an account of something that happens.

The headings are to be spaced evenly and appropriate words are chosen to supply the headings.

In writing a news story, who, what, where, when and why are put in the first paragraph. This saves time for the reader. All the details are put in the following paragraphs. Human interest stories are stories which interest people but are not of special news value. Locals are briefs of the happenings of the day and the interest of the town. Proof-reading is the printing and correcting of the copy which has been set in type for the paper. The printed stories are placed with the copy to see that the two are the same. It is not the same the type is reset and corrected.

By Margaret Ahern
 I obtained the following information from my interesting visit to the printing office of the Wayne Herald. I first learned how news is obtained. Most news is obtained by telephone. The reporters in the various towns send their stories to the office about Monday or Tuesday. If anything important happens, after these letters are written, it is telephoned to the office by the reporter. Local news is telephoned also. There are about thirty clubs and organizations that are called each week. As I have spoken of reporters you would probably like to know how many there are. The Herald has about ten in different parts of the county and two in the town of Wayne.

was written and by whom news stories are given. Each reporter writes his own stories and then sends them into the office. He aims to have everything about the story in one, the first paragraph. The five 'w's', where, why, when, what and who, go into the first paragraph. This is necessary so that the reader does not have to read all of the article to find these five things.

most on my trip to the office was the way type is set and cast. A large machine called a Linotype type is used. The machine takes its name from the fact that it casts one line of type at a time.

"After the type is set it is taken to the press. Paper is run on rollers over the type upon which ink has been allowed to run. One type of the roller prints four pages. As the printed sheet comes out of the press it runs into the folding machine.

"The staff of the Herald office consists of six persons, one being a boy. The three men are the printer, the work and the other two are editor and associate editor.

"The names of the people who advertise are kept in the day book and ledger. The names of the subscribers are also in the day book when they renew their subscriptions.

"Proof reading is done by the editor and associate editor. All stories must be read over and corrected before going to the press.

"The following things about the making of a newspaper: The work is obtained from nearby towns and has local news obtained, as well as by whom, how and by whom stories are written; how type is set; how the press and folding machine work; how papers are made ready for mailing; how many papers are made up the staff and their positions; how jobs are kept; about proof reading and job-printing.

"It was about the most interesting trip I ever took.

By Marion Ahern

"The story of the making of one of our newspapers is an interesting subject upon which to write, using as our model the Wayne Herald, edited by Mr. Wm. Orr.

"First, the news for the paper is gathered. This is accomplished by sending out men or two reporters, and by telephoning. The reporters plan their news from all public places and organizations such as the court house, schools, churches, stores and clubs, besides other places.

In the clubs each has its own reporter who gives the news articles to the office writer. The office writer gets his copy ready to go out and get the rest. This is how most local news is obtained.

"There is outside news there are a number of letters and phone calls come to the office each day. These are sent by the reporter about the country, there being about ten of these. The county newspaper is by the county news generally comes in on Monday or Tuesday. If any change of insurance happens the county reporters will phone it to the office.

"The stories or articles are written up by the office reporters, after having called club reporters or others who have news.

"Next comes the setting of the type. This newspaper office uses linotype machines which are run by electricity. The type is set by one man at each machine.

"Cuts for the pictures in the paper are made by mats. A mat is a sort of heavy piece of paper like a card-board and on it are cut out the pictures. The hot lead is run over the mat and the pictures are then produced in relief on the lead.

"After this each piece of lead is packed on a wooden block. The mats are bought by the office in two shipments about once a month.

"Proof reading is another very interesting and important fact to be considered in the printing of our paper. Two persons take a column of news after it is set in type and read it with the copy. If correct it is then ready for the press. If not, the type is corrected and then is ready for the paper.

"The fourth and a point of great interest is the manner in which the machines are run. The linotype is a large machine run by electricity. One man sits at the front and runs it like a typewriter, that is, he passes the keys that make the letters. A large arm drops down every few seconds and picks up little metal pieces called matrices. These little pieces have been pressed into hot lead. This lead, having been stamped with the letters on the ends of the matrices, prints the letters and words on the paper in the printing press. After the type is set the paper goes to the printing press. The press is a machine run by electricity. It has large rollers on it and these are inked. The type is on a flat surface and the rollers take the ink and keep running over the type so that when the sheets of paper are rolled around on a large cylinder, the impression of the type is printed on the paper.

"After this comes the process of folding the papers. They are large, flat, printed sheets and as the papers come off of the press they run through one of the folding machines. Edging is generally done on Wednesday or Thursday, one section at a time.

"The next point of interest is the keeping of books. The men who have all the names of the men who advertise and others who do business with the office. Charges are made according to the number of inches of space taken in the paper.

"In the mechanical department are three men and one boy. The boy melts the lead and does other jobs. The men run all of the machinery.

"The Herald gains its large number of subscriptions by sending a person over the country in a car each summer.

"The headlines must all be measured exactly and set in their correct order. Advertisements are generally brought into the office by the customers themselves. All editorials are written by Mr. Wm. Orr. Short articles and upon any subject that he wishes and that will interest the people. In all good news articles there is one thing that should always, where, when and why, should always be included in the first paragraph.

"An interesting little red and pink strip of paper upon which are printed the names of the subscribers to whom the papers are to be mailed.

Declares Tanlac Put Him in Fine Condition After Long Siege of Flu.

"The Tanlac treatment has my feeling like a man made over, and I can't help humming and whistling these days over my new health and energy," says A. C. Wise, 3320 Madison St., Omaha, Neb.

"It was laid up twenty-eight days from the effects of the flu. There was clamped down tight on my appetite, and the sight of food actually nauseated me. In former days I was in fine fettle after a meal, but now the little ate caused indigestion, gas pains and palpitation that were simply awful. I used to nervous I couldn't sleep right, and so weak and dizzy I could hardly drag from one chair to another.

"Well, sir, all my ailments disappeared when I took Tanlac, and I went right up ten pounds in weight, and was soon able to return to work and start on the job. I feel fine all the time now, and heartily endorse Tanlac.

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold. m1712ad

Mrs. Mary Sylvanus Is Buried Tuesday

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Mary Sylvanus who died May 16 at her home in Red Oak, was held Tuesday last at the home and interment was made in the Wayne cemetery five miles west of Red Oak. Mrs. Sylvanus was 77 years and 3 months old at the time of her death. Her husband, Job Sylvanus, died just three years before Mrs. Sylvanus died. The funeral service was also held on the same date as that for the late Job Sylvanus. Mrs. Sylvanus leaves only one son and two grand children, Edwin Davis and Mrs. Spencer Jones of Carroll and Frank Davis of Wayne, are nephews and nieces of the late Mrs. Sylvanus. John Sylvanus of Wayne is a nephew also.

Mrs. Spencer Jones had been in Red Oak for about two weeks prior to her aunt's death. She returned home last Thursday. Spencer Jones, Mrs. Alfred Thomas, Mrs. Edna Davis and Mrs. Enos Davis drove back Wednesday of last week. Mrs. Sylvanus was known by a number of people in Red Oak. She visited here a number of times. Many who came here from Red Oak, Iowa knew her and would like to think much of her there.

Eighteen to Finish Local High School

This is commencement week for the eighteen seniors of the Carroll high school. Rev. F. M. Drulliner delivered the benediction at the class-Sunday evening, May 14, in the Methodist church. "Pursuit and Knowledge" was the subject of his sermon. Rev. Drulliner told of the superior advantages of students of today and expressed the hope that all would continue in educational fields, gaining more knowledge. He also told that the first and most essential step into pursuit of knowledge is to get the best of education and benediction and Rev. W. O. Jones read the scripture, Mrs. Marvin Jones and Homer-Linn sang a duet. The juniors of the high school had decorated the church in the senior colors of brown and yellow for the occasion. The church was crowded to capacity. The commencement address will be given this evening in the Methodist church by Edward H. Hays, cashier of the Carroll Citizens State bank. Diplomas will be presented the seniors and also the eighth grade graduates at these exercises.

Seniors Give Play On Tuesday Evening

"Stop, Thief," a three act comedy-drama, was presented Tuesday evening in the Jones hardware building by seniors of the high school. W. P. Canning had charge of the coaching. The scene of the play is in the Carr home where the marriage of Madge Carr and James Clancy is about to take place. Just before the ceremony a ruby ring which Madge's father has given her for a wedding gift, disappears. The minister comes and the wedding is postponed for a time, although in the endeavor to find the ring a new maid is hired in the meantime and a detective is hired. Other presents disappear. All have been taken by the maid and the detective who poses as her brother. They are not suspected. James Carr had, some years before, been a kleptomaniac and his wife thinks it is he who is taking the things. James Clancy had once been a kleptomaniac also and he thinks he is falling back to his old habits. The plot develops in a most funny and interesting way. All the presents are returned and the minister performs the ceremony. The play was the picture being Dr. Wiloughby and Joan Carr, the maid and Jack Doolan, Madge Carr, James Clancy, the priest, the characters was as follows: Joan Carr, Elma Carter; Mrs. Carr, Nellie Wingot; Caroline Carr, Mrs. Francis Neal, the maid; Eunice Drulliner; William Carr, the father; James Haines; James Clancy, husband-to-be of Madge Carr; Harry Mitchell; Madge Carr, Alice Garwood; Mrs. Jameson; Wade Carpenter; Dr. Wiloughby, Leslie Bennett; Rev. W. P. Canning; Paul Redmisch; Jack Doolan, Russell Jones; sergeant of police, John Ernest; police officer O'Malley, James Fredrickson; Police officer James Lawrence; T. J. Jones, Police Officer O'Brian, Lloyd Jones.

Our "Bone Dry" Waters. Our "Bone Dry" Waters. In its position on rim and shales, on high seas and territorial waters, the supreme court may have opened certain doors of trouble, but it has followed the undoubted spirit and intent of our liquor legislation. This legislation proposes to outlaw liquor.
