Harvester Company Makes a Statement

The Harvester Company's attitude regarding the petition filed against it by the government in the United States district court at St. Paul, Minn., is set forth in a statement issued by the president of the company, which has been received by Mr. E. Burko, Branch Manager of the International Harvester Company at Sioux City, Iowa.

This position is a continuation of the suit brought against us eleven years ago. Upon the hearing of that case, held more than nine years ago, the Harvester company was acquitted both by the findings of a court and the attorney general's admission, of any wrongful dealings or practices.

Educational Music

THE subject of music appreciation in the school through the use of the Victrola and Educational Records has commanded much attention of late and this subject is being presented by means of the Victrola this week at the Wayne State Teachers College by Miss Fannie R. Buchanan, an expert educational worker. We wish to help the busy teacher in making a selection of records best fitted to every grade beginning with the kindergarten where rhythm should be instilled into every child, as this is the lever which controls all of a child's musical experience and is the life of music. We find awkward and self-conscious adults which are the result of a childhood spent without rhythmical play. I believe it is just as important for every child to know the different types of rhythm as it is to know Poetry, Prose or Art. Music is the greatest single factor in educational processes and is an important factor in the history of the world's civilization.

Better music in the school will lead to better music in the homes, which undoubtedly will make better citizens.

The mere playing of music, be it ever so entertaining, is not necessarily educational. The idea of the Victrola and Educational Records in the schools is not simply for pleasure but to create in the child a desire for the better class of music which the grown older and wiser taste time and money if with the Victrola in the school we are not following out some definite plan for music appreciation work.

Endeavor Delegates In Big Convention

The following report of the twentieth international Christian Endeavor convention held at Des Moines, Iowa, came to Wayne Saturday afternoon via the train. A delegation from the Pina Indians in Arizona attended and a number of new members from the south-west were present. A program of unusual interest was carried out with perhaps the main attraction being Francis E. Clarke, pastor of the Christian Endeavor and president of the association, who addressed the delegates. Another prominent speaker was Rev. Lionel Fletcher of London, whose address was "The Christian Endeavor Union". Mr. W. B. Wheeler, general counselor for the Anti-Saloon League, also addressed the delegates. Rev. J. J. Kelly of Glasgow, Scotland, was another speaker of note.

The Farmer's Tax

The farmer does not base his complaint upon the loss of his land. His kick is directed against the injustice of maintaining land valuations, fixed during the war, when prices soared skyward. In practically no state, and particularly in Nebraska, there has been scant reduction from those record valuations fixed during the days of price inflation. Admittedly much of the land will not sell for the tax valuation placed upon it. Admittedly it will not produce crops with prevailing low prices for agricultural products, to net the farmer a living and pay the tax—yet say nothing of a return upon the investment which he must make. To reduce the valuations placed upon farm lands, and at the same time provide funds for running the public state governments, is a problem facing all state taxing boards.

Boys' and Girls' Clubs

Lincoln, Neb., July 13.—Leaders of boys' and girls' club demonstrations are taking hold of the demonstration phase of club work this year and making something out of it, Carl Jones, assistant state agent in boys' and girls' club demonstration work, says. At least one demonstration must be given locally by each club before it finishes its work. Assistance is given to local leadership by leaders' conferences and by direct instruction to the club members from state agents. Many a youngster will learn to talk to a crowd this summer and several leaders will profit by the experience they are getting in this phase of the work; say the extension program in charge. Mr. Jones is assisting with the pig, calf and rope club

Wearing crepe is getting out of fashion. One may better show that he has been burnished touched by pleasure by reflecting a soul that has been burned and exalted in the crucible of sorrow and pain.

It is suggested that people can make enough noise with their automobiles without turning loose their cut-outs. And we think there is an ordinance against using their cut-outs now. If not, there ought to be one.

The three Wayne banks made a wonderfully prosperous showing in statements published last week. The total deposits reflect the financial good health of the community. The statements told a story of growth and towering strength. Each is stimulating and encouraging.

The new law regulating marriages will go into effect soon. Contracting parties will be required to give affidavits, and the county judge will be authorized to receive the affidavits. This is a simple process to which no one should object. The law may not help much in gaining its real purpose, but it will do no harm.

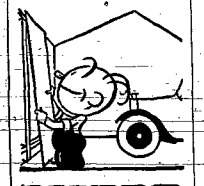

The State-Teachers College will commence classes next week. It has had the largest attendance in its history, and the students have been uniformly well behaved and industrious. The city is gratified by the presence of these student groups of intelligent and ambitious young people, and when they leave, they will be distinctly missed.

Senator Brookhart of Iowa, who has just returned from a tour of Europe, is quoted as saying that "Russia is the most stable government in the world next to the United States." We are glad he did not put Russia first. His eyes are open in Europe, including Russia. There we don't need to worry about starvation abroad. That will be a consoling thought.

Someone says we should work to "avoid pain" rather than to gain pleasure. If a man works like a Trojan to pay an obligation and succeeds, he escapes pain. If he is soothed by assurance that he will not be harassed by the man he owes. If he pays an obligation and escapes pain and comes back to find pressing obligations that he cannot meet, he gains passing pleasure, but he does not avoid pain. Is that the idea?

News dispatches tell of a man right from Norway who while kneeling in prayer in the railway station at St. Paul, was taken in charge by the police in the belief that he was insane. But after prayer he would not be considered proof of mental disorder, especially in St. Paul, named after the apostle. But in traveling, evidently people ple should be careful not to pray so that policemen can hear them. Instead, to be understood by modern writers of letters and get along well with them, they should seek to talk intelligently of the late Willard-Parro prize fight.

Members of the I. W. W. of California whose chief aim in life seems to be to cripple industry, prevent employment and upset an outrage social regularity, have been made the objects of a special court order, designed to drive such undesirable out of the state if possible. They won't work themselves, and whatever energy they possess is directed against those who want to work against industries that would give employment.

Why don't more people meet the high prices for ham and bacon, as contrasted with prices for live hogs, by doing their own slaughtering and curing? The pig market goes down, the smoked meat market goes up. Let the answer to this incongruous situation be a smokehouse on every farm with products adequate to the demands of both farm and urban populations. Will we ever get back to a sound basis of equal and consistent values until we get back to some of the practical and economical methods that were necessarily employed by the early settlers? Nothing is more appalling than home-made meats. Then why don't we have them? Will some one tell us?

Many Wayne people believe this town ought to have a swimming pool, and it has been suggested that a certain lot near the Bresler opera would be a suitable location for it. The money for the purpose would have to be secured by popular subscription or by laying the required amount out of the municipal treasury. The city council could finance the enterprise by drawing on the revenues of the electric light plant. Golf, hand, Lyons and other towns have modern swimming pools which attract people from near and far. It is pointed out that building is a healthy and desirable occupation, and that Wayne people should not have to go forty or fifty miles to enjoy the experience.

A tramp printer blew in from nowhere in particular last Friday, and inquired about work. He said he had traveled over many states, but could find nothing to do. He did not press us for a job, but accepted a cash contribution with facility that had traveled over many states, and had more to make on Friday, and went to bed. While he did not urge himself on us, he manifested an interest in going away to work somewhere else. He gave his age as 70, and said he had been traveling for forty years—some length of time it took the children of Israel to go from Egypt to the land of Canaan. While the Israelites finally got somewhere, this itinerant printer is still traveling with no prospect of ever getting anywhere to stay. It is evident that his talk about yearning for work is superficial and insincere, and is used to magnifying charity and secure a boon from one place to another. He kicks about conditions, but it is likely in "the good" years of his life he never knowingly returned what to any one dollar he ever received.

Magnus Johnson, a so-called radical, was elected United States senator from Minnesota at the special election Tuesday to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Knute Nelson. Johnson defeated Governor J. A. O. Preuss, republican, and James A. Carley, democrat. A Minnesota report states that Johnson does not heed even the best books but is reported for favoring of Abraham Lincoln that he often, in his speeches, did him the honor of quoting him. Johnson is at one time a great blow and it was this experience, so it is told, that developed for him the strongest lungs and most powerful voice except when he belted forth a time in the timber camps of Minnesota, and a permanent lump on his neck, made by carrying lumber, was pointed out during the last campaign as an important qualification for the senatorship. His election is a distinct triumph for the radical movement in Minnesota, and was no doubt aided by the declining price for wheat which is Minnesota's chief crop.

That is the contention of the Merchants Electric Company in an appeal filed yesterday in the supreme court from a judgment secured against it by Larry Lytle in the sum of $50.00. The electric company is the Republican river south of McCook, when he came in contact with a freshly charged wire of the electric company. He was rendered unconscious, but a companion saved him. He was successful in his suit for damages. The defendant company claims the damage awarded are not only excessive, but that Lytle, not owning the land along the river was a trespasser.

Result of Minnesota's Election Explained

Washington, July 18.—Commenting on the election to the senate yesterday of Magnus Johnson, farmer-labor candidate, Chairman Adams of the Republican national committee in a statement last night declared that "in a general way, the result in Minnesota was a voice of protest against conditions temporarily affecting the farming interests adversely."

Agricultural conditions are bound to improve, he said, adding that the American farmer "can be depended on in the long run to support the cause of good government, sound economic and stable institutions."

Chairman Hull of the Democratic national committee, also took occasion last night to discuss the result, declaring that it constituted a general condemnation of dominant Republican national leadership since 1919—a leadership that has resulted in the affairs of the nation and of the world drifting aimlessly along, while our domestic business conditions are "temporarily unsteady and uncertain."

Johnson to Run Again.
St. Paul, Minn., July 18.—With the United States senatorial situation settled until the 1924 fall election, interest of political observers was turning today to probable developments when the six-year senatorship is up for determination.

Magnus Johnson, farmer-laborer, chosen in Monday's special election of a plurality of more than 80,000 will serve through the unexpired term of the late Senator Knute Nelson, which ends in March, 1925.

His friends declare it a natural conclusion to assume that he will seek the six year term.

Gov. J. A. O. Preuss, Republican, who met his first political defeat at the hands of Johnson Monday, continued silent today.

Senator-elect Johnson was back home on his farm at Kimball, Minn., Washington, July 17.—Election of Magnus Johnson as a senator from Minnesota leaves the Republicans with a nominal majority of five in the senate.

As the roster now stands there are fifty Republican forty-three Democrats, and two farmer-labor. There is a vacancy for Vermont, due to the death of Senator Billingsham, and the general expectation here is that a Republican will be appointed by Vermont's governor.

Even with a majority of six, however, Republican control of the senate occasionally is holding in line a sufficient strength to put through an administration measure.

Senator-elect Johnson as Senators La Follette, Wisconsin; Brookhart, Iowa;razier and Lead, North Dakota; Norris, Nebraska; and Fisher, Johnson, California; and others who have parted company with their party leaders on various questions of foreign and domestic policy—all of them, however, are counted on to vote with the Republicans in organizing the new senate, insuring Republican control of committees.

shown in recently compiled figures which disclose that 80 percent of the motor trucks in service in the United States are on one or two axle trucks and indications are that this high ratio will be materially increased during the present year. The growth comes during the past several years during which the one-ton truck jumped from 48 percent to the 80 percent mark.
Registration figures as of December 1, 1922, showed the total number of commercial cars and trucks in use in the United States to be in excess of 1,300,000 of which fifty-one percent were Ford.
The turn to the use of the one-ton truck for delivery and hauling purposes came quickly. Business firms who a few years back looked to the larger trucks because of their load carrying appeal soon discovered that delivery systems could be more easily adapted to the one-ton truck at less investment and at the same time would afford more load moving units with increased efficiency and constant activity at the loading station.
Delivery systems were adapted to provide a variety of ranges so that each truck carried an average load over a maximum portion of its route and the economy of these frequent trips soon became apparent. 1921

Fairbury Editor On His Trip To Wayne

Law Shelles in Fairbury News: On Friday and Saturday of last week a couple of News representatives made a drive up into the northern part of Nebraska on a business mission. But business did not occupy our minds to the exclusion of everything else, for a drive through Nebraska at this season of the year affords a panorama of splendor that is irresistible.

Harvest was in full sway and the fields of Nebraska, on an average, presented as promising an appearance as any we have ever seen in the state. The corn, while in some instances a trifle backward, was an excellent stand and had a rich dark green color that indicated that it was in a perfect condition up to this time and with a few more timely rains cannot fail to yield an abundant harvest. Everywhere the conditions were most promising and the people are in excellent spirits.

Through the counties of Saline, Seward, Butler, Colfax, Stanton and Wayne we noticed a marked improvement in the stock of all kinds. The cattle and hogs especially were to a very large extent thoroughbreds or high grade stuff, and this condition explains most of the hearty food chickens around each farm home were generally all of one color indicating that care had been taken to keep the strain.

The farming is being done better in every particular, and there were abundant evidences of thrift, prosperity and renewed hope in the future. We saw very few fields of listed corn. Most of it was checked, well cultivated and free from weeds. The pastures were green and as good as we have ever seen in Nebraska.

We did not see as good a town as Fairbury, but—

We entered the little city of Seward on having that extended clear to the city limits in both directions. The town of David City had its business square and all its important residence streets paved.

In Wayne, a prosperous little city, although only about half the size of Fairbury, we found an miles of good brick-paving and the inhabitants clamoring for more.

Several other cities of less than a thousand inhabitants were paved.

But—these were some of the observations of our trip that we dislike to dwell upon lest they excite injudicious comparisons.

Up in Wayne, Nebraska, we were royally entertained by Editor Huse who is building up one of the foremost country weekly newspapers in this section of the west. This paper is a marvel of typographic perfection and is especially artistic in its mechanical make-up; but the feature that naturally first attracts the newspaper man is the extent of its advertising patronage. The demand on its space is so great that for several years the paper has not gotten out an issue of less than sixteen pages. And this, too, is an extremely small country and a city half the size of Fairbury.

This called for another comparson that naturally appealed with considerable force to the visiting newspaper man.

"The wonderful improvement in the road conditions is always remarked by the individual who has occasion to travel here. While we are traveling over very little road paving on the trip, and saw no surfaced roads at all, the entire journey was made over good dirt roads as can be found anywhere, and as one who has done considerable driving during the past year, we do not hesitate to say that Nebraska has better dirt roads than any state in the union of which we have any knowledge."

Hold Rally Friday at Methodist Church

The Epworth Leagues of Wayne, Wakefield, Carroll and Dixon met at the local Methodist church last Friday evening for a social time and a rally for the second annual Epworth League institute of the Norfolk district to be held August 13 to 20 at the Norfolk camping grounds. About twenty-five from Wakefield, twelve from Carroll and four from Dixon were present besides the local members. Rev. C. F. Hahn of Dixon gave the address of the evening. Games and exercises followed.

The institute, it is thought, will be attended by about 300 Epworth League workers who will spend the week camping, studying and having a good time. This will follow the State Epworth assembly which will be held at Epworth Lake Park in Lincoln August 2 to 12. "Training, inspiration, fellowship and recreation" are the aims of the League gatherings each summer.

The executive board of the Norfolk district organization includes: Manager and president, Rev. C. F. Hahn of Dixon; treasurer, Lyle Burdick of Norfolk; registrar, Miss Harriet Stewart of Randolph; dean, Rev. John Grant Shick of Wayne; dean of women, Mrs. S. A. Draise of Pierce; life work secretary, Rev. L. A. Carmony of Randolph; and committee in charge, Rev. O. A. Hinson and Rev. E. D. Hull of Norfolk and Rev. W. G. Sanders of Stanton.

Living up to One's Name.
Lincoln Evening Journal.—Some men find it easy to live up to their names. Styvesant Fiat, who left an estate of two and a half millions, recited in his will: "Having observed and always believed charitable bequests afford the testator a means of gratifying his vanity at the expense of his heirs, I make none." Vanity consists also in being different from other people and being proud of it. The sentence quoted is as big a piece of vanity as any bequest-studded will could display. Any man who may be allowed by society to get together two or three half million dollars ought to feel obligated to help carry some of the burdens of society.

Unlucky Europe.
Louisville Courier-Journal.—Senator Ashurst says he will not tell Europe what she ought to do. Well, Europe would have to worry along without the advice.

It can be seen at a glance that the 110,000,000 people living in the 48 states and the hundreds of cities and rural districts require vast amounts of goods every day of the year.

Four days and four nights were spent seeing part of Chicago, the most interesting places being Lincoln and Riverview parks, Art Institute, Field museum, Chicago and State Lake theatres, stockyards, Boston Store, etc.

On the return home relatives and friends were visited at Woodhull, New Windsor, Galva, (where the Fourth was spent) Galesburg, Geneseo, Warner, Rock Island (where the largest arsenal in the world is located).

Last, but not least, not one minute delay was caused by the car until two and a half miles of snow where some delay was caused by the mud.

It is fine to own automobiles, and one should do so as he needs and can afford them, but he should first own his home. An automobile often is a necessity as it frequently is a most desirable luxury. But in any event, it should follow substantial building improvements which, unlike passing luxury, increase property values as well as establish independence and insure greater comfort.

We put a ton of emphasis on quality and service, and we will be pleased to furnish plans and quote prices and otherwise cooperate in furtherance of any contemplated improvement, no matter how large or how small.
