Notice of Summons.

Jacob Koch, defendant, will take notice on the 3rd day of July, 1923, D. D. Tobias, plaintiff herein, filed his petition in the Court of Wayne county, Nebraska, and on the 4th day of August, 1923, filed his amended petition in the discovery court of said county, Nebraska, against said defendant Jacob Koch, (impleaded with James Clark Leitch Company, a corporation) as defendant for the purpose and prayer of which are to foreclose a certain mortgage executed by defendant Jacob Koch, to the plaintiff upon Lot six (6), Block four (4), Original Town of Wayne, Wayne county, Nebraska, to secure the payment of one certain promissory note executed on December 30, 1920, for the sum of $1500.00, due and payable July 22, 1923. That said note and mortgage provide that a failure to pay the interest on said note, at the time the same becomes due, or a failure of said defendant Jacob Koch, to pay the taxes upon said real estate at or before the time the same become by law delinquent, causes the whole sum of said note,
together with the interest thereon, to become due. Plaintiff alleges that said defendant Jacob Koch has failed, neglected and refused to pay the interest on said note becoming due on the 30th day of December, 1922, and has failed, neglected and refused to pay the real estate taxes becoming delinquent on said real estate May 1, 1922, and May 1, 1923. And that by reason thereof the whole sum of said sum of money, to-wit:
$1500.00, and the interest thereon is now due. For writ return, with interest, plaintiff prays for decree that the defendant be required to pay the same, or that said premises may be sold to satisfy the amount found due thereon. You are required to answer said petition on or before Monday, the 17th day of September, 1923.
Dated August 8, 1923.

Difference In Ways Of Eastern Cities

Selinsgrove, Pa., Aug. 17, 1923.—One notable fact about eastern cities impressing a visitor is distinction or difference between these places that are preserving the past and those that are keeping up with modern improvements. Toledo, Washington, Buffalo and Chicago, for instance, have all the latest improvements. Alexandria, Va., the fourth oldest city in this country, together with others. We meet, however, the past. A visitor feels the different atmospheres quite easily.

Arrival in Toledo, Ohio, at once made us feel towels and a hurry of a modern business center. Located on Lake Erie and being on the east and west high-traffic line here to make it. We were met here by Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Fisher of Portage.

On leaving Toledo we were surprised to be stopped by a man who asked if we had any ears of corn. On reply that we did not we were "allowed" to leave the city—Dr. Fisher explained that Ohio law forbids the corn-borer from being brought into the state. Any corn people attempt to bring into the state is confiscated and burned by these men.

Residences in Toledo are beautiful. Many of the business men live a distance out on the paved highways and enjoy the country after their busy days in the city. One business man has a chicken farm in connection with his suburban home and all these birds are served by him at dinners at his home. From the number of chickens about the place one would judge he entertains often.

Many of the city men have homes along the banks of the Maumee river which winds through the country.

At one point near the Maumee is a rock about six feet long and three feet high called Turkey Foot rock. It is so named because of marks on it in the shape of turkey feet. This rock marks the meeting place of the Indians of the northwest and it was here, in the Maumee valley, that Anthony Wayne, with 3,000 soldiers, defeated these Indians in 1794. Nearby is a large elm tree overlooking the river and from this the Indians used to direct some of the which was across the river. These and other historical spots make the events in the history of this country seem more real and interesting.

The loading of coal into steam ships, the unloading of iron from ships, and the large parks were other interesting sights in Toledo. Car loads of coal are lifted and emptied into the ships just as quickly as one would shovel out of a car a small amount. Each car is lifted on some sort of a derrick and emptied. Freight on the ships is less expensive than on land so the coal from the east is much of it loaded at Toledo and sent up the lakes. Iron ore from Lake Superior region comes to Toledo for use in the many manufacturing establishments there.

Trip on Lake Erie.

A steam ship ride on Lake Erie to Put-in-Bay was one of the enjoyable features of our recent trip. The boat left Toledo, Ohio, for the island, about sixty miles out in the lake. The ship, which makes the trip each day for excursionists during the summer, was of about 700 tons capacity and on this particular day it had 400 people made the trip. An orchestra furnished music for dancing for those who preferred this pastime to sitting on the decks and watching the other ships, the light houses and the waves. Put-in-Bay, being a convenient distance from the city, is a popular resort for organizations having picnics. On this day the retail store at Toledo went on an excursion to the bay and had a jolly time. Most of the island at Put-in-Bay is an amusement place, resembling a carnival. All kinds of concessions are provided. It is here that a monument has been erected to Commodore Perry who won the lake battle in 1813. The monument is a round structure of stone, 352 feet high, and was built in 1913. Within its walls lie the bodies of three English and three American sailors. People live on the island all the year and farm the land but the "excursion crop" is their main source of revenue.

Scenery in the East.

Leaving Ohio August 10, we went to Niagara Falls, back to Indiana, Penna., to Washington, D. C., then to eastern Pennsylvania and back to Chicago and Des Moines by way of Buffalo. Traveling through the various states one is impressed with the differences in the scenery. The country itself did not look extremely different from Nebraska until we reached Pennsylvania and here we saw the beautiful Allegheny mountains covered with trees. The ride from Harrisburg Pa., to Buffalo was the most attractive on the journey. The railroad followed the valley of a river, not a "large" one, which wound its way through the hills. In some places the bed of rocks in the river was the brightest orange and the water was so clear that it appeared to be but a few inches deep. The mountains are completely covered with trees, many of them hard wood and pine. Hillsides that had been cleared were either replanted with fruit trees or were reforested by trees given by the government. Land that was not covered with trees and which was not too steep, was planted to grain.

This grain, however, looked by no means as thrifty as it does farther west. The fruit trees, peaches and apples mainly, were in most cases so heavily loaded that they were propped on all sides. One wonders what the farmers here live on. Those who live along the paved roads get most of their livelihood from travelers whom they lodge and some from the small amount from the crops. It is easy to distinguish the farms-homes from the summer homes of the city people who come to the mountains for recreation. These latter places are large houses hidden in the timber on the mountain side usually. It happened to be close to the week-end each time we went through the mountains and many men were coming from the cities to these country homes to spend a day or two hunting and in other recreation.

A Pennsylvania Town.

All towns of any size in Pennsylvania seem to have either a college or a manufacturing plant or to be mining centers. Indiana, Pa., near Pittsburgh, in which we visited, is a typical mining center. The coal mines are located nearby and the miners live in small villages near them. The mine owners and other business men largely control the population of Indiana, the county seat and a prosperous city of about 12,000. The wealthiest people of the city live on a high which they have named "Venezia Hill." One mine owner stated that he received $2.00 for a ton of soft coal but that his profit is $1 an ton. Coal is sold there in Indiana at about the same price as it is here in the middle west. One mine in this district produces coal at a cost of a day, this being the world record for quantity. This means about 70 carloads each day. The mines help to swell the volume of freight so that one-tenth of the freight of the country passes over the railroads of this region.

Stone quarries, oil wells and coke ovens—are also part of the scenery in Pennsylvania. The coke ovens resemble a long brick wall about ten feet wide and 100 feet high. The tops, soft coal is burned in them and the carbon is removed, making coke, which is used in high-temperature work such as melting iron. The ovens burning at night make a beautiful sight. One of the deepest oil wells in the country is located near Indiana. It is 5,000 feet beneath the surface. Some of the stone from the quarries is used on the roads. The highways leading over the mountains are paved or gravelled and the automobile travel is heavy all of the time. There are numerous inns and summer resorts along the roads. The afternoon we drove among the mountains the cars from Pittsburgh especially were numerous. A storm came up when we were at the top of the mountains and everyone sought shelter in the inns. After the heavy rain travel was resumed in the usual quantity.

Fat Family Reunion.

In Selins Grove, Penna., we attended the Fisher family reunion which is an annual get-together of relatives from far and near who are descendants of one of the early settlers. This reunion, like those of other families in the east, is one of the important happenings of the year, especially for those who have lived in the vicinity for some time. All whose names appear on the branches of the family tree which is displayed each year, meet in the park for dinner, program and entertainment. The attendance ranges from about 200 to 600 relatives. This year the Fisher reunion was attended by about 350. Besides this gathering there were three other reunions at the park the same day. It is most interesting for a large group to meet and try to figure out who is first, second or third cousin or perhaps a cousin's brother-in-law.

Fat is not used to it. This is a real problem in mathematics. The "Dutch" cousins are all right and they entertain royally. One has to be most careful directing remarks for scarcely a person in the country is not related to him. One of the most essential requirements for one attending this reunion is that he be able to eat a great deal for they figure, as one at the Fisher reunion stated, that "the dinner is the most important part of the day." To us, however, the family tree was the interesting feature.

The little town of Selins Grove is an interesting example of most of the older east towns. The town of about 2,000 seems small in comparison to other places because so many of the cities in the east are much larger. The site of the city is about six miles south of Sunbury on the Susquehanna river. Part of the town is built on the Isle of Oke in which the Fisher family owned in the early days, having traded a gun to the Indians for the land. In the days of the trade the gun was more valuable than the land. An Indian visited over night with the Fisher family in the early times and when he arose in the morning he said he had dreamed the "white man gave him his gun." To avoid any trouble the white men always did what the Indians dreamed. The Mr. Fisher the following morning had a dream the Indian gave him the island and he did so. The land is shaped like the letter Q and from this it got its name. The members of the family still farm a large part of the island. The country around here contains relics of history, especially incidents in the history of the Indians. Monuments have been erected to mark these spots. At one place one can look across the Susquehanna river and see the profile of an Indian's face on the side of the mountain. The outline is distinct and reminds one of the story of the "Old Stone Face."

Homes in Selins Grove, as well as other of the older places, are built right up to the sidewalk and in case there is a porch it often extends over the walk. A large yard is rarely seen, in fact one used to be considered wasteful to have a large yard. Most of the homes of the older type are very large and have shutters at the windows. There are so many old homes and business houses in these eastern towns that they detract somewhat from the general appearance unless they are kept up well. In many instances the old places are renovated and for this reason they are allowed to remain.

Vineyards and Forests.

Going from Pennsylvania to New York one notices that grapes predominate among the farm products. The grape juice factories are located here and the grapes are raised close at hand.

All through this country reforestation is progressing. The government provides trees. These are (Continued on page six.)

City of Washington, D. C.
Washington, D. C., is the most attractive city we visited and it should naturally be so. On the train one enters the large union station which is an artistic building and a busy place as one will realize when he knows that thirty-five trains either come into or leave this station each five minutes throughout the day. At night the streets have no wires overhead, even the electricity for the street cars being provided from beneath the ground. This gives the city a clean appearance. A description of the beauties of the city is impossible because every effort is put forth in making every street and building attractive. No pictures can exaggerate the attractiveness of the capital city. The capitol building with all of its decorated interior and the White House, the Congressional library with its vast collection of books, the Pan-American building with its plants and other exhibits from both Americas, the building in which currency and stamps are made, the museum in which are Theodore Roosevelt's collections from Africa as well as numerous other relics of interest, the Washington and Lincoln memorials, and many other buildings are sights that cannot be described in words. Mount Vernon on the Potomac river, is another of these interesting places. The home itself is really more attractive than any picture one can make it.

Viewing Niagara Falls.
Niagara Falls cannot be given justice in writing. One must see the falls and the immense volume of water, see and feel the water spray coming from the falls, see the beautiful bright rainbow colors of the spray, and take the sight from both the American and Canadian sides to become fascinated with the fall. We went to these various places at Niagara Falls with four others, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson of Chicago, the former president of the Gurlurson Piano company of this city, and a young student who spent several years in Europe studying and giving concerts, and Mr. and Mrs. Egolf of St. Paul, Minn. We had dinner in Canada and were pleased with the politeness and the desire to serve displayed at the English Inn, Dorothy House.

Mr. Alice Macanley Christmas of near Hoskins, died Sept. 1, 1923, after an illness of some time. Funeral service was held at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. Bell.

Harry Lucky, formerly of Wayne, and Miss Blanch Perrin were married August 23, 1923 in Norfolk. They will live in Anakee where Lucky has charge of the railroad station.
William Thies suffered a fractured arm and rib while driving a wagon in an attempt to reach the brake on the vehicle. He was driving home with a load of brick when the accident happened.

From Ponca Journal, Sept. 8, 1923:
The best brick western country, laymen are a rarity. Occasionally one drifts in and hangs on until circumstances drives him along to some other place. This was the case by the name of McPeck who moved into town last spring. He was so infernally lazy that his wife had to wash him to buy him a comb for him. While his wife washed, he granted and slept, yet he was stout and healthy, and but for his shiftlessness could have earned a good living.

One day last week his wife was washing as usual, and as usual there was no provision in the house, and no expectation of any till the washing was done and paid for. However, there were a few cents which the woman had earned and was saving for a special purpose, and McPeck, finding it, went out and bought some bologna and crackers and came home and had a good feast. He would not give his wife any of it and the little there was left after he had filled himself, he locked up and then laid himself down for a comfortable snooze to the music of his wife's knuckles on the washboard.

That evening Mrs. McPeck, exasperated and half-starved, was moved to relate this incident to one of the neighbors. The next morning when McPeck rose and slouched out the door to stretch himself, he found a letter signed "Mary Citizens" which stated to him that he must within twenty-four hours go to work or leave town, and that if he did not do so, he would be treated to a thorough coat of tar and feathers and a ride on a rail. Whereupon, that very morning, McPeck said, "Oh, he won't want a part of the knuckle." In his haste he forgot to take his wife, who on the same day, rejoicing no doubt, that she would no longer be compelled to support her lazy loafer of husband, picked up her duds and left for another part of the state to live with a daughter.

Legal Notice.
To John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance company, non-resident defendant:

Notice is hereby given that on the 12th day of July, 1922, First Trust company of Omaha, filed its answer and cross petition in the district court of Wayne county, Nebraska, in an action pending in said court, wherein Evan Evans was plaintiff, and said First Trust company of Omaha, Nebraska, was defendant, and in which said company, a dissolved corporation, James J. # Spreaders and Wagons

ONE of the supreme essentials to successful farming is use of spreaders, as all farmers well know, and a good spreader saves time and annoyance and therefore saves money. We have selected the kinds we offer with particular reference to service and economy. We have the McCormick and Deering and Great Western, and people who have used them are uniformly pleased. The best is none too good for the busy farmer, and the spreaders we sell will rank at the top.

We also carry the justly celebrated farm wagons, the Weber and Columbus, both manufactured by the I. H. C. company. When you come to figure on a wagon let us show you one of these.

As to repairs, we have them for all makes of machines.

Are Showing the New Fall Goods

The purchases we made on our recent eastern buying trip are here for your selection.

These goods were selected personally by four of our salesforce who went east to observe at first hand just what the correct styles are to be this season and to buy goods that would dress our customers in these most approved fashions.

The same styles that women will wear in the Eastern Fashion centers are here for you. If you are one of those who always like "first choice" of the new goods now is the time to come. If however, you are not ready to buy—come anyway. A look at these new goods will give you many ideas for your fall costumes and we would like to have you see how well prepared we are to serve you when your buying time does come.

The Right Goods at the Right Prices

Our community is mostly made up of folks who want and appreciate nice things which they can buy at a fair, moderate price. We buy merchandise to fulfill these needs and leave the cheap unsatisfactory merchandise and the high priced extravagant goods alone.

We are prepared to serve those who want style and value at a moderate price.

Dress Goods and Silks

Are Here

In the Correct Weaves and Colors

We have all the materials for carrying out those of the new styles which are most practical for our climate.

Poiret twills, wool crepes and French serges are most favored for worsted dresses while satin and canton crepe are most used for dressier gowns.

Special weave fancy silks are here for making into the popular jacquettes and hip blouses. The children's garments are provided for by sturdy woolen dress materials and cloakings.

Trimmings to add the necessary finishing style touch are here in great variety. Our salesladies will be glad to help you with suggestions for making up these materials in correct styles. They can inform you correctly about the weaves, colors and trimmings considered best for fall.

For the woman who sews we have made careful and complete preparations.

Fall Styles

For street, for dress, for sport or walking wear the shoes you require are here in the latest styles and best quality.

Suedes in the new shades of wood brown—suede and calf combinations—satins and patents are all in favor and we have them for you.

Anyone who appreciates beauty, combined with perfect comfort and fit and long wear in an oxford should have a pair of Arnold's Glove Grip oxfords. Teachers in particular should be interested in this shoe. One of our teachers requested us to fit her another pair of those oxfords Monday. She remarked that her last pair wore just a year and that she had enjoyed comfort and good appearance in them all the time.

Come while you have almost 300 fine garments to select from.

In addition to our own stock you can choose from the hundreds of fine garments we have bought for our out-to-town sales if you come now.

You are sure to find a dress to fit and please you among the 125 fine styles that are here. Your coat can be selected from 150 beautiful garments most of which are handsomely fur trimmed.

The moderate prices are a big attraction as we sell ready-to-wear much below regular prices.

Come now for first and best choice.

Come Now for These Blanket Bargains

Our traveler's sample blankets which we sell at one-third below regular prices now on sale. So many people watch for this special offering each year that you will do well to come soon if you want to share in these unusual bargains. Last year we did not have near enough of these samples to go round.

The traveling salesman for the Fairwell Co. of Chicago, carried these blankets to try this summer to show their merchant customers and take orders. These samples get a little roughed up on the edges from packing so the firm does not want to put them back in stock and ship them out on orders as new blankets. Instead they sell them as samples at one-third off the regular price. We sell them to you at the same reduction. They are better than ordinary blankets because the best are always selected for samples. You will do well to supply your blanket needs from these unusual bargains.

Of Special Interest to Teachers

Every year teachers whose school work is in the largest cities of the state, buy from us their dresses and coats before leaving for their schools. They have found that the prices here are much below retail and the styles are not excelled anywhere.

Before you leave come and see what a wonderful variety of coats and dresses you can choose from here. Over three hundred fine garments are now ready for your selection in styles that were brought out by the best makers in New York, Cleveland and Chicago. You will be much pleased with the saving in price. You are welcome to credit.

Dress Trimmings From Style Headquarters.

To buy our stock we went to the leading dress-trimming house in Chicago. They furnish trimmings for the fine dress and suit makers of the city and we selected the very styles in braids, beaded and silk ornaments, metal all overs, and imported silk laces which you will see on the fine ready-to-wear garments. A touch of just the right trimming on the dress you make at home determines the success of its style. You will find what you need here in large variety.

Get Our Prices on Sheetings and Linens

We have some agreeable surprises for you in the prices of muslins, wide sheetings, pillow tubings and towel linens. We got some special price concessions on these goods that will please you.

School Middies

Get the girls and misses middies. Nothing is more satisfactory. Here you will find them in white, white with blue flannel collars and in scarlet, brown and green flannel. The prices are lower than usual.

Comfort Challies in New Designs

The woman who takes particular pride in the pattern and color of her comfort covers will appreciate this especially nice assortment of new designs in challies. The new stock of battis is here in both cotton and wool and in all sizes both quilted and plain. The prices on these comfort materials will please you, too.

Carefully Selected Patterns in Gingham and Percales

We were just as particular in choosing the patterns in these every day dress materials as in anything we bought. We went through the stocks in three large wholesale houses to select the styles we thought would please our customers best.

It's Time to Start Christmas Needlework

We were successful in finding stamped needlework pieces that are out of the ordinary in designs and ideas. We bought some finished pieces to show just how you can get the most artistic color effects. Come and select before the assortment is broken. D. M. C. threads of which we carry a large stock are used in finishing all these needlework pieces.

We Carry McCall Patterns in Stock

The pattern you choose is here ready for you. Mail orders filled by return post. The McCall pattern we direct, instructions printed on every piece is the safest easiest pattern made to cut by. Over 350 styles are shown in their fall book. Fashion sheets are yours for the asking.

West's are Best in Hair Nets

We take pride in searching for the best in every line of goods we handle. We learned that West's hair nets excel all others and we bought these for our stock. This week a young lady bought such a quantity of them that we were anxious to know the reason. She explained by saying she was going away to teach and was afraid she could not get them where she was going. They are fine, they are large, they fit and they wear. All colors, both single and double mesh always on hand. Mail orders filled promptly. Prices the same as ordinary nets.

Visit the Remnant Counter

To make room on the shelves for the new goods we have just gone through stock and taken out every piece of percale, gingham, muslin, sheeting, toweling and curtain material that was a short length and put them on the remnant counter at a big cut in price.

Many excellent materials can be found there in lengths which will just fulfill your fall sewing requirements and the saving is well worth while.

Young people's meeting at 7 p. m. A conference and "singing" meeting. God sent his singers upon earth with songs of sadness and of faith. That they might touch the hearts of men and bring them back to heaven again.

Evening service at 8 o'clock. Preceding the sermon the pastor will give news and echoes of the North-eastern Baptist association held at Tilden last week.

The Women's Missionary circle gave a luncheon at Bressler park on Friday afternoon. About forty members and their friends were present. The event marked the successful termination of the contest which began in May. Mrs. E. M. Ovington of Grand Island, was the guest of honor. Mrs. Ovington gave an interesting talk on the work of the West Central district and of the companion reports at Atlantic City. The local society has attained the standard of efficiency and the honor roll, having made thirteen points—the highest of any society in the association. They will send in the near future a missionary box to one of the Baptist schools in the Philippines.

Order. In the District Court of Wayne county, Nebraska. The state of Nebraska, ex rel. Clarence A. Davis, attorney general Plaintiff, vs. Wayne County Bank, Sholes, Nebraska, Defendant.

Now on this 25th day of August, 1923, it being a regular day of the April, 1923, term of this court, this cause came on for hearing upon the petition of B. N. Saunders, receiver of Wayne County bank, Sholes, Nebraska, filed herein on August 25th, 1923, alleging among other things, that all claims for deposits filed and allowed against said trust, have been paid in full, and that the assets of this receivership are insufficient to reimburse the depositors' guarantee fund for the sum withdrawn therefrom and from the payment of claims allowed for deposits and alleging that it is the desire of the department of trade and commerce, and in receiver's opinion, for the best interests of this trust, that the assets of this trust be sold, and praying authority from the court to sell such assets and further praying that on the sale of the same that receiver's accounts be examined and approved, and this receivership closed, and said receiver discharged and his bond cancelled and released, except that receiver be retained for the purpose of carrying on and terminating certain litigation now pending in court, and for the purpose of enforcing payment of stockholders' liability.

It is considered and ordered that hearing be had on said petition before this court at Wayne, Nebraska, on the 8th day of September, 1923, at 10 a. m., and that notice of the time and place of such hearing be given to all persons interested by publication of this order two weeks in the Wayne Herald, a legal weekly newspaper published at Wayne, Nebraska, and that a copy of this order be served upon said Wayne County Bank, Sholes, Nebraska, and that a copy of this order be mailed by the clerk to the Department of Trade and Commerce at Lincoln, Nebraska. ANSON A. WELCH, Judge.

Canning sweet corn by the cold pack method is becoming a real home industry in and around Winside. Going down the street every lady met was asked how many pints of corn she had canned the past two weeks. Eighteen ladies were asked this question. Three out of the eighteen had never canned corn. The other seventeen had canned a total of seven hundred and fifty-two pints. Corn is mostly canned in fruit jars. The commercial value is about twenty cents a pint. These fifteen, who are only a small per cent of the Wayne county ladies who are making good use of the steam cookers for cold packing vegetables, represent quite an item in home industry.

Service Station

BENIGN thicker, the famous Good-year All-Weather tread carries you farther than other treads. And it carries you in greater safety, too. The big tough sharp-edged blocks cut deep and grip tight on any surface. They are the best tire insurance against skidding you can buy.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers on all roads and highways with the Good Year Cord and the bonded All-Weather tread. Ask them up with standard Goodyear.

W. M. N. Avermann is Fritz Avermann's mother.
Mr. and Mrs. Ray Robinson and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Doring drove to Oakland Sunday.
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hermann were called to the home of the latter's uncle, Mr. Lundahl, Monday. Mr. Lundahl died Sunday in an Omaha hospital—and the body was brought to Wakefield Monday.

Notice to Creditors.
The State of Nebraska, Wayne county, ss.
In the county court,
In the matter of the estate of Henry Rickhoff, deceased.
To the creditors of said estate:
You are hereby notified, that I will sit at the county court room in Wayne, in said county, on the 21st day of September, and on the 21st day of December, 1923, at 10 o'clock a. m. each day to receive and examine all claims against said estate, with a view to their adjustment, and allowance. The time limited for the presentation of claims against said estate is three months from the 21st day of September, A. D. 1923, and the time limited for payment of debts is one year from said 21st day of September, 1923.

It is therefore ordered that all persons interested in said estate appear before me at Chambers, in my office, in the Court House in Wayne, Wayne County, Nebraska, on the 29th day of September, 1923, at the hour of 3 o'clock p. m. to show cause if any they be why a license should not be granted to said L. W. Roe, administrator to sell the above described real estate, or so much thereof, as may be necessary, to pay said debts and expenses.

It is further ordered that a copy of this order be served upon all persons interested in said estate by causing the same to be published for four successive weeks in the Wayne Herald, a newspaper, printed, published and of general circulation in said Wayne county, Nebraska.
Anson A. Welch
Judge of the District Court.
