

County Nurse Finds Many Underweight

"Do we need more food?" asks Miss Laurence Skavian, county Red Cross nurse. "Malnutrition is prevalent among our school children, because we have not the food but usually because of faulty habits. It may be faulty food habits but this is not always the case. Sufficient sleep is just as important as food and we usually find that the malnourished child is not getting the required amount of sleep."

Miss Skavian has weighed 1136 children in the schools of Wayne county and finds that thirty eight percent of them are underweight. A child is considered underweight when it is seven percent or more below the standard weight. These children come from homes where good food is plentiful but the foods that are not the habit of eating the foods that are real food-buffers. A growing child needs from 10 to 12 hours of rest in a ventilated room in order to build up a strong constitution with resistance and reserve power. The malnourished child is handicapped because he does not have the vitality that offers the best protection against diseases.

Wayne Variety Store

For a special purpose I happened to need some information from some of my former friends regarding the source of their purchases and I was very much surprised to learn that a large number of purchases are made outside of Wayne because many people think that they can save money by doing so. I cannot speak for others, though I think that a closer comparison would dispel this belief in most instances, but I know that this belief is without foundation as regards the goods sold at the Variety Store. I therefore state here with any reservation that not only can we but will meet any outside competition of any kind, provided the goods bought are not picked catalogue specials only, but include a general bill of articles and also provided that the freight is added which generally amounts to from 5 to 7 per cent on a mixed shipment from Chicago.

In order to convince myself and my customers I have asked my clerks to pick out fifteen staple articles that sell best now, to take them from different departments and mark them at the regular everyday prices (no specials). Then I borrowed a Sears & Roebuck catalogue, looked up the prices of these goods, sizes and quality as near the same as possible and here is what I found:

	Variety S. & R.	Price
Men's 8 oz. flannel gloves, six pairs.....	.....	$ 75 $ 95
Men's bandana handkerchiefs, red or blue, six for.....	.....	60 60
Children's corset waists.....	.....	35 39
Girls' wool mixed brushed gloves.....	.....	75 85
Men's Paris garters.....	.....	25 39
Ladies' fleeced cotton hose.....	.....	25 25
Swinging, large size, bracket lamp.....	.....	1.85 1.75
14 qt. galvanized pails.....	.....	38 35
Aluminum 2 qt. pitcher.....	.....	1.25 1.35
Two-quart aluminum percolator.....	.....	1.25 1.35
Double dash eggbeater.....	.....	35 35
Mahogany serving trays.....	.....	1.39 1.65
Imported English jet Decorated teapots.....	.....	1.00 .98
Grey enameled lipped saucapan.....	.....	25 40
Improved No. 2 glass chimney, six for.....	.....	1.20 1.48
		$11.87 $13.09

Five per cent added to $13.09 or 65 cents makes S. & R. bill $13.74—$1.87 or 15 per cent more than the cost of the same goods at the Variety Store.

At least we ought to carry our Christianity far enough to include charity and good nature.

The wonderful radio which can receive organized sounds through any solid substance, makes the theory of immortality more easily understood.

The one who thinks he is discriminated against, is often figuring out ways to discriminate against the other fellow.

It is now reported that Henry Ford will not accept any presidential nomination. He is quoted as saying he will stick to his business of making cars and developing industrial plants in which he believes he will do more good than by becoming chief executive of the nation. A lot of people will agree with him.

A. R. Sheldon of Lincoln, speaking at a recent banquet in Omaha, preliminary to organizing a Nebraska Authors' association, said the "original Nebraska editor had a literary mind," but that "the present-day Nebraska editor has a salesmanship mind." He thus noted a change for the worse. But the change came in answer to necessity. The first editors could suffer poor rewards because meager incomes were the rule. It was their way to be heard up. Improvements were few and inexpensive. As the demand for larger earnings grew, many promising literary careers had to be abandoned in the name of Mammon. But to keep up with the procession and gain the respect of society by due cash returns, it was the divine literary status often is choked half to death.

We have had education week, eighty week of heavy work and other desirable weeks, and now we are soon to have "backbone week." We assume that this is to be taken figuratively, and literally. Literally our backbone was once a wonder for endurance. Time was when it could be taken out into the back yard and made to serve effectively as one of the pillars in a concrete fence. But since of necessity we have been compelled to develop figurative backbone, the literal backbone has become impaired. About all it can do now is to keep things together. Figuratively, backbone is a very great essential. When any one asks you to do something you believe is wrong, you want to be able to look him squarely in the face and shout "no." When any one invites you to commit an injustice, you want to invite your backbone to the rescue. Out in California a large capital stock of backbone is the only sure safeguard against being shorn of every visible cent of possession. Everywhere backbone is necessary in strenuous storms of life and riding in family respectable triumph to the family burying ground. Let us dedicate ourselves to due observance of backbone week.

RECOLLECTION OF WINTER
According to the records of early settlers, so-called hard winters are exceptions rather than the rule, and hard winters have become less frequent as trees and buildings and fences have developed to break the wind sweep. Last winter little snow had fallen until March when the worst weather of the twelve-month period so far had begun to figure that winter had been cancelled. Then Old Boreas whipped into the arena, and had two or three months of winter.

In the earlier days, blizzards were regular visitors. They came from the northwest, and a combination of snow and wind that made travel impossible. Habitations were poorly constructed. Animals were neglected as they are today, and many losses resulted. Frequently people who venture into the churning elements perished. If a blizzard came while a college education, it lasted three days without a moment's remission of energy or power.

The toughest winter within the memory of old settlers was the one that started in October, 1880, and retreated in June, 1881. Snow that fell in October did not disappear until June. To this first white blanket many others were added, and no warm Chinooks came along to interrupt the monotony. People so yearned for a look at the plain earth that often they feasted their eyes on pictures of summer landscapes. Mountains of snow caused big and disastrous floods in June. Streams left their banks. The Missouri river was the chief performer. It spread over as much of South Dakota as the distant hills would permit. But to offset somewhat the suffering and loss, crops during the succeeding season were exceptionally bountiful.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE FARMER
Reports in regard to farming conditions are very encouraging as witnessed the following editorial which appeared in yesterday's Norfolk Daily News:
"Clearing news for the agricultural districts is contained in a survey of the farm lands market issued by the farm lands division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. The real estate men are cheeringly interested of course, in the movement of agricultural lands, but this movement is dependent almost entirely upon general farm conditions, so that good conditions make good business for the sellers of farms, while bad conditions make for a poor land market. The real estate men are interested, therefore, in the actual situation confronting the farmers of the nation.

"This section of the nation is especially favored, according to the deductions made from the survey. Farm lands seem to be moving most rapidly in the central section of the corn belt, particularly in eastern Nebraska, some parts of Iowa, eastern Kansas and some parts of Illinois, says the survey. The conditions seem to be best where the process of deflation has been completed and nearly completed. In some regions farmers are still trying to avoid the losses which all business men have suffered since the sudden drop in prices started more than two years ago. It is, of course, impossible to maintain the high prices of farm lands at the level to which they rose when the grain and livestock market were at their height, and any attempt to do so merely delays the return of normal and permanent conditions.

the low point. A comparison of farm prices paid from Sept. 1, 1922, and the same date this year shows that nearly all of the important farm crops have gone up, wheat only slightly and corn very materially.

"While so one will gudge from these figures that the farm situation today is absolutely satisfactory, he would be an uneducated pessimist who could get no encouragement from them. The tendency is in the right direction.

The farmer has been suffering from a tax burden which was too high in proportion to his income, but this also is being generally reduced. The encouraging fact is that adverse elements are being eliminated and favorable ones are becoming more favorable.

"If this tendency can be maintained for another year agriculture in the middle-west should be upon a solid and satisfactory basis."

Banker Proposes Closer Observations

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 31.—A fellowship between the banker and the farmer which shall amount to more than a perfunctory or casual relationship was the keynote of a program agreed upon yesterday by the agricultural committee of the American Bankers' association at the last of a two-day session.

Upon a statement of its belief in three fundamental agricultural policies—staid cooperation, efficient marketing, and improvement of rural efficiency on the farm—the agricultural committee built a plan for bringing the farmer and the banker into an alliance of understanding and mutual assistance in every part of the country.

The machinery of the plan includes the organization of bankers' committees of agriculture in every federal reserve district, then by states, and then by counties or groups of counties.

The commission adjourned last night to begin active work upon the new program in every part of the country within the next few weeks. President Walter F. Head of the American Bankers' association called for the program and the bankers for its executive the most hopeful in the history of the commission's activity, and with the most prospect of being worked out.

Better-Homes Urged

W. H. Brokaw, director of the Nebraska agricultural extension service, the first speaker on this morning program, declared that the success of farm-progress must be made through three aims; namely, elimination of inefficiency and waste, protection of diseases; thoughtful marketing and more comfortable farm homes and plants.

"The biggest leak on farms today is that caused by uncomfortable and unpleasant surroundings," he declared, adding that "the farmer who spends a little less on barns and a little more on his house, yard and trees will find it easier to keep the young people on the farm."

Disease Causes Heavy Loss

The state of Nebraska alone, losses from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000 yearly from livestock diseases," Dr. L. Van Es, animal pathologist of the agricultural college, declared in speaking before the bankers on "Livestock Losses."

"Over the United States as a whole, only one in every seven hogs is immunized from the cholera, although the proportion in Nebraska and Iowa is probably one in four, three or four," Dr. Van Es declared. He added that it was "of direct concern to everybody interested in doing farm losses to go after animal disease and wipe it out entirely just as we went after human diseases such as yellow fever and malaria and wiped them out."

To Feed Two Million Children in Germany

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Maj. Gen. Henry T. Allen, who commanded the American forces on the Rhine, announced today on his arrival from Washington, that plans were being made to feed 2,000,000 German children this winter through the medium of the American Society of Friends.

General Allen, who returned from a visit in Germany last year, declared that the very grave situation of one with which Germany itself is not able to cope, "exists in the former enemy country. He accepted the challenge of the American committee in charge, which he said had been endorsed by Secretary Hoover.

States' Prices for Food

Lincoln Journal: The Nebraska board of control bought many beans, bacon, mottled ham and butter in September for state institutions cheaper than the boards of Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota and South Dakota bought the same commodities for. Two of the five other states bought flour for less than the price paid by the Nebraska board. The price paid per hundred by the Nebraska board for its supply of flour in September was $2.34. Iowa paid $2.26 and Kansas paid $2.22 for flour. Minnesota paid $2.10, Missouri, $2.25, and South Dakota, $2.22. Two of the six states paid less than Nebraska for bran, others made no report.

quality of any food products. Ham is called "ham" and bacon is called bacon without reference to quality. While Nebraska was paying $15.50 per hundred for "ham," Iowa paid $20.17, Kansas, $13.85, Missouri, $16.75, Missouri, $18.87, and South Dakota, $25.50.

For bacon the Nebraska board paid $15.15 per hundred while Iowa was paying $17.90, Kansas, $17.27, Minnesota and Missouri, $16.50, and South Dakota, $29.

The head of beef the Nebraska board bought No. 2 cow meat for $8.98 a hundred. The Kansas board paid $8.90 for "head," Minnesota, $8.75, Missouri, $10.13, South Dakota, $9.00. The Iowa board paid $18.40 for steers.

While the Nebraska board was paying $6.75 a hundred for navy beans, the Iowa board was paying $8.75 and the South Dakota board $8.50, Minnesota, Missouri and Kansas were paying from $7.25 to $7.75.

For granulated sugar the Nebraska board paid $8.64 a hundred, while for other states, Iowa and Minnesota were paying $7.70 and $7.90, Kansas paid $10.14 for granulated sugar, Missouri, $9.75 and South Dakota, $9.15.

Nebraska paid $2.49 for rolled oats, Iowa paid $2.46 and the other four states paid from $2.70 to $2.90.

Nebraska with a total population of 5,920 in state institutions had less per capita cost than the states of Iowa or Kansas, which have about twice as much institutional population. The per capita cost of all inmates in Nebraska for the year 1922 was $405.55. In Iowa this cost was $430.16 and in Kansas it was $439.56. In Minnesota with a population of 1,1728 in institutions—the per capita cost was $375.06. In Nebraska the board of control has only one person solely employed in the purchasing department. In Kansas there are six such institutional employees, six in Minnesota and six in Iowa three.

Way Out of Dumps

One in Lincoln Journal: Here is a way out of the dumps. Make affirmation that you are in perfect health; that you never felt better, and wouldn't know what to do with yourself if you did; that the task of the day is as easy as sitting down to breakfast; that you are not fatigued by exertion, but rested and refreshed instead. If, after all this, you fail to fetch up at the right place, the defect is in your constitution, not the system.

Suicide Attempt Fails

Ponca, Neb., Oct. 30.—Responding to a wish to the cause of an attempt outside alleged to have been made by Sol Overboe of this place. He is said to have slashed his throat but not deeply enough to cause death.

College enrollment is heavier than ever before, notwithstanding a general stiffening up of requirements. Which proves either that the boys can work when they have to but that a smarter crowd are going to school.—Portland Oregonian.

The bible study class will meet next Thursday, 7:30 p. m. We are glad to note the interest manifested by our assistance for another great work, upon which, even in offering to God our thanks for benefits already received, we have for some time been begging the aid of His Providence.

As you well know, venerable brethren, recent wars and the calamities which accompany and follow them have re-opened in the East deep furrows of tears and sorrow. Enormous destruction of property and slaughter of human beings have laid waste those regions and brought suffering upon thousands of innocent little ones. These children have lost their parents' and their homes. Hence, fall trusting in that inexhaustible flame of charity which Jesus kindles in the holy eucharist and continually feeds in His church, we once more appeal to all, pastors and people, and invite them to be generous in their offerings to us, and thus enable us to meet this new demand, great and distressful as it is, upon our charity.

Then, even nearer to us, in the very center of Europe, the coming winter threatens the people not only with the severity of the season, but also with the horrors of starvation. This condition also we want to remedy—and in a larger way than hitherto. (Continued on Page Seven.)

But while in this quarter suffering and need have diminished—and again we offer you our most hearty thanks for helping us in our work—we are facing, in another direction, new sufferings and new needs. These oblige us, in the very breath with which we thank you, to ask your assistance for another great work, upon which, even in offering to God our thanks for benefits already received, we have for some time been begging the aid of His Providence.

of gratitude which moved us deeply. This great and splendid undertaking, which the charity of our children has carried to success, must now be modified and limited—not because of the scant response which we met in certain influential centers and which led up to the distressing events we are now facing. We shall therefore confine our measures of assistance to those who suffer the most, that is, the weakly children and the sick in general. In this way, our work will take on more and more the character of Christian piety and mercy.

What the People Want. Jay E. House: "Cheaper nitrates," it seems to be the battle cry of Mr. Ford. How that will stir the feelings of the great and, in a manner of speaking, boundless west, most of whom wouldn't recognize a nitrate if they met it in the road!

As we have repeatedly suggested to Mr. Ford, what the people want is free money. Unless he can see his way clear to promise it to them, his candidacy isn't going to stir up much excitement.

Ford Proposed New Plant. Detroit, Mich., Oct. 29.—All major decisions covering the construction of the Ford Motor company's plant to be erected along the Mississippi river between Minneapolis and St. Paul have been made and details just announced here give the first information regarding the magnitude of the new Ford project.

Hydro-electric plant, steam plant and manufacturing and assembly plant constitute the three important buildings with interest centering chiefly about the hydro-electric development since it represents the company's most extensive undertaking of this kind.

The dam where the power will be developed is 574 feet long and was completed by the government in 1917. When the Ford engineers started work it was discovered that modification of the power house sub-structure built by the government was necessary in order to take advantage of improvements since made in water wheel design.

More than 6,000 cubic feet of concrete work was torn out and the changes are now nearly completed. They will permit installation of modern turbines, and besides improving flow conditions will effect the highest efficiency.

The power house will be 160 feet long by 74 feet wide and 48 feet above the foundation. Four water wheels of 4,500 horse-power will be installed, which, in conjunction with four vertical generators, will under normal conditions produce approximately 18,000 horse power.

Within a short distance of the hydro-electric plant, and on the river bank, also is planned a new steam power house to supplement the water power in case of emergency.

The immense manufacturing and assembling plant will be erected on an imposing site on the bluff 100 feet above the water level. It will front on the Mississippi River Boulevard and will be faced with stone on three sides and so designed as to present a most attractive appearance.

The building will be one-story high, 1,720 feet long and 600 feet wide and will have more than 1,000,000 square feet or 23 acres of floor space.

Railroad tracks will, of course, enter the building, but a transportation feature will be the two tunnels leading underneath the factory from a river dock to elevators which will carry freight directly into the building.

This anticipates a new era of river transportation on the Mississippi.

Special attention will be given to landscaping and general improvement of the grounds in the company's 187-acre tract so that all will blend harmoniously with the surrounding parkway development.

More Minute Men. Norfolk Daily News: It is a poor idea indeed that does not have an organization of some sort to push a cause. Yet even in this day of multiplicity of organizations the Minute Men of the Constitution, founded in 1902, has the other day, Charles G. Dawes, is deserving of attention.

As stated on the reverse side of the membership card, the Minute Men of the Constitution is a non-partisan association, organized to obtain delegates from Illinois to the republican and democratic state and national conventions; to give support to the inclusion of the following planks in the platform of each party:

1. "Advocating the renewal and building up of respect for law and the Constitution of the United States.

2. "Condemning all influences and agencies which breed class or religious discriminations.

3. "Recognizing the right of the individual to associate with others or defect within the law his rights and advance his economic, social and political interests.

4. "Enforcing the announced mission of the government of the United States, maintaining that the right of a citizen to work without unlawful interference is as sacred as the right of a citizen to cease work, in-respective of whether he is or is not a member of a labor or other organization."

5. "Declaring that loyalty to the government of the United States must be above and beyond that to any civil or industrial organization working for the interest of special groups or classes."

It is really not a bad program, and the name Minute Men of the Constitution is picturesquely suggestive of steadfast loyalty and patriotism. Yet one cannot help wondering whether it is really necessary to incorporate these fundamental American faiths in political party platforms.

In order to teach people to be well, get well and stay well, great strides among the lines of public health nursing have been made by the 833 chapters in Montana, Wyoming, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan. The ten states comprising the central division of the American Red Cross. During last year more than 200,000 these managers of death were going their rounds constantly in cities, towns, villages, scattered rural communities, in mountains, in mining and lumber camps. Sometimes on foot, at times on horseback or on snowshoes but oftener in the old "hivers," they made 120,000 visits for instruction, investigation and bedside care.

No community is too isolated for the Red Cross nurse to reach if she knows that she is needed. That the people appreciate this unselfish service is shown at the time of the annual roll call to which they respond in the heartiest kind of manner. It is such support that is making possible the growth of public health nursing in the central division.

There is no measuring rod which can be applied to the accomplishments of the Red Cross public health nursing service. There are figures to be sure, to show the number of schools and homes that have been reached, the number of sick people who have received skilled care, the number of children who have been set at the path to health. But far beyond any method of calculation is the influence the Red Cross nurses have had in changing the manner of living of countless households through bringing the knowledge of health practices out of a realm of abstract science into terms of everyday life.

Laws to Stop Spread of Stock Diseases

At the recent world's dairy congress held at Washington, D. C., Dr. John E. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture, suggested to the delegates that efforts should be made to obtain some uniformity in the laws of the various countries, regulating international trade in livestock. Some move of this sort is needed now, said Doctor Mohler, because of the great extent of international trade in livestock, and because of the prevalence of destructive animal diseases in many parts of the world. Certain fundamental features which probably would be desirable for all countries were brought out in the statement made to the delegates. It was suggested that each country engaged in domestic and foreign commerce in livestock and its products should establish a competent veterinary service, and the introduction of infection from abroad, or the transmission of diseases to other countries; and there should be an international cooperative system of exchange of information in regard to animal health in the various countries.

Wayne Asked to Help Northwestern Drive

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Leon F. Beery, of the State Teachers college, Wayne, has been appointed chairman of the Wayne-Allen committee which will assist Northwestern University in its drive for building and endowment campaign. It was announced by Robert W. Campbell, chairman of the national campaign committee. Wayne is being asked to raise $1,000 in the nation-wide campaign which is now under way.

What Pic Club Did for Boy. About eight years ago a farm boy in a remote section of Rowan county, N. C., joined a pig club which the county agricultural extension agent was organizing, and was pig-club members do, under the guidance of the county agent, he fed and cared for a pig in this case a Poland China gilt. During the next year the county lost its extension agent. Recently when a new agent came to the county and visited this section he found, according to reports to the United States department of agriculture, that the club member, J. E. Morgan, now grown and on his own farm, has kept up his club practices, has developed a herd of Poland China hogs of excellent type, and is regarded as the best grower in his community.

From Other Editors

Harrington Herald: Any editor may palm off canned articles on his readers as his own, and they perhaps never know the difference, but this is assuming that the editor has no honesty or self respect. Among thinking people there is no offense greater than plagiarism—stealing another's ideas—and, while the plagiarist may fool others for a time, he cannot fool himself.

York Republican: One Nebraskan finds that women live longer than men and deduces that it is because women never retire from active work. We think the most unhappy person is the one who comes to the pleasure in life where he feels that he has earned retirement. He sits down to spend the afternoon days in content only to find that content is not what was his. His interest, his energy and finally his mental and spiritual powers begin to wane. Men and women ought to keep busy at useful work. Age should not affect their usefulness even if it does dim their ambitions. The secret of happy old age is not in means but a recognition that there always a day to be done and something yet to be added to the store of the common good.

Fairbury Journal: We are impressed as the years roll by and become mummy, with the destruction of our idols and ideals. Men in whom we had the utmost confidence fail us and the principles which we held dear and fought for are wrecked by the gigantic changes of the period. While there is a loss of idols and sadness because men fail, there is also a larger sympathy for everyone, even for those upon whom we relied and who miserably failed. This largeness of sympathy is stronger, because we learn that men beat themselves against obstacles which will not yield. A mother steals and we are shocked, but lack of it was love of her child. A father falters and fails but no one but he knows the unspoken grief which tore him down, hidden in his family circle. Thwarted in his ambition, the young do desperate and foolish acts which ruin their character and wreck the respect of their friends, but behind it all may have been a reason for which they were not responsible, a desperate prodding cause which could only be overcome by his or her death to be expected in the young. So, as the years pass on and the dreams fade and the idols tumble down and men fail, the young cry out because it all for we know not the cause behind it all. The one who failed may have been a hero after all, the successful one trampling out the ambitions over the slashed bodies of those unsees.

Hamilton County Register: Public sentiment has been acting so strongly in favor of the 11-10-10 W. W. that the agricultural workers branch at their last national convention adopted a resolution requesting every, and every, to make a pledge against violence and the destruction of property. This resolution will be passed for adoption by the whole body and the members will quit their meanness there will be a great change for the better.

Union News: The greater portion of the ill-will in the world today is the result of misunderstandings. Life long friendships are broken, organizations disrupted and men and women divided through the failure of one man to know and understand each other better. Men who have stood high in their home communities have found themselves out of the arms of friends all because some word, some action of theirs has been misinterpreted. Because these things are true because human friendship means so much, we plead for more toleration. We do not believe that a man should be sent to the electric chair on circumstantial evidence. If, together do we believe that the ties of friendship should be severed on proof that is based merely upon hearsay. The best rule that we know of is never to go back on a friend until we know his side of the story.

Fairbury News: The other day we heard a fellow say he wished it could freeze up because the cold weather is healthier. We wondered how he got the information. Ever since we were on this mundane sphere, long enough to sit up and take notice of things it has been the unflinching rule that the doctors were the busiest in cold weather. Diseases of all kinds are more prevalent in winter than in summer, and the winter freezeup seems to bode good to no one, except, possibly, the coal man.

Remarkable. Washington Star: The Stokes divorce case is a revelation in human nature. There is violence no limit to the amount of scandalous publicity a man may learn to endure without embarrassment.

Legal Notice

To John W. Jones, Sadie Rector, D. Davis and Evan Evans, non-resident defendants.

You and each of you are hereby notified that on the 27th day of September, 1923, I, J. M. Cheery, as plaintiff, filed my petition and commenced an action in the District Court of Wayne County, Nebraska, against you, John W. Jones, Sadie Rector, D. D. Davis and Evan Evans, impleaded with other defendants in the above action, the object and prayer of which was to foreclose certain mortgages executed on the first day of March, 1920, by Joseph A. Jones, Ann Jones, Daniel Davis, and Hattie E. Davis, upon the property described as follows situated in the county of Wayne and State of Nebraska, to-wit:

A part of the South Half of the Southeast Quarter of Section thirteen (13), township twenty-seven (27), Range one (1), East of the Sixth Principal Meridian, containing as follows: starting at the southeast corner of said section thirteen (13), thence due west one hundred four and one-half (104 1/2) feet, thence northwesterly along the right of way of the C. St. M. & O. Railway Company, thirty-three hundred and seventeen (3317) feet, thence due east fifteen hundred twenty five and one-half (1525 1/2) feet, thence due south thirteen hundred twenty-six (1326) feet to place of beginning and containing in all twenty-three and twenty-one hundredths (23 21/100) acres according to the Government Survey thereof.

Given to secure the payment of a certain promissory note for the sum of $3,000.00 due and payable March 1st, 1923, that there is due and payable on said note the sum of $3,285.00 with interest thereon at 10 per cent per annum from the 27th day of September, 1923, for which sum with interest and costs plaintiff prays for a decree that the defendants be required to pay the same and that in default of such payment said promissory note be satisfied the amount found due, and plaintiff further prays that it be adjudged and decreed that said mortgage a valid first lien upon said real estate and superior to the claims, right, title, liens and interest therein of each and all the defendants in said cause and plaintiff further prays for general equitable relief.

You are required to answer said petition on or before the 26th day of November, 1923.

Dated October 16th, 1923.

The Index to Your Standards of Living

There is one room in every home which is the key to the real standards of living of that household: the bathroom.

Whether this one room in question reflects your sense of refinement, your ideals of hygiene and sanitation, is a matter, not of money, but of pride.

Most people have a mistaken idea of what a fine bathroom costs. An attractive bathroom fitted with famous Kohler Enameled Plumbing Ware costs a surprisingly low sum.

The beautiful, snowy whiteness of the durable Kohler enamel is uniform in every fixture. And every piece of Kohler Ware bears the name "Kohler" in dainty blue letters inconspicuously but permanently fused into the enamel, for your protection.

We will be glad to show you how, for very little money, you can remodel your old bathroom or add an extra bathroom to your home. Call or phone today.
