Senator Hiram Johnson is getting ready to open his presidential circus with headquarters in Chicago. He promises to make a lot of noise and keep the heavens aflame with oratorical fireworks from how until the convention announces the result.

Already the Christmas spirit is in the air. Already merchants are putting up holiday decorations and assemblage new Christmas stock. Christmas buying promises to be active during the few weeks remaining before the great holiday, and live dealers will be on the alert to serve and satisfy.

Albert Watkins, the Nebraska pioneer died at his home in Lincoln last week had the honor of naming Wayne. He happened to be here when the town started, and while the problem of selecting a name was being discussed, he suggested the propriety of naming the town after the county, and so it was done.

Mayor Short of Sioux City is a candidate for congress, and a recent editorial in the Journal of that place leads to the suspicion that the paper is unfriendly to his aspirations. The Journal conveys the impression that Short is meritorious, but short on merit, and that his only excuse for running is to satisfy the yearnings of personal ambition.

A French woman said she divorced her millionaire American husband because she simply could not bear America. We would say her husband was lucky in being divorced. Further we would say America has lost nothing in her refusal to come here to live. We imagine if she returned all she would get harvested from her rich husband's soil would feel less stroblish and less secure.

Arthur Brisbane, the high-salaried editor whose fame is associated with the Hearst publications, takes an denouncing one-sided view in denouncing college training. His sweeping charge that colleges train more than make young men and women is not the rule, we are sure. Granting this, the only way to get the best out of college training is to get the best out of it. Granting this, the only way to get the best out of it is to get the best out of it. Granting this, the only way to get the best out of it is to get the best out of it.

tion to work and learn, uninfluenced by frivolity or social instinct, is wonderfully benefited. It is doubtless true that one may become just as highly educated just as useful to society without college training, but if he does he has a long, hard, and realizes on his effort when life is too far spent to accomplish much. The college, properly used, is a short cut to concrete results.

Congress will be in session next week. It is said the president's message will be short and to the point. The president is of the caliber to talk little and say much, and directly to the soul of a proposition without camouflage or political sophistries. We hope members of the two houses will not make important public business secondary to force-building for next year's political campaign.

Dr. Frederick Cook who earned a national reputation as a huge-earner several years ago when he falsely claimed to have reached the North Pole, is now going to prison for a long term for his part in promoting the sale of fraudulent oil stock in Texas. Doubtless he worked hard to be a successful counterfeiter, but would have been required to build success in an honorable and useful vocation.

THANKSGIVING.

Thanksgiving day should not be the occasion of thankfulness content. It should be the time of more feasting and social gaiety. It should draw people into closer accord with the divine source, and grateful acknowledgment for material blessings should be expressed in unselfish thoughts and generous deeds. Many peoples in the world have suffered misfortune. Many are in distress. The right sort of thankfulness cannot be felt without lending aid to those less fortunate.

The modern civilization of America increases power to accomplish good and multiplies obligations and responsibilities. It increases our duty to lead and help and give.

Thanksgiving day is an appropriate time to think appreciatively of possessions as they may not only be used to relieve suffering, but to keep the wheels of industry revolving, thus to insure employment and stimulate arteries of trade. We have reason to be thankful for human sympathy and impulses of charity, for the organized and sound that can be depended on to maintain credit and safeguard institutions. We may well be thankful for a civilization that serves as a pillar of fire by night to other nations in their unhappily wideness.

It is not enough to rest and feast and find amusement on Thanksgiving day. It is not enough to be thankful in a full stomach and a contented mind. We must be the help of another, arouse the spirit of charity, breathe hope and courage into drooping souls and extend hands of kindness.

COOPERATION.

In this driving age in which we have become used to racing our souls with the almighty dollar, the desire for community cooperation is too often viewed from one angle and not from another. One likes to want cooperation that adopts his selfish policy unqualifiedly.

We once knew a man who kept pressing his rights to the cooperation, but he interpreted cooperation as meaning a popular movement in behalf of himself. Cooperation that treats its competitors with equal consideration or that conceded individual rights of judgment was not cooperation. He conceived cooperation as his coordinating effort in behalf of his own glory and material welfare.

Cooperation that is genuinely constructive is not a one-way street. It does not seek to aid one enterprise by hampering another, or help one group by hurting another. On the contrary, in a broad and comprehensive way, cooperation assists and flanks community undertakings. It provides favorable conditions and strength through which able individuals may travel if they wish. Individual interest depends on individual resourcefulness, initiative and energy.

That one may lie down and harvest cooperation as he would pick grapes in the vineyards of Canaan, or that one may acquiesce only in cooperation that adopts a self-seeking plan, forgetful of the general welfare, does violence to the spirit of cooperation and frustrates its intention.

Promoting a county fair, like the one now developing in Wayne county, gives opportunity for cooperation. Benefits of the fair are not direct. But it tends to knit together the town and surrounding centers. It charges the atmosphere with animating ozone and stimulates and encourages all groups. The way Wayne and the farming communities are cooperating in putting on the first fair under the new organization is proof that similar cooperation is possible in furtherance of any worthy undertaking, large or small.

Have Party Friday For Wayne Women

More than 100 women of Wayne and vicinity were guests of the officers, program and social committees of the Wayne Women's club Friday at the Community house. A program and social time were the order of the entertainment and the committee served cake and tea. The hostesses included: President, Mrs. M. C. Gammage; vice president, Mrs. F. S. Berry; secretary, Mrs. E. W. Huse; treasurer, Mrs. George Crossland; program committee, Mrs. A. A. Welch; Mrs. S. A. Lutjen and Mrs. H. B. Hahn; and social committee, Mrs. J. J. Aherm, Mrs. E. E. Lacey and Mrs. U. S. Conn.

Mrs. Cavanaugh welcomed the guests and introduced Mrs. Huse who spoke on "What the Woman's club stands for in Wayne." As stated in the constitution the object of the club is "to stimulate intellectual and moral development, to help in community projects, to promote good-fellowship among its members and to strengthen by organization their individual efforts for humanity." It was during the late war that women were brought together and worked together better than ever before. They showed they had new ideas and that they could be of help to each other. As a result, the Wayne Women's club was organized. The first step taken was the purchasing of the community house where the women could meet and do good for Wayne and vicinity. All women of the community have been invited and the club has desired that all along to this democratic organization and have a voice in the policies adopted.

Pioneers in the club have given much of their time and effort to community projects. They have "broken the ground, blazed the trail, established the home" and now are ready to devote attention to other projects.

Besides the community work the club wishes to promote good-fellowship among its members, and it is in carrying out this plan that the members wish to encourage the social side of the club work. All women enjoy and need social life. Ideas are exchanged, problems are discussed and mutual help. Women enjoy hearing others' experiences, the same as men do. Just as people like pictures and become their story of life, women enjoy the stories of life of each other and by such intercourse they become better women. A story published in the Ladies Home Journal a few years ago conveyed the idea that all people are lonese and crave association. Social intercourse furnished by a cosmopolitan organization such as the Wayne Women's club, affords opportunity for each woman to do something for others and to receive the help from the group.

Following the talk by Mrs. Huse, Mrs. Charles Chinn spoke briefly on home economics, explained the subject of the organization and its relation to social life. Miss Imogene Shick, accompanied by the piano by Mrs. Wendell Beckman, sang "Homing" and "Bobolink."

Junior high school students and the third and fourth grades of the State Normal attended by Mrs. Leon F. Berry, presented folk dances and health plays which had been prepared for education week. The junior girls gave the "wand City" and some folk dancing. The smaller children presented two little plays, "Keeping the doctor away" and "A Mother Goose health play." About thirty-eight children took part and the women spoke most highly of their work.

An straw vote was taken for president, sixty-eight voting. The result was as follows: Coolidge, 47; Ford, 7; Hoover, 1; Hughes, 4; McAdoo, 7; Pinchot, 1; and Winslow, 1.

Seventy new members were added to the Woman's club at the meeting Friday.

The afternoon closed with a social time.

Y. W. C. A. Secretaries Visit State Normal

Miss Mildred Inskip and Miss Winifred Wyzal, secretaries of the Y. W. C. A. were here Thursday, Friday and Saturday last week speaking to students and faculty women of the State Normal in regard to the work of the organization which they represent. Miss Inskip is traveling the colleges in the interest of the student friendship fund and Miss Wyzal represents the Rocky Mountain state division of the Y. W. C. A.

While here Miss Inskip and Miss Wyzal held conferences with the girls; they met with the Y. W. C. A. council Friday; spoke to the members of the faculty Friday evening and met girls again Saturday morning. They explained that the work of the Y. W. C. A. in teachers' colleges is peculiar, "in this kind of school; that is, it must serve a different purpose from the organization in other colleges. Students here, as in other teachers' colleges are the instructors of the future and the Y. W. C. A. should serve more of a religious need than in schools where the students have to deal with more practical problems of health, morals and the like. The school in Wayne provides proper physical and mental training. Girls at the state normal are in school for one or two years usually so that their needs differ from universities where students remain for four years. And social problems which confront the students in a city like Chicago are not present here.

The work of the Y. W. then in schools such as Wayne must be specially fitted to the need of answering the question of what should be the religious training teachers should carry into their class rooms. This is the chief work the organization can do in teachers' colleges and it is a great service.

Miss Inskip attended the international student friendship conference in Budapest, conducted under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A., recently and she told of the work the organization is doing for the students in various countries. In the conference all "political" questions were disregarded and all girls were friends. Nationality did not separate them into groups.

Stock Men Ask Many Questions on Feeds

The recent work of the United States Department of Agriculture and cooperating States to improve the methods of feeding livestock has stimulated interest in all parts of the country and feeding problem blanketed to many farmers have been filled out and sent in for replies. A survey made last summer showed that a large percentage of stock raisers and feeders have many puzzling problems and that most of them are searching for better and more economical rationing.

A few of the early inquiries received as a result of this new service offered to farmers show a wide range of problems from scattered states. A Maryland farmer asked for good rations for brood sows and growing pigs. Although he had been keeping hogs for eight years, his ration was practically the only feed used. The department's reply pointed out the principles of successful rationing and called attention to the need for good pastures, mineral mixtures, and a well-balanced grain ration. A Kentucky cattle feeder submitted the rations he had been using for finishing for both the spring and fall markets and received suggestions which should save him money the coming year.

Among the other problems the department has helped to solve are the making of diary rations where certain feeds commonly used are not available; the addition of more desirable crops in the farm rotation; feeding brood-pigs to be sold for

John Soules Tells Of Swimming Rapids

All of the manuscript for a story of his experiences in swimming the whirlpool rapids at Niagara Falls has now been sent to the publisher by John L. Soules and as the author is informed the book will soon be in print. It is to be dedicated to an author, philosopher and poet who is an intimate friend of Mr. Soules.

The first part of the book deals with the early history of Niagara Falls and the various attempts made by different persons who aspired to the honor of being the first to swim the rapids. The remainder of the story deals with experiences Mr. Soules had in contracting to do the unheard of feat of swimming the pool and of his adventures while in the water. Although newspapers made considerable comment about crossing the rapids at the time that Mr. Soules did this none of his own personal views regarding the experience and his feelings while he was swimming the pool have before been published.

L. G. Larson Sells Store in Randolph

L. G. Larson, father of R. L. Larson and Donald Larson of Wayne, has sold his store in Randolph to Krachtov Brothers of Onondaga. Mr. Larson has been in the dry goods business for a number of years and is well known in this part of the state. He is not undertaking to do in the future. The Krachtov Brothers also have a store in Onondaga.

"All Aboard" to be here
 On next Tuesday and Wednesday at the Community house, theatre lovers are going to have a real treat in the line of unique musical comedy. The show will be beautifully staged and contained is a certainty, for it is a well known fact the John B. Rogers Producing Co., spares no expense when it comes to scenery, costumes, and clever manuscripts. The action of "All Aboard" takes place on board the S. S. Florida, and the cleverly written libretto has to do with two young college boys who are both in love with the same girl. One of them has the misfortune of losing four of his teeth in a football game, and the lost teeth have a great deal to do with the play, and comedy situations of which there are a plenty. n28t1

CURTIS WOODWORK

The Cozy Interior
 Chances are you are thinking of his ruddy fireplace when you say "isn't Bill Smith's place great?"
 You can have one, too, at no great cost—along with bookcases, breakfast nooks, ironing boards and other pieces. Through quantity-production Curtis Woodwork—used the country over since 1866—can be had at very reasonable prices.

The designs—let us show them to you—are of the work of famous New York architects. If Curtis Woodwork were produced in single pieces, only the most expensive homes in this city could afford it. But quantity production brings it within reach of all.

Come in and go through our catalog. If you are intending to build, maybe you will be interested in one of the Curtis plan books. We can get out for you free.
